THURSDAY, APRIL 7, 1938

TWENTY-ONE YEARS AGO

Twenty-one years ago, April 6, 1917, the United States declared war on Germany and the Central Powers. It was the will of the nation. On that fateful April day, all America was convinced that it was our duty to help save the world for democracy, to join the war to end war.

So the hands played, the people cheered, and the boys marched off to the tune of "Over There." They didn't know then the striking symphony of shells crashing through the sky, the stabbing pain of shrapnel wounds, the mud and stench and slaughter of fighting and dying over there.

Neither did we—men! Today we know. We know the world war brought death to thousands of young Texans. We know it brought tragedy and disaster to thousands of Texas mothers, fathers, wives, and children. We know it brought in its wake the ravages of depression which today choke the earth.

On that April day in 1917, we did not think of these things. We had not seen our men come home blinded and unable to walk. We did not know of the forces unleashed in a world lashed with war.

Cavalry, Old-Fashioned and Modern

But today we know these things. We have seen, heard and felt them—and we have not forgotten. It is certain that America would fight to protect its shores and homes. But spend our youth, money and future on foreign battlefields? Not Never again!

We have not forgotten. May we never forget.

THE WORLD MOVES ON

Beneath the splurge of headlines blantly captioning the news of this jittery age, silently and methodically, the world moves on. As the news of yesterday fades into the dusty records of the past, the pattern of life, woven from the life-threads of average humans, remains much the same.

Yet the headlines of yesterday do cast their shadows on the chapter marked "Today" in millions of average lives. In Russia seventeen die for treason. One of those seven was Dr. D. Pletnyeff, a great heart specialist. Who can tell how many average Russians are today dying in anguish because that scientific asset was liquidated?

Suicides Mount in Austria! One by one a financial tycoon, a university professor, a bank director, an historian, and a former vice chancellor take their own lives in a final protest against the Nazification of their homes. Headlines yesterday, what their loss means today, only tomorrow can tell.

France Breaks Loyalist Lines! In cities and villages, ruined churches and museums hold the slashed remnants of art treasures—El Greco and Goya. Schools, factories, offices tumble in piles of broken stones. Their destruction made yesterday's headlines. Today their loss makes headlines.

Great events do shape the pattern of the passing parade. Yesterday's acts of violence mark the lives of today—even as the world moves on!

BACKYARD BLINDNESS

Now that the bounds of Spring are tugging at the leash, let's keep our eyes peeled for that pesky ailment, backyard blindness.

Sometimes it's a bit difficult to see our own backyard as others see it, but let's try to make a visitor's eye-view of our own domain.

Now, if ever, is the time to spruce that yard up in Spring garb, to annihilate the weeds before they capture it, to prod the fresh, rain soaked earth and ready it for a Spring garden.

Now, if ever, is the time to demolish any of the trash, the piles of old boxes that have been wintering in the garage or stacked in tumble-down fashion alongside it, while winter's bludgeonings held sway.

At this season Mother Nature stages a new edition of her brightest, most spectacular show, featuring the blossoms and green shoots of Spring.

In keeping with the season, let's show ourselves and our neighbors, a brand new edition of the backyard. Just two hours' effort will prove to be a quick acting remedy for curing that ailment of backyard blindness.

And when we see the results of the clean-up foray, we are likely to declare most emphatically, "The eyes have it!"

HOUSE AND HOUSTON

On the battlefield where once the army of General Sam Houston won the independence of the Lone Star state, today stands a 564-foot monument in stone to Texas. In a fresh Houston grave rests the mortal remains of a second monument to Texas, a quiet little man who carried the name of his native state into the councils of the world, Colonel Edward M. House.

Born in Houston on July 26, 1858, Colonel House grew with Texas, married a Texas girl, and winning fame as "the little grey man from Texas," moved mysteriously through the international complications of the war years. Returning from the labors of eight decades to rest in Texas soil, Colonel House brings honor even in death to the land he loved so well.

Colonel House, in the twentieth century, carried on the tradition of public service begun by General Houston in the nineteenth. Different in many ways, alike in others, they each knew the hand of tragedy in their later years. For Houston, the question of secession brought discouragement and deposition from office. For House, the World War years brought a sudden schism with the man he served best, Woodrow Wilson, a schism which Colonel House himself described as "a mystery that can never be dispelled."

The monument which today rises from the plains of San Jacinto to the glory of its lone star pinnacle, is dedicated to the valiant 800 whose shot and shell routed the army of Santa Anna. Yet in a very real sense, that shaft of stone honors the men and women of today and yesterday, men and women like Sam Houston and Colonel House, men and women whose lives were and are the finest monuments to a Texas that lives.

BATTER UP!

Crack! Out from the plate goes a line drive into center field! With the President on hand to give his official sanction and thousands of fans to roar, "It's a hit!", this week will see the start of 1938's baseball season.

From now until the last "Out!" is called in October, it's a case of "Slide, Kelly, Slide." "Wow! What a homer," and "Kill the Umpire!" With hot dogs and soft drinks as the bill-of-fare, America sits down to enjoy the thrills of the king of summer sports.

And if you've time for a serious thought—along about the seventh inning stretch—remember that when nine million fans can pay $15 million to see the two major leagues play—things can't be too bad with this old U. S.

MILLIONS OF POUNDS HAVE BEEN USED BY OUR GOVERNMENT

THE WORLD THIS WEEK

By Robert Patterson

NO OIL NO SILVER!

A polite, but telling, international slugfest is being waged between the United States and Mexico. Following his super-New Deal program, President Cardenas of Mexico within the fortnight expropriated $400 million worth of properties belonging to 17 American and other foreign oil companies. While the Mexican government has been cudgeling its brains to find the wherewithal to indemnify the oil companies, who feel as cheerful as if a ton of bricks had landed on their toes, the United States has now proceeded to drop a few bricks of its own on Mexico's collective toes. Genial Uncle Sam has been buying neighbor Mexico's newly mined silver, and paying for it in American dollars. But since April 1, there's been no happy silver lining in the Mexican treasury's pocketbooks. Uncle Sam has stopped buying our neighbor's silver, and knocked down the world price of the metal to boot, leaving Mexico holding the sack — of depreciated silver.

"PASSION FOR ANONYMITY"

As hot a potato as ever popped out of a political bake-oven, President Roosevelt's reorganization bill has barely escaped being speared by the roasting forks of its opponents. No participant in this spearing contest, Col. E. M. House, who died last week, had nearly all the qualifications for one of the jobs which the reorganization bill calls for — a confidential adviser to the president with a "passion for anonymity." This soft-voiced, shy, little Texan, holder of state secrets, intimate of kings and ministers, wielder of a powerful influence upon President Wilson, ever sought to dodge the limelight, to avoid the "fuss and feathers." Deeply loyal to America's war-time president until their friendship was abruptly terminated, Col. House was perhaps not so fortunate as Wilson. In 1919 a firm believer in the future of Europe's new democracies, he lived beyond Wilson's time and saw his profoundest hopes shattered and broken by dictatorship.

MR. AND MRS. SMITH

The Man on the Soapbox speaks often of the "average man," the average man is as mythical as the fabulous jujub. Even so, the farmer, and the manufacturer can't get along without this imaginary person. It's for the average man and his wants that they produce their goods and plant their crops. The latest picture of this average man and his family was published a few days ago, based on recent investigations of the Bureau of Labor Statistics. We find that Mr. and Mrs. Smith spend practically every cent of their earnings, or did in 1936, that Mr. Smith spends nearly as much for clothes as Mrs. Smith (1), that while their diet may not be adequate they are sure to own a radio, and that the biggest outlay among wage earning families was for haircuts. That is how the typical family looked when viewed through a maze of statistics. It may not resemble your family at all, for the average man and his family don't really exist!

BEST BEST-SELLER

Ask the librarian what the current best selling book is. If she answers promptly she may name whatever novel has been topping the month's selling lists. If she pauses a second she will probably name the best seller which year in, year out, faithfully leads the field — the Bible. One of the prime reasons for its leadership is the Gideon Bible Society, which has just completed a check-up tour in various sections of America replacing hotel Bibles. The average life of that sacred book on the hotel dresser is ten years. Yet every year this organization must buy 75,000 new ones to replace the frayed and aging copies — welcome proof to the Gideon Society that the volumes ARE read by hotel guests. And convincing proof, too, that while yesterday's fictional best sellers may have gone with the wind, this imperishable book appears to be outlasting time and its tides.

"THE QUICK HEAT of the new electric ranges banished an old notion that had haunted me... the ancient idea that electric cooking is slow. These new electric ranges are incredibly fast. You can feel the surge of cooking heat the instant you flip the switch. And they...

COST SO LITTLE to operate! The Keeper of the Wampum in our family practically purrs when he gets our electric bills. I cook for a family of five... but from the cost you'd think I got meals for a midget. Automatic controls give me much more free time, and it's so...

WONDERFULLY CLEAN! I could take a pan right off the burner... and use it as a mirror to powder my nose! Blackened utensils, walls and curtains have gone out of my life forever. Kitchen work is much easier. I don't know how I stood it back in the dark ages before we decided to...

GO MODERN with electric cookery. Every woman who tries one of the new electric ranges will know why I fell in love with mine the day that it arrived!"

In this column answers will be given to inquiries as to Texas history and other matters pertaining to the State and its people. Address inquiries to Will H. Mayes, Austin, Texas.

Q. What were the fatalities to both sides in expelling Teran's garrison from Texas in 1832?

A. The only losses to either side were at the Battle of Valasco, where 7 Texans were killed and 17 wounded. Ugartechea reported 7 killed and 19 wounded.

Q. Were the Texas naval and military activities of 1832 regarded in Mexico as revolutionary in character?

A. Although the excitement in Mexico at the expulsion of the Mexican garrisons from Texas was out of proportion to its real importance, it was regarded by Mexican leaders only as a revolt against the Centralist government of Bustamante and as a demonstration of allegiance to Santa Anna and his "Plan of Vera Cruz," thus fulfilling in part the hopes of the Texans as set forth in their "Turtle Bayou Resolutions."

Q. What did the Texans hope and expect from Santa Anna as a result of the expulsion of Bustamante's forces from Texas?

A. Naturally they hoped to get Santa Anna's early endorsement of separate statehood for Texas.

Q. How did the Texans follow up the advantage they had supposedly gained in forcing Ugartechea's withdrawal?

A. By calling a convention of delegates from the various municipalities at San Felipe in October, 1832, at which they stated their grievances and adopted a strong appeal for statehood, in line with the announced policy of Santa Anna in his successful campaign against Bustamante.

Q. Did any favorable results follow the San Felipe convention of 1832?

A. Nothing was accomplished in regard to separate statehood, as Santa Anna began showing a tendency toward centralization soon after getting into office, but efforts at tariff collections in Texas were suspended until 1835, Texas in the meantime holding statehood jointly with Coahuila.

Q. When was the second convention held to petition for statehood and what special grievance was emphasized at this convention?

A. The first petition for separate statehood having been ignored, a second convention was held April 1, 1833, at which the former appeal was repeated, relief from the anti-immigration law of April 6, 1830, was sought and improved mail service was asked. Stephen F. Austin and Juan N. Seguin were delegated to represent Texas before the authorities in Mexico City, a mission upon which Austin started on April 20.

Q. What different views were held as to conventions in Mexico and in Texas?

A. Mexico looked upon conventions as decidedly revolutionary in purpose, while Texas, which inherited the United States viewpoint, regarded them as merely a method of exercising the right of free expression of opinion and of petition for any desired relief.

Q. When did Santa Anna openly discard his statehood plan?

A. On May 23, 1834, he laid aside all pretensions of favoring a federated state government and boldly announced his highly centralistic plan, known as the "Plan of Cuernavaca," which dispelled hopes of most Texans for securing statehood.

Q. What first steps did Santa Anna take to force Texas to accept his plans for centralized government?

A. Upon the reports and recommendations of Col. Juan N. Almonte who had been sent on an inspection trip to Texas, and of Jose de Herrera, his minister of war and navy, Santa Anna early in 1835, sent General Ugartechea to San Antonio, as provic commander with a large command, which was distributed in garrisons at advantageous points in the interior and along the coast of Texas.

Q. How was the San Felipe enabled to attack the Correo?

A. When dawn came the two vessels stood out of range in sight of each other on a calm sea. The Laura steamed to the aid of the San Felipe and towed it into rifle range of the Correo, which soon was forced to surrender, and the San Felipe took it with its cargo as a prize.

Q. On what charge were Lieut. Thompson and the Correo's crew taken to New Orleans?

A. Thompson did not have with him a commission in the Mexican navy, and Capt. W. A. Hurd put him and his crew under arrest on a charge of piracy. The United States registry of the San Felipe gave the Federal court at New Orleans jurisdiction, but after being kept in jail for some time, the prisoners were released.

Q. In what activity was the Bravo engaged when captured by the Williams Robbins?

A. The Bravo, in command of Lieutenant Mateo, had chased ashore an American schooner, the Hannah Elizabeth, loaded with two cannon and munitions for the Texas army at San Antonio, and was trying to float it when it was taken by the William Robbins.

Q. Why was piracy on Mexican vessels under authorized letters of marque and reprisal discontinued?

A. It proved unprofitable to the privateers and aroused the indignation of many Texans who favored a government navy in preference to piratical practices.

Q. Who was the first secretary of the Texas navy?

A. The first secretary of the Texas navy under the Burnet interim administration was Robert Potter, who was a member of the naval affairs commission.

Q. Who was the first to be honored with the title of "Commodore of the Texas Navy?"

A. Capt. Charles E. Hawkins, who had been a lieutenant in the American navy, a river captain in the Chattahoochee, and had acquired the title of "Major in Mexican service under Mexico."

Q. Were there any steam vessels in the first Texas navy?

A. The four vessels that constituted the first Texas navy were all schooners (sail boats). Three small steamers were commandeered in the flight of the Texas coast settlers to Galveston on the approach of Santa Anna's forces.

PROOF . . .
What Owners All Over West Texas Say . . .

Do I think my Servel Electrolux is an investment? I think it is the best investment I have ever made, and I don't see how I ever got along before I purchased it. I am sure that I have already saved more than the purchase price of the refrigerator.

Food, that either had to be disposed of daily, or had deteriorated, making it unfit for use, now keeps perfectly safe until used. Of course this is due to the fact that Servel Electrolux can be depended upon to keep food safe in an unvaried temperature. Food and vegetables retain their fresh crispness and can be bought in quantities, which certainly is a saving. The operating cost is the least I know of in a mechanical operated refrigerator. The fact that the mechanism is silent makes Electrolux "tops" with me. So I think my investment is paying big dividends when I think of the food I save, and at the same time am safeguarding the health of my family by saving food perfectly preserved by my Servel Electrolux.

MRS. FRANK COX, Antelope, Texas.

When you buy an Electrolux you solve the problem of keeping food safe, also you worry less about the cost of operation is so small compared with old time ice hills.

An Electrolux makes life worth living. Of all things bought for the home for convenience, I prize my Electrolux most highly.

Southwest Schools Parade Sweethearts At T. U. Round-Up

Austin, April 6— Almost fifty entries will move in the Round-Up Parade which, on Friday afternoon, April 8, will officially open the 1938 three day homecoming celebration at the University of Texas. Governor James V. Allred will head the line of march.

Headlining the parade, in point of general interest, will be the floats on which will be presented the "sweethearts" of six Southwest Conference schools and the one on which will be seated the five nominees for "Sweetheart of Texas." Of these five, one, chosen by popular student ballot, will reign over the Round-Up after her presentation at the Round-Up Revue Friday night.

Rosemary Surman of Post, a University "co-ed," will represent Texas Agricultural and Mechanical College; Martha Farmer, Rice Institute; Ann Eubard of Marked Tree, Ark., the University of Arkansas; Samuella Wynne of Huntsville, Southern Methodist University; Hazel Smith of Big Spring, Texas Christian University; and Johnnye Lawrence of Bartlett, Baylor University.

"Sweethearts of Texas" nominees are Jetty DeLong of Eldorado, Idanell Brill of Austin, Lois Sagar of Childress, Elva Johnson of Houston and Mary Jo McAngus of Austin.

Miss Elizabeth Huff has been named "Miss Wichita Falls" at the West Texas Chamber of Commerce Convention, in Wichita Falls, April 25, 26 and 27. A granddaughter of Judge R. E. Huff, pioneer Wichitan, and a city founder, Miss Huff will be the official hostess to other West Texas beauties when they vie for the convention crown. Miss Huff will be the "Oil Queen" for the convention pageants, on Monday and Tuesday nights during the sessions, when the beauty nominees for Queen will be presented. Representing the host city, however, she will not compete for the title as "Her Majesty, Miss West Texas."

New Refrigeration System Installed At Williams Store

Installation of a new $4,000 Friedrich meat refrigeration system was completed yesterday at the J. H. Williams grocery here.

The equipment consists of a combination "walk-in" storage box, self-serve section and a 16-foot meat display counter. The equipment is of white enamel and porcelain, trimmed in black. It will replace the meat counter and refrigeration system heretofore used in the market department. The storage area is capable of holding eight carcasses of beef and with the new mechanical refrigeration the meat will keep fresh indefinitely. The self-serve section will be used for storage of milk, butter, eggs, cheese, etc.

Lecturer Gives Hints On Baking Powder

Mrs. Arreva D. French, who is conducting the Ozona Stockman's Cooking School, says that for best results in baking it is a good plan to follow these simple rules:

Use the amount of baking powder recommended on the can. Because of the high strength of K C Baking Powder which she is using in the cooking school, only one level teaspoonful should be used to a cup of well sifted flour for most recipes. This is equivalent to one heaping teaspoonful to a quart of flour.

Careful measurement is very necessary as using more or less than a recipe calls for will not produce best results.

Another secret of good baking is to be sure that the baking powder is thoroughly mixed with the flour and other ingredients. The more thoroughly the baking powder and flour are mixed before you add moisture, the better your results are likely to be. Sift three or four times.

For biscuits, make a smooth dough that can be handled without sticking, and bake in moderate oven. For cakes, have your oven slow to moderate at first, until the cake is fully risen; then increase heat so as to just brown lightly.

Mrs. French says that K C, the brand she is using in cooking schools, is manufactured by baking powder specialists who make nothing but baking powder, controlled by expert chemists of national reputation. It is always uniform in quality and can be relied upon to produce for you, the kind of bakings you will be proud to serve.

Try the following choice recipes:

- K C Everyday White Cake
 1/2 cup butter (4 oz.)
 1 cup granulated sugar (8 oz.)
 1/2 cup milk
 2 cups flour (8 oz.)
 2 level teaspoonsful K C Baking powder
 Whites 3 eggs
 1 teaspoon vanilla extract
- K C Baking Powder Biscuits
 2 cups flour (8 oz.)
 2 level teaspoonsful K C Baking powder
 4 level teaspoonsful shortening
 About 2/3 cup milk or water
 1/2 teaspoonful salt

Agile Femininity
Characteristic Note
Of Spring Fashions

Ozonia, April 7—Like a magnet ball rolling along and gathering everything in its path, the vogue of feminine has swept through dresses, hats, coats and now — shoes.

It's characteristic of Miss America that when she goes in for a shoe she goes all the way. A year ago the outdoor girl fever of the country and she prided her self on buying heavy, ultra-comfortable shoes and masculine clothes.

Now, claim the girls at Texas College for Women, she wants grace and beauty in a shoe as well as in a dress. Gabardine and suede are easy to beautify with dressmaker touches, punchwork and beading, and manufacturers are ably meeting the demand for glori-ous feet.

Colors are lovely, and although black patent holds the lead in many places because of its ideal season changing qualities, the live shades are due to gain in prominence. In the new alligator line one finds butterscotch, Brittany rose, cornflower blue, amber, cop-er and ebony.

Caution is necessary in match-ing the varied copper shades with other accessories, but most stores today will have that problem al-ready solved.

Spring shoe lines could hardly be called feminine were they not filled with novelties. First in the call are the wedge soles, and next come the "patterns" or shoes with platform soles while the even-ing sandals take the prize for frag-ility with net inserts.

Senator Connally To Address Convention
West Texas Chamber

Wichita Falls, April 6— Accep-tance by United States Senator Tom Connally of Texas, of an in-itation to address the twentieth annual convention of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce to be held in Wichita Falls, April 25, 26 and 27, today topped the week's preparations for the event.

Senator Connally, native of W-TC territory, who was born on a farm near Waco, will address the final general session of the con-clave in Wichita Falls, on Wed-nesday morning, April 27.

Featured speaker of the Tues-day afternoon, April 26, assembly will be Mayor Fiorello H. La-Guardia of New York City.

Senator Connally, an orator, and master of biting invective, has been twice elected to the U. S. Senate, in 1938 and 1934, after serving six terms in the House of Representatives.

The children of the pastor's class who decide to enter the fel-lowship of the Church will be re-ceived at the morning service this Sunday. Help us to make this a beautiful and impressive worship experience.

We hope that all our people will plan to enter into the services of Holy Week. This series, beginning this Sunday evening and continu-ing through Friday evening, will constitute our Pre-Easter revival. We invite all who will to share these services with us.

The Men's Bible Class began its second year last Sunday with an attendance of 24. That's a splen-did beginning! We hope that our worship, our fellowship, and our discussion throughout the new year will help to make finer men of us all.

I want to take this means of urging you to be in your places in all the services Sunday. We are seeking at least 100 in attendance for Sunday School hour and we are inviting you to help us reach that goal.

Last Sunday the Church adopt-ed some goals looking forward to our Golden Jubilee, April 3, 1942. Some of our goals are as follows: Church membership 357; Sunday School enrollment 300; B. T. U. enrollment 100; 3 new B. Y. P. U.'s; and the payment of our church debt. When that little band of 7 people met at Ozona April 3, 1892 they no doubt had a vision of a great constructive program of worship for the years to come. Are we attaining the goals for which they prayed and worked in their lifetime? We feel like we will in a measure have attained some of those things if we reach the above. We can only do it through the co-operation of every one of our members. We shall count on you to do your part.

The meeting of April 5, was called to order by Jack Baggett. The Scout oath was repeated and the flag was raised by John Flech-er and Charles McDonald.

The plaques that Bobby Lem-mons was to make have not been finished yet, but they will be hang-ing in two more weeks — or else.

There will be another fishing trip the first week-end in May. Late in May, the camp at Louis Farr will open. Here Scouts of all Region Nine may go and pass tests and have a good time for a week at the rate of about $6 a week.

For next week we will have a knot-tying demonstration by Les-lie Nance. There are nine knots which need much study. Each Scout must know how to tie all nine knots and know the use of all of them.

Wednesday afternoon at 5:15 o'clock the Scouts of Ozona gave a radio program over KGKL at San Angelo. The program was as follows:

"Reveille" was played by Miles Pierce to open the program. The Scouts gave the Scout oath in uni-son. After that, the announcer, Mr. Hollon, introduced Welton Bunger, who told a story of the Scout troop of Ozona. The announ-cer then introduced Jack Baggett, one of the boys who went to the Jamboree. He made a talk on the Scout cabin in Ozona, describing the cabin in and out and also the town in which it stands. A second Scout who went to the Jamboree, Miles Pierce, was introduced as having the honor of winning the Scout "Honor Patrol Banner" for the Fox Patrol. Bobby Baggett, the third of the Jamboree Scouts, was introduced and he made a report of the treasure, and of his patrol. Bill Carson made a talk on his In-dian Patrol and Howard Lemmons talked on the Senior Patrol and its plans for the future. The pro-gram closed with the Scoutmas-ter's benediction and "taps" being played softly by Miles Pierce.

Last week the "Honor Patrol" banner was awarded to the Fox Patrol for being the best in atten-dance, advancement and order. This banner is now on display in their room.

Mrs. T. A. Kincaid was brought home from San Angelo where she had been confined to the Shannon Hospital for four weeks under treatment for a severe heart ail-ment.

Mr. Kincaid brought her home Sunday.

Mrs. Gertrude Perry, who has been seriously ill this week from an attack of pneumonia, is report-ed improving steadily.

Child's Talent May Be Helped By Attic Studio

Attic space can be transformed into a studio for the child who is developing an interest in painting, sculpture, or another art. In this way the interest can be fostered without the unpleasantness of having the house upset with scattered tools and paints.

The home owner who wishes to create a room for such a purpose may obtain funds for the work from a private financial institution which operates under the terms of the Property Improvement Credit Plan of the Federal Housing Administration.

A portion of an attic can be remodeled into an attractive studio room. Dormer windows may be added if there is insufficient light or a glass skylight may be used. The room should be located so that the child may shut it off completely from the rest of the house.

Walls and floors should be both durable and restful. They should be of a color that is easy on the eyes, and the floor should be able to withstand wear. Both should be washable.

A large part of the furniture can be built in. There should be shelves for reference books and cupboards for equipment. Sometimes even the work tables can be built in.

Leaky Roof Can Be Preserved For Many Years

A roof that leaks all over can be given a coating of heavy asphalt and asbestos compound, which will fill up cracks and nail holes and preserve the roof for several years. However, before this coating is applied all curled and broken shingles should be replaced or repaired.

If the leak is centered, it can be located by looking at the underside during a rainstorm. It is very likely to be at the junction of two surfaces — a valley or the joint between a chimney and the roof, or where a dormer is cut through. In this case, the fault is probably in the flashing, but if it is in the middle of a large roof area, it is likely to be from a curled or loosened shingle.

This compactly arranged small house provides comfortable living room with fireplace, two bedrooms bath and adequate closet space. Shown here in shingle finish, it will be equally attractive in stucco, brick or a combination of materials. A house of this type is "at home" in any neighborhood and in any climate. In spite of its small size, and low construction cost, it provides all the features of larger, more expensive homes.

Fourteen years ago Joseph H. Sears of Oyster Bay, L. I., hired a chef who gave his name as Alfred Grouard, and who served faithfully until his health failed last year. He had never left the estate; never had any callers nor received any mail. When death came a few days ago it was discovered that "Alfred" was a woman.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Q. What type of roof is best suited to a stucco house?

A. The type of roof should be determined by the architectural style used in the design of your house. If it is a Spanish type a sloping roof of flat shingle tile or the typical Spanish tile would be appropriate. If Norman type of house, wood shingles, flat shingle tile, slate, or various compositions shingles may be used. If modern design, possibly a flat roof of a composition material would suffice. Under all conditions, gutters and downspouts should be used to carry the water away from the stucco walls. I recommend that you consult your architect in this matter as a roof is an essential part of any house design.

Q. We are building in an additional bathroom, in what was hall space. Will the old flooring be suitable or will the weight of bath room fixtures make it necessary to lay a new floor? In this case, what would you suggest?

A. I would certainly consult a reliable builder and have him check up on the strength of the floor and floor joists to see if they will stand the weight of the contemplated fixtures. If he finds it is unnecessary to disturb the existing flooring a very satisfactory and pleasing result can be obtained with linoleum or some sort of rubber or composition tile cemented down over the present floor.

Q. The roof of my cottage is approximately 20 by 40 feet. What size gutters and leaders should be used?

A. The sizes of gutters and leader pipes necessary to carry off the rain water from a roof varies with the locality. Two 3-inch diameter leaders and 4-inch gutters will take care of the necessary drainage from a roof 20 by 40 feet where rainfall is not excessive.

WINDOW SHADES IN TWO COLORS

Window shades may be obtained with different colors on each side of the shade. In this way the exterior appearance of all the windows may be made to conform, while various colors may be selected for the interior to fit any desired color scheme in any particular room.

WALLPAPER USED AS LINING FOR SHELVES

A vivid wallpaper makes an interesting lining for built-in bookshelves. Old-fashioned glass doored bookcases may be modernized by taking off doors, retouching the woodwork and either painting or papering the inside of the shelves.

METAL BASES GIVE ROUNDED CORNERS

Rounded strips of metal may be inserted at the corners of the base board to prevent the gathering of dust. For the new home, there are wood inserts to fit tight to each corner, giving the base strip a rounded joint. Either the metal or wood strips may be painted to match the woodwork.

KITCHEN FANS

Kitchen odors can be eliminated from the kitchen by use of an exhaust fan installed in the wall, window, or even in the transom over the door. This device is also an aid to cooling the kitchen in Summer.

CEDAR CLOSET FOR WINTER CLOTHES

A cedar closet in the attic will provide storage space for Winter clothing and keep bedroom closets which are in daily use, free from crowding. No paint, varnish, or other finish should be used on the cedar, and the door to the closet should be kept closed, preferably weather stripped.

BOOKCASES FORM BRIGHT BACKGROUND

When floor space permits, bookcases can be built at right angles in the corner of a room. A Long Island house has shelves from floor to ceiling between the hall and dining room doors. The book bindings form a colorful background for a table and easy chair.

TRAY COMPARTMENT SOLVES PROBLEM

Trays and platters offer an awkward storing problem. This can be solved by means of a divided compartment in a kitchen cupboard. This holds the trays upright and it is possible to see the size of the various plates before removing them.

RACKS WILL KEEP LUGGAGE SAFELY

For the storage of trunks and luggage in the cellar, a clean dry room is essential. However, where it is sometimes difficult to keep the basement dry, racks may be built to hold the trunks or luggage high enough off the floor to insure no damage.

CALIFORNIA SUN ROOM FEATURES FLOWER

The sunroom in a California home has white walls and a red-to-red floor. The white furniture is upholstered in turquoise. A feature of the room is a flower located in one corner. There is a lavatory where flowers may be watered and shelves above for extra vases and bowls. Drapes underneath hold garden shears and plants.

WOMEN INSPECT 3 FEATURES OF HOME

A recent survey by a newspaper publisher in the Midwest discloses that the three things that interest women most when a new home is being considered are the kitchen, the size of the closets and the bathroom. Men show an interest in the garage and the size of the ground.

Increase In Death From Cancer Brings Health Dept. Warning

Austin, April 6 — The definite increase in the number of persons dying from cancer makes the subject of tumors a timely one. A tumor is a mass of new tissue which is of no use whatever to the body. If tumors or their manifestations were more generally appreciated much of the misery and many deaths could be eliminated, stated Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer.

The malignant tumor known as cancer may consist, as in the case of benign tumors, of any bodily structure such as fat, bone, connective tissue, superficial layer of skin, mucous membrane and bodily organs. They grow rapidly and may establish secondary growths far from the site of the parent tumor by means of detached cells traveling in the blood or invading the lymphatics.

Where benign tumors are concerned, surgical removal usually results in permanent cure. However, in cancerous tumors surgery or irradiation (X-ray and radium) or a combination of the two, to be effective depends upon early diagnosis and prompt professional action.

While a number of cancerous growths unfortunately do not present early symptoms, many of the more common ones do. It is the deliberate or ignorant disregard of such early symptoms that has so decidedly occasioned the increase in cancer deaths.

The outstanding signals which justify a suspicion that cancer may be present, though not necessarily so, are: any lump; any unusual bleeding from any bodily opening; a persistent sore; and chronic indigestion.

To disregard these signs, which may mean cancer in an early and therefore curable stage, is to flirt with death. Most certainly it does not pay to take any chance with any kind of a tumor or manifestations that indicate the possibility of its existence.

HEADS COFFEE FIRM

H. M. Duncan, pictured, is founder, vice president and general manager of the Duncan Coffee Co. of Houston, one of the outstanding industrial institutions of the Southwest. From a modest beginning, Mr. Duncan has built the coffee roasting concern to take its place among the "big business" firms of Texas.

Duncan Coffee Co. Inaugurates New Merchandise Plan

Texas Concern Pioneer-ed Direct Distribution System

Outstanding among industrial concerns of Houston, and the Southwest, is the Duncan Coffee Company of Houston. That Company was born in the months near the end of the World War, and began business on August 13, 1918. The company started business in a modest plant at Carr and Condit Streets in Houston where it has continued in business ever since. In the beginning the plant force consisted of Mr. H. M. Duncan, Mr. Lester J. Bland, a colored helper, one woman in the packing department, Mr. A. H. Lawrence, master, and Mr. Frank Pilot, sales man. Each weekday morning, Mr.

"No More Headaches" for Soviet Russia

"No More Headaches" was the title of this float in the recent Rose day parade in Kohn, Germany. The tableau depicts the newest purges in Soviet Russia. A big head of Stalin dominates the scene, while lesser Soviet lights are holding aloft their heads. One of the signs reads "Thanks of the Little Father."

Duncan and Mr. Pilot called on retail grocers, because the long established machinery of distribution through brokers and jobbers to retailers was closed to the Duncan Coffee Company, as all claimed they had a coffee account and could not take on or sell a new and unknown brand. Undoubtedly the foregoing circumstances was a "lucky break" for Mr. Duncan and his new brand of "Admiration Coffee," as it forced him to go direct to the retail grocer with his coffee. That route of selling was already being explored by Fleischmen's yeast, and one or two other national manufacturers who were finding it the economic thing to do. As a matter of fact, a new trend in merchandising was already beginning and in the years since the World War, American industry has more and more tried to shorten the road and reduce the expense for getting goods—especially food products—from the manufacturer to the consumer. Some few years later, based upon their experience in selling retail grocers direct, the Duncan Coffee Company began to study seriously the problem of distribution coffee direct from the roaster to the grocer throughout Texas. The system of direct distribution now covers the greater part of the state and is constantly being extended to take in more territory. As the company faced the problems and the rapidly changing conditions of the depression period beginning in 1929, it became apparent that the public had less money to spend even for necessities. So a new brand of coffee, "Bright and Early" was developed, to be sold at a lower price than Admiration Coffee, which had already become very popular in many sections of the state. This move proved popular, and the company experienced a constant increase of tonnage right through the trying depression years. Then came President Roosevelt's N.R.A. and the Duncan Coffee Company was among the first of the industrial units of the country to wire the President that it would conform to the standard of hours and wages set up under the N.R.A. Immediately it became necessary to increase the company's plant capacity to produce the coffee to meet the increased demand.

Then Mr. Duncan decided to try another experiment. He believed the depression would be overcome only after men and women who had been forced into idleness could be again employed in some gainful occupation. He began to employ more and more people to do the work of packing and labeling coffee, which had been done previously by machinery. While this operation by human hands cost more than the same operations by machines had cost, the difference was not enough to force a higher price to the consumer. Again the sales curve of the Duncan Coffee Company went up, and it was necessary to employ more and more men and women, so that a plant and a business, which was operated by six people in 1918, now required two hundred thirty seven men and women to operate, with an annual payroll running into six figures. Within the past year, the company established a fine, new roasting plant and distributing center at Corpus Christi, the better to serve the growing population of the lower coast, and the Winter Garden territory to the South and West of San Antonio, and the Rio Grande Valley. The new plant is already working to capacity. During its entire history, including the depression years, the Duncan Coffee Company has given its employees vacations with pay every year, and at the close of business each year has paid a cash bonus to its employees. In its sales policy, the Duncan Coffee Company has adhered to one set principle. It has not discriminated between buyers. Its price to every grocer has been the same. This policy has not been popular with some large buyers, but its fairness and justice has borne fruit, and in view of the recent Act of Congress, giving authority to the Federal Trade Commission to make rules and regulations governing trade practices and outlawing such practices as unreasonable and discriminatory "advertising allowances," secret rebates and other devices which gave merchants an undue advantage in competitive business, the Duncan Coffee Company again rests in the enviable position of knowing it has been right all the way along the road through the changing years. The present official family of the Duncan Coffee Company consists of Mr. H. M. Duncan, President and general manager; Mr. C. W. Duncan, vice president in charge of city sales; Mr. L. J. Bland, secretary treasurer and sales manager; Mr. E. C. Coker, assistant sales manager; and Mr. R. G. Starnes, credit manager.

Mrs. Edith Rowell of Chicago testified in her divorce suit that her husband had spoken only about four words a day to her for 34 years.

Why IT'S ECONOMICAL TO USE "Kitchen-tested" FLOUR by Betty Crocker

Many of us have tried to save by buying a cheap flour... and then have found that the baking was ruined because the flour didn't act right. That was poor economy, wasn't it? Expensive ingredients ruined because of the flour (which is only a small part of the total cost of the baking). Time and effort wasted! So many women keep writing me they find it more economical to use Gold Medal "Kitchen-tested" Flour. Because they can be sure it will always act the same way, every time they bake with it. Gold Medal "Kitchen-tested" Flour, you see, is a new type flour that has done away with the chief reason for costly baking failures. And that is, lack of uniformity in the flour used. Made from the finest wheat grown, Gold Medal Flour is "Kitchen-tested" for uniformity of results, in home ovens similar to yours. My associates and I use samples of every batch from the mill, to bake cakes, pies, pastries and breads, in the Gold Medal Test Kitchen, before the flour is accepted for distribution to you.

Blustery Winds, Ice and Snow Accompany Pre-Easter "Spell"

The traditional pre-Easter "spell" swooped down on Texas Wednesday night to bring blustery winds, dust, and a tumbling thermometer.

Pushing the balmy Spring weather that has prevailed in this vicinity for weeks, the sudden change brought snow and ice thru a wide section of the state. Slightly below freezing temperature was registered here during the night and the more tender flowers and plants were dropping from the freeze this morning. A pall of dust brought on the wings of the north winds, hung over the area.

She will make a full discussion of such subjects as good buying, the planning of menus, selection of foods, preparation of inexpensive foods in a way to make them more attractive and more nourishing, recipes that tempt the appetite and please the palate.

The W. L. Bradley and others No. Hoover, a mile south and slightly more than a half mile west of production in the Simpson pool, was unchanged in drilling to 1,785 feet in brown lime. The test, in section 1, block 1, GC- & SF survey, developed a light spray of oil at 1,420-30 feet. The well at that level was estimated good for 50 barrels.

Drilling away at levels under a thousand feet were the recently spudded tests by Simpson and White, 990 feet from the east line of section 1, block FF, and Pitzer and West No. 1-B Hoover, 990 feet from the south, 330 feet from the east line of section 2, block FF.

Will Ohlhausen has staked location for his No. 1 J. W. Owens, a wildcat, a mile and a half south west of Bradley and others No. 1 Hoover, in section 12, Manvella Cornam survey.

Texas Next To California In Truck Acreage

Dallas, (Special) April 6--Significant evidence of growing diversification in farm crops, highly desirable in the South to ease the shock of dwindling cotton markets, is seen by the All-South Development Council in the rise of Texas to second place, next to California, in acreage devoted to commercial vegetable crops.

The 271,550 acres of Texas land producing truck crops in 1937 was nearly eight times the 35,000 acres so utilized in the state in 1919, bringing the state from 12th place to second. The $19,255,000 in cash income from such crops put the state in fourth place nationally in that table, and was a large gain from the $14,700,000 valuation in 1936.

California, which has been the leading state in both acreage and income for many years, was far out in front in value, with $92,735,000. Florida and New York were second and third, with valuations of $26,745,000 and $25,180,000, respectively.

Spinach was Texas' principal truck crop in acreage last year, its 50,000 acres representing two thirds of the total in the nation, though marketing faults make the income to "winter garden" farmers uncertain. Acreages devoted to other leading truck crops were: tomatoes 46,000, watermelons 46,000, cabbage 36,000, onions 21,000, Irish potatoes 13,000, carrots 7,800, snap beans 7,300, green peas 6,000, cantaloupe 5,200, beets 4,800, strawberries 2,150, green peppers 1,600, egg plant 500, and cauliflower 150.

The 200th anniversary of the death of Antonio Stradivarius, greatest of all violin makers, was observed by a number of concerts played during December on instruments made by the master. At one of the concerts in New York, 18 of his violins, violas and violoncellos, now valued at a million dollars, were used.

Negro Slugger Puts Opponent To Flight In Opening Round

Pay customers who contributed to the "kitty" to promote a prize fight between two local negro pugilists were somewhat disappointed at the brevity of the bout Wednesday night when Willie Johnson folded up in the first round under the sudden barrage loosened by Curley Daniels. Daniels, who appeared on several occasions in the ring here a few years ago, proved himself still handy with the leather when he drove out another of his race, who volunteered to get in the ring for the entertainment of the crowd, in the first few seconds of the slugfest.

A couple of Mexican brothers staged a fair preliminary bout. The boxing card was promoted by a group of sportsmen in an improvised ring set up in the baseball park.

Miss Marion Campbell of Pasadena, Calif., a niece of Judge Charles E. Davidson of Ozona, will arrive here late this week for a visit with the Davidson family. Miss Campbell is on leave of absence from her teaching duties at Hilo, Hawaii.
