All Ozonans need to get to the city every now and then in order to really appreciate the town we live in.

We visited our son, Jim, in Austin last week, and getting back to uncrowded, quiet and peaceful Ozona was really a pleasure.

I've always considered Austin a rather small town, or small to medium. However, the pace last weekend almost got me down.

Jim was out of pocket when we got there, so Tom drove me around town. He makes me Ugly, stingy old Sganarelle nervous in traffic at best, and wants to marry his ward, that traffic was "the worst" to say the least. Springtime

The world of nature, coming to life around us now, a beauty beyond the capacity of mortal man is here to be appreciated.

Spring is a time of hope, baseball, summer dreams, pretty girls in pretty dresses and exhibaration over the warming weather and the end of winter.

A close observation of the many miracles on all sides of us in every field and forest and hillside can restore one's strength and peace of mind, and bring tranquility and humbleness to every thinking individual.

Playboy Stuff

Playboy, a men's magazine, recently featured an interview with a New York torpedo, a killer for hire. The man confessed to having already been hired to kill more than twenty people.

Such journalism raises anew questions about reporters' rights. Many newsmen argue courts have no right to compel them to reveal sources of information or news.

Yet if a reporter knows the identity of a killer (perhaps ofits from writing about him) should be not be rec report such information to the police, for the good of the community?

As is true in the field of national security, it becomes clear on sober reflection that there can be no absolute immunity for newsmen in dealings with criminals. Freedom of the press must be safeguarded; but the public interest can sometimes dictate that they testify. The Supreme Court, an independent body, is the logical final tribunal to determine

Common Sense & Women

The U.S. Government is now seeking, in court, to force the Pittsburgh Press to stop printing its want ads under, "Jobs, Female Interest" and "Jobs, Male Interest."

The absurdity of the current American kick to make everyone the same is thus still at fever pitch. Everyone knows women and men are inclined, for various reasons, to favor certain jobs. For example, most families seeking a nurse for children prefer a female. Most people seeking yard or heavy work help prefer a male.

The Pittsburgh Press, in listing jobs according to the usual preference, isn't discriminating against anyone. Neither the Press nor employers are allowed, by law, to discriminate sexually in hiring. And everyone is free to read the job listings--and to apply.

Yet the Justice Department is now spending time, and the taxpayers' money, seeking to force the Press to ignore these natural preferences, in the name of women's lib.

As with the current constitutional amendment selling the idea women and men are the same, the majority of Americans, men and women, do not believe it, and are not in favor of it. But the agitators and militants, and politicians, are

Nixon & Housewives

At his latest news conference President Nixon advised American housewives to discriminate in their food purchases, so that demand for the more expensive meats and other foods now selling at greatly inflated prices, will ease.

The President, in rejecting price controls on food, says they won't work and would instead likely produce a black market. He believes housewives, by refusing to buy foods priced excessively high, can do more to ease inflationary pressures than controls

If enough American housewives heed the President's words, demand for highly expensive foods can indeed be eased, and prices will inevitably recede. Of course, this reaction will last only a limited time--perhaps six months

The President believes by that time several measures already initiated to increase the food supply will have reduced food prices. The American housewife should cooperate in this effort. If by the end of the year it has not worked, the call for controls will probably be irresistible.

Washington News Letter

Congressman O. C. Fisher

Should the death penalty be restored as an alternate punishment for crime?

That issue was revived by President Nixon's recent special message on crime, when he recommended resumption of capital punishment and also called for no-bail drug prosecutions, and a sharply curtailed use of the insanity defense in federal cases.

To meet the Supreme Court decision on the subject, new laws to allow the death penalty must differentiate between offenses which involved mitigation and those which do not.

The President included cases of war-time treason to invoke the death penalty.

I fully support the President's recommendations. I am convinced that having in the law capital punishment as an alternate punishment for crime is indeed a deterrent Criminals don't like to face that kind of music, and the fact they know they may get the electric chair will often cause them to have second thoughts when they plan their evil designs.

A few days ago in nearby Maryland four thugs pulled a daylight robbery during which they forced 25 hostages into an 8-by-12 foot restroom, and after being surrounded by officers they fired indiscriminately into the group of helpless hostages. One robber was quoted as saying to the vict-

What we do know is that from the beginning of time man, with all his ingenuity. has never discovered a means of preventing crime except by the example of punishment -- and the degree of possible punishment is a major factor. et's concern ourselves with the innocent who have not been killed and who have a right to live.

Obstructing an Officer Without any doubt, punching a policeman in the nose would amount to the crime of "obstructing an officer." But what about the assorted lesser confrontations that arise daily between citizen and constable? Where does the law draw the line?

Generally speaking, you may be guilty of this offense even if you do not resort to any force at all. Take the case of a youthful demonstrator who "went limp' when the police ordered him to climb into a patrol wagon. Charged later with obstructing an officer, he argued that he could not be punished for simply

Nevertheless, the court found him guilty as charged. The court said his refusal to obey a lawful order not only delayed and obstructed his own arrest but also delayed and obstructed the arrest that these actions, added together, did constitute the offense of obstructing an officer.

This does not mean, however, that a policeman has to be treated with kid gloves. Reasonable remonstrance is within a citizen's

In another case, while a man was being placed under arrest in a tavern, his wife informed the police-with vigor-that they had no right to take him away. Still, she did not interfere physically with the arrest. Nor did she use threatening language.

Haled into court for obstructing an officer, the woman was found not guilty of any offense. The court said: "Policemen are no more exempt

Spray Cans Are A Potential Home Hazard

Consumers handle potential bombs daily as aerosol spray cans--yet display few precautionary measures.

ricultural Extension Service. Texas A&M University, noted. "But used improperly, they can become extremely danger-

'Aerosols work on the principle that product and propell-Mullan and their families, now ant--liquefied gas--are mixed in a container.

When the push button mechanism is pressed, the propellant exerts pressure on the mix- that as a result of programs ture in the can, forcing it up and out the valve. "As it enters the atmosphere, the propellant converts to vapor-malignancies have been detproducing the familiar spray or ected in time for cure. foam effect, " Mrs. Myers explained.

A great variety of products are available as aerosols. "Today, an individual can instantly prepare hors d'oeuvres, decorate a dessert, clean the oven or paint furniture -all at a touch of his or her fingertip.

*However, besides being versatile, aerosols can cause njuries -- even death.

A major hazard is danger of explosion when containers are exposed to extreme heat. Heat causes the propellant to expand and explosions result. Even empty containers may explode when heated -- due to expansion of any propellant remaining inside.

"Another danger involves flammability," the specialist continued, Many products are lammable if sprayed near an open flame

"Still others' fumes are toxic when inhaled--such as insecticides.

"Even the most common pro fucts may cause skin and eye irritations when misdirected.

he added. "Aerosol product labels furn ish specific instructions and warnings concerning contents, use and disposal.

"Some aerosols are made for specific uses and should be handled only certain ways. Therefore, read the entire label before using the product -observe all warnings and follow directions, Before disposing an aerosol container, hold its valve open until all remaining product and gas escape. Place container with non-burnable trash-never in an incinerator. "Store aerosols away from heat and out of the reach of children, " Mrs. Myers emphas-

Within the last few years, numerous youngsters have died from inhaling aerosol vapors in highly concentrated amounts. Inhalation in many cases was intentional -- in attempts to get 'high'. Hair spray was the household product used most often. Therefore, parents should alert all young people to the extreme danger of 'sniffing' aerosols or any other product," the specialist concluded. --0--WANTED - Lady to take care of

Dear Friends of Crockett Co:

Though the conquest of cancer has become a national goal more than 650, 000 new cancer cases will be diagnosed this year. Many of these will be saved. Indeed, there are at least 1, 500, 000 Americans, alive and well, who have been cured of cancer.

Most people know the pio-neering role of the American Cancer Society in cancer research; but, we don't think enough people know about the work of the ACS in helping to rehabilitate cancer patients. Tens of thousands of American women get breast cancer and most of them are saved by

For instance, of inestimable value is the Reach to Recovery Program of the Society. This helps women who have had such surgery overcome the difficult psychological problems that follow surgery as well as advising the patient on the use and availability of prostheses and of exercises which can help the woman to return more rapaidly to normal family and community life. This free help is now available here in District Four upon request of the patient through her doctor.

Equally dramatic is the way the ACS helps those who have lost their voice boxes to cancer surgery -- laryngectomees, they are called -- learn to talk again.

The last 20 years have seen important advances in the treatment of cancer resulting from research. There have been improved surgical techniques and radiation therapy. In some instances, drugs have been effective against certain types of cancer and many cientists say that we have entered the era of significant development of drugs against cancer.

The role of education must not be underestimated. We know of actual cases, this year, given in Crockett County, persons have sought the advice of their doctors early and

So, when a volunteer comes to your home or business during this year's Cancer Crusade remember that the Society's programs not only seek to wipe out cancer in your lifetime but help improve the quality of survival. According to a report of the National Bureau of Information, of the twelve major health agencies, the American Cancer Society allocates the largest percentage of funds raised to research.....make your dollars work for YOU! A generous gift to the ACS is an investment in your own

From the

Ozona Garden Club Mrs. Bailey Post

March is the last month recommended for planting and transplanting trees unless balled and burlapped.

There's still time to plant the above through April if soil is well prepared and a hole twice as that required for the root system or balled plants.

As flowers begin to fade on spring bulbs, remove the flower stalk. Do not cut the foliage, however, as it produces food for the development of a new bulb.

Begin watering new roses regularly and deep. If you planted bare-root roses, they may be a little slower showing leaf growth than established

After dust storms, if you will wash shrub foilage with a strong spray of water, you may prevent the appearance of red spider and other insects.

If you plant by the moon, perhaps you have planted vegetables that produce food above the gound. Wait until dark of the moon to plant your root vegetables, potatoes, radishes, beets, etc.
Bluebonnets are beginning to bloom so watch for their display of blooms along the highways and hill sides.

Move houseplants from stronger sunshine if they prefet subdued lighting. Most plants that do not bloom are in this class, along with the African Plants that are not to be repotted will benefit from top dressing with fresh, rich soil, after as much as possible of the old surface soil has been removed as can be, without doing too much damage to the roots.

Next month will be cleanup time for Ozona. Start grooming your home grounds, and nearby unsightly areas. If everyone will enter this civic project we will again be called the cleanest and most beautiful small city in Texas. There are still many tall, dead weeds in places where the county mowers could not get to, so try to help get rid of this fire hazard. The date of the county pick-up will be announced at a later time.

Begin now to assure a more thorough job than if you wait until the last week.

Ties for Gordonors Texas 4-Hers To National CAFETERIA MENU ConferenceInWashington

Four Texas 4-H'ers will be representing the state's 120, 000-member youth organization during the 1973 National 4-H Conference, April 15-20, in Washington, D. C., one from the Crockett Co. Chapter, Elizabeth Zapata.

Most meat sections of the grocery store offer consumers a variety of ground beef at different prices and qualities. "Before buying, consumers should consider ground beef differences and use". Ground beef differences range from hamburger to chopped sirloin.

1. Hamburger generally combines lean beef from lower grades of meat with trimmings--or fat cuts-from higher grades. Although it usually contains the most fat and sells for the least price, hamburger makes good spaghetti, chili, meat loat and casseroles.

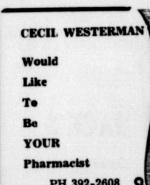

2. Ground chuck, has less fat, more lean meat, and shrinks less during cooking. This is good for hamburgers and salisbury steak.

3. The third type is ground round. The fat is closely trimmed, and it's especially good for weight watchers. Also, it's more expensive than either hamburger or ground chuck, and, with its low fat content, ground round may be less tender and juicy than other kinds.

4. Ground or chopped sirloin is the most expensive of four ground beef types offered. It is used in special recipes and deluxe burgers. Many consumers find sirloin very similar to ground chuck.

Be sure to consider how you plan to prepare and serve ground beef. In many cases, a less expensive type is just as suitable as a more expensive one.

Have a happy day and we hope this week's section on ground beef will be helpful. Next week we will take a look at "Handling Ground Beef".

state winners last fall on the basis of their overall accomplishments in 4-H projects and activities. Expense-paid trips are being sponsored by Pennzoil United, Inc.

About 200 youngsters from all over the country will be participating in the conference with its theme 4-H Gets It All Together." Traditionally, the gathering served as a means of recognizing outstanding 4-H members and giving them a chance to learn about citizenship and leadership.

Several years ago the scope of the conference widened when some emphasis was redirected to strengthen advisor-youth involvement. Now, delegates have opportunities to speak out on critical issues that affect them.

One highlight of the conference will be on All States Day when the 4-H'ers will visit with their congressmen and senators.

Miss Zapata has completed projects in 10 demonstration areas during her nine years in 4-H. She has served as president of the Tejas 4-H Club, won first place honors in county and district food shows, and attended the National 4-H Congress as a first place winner in the State Health Program. The Dreams of Spring

In a way it is too bad Tennyson gave the world his classic verse about a young man's fancy. The dreams of Spring are not only for young men . . . and they're not only thoughts of leve.

In many ways Spring awakens new hopes in every heart. The surge of life is renewed. Old frustrations are forgotten. The targets of happiness seem nearer. This is particularly true during Lent

It's a good time to think. And from our thinking to plan how best to pursue the goals we really cherish. Spring, and Lent, is a good time to go to church . . . or to go back to church if you've been away awhile . . . Spring is a good time to seek the Source of resurgent living.

Higher Prices Are In Store For Food Imports

"It's going to cost more to flavor the soup. But agricul-tural exports should get a boost from the recent devaluation of the U. S. dollar." That's the opinion of Dr. Roland Smith, grain marketing specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

"The 10 percent dollar devaluation will mean higher prices for certain imported food and fiber products such as spices, vanilla, pepper, coffee, uled his April visit to Ozona. tea, bananas, cocoa, silk and rubber. These changes should be immediately apparent.

"On the other hand, the agricultural export situation is difficult to analyze as world money markets are still unsettled. However, the devalued dollar means that U.S. products tion may contact him at this are now cheaper abroad so we may be able to sell more agricultural commodities in foreign countries, " points out Smith.

Transportation problems-congested ports and rail car shortages -- are presently providing a cushion against any major changes in exports due to the cheaper dollar, notes Smith,

Would an earlier devaluation have boosted export sales even more than those recently consummated?

"Not necessarily, " says Smith. "The U.S. was the only country that had sufficient grain supplies to meet the increased demand due to failing crops. Most countries had few alternatives to satisfy their needs."

In the long run, the fact that U.S. products are cheaper abroad may result in increased exports to the extent of causing some price reflection in the domestic market. This will vary from year to year according to the supply of the commodities involved. Typically, products in tight supply situations will be affected more by
