TEXAS CAUCUS HOLDS FOR TEXAN

'Unpretentious' July Fourth Program Here Has Balance

PLANS FOR JULY FETE ARE ENDED

Program Will Amuse All but Cost Small Sum

The Midland July 4 program is all set.

As modest as the chamber of commerce committee has announced the observance will be, it will be well worth seeing. A check-up shows Midland is offering more different attractions at a lower cost than any city of any size in West Texas.

Here's the program: Candidates will speak at 10 a. m. on the west side of the court house. A few seats will be provided for women. Harry L. Haight will be in charge of the speaking. Fun is promised all who come. The speaking will last about 45 minutes. A loud speaker hookup will insure all of hearing.

The free horse racing program comes at 2 p. m. at Cowboy park. Five events are scheduled, including quarter mile and three-eighths mile races, half mile race, a kid pony race, and a yearling colt race.

At 4 p. m. the Midland Bushers and Crane City will play at Bizzell park. This is assumed to be a hot game, as three ex-major leaguers play with Crane City. Admission is only 25 cents. Dr. David M. Ellis is in charge.

Fire Chief Luther Tidwell is arranging and will act as judge in a water fight at 6 p. m. This fight on Missouri between Main and Loraine will be a knockout literally. By 7:30 p. m. candidates baseball game. Admission 5 cents.

8:15 p. m.—All-Star ball game. Admission 5 cents.

9 p. m.—Street dance, Missouri street, Maine to Loraine. Free.

10 a. m. to 11 p. m.—Special talking pictures at Yucca and Grand. Usual charges.

7 a. m. to 10 p. m.—Pagoda pool open. Usual prices.

9 p. m.—Hotel Scharbauer dance. Usual prices.

Business hours will close all day July 4.

All lines of business except cafes and drug stores have declared their intention of taking a holiday Monday. Employees will have two full days off.

Most Midland people are planning to spend July 4 at home, as the chamber of commerce has announced here a program said to have more events than any other city in West Texas. A few will take outings on streams and in the hills.

standers must take care to avoid a wetting.

Pagoda pool will have some special swimming and diving stunts at 7 p. m. Admission to see these is free.

PAGODA SWIMMING POOL WILL BE OPENED THROUGH EFFORTS OF THE ROTARY CLUB; DATE IS JULY 4TH

Pagoda swimming pool will be opened July 4. The large swimming place will be opened by the Midland Rotary club for the benefit of Midland people and visitors, particularly for the benefit and pleasure of boys and girls.

Admission prices have been cut to the bone, as the Rotary club does not desire to profit. In fact, the club guarantees no loss and is running the liability of debt in order to give Midland people a place to swim.

Children and youths up to 18 years of age may swim for a dime, over 18 for 25 cents. Thirty swims to be taken within a month's time may be bought for 3-1-3 cents each by boys and girls under 18. That is a ticket good for 30 swims cost only $1, but those 30 swims must be taken within a period of 30 days from date of purchase. The same kind of ticket for grown-ups will be $2. Persons who do not bring their own towels will pay a nickel for a towel and those without bathing suits of their own must pay a dime extra for a suit. These small additional charges are to cover bare costs.

Wallace Wimberly, a Rotarian, will be manager. Boy scouts will furnish life guards and help with the work. Miss Elizabeth Layton of Dallas is believed to have a hot contribution to helping the Rotary club with its community work.

The pool will be open from 8 a. m. to 9 a. m. and from 4 p. m. to 10 p. m. The city will furnish water as for 25 cents. Thirty swims to be taken within a month's time may be bought for 3-1-3 cents each by boys and girls under 18. That is a ticket good for 30 swims cost only $1, but those 30 swims must be taken within a period of 30 days from date of purchase. The same kind of ticket for grown-ups will be $2. Persons who do not bring their own towels will pay a nickel for a towel and those without bathing suits of their own must pay a dime extra for a suit. These small additional charges are to cover bare costs.

WEMPLER BACK HOME
Fred Wemple and family returned today from an extended visit in Washington and points east. On their return they visited relatives in Blossom.

Brevities
Snyder comes to Midland Sunday for golf matches on the schedule of the Sand Belt Golf association.

Out of four dozen golf balls given in consolation flights at Rankin on Sunday, three dozen were won by Midland men. Frank Day won the championship consolation prize, E. M. Miller consolation for the first flight and Red Knight for second flight. Fred Chapman was the only other Midland man to enter the tournament.

Everett Haley, well-known Texas historical writer and Mrs. Haley are in Midland visiting with parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Haley. Haley is associated with the University of Texas department of English and is the author of several books.

Several out-of-town visitors will be here for the Fourth of July celebration. Mrs. Mabel Harkins of Midland, Mrs. T. Harkins of Houston (the former Cora Mae Haley), Mrs. Louie Douglas of Houston (daughter of Sam Preston) are coming, and Mrs. Elizabeth Layton of Dallas, daughter of Mrs. Allan Hargrave, will visit here over the week end.

Camping does not dull a boy's appetite for reading, even though he is apt to dream away many of the waking hours as well as those spent rolled in his blanket. Midland boy scout, 28 of them, read 33 books 118 times in two weeks while they were in camp at the headwaters of the Nueces river near Barksdale, Texas.

A group of boy scouts under the direction of Alvon Patterson will present a scout program in observance of the approaching Fourth. The program begins at 2.

A picture of a Fourth of July parade at Midland in 1911 has been placed on display at the chamber of commerce by E. Epley. It was attracting considerable attention this morning, with old-timers gathered around it trying to recognize themselves and their old friends.

Absentee voting for the July 23 primaries will start July 4. Chairman Homer W. Rowe of the County democratic executive committee points out in answer to many queries.

Under the revised law, as amended by the last legislature, affidavits are no longer necessary. If a voter knows he will be out of the county on July 23 he may apply to the county clerk not more than 20 days before and not less than three days before the election and cast the ballot in a sealed envelope. If a person is away from the city the same procedure is followed except by mail. It is not necessary to go before a notary public but the poll tax receipt must be brought to the clerk's office or mailed to her.

Cook to Race Horse at Pecos
L. E. Cook will take his brown horse, Billy B, to Pecos for the races July Fourth, he said.

There will be only one race program, on the morning of the fourth, with four events on the program. Rodeo events will cover afternoon programs both Sunday and Monday. Billy B will be entered either in the three-eighths or the half mile race. Cook said, with Curtis Cook riding.

WAR IS ON SAYS HEAD BONUS VETS

Waters Announced a Drill; "To Hell With Law"

WASHINGTON, June 30. (UP)—Commander Waters began today a military organization of his bonus army, with the decree that one hour of drill would be held daily. An acute food shortage was felt. Twelve cases of dysentery had developed within the last two days.

Waters, in a speech, said, "To hell with civil law and General Glassford." He declared, "This is war."

Glassford, chief of police, countered with an order for arrest of any veteran taking the law in his own hands.

Waters frankly aimed at impressing the government with the potential power of the bonus army.

ONE FOURTH CALIFORNIA ARMY TURNS BACK
DALLAS, June 30. (UP)—California bonus marchers intended resuming their eastward journey today. Approximately one fourth of the automobiles had turned back after discovery of fuel was refused. Otherwise, the train contingent was intact.

Stamford Dons Holiday Attire
STAMFORD—Visitors who will attend the third annual Texas cowboy reunion, which opens here Monday, July 4, already are drifting into Stamford. The city already is in holiday attire, with the entire business district decorated in bunting and cowboy banners.

Buster Lee, of Hobbs, New Mexico, will be the first rodeo contestant to arrive in the city, bringing with him his favorite roping pony. Lee was a contestant in the round-up last year.

A new development this week was the arrangement of a chuck wagon dinner for the visiting newspapermen. This will be held at noon of the reunion. Adjutant General W. W. Sterling, who will serve as one of the judges in the rodeo, will be a guest at the ranger camp served as one of the judges last year.

Those who were responsible for these policies have abandoned the ideals on which the war was won, and thrown away the fruits of victory, thus rejecting the greatest opportunity in history to bring peace, prosperity and happiness to our people and to the world.

They have ruined our foreign trade, destroyed the values of our commodities and products, crippled our banking system, robbed millions of our people of their life savings and thrown millions more out of work, producing widespread poverty and brought the government to a state of financial distress unprecedented in times of peace.

The only hope for improving present conditions, restoring employment, affording permanent relief to the people and bringing the nation back to its former proud position of domestic happiness and of financial, industrial, agricultural and commercial leadership in the world lies in a drastic change in economic and governmental policies.

Covenant with People
Believing that a party platform is a covenant with the people to be faithfully kept by the party when entrusted with power, and that the people are entitled to know in plain words the terms of the contract to which they are asked to subscribe, we hereby declare this to be the platform of the democratic party.

The democratic party solemnly promises by appropriate action to put into effect the principles, policies and reforms herein advocated and to eradicate the policies, methods and practices herein condemned.

1. An immediate and drastic reduction of governmental expenditures by abolishing useless commissions and offices, consolidating departments and bureaus and eliminating extravagance, to accomplish a saving of not less than 25 per cent in the cost of federal government; and we call upon the democratic party in the states to make a zealous effort to achieve a proportionate result.

2. Maintenance of the national credit by a federal budget annually balanced on the basis of accurate executive estimates within revenue, raised by a system of taxation levied on the principle of ability to pay and related questions.

Happy Warrior Given Great Ovation

Not since the great democratic convention was opened at Chicago had delegates seen such a parade and ovation as that which blared for Al Smith for several minutes last night. Chairman Walsh unavailingly tried for order but, the organ playing "The Sidewalks of New York" and every aisle taken up with excited people yelling themselves hoarse for the former New York governor and presidential nominee. Al took his place on the platform and further increased the excitement in a typical speech.

At 1:15 the tumult following the placing of his name was still frenzied, 20 minutes after Mack placed the name. No abatement of the noise could be detected.

SHEPPARD WILL VOTE FOR RESUBMISSION
WASHINGTON, June 30. (UP)—Unless a referendum in the July Texas democratic primary results unfavorably Senator Sheppard, co-chairman of the repeal plank amendment, will vote for submission, he said today. In discussing the democratic wet plank which favored repeal.

"While I am opposed to repeal, I shall vote for submission," Sheppard said. "I will oppose increasing alcoholic content in beverages while the amendment is effective because it is unconstitutional."

REPEAL AVALANCHE CRUSHES OPPOSITION
CHICAGO STADIUM, June 30.—A national convention rocked with emotion put the democratic party on the verge of a complete reversal after midnight as favoring prohibition repeal and Volstead modification. The final vote was: for repeal 934 3-4; for resubmission 213 1-2.

For more than two exciting hours debate had run with a fervor that roused both the delegates and galloped to a conclusion bordering at times on the riotous.

From the outset, it was evident triumph was certain for the militant extreme wets.

One after another state repudiated as bulwarks of dry sentiment in years past, including some from the south, joined arms with the outspoken wet delegations from the in-

Hailed by a swirling and tumultuous parade, the vote went the way that Alfred E. Smith had advocated.

FARLEY SEES VICTORY
WASHINGTON, June 30.—The prediction a minimum of 690 delegates would vote for Governor Franklin Roosevelt on the first ballot, and that enough would vote on the second ballot to carry the roll call to give him the necessary two-thirds majority was made by James A. Farley, his manager.

Senator Cordell Hull of Tennessee led the losing delegation in protesting the prohibition plank to an advocacy of submitting a repeal amendment to the people. Confronted with the tumult that Al Smith and Governor Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland inspired for their side, Hull had difficulty holding the audience at all. He had been waiting in vain for the repeal plank to be voted frequently and at times could hardly be heard for consecutive sentences.

Just before the vote, Ritchie set off more roars of approval in saying "I haven't the heart to keep you any longer from having a chance to vote for repeal."

The vote was 934 3-4 for the repeal plank, to 213 3-4 in favor of only recommending submission of a repeal amendment. It was from 7 p. m. to 1 a. m. that delegates broke up at 1 a. m. to meet again at noon today.

Ritchie's supporters and those for Smith in the nomination hunt seized upon their appearances on the speakers platform to set off

ROOSEVELT'S NAME PUT; PARADE IS ON

CHICAGO, June 30. (UP)—The Texas delegation held a caucus today, reaffirming unyielding support of John Garner and repudiating reports of a "deal" whereby Garner would withdraw in exchange for the vice presidential nomination.

The delegation voted next support of Murray of Oklahoma, also to the bonus plank and to McAdoo's resolution providing for a federal government guarantee of federal reserve bank deposits.

The convention rejected both, however, and all other minority planks except one making the government responsible for child welfare. This completed the platform.

Walsh then ordered nominations. Opponents of Roosevelt conferred secretly as Rooseveltists announced nomination of their candidate as certain Manager Farley broadcast a slogan, "Roosevelt on the first ballot."

The convention was hopeful of taking a vote on presidential nomination today. Leaders indicated an attempt to hold the session through the first ballot and a few more if no decision should be reached immediately.

Nomination of vice president was expected for tomorrow.

John Mack of New York placed Roosevelt in nomination.

At 1:15 the tumult following the placing of his name was still frenzied, 20 minutes after Mack placed the name. No abatement of the noise could be detected.

TEXANS HOLD NOISY PROHIBITION DEBATE
CHICAGO, June 30.—After a tremendously noisy and disorderly caucus, in which delegates and alternates shouted and screamed for recognition and in arguments, the Texas delegation to the democratic national convention voted 67 to 61 to overthrow the Houston instruction for outright repeal of prohibition.

Sam Rayburn, manager of Speaker John L. Garner's national campaign, presided, backed in participation in a small, stuffy room at one side of the Chicago Stadium. He pounded ineffectively with a coat hanger, then took a walking stick and swatted the table at full length as he tried to bring some semblance of order out of chaos.

Rayburn held that the delegation was a spectacle of ourselves. At Houston we were instructed to vote for Garner, for the unit rule and resubmission. Do we want to vote according to our instructions as repudiated by the majority vote and I can't see how we can vote against our instructions.

Dayton Moses of Fort Worth also said the delegation abide by its instructions, although saying that he personally was for outright repeal. A. J. Wirtz of Seguin held that the delegation was not bound by the Houston instructions on the prohibition question.

Roy Miller of Corpus Christi pleaded with the delegation to support the repeal plank, saying this was the most critical period of Garner's campaign.

"Let's not crucify our candidate, let's not make ourselves ridiculous before the whole convention," said Miller.

Texas banners led the parade in a demonstration last night when the proposed platform plank recommending repeal was read. The District of Columbia and Missouri standards got ahead of the Texas standard at the start, but inside of 15 acres Garner banners declaring for repeal led the procession of virtually all states.

FUNDAMENTALS

An age of disillusionment may be a hard one to live through, but it can also be extremely healthful.

Right now we are well on in the third year of one of the sharpest eye-openers any people ever had to face. It isn't a bit of fun, and the end is not in sight; but the important thing is to nourish the skepticism and disillusionment which the depression has given us, and to see to it that we don't lay them away when good times return.

For it is becoming obvious every day that the high old times which ended with the market crash of 1929 were, above all, an era of bunk. We kidded ourselves and we permitted our leaders to kid us. If there is any single reason why we descended into the pit that was dugged for us, it is that we were all so very willing to believe a lot of things that weren't so.

All of this, somehow, is brought to mind by a graduation address made at an eastern university the other day by a prominent American statesman.

This statesman told his audience that they must cultivate the qualities of "self-reliance, common sense, industry, energy, perseverance, honesty, sobriety and education," since the nation's leaders invariably owe their rise to their possession of such traits.

Now all of that is very fine, and the least that we can say is that it ought to be true; but if you will think a minute, you will see that a lot of men rose very high indeed during the boom years without developing any of those qualities very greatly.

A politician could rise notably without either self-reliance or common sense. A "financial wizard" could amass a fortune without industry, perseverance, honesty, sobriety or much of an education; and it seems, in fact, that energy was about the one trait that was necessary in those days.

It is vital that we recognize this fact. We let ourselves get away from the need of those fundamental virtues, and we are paying for it now—paying for it right through the nose. If we would avoid a repetition of the present depression, we must tie up to them more firmly than ever before.

FIGHTING BECOMES A RACKET

A decade or so ago the opposition to prize fights arose chiefly from the fact that they were brutal. Today it comes from the fact that prize fighting has changed from a brutal sport into a dirty racket.

Certainly it can hardly be called brutal any more. The heavyweight title has changed hands several times in the last decade, but not since 1919 has it changed hands by virtue of a knockout; and what such stalwart bruisers of the old days as Sullivan and Fitzsimmons would say about such a situation would not bear publication.

But it has become a racket, and, as is the case in all rackets, the general public foots the bill. And those who run the racket should take an hour or so off some day to meditate on the old fable of the goose that laid golden eggs. If they keep on bilking the public they will find themselves in the position of the man who killed the goose.

"CANNED" SPEECHES

The average citizen may be pardoned if he shudders just a trifle on receipt of the news that politicians are now preparing to have phonograph records made of political speeches, for dissemination over the radio during the approaching campaign.

This news comes via the theatrical magazine Variety, which finds that Los Angeles politicians are already having such records made and that politicians in other parts of the country are expected to follow suit.

Getting the speeches of the candidates over the air is a fine thing, of course. It enables the candidate to reach a far wider percentage of the electorate than ever was possible before. But somehow, the thought of "canned" speeches being stored up for broadcasting purposes is dismaying. Campaign blarney is even harder to listen to when it comes out of a machine than when it proceeds from a flesh-and-blood thorax.

Paying bills on time might be easier if everyone should renew his note of optimism.

The Old Swimming Hole Wins!

Nation Wonders at What Master Showman Will Do

By ROBERT TALLEY, NEA Service Writer

Charles Gates Dawes . . . stormy petrel of American politics and finance . . . what does the future hold for him?

This fire-eating veteran, his fighting spirit undampened by 67 years of aggressive action, still is the master showman, still prefers the course of sudden surprise.

His apparent retirement from politics, by resigning as president of the mighty Reconstruction Finance Corporation has served only to put him again high in the field of political speculation. No sooner had he left this job in Washington than political wisecracks began to discuss him as a possibility for bigger rewards of the republican party.

Chicago bank president, general purchasing agent for the American armies in France, vice president of the United States, ambassador to Great Britain, head of the government's $2,000,000,000 corporation to restore prosperity—that's Dawes' past.

Only a political clairvoyant can hazard his future.

The theatrical stage lost one of the greatest showmen of the generation when "Hell an' Maria" Dawes came back for his career.

The public probably looks upon Dawes as an erratic, violent man who flies at problems with a noise like a fire engine, cusses judiciously and rages hell in general. The public also has heard that he plays soft melodies on the violin, but it probably thinks of him oftener in terms of such a colloquy:

The real Dawes is neither a roughneck nor a hell raiser by nature. He is merely a master showman. These apparent outbreaks of anger and vehemence are merely tricks to attract the attention of the American people to the things he wants them to hear. He knows the value of advertising; he can measure the size of a newspaper headline by what he plans to say and (which is perhaps more important) HOW he plans to say it.

In his candid moments he has admitted as much.

The real Dawes is a man of cultured urbane, with a love for classical literature and music and possessed of a quiet, even demeanor. He is dignified, courteous and cordial. Above all, he is a keen-witted politician.

I found him so when I interviewed him several years ago in the vice president's office at Washington. He didn't even cuss once during the entire conversation.

I asked the general about his reputation as a hell raiser. Smilingly, he dodged a direct reply, but referred me to his autobiography.

There I found that the real Dawes—the man who had broken up a congressional investigation with his cussing and had bawled out the senate to his face—had unbosomed himself. It contains a frank admission that he feigns a policy of hell raising to carry his point, to arouse public interest in a dull subject, his right on the senate's rules being a good example.

Among General Dawes' retrospections, I found this:

"It amuses me to think of what must have been the first impressions of those splendid officers and dear friends—so used to conventional military methods of statement and address—when, breathing fire and brimstone, I made by incursion into the system after results, my mind fixed upon the red-hot poker of dire necessity pressed against the bow of my back and oblivious to the nicety of expression or conventional forms of military salutation."

Seeking results, he has followed this policy throughout.

Born at Marietta, Ohio, on April 27, 1865, as the son of a Civil War general, Dawes went through Marietta College and Cincinnati Law school. In 1887, he went to Lincoln, Nebraska, to live with an uncle and practice law.

In the 90's came the dawn of the public utilities era. Dawes invested therein, made a lot of money and moved to Chicago as a utilities manager and banker. At 32, he already was wealthy. He managed McKinley's Illinois campaign, and McKinley appointed him comptroller of currency.

Chicago, was appealed to for aid. Without consulting his directors, he "loaned" Lorimer's bank $1,250,000. The money really never changed hands. It was merely shown to a bank examiner and it satisfied him. But later Lorimer's bank failed and the story came out.

Dawes' bank was sued by Lorimer's depositors and a judgment of $3,400,000 was obtained. After 10 years in the courts this was finally whittled down to $110,000.

Friends of Dawes say he merely was trying to aid an old friend and was guilty of no conscious wrongdoing. Foes charge Dawes knowingly made a fake loan to a shaky bank.

"I will not debate my character with any man," was the only reply Dawes ever made.

The World War found Dawes in France, as a brigadier-general and chief purchasing agent for his life-long friend, General Pershing. They first met when Pershing was a young army officer in Lincoln.

Dawes had to purchase supplies wherever he could find them in Europe. He bought everything from hay to locomotives and organized labor battalions to build railroads and highways and to mine coal.

After the war was won, congress began investigating stories of waste and extravagance under Dawes' regime. For several hours he submitted tamely to questioning by a congressional committee, and then suddenly he burst forth:

LETTERS to the EDITOR

Dear Editor:

With the country apparently spending more time over the prohibition situation than over the economic problems, the issue being the central one with the democratic party at its Chicago convention, I refer to you the following for passing on to your readers. It was written by a great minister of the Methodist church recently:

"The manufacture, sale and use of intoxicants has always flowed out of the spring of human depravity and selfishness. Men make and sell liquor to get money, regardless of the welfare of those who buy and drink their products. Utter and absolute selfishness is the very life of the liquor traffic."

"All the wars in the history of the world have not been so devastating to both health, the prosperity, happiness and well being of mankind, as the liquor traffic. It is a demon whose insatiable appetite for blood and tears cannot be satisfied. Its advocates will never sign an armistice, call off its demon forces, or cease to harass and destroy humanity."

"There is not one good thing to be said in the advocacy or defense of the liquor traffic; that is why all wet propagandists must depend upon a misrepresentation and deception. Who can make an honest, earnest plea for drunkenness and the debauchery it brings? The man who sells intoxicants to a woman knows that he does not make a fair exchange. He is robbing his victim of his hard-earned money, giving him in return that which will debauch and destroy."

"Listen to what a wet writer has to say about the recent primary in the Buckeye state, Ohio, the state which gave birth to the Anti-Saloon league, has gone wet by overwhelming majorities. Ohio was already wet on the democratic side. Now it is wet on the republican side. Experienced political observers are agreed that Ohio is the last straw which will break the dry republican camel's back. That the C. O. P. will now join in the wet parade. The popular mandate is too impressive to be ignored. Now that they have lost control of both parties in the very breeding ground of prohibition, their bluster has a hollow sound."

"This fellow has the gall of a government mule. But let him remember that a mule can't kick while he is pulling, and he can't pull while he is kicking. Ohio has not gone completely over to the wet column by a long shot. Wait till the votes are counted in the presidential campaign this fall. Then, says I, you will see."

"Of all the slipshod, go-lucky, do-as-you-please propaganda the wets are putting out, the revenue argument beats bunkum. Beer tax, they claim, will fill the coffers of Uncle Sam and save the country from the depression and unemployment. Prohibition, according to Prof. Irving Fisher, of Yale, nets the United States five billion dollars a year."

"The Literary Digest poll is not official, not fair, not full and not final. I refuse to swallow, to say nothing of trying to digest, the perverted poll of this wet magazine."

"There is much talk about a referendum on the prohibition question. A man once made the following statement: 'My daughter is the initiative, my wife is the referendum, and I am the recall.' A popular referendum: 'What a man hath what doth he yet hope for?' Every time we vote, for a congressman or a senator we have the opportunity to vote on a referendum. Four years ago the presidential election was a referendum. There is a right way and a wrong way, and a fool misses both."

There is a method prescribed for referendums. Let the wets follow the due order of things if they want to change the candidate. This is now for a present popular referendum on the prohibition question in opposition to constitutional procedure were carried out. It would destroy the principle of representative government in this country. It is the first step toward bolshevism or communism."

Yours sincerely, P. F. POLLARD.

Thousands Shine Up Bus for Trip

DENVER.—Business may not be all that it should be, and there are to doubt a few who are still hoarding their money "in the old sock," but such conditions do not alter the fact that hundreds of thousands of American citizens are daily turning up the old bus—or a new, shiny one—for a long vacation trek to the mountains, lake resort or sea shore.

That is the report of the Conoco Travel Bureau, maintained in Denver for the purpose of extending free service to motor travelers throughout North America. Nearly 110,000 vacationers have been planned by this organization so far this year, and that number is expected to increase considerably before the close of the summer vacation season.

Incidentally, the Conoco Travel Bureau, which is maintained by the Continental Oil company, has already set a record for this service, according to E. S. Karstedt, vice president.

"This fact might be attributed to life and strictly decorous address. Instead, Dawes told the amazed senators that a bunch of old fossils they were for operating under their antiquated rules. . . . Again, Dawes got the headlines and put another dull subject before the people."

He was freed from the vice-presidency with the inauguration of Hoover and Curtis in 1929. Later, he was appointed ambassador to England. He so served until he resigned several months ago to become head of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

Such is the real Dawes that lies hidden beneath his fire-and-brimstone reputation. He is perhaps the greatest showman since Barnum, perhaps the greatest political publicity-catcher since Theodore Roosevelt, certainly the greatest super-salesman of the modern political age.

But he backs up his salesmanship with immense ability and shrewdness. He has told the country, apparently to his complete satisfaction, on such things as army expenditures, the U. S. budget bureau, the "Dawes plan" of the senate rules, the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. What will he try to sell next?

The Town Quack

(Reserves the right to "quack" about everything without taking a stand on anything.)

The big question with us this morning was whether the democrats would nominate today, and if so, whether they would nominate in time for publication, enabling us to "beat" the morning papers in the story. A daily paper in a bigger town, with both morning and evening editions, is hard to scoop, but afternoon papers are sporting most of the time if the big news is going to break in time to scoop the state papers, or morning dailies. We had to get out an extra to protect ourselves on the Lindbergh story, when the baby's body was found, news of the find coming in to us after our regular edition had been delivered to the homes. At that, we got 800 papers sold before 10 o'clock at night. However, extras are both expensive and incomplete in coverage. We can't deliver our papers, and then right around and put out an extra and get it delivered to the same people. The cheapest and most satisfactory deal for us is for the democrats to have the afternoon edition in mind when making their nomination for president.

I hear the boys talking this morning about the opening of the swimming pool, and this sure is welcome news. The Rotary club is taking on a big community service in opening the pool at all, let alone keeping the price for kids down to a dime. That's been the big problem all the time, holding down the cost enough that everybody can use it.

both to the growing popularity of this free travel service and to an improvement in general business conditions to the point where Mr. and Mrs. Average Citizen have been convinced that they can afford an annual vacation trip," said Mr. Karstedt.

"The service extended by the Conoco Travel Bureau is of wide general value, aside from the direct benefit to the tourist," Mr. Karstedt pointed out, "in that it encourages motorists to stop and shop throughout the country, and because a large staff of workers have been enlisted from the ranks of the unemployed to handle this service to travelers."

"At the headquarters of the Conoco Travel Bureau in Denver, a staff of 160 persons is maintained at this time, marking state road maps for individual vacation trips, and supplying innumerable pieces of literature devoted to scenic spots throughout the country. Of this staff, more than 100 persons have been employed during the past month, and the peak of the travel season will not be reached before July 20. This staff of workers does not include the thousands of Conoco employees who serve motorists at the more than 8,000 branches of the bureau throughout the country—wherever the Conoco red triangle is displayed."

Established in the spring of 1930, the Conoco Travel Bureau set about to provide a free travel service that would really be of aid to the motorist, not only in helping him to plan his vacation or business trip, by providing road maps and literature devoted to major scenic attractions, but also to aid him in route by supplying tourist camp and hotel information, checking parcels, and generally contributing to the conveniences and comfort of his tour.

During the first year of the Conoco Travel Bureau's operation slightly more than 26,000 such trips were planned for motorists. With the view to constantly improving its service, regardless of the distance traveled, the service was advertised in newspapers throughout the country, with the result that more than 67,000 motorists called upon the bureau to plan motor vacations during 1931.

Success of the 1931 season prompted the bureau to prepare to serve an even greater number of tourists this year. It was fortunate that plans were made in advance, for the opening of the travel season saw an avalanche of requests for trip services that by June 10 had reached 73,000, and this number was increased to over 100,000 by June 20.

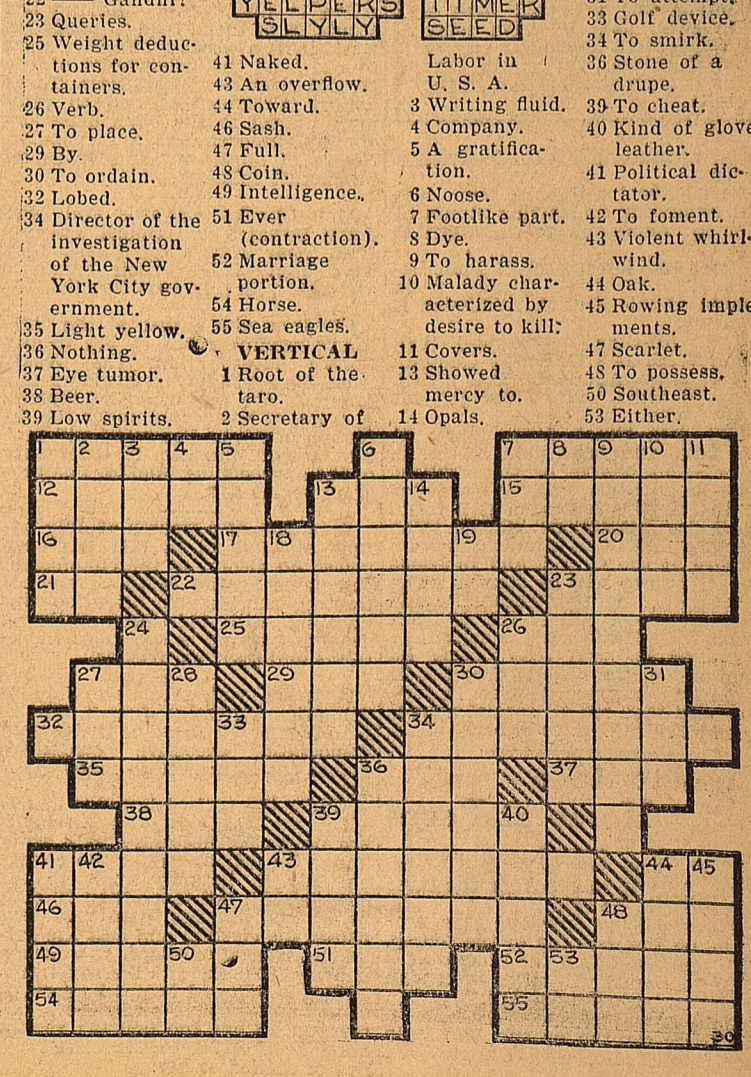

Anyone who travels by motor car is eligible to call upon the Conoco Travel Bureau for a free trip service, new features were added, and the route to be covered. Trips actually planned by the bureau this year covered every state and province in North America, and ranged from 500 to 10,000 miles, while the average is approximately 3,500 miles each. Using this average as a basis, and considering that about 110,000 trips have been planned, it is estimated that motor cars "traveling the Conoco way" will have covered 385,000,000 miles by the time these vacation trips come to an end.

Delegates to Kerrville Elected

At a meeting of the young people of the First Methodist church immediately after the midweek service Wednesday evening, eight were elected to go to the league camp at Kerrville as delegates from the three departments of the Midland League. Delegates elected are...

Seventy attended the prayer meeting at which the Rev. W. J. Coleman, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, spoke.

Present Furniture Vogues Graceful

Vogues in home furnishings follow closely the tendencies in design seen in other art forms, and are quickly reflected on stage and screen. Present styles are not only fashionable but are beautiful—a condition which does not always prevail. This is the view of Mrs. Elsie Cobb Wilson, nationally known authority on decoration, and member of the advisory committee of the national committee on wood utilization of the department of commerce sponsoring the booklet, "Furniture: Its Selection and Use."

For the first time in many decades, a great deal of furniture is available which is adapted to the living quarters of the typical family. Mrs. Wilson pointed out, "This furniture is correctly scaled to the proportions of the smaller rooms of today. The styles of the 18th and early 19th century are being used to a greater extent than before, and these are most appropriate in the usual home. It is pleasant to reflect that the designs are high in public favor and are likewise graceful in line, while color has come into the home to replace the drab lifeless hues of yesteryear."

Officers Hostesses at Party

Officers of the Evangels class will preside as hostesses to all other members and prospective members at a lawn party to be given Friday evening at 8:30 at the Baptist church. An orchestra directed by O. L. Walton will play during the early part of the evening. Other entertainment will follow.

Herb vinegars are particularly good in salad dressings. Basil, farragon, garlic and parsley vinegars are easily made at home and are excellent to keep on hand. Most fancy grocers also keep these vinegars on their shelves. Very often it is the vinegar which is the source of indescribable taste found in French dressings served in fine hotels and restaurants.

Basil vinegar is made by steeping over one cup of fresh leaves and allowed to stand three weeks, stirring each day. The vinegar is then strained and bottled, ready for use. Four cups of hot vinegar are poured over one cup of fresh leaves and allowed to stand three weeks, stirring each day. The vinegar is then strained and bottled, ready for use.

Garlic vinegar is unusually good with summer vegetables salads. Head lettuce, sliced tomatoes, cucumbers, new cabbage—in fact, any vegetable served with French dressing made with garlic vinegar gains a distinctive flavor that is sure to please.

Garlic Vinegar: Six cloves garlic, 8 leaves basil, 1-2 nutmeg, 3 lemons, 3 1-2 cups vinegar.

Grate nutmeg. Squeeze juice from lemons. Heat vinegar to the boiling point. Combine all ingredients and bring again to the boiling point. Bottle and let stand three weeks. Strain, bottle and seal.

If you want to entertain at bridge, but your pocketbook hasn't enough extra coins to make it worth while, don't let that stop you. Ask your friends to come early in the evening and when they arrive serve them with a dessert and coffee and then start your game. They won't mind eating the first few courses of your dinner at home. This type of party, known as a Dessert Bridge, has been growing in popularity.

A small electric fan will hasten the process of airing out your refrigerator.

HEALTH QUESTIONS

Q—What are the toxic and anti-toxin that I hear so much about in connection with diphtheria?

Ans.—The poisonous substance which germs manufacture during the progress of a disease is called "toxin."

The germ of diphtheria grows usually over the tonsils and manufactures a poison or "toxin" which is absorbed into the body by way of the circulation, thus causing the disease, diphtheria.

The human body combats the "toxin" by manufacturing a substance to neutralize or destroy it. This substance is called "anti-toxin."

"Anti-toxin" is used to cure diphtheria.

"Toxoid" is a substance which prevents diphtheria and should be used to immunize from the disease every child between one and twelve years.

Q—What about this carbon monoxide we hear about?

Ans.—Many deaths are reported from carbon monoxide gas all over the country, despite the wide publicity that has been given to the subject.

Most deaths from carbon monoxide are due to carelessness in the installation or operation of gas appliances, or to careless disposal of exhaust fumes from gasoline motors.

Every gas appliance should be vented to the outside air, and all gas connections should be leak proof.

Automobile motors should never be permitted to run in a closed garage or other enclosed place. Gas heaters should not be put in closets opening into kitchens without provisions for venting the exhaust fumes.

If these precautions were always observed, there would not be so much heard about carbon monoxide and its dangers.

If you are going to spend most of your vacation in the outdoors, or motoring, you will be much more comfortable in a lightweight dress or suit of some material that doesn't wrinkle than in knickers.

For inexpensive decorative foliage for your dining room, plant a row of grapefruit seeds, in a circle, close to the center of a rounded dish, filled with moistened earth. Within a few days plant another circle an inch beyond the first seeds. Keep repeating this process until the dish is comfortably filled. The resulting ferns will grow in a tapering, rounded effect that is more artistic than an even growth.

A sweet potato, placed in the neck of a milk bottle, will produce a vine that is attractive. Or a carrot, or beet, from which the top has been cut, if placed squarely on the bottom of a dish, surrounded by an inch or so of water, will develop a luxurious fern.

DOES KISSING MAKE YOU SLEEPY? "NARCOLEPSY" NO BOTHER TO STARS

Here is a sample of a movie kiss... featuring Clive Brook and Claudette Colbert... both deny that it produces narcolepsy, which is a medical term for drowsiness, despite the theory advanced by physicians at a recent meeting in Philadelphia.

DOESN'T get sleepy. "If you call a flock of heart-throbs, high blood pressure and a feeling of dizziness in the head a form of sleep, then perhaps there is such a thing as narcolepsy. At least those were the sensations experienced a few weeks ago while kissing Sylvia Sidney." That from Frederic March, who recently played with Sylvia in "Merrily We Go to Hell." And my actual count there were 43 kisses in the film.

Enough to give anyone sleeping sickness according to the physicians.

Gary Cooper remarked, "Perhaps it's the climate—I noticed that the convention is being held in Philadelphia. Bring those psychiatrists out here. I know a few girls whom I believe could change their minds. "It's absurd to even think of kissing and sleeping at the same time," Tallulah Bankhead declared. "They just don't fit."

So much for the serious comments. Which means that this is a pretty good time to stop reading as we only have Groucho Marx left.

And if anyone ever got any point out of one of Groucho's remarks, I would like to meet him. Anyway, here's what Groucho has to say: "Anyone can see in the twinkling of an eye, or even two eyes, that all this talk about narcolepsy is nothing but a gigantic plot on the part of the bed trust to make people do more sleeping so that more beds will be worn out and more new ones sold. Which isn't a bed gag, either, if you ask me—which you didn't."

Informal Dance

Jack Prothro entertained with an informal dance at his home east of Midland Tuesday evening.

Dancing and bridge were the evening's diversions. Chaperones were Mr. and Mrs. Jess Prothro and Holt Jowell.

The guest list for the dance included Marceline and Carline White, Nola Faye Meadows, Virginia Hawkins, J. E. Hill, Robert Prothro, Wayne Dolan, and Charles Levinson.

By DAN THOMAS NEA Service Writer HOLLYWOOD.—Kissing makes one sleepy. Kissing makes one anything but sleepy. And in those two statements we have an argument. It seems that a group of learned men, known as the American Psychiatric association, gathered in Philadelphia recently to discuss various and sundry matters. Among other things they arrived at the conclusion that kissing one of the opposite sex causes narcolepsy—which translated means drowsiness.

Ordinarily Hollywood lets such statements as this pass unnoticed. It doesn't feel capable of debating with the nation's intellectuals. But I have heard several dissenting remarks made since this "discovery" was published. And, while ordinarily I do not attach much importance to Hollywood opinions, I must admit that when it comes to the art of osculation our actors and actresses probably are better informed than any body of learned men.

Why not? A goodly portion of Hollywood's time is spent in love-making—both in and out of the studios. In any event it seems a worthy subject upon which to gather a few opinions. Maurice Chevalier actually started laughing when questioned on the subject.

"I must be a verree sleep man if there is such a thing as narcolepsy," he declared. "For years I have spent much time kissing verree charming young ladies. Why, jus' today I have kissed Jeanette MacDonald so many times—in front of the cameras, of course. And do I feel sleepy? Not even a little bit!"

"I was very much interested in the statement of Dr. S. Bernard Wortis that narcolepsy might cause you to fall asleep after kissing a girl in a taxicab," Clive Brook remarked.

"It seemed quite funny to read that because I have just spent the last three nights in a taxicab kissing Claudette Colbert and even though it is tiresome to work all night I never felt the slightest indication of drowsiness." Claudette seemed to feel the same way about it. She has done enough kissing in her time to take such a thing very much as a matter of course. But she doesn't—and she

Marty McManus, still a young man at 32, has been in on just as much as the next veteran of 11 American League seasons. But as custodian of the Boston Red Sox for the next one, two or three months, maybe longer, he will experience experiences and see sights unlike any he might have dreamed in the most torturous of nightmares.

"Are you to be congratulated?" a reporter asked Martin Joseph, when the announcement naming him successor to John Collins was made.

"What do you think?" Marty replied. "I suppose a lot of people won't consider it much of a promotion, but when I first broke into baseball I thought that some day I'd

A Star From Tow

McManus burst into the American League in 1920, after part of a season with Tulsa in the Western League. He played 143 games at first base for the Tulsa club before the St. Louis Browns purchased him. He played one game that year for the Browns, batted three times and made one hit. The next year he bloomed as a star second baseman, playing that position through 1926.

Detroit gave O'Rourke, Stewart, Mullin and Miller to obtain the services of McManus, along with Les Motte and Hargrave. Marty started at second for the Tigers, had trouble with Manager Moriarty and was benched in favor of the rookie Charley Hehringer. After the disciplinary measures, he returned to play third base and shortstop. He held down third for the Tigers until traded last season to Boston for Catcher Muddy Ruel.

His Chute Jumps Pay His Expenses

HOUSTON, Texas. (UP)—Some students wash windows to make their way through college. Others cultivate campus merchandise concessions, and there's always the fellow who has his way made easy because of athletic prowess.

But it's safe to say that none can lay claim to greater originality, however peculiar the abilities making them capable of holding their jobs, than can Dan Rippe, sandy-haired, blue-eyed Swede, who attends the Rice Institute here.

Dan is a parachute jumper, and because of his daring in delaying the opening of the chute, sometimes makes as high as $25 for a single exhibition. Instead of coming to the usual procedure, Rippe counts 50, often falling 1,500 feet or more before checking his drop.

However, all his jumps are not for money. He intends entering the parachute jump contest at the National air races next September, when he will attempt to break the 8,000-foot world's record.

"This parachute jumping is a tough racket," asserts Dan, who has made 75 leaps. "It was fun at first, but lately I've begun to wonder what would happen if my feet got caught in the shroud lines, or the ripcord stocks or something like that."

"When I break the record at Cleveland, I'm going to retire."

Cinderella couldn't have experienced the drugery the Red Sox have known since 1918, the last year of an American League pennant in Boston. The Sox have finished last in the league standings nine times, eight of them since 1918.

In making it easier for the rival clubs, particularly the Yankees, they've gained nothing but abuse. Shauno Collins showed them a Hills party life last year, bringing them up to sixth place. This year they slipped back farther than usual, if you can imagine that.

McManus would hardly pass for the Prince Charming of the nursery books. Still, he ought to qualify if he can rescue the Sox from the dark confines of the American League basement.

A Man Released

Ex-Manager Collins sat among the paying customers the day he relinquished the reins to McManus.

He saw the Red Sox take two—on the chin—from the Indians. He smiled, probably the first one of the season.

"I'm glad it's over," he said. "It hasn't been any fun, not this year. Maybe it wasn't sporting, but I got tired of losing. I always liked to win. Defeats cut me."

Old Shauno wouldn't name any one to blame for the poor showing. He didn't think Owner Quinn's trades were the cause of it. The

Former Midland Girl, to Dance Here Tonight, Found Progress Was Rapid

Demo Platform--

A Midland girl, Irene Jay, left high school here in her junior year, was graduated in Abilene and left there for the gold coast to study dramatics and dancing. She did this because of her love of her studies, not thinking, possibly, of the success that would await her.

But every casual thing she seemed to do resulted in strengthening public acclaim of her. She went on a visit to the east and was given a contract to play a vaudeville circuit out of Birmingham. Followed other circuits.

During the summer months she would return to Abilene and stage revues for the big Paramount theatre. Her artistry does not extend only to dancing and direction of revues, she is an accomplished artist, singer and musician, both on the piano and violin.

Miss Jay will appear at the Yucca theatre this evening as a headliner, the stage show opening shortly after 8:30. All who know her and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Jay, are expected to attend.

With Miss Jay is Dub Cunningham, member of a prominent Abilene family, a handsome young man who is a whistler, pianist and singer. The orchestra is one of the best in West Texas and will play a dance at Hotel Scharbauer after the showing.

BROOX, IRENE IN APPEARANCE FOR ROTARY LUNCHEON

Broox Havins and his entertainers answered the request of the Rotary club program committee today, giving a "peppy" bill at the final luncheon of the fiscal year.

Dr. W. E. Ryan, retiring president, passed the gavel over to Percy Mims, president-elect, as the meeting closed.

George D. McCormick, program chairman, introduced John Bonner who made a brief address, extolling the work of Dr. Ryan in one of the hardest years in history for service clubs.

Bonner then introduced Havins and his companions who rendered a musical and dance program, featuring Miss Irene Jay, former Midland girl, talented dancer of Havins organization.

Havins gave an accordion solo, Miss Jay was presented in a high kick dance, Jack Cunningham entertained with a whistling solo, and a song and dance number was given by Irene, Bob and Lou.

A report by W. I. Pratt, showed that plans had been completed for opening of Pagoda pool by the Rotary club, the opening date being set for Monday, July 4.

Ferber's "So Big" Today at Yucca

"So Big" is coming to the Yucca theatre today and Friday.

This announcement should be of interest to admirers of Barbara Stanwyck, who stars in the picture, of Edna Ferber, who wrote the novel from which the film was adapted.

It is one of the most expensive and elaborate productions ever to be turned out by a Hollywood studio, and Barbara Stanwyck is supported by a cast that can really be honestly described, for once as practically all-star.

FINLAND LAW ON LIQUOR IS HELD TOO RESTRICTED

HELSINGFORS, Finland. (UP)—Having abolished prohibition, the Finnish public seems to be finding the operation of "restricted liberty" under the new Drinking Law more a matter of restriction than of liberty.

The State Monopoly company, which was created to regulate the purchase and sale of liquor, has come in for widespread criticism. It is realized that the new administration was set up hastily, and faced a tremendous task, but it is causing unnecessary inconvenience to the public and the retailers.

Liquor shops, for example, are open only from 10 a. m. to 3 p. m. and are entirely closed every Saturday and Sunday and Monday, as well as on all days preceding and following all holidays. A consequence, sales are prohibited on 133 days of the year. An accumulation of holidays, as in June, results in the fact that the shops are open only 13 days during the whole month. Between April 29 and May 10 there was only one selling day.

Hotel and restaurant owners are subject to strict regulations governing the parts of their premises where drinks may be served, and the manner in which the service is to be carried out. Different rules are given for mixing cocktails. The restaurant proprietor is not permitted to fix the profit on drinks; the monopoly grants a 60 per cent advance to first-class restaurants, 45 per cent to second-class, and 30 per cent to public houses and clubs.

Beer and wines are expensive, while whiskey and brandy are comparatively cheap. It is charged that the consumption of beer and wines, in preference to spirits, is not encouraged as was intended. The projected home production of liquor and berry-wines has not seriously begun, though more than 200,000 barrels of whiskey (already established as a favorite under prohibition), are reported to have been imported in the first five weeks of the new year.

Despite the legalized sale of liquor, rum-runners' ships have appeared off the Finnish coast carrying huge stocks, and it remains to be seen whether the new system is strong enough to keep illicit liquor away, even though the smugglers can undercut the monopoly.

The cabinet realizes the serious danger threatened by international smuggling organizations, and is taking measures to enforce coast protection more strictly.

Bulletin

CHICAGO STADIUM, 2:30. (UP)—The Roosevelt demonstration that followed the placing of his name this afternoon lasted 40 minutes and the speaker, and California yielded to Senator Tom Connally of Texas, who nominated Speaker John Nance Garner. The convention rules allow speakers to speak in alphabetical order as regards to states and California, strong in support of Garner, conceded the Texas man the floor.

Champagne Men Want New Model

PARIS. (UP)—The champagne makers of France, faced with starvation by the loss of all their former markets except France and Belgium, have conceived a solution of depression by launching a campaign to encourage men to dress for dinner, take their wives to restaurants, and take in four good shows a week.

It is their contention that when men put on their dinner jackets and take their wives to the restaurants they are almost obliged to buy champagne. If they dine in business clothes they can take beer or wines with their meals.

The Russian and United States markets were lost to the champagne makers late in the war. Now South America drinks one-tenth as much of the bubbling wine as before, England is learning to drink champagne again but seems to have lost its thirst. Germany once consumed vast quantities in nightly revels but has substituted the national sparkling wines of the Fatherland now.

Paris still does its share to keep the Rheims and Epernay caves from becoming glutted but France has something like 300,000,000 quarts of champagne stored away for better days. That represents, at the actual wholesale and production values, a sleeping investment of $450,000,000.

Since April, the Rheims and Epernay makers have been bottling the 1930-31 crops, a process which will last for another month and result in 10,000,000 quarts more being added to the already well-filled caves.

Attorneys Overrule Deacons Objections

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UP)—The deacons of the Community church are "not fit associates for her husband," because six of them have been divorced, Mrs. W. Kurt Miller charged while seeking a divorce.

Col. Rudy D. Garrett, her husband's attorney, entered a prompt objection. "I am one of the deacons of the church," he said.

But Mrs. Miller's attorney, Judge John L. Williamson, was equally quick to take exception. He, too, is one of the deacons.

22-YEAR DELIVERY. COLEMAN, Tex. (UP)—It took a postal card, mailed here in 1910, 22 years to reach Pampa, Texas, a distance of less than 300 miles. TOM HUNTER CLUB. BIG SPRING. An unusually enthusiastic group of Big Spring citizens gathered in the district court room of the court house Tuesday evening for the purpose of perfecting a Tom Hunter for Governor club. The meeting was called to order by B. F. Robbins, local independent oil operator and contributor, who has been actively supporting Hunter since the first day he announced as a candidate and through his untiring efforts the club starts tonight with 150 members, composed principally of merchants, lawyers, oil men and farmers.

The club was organized with B. F. Robbins as president, Joe Edwards, vice president; L. C. Harrison, treasurer, and W. Dickson, secretary.

Reduce Notes and Interest, Advocates

SAN ANGELO.—Reduction of old notes and the interest rates is just as essential as the reduction of leases to 30 cents per acre as advocated by Ira G. Yates, according to A. H. Holden, ranchman formerly in the lumber business here. In a reply to the suggestions made by Yates, Holden observes that the ranchman can't cut expenses to the level of his income because his income has dwindled to nothing. He writes as follows:

"Two sides to all questions. Mr. Yates says the people owning grass lands should cut the lease to 30 cents per acre and the ranchman cut his expenses to compare with his income. Now the Wool Growers is a home institution and if we would patronize home business and quit sending our wool and mohair to a bunch of Jews at Boston we would be better off. Show me a man that does not love home to stay or sell and I will show you a man that has a home. But the ranchman and farmer can't cut his expenses to the level of his income for he has none. He has cut them now until the hotels and merchants are doing nothing. As to the pasture, the man that has put his money in land and built net fences, has obligations to meet that were made while times were good, and expected to meet them with the lease money. Now he has the bank, the land mortgage company or the Wool Growers or tax collectors offered to adjust their notes and interest to the present level of the price of the ranch and farm products? No, the harder a ranchman and farmer is pressed, the higher he has to pay for a dollar, but the man that has his money in the land and is trying to get two per cent on his investment must cut it. He is getting while times were good, and the old notes down and make the interest less along with the pasture cut? What is good for the goose is good for the gander."

Man and Horse May Stage Marathon Run

NEW CASTLE, Pa. (UP)—A marathon race between a man and a horse may mark the next visit of Governor Gifford Pinchot to the $1,500,000 Pymatuning flood control dam.

Earl Lin Dilks, New Castle distance runner, has announced he will race a horse from New Castle to Epsville, Pa., a distance of 63 miles.

Dilks said he would try to lower the record of 9 hours, 37 minutes, for the 100-kilometer run, which he is said to have broken several times in unofficial attempts.

Jaws Function After Rebuild

SAN BENITO, Tex. (UP)—Ernesto Rodriguez, 10, victim of a rare case of ankylosis, is indebted to three local physicians for his life. Two years after he received a broken thigh in an automobile wreck, Ernesto's jaws became rigid at the joints and grew together so tightly that he could take nourishment only by sucking liquids through his closed teeth. Death by slow starvation threatened.

Incisions were made in each cheek, the bone chiseled through, and the joints were rebuilt. The result was that the boy's jaws now function normally. Since his recent release from the hospital, he chews gum for the hour. The operation has few parallels, it is stated.

Blonde Settles a Taxi Crash Tiff

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UP)—The young, blonde, feminine driver of the big, shiny sedan set her eye on a parking place on a downtown street and headed for it just as the driver of a taxicab did likewise.

Fenders bumped. Brakes squealed. The race for the space, the only one available in the block, ended in a draw.

The girl set her brakes, climbed deliberately out of her car and walked to the taxicab. With one hand she opened the door. With the other she lifted a punch to the taxi-driver's jaw.

Nearby spectators, convulsed with laughter, heard the "smack" plainly. "Why don't you watch where you're going?" the girl demanded. "Why don't you?" was the weak retort, as the cab driver moved a trifle farther away.

The girl had more to say. She said it, speaking in plain and none too complimentary terms, then entered her car and drove away.

RECTOR TEST GETS EXTENSION

A thirty day extension until July 15 is reported to have been granted Broderick & Calvert and associates of Fort Worth for the starting of a wildcat in southeastern Ector county.

The location has been staked 330 feet out of the northwest corner of section 15, block 44, township 2 south, T. & P. Ry. Co. survey.

The test will be a little over two miles west of Gal-Blow near the intersection of the north and south lines of section 12, block 44, township 2 south, T. & P. Ry. Co. survey, and about seven miles north and slightly east of the Penn pool. The contract provides for drilling to 4,500 feet unless production is obtained at a lesser depth.

PIPE STUCK IN WELL. Two of three tests for oil being drilled in Irion county were making holes Tuesday.

No. 1 Williams, deep wildcat 13 miles southeast of Mertzon, apparently was pulling all the 4-inch drill pipe but when 6,200 feet had been drilled it was found to be parted, approximately 1,200 feet being left in the hole. More drill pipe was being moved in Wednesday and an offset was to be run in an effort to fish out the pipe. The top of the section left in the hole had not been determined and it was not known whether it had been raised off bottom.

When fire damaged the equipment on Friday, March 11, an estimated 700 feet of drill pipe dropped to the bottom. More drill pipe was run and circulation was re-established but the pipe that dropped could not be budged with the cable tool equipment with which the well was being drilled. It was 4,700 feet. Stanolind is seeking production in the Ordovician lime from which produce the world's deepest wells, in Reagan county, about 50 miles from the well. Williams is 1,330 feet from the south line and 1,320 feet from the east line of section 1196, T. C. Ry. survey.

BIG LAKE 3-C U KILLED. Big Lake Oil Co.'s No. 3-C University, the smallest of the world's nine deepest oil wells, in Reagan county, had been killed Tuesday, was reaming at 8,100 feet and mixing mud. It made only 33 barrels of oil in 24 hours after producing 1,000 barrels the first 20 hours.

The well tested briefly at 8,926 feet. After being shut in for several months it was deepened recently from 8,926 to 8,955 feet, then was cemented seven times to stop caving and in an effort to straighten the hole. It began making new hole at 8,573 feet.

The depth of Big Lake No. 6-C University was corrected by measurement from 7,988 to 8,013 feet. It had washed over 3-inch drill pipe five feet. It has been endeavoring to sidetrack a better Big Lake No. 7-C University had drilled to 5,695 feet in lime and shale.

Texon No. 4-B U was milling on casing at 8,547 1/2 feet. For a long time it has been trying to sidetrack tubing and early in June ran cement from 8,548 feet, the total depth to 8,100. The well initially tested in the second deepest of the producers. Texon No. 5-B University was waiting on cemented 10 3/4-inch casing at 3,944 feet, 20 feet off bottom.

Real National Ticket Urged. WASHINGTON CROSSING, Pa. (UP)—Urging a union of republicans and democrats, to give the nation a real national ticket, Thomas K. Ober, Jr. of Noble, Pa., suggested Calvin Coolidge for the presidency and Albert Ritchie, governor of Maryland, for the vice presidency.

"I would like to see Owen Roberts as attorney general," he told the Dickens Fellowship at their annual meeting, "with the power to coordinate all city, county, state and national crime prevention and law enforcement agencies in a war on racketeering, whether it comes from the dress of gangster and the heights of bankedrom."

With the assertion that the United States is racket-ridden and that a spirit of dishonesty "is permeating our civilization," he said the coalition government was needed to organize the man power of the country and lead us from the depression.

"We need a government composed of the best minds of the country, regardless of party affiliations," he said.

"We have many patriotic citizens of great ability from whom we could select a cabinet."

British Refuse American Plane

LONDON. (UP)—The fastest plane in Britain, except for the Schneider Trophy machines, is for sale, but nobody wants it because it is American.

The machine, a Lockheed, is the one in which the late and famous Captain Glen Kidston beat all existing records from London to Cape Town when, starting on March 31, 1931, he flew 7,500 miles to Cape Town in six days, eleven hours, at an average speed of 131 miles an hour. Previously (on Feb. 21 of the same year) Kidston beat the record for a London to Paris flight by averaging 210 miles in 72 minutes—an average of 175 miles an hour.

"We are refusing to buy it faster than any other machine in Britain (except Schneider Trophy machines) at less than 5,000 feet. Not far from the ground it can do 205 miles an hour. Air Force machines have to climb to heights above 5,000 feet before they can attain such a speed.

Lieutenant Owen Calhoun-Jones, who pilots the plane and record breaker for the Kidston Estate executors, told the United Press that he had flown all over England in an attempt to sell the plane. Because it is American, however, it cannot be granted a commercial license enabling it to carry passengers or freight for profit. Because it is a record breaker, the individual in these hard times wants to take the machine because of the cost of upkeep.

Believes Slump Timed Rightly

BINGHAMTON, N. Y. (UP)—Dr. Charles H. Mayo, noted surgeon, believes that "one of the best things that could happen was that the depression came when it did."

"We are getting back to the times of giving service," Dr. Mayo said in an address before a joint meeting of county and medical societies. "The present condition of ambulance means that everyone must get down and work. Things must be run on a sound financial basis. The depression has given the opportunity to weed out methods that are unprofitable."

Dr. Mayo, associated with the Mayo Brothers' Clinic at Rochester, Minn., asserted that the changing periods have lengthened. Because it has brought more people to realize the opportunities of life.

"On every side there is progress. We can only absorb so much material news and should remember that there is no fun like work. What a terrible dreelnet one is to go through life without having anything to do with our fellow men and our neighbors."

He believes memorial days should be set aside in honor of those who unselfishly sacrificed their lives in the interests of science. Without their help, he said, this world still would be under the deadly domination of tuberculosis and other major diseases.

Pretzel Makers See Sales Rise

HARRISBURG, Pa. (UP)—Pennsylvania pretzel bakers are not interested in whether the 13th amendment is repealed or stays, insofar as the manufacture of one of Pennsylvania's most famous products is concerned.

The pretzel manufacturers met here in a business session to talk over production and sales costs. Mark Holtzman, secretary, said that the question of prohibition repeal was not even mentioned during the meeting.

"It may sound funny," he said, "but the pretzel business has increased under prohibition."

Before the 18th amendment and the Volstead law became effective, there was hardly a licensed hotel in Pennsylvania that did not have its huge bowl of pretzels.

"The pretzels are now sold in the homes," Holtzman said. He explained the growth in business was due to advertising campaigns, which made the people "pretzel minded."

WANTS TO BE PILOT AT 70. FORT WORTH, Tex. (UP)—Mrs. R. J. Thomas of Honey Grove has taken her first airplane ride at 70 years of age and now she wants to learn to pilot a plane. She is confident she can do it, she said, pointing out that she learned to swim at 60 and drive an automobile when 60.

FINLAND LAW ON LIQUOR IS HELD TOO RESTRICTED

HELSINGFORS, Finland. (UP)—Having abolished prohibition, the Finnish public seems to be finding the operation of "restricted liberty" under the new Drinking Law more a matter of restriction than of liberty.

The State Monopoly company, which was created to regulate the purchase and sale of liquor, has come in for widespread criticism. It is realized that the new administration was set up hastily, and faced a tremendous task, but it is causing unnecessary inconvenience to the public and the retailers.

Liquor shops, for example, are open only from 10 a. m. to 3 p. m. and are entirely closed every Saturday and Sunday and Monday, as well as on all days preceding and following all holidays. A consequence, sales are prohibited on 133 days of the year. An accumulation of holidays, as in June, results in the fact that the shops are open only 13 days during the whole month. Between April 29 and May 10 there was only one selling day.

Hotel and restaurant owners are subject to strict regulations governing the parts of their premises where drinks may be served, and the manner in which the service is to be carried out. Different rules are given for mixing cocktails. The restaurant proprietor is not permitted to fix the profit on drinks; the monopoly grants a 60 per cent advance to first-class restaurants, 45 per cent to second-class, and 30 per cent to public houses and clubs.

Beer and wines are expensive, while whiskey and brandy are comparatively cheap. It is charged that the consumption of beer and wines, in preference to spirits, is not encouraged as was intended. The projected home production of liquor and berry-wines has not seriously begun, though more than 200,000 barrels of whiskey (already established as a favorite under prohibition), are reported to have been imported in the first five weeks of the new year.

Despite the legalized sale of liquor, rum-runners' ships have appeared off the Finnish coast carrying huge stocks, and it remains to be seen whether the new system is strong enough to keep illicit liquor away, even though the smugglers can undercut the monopoly.
