If you think the weather has been warm, uncomfortable so, this past week, brace yourself. Summer doesn't start until June 21. So that's a month almost to get ready for spring, no matter how hot it is.

Hot weather arrives and everyone has recovered from spring fever. I am really able to tolerate the heat every year, but the first norther hits.

People keep telling me that having your house tipped means that you are liked. So, when I looked out one morning last week and saw hundreds of members of toilet tissue coming from my trees and shrubs, I was pleased that I was well liked.

I went all over town looking at yards. Not one place had as much tissue falling from trees and shrubs as our yard, so I decided that I was without a doubt the most well liked person in town. In fact almost everyone in town drove by to look at the decorations. I noted and felt sure that they were all green with envy. In fact, I felt sure that deep down they were hurt that they weren't as well liked as I was.

When I arose a few mornings later to find that the gremlins had come again in the wee hours and had rolled dozens of rolls of toilet tissue from the trees and bushes. I was a little put out, but I kept telling myself that it was only because they liked me so well.

When I returned from a bridge game Tuesday night, there it was again. This time I began to feel that being so well liked was becoming a burden. Unless I have done it, you can't imagine what a chore it is to move toilet tissue from trees and bushes.

I was in the yard with a rake yesterday at noon when L. D. Kirby, my next neighbor, came out of his house into his immaculate yard and informed me that I shouldn't be so popular. After he left and I was working up a lather trying to get the stuff out of the top of my trees, I got to thinking about what a burden it really is to be that well liked. Everytime I managed to rake down a piece of the tissue, eaves, pecans and other came with it. I finally managed to clear a pecan tree of the tissue. However, I took every leaf on it to the trash.

After I finally gave up, I came to the conclusion that I must have no enemies. My friends like mine, by whom I am so well liked, must needs enemies?

Several of the business places in town will be closed tomorrow in observance of Memorial Day. However, we will be open for business as usual along with the Boot and Saddlery, the grocery store, service stations and others.

We are pleased to have Bailey Post, eminent authority on flowers and gardening, contributing a weekly column for the garden club on tips for gardeners. She will be glad to answer any questions about gardening you might have. If you have a question, write down and drop it by the club or mail it to us. She will answer all questions in the column the following week.

Court Appoints New Members To County Boards

In a double session this month the Commissioners Court approved appointments to the various county boards, appointed Dr. Randle Coker to the county health officer post, discussed the acceptance of Crockett County Hospital in the Medicare program and appointed personnel for the three swimming pools which will open the first week in June.

New members of the Crockett County Hospital board are Joe Couch, Mrs. Vic Montgomery, and Sam Penner. Holdover members include Mrs. Lindsey Hicks, J. G. Hufstедler and Richard Flowers. At a recent meeting Flowers was elected chairman of the board and Mrs. Montgomery, secretary.

Four new Park Board members were appointed. Mrs. Joe Clayton, Jamie Knox, Mrs. Ruben Whitehead and John Lee (Sonny) Henderson. Holdover members include Erby Chandler, Byron Stuart and Mike Miller. Chandler has been chairman of the board the past year. The new board has not organized as yet.

The Coliseum board met Tuesday night to organize for the coming year. New members include Jesus Castro, Eddie Prieto, Dan McBroom and Mrs. Bruce Mayfield. Holdover members are Mrs. Bob Bailey, George Glynn, Mrs. Roy Thompson and Mrs. James Dockery.

Glynn was elected chairman at the meeting with Mrs. Bailey, vice chairman. Mrs. Thompson was elected to the post of secretary and Mrs. Dockery was retained as chairman of youth activities with Mrs. Mayfield co-chairman.

Members of the court are in the process of securing another doctor to fill the vacancy created by the recent death of Dr. Lloyd Sherrill. Dr. Coker is assisting the court in this endeavor and it is possible that an announcement of another new doctor for Ozona may be made.

Hospital Gets Certification For Medicare

Crockett County Hospital has received special Certification for participation in the Medicare Program, Lee Rheubottom, administrator, was informed in a letter received May 20, from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare at Washington.

Special Certification is granted in situations when the denial of eligibility to participate in the Medicare Program would seriously limit the access of beneficiaries to participating hospitals. This type of certification is effective for a period not to exceed twelve months.

Crockett County Hospital's acceptance into the program is effective as of February 19, 1969, which means that patients admitted on or after February 19, 1969, that were eligible to participate in the Medicare Program will receive benefits of the Medicare Program. Although certification is for a period not to exceed twelve months the hospital will be reinspected prior to the next expiration date, and if it is found to be in substantial compliance with the Medicare Program at that time, will probably be recertified with a Special Certification for another year. The continuation of the Special Certification will depend on the hospital taking appropriate steps to remedy its correctable deficiencies.

DISILLUSIONED WITH DESERTERS

Just as draft evaders head north for the safety of Canada, military deserters in Europe seek asylum in Sweden.

Many such deserters and draft dodgers find themselves in a deeper dilemma as a consequence of their flights. Some discover that they aren't cut out for life in exile. How to explain to the folks back home? How to erase what can become the lasting stigma of evasion of duty?

Equally important, will these confused youngsters always be welcome in their new homes? We don't know about the Canadians, but there are growing signs of disillusionment in Sweden. Many Swedish citizens are becoming hostile to deserters who have taken refuge in their country. A recent meeting of anti-war Swedes in support of the deserters was broken up by pro-American Swedes. The pro-American group took the anti-war group's hammer-and-sickle posters and publicly burned them into ashes, a welcome contrast to the too-frequent American flag burnings we have seen in other demonstrations.

Observers report that often the U. S. deserters are not politically motivated. Many are taking refuge to avoid disciplinary action, domestic problems, pregnant girls and other non-military problems. They soon find that the only refuge available in Sweden is offered by the Soviet and North Vietnamese-supported indoctrination farm near Forsaker, Sandviken, north of Stockholm, according to a Copy News Service report. The report states that there is great apprehension in Sweden.

Serving America's Farmers: Providers of Plenty en that the U. S. may get fed up with the official Sweden position on deserters and take counter measures against the government. This could force the Swedes to turn toward the East European nations of the communist bloc, which it appears they do not wish to do.

One alternative would be to close the door to the deserters and return them to the U. S. to face the consequences. We wonder if any Vietnam War veterans would be allowed to sit on the court martial boards.

THE HANGOUT GAME

It becomes more and more difficult to keep up with the endless stream of new groups that spring up overnight. Ad hoc committees are formed but seldom disbanded. They remain in existence formally, but their accomplishments slowly dwindle down.

Name any problem, no matter how small, and there will be a new group to promote or fight it. This group rises mysteriously, silently and fully formed, complete with membership. It's almost as though a file were kept of organizations with rosters and the funds to begin. The group is nameless, but at the proper time, with the correct issue, a name is found. The initials of the organization are important. Anyone can dig up a name for a committee if given the proper initials to work with.

One of the latest such groups is the radical faction now demanding reparations from the churches to repay black militants for the years of slavery. We had never been aware that the church was responsible for the cruel institution of slavery.

Maybe some enterprising group of Christians should go to Italy and make similar demands of the Italian government for the slaughter of the early martyrs.

Next, the Descendants of Martyred Evangelists (DOMES) could go over to Leora and demand reparations for the crucifixion.

For that matter, think of the claims the Jews could make against Germany. The mind wanders. And yet, none of the imaginary missions is less logical than the militants' petition for recovery from the churches.

We commend to the be-nighted group a careful and thoughtful reading of American history. The churches were among the most active leaders in the fight against slavery. To find them culpable now is to overlook documented fact.

FOR US, THE LIVING

Sensing The News

By Thurman Sensing Executive V. P. Southern States Industrial Council An Alliance For Conflict

The labor union movement, which has lost ground in recent years because of blue-collar disenchantment with union bosses and their political plans, is trying for a comeback for forming new alliances with street militants.

The most significant development in this connection is the establishment of the Alliance For Labor Action, a union conglomerate launched by the United Auto Workers and the Teamsters Union.

The ALA, a product of UAW President Walter Reuther's mind, aims at harnessing the "new politics" of community action groups that flourish in the big cities. The Alliance hopes to organize minority voters in so-called "ghetto" areas, pack them on the voter rolls, and apply direct pressure on city councils, school boards and businessmen.

To beef up its operation, the Alliance is fashioning links to the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, the Rev. Ralph Abernathy's street army organization that specializes in community disruption. Walter Reuther already has made a substantial financial contribution to a combined union-SCLC effort to force unionization of public hospital workers in Charleston, S. C.

The Southern States are likely to be the main targets of the first Alliance drives. Union strategists apparently believe that these states, many of them with right-to-work laws, represent a formidable obstacle. If they can be crushed by the Alliance, if their public services are virtually taken over by unions, then resistance in other states to the Union will rapidly crumble. Thus, in a very real sense, the Southern States are the first line of defense against a new and dangerous form of unionism that threatens the liberties of all Americans.

It should be borne in mind that the United Auto Workers has a long history of industrial strife. The UAW was at the heart of grave industrial disturbances in Detroit a generation ago, when the "sit-down" strikes threatened a form of industrial communism in America.

The Teamsters, the other principal partner in the Alliance For Labor Action, is synonymous with union corruption. Vast quantities of evidence have been produced before Congress and state investigating bodies, showing its infiltration by gangster ties. The last two presidents of the Teamsters Union have landed in prison.

Therefore, the prospect for U. S. cities and states subjected to Alliance campaigns is not a pleasant one. It is rendered all the more unpleasant by the involvement of the SCLC in union organizing efforts. What SCLC can furnish the Alliance are the bully-boys of civil disobedience, the professional militants who abuse the right of assembly and create a climate of tension and strife while professing "peace" and "non-violence."

Cities and states face the danger of paralyzing disturbances that require the use of police and National Guardsmen on a large scale and at great expense. Even relatively small bands of marchers, protesters and placard-waving union organizers can interrupt the normal life of a community and deflect a state from important business.

Small businessmen — operators of retail stores and manufacturing shops with a limited number of employees — are likely to feel considerable harassment from the operations of the Alliance. Merchants may be exposed to intimidation and to shake-downs for contributions. One trick may be a "request" that merchant buy advertising in a special "strike" newspaper issued by a union-street demonstrator organization.

The time to deal with threats is before they mushroom and get out of hand. Business groups would be well advised to carefully consider now what new laws will be needed to assure a wider measure of community peace and to handle the more subtle types of intimidation and economic blackmail that organizers and protesters may resort to in the year ahead.

State legislatures may find it useful to conduct in-depth investigations of alliances between union organizers and demonstrators and to hold public hearings at which disruptionists are subpoenaed to testify. A basic need is public understanding of the new plans being made to disrupt peaceful, progressive states.

The ambitions of the Alliance For Labor Action could only hamper the orderly economic and industrial growth of America and retard the progress of our society, which is based on evolution rather than revolution. Thus the Alliance is bad news for the American people.

Washington News Letter

Congressman O. C. Fisher

The Choice of Warren E. Burger to be Chief Justice of the U. S. Supreme Court is rated as excellent. While it is true that some men who ascend to such heights are prone to change their normal judicial habits, those who know him best insist that will not be true with Judge Burger.

The nominee, appointed by President Eisenhower to the U. S. Court of Appeals in the District of Columbia, has during the 13 years of judicial service risen to the top in terms of courage, ability, and devotion to the Constitution. Indeed it is doubtful if President Nixon could have found a more qualified and judicial-minded man for the job anywhere in the land. Judge Burger is a staunch law-and-order man.

By this one appointment, Mr. Nixon has established himself as a chief executive who in picking judges can be expected to put quality and capacity for judicial restraint ahead of politics. At least he has made a great beginning.

While campus disturbances have captured the public's attention in recent months, we are on occasions reminded of the long series of Negro riots which swept the country a year or two ago. More than 100 outbursts of major proportions were recorded, with damages exceeding a billion dollars plus many deaths and wholesale vandalism.

Only recently an official report was announced concerning a survey of the Washington, D. C. riot of April, 1968. It revealed a total over-all damage of $57-million, which was about double previous estimates. And the Washington riot compared with Watts, Detroit, Newark, and some others, was rated relatively mild.

Before I had a chance to say, "Guess who," Jack knew it was I. We're like that — maybe it's because we're twins.

We've always been close. When we were small, we had a private adventureland out in our back woods. Hardly a day went by that Jack didn't help me out of some scrape. He was the one who was able to entice me down from that tree when I fell halfway from the top — and lay paralyzed with fright between two branches. I bailed him out of several misadventures, too.

When it came to college — we chose the same one. And it's been nice. Every now and then we get together and talk out our problems, just as we always have. We go to church together, too.

We're glad Mom and Dad made the Church an important part of our lives. When we think of graduation and the inevitable parting of our ways, it's good to know that each of us has an ever-present source of strength and guidance in God and His Church.

CoC Director Teams To Head Member Drive

At the regular monthly meeting of the directors of the Ozona Chamber of Commerce, a membership campaign was authorized in an effort to swell the membership of the organization with both business and individual members.

In an effort to make the drive as effective as possible, the directors decided on a contest among themselves, dividing the board of directors into two equal teams to form membership drive teams.

The two teams are to be captained by Wayne Lory and team No. 1 and L. D. Kirby of team No. 2 Captains were chosen by membership drive team.

On Team No. 1 under Captain Lory will be Jim Marks, Lawrence James, Ray C. O. Waker and Mrs. Barbara Burnett. On Kirby's team will be Byron Williams, E. Rutherford, Johnny Jones, Pete Jacoby and Mrs. Hazelstein.

The contest will end July 1. Contest stakes are steaks for the losing team to provide a steak dinner for the winners while they themselves dine on soup, crackers and water. The incentive expected to be strong enough that a non-member of the Chamber of Commerce will have small chance of success.

President Jim Marks presented at the business meeting and announced plans are under way to produce a hunter's guide for the benefit of deer hunters this fall.

Recipient May Order Offensive Mailing Stopped

Postmaster Floyd Hokit advised postal patrons this week that something can be done about morally offensive mail. A new Federal law provides that anyone receiving such mail may have their name removed from the sender's mailing list.

Parents may have their children's names removed from such mailing lists if the child receiving the offensive literature is under 19 years of age. The postal patron is the sole judge of whether the material is offensive to him.

Take the offensive matter, along with the envelope in which it was mailed to the post office, to initiate an order. No sealed mailing may be submitted as the basis for a request for a prohibitory order if it must have been opened.

A form must be obtained from the post office, filled in and signed by the complainant, and sent along with the material to the post office Department. The department in turn sends a "prohibitory order" directing the sender to refrain from any further mailing of the material to the complaining patron.

The patron must bring a copy of the order to the attention of the postmaster who issued the order. Along with the order, the complainant should bring the material and its envelope. The order is effective thirty days after the offender receives the order.

If the mailer still fails to comply with the order, the postmaster General will request the Attorney General to bring a Federal court order.

TIPS For Gardeners

From The Ozona Garden Club

Spring flowering shrubs should be pruned now as they finish blooming (mock orange, dogwood, bridal wreath).

Plant zinnias, marigolds, salvia, portulaca and periwinkle for heavy bloom during the hot months. Also, plant dahlias for fall bloom.

Finish dividing and re-set iris or wait until August or September.

Pinch back tips on coleus, Joseph's Coat and crysanthemums for lower branching, shapely plants and more bloom.

Apply mulches to conserve moisture in flower beds (dried grass clippings, peat moss, cotton burrs, peanut hulls, prairie hay or fine gravel). You will be surprised at the amount of water saved.

Continue spraying for all pests such as red spider, aphids and bagworms. A little spray now will eliminate these pests easily. Also watch for mildew on roses and use a fungicide spray or dust.

From now through summer gather seed pots, grasses and grain, both green and mature for dried material in the fall. Hang in shady, airy place upside down to dry.

WASHINGTON AND SMALL BUSINESS

The Ambush As everyone seems to agree, the Viet Cong would not go too well trying to stand up to the American fighting men in a direct confrontation. So, with a great deal of wily guile, they have done a great deal of damage with ambushes.

But this use of ambush is not really confined to the Viet Cong. Certain elements of the American Federal Bureaucracy also employ plenty of ambush, especially in the Department of Labor. The handiest ambush device is a publication known as the Federal Register.

It is a very simple matter for a bureau to publish some order in the Federal Register and thus not have these matters exposed to a bunch of nasty newsmen who might take issue with the bureaucratic interpretations of laws passed by the Congress. The Federal Register probably does not enjoy a much wider readership than Collier's magazine does today.

Into this Federal Register on October 17, 1967, the Wage and Hour Administration of the Labor Department issued an edict putting under the wage/hour law certain classifications of business even if their volume did not reach $50,000 per year at that time, or the $250,000 dollar per year volume that now applies.

Among this listing was certain service stations. Now while service stations, generally, are classified as "retail" establishments and thus exempt to some degree, if these service stations do a good part of their business filling the fuel tanks of trucks, even trucks that never cross state lines, they are no longer "retailers" but are engaged in interstate commerce.

It was of course, a long time between October 17, 1967 until about the end of 1968 when auditors of the Labor Department descended on those service stations.

Demand was put upon them to pay time and a half for any past or present employees for any hours worked over forty hours per week. If the operators had been paying well above the minimum wage, the time and a half is being computed at the actual wage rate, with the operators told they should have not paid more than the minimum wage. It would probably be well for any employer to write his Congressman asking for a copy of Part 779 (29CFR) as published in the Federal Register of October 17, 1967 before a time bomb explodes on them.

For included are such employers as local Chambers of Commerce, accounting firms, private detectives, credit bureaus, ambulance service, commercial art firms, letter shops, investment counselors, messengers services, and many others. Although the ambush has already been set up it is possible that some firms, forewarned, can take steps to minimize the damage that will result when the trap is sprung.

On the final day of the season at Mike Clayton's ranch, Eddie Ramos, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Ramos, sheared 100 sheep. Next was Pepe Flores with 65 sheep. He is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Jose Flores. Chapo Leal, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jose Leal, sheared on his last day 75 sheep.
