Memorial Day Reflects Different Meanings On Common Grounds

Memorial Day had its beginnings in 1868 during the Civil War and following World War II, Memorial or Decoration Day was set aside to commemorate the men and women who gave their lives in the defense of God and Country.

While the traditional Memorial Day is in honor of these gallant fallen soldiers, The Journal deviated somewhat and talked to a few of the many Bailey County war veterans to glean from their thoughts and memories a picture of what this special day means to them.

Sgt. Wayne Holmes, now a Muleshoe City police officer, served with the U. S. Navy as a CWO, spending a total of twenty-one years at sea. When questioned as to his feeling now--whether or not he regretted having served, Holmes stated: "I'm glad I went, and would go again if the need arose. It (defense) is a job that never gets finished."

The former naval officer served in Korea, North Africa, the occupation of Europe and Viet Nam, as well as three tours of duty in the middle east campaigns. Holmes proudly makes mention of the fact that his son, Bryce, is following in his military footsteps.

Shedding a different angle of light to the story was former Air Force nurse, Captain Evette La Parche. In civilian life, her name is Evette Freeman. Following initial training, Evette was sent to Clark AFB in the Philippine Islands where she was assigned to Pacific Air Evacuation. Her participation in the "Baby Lift" is outstanding in her mind, since she by virtue of an extended leave, missed being on the C-5 air ambulance that crashed killing over 150 babies and one half of a double crew. Freeman lost five of her closest friends in that crash who were also nurses. "We were sitting ducks, in that we carried no arms, we were medical personnel," she said. Although Mrs. Freeman still maintains that she could not understand the "home-folks" attitude toward Viet Nam, she should have been there and was glad to be a part of it. Seeing the tragedy and loss of life and limb made me realize how important our freedom is. "A freedom that we could not have, were it not for the men and women who have given their lives in its defense. "I would go back," she said, explaining that she would not have left the military were it not for a medical discharge due to an injury she received in a jungle survival school.

Ray Lynk, a former police officer and Major in the United States Air Force was a fighter pilot, flying over two hundred combat missions over a 20 year span of service. Lynk served in Viet Nam, Korea, the far east and in Europe and was stationed in various places over the world. The former Air Force Major said that most of all, he has "twenty years of memories, some good -- some bad." Would he go again, do the same thing over? "Yes, I would defend my country again. War is such a tragic loss of life." When questioned as to his feelings upon seeing a fellow pilot go down, Lynk said that it was "a personal tragedy and a terrible experience."

With the severe hail problems that have beset Bailey County the past week, County Agent Spencer Tansley has enlisted the help of Texas Agricultural Extension Service Area Agronomist, Dr. Kirby Huffman to counsel area producers on corn and other crop replanting. While most of the cotton in the hail affected area is completely destroyed, corn farmers are left with the making of a decision regarding replanting corn or other crops.

The County Agent said that several different severities of hail damage to corn is evident in Bailey County, and some fields will need another five to six days to properly assess the final actual damages. On plants where the "growing points" are still at ground level the corn may come back out and produce although yield potential will probably be damaged.

Dr. Huffman states that even though the plants may be ragged they may be able to recover and produce a good crop. Stand reduction, leaf loss, weed control insect control and calendar dates are all factors to think about when trying to make decisions, says Dr. Huffman.

After surveying area fields and assessing damage, the following information is offered by Dr. Huffman to area corn producers to help them with their decisions of replanting corn or going with another crop.

"The remaining stand is the first consideration in deciding whether to leave this crop or plant an alternate crop. The condition of the growing point will help determine stand potential and help in decision making.

The growing point of corn remains below ground level for two or three weeks after the plant emerges. It is also protected from hail injury by the leaf sheaths that surround the growing point. If the growing point is okay, corn can recover and perform better than a replanted crop or possibly an alternate crop. In order to inspect the growing point, one should split the stalk down the center with a knife or razor blade. If the growing point is okay, it will be white in color and will be firm textured. If the growing point has been damaged, it may be discolored and soft. This may allow bacteria or other disease organisms to penetrate into the growing area and cause problems. Corn can recover but may have the leaves bound together in the whorl in a condition

Land Bank Variable Rate Loans Raised

Interest rates on all Land Bank variable rate loans will be increased to 11-1/2 percent on farm loans and 12 percent on rural residence and farm-related business loans, said Bill Liles, president of the Federal Land Bank Association of Muleshoe.

These rates become effective June 1, 1982.

According to Land Bank President Thomas H. Benson, "Marketing conditions have prompted the Bank, with full cognizance of the problems facing agriculture to recommend the increase."

"Refunding maturing bonds having a face rate ranging from 6.65 percent to 8.75 percent. With new ones in the 14 percent range continuing to cause obvious pressure on the Bank's earnings," Benson said.

The Federal Land Bank Association of Muleshoe makes long-term real estate loans on farm and rural residence property in the counties of Bailey and Parmer.

Insect Scouting Workshop Date Set

Muleshoe-Cotton, corn and sorghum producers in Bailey County are receiving a special invitation this year to take part in the annual High Plains Scout Training Workshop to increase the effectiveness of their pest management programs.

The workshop will be held Tuesday and Wednesday, June 1-2, at the Hale County Agricultural Center in Plainview, said Spencer Tanksley, County Extension Agent. The center is on U. S. 87 Business Route south of the city.

The workshop, conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, was first held in 1973 to train scouts in the pest management programs conducted by Extension. In subsequent years, it has expanded to include scouts employed by consultants, aerial applicators, and others, as well as producers who want to learn how to scout their own fields for insects. The workshop focuses on perfecting skills in identifying crop pests and making timely pest management decisions which can protect investments and yield and hold down production costs, Tanksley said.

The June 1 session opens at 8:30 a.m. with Dr. Pat Morrison outlining the scope of the workshop and explaining pest management concepts. Also on the morning program are Dr. Dale Pennington, Extension soil chemist; Dr. James Supak, Extension cotton agronomist; Dr. Robert Berry, Extension plant pathologist; and Dr. Jim Leser, cotton Extension Entomologist.

The afternoon program will include Dr. Kirby W.

Huffman, Extension agronomist; Dr. Pat Morrison, Extension entomologist and Allen E. Knutson, Castro County Extension agent entomology, who will discuss corn and sorghum pests.

The June 2 session, beginning at 9 a.m., will focus on scouting procedures and reports. Instructors will be county Extension agents - entomology Greg Cronholm of Hale County and Allen Knutson.

During the afternoon, the participants will receive practical training on insect identification and scouting procedures during a field session.

The previous record of $130,000 was set at last year's event. Second highest price, $100,000, was paid by Mae West Syndicate of Houston for the mare Gajes Mae West from Welch Ranches at Merkel, Texas.

Santa Gertrudis sales were led by a bull from Cosgrove Ranches of Coalgate, Oklahoma, which brought $37,000 from J&S Fullen Farms of Ripley, Tennessee. A cow with two calves at side, consigned by Double T Ranch of Scurry, Texas, brought the second highest price at $24,500 from Silverbrook Farms of Middlebrook, Virginia.

The three sponsors are already planning the 1983 Western Heritage Sale, which will be May 6-7 at the Shamrock Hilton Hotel. Meetings are set for July in Santa Fe, New Mexico, to select next year's art, cattle, and horse consignors.

Pretty soon a new generation of college graduates will take over the country.

Former POWs Now Eligible For Benefits

Former prisoners of war in Texas should contact the Veterans Administration regional office to ascertain if there are any more benefits and services due them because of their imprisonment. The Prisoner of War Benefits Act of 1981 signed into law last August 14 includes persons detained or interned during periods other than wartime, liberalizes certain eligibility requirements and extends existing benefits, advises Jack Coker, Director, Waco VA Regional Office.

Former POWs now can establish that certain disabilities are related to their POW experience without producing military records confirming they were incurred or aggravated during active duty. These disabilities: avitaminosis, beri-beri (including beri-beri heart disease), chronic dysentery, helminthiasis, malnutrition (including optic atrophy associated with malnutrition) pellagra or any other nutritional deficiency, phycosis or any of the anxiety states.

"If the POW was detained or interned for 30 days or more, and any of the preceding disabilities became active (10 percent or more) after his or her military service, VA will presume that the disability was incurred or aggravated during military service -- unless there is clear evidence of some other cause," Coker said. "It is also important to note that the time period for those disorders to become active has been eliminated for service-connection purposes."

A Pity
The poor man is probably better morally than the rich man, as nearly all sins are expensive.

called buggy-whipping.

These plants may require more time than the producer is willing to give in making a decision and should be considered as dead plants when the stand count is made.

Stand count can be made by measuring a set length of row per the row width of operation. This is 13 feet 1 inch for a 40 inch row, 13 feet 9 inches for a 38 inch row and 14 feet 6 inches for 36 inch rows. Make a stand count several places in the field to determine what kind of recoverable stand is still present.

If a producer decides he has enough stand but plants are ragged, then he may want to use leaf loss in helping make a decision. When the plants are lost at a younger stage it does not affect the yield of corn plant as much as later leaf loss. At the ten leaf stage, the yield loss may be as high as 15% if severe leaf damage occurs. Losses increase with severe defoliation and then decreases after tasseling to maturity.

At this time, spraying with all kinds of wonder products probably is not going to help. Foliar feeding of fertilizer and fungicide of this crop is probably not going to make that much difference and now is not the time to spend extra money on a crop that may

He was involved in the Korean conflict and attached to a legal office dealing with Captain's Mast and Court Martials. Though not in actual combat situations, Young stated that Memorial Day to him meant the honoring of the war dead, remembrance of friends and acquaintances who died in the conflicts, making the ultimate sacrifice for their country.

Clyde Newell, a World War I veteran served with the Texas National Guard in 1917 in Paris, Texas. According to Newell, they were mustered into the service and went to Ft. Worth for 9 months of training before being shipped to France with the 36th Division as a gunner with the Field Artillery. Their duty was to guard the Germans captured in France. Newell served almost three years and has deep feelings towards his country. The fact that he still keeps his army headgear is proof positive of this.

Jerrrell Otwell first served with the SeaBees and in the Navy as a Gunner's Mate, Third Class in World War II in Pearl Harbor and Okinawa. He also reenlisted later, serving with the Shore Patrol in Portland, Oregon. Otwell also served in World War II with his father in the 13th Fleet. The elder Otwell was a Captain on a flag ship. Otwell is proud of his military record and reserves many memories and thoughts from that era of his life.

He served 42 months on the DD6-12 Kendrick Destroyer, making 18 crossings as an escort ship for troop convoys and merchant ships, giving protection from submarines. Jones holds reverent feelings for his country and is proud to have served. He was in the North African landings, in South France and Italy.

Hance Fires On Crop

Insurance Regulations

U. S. Rep. Kent Hance, D-Texas, today attacked Federal Crop Insurance Corp. regulations and urged a Senate subcommittee to either amend the regulations or reinstate the disaster programs previously administered by the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

In testimony before the Senate subcommittee on Agricultural Production, Marketing and Stabilization of Prices, Hance said the previous disaster programs met the needs of the farmer and saved taxpayers' money.

Hance took exception with the FCIC's cancellation, planting and sale date deadlines, which "force the farmer to make decisions at the wrong time of the year, and as we all know, no one date would be fair to all farmers... but by leaving the sales deadline for crop insurance to a county committee, we could easily alleviate the current situation."

"The Texas Democrat leveled his harshest criticism however, for requiring cotton farmers to sign up for crop insurance by December 31 with a deadline for planting of June 1.

"If on June 1st West Texas is in the midst of a dry spell, the farmers are encouraged to go ahead and encouraged to go ahead and plant in order to collect the crop insurance they have already opted for even though the farmer knows this is a bad conservation practice," Hance said. "By planting when it's dry, the first gust of wind will take his topsoil into the next county."

"The farmer knows this when he plants," Hance continued, "So he plants a lesser grade of seed and tries to spend as little as possible to qualify for the crop insurance coverage he has already signed up for."

"This, in my opinion, is the best example of crop insurance practices of the bureaucrat written by the bureaucrat, and for the bureaucrat. The farmer is encouraged to practice bad conservation and operate

The Farm Crisis

There are some who believe depressions begin with the ruination of our farmers. Among them is Chairman Jamie Whitten (D-Miss) of the House Appropriations Committee.

He has pointed out that the last great depression climaxed after many American farmers had been wiped out. They could no longer buy farm equipment, not to mention the luxuries and conveniences of life.

Farm equipment dealers, grocers, clothiers and other merchants and business men in the average small town and city went under when their customers disappeared--when conditions on the farms became so bad, buying power dried up.

The situation concerning our farms today is reminiscent of the grim days of fifty years ago. Farmers are going out of business, selling their equipment and land. So far this hasn't produced the impact on the economy it might otherwise have done, because in 1981 there were record harvests of many crops.

If the trend continues, however, it's certain to exert an increasing impact on the already sliding economy. Emergency measures are justified to increase U.S. farm markets, especially in Japan and western Europe, where tariffs often bar U.S. farm commodities.

A heavy blow, which U.S. farmers are still suffering from, was former President Jimmy Carter's idealistic action in stopping U.S. wheat sales to Russia. The Russians were our biggest buyers, and they got their wheat elsewhere when we cut off sales.

The net result of this protest over far-away Afghanistan was that U.S. farmers paid the price. President Reagan, who initially intended to retain the sales ban, changed his mind and rescinded it, noting that it hadn't accomplished anything except to depress U.S. grain prices.

Congress should act immediately to provide low-interest loans to distressed farmers being forced out of business. As interest rates come down, these loans can perhaps be transferred to private institutions. And the Reagan Administration, already moving vigorously in this direction, should push as hard as possible for new markets for U.S. farm products.

Congress could help by speedily enacting a compromise budget which would hasten the economic recovery, increase domestic demand. Too many in Congress play politics when quick action is the obvious urgent necessity of the hour.

So What?

Much ado is being made over the allegation that the youngster who shot President Reagan and others was insane at the time. Of course he was.

And ninety percent of all the others who shoot people are insane at the time they do it. That's why we have jails and execution chambers--which are for the people who go berserk and whom society cannot allow to move freely about.

Medical and psychological arguments about guilt and insanity often miss the main point. It doesn't matter to those killed, or who will be killed in the future by people who go berserk, perhaps stoned on drugs or alcohol, why the deed took place.

There are no excuses for premeditated shooting of fellow citizens. Whatever the cause, or excuse, the proper penalty is that these people should be put away so that they are unable to harm others.

If they need psychiatric treatment, drug treatment or treatment for alcoholism, they should get it--while serving their regular sentences just like everyone else. In the past, smart lawyers and medical experts have been utilized to enable some of the guilty to escape punishment.

All that jury verdicts about temporary insanity should provide is that the sentence, the same sentence any other citizen would get, will include free corrective treatment.

AUSTIN -- Regional councils are voluntary associations of local governments established to coordinate planning and to deal with problems which cross boundaries of local governments.

In 1965, Texas regional councils were created by state statute in response to national legislation. Congress had decided that regional planning should be done by organizations directed by locally elected officials beneath the state level.

In Texas, our 24 regional councils are required to coincide with the geographic boundaries of the state planning regions as set by the governor. Presently, 94% of our 254 counties have voluntarily become members of the 24 regional councils. 600 cities and other local governments such as school districts, soil and water conservation districts, and other special districts, are members.

Occasionally, regional councils are referred to as councils of governments, regional planning commissions, associations of governments, or area councils.

The inner structure of each regional council is determined by the participating local governments in order to meet their specific needs. Each regional council has a general assembly and a board of directors, either of which may be designated as the governing body. The governing body of a regional council is required to consist of at least 2/3 locally elected officials of cities and counties. There are also policy advisory committees to assist in defining needs of the region and staffs to implement the decisions of the policymaking bodies.

Regional councils plan for the development of their respective areas, assist local government in regional plans, contract with local governments for certain services, review and comment on applications for federal financial assistance, and provide local governments with technical assistance. These responsibilities may include such areas as criminal justice, transportation, rural development, land resource management, health, and many others.

Though regional councils are political subdivisions, they have no regulatory powers and therefore their decisions are not binding on member governments.

Funding for regional councils comes from local, state, and federal governments, and some private sources. Usually, local funding is composed of dues from member governments according to formula. State funds come from state assistance planning grants issued by the Governor's Budget and Planning Office according to a formula based on matching local funds. Federal funds can be made directly or indirectly through state agencies to the regional councils.

Regional councils will play increasingly important roles as the federal government turns back more programs to the states. We should make the best possible use of these important vehicles for planning a successful future for Texas.

NEWS REPORT FROM WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON, D. C. -- The outlook for summer passage of a budget is improved since the House Budget Committee completed its version May 13. That budget, while not reforming Social Security, would reduce the deficit more than the Senate version--with new taxes.

The gist of the difference between the two budgets, both dodging the tough issues as much as possible by leaving details out, is in tax increases. The House budget would hike taxes $145 billion in the next three years while the Senate resolution calls for $95 billions in new taxes.

The impressive thing about the House budget is that it bit the bullet in freezing non-military spending at 1982 levels for three years and put a cap on benefit program increases and on federal civilian and military pay increases.

Because Congress isn't likely to vote $145 billion in new taxes, the House budget, if adopted, probably means a bigger deficit than the Senate budget. But both houses must yet act and then a conference committee then reconcile the differences.

When the conference bill passes both houses, it will be up to the president to veto or sign the budget, and whether that budget goes far enough to meet minimum Reagan demands will determine whether or not a veto is used.

The need, of course, is for speed and that depends on how much politics is involved. The hope is for a legislative struggle of about two months.

With elections in November, most House members want to get home to campaign, and the earliest hope is September.

Memorial Day

Memorial Day began--as a national observance--during the Civil War, first in Mississippi (Columbus and Vicksburg), Virginia (Winchester) and other states, and by 1865 was observed nationally. That year the Adjutant General of the U.S. Army suggested graves be decorated throughout the country.

Christianity, idealistic and moral principles notwithstanding, unless a free nation contains men willing to fight and die for country and freedom, liberty cannot survive.

These are the thoughts which should engage us on Memorial Day, 1982. And to all who responded to their duty when their country called, and who gave their lives, the nation is indebted. It is too much to expect each individual soldier, sailor or airman to pass individually on the rightness or wrongness of the foreign policy of his government and act accordingly.

Rather, a nation must necessarily depend on brave men who believe, as Robert E. Lee did, that duty (but not blind obedience) is the sublimest word in the English language.

'82 Texas Traffic Deaths Increased

Texas traffic deaths increased by six percent last year compared to 1980, according to statistics compiled by the Department of Public Safety. The mileage death rate, however, decreased by two percent. The rate was 4.2 deaths per hundred million miles traveled in 1981 as compared to 4.3 in 1980.

"A total of 4,701 fatalities were recorded on our state streets and highways for 1981," said Colonel Jim Adams, DPS director.

"This was the fifth consecutive record year for motor vehicle deaths in Texas."

DPS reports 2,071 city traffic deaths in 1981 which is 44.1 per cent of the total fatalities, while rural highway accidents claimed 2,630 lives or 55.9 per cent of the deaths.

Adams noted that DWI-related deaths last year totaled 1,082, an increase of eight percent above 1980.

"Fatalities attributed to drunk driving made up 23 percent of the total killed, according to investigating officers. However, we believe this figure would be as high as 50 percent if Texas law required blood alcohol measurements from all drivers involved in fatal accidents," he said.

Motorcycle deaths reached 442 in 1981, rising 17 percent compared to the previous year. Seventy five percent of the cyclists killed were not wearing helmets.

"Total accidents reported by state and local officers last year numbered 458,017, six per cent higher than 1980," Adams pointed out. "Our statistics also show that 206,196 persons were injured in Texas traffic mishaps in 1981. That amounts to an 11 percent increase over the previous year."

Statistics show motorists traveled 111,036 billion miles last year compared to 1980's 103,255 billion miles. This represents an increase of 7.5 percent. The DPS director urged drivers to observe speed limits, use seat belts and refrain from drinking if they plan to drive.

Imported Bootleg Diesel Slowed To Trickle

AUSTIN, Tex. -- State Comptroller Bob Bullock announced today that the importation of untaxed bottled diesel fuel from Mexico has been slowed to a trickle.

"We haven't dried it up entirely yet," Bullock said. "But we've turned off the tap for the time being."

Bullock made his announcement at the end of a month-long investigation involving Comptroller agents, local law enforcement officers, U. S. Customs and representatives of the Mexican national oil company (PEMEX).

"The price of diesel is subsidized by the Mexican government and everytime a gallon of diesel leaves that country, they are losing money. And every gallon of diesel that goes untaxed into Texas is costing the state six and one half cents. It was once estimated that smuggled diesel fuel was costing Texas up to $100 million a year in lost taxes. It's nowhere near that now."

Comptroller employees charged 46 defendants with illegally transporting and selling diesel fuel April 20 in El Paso. The El Paso Fire Marshal issued 141 citations for fire code violations. All pleaded guilty to the Comptroller's charges and paid $50 to $100 fines.

These charges came one week after similar charges were filed in Laredo, where Bullock's agents charged 11 truckers for smuggling diesel fuel.

Late reports from major border crossing points indicate the illicit import of diesel has slowed or stopped.

"This isn't something you can do once and walk away from. We'll be coming around," said Bullock.

Dear Bonnie:
The pleasant vista of our garden is marred by trash and garden receptacles. Altho we've planted some vines and small shrubs around there, they are still quite obvious. Will you please suggest a color to further conceal them?
Garden Gazer

Dear Gazer:
For the most perfect concealment choose the Army camouflage color, the brownish, greenish, deep khaki color, 7765 (card B31). Choose it in a matte finish. It will blend with the colors of leaf, bark, soil, etc. to cover a multitude of sins and become part of the surroundings.

HE KNOWS WHOM TO TRUST!

EVERY BOY knows that his grandfather is a trustworthy guide whether it is advice about boats or about life. Many adults have lost the child's ability to trust, and in fact do not know whom to trust about life. There is one guide who never fails—He is our Father in Heaven. Are you wise enough to trust Him? Then seek His guidance today and go Sunday to worship Him in His Church. He alone can make sense out of life and give the victory over death.

Sudan Seniors Return From Class Trip

By Laura Ramos and Shelley Gore

On May 7, 18 enthusiastic graduates of the class of '82 boarded a TNM&O bus bound for Corpus Christi.

Those going on the trip were Dale Harper, Sheila Summer, Shelley Gore, Billy Scott, Greg Humphreys, Lena Zapata, Gena Gustin, Scott Hargrove, Timmy

Our first exciting experience was getting stopped outside of Littlefield and having our 'beverages' taken away. We soon discovered that the trip was going to be a very dry one, and that adulthood was not all it was cracked up to be, but that didn't dampen our spirit.

We arrived at Corpus around 10:00 on Saturday morning and we spent much of the day recuperating from the trip, swimming and eating.

On Sunday, we departed for Padre Island at around 1:00 p.m. where we showed off our skills in riding the waves. We hunted for sea shells and ended the day with a weiner roast.

Monday morning a few early birds went deep sea fishing and that evening, we all dressed up and headed for Long John Silvers and then on to the movies.

After the movie, a few visited the game room at the Holiday Inn while the others went back to their rooms to pack, short sheet beds, put odor eaters in everyone's shoes, and then to change room numbers to confuse the others.

Tuesday morning, we all woke bright and early to head back to our West Texas homes in Sudan. The trip home was a most memorable one with everyone taking turns entertaining. We arrived at Sudan around 11:30 on Tuesday night. We hated to see each other go yet we were eager for the excitement that awaits us.

OKN behalf of the class of '82, we would like to thank our wonderful sponsors, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Summer and Mr. and Mrs. Bob Nelson. Without their enthusiasm and support our trip would not have been the success it was.

Stumped

"I don't know how to fill out this question, sir."

"What is it?"

"It says: 'Who was your mother before she was married?' I didn't have any mother before she was married."

Canner Testing Is Scheduled At Three Way

Home canners in the southern part of the county need to bring their canners to the Three Way School on June 3 to be checked, according to Linda Mullin, County Extension Agent.

She will be testing canners from 9:00 to 12:00 in the homemaking cottage.

"Make sure your canner is in good working order for the food preservation season ahead," she said. "There is no charge for the testing."

"In order to check the canner correctly, you will need to bring the entire canner, including the rack and weight," said the extension agent. "Testing requires approximately one

Pork promotion to increase sales

AUSTIN—A cutback in hog and pig inventories in Texas coupled with a recently released, nationwide campaign promoting pork as a healthy, lean meat, should improve market conditions in the pork industry, Agriculture Commissioner Reagan V. Brown reports.

"Improved breeding and feeding methods of hogs and pigs has led to a leaner, healthier pork product. The National Pork Producers Council recently kicked off an advertising promotion to dispel the myth that pork is still a fatty meat, high in calories and cholesterol. This promotion combined with the voluntary cutback in production by pork producers should improve the image and marketability of pork," Brown said.

Theories are good if they work. This is the time of year cute things look cuter. Why is it that most people get so excited over nothing?

Sudan Eighth Grade Graduate

Twenty five

Twenty five students graduated Thursday, May 13, from the eighth grade of Sudan Elementary school with exercises being held in the cafeteria.

Llaura Powell was pianist for the professional of "Largo" and also the "Recessional."

Rev. Cliff Houghton, pastor of the Assembly of God Church, gave the invocation followed by the class song, "Here I Am" by Laura Powell on the piano.

Michele Gaston gave the salutatory address. She was second high student of the class having a grade average of 95.6. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wix Gaston.

Wade Donnell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gary Donnell, gave the valedictory address. He was the highest ranking student of the class with a grade average of 95.9. Buddy Lowrance, high school principal, presented the class and Kenneth Noles, superintendent of schools, awarded the certificates.

Kenneth Richards, father of one of the members of the graduating class, gave the benediction. Class colors were silver and red and they chose the red rose as their flower. Their motto was "I have but one lamp by which my feet are guided and that is the lamp of experience. I know no way of judging the future but by the past."

Kenneth Carr and Roger Mac Boyles were the class sponsors. Ushers for the occasion were David Wood, Ricky Tennyson, Johnny Montez, Bonnie Newman, Keitha Scott and Lorrie Gonzales. Members of the class were Pres. Lauri Ann Dameron; Duane Lee Bartley, vice president; Tommy Blake Laceywell, secretary-treasurer; and Anna Dolores Ramos, Reporter.
