Although we in McLean have heard national news reports about the eruption of Mount St. Helens, I'm sure we can't appreciate what has happened there like some residents of Washington. Two McLean residents, Jerry Corbin and Jess Roberts, have relatives living near the mountain, and the McLean people brought us copies of newspapers featuring pictures and stories about the volcano.

The pictures are truly awesome, but I found a little article about the history of the mountain which fascinated me most. Here are some facts you might not know either:

The volcano probably erupted for the first time in 1500 B.C.

Another eruption of pyroclastic flow, domes and airborne pyroclastics and mud flow probably occurred about 1000 B.C.

The chronology of eruptions since that time:

400 B.C. airborn pyroclastic eruptions, mud flows, lava flows

300 B.C. pyroclastic flows, airborn pyroclastic eruptions, mud flows

100 B.C. pyroclastic flows 100 A.D. lava flows

200 A.D. airborn pyroclastic eruptions

400 airborne pyroclastic eruptions, mud flows

600 apparent dormant interval of 400 to 500 years

900 apparent pyroclastic eruption

100 apparent dormant interval of 400 to 500 years

1300 dome eruptions

1400 lava flows, pyroclastic flow

1500 airborne pyroclastic eruptions, pyroclastic flows

1700 pyroclastic flows, avalanches, dome eruption, mud flow

1800 pyroclastic eruptions, mud flows, apparent dormant interval of 150 years

1857 last recorded pyroclastic eruption, dome eruption, lava flows

1980. After a week of seismic activity around the mountain, an eruption of ash and steam was reported March 27, with continuing venting and earthquakes widening a crater on the summit to 2,000 feet across.

A special happy birthday greeting to Charlie Webb who was 77 June 16. Charlie was born on the Webb Ranch, north of McLean in 1903. He still lives on the ranch.

The high cost of energy this summer may cause many of us to rediscover the way our parents lived to keep cool in the summertime.

REMEMBER WHEN:
everybody sat out on the porch after supper because it was too hot in the house?
many people slept on screened-in porches?
most people ate cold meals to keep from heating up the house with a cook stove?
every store had ceiling fans for "air-conditioning"?
the paper fans, courtesy of the local funeral home, that were found in every church?
home-made ice cream was

Annual 66 Roundup Rodeo Begins Friday In McLean

McLean merchants are urged to hang their rodeo bunting and decorate their stores for the McLean 66 Roundup Rodeo and Parade scheduled for June 20 and 21, according to roping club president Jake Hess II. "Several merchants bought new bunting last year when we were preparing for the homecoming and rodeo, and we want everyone to get it out and decorate the town."

Hess said that the rodeo will have two performances, both at 7:30 p.m. with one June 20 and the final performance June 21 at the Felton Webb All-Steel Arena north of McLean.

Freddy Cordell will be the stock contractor, Hess said.

The annual parade, with George Terry in charge, will be Saturday afternoon at 2 p.m. in downtown McLean.

A special event will be a ranch horse cutting contest Friday afternoon at 1 p.m. in the arena. Johnny Rex McClellan is in charge of that event.

Also planned is a ranch horse race, scheduled for Saturday afternoon at 4 p.m. across the highway from the rodeo grounds. "The ranch horse race was such a success last year, that we decided to try it again," Hess said.

Events planned for the two go-around jackpot rodeo are bareback riding, saddle bronc riding, bull riding, calf roping, team roping, and barrel racing. Hess said that buckles will be given for first place in each event.

A special feature of the Friday night performance of the rodeo will be the kids stick horse race, and Saturday night, a kids steer riding event will be featured.

Rodeo books will open for contestants June 16 and close June 18. Contestants may call rodeo secretary Gwen Henley at 779-2679 on those dates to enter the rodeo.

Parking spaces around the arena may be purchased at the gate, according to secretary Gwen Henley. The parking spaces will sell for $2.50 per night. A guard will be on duty to see that only ticket holders park in the paid spaces, Mrs. Henley said.

Youngsters Compete In 4-H Horse Show In McLean

Youngsters from six counties participated in the 4-H Pride of the Panhandle Horse Show in McLean Saturday at the Felton Webb arena. Over 500 entries were tallied in the show which lasted all day. Judge for the events was Bob Middleton, with Layton Barton as ring steward.

McLean youngsters who placed in the show were:

Bill Billingsley: 1st in poles, 3rd in barrels, 11th in trail.

Lee Ann Smith: 10th in showmanship, 4th in grade mares, 4th in registered geldings under 5, 2nd in barrels, 2nd in poles, 9th in reining.

Clinton Smith: 4th in poles, 6th in barrels.

Sally Worsham: 6th in trail, 8th in poles.

Susan Worsham: 7th in poles, 8th in barrels.

Scott Sieler: 7th in registered mares over 5; 10th in barrels, 6th in poles.

Blake Sieler: 5th in barrels, 10th in poles.

Teresa Woods: 8th in grade geldings, 4th in reining, 8th in poles, 8th in barrels.

Donald Harris: 1st in barrels, Daniel Harris: 3rd in barrels.

The show was sponsored by the Pride of the Panhandle, a group related to the 4-H. The group encompasses six counties: Wheeler, Gray, Ochiltree, Hansford, Hemphill, and Hutchinson.

Bookkeepers for the show were Jan Moore, Judy Parker, Louise Smith, Jerri Billingsley, and Lawana Gibson.

Mrs. Billingsley, spokesman for the group, said "We want to thank all the parents from McLean and Pampa area who helped in the show and a special thank you to the McLean Roping Club for letting us use the arena, and to Bill and Jan Moore, Carl and Lawana Gibson, Joe Van Zandt, Layton Barton, Bob Middleton, and Louise Smith."

Council Approves Paving Bid

The McLean City Council June 10 approved a bid from a Hereford company for paving the streets around the nursing home and the new Federal Housing Authority apartments.

The Jake Diel Company of Hereford submitted the low bid of $46,221 for the paving project involving six blocks. The only other bid was submitted by the E.D. Baker Company of Borger for $70,529.

Paving will take place sometime this summer, Mayor Sam Haynes said.

The council members also discussed the location of the utilities on the south side of town following the construction of Interstate 40 bypassing McLean. Members decided to replace utilities using the same size lines because of the expense involved in moving to larger lines.

Attending the session were councilmen Dale Glass, Ruth Magee, Miro Pakan, George Terry, and Boyd Meador; Mayor Haynes; city superintendent Bob Glenn; city secretary Stella Lee; Bill Thomas; and Dr. Harold Fabian.

Residents May Apply For Summer Water Rate

McLean residents need to remember to sign up for summer water rates at the City Hall, City secretary Stella Lee said this week. The rates which are for a minimum of three months may stay in effect through September.

The customer agrees to pay a minimum of $7.50 per month for 20,000 gallons of water and 35 cents per 1,000 gallons in excess of the 20,000 gallons, Mrs. Lee said. The normal rate is $12.50 per 20,000 gallons with 50 cents per 1,000 gallons over 20,000.

"It is a savings for people who plan to use a lot of water during the summer time for their lawns and gardens, but we can't give the rate unless people sign up," she said.

Customers can sign up anytime, but to get the rate for the next month, they must sign up before the meters are read, she emphasized.

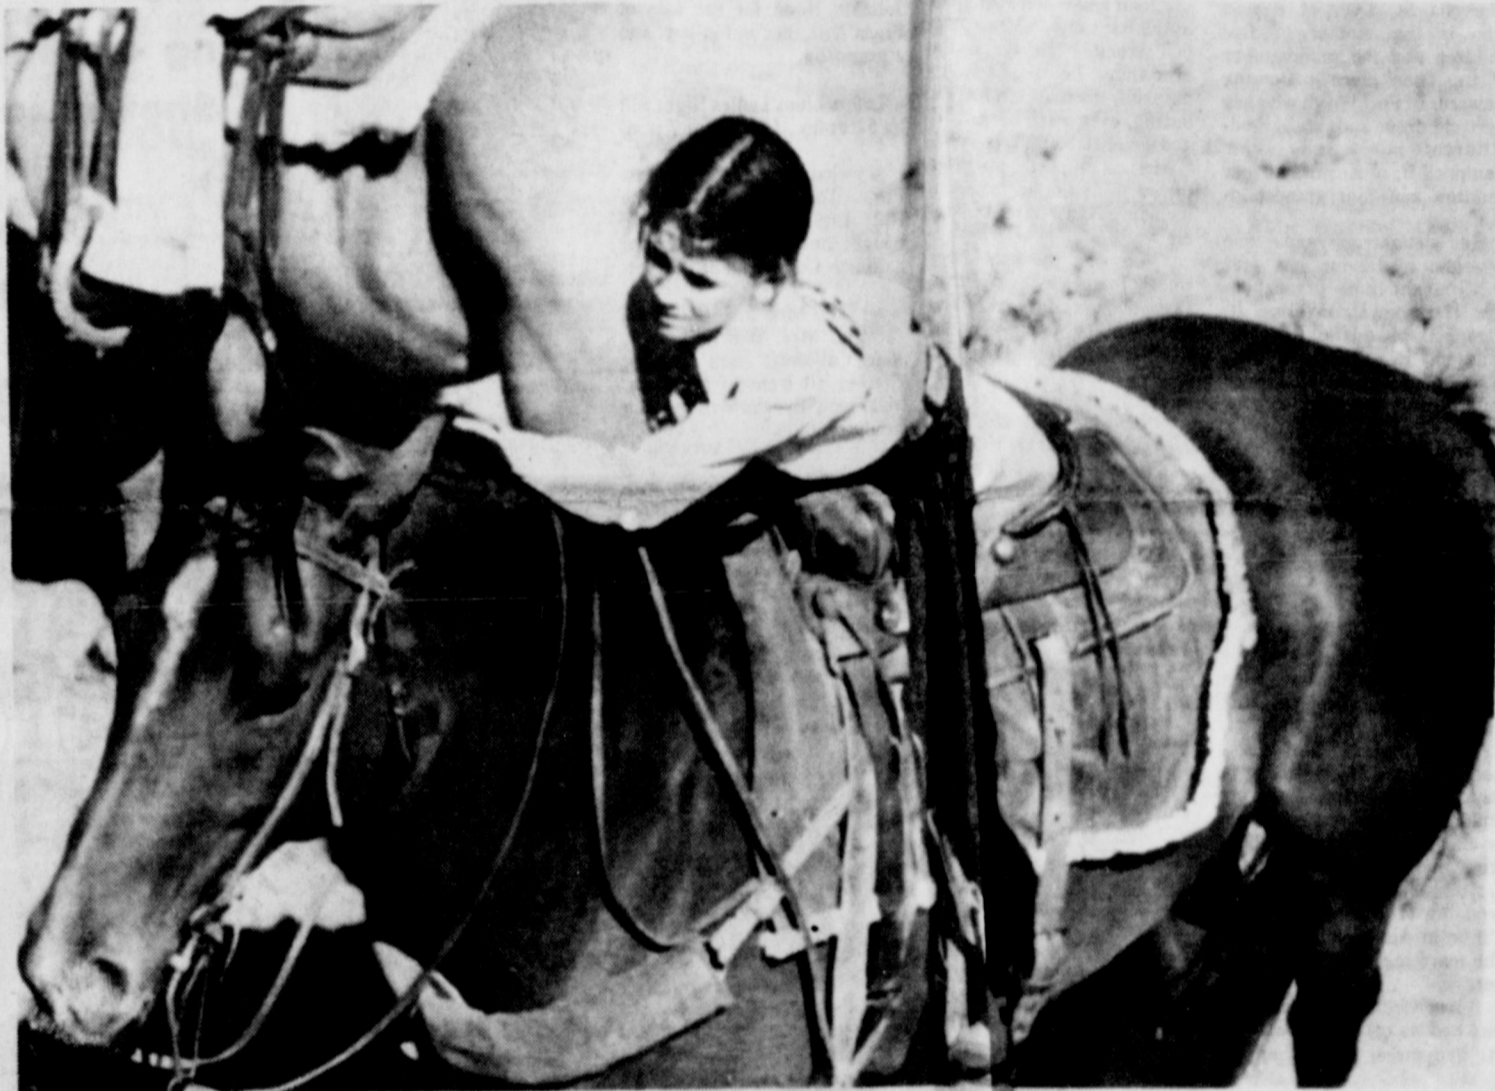

Lions Officers Installed Monday

The McLean Lions met Monday night for a Ladies Night and installation of officers. District Governor-elect Lynn Cherry installed the new officers for the club. President is David Haynes; first vice-president-Dorman Thomas; second vice-president - Ted Simmons; third vice-president, Ron Cummings; secretary - Casper Smith; Tail Twister - Sam Haynes; Lion Tamer - Jim Hathaway; and directors, Britt Hathaway, John M. Haynes, Aubrey Barton, and Carl Dwyer.

Lion Jim Allison presented a special plaque to Lion Jim Hathaway for Hathaway's leadership in remodeling the Lions' building. Lions of the Year award and a special service plaque were presented to Lion Boss Thatcher Haynes.

OPINIONS

VIEWS ARE WRITTEN BY LINDA HAYNES, UNLESS OTHERWISE NOTED - IF YOU HAVE AN OPINION ON ANY CURRENT SUBJECT WE WELCOME YOUR SIGNED LETTERS.

Where Are Your Children?

Parents, do you know where your children are...or do you care? According to reports that I hear from various churches in town, one place your children are not in is Sunday School! A few weeks ago, one of the bigger churches had a total of six youngsters in Sunday School.

From these statistics, it is obvious that McLean does not have problem youth, but problem parents, since children will not usually come to Sunday School on their own unless Mom or Dad gets up and brings them to church.

Does it make any difference that McLean youngsters are not in church in the numbers they should be?

In my opinion, it makes a great deal of difference. Just listen to any group of teenagers talking (if they trust you enough to share their secrets). More and more teenagers (who are younger and younger) are turning to alcohol as a means of "having fun" on weekends in McLean. These youngsters are not older boys only, but junior high girls and boys who are experimenting with the most used drug, alcohol.

I can just hear some of you saying, "Well, at least it's not drugs!" I suggest you get some drug education material and find out about the effects of marijuana and alcohol on the body and you might get a little more concerned.

We cannot condemn our youngsters for immoral, immature behavior when their parents are setting the example. Talk to your teenager. Open your eyes to problems with alcohol. And get up next Sunday morning, and bring your youngsters to church. It might be the most important thing you ever did for your child.

POPULATION 1183 (1970 census)

Former Resident Enjoys Being A Mother

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The following article was published in the Borger News Herald on Mother's Day. The subject of the profile is Isla Campbell, wife of Dr. W.L. Campbell. The couple made their home in McLean for several years. We thought our readers might enjoy reading about Mrs. Campbell.)
By Ad Mihm Women's editor

"Once a mother, always a mother."

But when the mother has six children, 26 grandchildren, and 27 great-grandchildren, her motherhood is intensified.

That is the case with Isla Campbell. Borger, who is capturing history for her children, their children, and their children's children.

Isla Campbell is keeper of scrapbooks and a collector of family photographs. For five decades, she has saved photographs, clippings and souvenirs to recall the incidents in the lives of her six active sons and daughters. Throughout more recent years, she has kept remembrances of the worthy episodes in the lives of her grandchildren. Now she is busy assembling mementoes of a fourth generation, and she has high hopes of recording some of the events in the lives of her great-great-grandchildren. Her home reflects her strong love for her family with photos new and old displayed.

"My only ambition, since I was a child," she admits, "was to have a dozen children. I remember telling that to my grandfather, who told me I'd have to marry somebody who could support that many! I am thrilled that the Lord saw fit to give me half of what I asked."

Isla Campbell's children are Marcella St. Clair of Bayton who is the mother of five children and the grandmother of six. Then there is Dorothy Edwards of Fort Worth who has five children and six grandchildren. Isla's son, John Campbell II, of Austin has four children and four grandchildren.

Her daughter Wanda Sue Fenoglio of Dayton has four children and nine grandchildren. Her son, Dr. William R. Campbell of Austin has four children. Her daughter, Nan Warren of Borger, has four children and three grandchildren.

"My children," Mrs. Campbell said, "enjoyed living in a big family and wanted large families of their own."

Isla Campbell married Dr. W.L. when she was 16.

"I didn't know anything about raising a family," she said. "I was an only child. I played it by ear. I never worried. My children have been such a blessing. They brought excitement and fun and still do."

"Mother's Day," she continued, "is one of my favorite days. I hear from all my children. The boys call regularly and the others let me hear from them often. I will go to Dayton May 17 to attend the wedding of Wanda's son, and I'll be in Austin on June 1 for the marriage of John's daughter."

Acknowledging that her life has had its reverses along with its happiness, Mrs. Campbell asserted, however, "The Lord has been merciful to us. I had one granddaughter who had polio and lost the use of her arm. But she is now married and the mother of two children. We have been fortunate to keep in good health."

Isla Campbell came to Borger to live in 1969, to make a home for her father who had broken his hip.

"At 51," she said, "I trained as a nurse at Houston Medical Center, and then did private duty in Lubbock. I sold my home in Lubbock and came to Borger, where I took care of my father until his death."

Mrs. Campbell, who had moved around as a youngster, reared her children in McLean, where the family lived for 12 years, and then in Pampa.

"It was fun," she said, "and it's fun to look back. The Lord has been so wonderful. I enjoy reviving memories by looking at the scrapbooks, remembering how my son John made our lives so exciting in his youth."

Mrs. Campbell has already given John three scrapbooks of clippings and mementoes, and has more to give him, for he had national publicity at the age of 12.

Mrs. Campbell explained that John wrote a theme about Congressman Eugene Worle of Shamrock and the organization of "Mr. Worley Goes To Washington Club". The theme was reprinted in Life magazine. John received national acclaim from Gene Autrey and An Sheridan, and had other interesting experiences. After training as a chemical engineer, he ran for office, to be defeated and to decide to become an attorney when he was a married man with four children.

"John had the highest grade in the bar exam," Mrs. Campbell recalled. "He was good at everything he did, including baseball, football, tennis and boxing, even when he was 5'6" and weighed only 130 pounds."

Mrs. Campbell has high praise for all her children, including Nan Warren of Borger.

"Nan was the only officer from Texas in the Future Homemakers of America when she was in high school in Pampa," she remembered, and she has always lived an exemplary Christian life.

"I have been blessed, too," she said, "with in-laws. My daughters and sons have married wonderful persons. They have a sincere love of the Lord."

Going back into the past through scrapbooks is not a journey for Isla Campbell. It is one of gratitude and appreciation for the good things of life.

One of the persons she remembers most fondly is her first teacher, Marie O'Dowd of Cleburne, who was a teacher who boarded with Isla's parents.

"Miss O'Dowd asked my mother if I could come to school with her when I was just four years old. My mother agreed, thinking it was a temporary thing. But I soon learned to read and write, so that when I was five, I completed the second and third grades, and entered fourth grade when I was six. Miss O'Dowd was a great influence in my life. She gave me my first book."

Today Isla Campbell finds joy in the world of books. "I'm an omnivorous reader," she said. "I go to the library often, and I belong to several book clubs."

She also plays bridge twice a week at Opportunities Center, is a rock and artifact collector, and collects representations of windmills and camels. Among her treasures are vials of sand from the Holy Land and other far away places.

She has little desire to travel, preferring to hear others tell of their adventures while she relaxes in comfort.

But one of the joys of her life is having young people about her. Her grandchildren here visit her often, and she now has a housemate-her granddaughter Carol St. Clair of Baytown who is teaching at Crockett School and making her home with Mrs. Campbell.

Letters To The Editor

Dear Linda,
I was so impressed by your McLean News of June 5th, that I wanted to tell you how much we enjoyed it.

You seem to have big news and little news, all in good order. It was a wonderful edition.

For many years, my father, John H. Cullom, was the Editor and "Prop" of a small town newspaper "The Garland News." So I learned to appreciate the work that goes into one edition. I learned to set type by hand. Naturally, that was more than 50 years ago. I thank you again for the big news and little news.

Cordially yours
Lucile Z. Jones
(Mrs. George H. Jones)

a very well researched and excellently written record of the many outside forces which played important parts in the development of the cattle business in Texas and its impact on the rest of the U.S. as well as the state of Texas.

Some space is given to the development of cattle markets and the famous drive areas where the animals could be sold. The effect of occurrences such as the Civil War, the "Fence Cutting Wars," the war for Texas independence, and the unrest on the Texas-Mexico border (which brought into prominence the Texas Rangers) all were contributing factors thoroughly covered by Wilhelm in this volume.

Contrast is shown in the book between the old-time cattle spreads and modern cattle ranches, and differences in operation and marketing are competently shown in this work.

Texans, and indeed anyone interested in the development of the cattle industry, will certainly enjoy this book, and it is now available at the Lovett Memorial Library.

One of the best games of baseball played on the local grounds was the contest between McLean and Groom on Friday of last week, in which Groom defeated McLean by a score of 5 to 4. This is the first game the local team has played this season against a line-up that is rated as formidable. Ross Biggers pitched a good game, allowing only four hits. S. Bowen did some mighty good work as catcher. Rice, who succeeded in getting one hit during the recent game with Heald, went to bat in the first inning and made a home run, bringing in a score ahead of himself.

Gone Fishin'

by Jeanette Fish

The ten years between 40 and 50 are an identity crisis. You sort of think that you know who you are, but most of the time, the song is, "What's It All About Alfie?" Last Friday night, after 7 days of 12 hour shifts, I went home, looked around, noted "Another World" air about the place and said, "Who am I?"

I was tired. My family had spent most of the week at a singing school. Friday was the last session. There is something about Friday night which makes you feel like you should be someplace else, doing something exciting.

I thought about getting dressed, going to the singing and the party to follow. My body said, "You are crazy. Five thirty A.M. rolls around fast. You have got to wash your hair." I turned on a TV movie. I like the strange ones, where chemicals cause bugs to grow 100 times in size, and eat up northern New Hampshire.

This one was different. Millions of ants had been soaking up toxic wastes. They didn't grow, instead were buried ten feet deep, stoned out of their gourds and pretty mad about it all. This guy named Mike got them all stirred up with a bulldozer at which time they surfaced and headed for a hotel.

Suzanne Sommers (sweet little Crissy of Three's Company) was in one of the hotel rooms with what you knew right away was a male chauvinist pig. He left to talk to somebody's mother about buying the hotel or something. Suzanne went to sleep. The ants showed up and stung her to death. Ten minutes into the movie and they bump off Suzanne Sommers.

A crowd gathered to dig a trench around the hotel so they could set fire to it and ward off the slower ants who hadn't got there yet. Myrna Loy was in the hotel in a wheel chair. Half of the movie was spent wheeling her to safety. Her daughter, Valerie stood around in the lobby and worried—"No you all go. I am staying with mother." Four million ants coming on. Joan of Arc would have caught a plane for Omaha. Not Valerie.

In the commotion, a man entered and asked for bug spray. He was not well received. The ants had become immune to bug spray according to an insect expert who happened to be in the area. He cheered us all with "Ants don't sting. They bite and have suction cups on their feet. You cannot brush them off."

The sound effects man for this movie had a cinchy job consisting of bulldozer noise, ant buzzing and one large cheer from the crowd when a boy was rescued from the roof. The lady in the wheel chair was saved by a helicopter. We were sick to death of her by then but they killed Suzanne, and saved her anyway.

Along about here I got mixed up when someone said "LINDA, LINDA!" to a girl who I would have sworn, was Valerie. TV actors are clones and anyone the only people I ever recognized on sight were Eleanor Roosevelt and Burt Reynolds. Not only was I wondering who I was, I didn't know who anybody else was either. Depressing!

I left for awhile to shampoo my hair. When I returned everybody was waiting for the coast guard to bring some asbestos suits to get these people across the burning ditch which made it hard because if I didn't know them in street clothes, I didn't stand a chance with them all wrapped in asbestos. This is called plot thickening.

Everybody escaped except three people sitting back to back in a hotel room, with me and this crowd waiting outside the trench for them to be rescued. The dialogue varied dramatic as they sat very still with ants crawling on them saying things like "Hold on Valerie! Linda! Do it for me."

One of them, the token coward, freaked out and jumped a few stories. Then there were two—Mike the bulldozer operator and Linda/Valerie. I don't know how he got from the bulldozer into the hotel. Must have been while I was taking a bath. After that I was taking a bath. Valerie's first words were "Can anybody tell me where my mother is?"

It ended with Mike and Linda/Valerie saying "Do you realize this morning we hadn't met?" They kissed. The old in the wheelchair was going to move to Florida with her sister and "Don't worry about me."

This is a good movie to watch if you have worked 84 hours in 7 days and are too tired to turn your eyes the other way. I still don't know who I am.

In The Kitchen

by Linda Haynes

If you are on a perennial diet, like I am, you are probably sick and tired of all the usual low-calorie fare. Every once in a while, you need to splurge on something sweet. I guess the smart thing to do is to eat something that is sweet and satisfying, but still low in calories. Try these three low-cal dishes for something different to pick up your diet.

LOW CALORIE SPONGE CAKE (90 calories per serving)
1/2 c. reconstituted, nonfat dry milk
1 cup sifted flour
1 1/2 tps. baking powder
dash salt
3 eggs
1/4 C. sugar
2 tsp. grated lemon peel

In small saucepan, heat milk until bubbles form around edge of pan. Remove from heat; set aside.
Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Sift flour with baking powder and salt, in small bowl of electric mixer, at high speed, beat eggs until thick and lemon colored. Gradually add sugar, beating until mixture is smooth and well blended about 5 minutes.

At low speed, blend in flour mixture just until smooth. Add warm milk and peel, beating just until combined.
Immediately pour batter into ungreased, 9-inch angel food pan. Bake 30 minutes. Invert pan over neck of bottle; let cool completely. Serve plain.

APRICOT-PINEAPPLE FRAPPE (74 calories per serving)

1 envelope unflavored gelatin
2 cans (12 oz. size) low-calorie apricot nectar
2 cans (8 oz. size) low-calorie pineapple tidbits
3 egg whites
In medium saucepan, soften gelatin in 1 can apricot nectar for five minutes. Heat mixture over low heat, stirring constantly, until gelatin is dissolved. Stir in rest of nectar and pineapple tidbits and juice. Pour into ice-cube tray. Freeze 45 minutes of until about half frozen.

With electric mixer or rotary beater, beat egg whites until stiff peaks form. Turn frozen mixture into another bowl. With same beater, beat until mixture is fluffy. Fold in beaten egg whites. Return to ice-cube tray. Freeze several hours, or until firm.

Loose Marbles

by Lisa Patman

It's time for the Boss and I to put on our real newspaper people disguises and fly down to the annual Texas Press convention in Houston.

I don't know how the rest of you are, but for me, getting ready for a trip takes on the proportions of Queen Elizabeth readying herself for a month in the colonies.

No matter that I will see people whom I will not only have never seen before, but will never see again. No matter that they will not only forget immediately who I am, but will never give me even a second glance to see what I am wearing. No matter that I could wear my birthday suit and have only a few very observant people notice and become violently ill. None of this matters in the slightest to me. I still must have a wardrobe that would rival anyone named to the best dressed list.

No matter that I go around home, and hometown, dressed as if the depression had already hit and I was its primary target. No matter that my sons think of me as twin sister to the rag woman, I still must impress that lady I'll never forget, Old What's Her Name.

Forget the fact that I haven't had a waist since Caligula's time. Don't even think that the best parts of me would be rejected at the local packing plant. Ignore the fact that on the back of my right leg is a spot that has been evading the razor for over seven years. Forget the normal rash of split ends, pimples, flaky skin and bunions. I still must be gorgeous at the convention.

Don't mention that any old guy off the street can wander into my office during working hours and find me in a pair of faded, rump-sprung jeans, a shirt with bleach spots on it, and a pair of sneakers even the dog wouldn't chew on. Just remember that when I get down to that press convention I want to be dressed fit to kill.

For years I have wondered why usually I will go around looking like something the dog found and reburied, yet let a trip be mentioned and I begin to worry about wearing a petticoat that has not been centered properly. It really doesn't make much sense that I would allow the people I know and love see me as Prunella Pitstop, yet let a total stranger view me as "Miss Dresses Pretty Good For a Fat Lady From a Small Town."

Lately, though, as I mended and hemmed and washed my way through my traveling wardrobe, I finally figured it out. You see, the thing is that you all know that I am a tried and true, thoroughly disgusting, bound to be condemned by the board of health, slob. Not only do you know this about me, but you have come to expect it of me. If I were to get all fixed up none of you would know who I was. But if there's one chance in a thousand that some stranger might actually notice that I look halfway decent, and another chance in a million that he might remember my name, then there's at least a chance in a billion that someday he would meet my mother, find out who her daughter is, and say "Oh, I know her, she's the one that looked so nice in Houston."

Won't Mom be proud.

CHARM SCHOOL:

There will be a "Feeling Terrific" Charm School arranged by the 4-H Clothing Committee and Leaders on Friday, June 27th. The program will be held at the Lovett Memorial Library located at 111 N. Houston, Pampa with registration beginning at 9:30 a.m. and the program ending at 2:30 p.m. (You may want to bring a sack lunch.) The topics to be discussed will be telephone techniques, hairstyles for action, make-up for beauty, future projections, modeling and current fashions. The public is invited to attend. The program will be presented by businesses of Pampa and Gray County 4-H'ers. If there are any questions, call the County Extension Office, 669-7429.

TRACTOR DRIVING SCHOOL:

Fourteen area youth completed the tractor driving school held June 9th and 10th in Pampa by the Gray County Extension service.

Operating farm machinery safely was the main topic of discussion in classroom work. Actual driving experience was given on a limited basis. Crossman Implement of Pampa furnished a tractor and implement trailer for the participants to operate and gain some experience in safe tractor operation. Our thanks to Crossman Implement for their help with this program.

Youth completing the course include: Joe Bob Holmes, Scotty Thompson, Curt Duncan, Keven Helmer, Pat Newman, Justin Helton, Loney Wilson, Brad Gieser, Darrell Ledbetter, Kelly Bennet, Anthony Brandt, and Kevin Kucifer.

SOMETHING GOOD ALWAYS comes out of a bad situation. McLean News employees Joy Rhine and Sally Haynes look at a watermelon vine growing in a crack in the sidewalk in front of the News office. The office was bombarded with watermelons last Halloween by pranksters. The two watermelon vines apparently developed from seeds dropped at that time. [Photo by Linda Haynes]

Mrs. Lee , Glenn Honored For Service To City

City employees Stella Lee and Bob Glenn were surprised during the City Council meeting last week at City Hall with a party honoring their service to the city. Glenn has completed 26 years with the city, and Mrs. Lee is celebrating her 25th year with the City this week.

Mrs. Lee began working for the City of McLean June 23, 1955 as a clerk, assisting city secretary D.A. Davis. Davis died in 1958, and Mrs. Lee took over as secretary. She has worked for four mayors: Ed Landers, John Haynes, Boyd Meador, and Sam Haynes.

Glenn went to work for the city in 1954 under city superintendent Pete Fulbright. Glenn became city superintendent in 1966.

The pair was presented gifts from the city council and others attending the party.

Attending were councilmen Ruth Magee, Boyd Meador, Dale Glass, Miro Pagan and George Terry; mayor Sam Haynes; Mr. and Mrs. R.C. Parker; Mr. and Mrs. Vestal Bailey; Mr. and Mrs. Johnnie Mertel; Doyle Lee, Mrs. Grace Glenn, Mrs. Linda Haynes and Dolie, and Shatrel Culpeter.

Councilmen served cookies, soft drinks and coffee at the party.

CULTURAL ARTS WORK SHOP:

A Cultural Arts Workshop will be held next Thursday, June 19th at 9:30 a.m. in the Courthouse Annex Meeting Room. Mrs. Theresa Maness from the Lil Ole Paintin' Corner will teach "Shirt Tail Painting" where students learn to paint on fabric. The class will cost approximately $5-$7.50 for those participating. You need to pre-register by calling 669-7429, so that we can prepare enough supplies. If you have questions, contact Teresa or the County Extension Office.

STRAWBERRY PRESERVES MADE AT HOME:

Strawberry preserves are an all time favorite and are so easy to make at home. Here's how: Wash and drain two quarts of strawberries to make four half-pint jars. Remove the caps and combine the six cups of prepared berries with four and one-half cups of sugar in alternate layers and let them stand for eight to ten hours or overnight in the refrigerator or other cool place.

Heat the fruit mixture to boiling, stirring gently. Boil rapidly, stirring as needed to prevent sticking. Cook about fifteen to twenty minutes or until the syrup is somewhat thick. Remove from heat and skim. Fill hot, dry jars sterilized by boiling in water for fifteen minutes. Fill to within one-eighth of an inch of top of the jar.

Seal with lids according to the manufacturers' directions.

If you would like more information about making preserves, call or write the Gray County Extension Office for copies of H&GB-56 "How to Make Jellies, Jams and Preserves at Home" or MP-279, "How to Make Jellies, Jams, Preserves, Marmalades and Butters."
