from the distaff side
by Linda Haynes

The stillness at the scene of the wreck is almost eerie. The screaming ambulance bearing the injured has left. The grinding, searing crash is already history. Nothing in the landscape has held the sounds of the horror of a few minutes before.

The men at the scene speak very quietly, as people do in the presence of death. They are firemen, law officers, men who have seen this tragedy before, countless times, and yet the horror is still there, written on the faces.

Even the passing cars and trucks, driving slowly past the mangled cars, are very quiet, respectful.

The highway patrolman tells me what he needs. I am there to take pictures...for evidence, for the records. The patrolman is half-apologetic, sorry he must show me what he will, but it is necessary and we both know it. My pictures will help show what has happened, and I tell myself that this is my small way of helping the families who will soon want to know "Why, where, how?" questions I asked myself years ago when a car was the weapon which killed my mother.

We walk to the small red car. The men around me are very kind, considerate, protective of me, and quietly warn me that "this is a bad one." The car is a toy car, one of those cute little cars that every man dreams of owning. It is red (like my son's, I think). The men pull a blue blanket off the top of the car so that I may take my picture. The boy (about my son's age) is dead. He stares sightlessly at the beautiful blue May evening sky.

Snap, snap--"I'm sorry," the man at my side says, "there's another body over here." We walk across the road to another small car. This time the victim is a woman, not much older than the boy in the other car.

She is obviously dead, her head wedged into the metal strip that once held the windshield.

We walk back to the third car involved. This one has no bodies, but we need pictures of positions of the cars.

Irrationally I think that the next day is Mother's Day. Somewhere there are two mothers who are going to hear the most horrible news that a mother can ever hear.

But I can't think about that now. There are more pictures to be taken.

One man who has been with me at wrecks before asks quietly "Are you all right?" I nod yes at him because I'm afraid to talk. A few more pictures are needed. I try to remember simple things about taking pictures: check exposure, focus, don't shoot into the sun. If I think of technical things, and don't allow myself to really see what is in the camera lens then the camera doesn't shake as much.

I have all the pictures I need. The patrolman, still protective of me, helps me get through

Board Accepts Resignations; Hires New Personnel

The McLean school board accepted several resignations and hired new personnel at the regular meeting of the board Monday night in the school business office.

Hil school basketball coach Vest Joiner resigned, along with custodians Luster McClain and Errol Keen.

Toy Price was hired as custodian.

Thboard hired Jan Johnson as his school business teacher at $12,500 plus $250.

Not the end of the meeting, the board accepted his resignation with regret. Magee resigned so that his cousin's husband, Charles Roberts, could be considered for the job as the vocational agriculture teacher. Texas nepotism laws forbid a board member from acting on the hiring of a relative.

Following the resignation, the board voted to hire Roberts as the vocational agriculture teacher at state schedule plus $250.

The board discussed the plan to consolidate the city's tax office with the school office. The school has offered to do the city's taxes for $300 per month plus the cost of the computer and the cost of the transfer of delinquent accounts. The city was to have decided on the contract at their regular city council meeting Tuesday night, but the results of the decision were not known at press time.

The board discussed the rural tax classification. Mrs. Johnson

Two Killed, Two Injured In Head-On Collision On I-40

Two were killed and two were critically injured as the result of a head-on collision that involved three cars west of Alanreed Saturday night about 7:15. Paul Joseph Larson, 21, of Goshen, Conn. driving a 1963 Alpha Romeo sports car west on Interstate 40, apparently pulled out to pass a semi-trailer truck, and slammed head-on into an eastbound 1979 blue Toyota driven by Carolyn Jean Gattrell of Phoenix, Ariz. Mrs. Gattrell's traveling companion, James Kenneth Moody, 22, also of Phoenix was following her car in a 1974 Plymouth. Moody swerved to avoid the pile-up but hit both cars before overturning in a ditch on the north side of the road.

Mrs. Gattrell, 23, was accompanied by her four-year-old son Jason Lynn.

Both Mrs. Gattrell and Larson were pinned in their vehicles and were pronounced dead at the scene by justice of the peace Dorothy Patterson, acting as coroner. Moody and the Gattrell child were transported to Northwest Texas Hospital emergency receiving center by the McLean area ambulance and were both listed in critical condition. Moody has both legs broken, head injuries, and internal injuries. The Gattrell child has a broken leg.

Investigating trooper R.C. Parker said that he had some trouble identifying the driver of the Italian sports car. Apparently Gattrell was carrying his mother's driver's license, and it was several hours before Parker learned the exact identity of the victim.

Haynes To Lead County Democratic Delegation To State Convention

McLean mayor Sam Haynes was elected chairman of the Gray County Democratic convention in Pampa Saturday, and was also tapped to lead the county's delegation to the state Democratic convention in San Antonio in June.

Bill Thomas of McLean was elected as the representative of precinct 5 to the state convention, while Haynes was chosen as a delegate-at-large.

McLean sent nine delegates to the county convention. The delegates were chosen at the precinct convention in McLean May 3. Those attending from McLean were Haynes, Bill Thomas, Tina Thomas, Mary Dwyer, Leta Mae Hess, Randy Kennedy, Lela Skipper, Joe Billingsley, and Jim McDonald.

Delegates to the county meeting passed the following resolutions: TO URGE YOUNG VOTERS to develop an interest in the Democratic Party.

TO COMMEND PRESIDENT CARTER for his handling of the Iranian crisis.

APPROVAL OF A 5 PERCENT WAIVER ON FUEL ALCOHOL for lower alcohol taken from agricultural products.

REFUSE ADMITTANCE OF FOREIGN STUDENTS to any state school when the foreign student's country is holding American hostages or is hostile to the U.S.

OBJECTION OF WINDFALL PROFITS TAX, primarily bed-cause the burden of payment would be placed on the independent producer and the royalty owners.

INSURANCE OF 90 PERCENT PARITY on commodity credit loans on all farm produce.

TO MAKE IT KNOWN that the Gray County Convention holds an objection to foreign ownership of real estate in Texas.

The Democrats also voted to give 66 percent of the vote of the delegation to President Carter, with the remaining 33 percent listed as uncommitted.

Gray County Republicans also met for their convention Saturday, with county Judge Carl Kennedy as the keynote speaker for the convention. The Republicans adopted several resolutions to be presented to the state party.

They include: SOCIALIZED MEDICINE: That any solutions to health care needs of people be carried out through the private enterprise system.

GOVERNMENT REGULATION OF FAMILIES: Be it resolved that additional preschool so-called "child development" program shall not be funded and controlled by government but in the private sector at the local level where the need arises.

EQUAL RIGHTS AMENDMENT: Be it resolved that the Texas Legislature be urged to rescind or recall its ratification of the ERA and that those Carter Has A Surprise For You!

Don't be surprised when you go to the gas stations today! This is the day that President Carter's 10 cent Gasoline Conservation Fee goes into effect. Carter pushed the Petroleum Import Adjustment Program and the conservation fee in an effort to force American consumers to cut down on the consumption of gas.

The fact that this 10 cent per gallon tax will add $10.3 billion to the cost of gasoline during the first year of the program and probably increase inflation seems to have escaped the notice of the federal government. Carter and his economists are still working on the assumption that high interest rates and high price for gasoline will work wonders for the economy, when all it has done is to force Americans further into debt, and force the closure of several small industries.

The administration seems to be in a total state of chaos, with different experts giving conflicting advice. Part Carter's advisors seem to be pushing tight money as an attempt to cool off inflation, while someone on the other side of the White House dreamed up this 10 cent tax which will undoubtedly help fuel worse and worse inflation before the year is over.

Part of Carter's problem is that he is trying to please everyone, an impossible job. By taking a little advice from everyone, he has welded together a hodge-podge policy that pleases no one, and certainly does nothing for the country.

But this latest tax may be the last straw. While the Washington congressmen soothe us by talking about a tax cut and a balanced budget, they slip this tax by so that we're still paying as much taxes, and the government is still taking in the same amount or more money.

Who do they think they're kidding? Just you and me, the good old pullible American public.

I personally intend to be angry each time I fill up my car and pay the $2.50 to the government. I also intend to write Jack Hightower and Lloyd Benson and protest this newest insult to the American public. And I intend to cast my ballot in November for leaders who have the guts to make tough decisions for the good of the country, instead of switching back and forth whichever way the wind blows.

Letters To The Editor

I would like to thank the people of the McLean Independent School District for the support over the past year. Due to a state law regarding the employment of a first cousin-in-law, I can no longer serve on the school board. I feel that an individual's career is more important than my serving on the board.

The government is slowly moving into our free enterprise system and rapidly moving into our educational system. Our tax office and administrative personnel are covered up with paper work. Many people are required to do a job that used to take only one. The board, the tax office and administrative staff have to make many unpopular decisions because they are mandated from the state and federal governments. Our educational system can only be as good as the people in our school district want it to be. We need to attend board meetings and voice opinions on issues. We need to support extra-curricular activities of our school and we need to serve, when we are needed.

Thank you for your patience and confidence this year.

Sincerely,
Joe Magee

traffic so I can come back to town.

I drive a couple of miles and the reaction that I've come to expect happens quickly. I stop at the side of the road and I am very sick and then the tears come.

I keep remembering the everyday, normal things at the wreck that make my heart hurt: a child's lone sneaker lying on the ground, a tape of the rock group The Eagles lying on the highway by the cars. Somehow it is those common things that are the most poignant.

When I can drive again, the anger, pointless, unjustified, rushes over me. I want to go hit somebody, anybody for causing the senseless tragedy that I've just witnessed.

But I know there's really no one to blame. A driver made a split-second decision and it was wrong, and he has paid dearly for his mistake, and the mistake has left a young woman dead and a child motherless the day before Mother's Day. And I think about all the mistakes I've made, and that I've never been forced to pay so dearly for any mistake so minor.

The next day a friend says "I don't think you should go out to those wrecks," and I don't have the ability to explain to her why I go and why I feel that it is my duty to go.

Grow Independence Garden For Savings

Burlington, Vermont--If you want to start an Independence Garden, there's a new book available just for you.

What's an Independence Garden?
"A backyard garden--an Independence Garden, we call it--allows you to stay home, have some fun, and be productive. A bonus is the fact you can't buy better tasting vegetables than those you grow yourself," says Jack Robinson, president of Gardens for All, The National Association for Gardening.

"The pressures of inflation and energy costs could make the '80s the decade of the Independence Garden, just as the war years produced the Liberty Gardens and Victory Gardens."

"When we asked people in the industry if there was a simple, inexpensive book available for beginners, they shook their heads," said Robinson. "Some referred us to books published during World War II. From our National Gardening Survey we know that one of the three main reasons people stop gardening is that they get off to a poor start because of a lack of information. That's the aim of this book--making the beginning gardener successful," Robinson concluded.

The Independence Garden Book is available for $1 to cover postage and handling by writing Independence Garden, Dept. 02023, Gardens for All, 180 Flynn Avenue, Burlington, Vermont 05401.

Part of it is that I feel that it is my duty to help the highway patrolmen in any way I can. Part of it is that the men of the fire department make such sacrifices to help people in wrecks that I feel that it is the least I can do, when they contribute so much.

Part of it is also that I know that when the shock of the deaths begins to wear off, the families of the victims will begin to ask all kinds of questions, and although the families will never see my pictures, perhaps those pictures will help investigators answer their questions.

But part of the reason is because facing some of life's great tragedies forces us to deal with the biggest, the most eternal question of life: "Why are we here? and What is the purpose of life?"

Car wrecks are so thought-provoking because you always have to think that if that driver had been caught in a red light, and had come by five seconds later the tragedy would not have happened. Wrecks are always a matter of split-second timing, and that in itself is mind-boggling.

But at the scene of a wreck, in the presence of senseless death, life begins to gain some perspective. It is impossible to go home from such a scene and worry about wrinkles or money or fat or any of the other trivial things that consume most of our time.

It is the big questions that loom important after one of these incidents. Am I doing my best in my life? Am I making a contribution that will help other people? Am I being the kind of wife and mother that my family needs?

And that, my friend, is why I go when I am needed.

But at the scene of a wreck, said that her office had completed evaluations of about 90 percent of all the rural houses. "We had excellent cooperation from all the residents," Mrs. Johnson told the board. "Everyone was very helpful to us, and we really appreciated it."

The board approved purchase of a 65-passenger bus for next year.

The TABS testing program was discussed by the board. In other action, the board voted to approve the Region

XVI service center contracts for media, Title 1, and testing for next year, and decided to limit FBLA participation in the future.

Attending the meeting which adjourned at 10:45 p.m. were board members Jim Allison, June Suggs, Tony Smitherman, J.C. McAnear, Lloyd Hunt, Joe Magee, and Darryl Herndon; and superintendent Carl Dwyer, business manager Shirley Johnson, and high school principal Ron Cummings.

according to plans announced by the Texas Education Agency. The three tests will make up an annual assessment effort designed to help both state and local school officials improve their services Dwyer says.

Overall student performance, both by campus and by district, will be reported each year to the public by the local board of trustees.

Westinghouse DataScore Systems of Iowa City, Ia., will both help administer the 1980 test program and develop and field test new items for the 1980-81 series under contract to the State Board of Education. The Iowa firm will also operate a computerized inventory of all test booklets to assure strict security at all times.

Each test question will relate to a specific objective or skill students are expected to learn by the time they complete the particular grade.

"We use the term 'criterion-referenced' simply because it is a short way of saying the answer to each question must lead back to a specific objective," Dwyer explains.

Ninth grade students who do not make a satisfactory score may re-take the test each year they remain in high school. However, they will not be required to take it more than once more. Later attempts to improve their scores and evaluate any remedial programs will be voluntary.

The annual test program will administered by specially-trained personnel in each school district under the guidelines and supervision of the Texas Education Agency.

Notes From Your County Agricultural Agent

by Joe Van Zandt

GRASSHOPPER SITUATION

Recently we attended a Grasshopper meeting in Amarillo to brief County Extension Agents in the Panhandle on the grasshopper outlook for this year.

In general, a lot of the rangeland areas in the Panhandle have the potential for damaging numbers of grasshoppers this year, except for those areas sprayed last year.

In Gray County, a big area basically going east of Lefors and southwest of Lefors and from Highway 70 to the Wheeler County line along the southern boundary just north of I-40. Then there is another area just northeast of Pampa to the Roberts County line around Hoover.

It is too early to tell just how many grasshoppers may hatch and develop this spring and summer. However, we were encouraged to hold meetings to explain the program. We had very little interest in spray control programs last year in these areas. I would like to hear from some of the land owners to know how interested they might be this year. Please contact me immediately at 669-7429 if you are interested in joining a Federal-State Cooperative spray program.

SOIL STEWARDSHIP WEEK IS MAY 11-18

Soil Stewardship Week May 11-18, focuses on the theme, "The Judgement of Nature". The observance is sponsored by the National Association of Conservation Districts.

This year's theme is especially appropriate as the United States considers the current condition of its soil, water and related resources. Through nature we are linked with the past and committed to the future.

Nature is the continuing system of life created by God. It is neither fixed nor static; it is a continuing process and inherently dynamic. It rewards care and constructive attention, as it penalizes negligence and deliberate damage.

Loss of some three million acres of productive agricultural land each year through urbanization and other uses, decline in productivity of top-soil as the result of destructive erosion, and continuing pollution of the nation's waters are serious causes for everyone's concern. Participation in Soil Stewardship Week activities offers an opportunity to reflect on the nation's natural problems and to consider actions to resolve them or reduce their impact.

The National Association of Conservation Districts has sponsored Soil Stewardship Week in the United States since 1955, in cooperation with the nation's nearly 3,000 soil and water conservation districts.

ZINC FOR PECANS:

Beautiful pecan trees and regular harvests of high quality pecans begin each spring with frequent zinc sprays. Good foliage is the secret to optimum growth, healthy trees and regular production. Mature pecan trees can have double the amount of foliage with three or four zinc sprays in May and June. Leaves on mature trees are full grown by July, so spray early and frequently. Young pecan trees can grow six feet instead of six inches in one year if zinc is sprayed onto the foliage every two to three weeks from May until August. This is of course in combination with a good management program.

There are two types of zinc which can be used in Texas, zinc sulfate or NZN. Each is effective. Commercial pecan producers have used zinc sulfate with good results for over 40 years. Caution will need to be used however, because zinc sulfate can kill many types of plants, so spray it only onto pecan foliage. NZN is a new type of zinc which is a liquid. It was developed by Dr. J. Benton Morey of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station. NZN is highly soluble, less toxic to other vegetation and available to many garden centers.

The homeowner should use two teaspoons of zinc sulfate or NZN in one gallon of water. Other forms of zinc, such as zinc chelates or tree injectors, have been tested, but have not been found to be an effective source of zinc for pecans in Texas.

Zinc is utilized by pecan for the manufacture of a growth hormone called indole-acetic-acid. Without zinc and indole-acetic-acid pecan growth is greatly reduced. The leaves will be small and the shoots will be short and in clusters forming what is commonly called "zinc rosette." Zinc is not readily translocated from shoot to shoot; consequently, frequent zinc sprays are needed if new growth is to receive zinc. This is also why good coverage is important.

There are over 600,000 acres of native pecan trees in Texas. Yet strange as it may seem, pecans are one of the few plants that cannot absorb zinc from the soil. Texas soils frequently contain very high levels of zinc, but because of the high pH nature of alkaline soils a high percentage of the soil zinc is not soluble in the soil water and is thus unavailable to the pecan. Applications of zinc to the soil are of no significant value to pecan trees in Texas.

We see quite a few pecans trees in the Gray County area in home landscapes. Zinc sprays are very important along with the proper early maturing variety.

AFRICAN SWINE FEVER ALERT:

African swine fever (ASF) is once again threatening the United States. The alert comes in the wake of a reported outbreak of this contagious, often fatal viral disease of swine in Cuba's Guantanamo Province. ASF affects only swine; it does not affect people.

With ASF only 90 miles from the Florida Keys, every American swine producer should be concerned and should keep a close check on his herd.

USDA inspection activities at ports of entry have been stepped up since 1978 as a result of ASF outbreaks in Brazil, the Dominican Republic and Haiti. Imports of live hogs, fresh pork and uncooked pork products from ASF-affected countries are prohibited.

An earlier Cuban outbreak of ASF in 1971 was eradicated by the drastic, but effective measure of destroying all swine in affected and adjacent areas. According to recent reports, the same depopulation procedure combined with stiff quarantine actions is being followed today.

Although ASF affects no animals other than swine, it can be transmitted via food waste when uncooked pork scraps from infected animals are fed to swine.

Some of the signs of ASF are abortions, high fever, reduced appetite for food and water, tendency to lie down, depression, labored breathing, coughing, and discolorations - blotchy or diffused redness - on ears, snout and abdomen of white or light colored hogs.

U.S. Swine producers who remember hog cholera - disease eradicated here in 1978 will note that ASF and hog cholera signs are similar. Any unusual disease in pigs should be reported promptly to state or federal health officials.

LAWN FERTILIZATION:

Adequate attention, maintenance and proper fertilizer programs are necessary for attractive lawns throughout the summer. Too frequently, homeowners fail to utilize the proper kind and amount of fertilizer on their lawns.

Soil testing will help you understand the fertility status of your lawn. A soil test reveals the plant nutrient levels, salt content, and reaction (pH) of your soil. A soil test can be obtained through the Extension Soil Testing Laboratory in Lubbock for $4 per sample. For suggestions on soil sampling and mailing, contact the County Extension Office for form #D-495. "Soil Sample Information Sheet for Lawns, Gardens and Flower Beds." The following suggestions should be helpful to homeowners who have not been able to obtain a soil test.

McLean Little League Sees Action

McLean's Little League took an easy 24-4 win over the Lefors Little League in a game played at Lefors May 5. The winner pitcher for McLean was Kirk Anderson.

Coach Wendell Ridgway said that the most action in the game was between the batter and first baseman Martin Gately who got quite a workout in the game. Ridgway said Pee Wee Morris did an outstanding job home plate. Donnie Smith hit a grand slam home run in the third inning, Ridgway said.

On May 8 the Cubs played the Clarendon Cubs at Clarendon, and picked up another victory, 14-1. Martin Gately was the winning pitcher, pitching a no-hitter with 15 strikeouts.

Clarendon's only run was due to a walk. Ridgway said that the outstanding play of the game was a throw by hindcatcher Pee Wee Morris to second base with shortstop Jim Ridgway making the tag. The runner had been put on base with a walk and was trying to steal a base. Ridgway said there was very little action in the infield or outfield. "We hope to be ready when the time comes," Ridgway said. "The boys are doing a great job hitting the ball."

Ridgway is assisted by Rex Reed.

The McLean Cubs Little League baseball team lost their first game of the season to Skellytown May 12 at McLean. Losing pitcher for McLean was Kirk Anderson. The Cubs lost by a score of 18-15.

During the game which was called because of the time rule, Martin Gately knocked two grand slam home runs, plus one home run to total 9 runs batted in. Jim Ridgway had two RBI, Sid Brass had two RBI (runs batted in), and Kirk Anderson had two RBIs.

Davey Ridgway playing in right field caught a fly and threw into second base where Jim Ridgway made the tag and finished off the inning with a double play.

McLean was leading the game until the top of the fifth inning when the bases were loaded and Skellytown's second baseman hit a grand slam home run to put Skellytown ahead.

In The Kitchen

by Linda Haynes

McLean should have an abundant crop of vegetables again this year. If you are lucky enough to have a good garden, one of your best producing items will be probably be squash. If you get tired of eating it the same old way, try one of these recipes.

SQUASH CASSEROLE

From Betty Skipper, given to her by Dovey Simmons

3 medium yellow squash
1 medium chopped onion
1/2 cup bread crumbs (divided)
1/2 c. shredded cheese
1 egg
1/2 tsp. salt
1/4 tsp. pepper
4 tablespoons oleo (divided)

Cut squash in 1/2 inch slices. Cook squash and onions in small amount of salted water until tender. Drain. Add 1/2 of the bread crumbs, cheese, egg, salt, pepper, and 2 tablespoons oleo. Mix and put into greased bading dish. Top with other half of bread crumbs and drizzle with remaining oleo. More cheese may be grated on top. Bake for 10 minutes at 375 degrees or until brown. (Betty says she uses a sharp cheese, like cheddar or longhorn, and also uses more cheese and more bread-crumbs than the recipe calls for. She says that even the ones in her family who don't like squash, like this casserole.)

SQUASH-OKRA TANGLE

2 or 3 medium yellow squash
1 lb. okra
salt pepper egg and mild
Slice unpeeled squash into thin slices, omitting seeded part. Slice okra as you regularly do for frying. Salt and pepper both vegetables. Combine egg and about 1/2 cup milk. Pour over vegetables in bowl. Toss thoroughly until well coated. Drain liquid out of bowl. Pour 1/2 to 1 cup corn meal over vegetables. Toss until thoroughly coated. Fry in hot grease in cast iron skillet as you regularly do okra alone. Fry until crisp and brown. (Some people add thinly sliced potatoes to the vegetables in the frying pan. Makes a large, delicious vegetable dish!)

NEWS OF ART

"Dimension V," by Jerry Peart, has been selected by the Steel Service Center Institute (SSCI) as the art theme for its 1980 annual meeting.

SSCI President Robert G. Welch says the colorful painted steel sculpture of subtle bends and curves symbolizes the "optimism we feel as we enter a complex new decade. The artist captures this complexity in the shape and shows us with color how we can control positive results."

The 29-inch-tall sculpture is cold formed from 3/16-inch steel and painted five bright colors.

Army Announces New Enlistment

"The Army has opened up a new two-year opportunity for people enlisting in certain job areas," according to Lieutenant Colonel Norman N. Ferguson, Commander of recruiting activities for Oklahoma and the Texas panhandle.

The two-year enlistment is designed to help would-be college or vocational school students save money for their education, while they learn new skills and serve their country.

The Veterans Educational Assistance Program allows these soldiers to save $50 to $75 dollars per month, and then, after the first enlistment receive two dollars for every one dollar they saved. In addition, a new $2,000 education bonus is included, which means soldiers can now accumulate up to $7,400 for their future education at the end of the two years.

"This two-year enlistment is available right now, as are the regular three and four year enlistments, with the VEAP savings plan and education bonuses," said Colonel Ferguson. A three-year enlistment can net a soldier up to $12,100 for school (that includes an added bonus of $4,000) and a four-year enlistment can mean up to $14,100 (including a $6,000 bonus).

"Young people who want to further their education, but don't have enough money to do it, should look into the Army's VEAP program," Colonel Ferguson added.

IT'S A FACT!

The physical therapist is an important member of the medical team. All of the more than 32,000 physical therapists in the U.S. have completed at least a baccalaureate degree program and have a specific period of clinical training. Each day, more than 150,000 benefit from their expertise as they seek to overcome pain and physical disability.

Physical therapists do more than restore function to traumatized limbs. They also work with children to overcome crippling birth defects and with stroke victims to restore movement and independent living. For most post-operative patients, they are the link in the health-care team that speeds successful recovery.

With the proper clothing, a man can stand the extreme cold as low as 50 degrees below zero Fahrenheit.

PET FACTS & FIGURES

After a kitten is born, it develops a sense of taste and smell within a few days and, soon after, an ability to hear. But a cat does not begin to see until about the ninth day. However, still more time must elapse before it is able to focus and see fully well.

THE WORLD'S MOST FAMOUS TEACHERS

Some of the great teachers of the past are known for the things they taught, and others, for their pupils. Still others are known for not really being teachers at all!

A famous teacher of the fifth century B.C. was philosopher Aristotle. He invented logic as a systematic discipline and was tutor to Alexander the Great.

In our own century, a great teacher was Henry Ford, the American industrialist who was regarded as "the apostle of mass production." Ford showed mechanical aptitude at an early age, and in 1879 left his father's farm to work as an apprentice in a machine shop.

His next job was with the Edison Company as a machinist and engineer. By 1892 he had built his first automobile, and in 1899 he launched the Detroit Automobile Co. He organized the Ford Motor Co. and in 1908 designed the Model T. By adapting the conveyor belt and assembly line to automobile manufacture, he was soon able to outdistance competitors and become the world's largest auto producer.

And where would we be today without Clarence

Birdseye, who taught the world about quick-frozen foods? A scientist from Brooklyn, it was on an expedition to Labrador for the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service in 1914 that he noticed something the Eskimos knew: fish caught in the ice froze stiff the instant they were exposed to the air. When they were defrosted and cooked a week later, they were still good—as good-tasting as if fresh caught. The same method worked for caribou steaks.

There's much to be said for our most inventive teachers!

You're on your way, Grads, and we wish you the very best of everything.

SBA Reveals New Toll-Free Number

Texas farmers and ranchers who want information about the Small Business Administration disaster recovery loan program now have a toll-free number they may call, the U.S. Small Business Administration (SBA) announced today.

"SBA has already assisted more than 10,000 agricultural producers in Texas," said Mercurio Martinex, SBA Regional Administrator. "This toll-free number will make it easier for farmers throughout the state to receive information about the SBA program."

Martinex explained how the telephone line will be operated by SBA. He said that persons having questions about the disaster loans may receive a brief explanation of the recovery program by calling roll-free, 1-800-692-4296 from anywhere within the state. If a farmer already has applied to SBA for assistance, he may leave his name, address and phone number with the receptionist and a loan officer familiar with his application will call him back at once.

Small Business Administration physical disaster loans are available in counties recommended by the Governor and subsequently designated by the Administrator of FBA. The loans are made only for crop losses not already covered by insurance or other disaster or deficiency payments.

For additional information about the SBA farm disaster loan program, producers may call, toll-free, 1-800-692-4296.

Artist-In-School Program Now Available

Interested in your child having an arts experience?

School districts throughout Texas may soon provide these activities, if they apply for financial assistance to bring professional artists into their schools.

"The Artists-in-Schools program will place professional performing, visual and literary artists in accredited school districts to bring an enriching arts experience to children of all ages," today announced Allan K. Longacre II, Executive Director for the Texas Commission on the Arts (TCA).

Deadline for applications is July 1. Assistance awards will be announced in August for the 1980-81 school year.

Although the creative activities are aimed primarily at school children, teachers as well as the entire community take part too," Mr. Longacre explained.

Eligible sponsors may be any accredited school district, local government group, or a non-profit tax-exempt organization such as a museum or an arts council. Organizations may pool their financial resources and them apply to TCA for matching funds for the program.

"Artist residencies may range from one week to a full school year," Longacre said. "For the short or long term, those involved learn much about self-expression and communicating creatively."

For applications and further information, contact TCA's Education Division, toll free 1-800-252-9415, P.O. Box 13406, Capitol Station, Austin, TX 78711

SIX GUN COUNTRY

By Max Brand

The fantastic popularity of western novels in our country has been fostered in great part by the writings of Max Brand.

He has been matched by few in the output and the quality of his stories. "Six Gun Country" is but another shining example of the type story enjoyed by millions as they imagine themselves as the hero fighting his way through all the bad guys to finally get the girl.

"Six Gun Country" is the story of an innocent man hunted as an outlaw who finally must track down an impostor posing as him as he commits robberies, etc. all over the west.

Max Brand (Frederic Faust) has produced hundreds of books under twenty pen names, the most famous probably being the "Dr. Kildare" and "Destry" series, and has written over thirty million words covering subjects from westerns to war to animal stories and big business.

"Six Gun Country" certainly fits the tradition of Max Brand westerns and will hold your attention as they all do from cover to cover.

This book is heartily recommended by this writer for all who enjoy a good tale of the old west, and is now available at Lovett Memorial Library.

May Is Set For Mental Health Collections

Mrs. Doyal Billingsley of McLean will lead Bellringer workers in a house-to-house drive during May, Mental Health Month.

"Proceeds will benefit the Mental Health Association in Texas," said John Stevens, state President of the voluntary citizens' association.

As a non-governmental agency the association can and does speak for the consumer—the person who needs professional help for an emotional disturbance.

The number one goal of the association for 1980 is to improve the care for discharged long term mentally disabled persons. The association is promoting self-help groups for families of patients and for former mental health clients.

"The association is a moving force to get services established where there are none. It also serves as a monitoring agency to see that treatment services are doing what they were set up to do," said Stevens.

The Mental Health Association strongly promotes more community-based care as well as more research into the causes of mental illness.

Seeking to prevent mental health problems through education, the association, in cooperation with the Governor's Office of Volunteer Services, sends out the newsletter series "Pierre the Pelican" to first-time parents in the state.

Additionally, the association offers literature to the public on a variety of topics including depression, alcoholism, and positive mental health concepts. For free information write to the Mental Health Association in Texas, 103 Lantern Lane, Austin, Texas 512-459-6584.

There is a national organization called the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals. They inspect hospitals nationwide and accredit those which measure up to their specifications. They set criteria for patient care procedures, employee education, equipment, maintenance, every area of the hospital.

They require the establishment of numerous committees such as Infection Control, Inservice Education, Safety, Quality Control to name a few. Passing their inspection means that your standards of care are the same as a 1000 bed hospital in New York, Los Angeles or Houston. They require a procedure manual for each area of care in the hospital with explicit instructions for each procedure done.

McLean Hospital is to be inspected by JCAH, for the first time in just a few weeks. The building has been painted. Equipment has been updated and some new equipment purchased. The most important piece is the new cardiac monitor/defibrillator. There is a new fully equipped respiratory department. Central supply and the Emergency Room have been completely reorganized. Department Heads from the Pampa facility have made numerous trips to McLean to help each department to get ready for the inspection.

In passing this inspection McLean will be the smallest accredited hospital of the more than 130 of the Hospital Corporation of America, and possibly the smallest nationwide.

A town the size of McLean is lucky to have a fully equipped acute care facility with 24 hour emergency care. Lucky too, to have a fully equipped ambulance with the same equipment to give care at the scene of an accident, a paramedic, and a large number of trained personnel. Also in McLean we have a very active hospital auxiliary organization, a group of ladies who work very hard and are always willing to help out on a few minutes notice.

Most McLean residents are within three minutes of life saving equipment and medical personnel. Sometimes three minutes makes the difference. Tucked away down here in the corner of the county we are lucky to have McLean Hospital.

Gasoline Prices To Rise

Texas consumers will be faced with the largest single gasoline price increase in history on May 15, when President Carter implements his 10 cents per gallon conservation fee.

"The public is going to be outraged over this ill-advised and unnecessary fee and they have every right to be," says John Calhoun, president of the Texas Oil Marketers Association.

TOMA is a trade association composed of more than 800 small independent businesses which own petroleum marketing companies. The firms supply chains of branded and unbranded service stations in Texas, as well as the vast majority of petroleum products for agriculture and commercial use.

Calhoun points out that there is a massive movement in Washington to try to "kill" the conservation fee, but that the legislative process to prevent the President from taking this action will take until mid-June.

4-H CORNER

DISTRICT 4-H ROUND-UP:

District 4-H Round-up was held at WTSU on May 3rd. All 4-H'ers from Gray County had been working hard since County Contest to prepare their demonstrations for District Contest. Gray County did very well at District Contest. 4-H Clubs represented were Mann, Top O' Texas, Baker, McLean, Austin, Lefors and Patriots.

SUMMER CAMPING:

Summer is camping time for 4-H'ers all over the state. Programs for these camps are as widely varied as our state's geography, but they all have something to offer boys and girls, city and rural youth, children from middle or high income families, and those from dis-advantaged families.

Methods and outdoor education projects for these camps may vary widely. But one thing for sure, they all have a common purpose. Getting young people together, for three days for a 4-H camp, does something that cannot be done as effectively in other 4-H programs. Youngsters from all over the county get better acquainted. Friendship fosters the exchange of ideas, and 4-H members renew friendships with some they see only a few times during the year.

Results from camp programs may be reflected in the growth and development of youth and in molding wholesome philosophies and developing confidence in living in the out-of-doors. Recreation, skill and enthusiasm of a good staff, and the atmosphere of a closeness to nature can shape a program affecting the lives of many young people.

Camping is only one of the fun things that 4-H'ers do. Contact the County Extension Office for a complete list of activities and learn how you can "get it all together in 4-H."

and numerous other places requiring official certification.

Participants much be proficient swimmers and at least 17 years of age. Participants will select one course of instruction, which will include 30 hours of instruction.

This is a very exciting and enjoyable opportunity for Gray County 4-H leaders. To register for this training or for more information, contact the Gray County Extension Office or call 669-7429.

ENERGY PROGRAM:
Are you interested in being a 4-H leader for a new Energy Program? There will be a workshop in Plainview on May 27th for training in the new program. If you are interested in attending the workshop, contact the County Extension Office for further information.

CLOTHING:
If you are interested in being in a 4-H Clothing Project Group or would like to be a clothing leader for the year, contact Deana Finck, County Extension Agent at 669-7429.

4-H AIMED AT EDUCATION:
4-H, the youth development program of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M university System, is aimed at educating young people. 4-H can help youth between the ages of 9 and 19, develop intelligent behavior by providing them information or knowledge, a positive self-concept and an awareness of their social setting. Without information or knowledge, a young person has no basis on which to act. But just learning a list of rules and facts will not satisfy personal or social needs. Instead, an effective list of rules and facts will not satisfy personal or social needs. Instead, an effective youth program focuses on relevant knowledge and the development of a knowledge-getting process, a young person must feel that he or she is capable, he has developed a positive self-concept. In contrast, when a youth has a negative self-concept, or feels inadequate, he will not act even if he has the necessary knowledge to solve the problem confronting him.

In any youth program, the interaction of a young person with an adult leader and other youth allows opportunities for praise, encouragement and rewards. And this kind of feedback can strongly influence the way a youth thinks about himself.

Living in a social setting also leads to the development of intelligent behavior. A Youth's behavior is motivated by his needs. For a newborn, physical needs such as food and comfort are a main concern. But the older youth, the more his behavior will be motivated by acceptance from his peers.

As a youth learns through trial and error the kind of behavior that is expected of him, he also learns the acceptable values, beliefs and goals of society.

Through individual projects, group activities, and adult volunteer leadership, the 4-H program attempts to help boys and girls acquire skills that will lead to self-directed and lifelong learning.

"Of course I'm not angry with you for not telling me you wore false teeth. Heck, nobody's perfect."

Grass. Stirrup-high and far as the eye could see. That's the way it was. That's the way it can be.

When the first ranchers pioneered Texas and Oklahoma they were greeted by grassland. Ranging for miles and waving a welcome to the strong-spirited ranchers and their grazing herds.

When the land was all taken, it was not all taken care of. It was fenced and overgrazed. It was parched by the dry years, and invaded by deep-rooted and "drouthy" brush. Brush destined to invade nearly every ranch, and to cut in half the grazing potential of over 88 million acres.

But there's a new pioneer spirit among ranchers today. They want their land back from the brush...and back to its natural beauty and bounty.

And there's a new product that makes it practical. It's Graslan™ from Elanco. Graslan is a new approach to brush control. It's as revolutionary and unique as were three other Elanco products - Tylan® and Rumensin® for your cattle and Treflan® herbicide for soybeans and cotton.

To find out more about brush control with Graslan, talk to your local SCS, Extension Agent or Range Management Specialist. Or call the toll free Elanco hotline: 1-800-428-4441. It could be the most important call you'll make for years to come.

GAS

at the earliest. "One of the unfortunate problems is that the public will not realize the impact of this program until they see the sign at the service stations go up by 10 cents per gallon," Calhoun noted. "Many will automatically blame gasoline distributors or oil companies for this, when they should be pointing their finger at President Carter and demanding that he end this unfair measure."

In announcing the plan to assess a conservation fee on gasoline, President Carter stated that the level of our nation's consumption of gasoline is the single most important cause of the nation's dependence on foreign oil. Therefore, the President has determined to shift the entire cost of the fee to gasoline.

"It is difficult for us to accept the statement that President Carter is initiating this fee in order to reduce consumption, that will in turn reduce imports," Calhoun says. "The public has already reduced their use of gasoline by over 10 percent during the first few months of 1980 and an additional dime is not going to do anything but increase inflation."

The TOMA president also explained that only 45 percent of a barrel of crude is used to refine gasoline. He noted that 21 percent of a barrel is used for making distillates and 11 percent residual fuel.

"If the President was strictly trying to reduce crude oil imports, he should have distributed the fee equally over all petroleum products. This will mean that consumers would only pay a 4.5 cent fee on gasoline, and the remainder on other refined products," he said.

Calhoun pointed out that by shifting the entire fee onto gasoline, Texas and the Southwest is paying a disproportionate share. He feels that the President has implemented the program in this manner because he does not want the Eastern states to have to pay higher bills for heating oil.

It is claimed that there are over 100 cases of "jake paralysis" at Pampa, with others being stricken every day. Most of the cases occur among laboring men and their families who are suffering for the necessities of life. Doctors say that drinkers imbibe liquor at their own peril now, as the menace lurks in all alcoholic intoxicants, and anyone who drinks is likely to be brought down with paralysis. The poison alcohol which is put into the "jake" is said to be unwittingly distributed by the government.

A primitive, and altogether novel way of moving things was resorted to on Monday, when about a hundred men assembled at a tabernacle a distance of about 50 feet, using no contrivance more modern than a lever, and lifting the structure bodily and "hossin' er over" a foot at a time. The former location of the tabernacle in the middle of Main street had been a source of vexation to people living in the north part of town for years, and after some agitation on the part of those interested, permission to move the same was granted by the city council, and volunteers were secured for the job.

PHYSICAL FITNESS
By Bill Toomey, Executive Director, AAU-Penn Mutual Masters Sports
All This Talk Of Exercise; What Does It Really Do? That's a good question. We don't know - exactly. But we do have some pretty good ideas. The effects of exercise are difficult to measure because they are progressive. And not many people are willing to devote their lives to being guinea pigs. According to the President's Council on Physical Fitness and Sports, aerobic exercise—the kind that sustains an elevated heart rate for a period of at least 15 minutes—can improve one's physical health by:
1. Improving circulation.
2. Strengthening blood vessels, reducing the possibility of a stroke.
3. Increasing the efficiency of the heart.
4. Increasing tolerance to stress.
5. Decreasing cholesterol and sugar levels in the blood.
So—before you go reupholstering that easy chair—you might want to give exercise a second chance.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT
W. W. (SLICK) BOYD

To: Wardens, and Brethren
McLean Lodge No. 889
AF&AM McLean, Texas

Brethren:

I as Worshipful Master do draft resolutions of respect to the memory of Brother W.W. Boyd, beg to report as follows:

Whereas, the Grand Master of the Celestial Lodge above has seen fit in His divine providence to call from our midst our beloved Brother W.W. Boyd, I now revere his memory by thinking for a moment about some of his accomplishments among us.

Brother Boyd will perhaps best be remembered for his great accomplishments of teaching and leadership in our fraternity.

We follow in his footsteps and cherish the fact that through the efforts of our departed Brother, we to a great extent learned of the teachings and precepts of Masonry. Through his untiring efforts of teachings, and his devoted leadership, and his inspiring example of being a true and faithful Brother of the Order, we are encouraged to look upward for guidance and hope that we to can somehow emulate the example left before us. We have lost a faithful Brother, outstanding citizen of our community, and a loving husband and friend; but we confidentially trust that his spirit now abides with the Father above.

Be it Resolved: That this Lodge extend to the members of the family of our Brother our heartfelt sympathy, for the loss is a shock to all of us who knew and loved him; but with them, we shall strive for greater perfection in our own lives to merit the trust and love handed to us.

Be it Further Resolved: That a copy of these Resolutions be furnished the family of our departed Brother, a copy be spread upon the minutes of this Lodge, and a copy be furnished to The McLean News for publication.

Respectfully submitted May 8, 1980
William R. Beck
Worshipful Master

My deepest appreciation for all your prayers, lovely cards, flowers, food and other expressions of concern during Wilson's illness. To the women who prepared and served the food. It is marvelous to know that so many cared so much. May the Lord bless you for your concern.
Sincerely,
Fern Boyd

We want to thank all our friends for the flowers, food, and all the wonderful deeds of kindness shown to us during our time of sorrow. We would also like to thank the McLean Ambulance Service for coming to our aid.
Having such friends has been a real comfort to us.

Loose Marbles

by Lisa Patman

I think that I must have been born in some sort of time warp; all my life I have been about four hours behind everyone else. I have missed christenings, been terribly late to weddings (my own included), and slept through more sunrises than a hibernating bear. I am a definite night person.

For night people the day begins sometime after lunch, gets into high gear around 10 p.m., and begins to taper off a little after two in the morning. Unfortunately for us night people, day people outnumber us considerably, thereby dooming us to a life of either being out of sync with the rest of the world for rest of our lives, or spending our remaining years struggling to readjust our mental time clocks. Neither is very satisfactory for the night person (and I have a feeling it isn't too swell for those day people who have to live with us).

Anyway, I decided that I would try one more time to adjust to a daytime schedule to give some sort of normalcy to my already abnormal home life. It turned out that this was to be the most horrifying experience of my life. Hitchcock's "Psycho" and "The Birds" were tame compared to what I went through.

First there was that terrifying glare of the sunrise—enough to blind a person for life, I suspect—followed closely by the blood-chilling screams of little birds as they yelled "Good Morning" to their cohorts in the trees. It made me wish I had a hearing aid I could turn down.

Then there was the banging of the leaves as they were hit by the morning wind. Bang, Bang, Bang—I thought they would never stop.

The worst thing was the terrible odor of the morning dew on the lawn, disgustingly clean and fresh.

How can you people face these horrors morning after morning? Why don't you all try to join the night people for awhile and share with us the joys of night life?

Together we could listen to the soft whisper of police sirens, and the gentle hum of truck tires gliding along the interstate.

We could sit back and relax to the melodious tune coming from the house down the block where a band student, who forgot until midnight that he needed to practice on his coronet, is now getting ready for the big concert.

Share with us the silver-toned cacophony of the nightly fight between the couple who live two blocks away. Then, to really embrace the evening, inhale deeply the delicate fragrance of diesel fuel mixed with the lovely aroma wafting from the nearest feed lot. Ah, night life. There isn't anything quite like it.

HOMEMAKER NEWS

FLOURS - TRY SOMETHING DIFFERENT:

See different flours, but don't know for sure if they'll work in your home-baked breads? Read this, and then try something different. Understanding flour is easy with just a few basic facts about each in mind:

ALL PURPOSE WHEAT FLOUR - is uniquely suited to bread-making because it contains enough gluten to form the delicate elastic framework of the finished product. It's a mixture of hard and soft wheat flours usually. However, it can be milled entirely from soft wheat - and, if so, it would not be suitable for bread making.

GENERAL GUIDELINES ABOUT FLOUR - Most of the flours and bakery products are enriched with thiamin, niacin, riboflavin and iron - to restore nutrients lost when the bran and germ were removed from the kernel during milling.

Whole-wheat flour is the exception here - enrichment of it isn't needed because whole-grain flours contain all nutrients naturally present in the grain. Whole-grain flours and cereal grains provide fiber in the diet, so they're good for you. Eating foods high in fiber tends to reduce symptoms of chronic constipation, diverticulosis and some types of "irritable bowel."

IMPORTANT NOTE - Also, remember you can use some flours alone for bread-making, and you can use others only if you combine them with all-purpose flour. How to do this appears below in the section on combining flours.

SELF-RISING FLOUR - is all-purpose flour with added leavening and salt. It is NOT suited for yeast breads, but it is convenient for quick breads.

UNBLEACHED FLOUR - is all-purpose flour which as its natural whiteness. It is fine for bread-making and its nutritional value and gluten content are similar to all-purpose flour. In unbleached flour, simply, no bleaching agent was used to increase the degree of whiteness, and the difference between it and all-purpose flour in terms of whiteness is only slight.

CAKE FLOUR - is milled from soft wheat into a very fine and uniform flour especially suited to the tender, delicate character of cakes. Cake flour is NOT suited to bread-making due to the high percentage of soft wheat used in it, and it is lower in protein than all-purpose flour.

Whole wheat flour is ground from the entire wheat kernel and includes all the natural nutrients, as we mentioned above. You can use it alone or in combination with all-purpose flour for bread-making. Alone, it will make a firmer loaf.

GRAHAM FLOUR - is coarsely ground whole-wheat flour. It works alone or in combination with all-purpose flour. Alone, it will make a firmer loaf.

RYE FLOUR - is ground from the endosperm, inner part of the rye kernel. Do not use it alone for bread-making.

PUMPERNICKEL RYE GRAHAM FLOUR - is a coarse-texture flour ground from the entire rye kernel. Do not use it alone for bread-making.

MASA FLOUR (tortilla flour) - is made from corn treated with lime water. Then it's ground and dehydrated. Do not use it for making yeast breads.

It's exciting to combine different flours for different bread creations, but you must know how. Here are some brief guidelines:

Whole-wheat and graham flours can be used interchangeably in recipes - substituting up to 60 percent of these flours in the place of all-purpose flour in the recipe. Or you can use them alone, as we said above. On the other hand, you must use some all-purpose flour in recipes that also call for other flours, cereal grains or meals such as soy, rolled oats, cornmeal. 10 know exactly how these combinations work, use recipes that call SPECIFICALLY for the ingredients you want to use.

Now - try something different!
