Midland Cow, Jealous of Chicago Brute, Establishes Herself as a Discoverer

Cows have been known to start things from the time of the Pastoral Age, according to Wells and other historians.

But it remained to C. E. Manning, Midland county farmer, to show that the animal who upset the lamp in Chicago was not to be given all the credit for starting publicity.

Manning has a cow which may create a bit of history for her discovery of a new method of rope making.

The farmer went out upon the prairie to get his milk producer. She was inextricably fastened with a chain to a stub, but the farmer found that the point of fastening was caught on a fence with a fine bit of what seemed to be twisted hemp. When he tried to pull this extra fastening loose he found that it resisted his hardest efforts.

Manning, being more ingenious than physically powerful, he suggested to the cow that she help him break the bond on the stake chain. He gave her a slap upon the rear quarters.

Nobly did the cow assist her master, but it required a knife to get the hemp-like tangle loose.

Afterward, Manning investigated and found that it was the long staple of a native grass that had twisted itself into a rope and wrapped around the chair. He experimented further.

Taking the tops of the grass, he rubbed it together and found that it made powerful thread. By further rubbing this could be made into longer thread. He wove of this a rope which could not but fail to impress one as coming from a rope factory. It has the same color as hemp rope and, if anything, is stronger, Manning says.

So, a new industry may eventually come about as a result of the inquisitiveness of the cow who "stayed hitched" until she was convinced she had given her master a chance for a "break" into the new working out of methods of production for an old industry.

EXHIBITION FLYER TO HOSPITAL; BECH GOOD SUBSTITUTE

Free rides given at the airport over the last day of the week and Sunday went to Lloyd McKinney, Bobby Blodgett, Mrs. Frank Wendt and Lester Pittman, Manager Becherer said from Sloan Field this morning.

A good crowd was on hand to see Nan Durham fly her miniature plane, but the flyer had to be carried to a hospital for treatment just before her hour of takeoff, due to a touch of ptomaine poisoning resulting from something she had eaten for lunch.

Manager Becherer gave the crowd a series of thrills, however, by taking up the Robin monoplane and doing a series of loops, spins and Immelmans.

Miss Durham will be in Midland next Sunday for the promised exhibition flight, if nothing prevents her takeoff, Becherer said.

Aggie Exes Have "Stag Party" And Smoker Tonight

Something's brewing in the wind for release at the private dining room tonight, according to Aubrey S. Legg, and Bert Ross, who are making arrangements for the annual meet of the exes of Texas A & M College here.

Every Aggie, from anywhere, who happens to be here, today is invited to attend.

The banquet begins at 7:30.

MEVICO CITY, April 22. (AP)—Ten thousand Federal soldiers under General Calles forged northward today, across the southern boundary of Sonora, for what may be the last big battle of the Revolution at Masalaca and San Antonio, Sonora, 40 miles north of the Federal's starting point.

WAR PILOTS WILL GET TOGETHER IN ASSOCIATION HERE

All war pilots who have gravitated to Midland are to be brought together in a most interesting association, according to O. C. Harper this morning.

Army pilots and ex-army pilots are asked to get into communication with Harper at the Galt-Brown Oil company's Midland office.

Details will not be announced until after a few days.

W. A. Yeager, H. M. Becherer, O. C. Harper, and Jack Godsey are those known to be here who have done government flying. These men think there are others.

LOSS IS SAID TO EXCEED $1250

Entry Affected by Slashing of Rear Door of Place

One of the best planned robberies which has ever been pulled off in this county was staged at the Silver Grill cafe some time between 1:15 and 4:00 o'clock this morning. Burglars effected entry in to the back of the place and carted off a safe which had locked inside it slightly more than $1250 in checks, money and other valuables.

The sheriff's office is a work on clues. The statements made to reporters this morning by Angelo Thomas and George Juannes, owners of the cafe, throw all the light on the case which could be had. Thomas led newspapermen around to the back of the place and showed them where a screen had been slit and a pass key inserted into the lock of the door.

Had Removed Bonds "I closed the place at 1:15, this morning," Thomas said. "My partner, Juannes opened at 4. He discovered the rent in the door and turned in the alarm at 4:30. There was $750 in cash in the safe and a $500 diamond ring and other valuables. Fortunately, I had removed a quantity of bonds last week and had stored them in a safety vault in El Paso."

Was Rolled Into Alley Marks showed that the safe, which weighed about 400 pounds, had been carried out of the place through the rear. The light in the alley had been out two nights—"Fixed especially for the raid, I think," Thomas said.

The truck was not in the main alley but was shunted aside to a spot where it was covered from the eyes of a prowling nightwatchman. The safe was rolled along the hard ground of the alley to the truck, loaded and driven away.

Checks Were Taken Thomas said he would like for those who gave him checks between the hours of Saturday noon and 2 o'clock Sunday evening to call at his place and make them out again, as the thieves carried away all checks which had been made out during that period.

AIRMEN—AND A NEW ERA

By Bruce Catton

One of the peculiar things about human nature is that it will accept almost any kind of change if the change comes unannounced.

For instance: if a group of energetic, restless young men should come on the scene and announce that they were about to remake the whole nation, so that countless old customs and habits would be wiped out and all the cities and towns would be moved closer together, we probably would resent it very firmly.

But when they simply go ahead and do it without saying anything about it, we don't mind—indeed, we rather like it. Instead of defying the young men who are pushing us bodily into a new kind of society, we applaud them.

The aviators are doing just exactly that. When they get through with us the United States, in common with the rest of the world, will be very different from its old self. The change, probably, will be for the better; but we won't even realize that there is a change until after it is accomplished.

Read this little news dispatch from a recent paper: "Edmonton, Alberta.—When 'Pinch' Dickens, Edmonton flyer, brought his monoplane to a landing on the Edmonton flying field the other evening he completed a notable flight of 1600 miles from Fort Good Hope on the rim of the Arctic Circle. The plane carried a valuable contingent of furs from the northern parts."

In those two sentences there is compressed a volume about the new order that the aviators are bringing.

The outlying fur posts in the Canadian northwest have been, for centuries, among the isolated, unattainable sections of the world. Each man was separated from his neighbor by long days of hard travel. To get to civilization was a task that took weeks; long canoe trips on lonely waters, endless hikes across desolate waste lands, night after night of solitary camping in trackless forests and limitless plains.

Now young Mr. Dickens, gifted with the flip nickname, 'Pinch', soars off in his monoplane—and puts the Arctic circle within 24 hours' time of the city of Edmonton. Without saying anything about it, he has simply taken the map of northwestern Canada and made it shrink. The era of isolation and great distances is at an end, forever.

That is what all the airplanes are doing, though we do not often realize it. The flyers are bringing us closer together. Our present form of society was drawn up to fit a country of long journeys and widely separated cities; the airplanes are in a fair way to make it as compact as Holland.

If the airmen declared themselves in advance we might resent it; at the very least we'd probably ask them to wait until we figured things out. But they don't. They are pulling all of us into closer contact with each other, wiping out old distances, killing isolation; and all we can do about it is to recognize the fact and adjust ourselves to a changed era.

THE MOTORIST PAYS ENOUGH

The motorists of this nation are surely paying their share of the taxes.

In 1928, according to estimates of the United States Bureau of Public Roads, various state gasoline taxes netted over $300,000,000. Increases voted in nearly every part of the country will boost the figure this year to the neighborhood of $450,000,000.

Obviously, the motorist ought to help pay for the good roads that his activities make necessary; and so long as the money is used for that purpose alone the situation isn't so bad. But some states are beginning to divert part of this revenue to other purposes; and, in addition, many legislators seem to have the idea that no gas tax can be too high. The motorist right now is paying just about all that can in justice be demanded of him.

TURNING OFFICERS INTO COOKS

The old maxim that an army travels—or is it 'fights'?—on its stomach is given added confirmation in new tactics just adopted by the U. S. War Department.

Army officers, under these new orders, have to learn how to cook. At Fort Sam Houston, in Texas, for instance, there is a class of 12 commissioned officers studying the mechanics of preparing army rations. They are learning how to get meals—everything from beef stew to salad and pumpkin pie. The theory, no doubt, is that officers with such knowledge will be able to oversee the work of the company cooks much better, and thus will be able to see that their men are getting the proper kind of food.

The War Department, to our notion, is showing excellent judgment. The soldier is a great one to grumble over his lot; but the grumbling is never really serious unless it concerns the food he is getting. If he is fed properly, he doesn't so much mind his other troubles; and if he isn't, his dissatisfaction rapidly becomes acute.

A GOOD LAW TO COPY

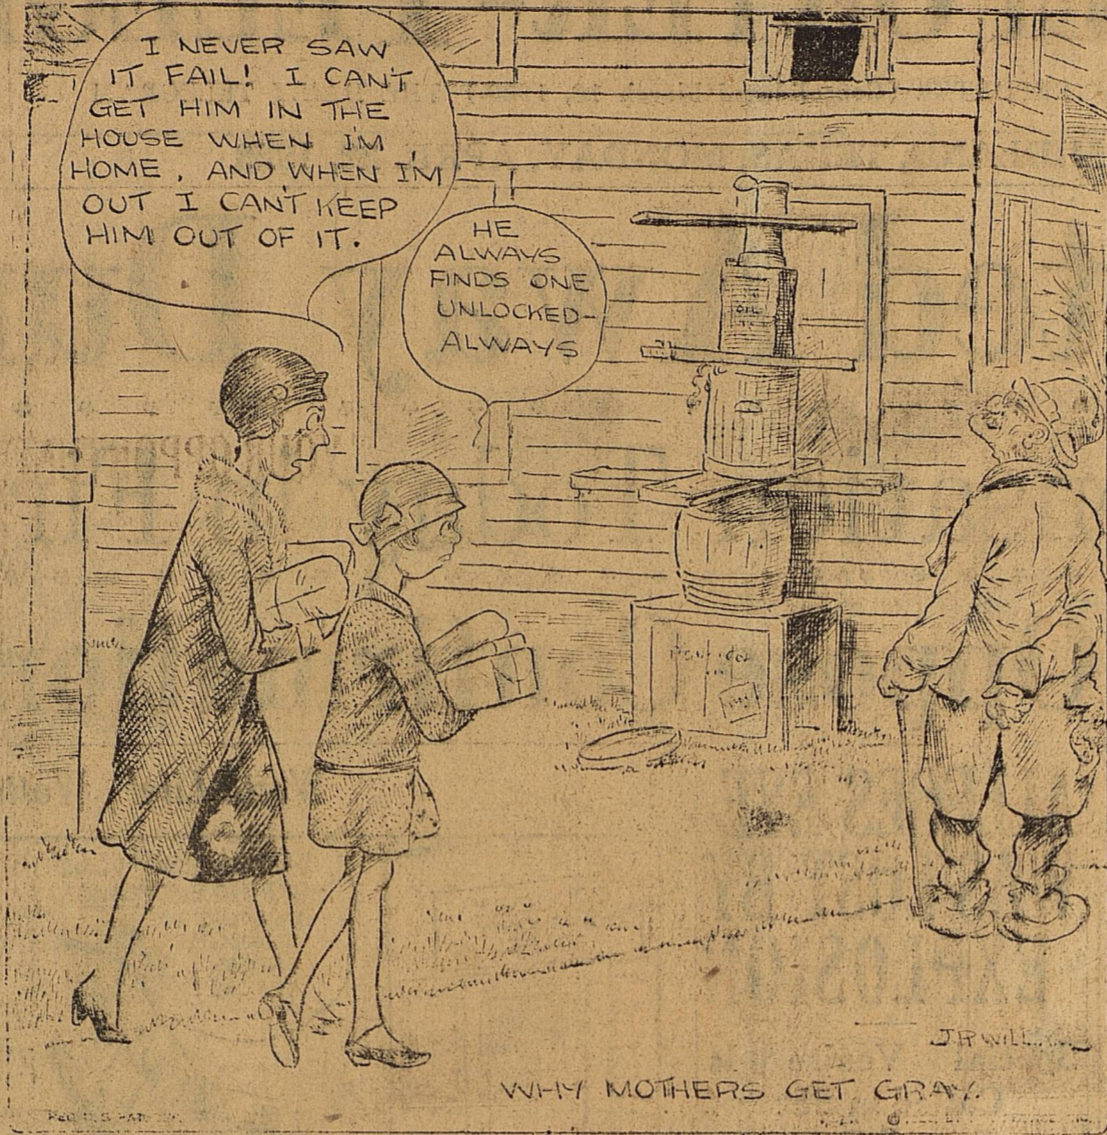

The state of Michigan has passed a law prohibiting the sale or use of fireworks—except, of course, at regular municipal or state displays—and a lot of other states would do well to copy that law on their own books.

The Fourth of July, to be sure, is a long way off; but right now isn't too early to start preparing to make it safe and sane.

Despite the abundance of proof that fireworks, in the hands of children, are extremely dangerous playthings, each Fourth of July brings a long list of casualties—deaths, ruined eyes, burns, scars, and the like. Cities that pass ordinances prohibiting the sale of fireworks are unable to protect their citizens because suburban towns, easily accessible by auto, have them on sale.

State-wide laws are the only measures that will stamp fireworks out. Michigan's example is an excellent one for other states to copy.

LETTERS to the EDITOR

EDITOR'S NOTE—Readers of The Reporter-Telegram are invited to use this column. Scandalous and defamatory articles will not be considered. Typewritten copy, preferably triple-spaced, will be given preference. All letters must be signed by the correct name. No letters will be accepted.

If you will let me space in the columns of your paper, I would like to relate to the readers a race which took place in the track meet at San Angelo last Saturday evening, hoping that by so doing I might encourage more athletes in our schools and among our boys.

This race was run by one of our town boys, Rex Long, and was one of the most fascinating races I ever saw.

As that fine young body sped around the track, I was thrilled to the very marrow of my bones, knowing so well what it takes to train for track.

In the first place, it takes a very brilliant mind, one who can have complete control of self; and dear boy readers, that means he never touches strong drink of any kind, never smokes or dissipates in any form, no matter what the temptation might be, has control of appetite in every sense of the word, and is obedient to those over him.

This boy showed from the way he ran to possess all these traits. Those who know athletics know no boy can do these things and run a mile in less than five minutes.

As he caught the eyes of hundreds of people, and as the talk ran through the crowd that he won the race although the other boy jumped over the line a few inches in front of him, he won the victory just as much, and certainly won his way into the hearts of all thinking people.

As I looked upon him I thought of where our dependable men of tomorrow are coming from, and we all know the men who hold high positions, those who are trustworthy and those who stand morally highest, those who operate the business

Bargain Week At The Grand Met Approval

In line with the peculiarities of modern business, the Grand Theatre inaugurated a Spring Celebration Bargain Week, offering the public a full week of picture entertainment at admission-prices of ten cents for adults and five cents for children at all performances throughout the week.

"The Wheel of Destiny" is the feature attraction for the opening night of the Bargain Week festival. It is a picture of many thrills, its romantic adventures revolving around carnival and circus life. The central figure is a man whose scientific experiments brought to the world a discovery of tremendous value. And right at the break of the significant discovery an accident renders him unconscious of the past—of his right name, his home or identity. After a series of thrilling events, the mystery is cleared up—the fogged mind of the man who had mastered science in behalf of humanity, is again restored, and the final climax brings together in a happy reunion, the fragments of romance and love, which fate had so strangely shattered.

On the program is a beautiful Color Classic film, "Love Charms," a news reel and comedy. Patrons of yesterday praised the program as the biggest dime's worth they ever bought, and the satisfaction of the opening of the Bargain Week idea was admitted as beyond expectations by Manager Bonner. The same program will be given today, with complete change tomorrow.

EPISCOPAL CHURCH APPRECIATIVE OF AID GIVEN TO IT

Thanks to the Presbyterian church for the use of that church's building, to singers who made up the choir at the eleven o'clock service, to the ladies who decorated the church, and to the management of Hotel Scharbauer for the use of the private dining room for a communion service before the mid-day services, were stated today by members of the Episcopal church, which held first services in Midland Sunday.

Bishop Seaman of the Northwest Texas diocese baptized five children before the communion service. He left for Barstow at 4 o'clock. He is covering three counties on his visit to the Southwest.

MARRIAGE SECRET EXPOSED

LYNN, Mass., April 22.—(UP)—A secret marriage was revealed here with the publication of a new telephone directory. Friends noticed that Miss Myrtle Goldwath's number was listed under the name of "Mrs. Myrtle Badger." This was the first intimation they had of her marriage several weeks previously to Alfred Badger.

The German scholar who says the Americans have little to worry about, should have been here the other day when Lindbergh was overdue a few hours.

A. & M. To Give Terracing and Soil Course

COLLEGE STATION, Texas, Apr 22.—In keeping with the rapidly growing interest in terracing and soil conservation in Texas, two new courses will be added by the school of agriculture of the A & M College of Texas next fall, one in terracing and one in soil conservation, Dean E. J. Kyle of the school of agriculture has announced.

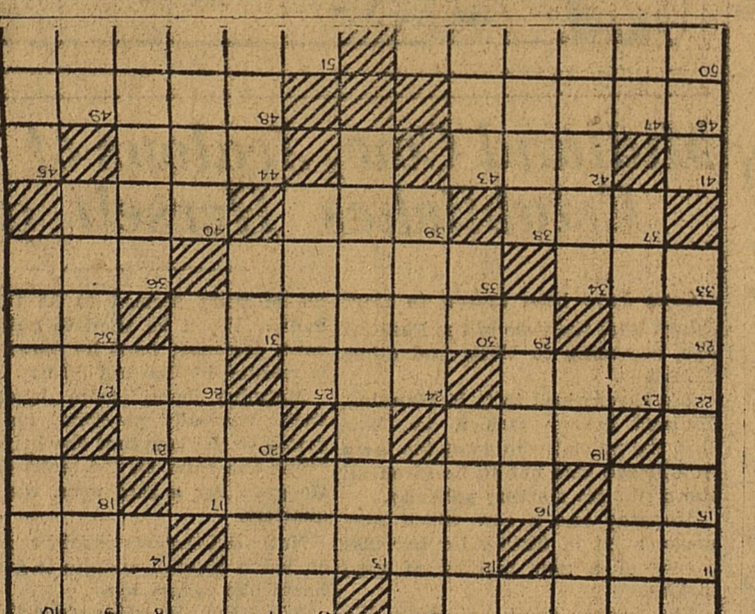

The course in terracing will be required of all senior students in agriculture and, according to Dean Kyle, A & M will become, so far as is known, the first institution in the country to make this a required course. Instruction in terracing will be given through the agricultural engineering department under the general supervision of D. Scoates, head of the department. The course in soil conservation will be given in the agronomy department of which Dr. J. O. Mason is the head. While the essentials in both courses have been offered students at the A & M College of Texas heretofore these subjects hereafter will receive special treatment and will be emphasized in keeping with the interest in the field in question.

Of the 2,800,000 acres estimated to have been terraced in Texas, more than one-half of this total has been accounted for within the last three years, it has been pointed out. Due to the heavy demand for men who understand the terracing of rolling land, much of the time of county farm agents of the Extension Service of the college is now being devoted to training workers to carry on the terracing program.

Clothing Specialist Here This Week

Miss Genavieve Deeberry, county home demonstration agent, is announcing the visit of Mrs. Dora R. Barnes, clothing specialist of the extension service to be made here April 24 and 25.

Mrs. Barnes will demonstrate to the women of Midland on April 24 "how to make a dress form" and on the 25th "tailored finishes." These will be held at the Methodist church at 2:00 o'clock each afternoon and every Midland woman is invited to come and requested to bring a needle, thread, thimble, scissors and at least one-fourth yard of material, either percale, gingham, print or domestic.

Midland People Attend Open House At Texas Tech

Open house in the engineering department building at Texas Tech yesterday afternoon was attended by Misses Eleanor Connel and Jetra Edwards and Mr. Charles Edwards, all of Midland. Other Midland guests at Texas Tech this week-end were Misses Quinnie Cordill, Imogene Cox, Evelyn Garlington and Lois Walker. These went for the district typewriting contest.

Midland Couple Wed in Big Spring Saturday

Miss Inez Marshall was married to Mr. J. W. Campbell, both of Midland, in Big Spring Saturday evening. The couple was accompanied by Miss Mildred Brown and Mr. Jerry Phillips and was married by the Rev. G. W. Bailey, pastor of the Methodist church.

Mrs. Campbell is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Marshall of Tyler, and has lived in Midland for the past year, during which time she has been an employee of the Dr. John B. Thomas office and now at the Southwestern Bell Telephone office.

The groom is an employee in the parts department of the Cowden Motor company. He came to Midland from Alamogordo, New Mexico. He completed his school work in Hurley, New Mexico.

Mr. and Mrs. Campbell will make their home in Midland.

Former Midland Resident Wed in El Paso Saturday

Announcements are being received today by Midland friends of the marriage of Miss Margaret Terrell, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. S. L. Terrell of El Paso, to Mr. Oliver P. Luther, former resident of Midland, now of El Paso.

The wedding was held at the home of the bride's parents last Saturday in the presence of the families and a few intimate friends with the Rev. C. H. Homer reading the marriage vows.

Miss Frank Luther, sister of the groom, played the music for the occasion while the maid of honor was Miss Edith Walthall and Miss Shirley Terrell junior bridesmaid. Mr. I. W. Gillett acted as best man.

Following the ceremony, Dr. and Mrs. Terrell gave a reception for wedding guests after which the bride and groom left for two weeks honeymoon trip and upon their return they will be at home in El Paso.

Mr. Luther is well remembered by many Midland people as he made his home here with his mother and sisters for sometime. While living in Midland, Mr. Luther was an employee of the Midland National bank and since being located in El Paso he is secretary of the Peoples Building and Loan association. He is known as one of El Paso's most able young business men and is prominent in business circles.

YOUR OPPORTUNITY

A CHILD IS THE MOST HELPLESS OF ALL GOD'S CREATURES. An orphan is the most helpless of all children. Should one come to you, hungry and in rags, asking for a morsel to eat, you would not say "Be ye warmed and filled," but you would give those things that are needful.

Here is Your Opportunity.
275 orphans call on you for what your liberality and Christian Spirit offer. 275 of the most helpless creatures in the world appeal to you for something you can easily afford and will be glad to give. Those who cannot help themselves seek your assistance.

The Tipton Orphan's home is located at Tipton, Oklahoma, operating under the supervision of the Church of Christ, Tipton, Oklahoma for orphan children from any state, and regardless of what creed their parents were.

The Home has a truck going thru the country and picking up at appointed places anything of clothing and food the people have to give. The truck will arrive in Midland Tuesday, April 23, and to save time the Church of Christ at Midland asks those who wish to donate anything to the home to please call phone 385, and their offering would be called for, or bring it to the Hall and Heji Service Co., where the truck will call for the offering.

Now it turns out that Anne Morrow calls Lindbergh "Augustus." Wonder how long it will be after they're married before she starts calling him "Gus?"

COLLIE DIES WITH PUPS

BARBOURVILLE, Ky., April 22.—(UP)—Nellie, a scotch collie, preferred to die with her puppies than live without them. When water was flooding the home of William Hopper members of the family saw the dog vainly trying to save her six weeks old puppies. Saw her lay calmly down by her puppies to drown when she apparently realized her attempt was hopeless.

A Lynn, Massachusetts, man, after eight years of married life, gave it all up, according to a court petition, after a stovepipe fell upon his head. He probably figured he'd better get going before the poker got active.

Soft water keeps clothes white

HARD water always leaves clothes gray, no matter how much you wash and rinse. Hard water has something in it with which the soap combines. Scum forms at once. This scum gets into clothes. You never can rinse it all out.

Soften hard water with Melo and you have a very fine cleaner, with or without soap. Scum doesn't form in this water. Clothes washed in it are as white as snow. Melo gives soap more effect on clothes. Get a can of Melo today at your grocer's.

MOTOR VEHICLE TAX IN STATES STILL MOUNTING

WASHINGTON, April 22.—(UP)—State taxes on motor vehicles continued to mount during 1928 when they increased twice as much as motor vehicle registrations, according to a recent survey of the American Automobile association.

The total increase of motor vehicle registration for the United States in 1928 was 6.9 per cent, while the increase in the total amount of special car taxes for the 48 states and District of Columbia was 13 per cent, the association reported.

Average automobile taxes rose from $29.78 per car in 1927 to $25.24 in 1928, it was said. The per vehicle tax has increased 295 per cent since 1919, when it stood at $8.55.

Special taxes collected from car owners by the state reached a new high peak last year, with a total of $824,325,870, as compared with $552,629,828 in 1927, an increase of $71,695,842.

Gasoline Tax Increase

The states' revenue from the gasoline tax increased 26 per cent in 1928, the total being $319,906,417 as compared with $254,109,262 the previous year.

While seven states reported 1928

registrations of more than a million motor vehicles, a commonwealth passed the two million mark for the first time when New York reported total registration of 2,051,469. The six other states in the million class were:

California, 1,812,807; Pennsylvania, 1,653,818; Ohio, 1,649,699; Illinois, 1,598,205; Michigan, 1,251,221; and Texas, 1,207,441.

Massachusetts, as in 1927, continued to maintain eighth place on the list with 885,301 registrations.

In state fees, drivers' license and gasoline taxes, the highest five states were: Pennsylvania, $49,622,693; California, $39,141,663; Michigan, $37,011,427; Ohio, $36,724,956; and Texas, $35,995,267.

California led in the amounts collected from the gas tax, with $29,900,700, while other leading states were: Ohio, $24,894,698; Pennsylvania, $22,503,826; Michigan, $18,384,840; and Texas, $18,235,187.

The five states with the highest per vehicle tax were: Florida, $45.86; Oregon, $43.70; Arkansas, $34.00; and Virginia, $38.54. Illinois with $9.71 had the lowest per vehicle tax levy.

The government has sued 218 bootleggers in Detroit for $447,407 in income taxes. How did the government ever find out there was bootlegging going on in Detroit?

Cattle Ranges Were Improved During Month

AUSTIN, Texas, April 22.—Rains and warm weather have improved the cattle ranges in Texas during the last month and the outlook for the livestock industry is very much brighter than it was six months ago, according to Heward Nichols, editor of the Texas Business Review, issued monthly by the Bureau of Business Research at the University of Texas.

"Animals are putting on flesh rapidly and it now appears that the spring movement of grass fat cattle will start earlier than was thought possible a month ago," Mr. Nichols said. "Wintery losses were very small this year, despite the fact that ranges were unusually poor and considerable feeding was necessary. If prices hold at present levels, this should be a satisfactory year for the industry."

Eight Civil War cannons, weighing 100 pounds each, were stolen at Bridgford, Me., the other day. The editor suggests police find out who has recently bought said phones.
