Dr. I. S. Moore To Practice In New Midland Hospital

Building Work Starts On New Plant; Dr. Kirby Coming

Dr. I. Sellers Moore, who has been engaged in the practice of medicine in Ozona for the past three and a half years, will leave here about June 15 for Midland, where he will take up practice in a new clinic-hospital which he is erecting there.

Work on the new hospital got under way last Saturday and is expected to be completed by the middle of June, Dr. Moore announced.

Dr. O. A. Kirby of Lometa has purchased the residence and practice of Dr. Moore in Ozona and will move here when the latter is ready to take up his new work in Midland. Dr. Kirby is a native of Lometa and has been practicing there for several years. He is married and has three children.

Dr. Moore is building at Midland a unit of the same hospital-clinic which he had planned to build in Ozona. He had had architect's plans prepared for the plant here but failing to find the necessary financial backing for the undertaking abandoned the plan. Local capital has been subscribed in Midland to underwrite the balance necessary for construction of the building and purchase of necessary equipment for a first class clinic-hospital. The new plant is to contain six rooms, a reception room and doctor's office and consultation room.

Famous Sheep Dog Trainer To Show Here

Star Act Of Nation's Largest Shows Is Secured For Demonstration During Annual Crockett Celebration

An act that has been an outstanding feature from one to five times at some of the nation's outstanding livestock exhibitions, fairs and similar shows, including the International Livestock Exposition in Chicago, the American Royal Livestock Show in Kansas City, the Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock Show in Fort Worth, and others, has been secured for the eleventh annual Crockett County Rodeo, Race Meet, Stock Show and Sale in Ozona June 23, 24 and 25.

Luke J. Pasco, nationally famous breeder, importer and exhibitor of Border Collie sheep dogs, will bring a group of his prize winning collie workers to the Ozona show for a demonstration of their uncanny ability in handling wild sheep.

Two outstanding champions among sheep dogs are Jean and Fan, Mr. Pasco's prize dogs used in the arena demonstrations. Jean was four times American champion sheep dog, being defeated only once, and then by her kennel mate, Fan.

The dogs, working only by whistle signals, will cut a flock of sheep, divide them into groups, and herd them into small crowded pens. The sheep used in these demonstrations are not trained sheep but wild animals picked at random from any flock that might be available. No sheep was ever injured by the dogs.

At Madison Square Garden in New York, Mr. Pasco gave an exhibition with his famous dogs that thrilled tens of thousands. His act was so sensational that it went over Paramount News, over the radio chains and was acclaimed as one of the features of the show.

Mr. Pasco uses the Border Collie, the oldest of all working dogs and from which breed several other breeds have developed. The Sable Collie, for an example is considered an old breed, but was developed by crossing the Russian Wolfhound with the Border Collie.

Little is known in America about the Border Collie, but they are now enjoying wider distribution among farmers and ranchmen. They were first discovered and recognized in the Cheviot Hills bordering England and Scotland; hence their name. For many generations the breed has been de-

THE RIGHT TO LIFE

Once more the right to life has triumphed!

Through the dramatic story of little Helaine Colan has run that theme—the right to life, a right which has triumphed over the fear of eternal blindness.

It is easy to understand the parents' first decision. The baby, so young as to be almost before life, faced death or a life of darkness. For the parents, the thought of those long years of sightlessness must have seemed more painful than the thought of immediate death.

But one can also understand the decision of the jury. Those jurymen who voted for life at any cost were moved by the oldest of human forces—the right to life. Physicians and rabbis, they had dedicated their lives to that right. They could reach only one decision—to do all in their power to save the young life in their hands.

And so little Helaine goes on to face the battle of life, a battle now complicated by her handicap. But who can tell? Perhaps from that tiny child may come great poetry, a noble humanitarian effort, or even a new discovery that will add to the total of human knowledge.

The right to life, a force that has carried man through the centuries, again has triumphed, triumphed as it must always if man is to continue his domination of the earth.

CHINA LOOKS UP

With a score now reading "one million dead and one million still fighting on the Lungshai Line," China and Japan go on playing the old game of war. After more than 300 days of bitter warfare, after a million deaths and a billion in losses, after starvation, murder, disease, pain, slaughter, and suffering—the game still goes on.

For Japan, the long war is a surprise, an unwanted surprise.

For China, the long war is a vindication of their new spirit of nationalism, their will to become a nation. With the English Route Army fighting under the walls of Peking where the war began, with the ranks of young China holding off the invader on the Lungshai Railroad, the Chinese have reason to look up towards the future.

For the rest of the world, the long war is a lesson, a lesson that modern warfare, swift and certain in destruction, may yet last as long as the old battle of hand and arm.

FORECAST

Within sixty days business will sweep into an upturn.

This, we hasten to add, is the forecast of professional prophets who have just concluded their annual national convention in the shadow of the White House—the American Federation of Scientific Astrologers.

We hold no brief for the stargazers. We have found in times past that small profits are gained from prophets.

Yet in this instance we do not believe it essential to know whether Mars is becoming chummy with Venus, or whether Saturn is peeved at Jupiter, to see increasingly favorable signs of that much sought upswing toward recovery.

Businessmen, big and little, have long vigorously fought the undistributed profits tax as a burden and a mountainous obstacle to investments and expansion. Its function was to force the distribution of some $600 million yearly from the surplus funds of corporations held the penalties of fine and imprisonment against 39 unionists who refused to evacuate a plant. Because the Wagner Act guarantees workers the right to collective bargaining it does not entitle them to seize employers' property to enforce that right, even though the employer has refused to bargain collectively with them. That wildfire epidemic has now been quenched. The cold water thrown on it by the court decision should keep it from bursting again into flame.

THE MAN IN THE MIDDLE

Ever notice the man in the middle? He's the new "grin and take it" man of the American scene! Consider taxes! The little fellow pays some and the big fellow pays a lot, but it's the man in the middle that gets the biggest part of the bill. He owns a house, he buys a car, he starts a business—and on each he gives his cut in taxes, a cut that is larger proportionately than that of any other group.

And what does he get in return? Of all the billions spent by local, state, and federal governments, the man in the middle gets the least. True he does share in the protection, education and control activities of the government. But when it comes to the billions for relief and assistance, it's the big fellow and the little fellow that get the lion's share. The man in the middle takes care of himself.

And the story goes on! The little fellow gets free medical attention. The man in the middle has to pay—$10 for an x-ray, $100 for an operation. The little fellow gets other free services. The man in the middle has to pay his bills, bills that have to come out of that weekly pay check.

Ever notice the man in the middle? You ought to, he's the backbone of American life, and there's a mighty good chance he looks a lot like you.

LITTLE WOMEN

Five smart girls, worth all of a million dollars, sit down to their fourth birthday party next week—with the world as their unseen guest.

Now when Yvonne, Annette, Cecile, Emilie, and Marie, blow out the shining candles on their cake, for what will they wish?

A shiny new velocipede? To have a lot of money? To be famous when they grow up?

How long, we wonder, will it be before these five little girls suddenly discover they are world famous? Didn't some 20 million persons listen in to their last birthday party? And in one month alone last year, didn't 138,000 persons bustle out to their nursery near Callander, Ont., to see them put on their "two-a-day" performance?

And how long also will it be, we wonder, before someone comes forth with a book entitled "Little Women in Business," and dedicated to Milles, Dionne? For these five smart girls ARE in business, big business, right up to their little ears!

No less than twenty four advertising, moving picture and industrial firms have contracts with them, pouring thousands of dollars daily into the quintuplets' bank account.

As one of Canada's important tourist attractions, they have proved both a boon and a boom to the Dominion.

When the quints, as five of the richest little girls in the world, dive into their fourth birthday cake next week they'll come pretty close to proving that you can both eat your cake and have it too. Which is an extremely rare occurrence—but so, for that matter, are quintuplets!

PATERNITY PROBLEMS

The last word has finally been said about the business of being a father. Speaking before the New York State Medical Society, Dr. J. K. Quigley had this to say to prospective fathers: Fill the same function for your wife that a manager fills for a singer. In the complicated task of bringing a baby into the world, your wife is the actor, and you are the manager.

Dr. Quigley also had a word about privileges. Place on yourself he urged, the same burdens the physician places on your wife. If the doctor orders stale bread and applesauce instead of beer and pretzels, eat them with your wife—and like it.

"Paternity," says Dr. Quigley,

"carries with it an equal responsibility with maternity." And what with paternity wards, lectures, and special instructions, we're ready to believe that it's no

Public Health Course In Sanitation Offered In Texas Tech College

Austin, May 18—Announcement was made this week in Austin by Dr. George W. Cox, State Health Officer, of the inclusion in the Texas Tech College curriculum of a public health course in sanitation to be offered this summer from June 9 to August 25.

This public health course is the first ever to be offered by any Texas college or university and is made possible at Texas Tech College in cooperation with the State Department of Health and the League of Texas Municipalities.

The course is designed for water works operators, sewage plant operators, and sanitarians in the smaller Texas cities who have for some time now demanded Texas public health courses offered with in the State by men familiar with Texas problems. For the public health personnel of larger cities, the course will offer an opportunity to broaden their knowledge of public health and its trends.

The public health course will consist of training in plumbing, water works and sewage problems, garbage disposal, rodent control, mosquito control, swimming pool operation, proper handling of milk for distribution, and general sanitation with the inclusion of some field survey work and laboratory exercises.

"We feel that the inclusion of this series of public health courses in the curriculum of Texas Tech College is a step forward in public health work in this state, because it makes accessible to so many more men an opportunity for study of these problems than if they were forced to go out of the state for these courses. We should like to call attention to this series of courses to the smaller cities particularly, so that plumbing inspectors, water plant superintendents, food and drug inspectors and sanitary inspectors may be given a chance to attend these courses this summer with resultant operation and maintenance of the municipal health program."

FHA Prepares To Insure Loans On Rural Properties

Same Terms As Urban Building Now Available To Farms

Washington, D. C., May 18 — Operations of the Federal Housing Administration in insuring mortgage loans on rural properties, beginning May 16, were explained by Stewart McDonald, Federal Housing Administrator.

Amendments to the National Housing Act passed in February permit the Administrator for the first time to insure loans covering farms on which farm houses or other farm buildings are to be repaired or constructed, provided at least 15 per cent of the proceeds of the loan is expended for materials and labor on buildings.

Institutions eligible for approval as mortgagees under the farm provisions of Section 203 of the Act include banks, building and loan associations, life insurance companies, mortgage companies, and other lending agencies. Institutions already approved as mortgagees by the FHA may apply for insurance on farm mortgages with out additional qualifications. Copies of the administrative rules and regulations covering farm mortgages have been prepared and have already been mailed to mortgagees.

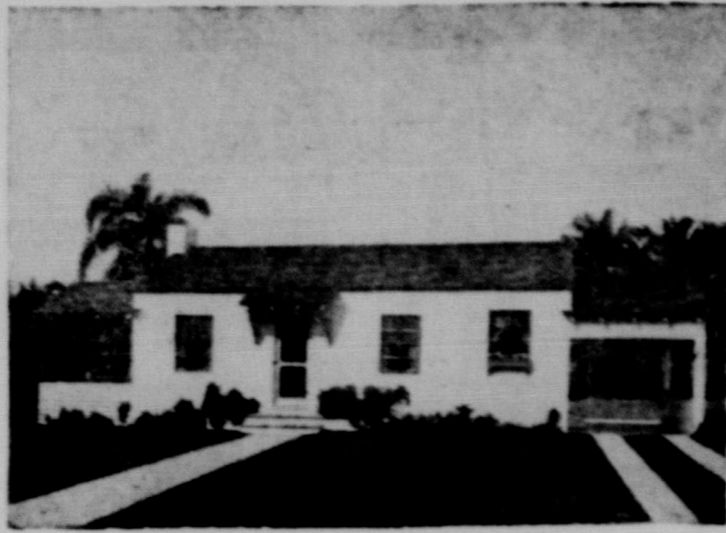

Farmers who operate their own farms, individuals who rent farms to others, and farm tenants and others who contemplate the purchase of farms are all eligible to borrow. They may use the proceeds of FHA insured loans to repair farm houses or farm buildings or to construct new houses and buildings.

In addition, farmers may borrow to refinance existing mortgage debts upon their property or other debts, so long as at least 15 per cent of the loan proceeds is applied to materials and labor in construction or repair work. Insured mortgage loans are distinct from Title I property improvement loans.

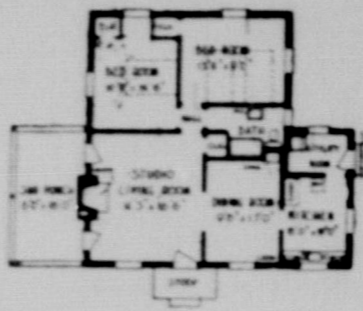

General provisions governing the insurance of farm mortgages are the same as those for non-farm property. Loans may not exceed $16,000, and the maximum interest rate is fixed at 5 percent. The mortgage insurance premium is 1/4 of 1 per cent on loans of $5,490 or less and 1/2 of 1 percent on loans above $5,490. Farm mortgages not exceeding $5,490 may run as long as 25 years in some cases, with a 20 year maximum in all other instances.

The maximum amount which

Ideal Southern Home

This design should make an appeal to the home builder with an eye for the unusual. The roof lines and placement of the entrance are among the distinguishing features. A study of the floor plan will reveal an ideal arrangement of large rooms with well placed bath, plenty of closets and a large sun porch. The closets and many built-in features are deserving of attention.

may be borrowed in relation to appraised valuation is 90 per cent on loans of $5,490 or less, between 80 per cent and 90 per cent on loans from $5,490 to $4,000, and 80 per cent in the case of loans exceeding $8,000. The exact proportion loaned depends upon the rating of the mortgage risk.

The loans are repaid in regular installments, approximately equal in amount, which include principal and interest payments, hazard, fire, and mortgage insurance premiums, drainage and irrigation charges, ground rents, taxes, and special assessments. Payments may be arranged monthly, semi-annually, or annually to suit the borrower's income.

The FHA application fee is $3 per $1,000 to cover the cost of appraisal. In addition, the mortgagee may collect an initial service charge to reimburse itself for the cost of closing the transaction. This charge may not exceed 1 per cent of the amount of the mortgage, or $20, whichever is greater, except in the case of construction loans where the charge may be 1 1/2 per cent, or $30. Lending institutions may further collect from the borrower-only recording fees and such appraisal fees and costs of title search as are approved by the Administrator.

The term "farm" as applied to FHA insured mortgages is interpreted by the administration rules to mean real estate which in the judgment of the Administrator is capable of producing an annual gross income of $350 in kind, cash, or rent from agricultural uses, or derives 25 per cent or more of its rental value from agricultural uses, or derives 25 per cent or more of its capital value from its agricultural capacity.

Farm mortgages, together with other loans insured by the Federal Housing Administration, are eligible for use as collateral by Federal Reserve members banks in obtaining advances from the Federal Reserve Banks. They also may be purchased by National Mortgage Associations generally, as provided in Title III of the National Housing Act.

Applications for insurance of farm mortgages should be made at the FHA's regular local insuring offices.

Technical Progress Outmodes Bldg Codes

Building codes in effect in the majority of cities have been outmoded by recent technical developments and should be redrafted, wherever necessary, to allow the introduction of approved new materials and building practices, according to Howard P. Vermilya, Director of the Federal Housing Administration's Technical Division.

$5,000 Home

This property, located in Jackson, Miss., is valued at $5,000, and the Federal Housing Administration has insured a $4,000 mortgage on the property. Monthly payments of $26.80 will include payments on principal, interest, taxes, and other fixed charges and will completely amortize the loan in 19 years and 6 months.

Other laws and practices affecting residential construction directly or indirectly should be examined critically to determine how far they are impeding the introduction of efficiency producing innovations, Mr. Vermilya says.

"Preparation of the localized minimum construction requirements and property standards which have been adopted for the majority of state and district insuring offices of the Federal Housing Administration has necessitated a thorough study of building, zoning and other ordinances effective in various states and communities," Mr. Vermilya says.

"This study has proved that many of our building codes are restrictive, in that they are out of step with present day needs and methods. Many codes merely 'freeze' into local building procedure practices which are both uneconomic and wasteful."

Article By Ozona School Head Gets Press Discussion

An article, written by C. S. Denham, superintendent of Ozona schools, and published in a recent issue of the Texas Outlook, on the subject "Why Freshmen Fail in College," has elicited editorial comment from the Houston Post. The article prepared by Mr. Denham was based on the results of a questionnaire sent to deans and registrars of 15 state institutions of higher learning and to five independent senior colleges. The Houston Post, under the title "Why Freshmen Flunk" had the following editorial comment to make on the article.

"Many parents, and probably some of their children, would give a pretty good reason for the reason for freshman failures in college. The trouble is that most of them probably would not be much interested in the information if they had it until after the 'hustling out,' when it is too late to lock the stable door.

"However, some convincing explanations have been gathered by a Texas educator, Claude S. Denham of Ozona, and those in charge of the curricula and classes of our colleges could, if they would, put the material to good use for the benefit of their students. Just now, when a great new crop of graduates is about to be harvested from the high schools, most of them for transplanting in college next fall, is a good time for consideration of the subject, and anyone interested in more details can get them by reading Mr. Denham's article in the current Texas Outlook.

"He sent a questionnaire to deans and registrars of the 15 State institutions of higher learning and to five independent senior colleges. Of the 40 questionnaires sent out, 36 were returned, and 33 were usable.

"Of this number, 19 of the educators ranked first among eight reasons for freshman failures suggested in the questionnaire: "Lack of application to duty in college." Four of them thought the foremost reason was "slowness in adjustment from supervised high school system to less supervised system of college;" four said it was "too many students, who are not college material, entering college;" three gave first rating to "poor educational foundation," and three to "absence of definite professional or vocational objectives for themselves." Some gave second, third or fourth place to these other reasons: "Lack of ability to make decisions because of domination of parents during students' adolescence," "social distractions in college," and "instructors in college subject matter specialists rather than specialists in human nature.

"The colleges and universities could do something about some of these complaints if they tried, and parents and the students themselves could do something about others. And they all should apply themselves earnestly to the problem, because there is too much of a hiatus between high school and college.—Houston Post Dispatch.

Calendar of Services

Sunday School 9:45 a. m.
Morning Worship 11:00 a. m.
Evening Worship 8:00 p. m.

On Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock we shall have a communion service in commemoration of John Wesley's Aldersgate experience. We feel that our people will want to have a share in this service. Visitors are cordially invited to meet with us.

There is a growing sentiment within our church family that we not declare a vacation so far as church attendance is concerned. The services of the church are interpreted as open doors of privilege and attendance is not stressed so much as a duty. For this reason we feel that our people will want to continue to avail themselves of the privileges of the Church throughout the summer months. The program of the Vacation Church School for children, Assemblies and Institutes for intermediates, young people, and adults will be announced later. Your entire church staff will do its best to meet your ever-changing religious needs.

HOW DO I LIKE MY SERVEL ELECTROLUX ?

11 YEARS
CONTINUOUS USE
Not 1c for Repairs!

"We bought our Servel Electrolux—the first in this region—in the spring of 1927. It has been in continuous service ever since. It has averaged about $1 per month to operate, the entire time. We have never spent one cent for service or repairs! It still makes ice, preserves food, just as well as the day we installed it. We believe Servel Electrolux is a paying investment!"

This is the statement of Mr. James E. Brewer, prominent jeweler in Ballinger, Texas. It speaks for itself.

ON THE FARM —

"I operate a small dairy—5 to 12 cows. My 7-ft. kerosene Servel Electrolux furnishes all the refrigeration I need, plus plenty of ice for home use. It cost $8.40 for kerosene over 10 1/2 months; until I bought it, our ice bill was $75 to $100 per year, not to mention expense of going after it, time lost and wear and tear on the car. Servel Electrolux takes all the country off the farm and puts you right in the city!"—Mrs. G. W. Holmes, Megargel, Texas.

In this column answers will be given to inquiries as to Texas history and other matters pertaining to the State and its people. Address inquiries to Will H. Mayes, Austin, Texas.

Q. What constitution was most nearly followed in framing the constitution for the Republic of Texas?

A. Although the constitution of the United States was by no means copied, it was more closely followed than any other, though necessarily there was wide variation in setting up an instrument for a unified government rather than for a central government composed of states. Some of the provisions were similar to but not in the exact wording of those in the constitutions of a number of southern states from which a large majority of the convention's members came.

Q. What provision was made by the 1836 convention for an army?

A. Arrangement was made for enlisting a regiment of rangers, and all male citizens between the ages of 17 and 50 years were declared subject to military duty and were to be paid for their services in land bounties.

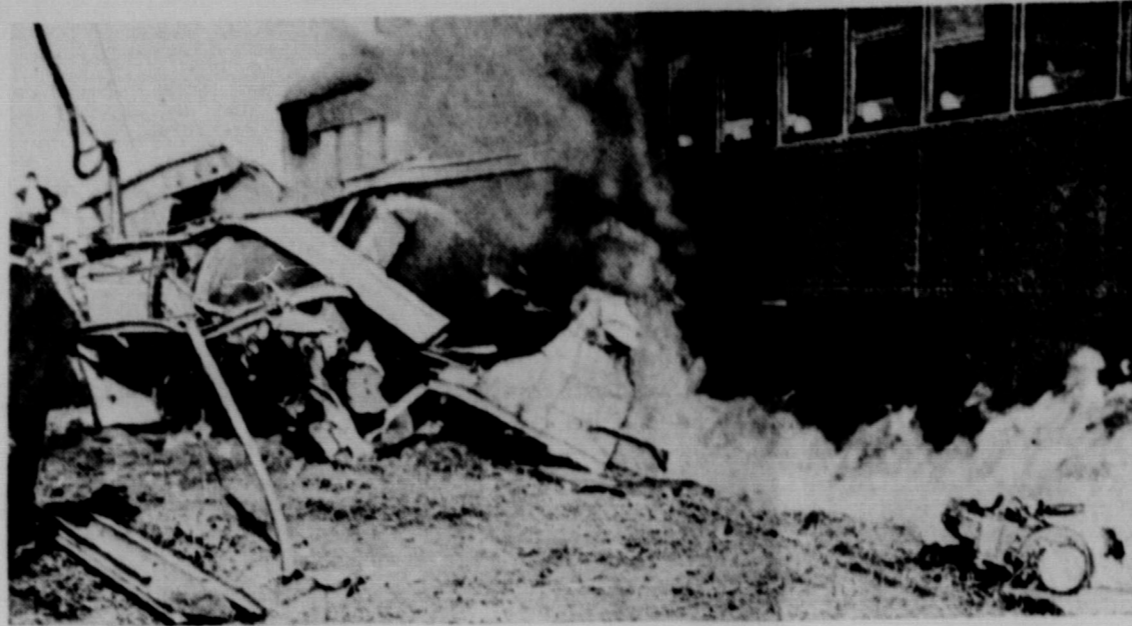

Q. What provision was made for the adoption of the 1836 constitution and for amending it?

A. The constitution was not to be effective until adoption by a vote of the citizens. Because of unsettled and confused conditions the election was not called until July 23 and was held the "first Monday in September." The constitution was adopted as submitted, but the provision to authorize congress to amend it was voted down.

Q. What question provoked most debate in the 1836 convention?

A. The declaration over which there was most disagreement and discussion was the land article. There had been so many illegal grants and large grants by special legislation that a proposal was submitted nullifying all grants of more than one league and labor, which was seriously considered but not passed. A compromise measure finally was agreed upon and provision was made for a general land office.

Q. What became of the "official" copy of the constitution of 1836?

A. Evidently the original draft was misplaced, if a complete original was engrossed in the records. H. S. Kimble, the secretary, certified that the copy printed in Washington, D. C., in May following, on authorization of Robert Hamilton and George C. Childress, plenipotentiaries to the United States, was a true copy of the original filed in the archives of the convention. It varies only in punctuation and in signatures from that adopted by the voters of Texas.

Q. At what rate are industries being established in Texas?

A. The State Planning Board reports that manufacturing industries are increasing in Texas at the rate of $2,000,000 a month and that Texas factories are employing 93 per cent more people than in 1933.

Q. When was cannibalism last practiced by Indians in central Texas?

Following the Battle of Plum Creek in Caldwell County in 1840 Tonkaway Indians, who had aided the Texans in subduing their enemies, the Comanches, could not be restrained from gathering up bodies of the dead Comanches and preparing a feast partaking of the nature of a religious rite. This was the last known act of Indian cannibalism in central Texas.

Q. Why was Pres. Houston so anxious to negotiate the treaty with north Texas Indians in 1843 and where was a treaty made?

A. To keep the Indians from aiding Mexico in the war then threatened, a peace treaty was made at Grapevine Springs in August, 1843 and was signed Sept. 29, 1843, at Bird's Fort (now Birdville, Tarrant County), by 20 Indian Chiefs and G. W. Terrell and E. H. Tarrant commissioners representing the Republic of Texas.

No livestock were classed as infected. Of the number inspected 397,698 cattle, sheep and goats were found to be free of scabies infection and exposure thereto.

A total of 17,942 cattle and 663 sheep were classed as exposed on account of being imported into Texas.

Small Percentage Of Fever Tick Found By Inspectors In Texas

The Livestock Sanitary Commission of Texas in conjunction with the Bureau of Animal Industry conducted activities for the prevention and eradication of the fever carrying tick in 71 counties in Texas for the month of April.

Fifteen whole and parts of 6 other counties are engaged in systematic tick eradication work. Twenty three whole and parts of 2 counties that are released from both Federal and State quarantine still contains a small number of quarantine herds that are being systematically treated.

The remaining 27 and parts of 3 counties are also released from quarantine but are counties in which inspections or dippings or both are done in accordance with

State or Federal requirements.

A total of 80,677 herds and 1,235,684 cattle, horses, mules, jacks and jennets were dipped or inspected.

Thirty five herds and 57 livestock were upon inspection found to be infested with the fever tick. There are 14,012 herds and 143,480 livestock being held for further systematic treatment.

Ford Exhibit At New York World's Fair

THE theme of the Ford Motor Company's exhibit building at the New York World's Fair in 1939 will be prophetic of the advances America may expect in transportation in coming decades, according to an announcement by Edsel Ford, president of the company.

Based upon an exposition of the institutional character of the Ford company and the fundamental policies which have directed its growth during the past 35 years, the fair exhibit will reach its climax in "The Road of Tomorrow," an elevated highway more than half a mile long, rising upon a series of spiral ramps, traversing the borders of a patio and finally circling the main building on a deep setback at the top of the walls.

The exhibit, in four rather distinct parts, will include an entrance rotunda facing the main west wall, a spacious Manufacturing Hall, a patio, with pools, playing fountains and large rest areas, and the elevated road. From the west side of the patio, steps will rise to a broad mezzanine. There Ford V8 and Lincoln-Zephyr cars will lead passengers for the ride over "The Road of Tomorrow."

From the loading platform the cars will pass to the south, enter the spiral ramps, climbing to the upper level and following the elevated highway as it passes over the mezzanine, west along the south wall of Manufacturing Hall, through a tunnel lined with photomurals, thence circling the top of the building, through a glass tunnel high in the Rotunda; down the ramp to the second level, around the patio and back to the starting point.

At night flood lighting will fall upon the cars as they circle the highway high on the walls of Manufacturing Hall, playing moving shadows on the building walls, in full sight of the whole fair grounds. The building will occupy the highest location on the grounds. It will be decorated in white, red and blue and will be floodlighted at night.

THE WORLD THIS WEEK

By Robert Patterson

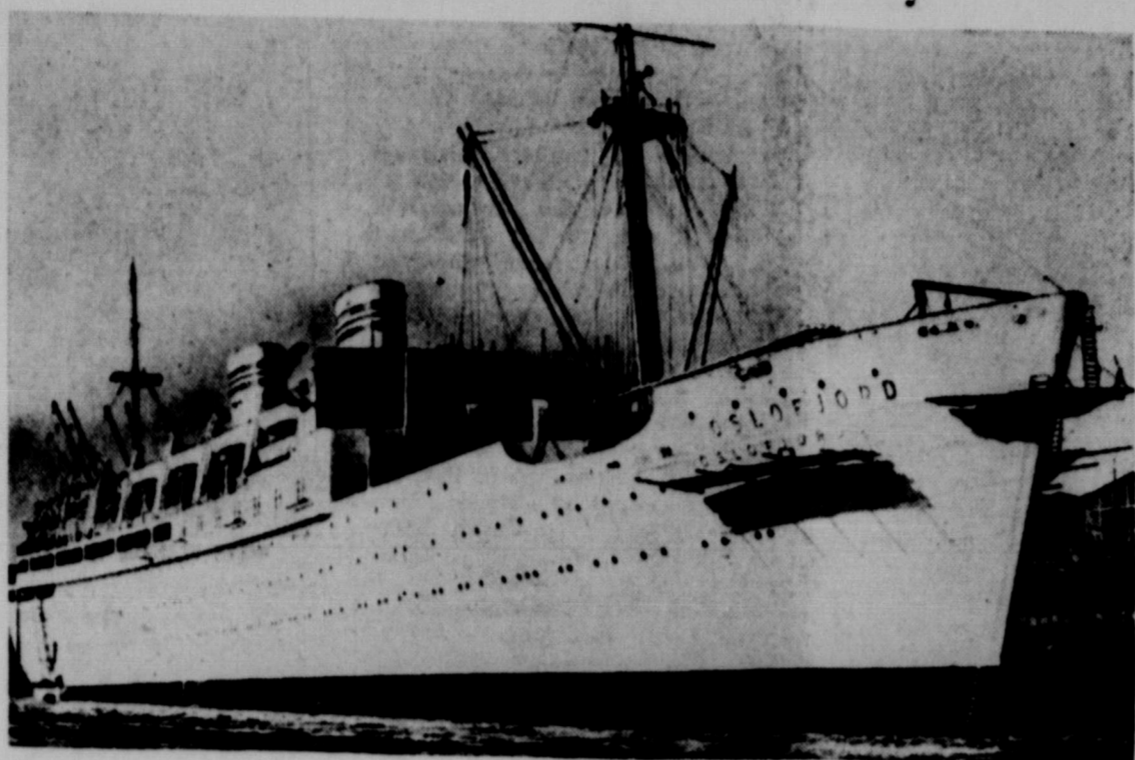

QUIZZING THE AIR-LANES

Summer along the Potomac is a congressman's idea of a vacation. Washington's broiling sun has long been the traditional enemy of cool tempers and calm nerves. Consequently the current congressional push for a down-to-earth investigation of America's billion dollar radio industry gives proof of how important many legislators regard such an inquiry. It would almost certainly anchor investigating committees in the national capital after adjournment of Congress in June. Radio, a youngster among twentieth century industries, has mushroomed prodigiously since 1925. But what adds fuel to the spreading fire for an inquiry into it, is not only its size in terms of dollars and cents, but the significant effects its programs may have on public opinion, taste, and morals. An inquiry may shed valuable light on these effects without, we trust, feeling impelled to hand the industry over to the government to run.

WINNING THE WAR

The vigorous nationwide protests, in which newspapers played such an important role, against budget slashing in the Federal Bureau of Investigation, are today bearing welcome results. The President has now requested Congress for an additional $108,000 to keep up the Bureau's winning war against crime. Unless Congress provides that sum, acting budget director Bell declares, "Service will be seriously crippled and personnel will have to be drastically curtailed." We seriously doubt that Congress will block this comparatively small appropriation. Not, at any rate, when it hears that the recent killing of a G-man in a gun battle with an Indiana outlaw has been directly attributed to the reduced personnel of the FBI. It was a two-man job, but there was only one man to handle it. One man did. And

New Atlantic Liner for Norway

The new S. S. Oslofjord, flagship of the Norwegian American line, which will make her maiden voyage from Oslo to the United States in June, thus inaugurating a new era of Norway-American travel. This Diesel-powered ship will develop a speed of 19 1/2 knots. It is of 18,675 tons gross, and 29,500 tons displacement. She is 588 feet long and 75 feet wide and will carry 800 passengers. In keeping with Norway's program of peace, the Oslofjord has been built without provision for wartime conversion.

paid with his life. We hope Congress remembers this!

IN THE MONEY

Whereas a few of the more skeptical citizens have been wondering whether their pocketbooks would have a rich green and silver lining next year, Treasury officials put their fears at rest this week. If you are an average citizen, you will wear out $35 in currency this coming fiscal year, the officials announced. For that reason, government printing presses are today roaring at top speed, producing $18 million in new bills daily to replace the frayed and worn out currency. Those whirring presses certainly constitute one business that's always in the money!

MEN AGAINST A MOUNTAIN

In a world where most of us hold to the task whereby we earn our daily bread, and where the land rings loud with clamorous disputes over employment, production, and taxation, it is interesting to read of the men still willing to risk their lives and fortunes in pursuit of high adventure alone. That, and perhaps one moment of fame, are their sole rewards—if they come back alive. This week seven members of another British expedition are again making their tortuous way up Mt. Everest's peak where no man has yet trod. Everest's howling blizzards and fierce monsoon have proved themselves—thus far!—implacable watchdogs against all trespassers into their wild mountain kingdom. They have slain many a would-be conqueror of Himalaya's heights. Sometimes the murderous monsoon whips across Everest in late May, sometimes not until early June. For the sake of the Seven, we hope the watchdogs of that mighty mountain sleep late this year!

FISHING PARSON

The fishing parson of Springfield, Vt., has won his right to go Sunday fishing. The church trustees, by a vote of 37 out of 38, upheld his action, and his parishioners—350 strong—cheered the verdict. We cannot say this is progress, but it is change, practically revolutionary change from New England's austere tradition. What would Cotton Mather say? Or Jonathan Edwards? Their celebrated and thunderous fulminations against the slightest transgressions were frequently sufficient, it is reported, to paralyze their congregations into uprightness. And the fiery-spirited eloquence of Edwards at times proved so powerful his hearers thought they could detect the odor of fire and brimstone! We are almost certain those uncompromising Puritans, Mather and Edwards, would sadly conclude Vermont has today sold itself into perdition. During the rest of the summer, Sunday services will be held two hours earlier so the Springfield congregation can go fishing. Does this mean as Vermont goes, so goes the nation?

NOW! TRADE IN YOUR OLD TIRES

Advertisement for National Tire Safety Week. It features a cartoon illustration of a man in a suit pointing to a sign that says 'NATIONAL TIRE SAFETY WEEK'. A speech bubble from the man says: 'MOTORISTS! COME IN AND SEE US DURING THIS BIG SAFETY DRIVE AGAINST SKIDS AND BLOW-OUTS. WE'LL TAKE YOUR OLD TIRES IN TRADE'. The sign also has the date 'May 14-21'.

Advertisement for Goodrich tires. It shows a Goodrich tire with several callout boxes. One box says: 'GREATER PROTECTION AGAINST SKIDS WITH THE NEW LIFE-SAVER TREAD THAT WILL GIVE YOU THE QUICKEST NON-SKID STOPS YOU'VE EVER SEEN'. Another box says: 'GREATER PROTECTION AGAINST BLOW-OUTS With the Golden-Ply, an EXCLUSIVE GOODRICH FEATURE'. A third box says: 'DON'T BUY ANY TIRE UNTIL YOU'VE READ THIS IMPARTIAL REPORT BY FAMOUS LABORATORY'.

Text of the laboratory report: 'BOTH regular, and also the premium-priced tires of America's six largest tire manufacturers were submitted to a series of exhaustive road tests made over a three month period by us to determine their resistance to skidding and wear. with the following results: "NON-SKID"—The new Goodrich Silvertown with the Life-Saver Tread gave greater skid resistance than any other tire tested, including those tires listed at from 40% to 70% higher in price. "MILEAGE"—The Goodrich Silvertown gave more non-skid mileage than any of the other tires tested in its own price range—averaged 19.1% more miles before the tires wore smooth. "BLOW-OUT PROTECTION"—Despite the severe nature of these tests, no Silvertown blew out or failed from any cause, while two tires of other makes failed.' A. R. Ellis, Pres. Torn From Homes by Tornado, Electric Refrigerators Still Provide Ice, Food Protection veloped and recognized for its herding ability.

FOLKS who spend good money for a refrigerator are buying a specific Service. In addition, their purchase should give them a guarantee of Safety. The folks who many years ago bought the two electric refrigerators pictured above bought both Service and Safety. A recent tornado in a small West Texas community proved this point. Buildings crumbled around them and the wind tossed them into the street like a fretful child discarding a toy. But—these electric refrigerators operated perfectly when picked up and connected to an electric socket the following day. That IS Service! There was no damage resulting from refrigerant fumes. That IS Safety!

One of the finest features of the old Scotsmen devised, in working the sheep dogs, is the guiding by whistle signals. The sheep that the dogs will be worked on are not accustomed nor trained in any manner to work with dogs. They simply dash madly about, but with clever maneuvers of these keen dogs, the sheep are driven where desired. The dogs are guided by whistle signals, each whistle having a certain meaning to which the dogs respond.
