Thirteen Dead in America as a Result of Halloween

KING REED GIVEN THREE YEARS FOR SHOOTING OF HOLCOMBE

VERDICT RETURNED SATURDAY

Convicted Man Once Chief of Police in Midland

Three years in the state penitentiary was the verdict returned by a Colorado City jury at 2:30 Saturday afternoon in the case of State of Texas vs. King Reed, former Midland chief of police, who was charged with the murder in connection with the death here in 1929 of J. C. Holcombe, night watchman.

The case went to trial in the 32nd district court Wednesday. Arguments in the case were completed Friday afternoon, Judge Fritz R. Smith reading the charge shortly after noon. A defense motion for an instructed verdict of acquittal, on the grounds that the state had failed to make out a substantial case against the accused, had been overruled late Thursday.

The case was ruled a mistrial twice before, each time in Stanton. Reed was charged with having shot to death Holcombe in a pistol duel. The two men on a July night in 1929 at the corner of Baird and Wall streets exchanged shots after talking "in low tones" for a while. Holcombe was fatally wounded, a shot from Reed's .45 tearing through his heart and instantly killing him. Reed was shot in the abdomen, but recovered after lying for weeks in a hospital here.

No notice of an appeal was given. Reed took the decision calmly, although his face was pale. Whether this was from suppressed emotion or from the light in the courtroom could not be determined.

George Mahon, district attorney of the 32nd district alled District Attorney W. R. Smith of Midland in the prosecution of the case.

Baptist Minister Off for Convention

The Rev. George F. Brown, pastor of the First Baptist church, goes to Amarillo Monday for the Baptist General Convention of Texas, which begins Monday evening with the pastors and laymen's conference and the Woman's Missionary union. These sessions continue through Tuesday night, and the convention proper begins on Wednesday. The convention will close Friday.

Dr. Lee Scharborough, president of the Southwestern Baptist Theological seminary, is president of the convention and the Midland minister is chairman of the committee appointed for nominating trustees of correlated Baptist schools, of which there are eight.

It is likely that a party of Midland Baptists will attend some of the convention sessions.

Freighter, 25 on Board, Feared Lost

SAULTE STEMARIE, Mich. Nov. 1. (UP)—A freighter carrying a crew of 25 was feared today to have gone down with all hands on board as no trace of the overdue vessel was found by a coast guard cutter.

Two Jailed for Holdup in Houston

HOUSTON, November 1. (P)—Two men were in jail here today as result of a gun fight in which Deputy Sheriffs Spradley and Dinkins said they saw two men holding up a street car motorman and a passenger. The officers opened fire, capturing one robber. Another man surrendered at the police station later saying that he had a part in the holdup.

It was a well-equipped army that faced Brazilian rebel forces on the 200-mile Sao Paulo-Parma front, and in the above action photo, taken for The Reporter-Telegram and NEA Service, you see a unit of field artillery which opposed the advance of the revolutionaries. The gun crew is operating a modern field piece in the drive against the rebel movement on the city of Sao Paulo. Casualties throughout the civil war were slight.

DORNIER FLYING BOAT READY FOR ATLANTIC FLIGHT

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, November 1. (UP)—The Dornier flying boat DO-X is expected to start for Amsterdam Sunday on the first lap of its flight to the United States.

The boat, the largest in the world, carries 12 motors and is the greatest innovation in the flying world, engineers believe.

It has been given trial flights on choppy surfaces for the past few months, in an attempt to find weak construction, but all tests have been satisfactory. American motors are in the plane, and an American will be at the controls much of the way over.

Families Suffer; Bedding Is Needed

Bedding is badly needed by poor families of Midland, it was reported this morning by Mrs. W. H. Sloan, general chairman of the Midland Community Welfare association. Anything from sheets, quilts and blankets to mattresses will be welcomed. A number of families are suffering from cold on account of lack of bedding, it is reported, and the association will distribute anything of this nature where it is needed most. Those having bedding of any sort to contribute are asked to get in touch with Mrs. Sloan, Mrs. Foy Proctor or Mrs. J. E. Hill.

Orson Returns to City from England

Frank Orson, Midland man, has returned from several months visiting in England, where he owns valuable estates. Orson, born in the insular kingdom, goes back to his old home near the Sherwood forest almost every year.

Sixty-Seventh Oil Office Is Located

E. C. Lawrence and W. G. Ripley, Los Angeles independent oil operators, established offices in Midland Saturday, making the sixty-seventh oil company or operator to locate here.

NINE DEAD FROM BULLETS OF TWO WHO RUN AMUCK

LUCENA, P. I., November 1. (P)—Eight men and one child were shot dead here by two men caught in the act of stealing. Authorities said the men ran amuck when approached, starting a wholesale shooting episode. One man was arrested and the other escaped.

Resists Assault of 100 for Hours; Dead

TEPEC, Nayarit, Mexico, November 1. (P)—After resisting single handed a hundred rebellious townsmen he had ordered to disarm as result of local banditry, Nicholas Bernal, militia commander of San Pedro, was killed by a bomb hurled into the city hall where he was barricaded. Bernal held off assailants from 7 o'clock Thursday morning to Friday noon, dying just before troops arrived restoring order.

Family Killed by Fumes of Coal Gas

NEW YORK, November 1. (P)—Five members of the Peterson family were killed by coal gas fumes in their apartment here today. They were Gustave Peterson, 55, his wife Susan, 48, and three children. Rose, Kathleen and Gustave Junior. Firemen said they found a loosened flue elbow from which fumes had filled the apartment.

COWDEN TESTS AT 20 BARRELS HOUR AS FORD DEEPENS

Drilling two feet at a time, Fuhrman Petroleum Corporation No. 1 Ford, southern Andrews county, had been deepened to 4,595 late in the week, gauging on last report 163 barrels in 24 hours while drilling.

The test had been shut down at 4,563 for several days awaiting construction of a 10,000 barrel storage tank; and drilling was resumed Wednesday.

The Fuhrman test is 2,200 feet from the west line and 440 feet from the south line of section 16, block A-43, public school land. Pay was topped at 4,290 feet and an increase is said to have been found at 4,373 feet.

Test Cowden Well
Southern Crude Oil Purchasing company's No. A-1 Cowden, in northern Ector county, gauged 20 barrels an hour for five hours, flowing through tubing, gate partly cracked, when given a test Friday after completion of a 55,000 barrel storage tank at the lease. Pay was topped in this well at 4,130 feet with increases at 4,135, 4,167 and 4,235-44, the present depth. The Cowden well is located 2,310 feet from the north line and 330 feet from the west line of section 26, block 43, township 1-north, T. & P. Ry. company survey, Ector county.

Stanley Boyton Misses Kingman

GLENDALE, Calif., November 1. (P)—Officials of T.A.T. lines here said that Stanley Boynton, boy flyer seeking transcontinental flying honors, landed at Needles, California, this afternoon, having missed Kingman, Arizona, on the way from Winslow to Los Angeles. Boynton telephoned the airport at Kingman.

OKLAHOMA CITY, November 1. (UP)—The wild Morgan oil gusher was saved from destruction late today when 1,000 workmen and national guardsmen extinguished the waste oil fire that spread to within a few yards of the roaring gusher.

While workmen beat out the fire in the adjacent field, expert oil men poured chemicals on the surface of the Canadian river which separates the burning area from the gusher and which had become covered with burning oil.

The danger had not subsided, however. Small blazes kept breaking out and grimy fire fighters rushed about in frantic effort to control them.

Colonel Turner Roark, commander of the national guard, issued a warning for all residents of the city to stay at home. "You take your life in your hands when you come into the eastern part of the city," Roark said.

The fire was extinguished the instant the chemical was poured on the surface of the Canadian river. Origin of the fire is unknown.

Covers 160 Acres
OKLAHOMA CITY, November 1. (UP)—The area north of the wild Morgan gusher was ignited by fire of undetermined origin shortly after 3 o'clock this afternoon. All available troops were dispatched to the fire immediately. Shortly after the fire broke out it spread across an area of 160 acres of oil-drenched land.

Initial efforts to resist it were futile. The North Canadian river separated the burning area from the spouting oil gusher. Upon this fact authorities based their only hope of saving the well from flames.

City Is Jeopardized
OKLAHOMA CITY, November 1. (UP)—A battle of man against the natural resource that yields him riches was on in Oklahoma City oil field today, with the safety of a southwestern metropolis at stake.

Roaring in defiance, the wild Morgan oil gusher at the city's doorstep continued unrestrained flow. An eighth of the city's area was declared a fire hazard.

Offsets Opened Up
OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 1. (UP).—Five huge gushers offsetting the unruly well were ordered opened to maximum flow at noon today by the state corporation commission.

The order was issued on a theory that the pressure of the wild gushers would be relieved enough to permit control crews to cap it.

Pretty Midland Steno and Soda Jerker Dread Firing

"I don't save much, but if I knew I wouldn't be fired and have my pay cut, I guess I'd buy more clothes"—A Midland soda dispenser.

"I spend my money about as fast as I make it, but if I knew I was going to hold my job and not have my pay cut, I'd march off right now and buy a new pair of silk hose, and I'd plan ahead on how to spend my money."—A pretty Midland stenographer.

"I wouldn't be so afraid to buy the things my family actually need if I knew I would hold my job and wouldn't have my salary cut."—An executive of a Midland manufacturing enterprise.

"Of course, if I knew I could hold my job indefinitely and even keep my present wage, I would think of building a house in Midland and living a little better."—A professional man of Midland.

TRAFFIC EXTENDS THE TOLL

Causes of Death Are Numerous, Reports Are Showing

DALLAS, Nov. 1. (P)—Thirteen persons are dead today as a result of the nation's Halloween merrymaking, and early week end traffic.

Mrs. Opal Forshee, of the Mustang community near Bremond, Texas, was killed last night en route to a party when the automobile in which she rode collided with a buggy. Four others were injured.

Ivey Allen, Atlanta negro, masquerading as a woman, was so realistic that Willia Mosley and Horace Allen, negroes, followed him home. Angry or frightened, Allen grabbed a rifle and killed them.

Three Kentucky university alumni were killed and two injured in an automobile collision en route to Lexington for a football game.

Twelve-year-old Irene Levesque burned to death at Fall River, Mass. Her paper party dress was ignited by a Jack o'lantern.

A Westford, Vermont, boy accidentally shot his brother dead.

A husband accidentally killed his wife while firing to scare pranksters.

Four were killed in traffic accidents in and near Tulsa.

Football Teams to Be Theatre Guests

Motion pictures of the Midland-Odessa football game will be shown Wednesday night rather than Monday night, as advertised. Manager John Bonner decided to give the teams of the two schools a football party at the Ritz on that night.

so Kenneth Yost of the Keystone Royalty company, who took the pictures, some of them from Harold Echeverre's plane, offered to show them on the news reel program.

Bonner is bringing a football feature to his house on that night, a picture showing last year's All-American team.

The high school squad here saw a pre-view run of the Midland-Odessa game last week and pronounced the shots excellent. It is hoped the Odessa team will be guests of Bonned Wednesday at the first night show, beginning about 7:45.

Held for Ransom

Ransom of $50,000 was demanded by kidnapers who abducted Earl L. Yocum, above, 50-year-old bank president of Galva, Ill. Mrs. Galva, saying that she did not want the help of the police, outwitted two of the bandits, putting sticks in a box for money. The two were captured.

CONVENTION ON CONSTITUTION IS COMMISSION PLAN

WASHINGTON, November 1. (P)—Calling a constitutional convention to consider the prohibition amendment was one of several nebulous proposals heard here from the ranks of the Hoover law enforcement commission as it approaches a showdown on the wet-dry issue next week.

The plan for the convention, provided it can be limited strictly to the prohibition subject, is known to be seriously considered by at least one member of the commission, but there is doubt in orders on the commission that necessary limitation can be imposed. For that reason, other members are diligently studying additional prohibition proposals and insisting that they are keeping their minds open for discussions which will begin next Wednesday.

ELIGIBILITY OF McCAMEY TO BE DECIDED MONDAY

Final action will be taken on the eligibility of several members of the McCamey high school football team Monday afternoon in Austin, Secretary Fly of the district interscholastic football committee said Saturday night.

Fly and Chairman Gregg of Marfa will leave this morning for a conference with the state committee, which will meet at 2:30 Monday.

McCamey officials will be in Austin for the hearing, which will determine whether charges of "flagrant violation of the eligibility rules" are founded on fact.

"The action of the state committee will be final," Fly, who is also superintendent of the Odessa public schools, said.

"The district committee does not want to be influential in throwing McCamey out of the district race—that is not the idea at all. What the committee wants to do is maintain good relations between all teams by keeping athletics clean, spirited and, yet, subordinate to the real purpose of schooling. It wants to keep every school friendly. As a representative member of the committee, I have nothing but the good of the committee's district in mind. Certainly I, nor any other committee member, do not wish to recommend ousting of a club just because it is of championship calibre.

"I hope everything is definitely decided Monday. With the committee of the district present and McCamey officials there to give their version of play up to date, I see no reason why restoration one way or the other cannot set in at once."

CLERK'S OFFICE IN BALANCE

County Officials to Issue Explanation Here Monday

Legal interpretation of a technicality in election laws is expected Monday from local officials to clear up what loomed Saturday night as possible conflict in voting on nominees for offices of county and district clerk of Midland county when voters go to the polls in the general election Tuesday.

Mrs. Susie Graves Nobles received the democratic nomination for the office of "county and district clerk" in the primary last summer. A report was current late Saturday that in view of the fact that Midland county's preliminary population figures were 8,003, the two offices must be separated, the law requiring the separating in counties of 8,000 and over.

Official Ballot Filed
The ballot, as printed and filed according to law, for the general election to be held Tuesday lists the office of "county and district clerk" as one office, with Mrs. Nobles as the democratic nominee. At the same time the census figures for Midland county have not been released by the federal census bureau officials, but were furnished newspapers and local authorities by the district supervisor as "preliminary figures," showing the total to be 8,003.

To Issue Statement
It was reported unofficially late Saturday that Mrs. Nobles had been given opportunity by county officials to select from the offices of "county and district clerk" the nomination she might choose. This, however, was not verified. County Judge Hill said to a Reporter-Telegram representative Saturday night that he planned to confer with jurists and to issue a statement relative to the situation Monday.

May Mar Ballots
Homer W. Rowe, designated as judge of the general election to be held Tuesday, predicted that attempts of voters to "re-write" the ticket, or to separate the offices after the ballot had been printed with the two combined in one office, might result in mutilated or "marr'd" ballots, and that he, of necessity, would have to throw them out.

It was his opinion that, in the event the federal census bureau at a later date issues official figures showing Midland county to have 8,000 or more population, the person (See BALLOT page 8)

PROMOTING EMPLOYEES' CONFIDENCE

The movement suggested by a Midland business man to promote business confidence through assurance to employees that they are not to be relieved of their positions has its sound points. If you, as an employer, have an employe who is making good, is an important cog in the wheel of your business, and who serves you in a satisfactory capacity, make it known to him that he is to hold his job; and if you believe you can maintain your present schedule of salaries, tell him so.

Midland, with 5,500 persons, can feel keenly the benefits of restored confidence among employees if they are advised that their jobs will be permanent. The employees will proceed in regular manner to keep up their standards of living, will spend wisely and with confidence and business in the community will be better.

TEXAS AND TRADITIONS

An eastern writer by the name of Bruce Catton gets a tip for quite an essay out of failure of 40 Amarillo business men to find frock coats closer than the city of Chicago, when Gene Howe, Amarillo editor, invited them to attend a formal function he is giving Mary Garden, opera singer, with whom he had a heated tilt a year ago.

It seems that Gene invited Mary to tea when he heard of her return engagement in Amarillo, at which time they will discuss the editorial criticism she received in his paper on her previous appearance. He invited 40 leading Amarillo men to dinner when he entertains her, stipulating that they must wear frock tail coats. Bruce Catton, who writes for the NEA feature service, got a big kick out of failure to find the coats in Texas. Here is a part of his comment:

"But—frock coats in Texas? The 40 guests searched their wardrobes. No frock coats. They sped downtown to the clothing stores. Not a frock coat was to be had. The Panhandle has never found much use for them, and the clothiers simply hadn't stocked them. So, in the end, the 40 Texans had to wire to effete Chicago and have their frock coats sent down special delivery.

"All of this, very likely, is relatively unimportant in a day of great issues and knotty problems. But there is something extremely encouraging about it, just the same. The frock coat, a minor matter at best, is a symbol—and so is the fact that the Texas Panhandle turned out to be a frock coat-less area.

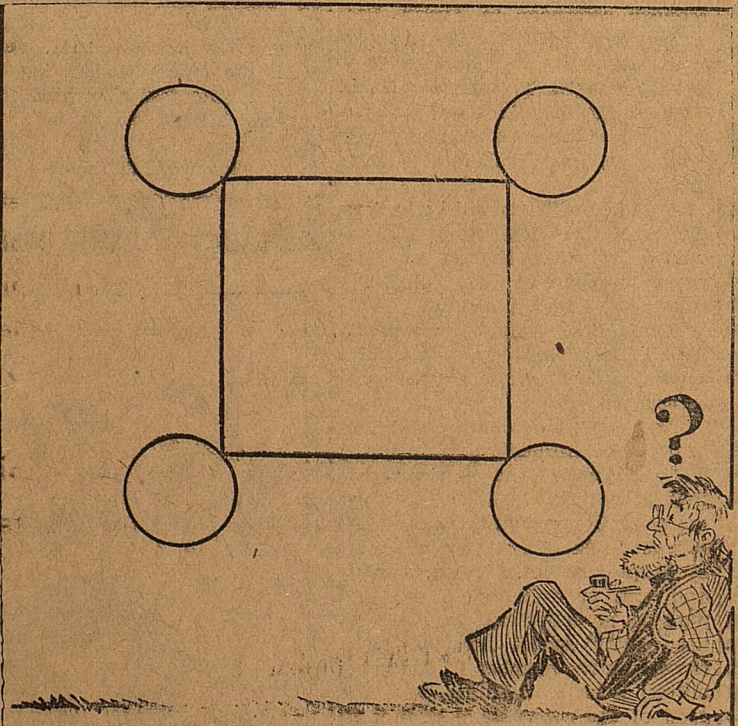

"For the frock coat—what is it, anyway? A useless and not particularly attractive item of wearing apparel, used only on occasions where one must put on the dog. No man dons one, ever, unless he has become citified and fashion-conscious. It is out of place in the great open spaces. Romance is not in it.

"The arrival of a frock coat on any scene means that frontier days are gone forever, and that the memory of them has grown dim. The hardy pioneers, who seldom shaved, never bathed, and dressed—if the old song is to be believed—in leather breeches, would very likely have shot any man who put on a frock coat in their presence.

"And Texas is not just one of the 48 states in the American union. It is—well, it is Texas, a state set apart, a state with a great tradition. Texas is not supposed to be citified. A Texan, whether he likes it or not, is supposed to be a brawny, two-fisted, energetic man who can gallop from Fort Worth to the Rio Grande before breakfast, shooting half a dozen Mexicans en route and combining in his person the best features of Tom Mix, Douglas Fairbanks and Sam Houston. Putting him in a frock coat is like putting New York's Jimmy Walker in chaps and a sombrero. It goes against nature.

"So, we repeat, it is comforting to find that Amarillo can put on frock coats for a tea party only by virtue of special delivery service from Chicago. To be sure, after Mr. Howe's party the Panhandle will be harboring at least 40 frock coats, but the Panhandle is large, they will not go far, and they will seldom be worn. Texas is still Texas. Let us be thankful."

Get a Load Off Your Mind!

Daily Washington Letter By Rodney Dutcher

U. S. Government Finds Itself in An Embarrassing Situation as Result of Rebel Victory While Washington Was Backing Brazilian Federal Authorities.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—Washington was hearing up nicely under the various South American revolutions right up to the time Brazil's rebels ended theirs with unexpected suddenness by seizing Rio de Janeiro.

The State Department had recognized the new government of Peru, Bolivia and Argentina just at the psychological moment. It saw a more friendly regime established at Buenos Aires, as demonstrated by the prompt appointment of an ambassador to Washington after a long period in which President Yrigoyen had emphasized his dislike for us by appointing none. It was able to get Captain Grow released by the new Peruvian leaders after they had threatened him with court-martial for anti-rebel activities.

The upsets had all happened so quickly that the department had had no time to make any mistakes and thus avoided getting its fingers burned.

Similarly, the diplomats representing the countries involved had survived their periods of worry. Ambassador Manuel de Freyre y Santander of Peru and Minister Eduardo Diez de Medina of Bolivia were not removed by their new governments. And Don Julian Enciso, counselor of embassy for Argentina and charged d'affairs, was also kept on the job. They are career men, removed from home politics, and the new governments presumably thought they would be more valuable in Washington than green men.

Backed Loser
Lately, however, it has been difficult to say whether the most embarrassed man in Washington is Secretary of State Henry Stimson or Brazil's ambassador, Mr. S. Gurgel do Amaral.

When Gurgel got the news of his government's collapse from newspapermen his comment consisted of two words which somehow gave Washington one of its best chuckles of the year. Said Gurgel:

"How absurd!"
His principal embarrassment traced back to a statement he had made in the early days of the rebellion. It was a belligerent pro-federal statement and it promised plenty of "bloodshed." If the ambassador can prove that the former government at Rio put the very words in his mouth and that they weren't his own his chances of staying here awhile probably will be much better. Amaral is one of the most distinguished looking diplomats in Washington.

Of course Stimson's embarrassment was due to the fact that we had picked the loser in Brazil, backing the government with our own military supplies and an arms embargo against the rebels. It was our first embargo in the case of a South American country and the secretary had been referring to the rebels as "outlaws."

Stimson issued statements to justify this government's course, but it goes without saying that the department wouldn't have picked sides if it had supposed that the Washington Luis government was about to fall.

British Were Natural

There has been considerable speculation here as to who convinced Stimson that the former federal government was this country's best bet. Great Britain was cagey enough to keep out of the mess altogether. She is our chief competitor for South American favors.

Although the matter of interfering with other people's revolutions did not represent a brand-new policy, such a thing had never before been tried in South America. Common belief here is that it probably won't be tried again.

At the same time it is thought that we may get to be as good friends with the new Brazilian regime as we were with the last. The practical politicians in Rio de Janeiro are considered likely to let bygones be bygones if it seems expedient to continue the traditional Brazilian practice of playing ball with the United States.

What worries the State Department most of all is the possibility of a revolt in Cuba against Dictator Machado. Our investments in Cuba are so enormous and our political influence there comes so near to equalling our economic dominion that any serious disturbance would cause a very ticklish situation.

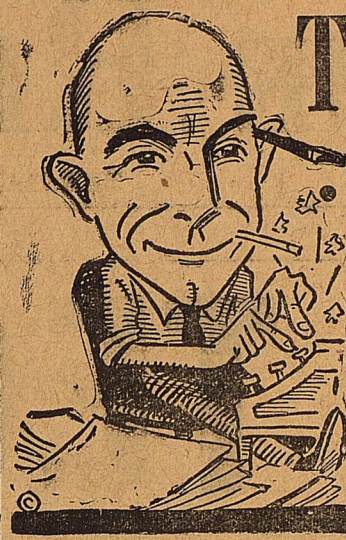

This government is quite content to have Machado in power, despite reports of his tyranny and control of elections, but any strong-handed support of his dictatorship in the face of rebellion would be unpopular with a large section of American public opinion.

Becoming infected with "perversitis"—waiting, stalling and putting off doing things until you see what the other fellow is going to do instead of using your own noodle.

Come to the party! Smile, damn it, smile! You live in the best country in the world, are better off than any people in the world, have the blood of the go-gettingest go-getters in the world; so why be like the old cow tail—dragging in the dust, always behind.

The Town Quack

Reserves the right to "quack" about everything without taking a stand on anything.

The editor of this paper calls number 36 every time he gets an excuse. It all came about in this way. He had some business with George D. McCormick, called 36, and a pleasant female secretarial voice answered. "Is Dee there?" the editor asked. "No, he isn't, Mr. Ulmer," the secretarial voice replied. And now we expect to hear number 36 called often. "It's not bad to experience that feeling of higher finance," we were told.

For the benefit of those who turn first to the Quack column and then read the rest of the paper, I wish to call your attention to the story about the big bear hunt. When I think of Mr. Schrock, standing on the corner of the Midland National with C. L. Sinclair, with all the dignity and bearing at his command, and then think of him fighting a black bear I'll have to admit that it gives me a good laugh. Mr. Schrock, from what I have heard the boys here say, came from Bell county and every time he went back there after killing a bear 20 years ago, he had plenty of room as he walked down the sidewalk. Everybody from Jim Ferguson up and down gave him a wallet. Be careful, but don't be penny wise. You have to put to take you know, and right now is the time to put your money ON America; IN American merchandise; for never in YOUR life will you be able to buy anything for the same money as you can TODAY.

wide berth. He was the bear hunter who had come back to the old home town.

The worst thing we got from the Halloween prank players was the transfer of a sign saying "room and board" to the front of our building. If there's enough in it, we will be glad to take customers by the day or week. When I was a boy we always put those signs on the jail. Harry Neblett got his White House grocery windows well soaped. All he had to do was to furnish the water and Wade Heath the elbow grease, and it was a simple half-day job to wash the windows.

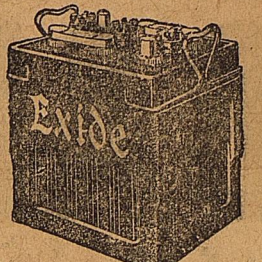

The Stanton Reporter, in its four page issue Friday, devoted approximately three pages of panning the Midland football team and sports writers on The Reporter-Telegram. Well, boys, that gives us something to think about. Maybe we can get off a few wise cracks ourselves. Now that Stanton has been getting better and better, we extend a cordial invitation to meet us on our home lot.

Three members of The Reporter-Telegram staff have received passes to the Arlington Downs race meet which started Saturday and continues through the 11th. It is interesting to note that these are betless races which is a good thing. Many a fellow who takes a hot tip at this time of the year is left out in the cold.

And now they are using the balloon type of football. It's better for passing.

Sidelights on Game

Wink came over and took the town. That the old field town could not take the game also was not due to its failure to have a real football club, band or pep squad. These groups stood out in collegiate style. Everywhere the band and pep squad went, Midland stood at attention. It was inspiring, even, to see those little girls and boys out there in front of the Scharbauer hotel, lined up and playing with a zest that spoke of real spirit.

The Wink football team, too, was outstanding. It was just no match for the fighting eleven of Coach Barry's. Barry has drilled his men and has worked up reserves to this side of the oil belt that are better in several respects. The 39-0 score does not unduly flatter them. He deserves just what he got.

The first quarter of the game was the fastest ever played in Midland. Not a time was time called out, and the rapid play went first this way and then that, with Midland carrying the ball most of the time. With the wind to their backs, Midland rushed Wink forwards and downed the secondary at the line of scrimmage. The ball was punted, Midland took it and swept on straight football thrusts at the line, then took it over after Wink got off a shot punt and scored.

Wink, with the wind blowing on its back, showed spirited retaliation in the second quarter, but could not score. Repeated off-sides by the left guard on the Wildcat team caused the club to be set back several times. Midland began showing good work on end sweeps, tackle brushes and line-ploving. Finally, Hallman broke through the line on a beautiful run to place the ball on the Wink 4-yard line, from which position he scored on the next play.

Wink looked considerably heavier than a 144-pound team. The orange and black showed uniformity of big, strong men in the line, and the backs were fast and shifty—and, what is more, hit with everything they had or could borrow. When a Wink man was about to be tackled, he could be depended upon to fall that extra yard or so, the men sometimes leaping high into the air and coming down on their heads. They were not hurdling, but playing a hot brand of football that earned instant recognition and respect from the stands.

Midland started fighting from the very start—something that has not been observed this year except in one other game, that when Colorado was over, Fryar got one of the backs for a loss and Meagher punted on the second down. Midland's safety man was away fast and from then on out (except in the third quarter when there was no scoring) Midland kept driving steadily, or breaking away in sporadic scoring.

The way Midland piled it on in the fourth quarter, when four touchdowns were made in rapid succession attests to two or three or four things (take your choice). The club was fighting, first of all, and Wink had no reserves. The fight and continued running against them of men who are noted for being the best conditioned men in the district wore the club down, and its morale vanished with the accumulation of points.

Hallman and Burris and Midkiff and Fryar and what appeared to be a few dozen lesser luminaries got in there like no one ever expected to see against the much touted Winkler eleven. Each was a star in himself, yet played with the machine precision that Barry has been trying to encourage all season. And, while we're mentioning scoring, more credit goes to that Midland line than to the backs, sensational as the secondary was. Several times the heavy Midland line had the opposition down flat and the backs could have marched over abreast, each one carrying a football without being tackled.

Joe Meagher, flash of the Wink backfield, went out of the game for excessive roughing. Somehow, the stands could not feel sore at Joe. He is clean-cut, a thrilling man on the field, and a fighter of the first water. When he went out, shoulders visibly lost their squared aspect on the Wink squad. He is the soul of the team and brilliant even when having to do his running alone. While he was rushed so that he could never get loose beyond an occasional 15-yard run, he got more tackles than any back seen in this district. He played excellent right end, and ran the team on the offense from quarter. He got behind the line somewhat and pulled Midland men down, and was to be seen in every play while he was in the line-up. As to the roughing, Joe might have done a bit of nose-rubbing after tackling a Midland opponent, but we've got nothing against him. Any man who gets as many tackles as he did and plays with a team of scrappers like that Wink aggregation earns our respect—and he's got it.

There were several hot headed gentlemen on the field Saturday, but they were playing football of the kind the stands like. And, after all, they were notably sportsmanlike in getting out there and yelling for the team that beat them so decisively. What more can you ask. The stands would prefer a hot game any day to a sort of Gaston and Alphonse brand of ball that finds no fight. As Coach Barry said in assembly hall Friday, "You don't have to lose to be sportsmanlike."

Wink had one of the best bands and pep squads seen this year. Organization to the nth degree was behind the activities of these groups. Little boys and little girls, a band master that knows showmanship and, incidentally, music—all this made up a couple of units that fought as hard during the game as the Wink football team.

The way the Wink stands applauded the Midland pep squad when it paraded just before the game speaks of real organization. Regrettably, Midland did not do this honor to an invading team the day Odessa was here. It was an oversight, but little things like this have lots to do with the friendly relations of Midland high school and other schools. Midland fans will remember for a long time the way Wink cheered when Midland's pep squad paraded. And Midland came back and gave a "W" for Wink and a series of yells for the Wildcats, then turned around and did the same for Midland. When two teams do this thing in the sportsmanlike manner it is always remembered.

After the game there were many remarks made about this, especially by men and women who have been away to college and to universities. They felt proud of Midland in making the accustomed overtures, which were made earlier in the afternoon by the Wink band and pep squad in front of the Scharbauer.

Well, there appears to be nothing now to keep Midland from a march to the championship of the eastern division of the district—except Stanton and Pecos. Sounds easy enough, but remember both of these clubs may be met and Midland may do something the Bulldogs have become notable for doing—lie down and relax against teams they feel they can beat. Stanton, which was assumed to have played over its head in getting away with a scoreless tie with Midland in the first game of the season, went down to Pecos Friday and absolutely got away with a massacre over the Pecos team, winning 18-6. Pecos beat Wink the week before. Do the Dogs believe Stanton is sitting back and resting on laurels? There is an air of business in the eyes of Coach Rufus Hyde, and he will win this section of the district if Midland doesn't—you wait and see.

Marfa is atop the other end of the district. Its sons of the southern republic are carrying on as they did last year before bringing away a heavy team up for the slaughter here. Can Midland beat this team if it goes that far? It is about time to begin scouting that club.

Wink got deceptive for a while in the second quarter, and had everyone guessing—even its coach. Midland could do nothing with some of those formations. When a Wink man was about to be tackled he always made the extra yard. And there was one play that Johnson, Wink coach, must have concocted himself. It was a whale of a play and no one seemed to know where the ball was except the ball carrier and the quarterback.

Wink's left guard was off-side continually. This resulted in several penalties for Wink. Had it not been for off-side penalties, there would have been scarcely a break during the game.

Lackey field was well crowded. Football is getting to be popular, what with the sensational club the high school has and the perfect arrangements for handling crowds.

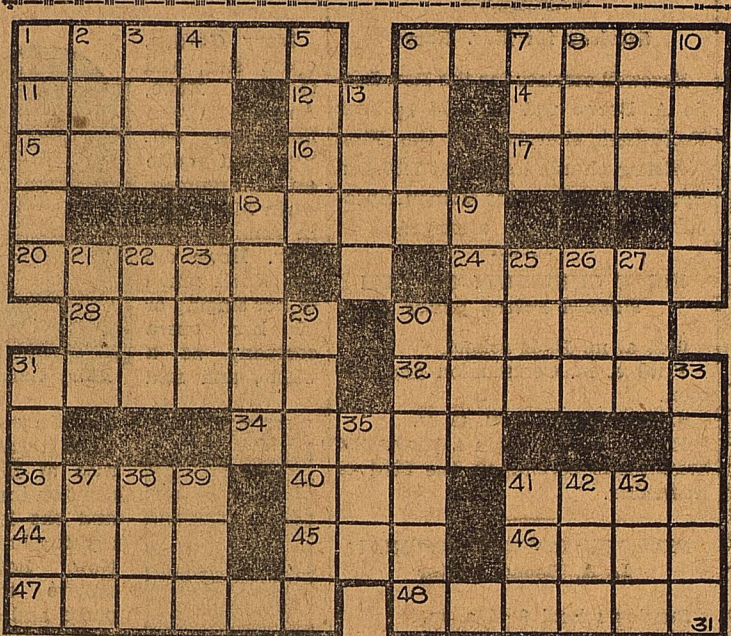

Joe Meagher's hips were the snakiest in captivity. I believe he could hang them over his ears in a pinch. And he had some running mates that could have done a bit of the same against any other club except Midland's.

Midland backs are a bit erratic on intercepting tempting passes. Hallman missed one in about the second quarter that should have been a certain touchdown. It is admitted that these passes are hard to take, but it must be remembered that here is where training for the breaks counts, and that means plenty.

And Midland is notoriously weak in making those extra points after touchdown. Midland scored six touchdowns against Wink and converted for only three extra points. That in itself is not so bad, but the club has not been consistent in showing much more than a half-hearted attempt at making the extra point all season. With such a line as Midland has there is no excuse in not making a bigger per cent of these extra points. How about it?

It was good to see the Barrymen using shorter passes. The day is about gone when the long passer consistently passes his way to score after score. The short passes, giving barely time to let a man pass the forward line and then cut, is the most effective ground-gaining play in football. The ends and backs showed great improvement in grabbing these passes, too.

Midland passing was far better than Wink's, but several passes were badly muffed. It takes time to iron out everything, however, and no one ought to gripe at the Bulldog machine. It was hot and our hats are off to it!

In the middle of the third quarter, Meagher, who was out of the game for an adjustment to bandages on a crippled leg, was hurried in to punt for Wink. Standing on his own 5-yard line, he sent a wriggling spiral to the Midland 25-yard line, a full 70 yards. It would have been interesting to have seen White, Midland's star kicker, do a little kicking just by way of competition, but this was scarcely necessary. Burris, one of the speed merchants of the Midland backfield got off two beautiful runs that made the 10-yard lines sing as he raced by. One of these was for 36 yards, the other 29. On the latter he was tackled by six Wink men who failed to bring him down, but Meagher, the immitable, finally downed him on the 8-yard line. Playing at defensive right end, he had to cross around to the left end to get the Midland man.

Midkiff, on the Statue of Liberty play (the one he alone is able to convert into a serious scoring threat every time he pulls it out of the chest of several football decades), sprinted 18 yards for a touchdown, and there were three Wink lads who rode him over. The boy cut in and out and looked like he could never get through the maze of players, but, his stiff arm going and his legs working like pistons the fastest of the fast Midland men worked his way over.

Fryar made the most thrilling run seen this season, or any other for a high school man seen by this writer. On a straight line buck the little quarter, blood running out of his nose and his face positively red with gore, tore through a hole, reversed, and did what was to the stands an impossible feat. With men in front of him, around him, on him, (why don't they invent a few more words to show how men get around other men), he scooted 29 yards for a score that brought the stands up in wild acclaim. That boy can be marvelous at times, and he isn't particular about how many times.

In the line those boys made everything possible. Never did a Midland line do better. A college coach would have been proud of it many times during the afternoon. When better lines are made they will have to come here and see the Midland line show how it's done.

Some more about Meagher—the referee has just drifted by and told of his respect for Joe Meagher and his team mates. "Joe came around and apologized for having to do a bit of rough petting during the game," he said. "I like that fellow. He is a gentleman, and the only reason he rubbed a Midland man's nose in the grass was just because he couldn't help feeling so much fight that he had to play on the sod just as he did while on his feet. The other Wink boys thanked me for calling the game impartially, and otherwise showed to be gentlemen."

In closing, Midland feels the same way about Wink. Anyone who will come over and fight like that bunch did and leave town with such sportsmanlike conduct is welcome in Midland, whether winning or losing. And we hope Midland will show the same spirit when in Wink next year.

EVERY STANTON TEACHER MEMBER TEACHERS ASS'N

Every member of the Stanton Independent School district is a member of the State Teacher's association, according to a report from Supt. C. L. Sone. This is splendid evidence of the loyalty and progressiveness of Stanton teachers. No other agency in the state is doing so much for the efficiency of the schools as the state teacher's organization and it speaks well for a school which is so unanimously supporting this agency in its efforts to raise the standards of efficiency of the public schools and at the same time elevate the teaching profession to the place it so rightly deserves.

All departments of the school are functioning and everything points to the fact that this will be one of the greatest years in the history of the Stanton schools. The home economics department was especially commended by a visitor from this branch of the state department during the past week. Miss Lovelace is the head of this department and has received the unqualified approval of the state department for the efficient manner in which she is carrying on her work.

Much credit for the present condition of equipment is due the Parent Teachers association, which organization is in a flourishing condition and is doing things in a substantial way. At a recent meeting a resolution was passed unanimously endorsing the effort of the teachers to get the girls to come to school properly and modestly dressed, and in contradiction to general reaction, the girls expressed their appreciation of this resolution and have promised to act accordingly.

Friday was taken as a holiday to enable the entire student body to

Midland Attorney Is Stanton Judge

G. W. Dunaway, Midland attorney was on the bench at the opening of the 70th Judicial court in Martin county Monday morning in the absence of Judge Charles L. Klapproth, who is recovering from a recent operation for appendicitis. District Attorney W. R. Smith and Court Reporter L. P. Boone were at their respective places as the usual brief charge was given the grand jury, and the wheels of justice were set in motion.

The grand jury reported its findings Tuesday, returning six bills of indictment.

One of the important civil cases which will be heard next Monday is one in which a contest of election has been filed against the bond issue election held recently to build a new brick school house at Valley View.

NEW PRORATION FOR HOWARD AND GLASSCOCK FIELD

BIG SPRING, Nov. 1.—The Howard-Glasscock county oil fields will be prorated to 26,600 barrels for the month of November according to a statement rendered by proration umpire E. E. Andrews. The 1300 and 1800 foot horizons with 302 wells will be allowed 12 barrels per well plus potential allowance. The potential of the 1300 and 1800 foot horizons is 8,377 barrels. The 2200 foot horizon's potential is 51,700 barrels; 2500 foot 7,687 barrels, and 3000 foot 17,354 barrels. The 2200, 2500 and 3000 foot horizons will be allowed 50 barrels per well plus potential allowance.

The oil takes by the seven pipe lines serving the field will be a decrease of 6,790 barrels compared with October runs, said Andrews.

All Saints' Day Gaily Observed by Midland Younger Folk

Hundreds Join at Fetes Given For Younger Folk; Church Groups Hold Six Festive Parties Friday

Joining in a whirl of gala Hallowe'en functions, younger folk of Midland made the observance of All Saints Day one of the most enjoyable ever held here.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Brenneman, entertaining for Misses Velma Winborne and Catherine Dunaway, were host and hostess to members and guests of the Christian Endeavor at their home.

Then came to fortunes told by Mrs. S. P. Hall, appropriately dressed as a witch, and presented guests with their future fates.

The opening contest was pinning the tail on a cat, the prize going to Miss Frances Lolly. A gold bug game was the chief diversion of the evening.

The hostess served home made candies during the evening and closing the affair she served party plates to Misses Bess Butler, Jeanette Waddell, Lou Annice Reeves, Maian Cartwright, Frances Lolly, Helen Welsner, Johnnie Dee Underwood, the honorees and Messrs. G. R. Bode, Wallace Irwin, D. D. Shifflet, R. C. Cotner, Jerry Phillips, Wallace Wimberly, Horace Woodruff, Roy Chaney, Walter Elkin, Buster Howard and Mrs. Hall.

Las Amigos Club Hallowe'en evening was celebrated by the newly organized Las Amigos club at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Wyatt with their daughter, Marceline, and Carleen Sisk as hostesses.

Jack o' Lanterns, cats, witches, and all kinds of colorful contraptions made the setting for the party attractive. Old Mrs. Ghost, as she sat in a dark corner, read surprisingly fortunes for each caller.

Hostesses were assisted by Mrs. Marvin Center and Mrs. Phillips. Guests who called at the Wyatt home were James Franklin Cowden, Dudley Cooksey, Mary Howe, Herbert Shea, Lorena Dunagan, Billy Noyes, Darleen Vance, Evelyn Phillips, C. A. Goldsmith, Jean Richmond, Clyde Cotrell, Howard Prod, Josephine Ray, Murray Gillespie, Doris Dunagan, Gertrude Vance, John Gay, Bill Cotrell, Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Sisk, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Center, and Mrs. Phillips.

Pumpkins, black cats and other spooky symbols of Hallowe'en made a festive background for the masked guests who called at the home of Miss Eleanor Connell for the J. O. Y. class party.

Mr. George Bennett met the guests at the door and the hostess directed them through a series of lively contests and games.

At tea time an elaborate salad plate was passed to Misses Dumas, Emeline Glaspy, Annie Frank Stout, Faye Halley, Dorothy Snyder, Stella Maye Lanham, Lucia B. Myrick, Jetra Edwards, Messrs. Fred Brown, George Gennett, D. K. Ratliff, Mrs. Chas. Edwards, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. White and Mr. and Mrs. W. N. Connell.

At the Norwood Home Miss Alma Lee Norwood was among the hostesses entertaining on Hallowe'en evening.

Friends who enjoyed the evening at the Norwood home and the mid-night matinee were Misses Lucille and Georgia McMullan, Jess Edith Carlisle, Kathryn Cosper, Annie Faye Dunagan, Messrs. G. B. Hallman, Calvin Manning, Fred Wright, Carl Ruse, M. D. Johnson, and Lloyd McKinney.

Senior League Members of the Senior League of the Methodist called at the home of Mrs. Prilla Voliva for their celebration of Hallowe'en.

The masked guests participated in entertainment which included fortune telling, bobbing for apples, and photographer.

Refreshments were served to Misses Nellie Stephenson, Esther Mae Hodo, Jessie Mae Bridges, Lonnie Smith, Elva Chrissman, Alta Mae Johnson, Mesdames L. C. Stephenson, Iva Noyes, C. E. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Gwyn, Mr. and Mrs. Theron Nettleton, Messrs. R. T. Whitmore, Willis, James Killough, Enos Feiler, Jean Rhoderick, Hayden Wilmoth, and Lloyd Long.

Hi-League Party Thirty-five members and guests of the Hi-League were entertained at the Dykema building with the

What's New in Blouses

Dorothy Lyn Butler Has Second Birthday

Little Miss Dorothy Lyn Butler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Butler, was hostess to a number of her young friends Friday afternoon when she celebrated her second birthday with a big Hallowe'en frolic.

The young hostess' home was transformed into a scene of spooks and witches, grinning Jack o' Lanterns and black cats, where all kinds of seasonal sports and contests were played.

Later in the afternoon a prettily decorated birthday cake was cut and served to the following:

Nellie Elkin Brunson, Glenn Brunson, Elma Jean Nobles, Ralph Davis and Martha Jane Bucy, Doris Lyn Pemberton, Rosemary and Harry Johnson, Odell Collier, Joe Barber, Liza Jane Lawrence, Joe Ann Mills and Duffey Stanley, Myrtle Jean Butler, Mary Lee Snyder, Martha Jane and Bobbie Preston, and Thelma and Eloise Sundquist.

Bride-Elect Is Honoree at Shower By T. E. L. Class; Others Announced

By MRS. PAUL T. VICKERS

Complimenting Miss Pearl Wimberly, bride-elect, members of the T. E. L. Sunday School class of the First Baptist church entertained with a beautiful surprise party and shower on Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. D. W. Brunson. Miss Wimberly is the daughter of Mrs. W. W. Wimberly who has taught the class for a number of years.

All Saints day occasioned the color scheme of orange and black in decoration and appointments. Before the honor guest arrived, the class conducted a short business session, electing officers for the coming year with Mrs. D. W. Brunson, president; Mrs. Brooks Pemberton, first vice-president; Mrs. T. S. Patterson, second vice-president; Mrs. D. Z. Wren, third vice-president; Mrs. Mary L. Quinn, secretary; Mrs. W. H. Spaulding, treasurer and Mrs. Ella Youngblood, reporter.

Miss Wimberly drove by Mrs. Brunson's home with Mrs. Fred Middleton, thinking the party was over and that her mother would be ready to go home. But to her surprise she found that the party was waiting for her arrival. Fred Gordon Middleton, wearing a clever clown suit, in his usual charming manner, sang to the honoree, "Is She My Girl Friend?" and then presented her with an orange and black basket laden with lovely gifts.

A dainty salad course was passed to the honoree, Mrs. W. W. Wimberly, E. G. Cummins, Smith, D. W. Brunson, W. N. Connell, Ella Youngblood, T. S. Patterson, Martha Holloway, Brooks Pemberton, Mary L. Quinn, J. H. Barron, J. H. Williamson, J. B. Harris, J. M. Gilmore, F. J. Middleton and Fred Gordon Middleton.

The Women's Missionary society of the First Baptist church will entertain with a party at the home of Mrs. J. E. Hill on Monday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock, honoring Miss Pearl Wimberly, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Wimberly, whose engagement and approaching marriage to Mr. R. E. Witty has been announced. Every woman, who is a member of the Baptist church, is invited to attend the party.

Among other social engagements planned for Miss Wimberly is an evening bridge for young women at the home of Mrs. Carl Covington Tuesday evening.

Will Orler of Abilene was a business visitor in Midland Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Alexander left Friday night for Waco where they were called because of the death of an uncle.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl W. Covington are spending today on the Tom ranch north of Midland.

Miss Hazel Herron of Stanton is spending the week end with her sister, Mrs. W. O. Kinkel.

E. E. Elland and daughter, Kathleen, were in Midland yesterday from the home in the Stokes community.

Mrs. Florence Richardson returned Friday night from a two-month visit with relatives in Oklahoma, and Kansas.

Miss Louwin Hitchcock left Friday morning for Pueblo, Colorado, after spending a month with her sister, Mrs. Arthur Stout.

Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Harper and daughter and Mrs. Harper's mother, Mrs. J. Fleming, have gone to Ft. Worth. Mrs. Fleming, who has been in Midland for several weeks is returning to her home in Chicago.

Cowden, Newest Oil Camp, Growing Fast

Indications of all reports received this week from Cowden, the newest town in Ector county, and the fourth oil town to be established in the county in a year's time, are to the effect that it promises to be at least equal the most promising of the towns of its type in this area, says The Odessa News-Times. Lots in the new town are reported to be selling rapidly, and four residences have already been built.

The new town is just a mile from the Southern Crude camp field offices, which are predicted to be the largest in West Texas.

Bridge-Luncheon Is a Compliment to Out-of-Town Guests at the Home of Mrs. F. F. Winger Friday Afternoon

One of the smartest of the week's affairs was a bridge luncheon given by Mrs. F. F. Winger at her home Friday afternoon when she complimented several Midland friends and out-of-town guests.

Hallowe'en symbols were the decorations for the luncheon and the bridge games which were played in the afternoon. Table markers were novel score books and tallies. Floral appointments also stressed the season's motif.

Attractively wrapped gift packages went to Mrs. Bob Lavendar, high scorer, Mrs. Morse of Westbrook, second high, and Mrs. Norris of Iraan, low score.

Guests were Mesdames R. J. Stipek, William Simpson, T. B. Flood, Jno. E. Adams, Russell, Fred Wright, Bob Lavendar, Matthews, Tom Bergin, F. E. Neel, Leihman of Topeka, Kansas, Carthney, Norris, Jones, Nix of Iraan, Harris, and Morse of Westbrook, Cramer of Wink, Hamlin of Forsan and Ledger of Hobbs.

Hart not only passed on the accuracy of the town of Lincoln, New Mexico, reproduced for the picture, but he lent Vidor his prized possession, the actual gun of "The Kid", given by the outlaw fifty years ago to a member of the posse which captured the smiling twenty-one-year-old "most dangerous man of the west" at Stinking Springs, New Mexico.

One of the first things Hart showed John Mack Brown, who plays Billy, was how the outlaw lashed the trigger of his gun with black cord. He did not use it, shooting the "iron" by manipulation of the hammer. Hart also showed Brown how "The Kid" sighted along the second finger of his pistol hand.

For years Hart has made a collection of all books and manuscripts pertaining to the west. On "Billy the Kid" he has copies of all the dozens of books and pamphlets written about this striking young man, whose contacts with Sheriff Pat Garrett (played in the picture by Wallace Beery) provide many of the most exciting chapters of western history.

Kay Johnson, last seen in "Madam Satan," plays the feminine lead, and Karl Dane has a comedy role. Other players include Wyndham Standing, Warner P. Richmond, Roscoe Ates, Russell Simpson, Jack Crilly, Blanche Frederic, John Beck, James Marchant and Nelson McDowell.

MIDLAND OUT-PLAYS WINK AT EVERY TURN, WINNING 39 TO 0

Three Grass Gridirons Are to Greet the Opening of the 1931 Season

NOTHING ABLE TO TURN BACK DOGGIES

By JAMES P. HARRISON (Special Staff Writer) The ferocious Wildcats are back in their den at Wink, Texas, after the Midland Bulldogs chewed them to bits on Lackey field Saturday in the annual football game between the two teams to the tune of 39 to 0.

Hallman's touchdown after 10 minutes of play in the first quarter started a siege of scoring that ended in a riot in the fourth quarter when Burris went over for the final count of the game.

The Bulldogs proved themselves to be superior in every department of the game. Meagher, Wink quarterback and rated as one of the best backs in the district, failed to show up against Hallman, Fryar, Burris and Midkiff.

The first quarter found Midland making a touchdown and failing to make the extra point. Hallman made another touchdown on the second play of the second quarter and Midkiff added the extra point with a line buck. The remainder of that period was fought in midfield.

Third Quarter Scoreless The half ended 13 to 0 for the Bulldogs, and both teams returned for the third quarter inspired from their coaches' pointers during the intermission.

Most of the period was played in Wink's territory but the Bulldogs were unable to push over a counter.

Bulldogs Score Fast The third quarter ended with the ball in Wink's possession, but it was only a short time until the Dogs got possession of it and started for a 51-yard march down the field for another touchdown. Hallman ramed the line at the end of the march for the 6 points. The try for point was short.

Another touchdown followed close on the heels of the other as Midkiff ran 17 yards around end to go over. A Wink offside gave Midland the extra point.

The Midland backs began to rip off long gains through the line, around the ends and through the air. Fryar made a beautiful run of 29 yards to score, with Midkiff adding the extra point from place-kick.

The final score of the game came after the Bulldogs had marched from their own 48-yard line to send Burris over with the ball from Wink's 3-yard line.

STANTON LIGHTLY BRUSHES ASIDE PECOS IN SURPRISE OF THE SEASON

WINK AND ODESSA TO CONSTRUCT GREENSWARD

A promise made in Midland by those who favored the construction of Lackey field is being realized sooner than expected. Wink and Odessa are following Midland's example and will have grass playing fields at the beginning of the 1931 playing season.

Lackey field has been an important factor in the consideration of other schools for building similar play lots. It was said here that before long every school in the eastern half of the district would offer grass-matted grids.

Both Odessa and Wink have announced buying of new fields, upon which the improvements will be made. Neither said anything about stands, but it is expected these will be built.

"Football has come to stay. It is the major sport among high schools and will continue to be," Coach Johnson of Wink said just before the kickoff of the Midland-Wink game. Superintendent Lang also said much of the plans for building a modern gridiron in Wink. He believes good relations between schools can be established through respect for physical equipment, just as it can be established through good sportsmanship.

A tract of land 380 feet square, located in the western section of town, has been purchased by the board of the Odessa high school for use in next year's athletic events, according to The Odessa News-Times. The field, a long-needed addition to the school property, lies in the residence section, six blocks west of the school building. It was purchased from W. C. Driver.

The new field will not be used this year, the one now in use being retained for the rest of the football season.

The new property will not lie idle, however, according to school authorities. It will be sodded with grass this year so that it will be ready to use next season. It is also planned to enclose it as soon as possible. Later, it is hoped, grandstands will be built for the spectators.

THE PLAY BY PLAY

By JAMES P. HARRISON (Special Staff Writer)

First Quarter The game started with Midland winning the toss and Captain Parker choosing to defend the south goal. Captain Meagher of the Wildcats chose to receive.

White for Midland sent the ball over the goal line at kick-off.

Wilson, Wildcat left half, was thrown for a 2-yard loss on the first play after the ball had been brought to the 20-yard line. Fryar broke through the line to throw Wilson for the loss. Meagher's punt on the second down went to his own 33-yard line, where a Wildcat grounded the ball.

Midland took the ball and was pushed back to Wink's 41-yard line on incomplete passes and a bad snapback from center to Burris. The Bulldogs lost the ball on downs.

Johnson's men made a first down on the next series of plays, advancing the ball to Midland's 45-yard line. A Wink pass was intercepted and Midland gained possession of the ball.

Hallman ripped through the line on the first play for first down, taking the ball to the Wildcats' 41-yard line. Hallman carried the ball again to make another first down and took the ball to Wink's 30-yard line. Hallman, Midkiff, Fryar and Burris alternated in bucking the line and running the ends to advance the ball to Wink's 5-yard line. Burris lost 4 yards as Midland lost the ball on downs with goal to go.

Meagher punted on the first down to Burris on Wink's 35-yard line. Burris returned 12 yards.

A pass from Burris to Parker lacked only a yard and a half being good for a touchdown. Hallman was called upon on the next play and smashed the line to go over. Midkiff failed to convert for the extra point at place-kick.

Score: Midland 6, Wink 0. White booted the ball over the goal line again on kick-off. Two Wink thrusts at the line failed to gain and Meagher punted to his own 47-yard line, where the ball was downed.

A pass from Burris to Johnson, Bulldog left end, was good for 24 yards and advanced the ball to Wink's 23-yard line. Midkiff went around left end on the "Statue of Liberty" play for 9 yards as the quarter ended.

Second Quarter The second period started with the ball in Midland's possession on Wink's 14-yard line, second down and a yard to go.

On the first play, Hallman tore loose to carry the ball to Wink's 2-yard line. He carried the ball over on the next play and Midkiff added the extra point with a line buck. Score: Midland 13, Wink 0.

White kicked the ball to Wright, who received it on his 18-yard line and returned it to his 35-yard line.

The Wildcats got to going good on varied plays with Wright leading the assault and carried the ball to Midland's 37-yard line. Wink's passes were incomplete and the linemen

HERD SETS SELF AS ONE OF THE FAVORITES

In support of a pre-season prediction that the dope bucket in this district would be upset more than once, the fighting Bisons from Stanton Friday invaded the territory of Pecos Eagles and, in a game full of thrills from the first whistle to the last, stamped themselves perhaps the most serious threat for the district title from the Eastern half.

Flashing an offense that ripped the Pecos line to shreds and a type of blocking seldom seen in high school circles the speedy Buffalo backs ploughed the line and circled the end to chalk up three touchdowns while their defense was holding a lone touchdown, and the thundering Herd came home rejoicing over the long end of an 18 to 6 victory.

Pecos elected to receive and started a march down the field which ended on the one yard line, where Stanton took the ball on downs.

The Eagles were not to be denied however and the forward wall crushed the opposition and broke through to block the punt and recover it behind the line for a touchdown. The try for point failed.

This touchdown merely added fuel to the fire and the charges of Coach Hyde started a series of passes and end runs which did not stop until the last white line has been crossed and the score tied at 6 all. For a time the battle waxed furious, with neither side having the advantage. In the latter stages of the game however the Bisons rose to great heights and, filling the air with passes accurately hurled, crossed the Eagles' goal for two more markers, which represented the margin of victory.

White Pecos put up a wonderful fight and clearly demonstrated that their victory over the strong Wink team was thoroughly deserved, the Stanton club proved to the complete satisfaction of even the most ardent Eagle supporter that the best team west. It is doubtful if any club in the district could have held the Bisons Friday. They did everything and they did it all just right. It is not inconceivable that Midland and Stanton will have to play off an earlier season tie yet.

Coaches Witchers of Pecos and Hyde of Stanton deserve credit for splendid play and fine sportsmanship of their men. Not a single penalty was called for off-side or rough play. Only two penalties were necessary during the game, one for stalling and one for excessive time out.

For the Buffaloes Wilson and Epy were the bright lights while Morehead stood out for Pecos. Marcos J. Williamson of Midland refereed the game.

Johnson failed to gain on a right end run and a fumble lost 3 yards for Midland. Midkiff made 8 yards through the line and White punted to Wright on the latter's 20-yard line. Wright returned 5 yards.

Wink was forced to punt and Meagher sent the ball to Midland's 40-yard line to Burris, who fumbled but recovered and returned 4 yards. Midland drew a 5-yard penalty for offside. Fryar gained the penalty back on a line play and a Wink penalty for offside gave Midland a first down. The Bulldogs failed to gain on a pass and line plays and White punted to Wink's 45-yard line.

The Wildcats started passing but could not complete one and Meagher sent a long punt from back of his 30-yard line to Burris on the Bulldogs' 20-yard line. Burris returned the punt 23 yards, Midland's ball on its own 43-yard line.

The Bulldogs drew a 5-yard penalty on the first down but a pass from Burris to Fryar was good for 21 yards and advanced the ball to Wink's 41-yard line. Another pass from Burris to Fryar was incomplete and Burris stepped around end for 11 yards and first down. The half ended as a pass from Burris to Fryar was incomplete.

Score at half: Midland 13, Wink 0. Third Quarter Midland kicked to Wink to start the third quarter. Rush received the kick on his 10-yard line and returned to his 25-yard line.

The two teams battled from midfield to Wink's 10-yard line until Meagher got a long punt that sent the oval from his 20-yard marker to Midland's 25-yard line.

Fryar side-stepped his way through the line for a 20-yard gain. Parker lost 5. Midkiff gained 2 yards through the line. A pretty pass from Fryar to Parker was fumbled by the latter and White punted out of bounds on Wink's 47-yard line.

The quarter ended after Meagher had sent a pass to Wright that carried the ball to Midland's 44-yard line.

No scoring was done in the second quarter.

Fourth Quarter Wink completed a pass on the first play of the last period but the play was called back and the Wildcats drew a 5-yard penalty for off-side.

Wink's next toss was intercepted by White and the big Bulldog smashed his way through the entire Wink aggregation for 15 yards before he was pulled down.

Fryar made 6 yards on the first down and the ball was carried to Wink's 29-yard line. Burris made one of the prettiest runs of the game when he skirted right end for 21 yards to take the ball to within 3 yards of scoring a touchdown. Fryar hit the line on the first play for 4 yards. Captain Meagher was sent out of the game at this time for unnecessary roughness and the Wildcats were considerably weakened.

After resumption of play, Hallman went over center for a touchdown. Midkiff's attempt at place-kick for the extra point was short.

Score: Midland 19, Wink 0. White again booted the ball over the goal line on kick-off after touchdown.

Wildcat backs made a few yards from their 20-yard line but could make no showing and Wilson punted out of bounds on his own 32-yard line.

A pass from Burris to Fryar was incomplete. The next down found Johnson grabbing the ball out of the air from Burris and making a 15-yard gain.

Midkiff took the ball from Burris on the "Statue of Liberty" play and went around left end for 17 yards and a touchdown. The speedy Bulldog outran several Wink tacklers and stiff-armed and side-stepped others.

Midkiff failed to make the extra point at place-kick, but Wink was offside and the point was given to the Bulldogs.

Score: Midland 26, Wink 0. Coach Barry began to substitute frequently.

Fryar set his toe under the ball at kick-off to Rush on the latter's 15-yard line.

Rush made his way to his 39-yard line but fumbled when a Bulldog gave him a hard tackle and Midland recovered.

A pass from Burris to Parker was incomplete.

The most difficult and most thrilling run of the game was made on the next down. Fryar took the ball on Wink's 29-yard line, hit the line, whirled, zig-zagged, side-stepped and stiff-armed his way for 29 yards and a touchdown. Midkiff added the extra point from place-kick.

Score: Midland 33, Wink 0. Wink chose to kick after the touchdown. Fryar took the kick at his 40-yard line and was downed on his 48-yard line.

Burris ran true to form and flew around end for 29 yards and started another march for a touchdown. Bulldog backs advanced the ball to Wink's 12-yard line but drew a 5-yard penalty for offside. Burris flipped a neat pass to Johnson and the fighting red-head carried the ball to the Wildcats' 3-yard line.

Burris smashed his way through the line for a touchdown and the last score of the game. Midkiff failed to make the extra point through the line. Score: Midland 39, Wink 0. There was little time to play after the kick and the game ended with the ball in Wink's possession on the Wildcats' 32-yard line.

Final score: Midland 39, Wink 0.

MIDLAND COUNTY DANIEL BOONE

KILLED A BEAR IN THIS COUNTY, AN OLD CLIPPING HERE RELATES

W. M. Schrock of Midland, so far as is known, is the only man who ever killed a bear in Midland county.

Twenty years ago, a clipping from the old Midland Reporter relates, there was a thrilling fight with a big grizzly bear at the Vaughn ranch, 12 miles south of Midland, in which J. L. Vaughn and W. M. Schrock attempted to capture the animal but were forced to kill him.

The story as it appeared in The Reporter at that time has been preserved by Schrock and C. P. Benedict who rode up on the scene as the bear was being killed. The story follows:

"On last Friday morning, the family of J. L. Vaughn, a well known ranchman from Sterling City who recently bought the George Gray headquarters 12 miles south of town, were much alarmed by the appearance of a large black bear, about 200 yards from the house.

"Mr. Vaughn and his sons at once saddled their horses and, after starting a runner for help, immediately gave chase. After an exciting run, in which Mr. Vaughn had the misfortune to run his best horse through a four-wire fence and nearly kill him, they succeeded in roping the savage brute, and with the assistance of Mr. W. M. Schrock, a bear neighbor who had arrived in the mean time, they got him into the corral, thus liberating from a place of great danger two of Vaughn's little boys who had just time to take refuge on top of a large hay stack on the bear's approach.

"On penning the animal in the corral the furious beast immediately rushed to the fence and, rising on his hind legs, tore off three of the panks with his teeth, crushing them into splinters, and dashed away with

Mr. Vaughn and Mr. Schrock in hot pursuit.

"After a deliberate chase they succeeded in driving the bear into the windmill and roping him again. As the animal was of the largest size and the only bear ever found in Midland county, these gentlemen were anxious to capture him alive, but owing to his furious charges and after many hair-breadth escapes, they were forced to shoot him just as he bit the rope into and charged furiously down the bank after them.

"As there were no scales nearer than Midland it was impossible to weigh the enormous brute, but it would not be too much to say that he was the largest and fiercest of his kind ever seen in the west.

"C. P. Benedict, an old bear hunter who killed bears in Palo Pinto county in the early '70s, and Claude Hearrell, a young cowman who, though young, has been known to rope as many as three bears in one day on the Rio Pecos, both pronounced this to be the biggest bear they had ever seen, these gentlemen having just arrived after a desperate ride of four miles at the full speed of their horses from the neighboring ranch of Mr. J. B. Landers in time to see the ferocious monster breath his last.

"Early Sunday morning the posse mentioned above, well mounted and heavily armed, found an enormous bear track at the old Salt Lake, two miles west of Mr. Vaughn's place, but owing to the excessively dry weather were forced to give up the chase, as the dogs could no keep the trail.

FEW FIRST TIMES IN PEN JACKSON, Mich., (UP)—Over 50 per cent of the inmates in the state penitentiary near here have served time in other prisons, according to statistics compiled at the office of the prison record clerk. Out of a total prison population of 5029 there are only 2460 first timers.

LITTLE THEATRE CHARACTERS ARE INFORMED BY AUDIENCE "AREN'T WE ALL?" WAS BEST PLAY GIVEN HERE

Midland's little theatre performs like the Midland football team—that much could be determined Thursday evening when Lonsdale's "Aren't We All?" was staged at the Yucca theatre.

There was not a dull moment during the production. And, while every little theatre play cannot be better than the one just before it, it is apparently accepted by audiences here that the fact remains, paradoxically enough, the same enthusiastic fans who have always complimented a production as being the best ever played had the same words to say for the season's opener.

The secret behind the success of the play did not lie in the play itself, notwithstanding the fact it was re-written by the great actor, George Arliss; but in the honest characterization of the cast. Have you seen a better cast than John Bonner, Mack McCracken, Charlotte Cragin, Marcos Williamson, Constance Robertson, Lillian A. Flood, Joseph A. Seymour, Mildred Gemmill and W. O. Luse?

A few words concerning the players and their work: John Bonner as Lord Grenham, portly man of the world, gave perhaps his best character delineation since delivering the little theatre of one of its chronic disabilities—the need for a character actor of great versatility. Possessed of the finest speaking voice in Midland, and infusing in his clever lines a bit of his own dominant personality, Bonner carried the laughs to the audience throughout the play. His ability to cope with everything except affairs of the heart, to which he invariably fell a victim, was self-admitted. That he should have to end freedom of widowhood just as he was about to envision new horizons in that state was brought about through clever manifestations of a woman in the cast. And she was as clever in the use of feminine wiles as he was in stout masculine purpose towards avoiding entangling alliances. When a better character actor than Bonner is needed he will have to be important.

C. F. McCracken, in the lead role, (and who could imagine him elsewhere?), was handsome and, in the face of a part requiring little or no virility, forceful. Caught by his wife as he was in the arms of another woman, McCracken became involved in a plot sequence that was no better than the actor who was at the vortex of most of the swirl. His selection as leading man attests to the wisdom of the play director, Mrs. George T. Abell. His role was perhaps the hardest of the cast, as he is naturally of a disposition quite different in every respect from that he assumed for the night.

Charlotte Cragin, as Margot Tatham, wife of Hon. Rhodney Tatham, carried the leading feminine role. Those in the last rows could hear every syllable in her dialogue, and she carried a difficult part with the ease of a professional. Good stage presence, adaptability to use of sarcasm, and a certain something as well called nuance as anything else, carried her to instant favor with the audience. She, typical of other feminine creatures, tried to believe that she could never love her husband again—just because of an oversight allowing her to find him in the arms of another woman. Later, when it was discovered in a clever twist of the play structure, that she was guilty of the same thing as that with which she confronted in her husband, she, typically enough, turned to him again.

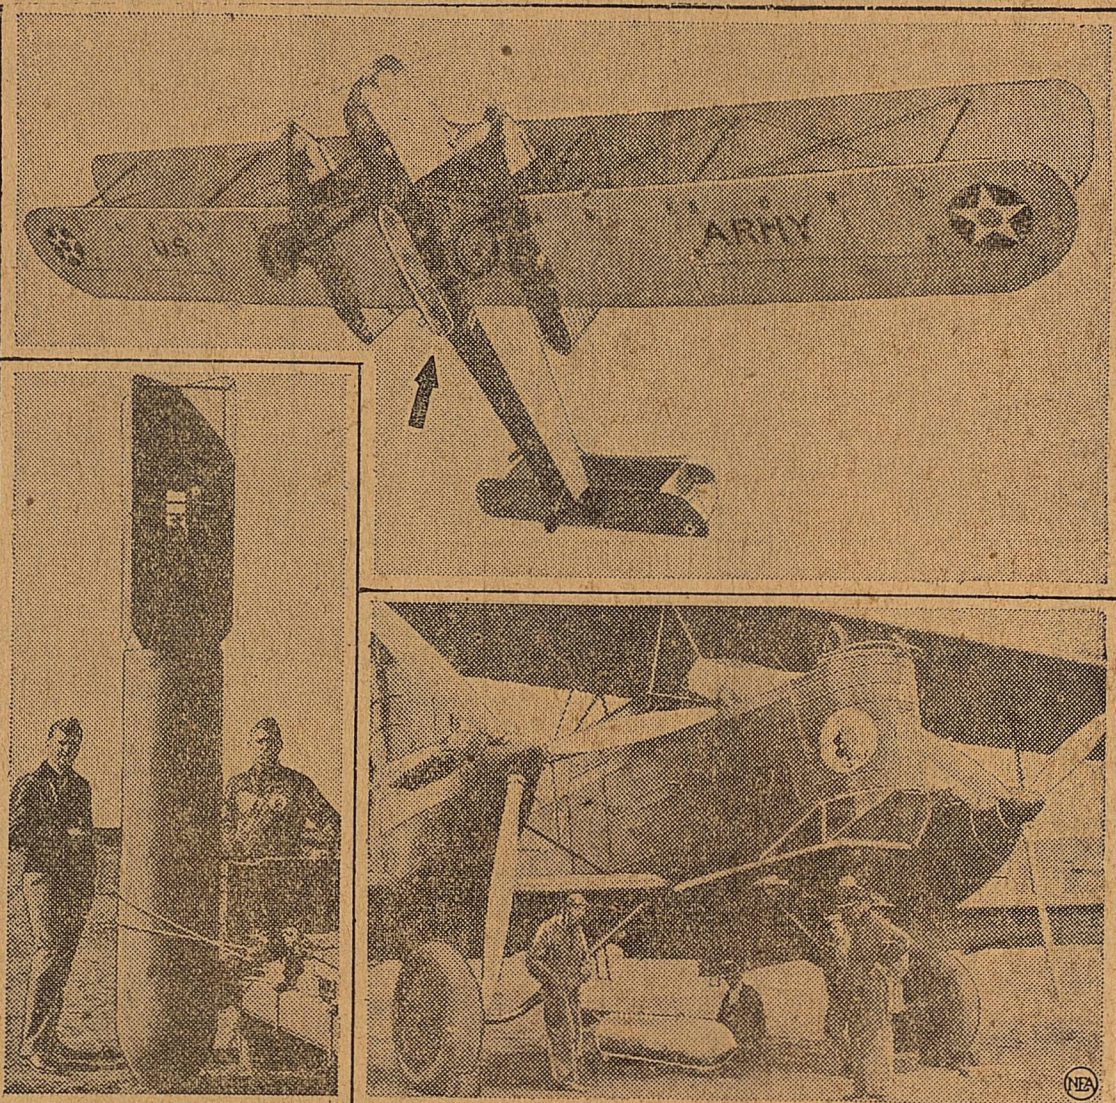

There's little use in saying much about Joseph A. Seymour, who played as Rev. Ernest Lyton, a vicar—for Joe is the same Joe who never fails to go over with an audience. The best way to say anything about a play is, "Joe was in the cast." As a character actor, he is one of the best ever recruited by a little theatre anywhere. Several years in stock equipped him with an amazing lot of experience. Incidentally, he has an almost perfect stage voice and utilizes it to the utmost advantage. As a vicar, he was enough of a vicar to be raised in rank during the night to an archbishop.

Connie Robertson came tripping on the stage occasionally during the night, and diffused the exact shade of seductive atmosphere necessary. Beauty, charm, grace and all those other qualities necessary to playing the second feminine angle to an eternal triangle are hers, and they were reflected in every movement she made. A ripple of audible surprises at this character's beauty went over the audience when she first made her entrance. Her first appearance on the little theatre stage of Midland, she was a hit from the instant she opened a door, stood languidly in lovely poise and then turned about for speech with the leading man. No one would fail to know she has acted professionally.

Marcos Williamson as John Wilcocks, ardent Australian, showed stage presence that, no doubt, decided the play director she had found a new leading man. He was another newcomer to the Midland stage. Dark and handsome, graceful and possessed of a good "talkies" voice, Marc got away to a flying start with the audience, and, without a flaw, went through his characterization with convincing grace. He will be seen later—depend on it.

Lillian A. Flood was Lady Frinton, a scheming widow who got what

Army's Huge Bombing Planes Show Their Stuff

These photographs, taken by the photographic section of the 88th observation squadron, army air corps, during maneuvers at Fort Sill, Okla., give a striking illustration of the power of Uncle Sam's giant new bombers. At the top is a giant army plane, 15,000 feet up, getting ready to drop a 2,000-pound bomb, indicated by the arrow. At the left, is a closeup of one of the enormous bombs, with Major Willis Hale (left) of the staff of the chief of the air corps, and Lieutenant Charles H. Howard, commanding the bombing unit, standing beside it. At the right the soldiers are shown preparing to load a bomb on a plane. These bombs blasted holes in the ground 30 feet wide and 12 feet deep.

she wanted, which, in this case, was Lord Grenham. And Lord Grenham she got, as might have been expected. She was dangerously pretty and, although Grenham tried to keep out of the net, clever to the degree that the audience couldn't keep from believing Grenham actually was glad when caught. And who could blame him? Her voice was excellent, low pitched and of a clearness seldom found. Her work makes it almost certain she will be asked to play often.

Mildred Gemmill was the vicar's wife, and a bit of church atmosphere hanging over her at times did not dispel the believe instinctively felt by the audience that she knew a bit of life—or enough to want to see more. A bit of this inclination cropped out later as she gently, in her own inimitable way, informed the vicar that she might have married another man. This man (and here she got the sly, knowing laughs from the audience) came to see her while her husband was away visiting the sick and poor. He told her his sister would have liked her. The next day this compliment was modified to include his mother and the third day himself. But the affair stopped there, or else the vicar's wife was wise enough to tell her husband so. "I told him then he would be an archbishop," she said, and the audience roared its approval. She was clever in depicting this character.

W. O. Luse was Morton, a butler. He was straight-laced about the routine work every butler has to include during the day and night hours. He was discreet as a butler should be. And he did not do any lovelinking among the usual block of domestic help—which really brands the play itself as being different. If anyone needs a good butler call Luse. If a little theatre group needs an actor who can play better roles—you have his address. He works at the Hughs Tool company.

The makeup staff behind scenes is to be congratulated on its work. Like the linemen in a football game, this corps is seldom fully appreciated, but means more than can be estimated. Mrs. S. M. Warren, Mrs. Paul T. Vickers and Miss Stella Maye Lanham were responsible for blondes going out the same. And brunettes got the same treatment. The make-up staff has studied its work carefully and knows the color combinations and effects of lights on grease paint.

The little theatre orchestra rates a special story and will get it. Wallace Wimberly has done wonders with his musicians. They played semi-classics and a bit of everything else the audience liked. Louise Rippy, A. L. Bollen, Katherine Dunaway, R. E. Shrader, L. C. Waterman, Walter Elkin, Barney Graf, Thomas Inman, Clinton Dunaagan, Joe de Irio, and Mrs. Holt Jewell made up the group.

Qualifications for Voting Set Forth

There are certain qualifications which must be met to cast a ballot in the general election. Payment of a poll tax does not constitute total eligibility, those who go to the polls Tuesday morning should know. "In the general election all persons who shall have resided in this state one year next preceding said election, and the last six months within Midland county, and who have paid their poll tax for the current year, or who have obtained an exemption certificate if they live within the city limits of Midland, or who are entitled to vote under the exemption laws if they live outside of Midland, are entitled to vote. All persons must have resided in Midland county six months, but if any party actually paid and received his poll tax receipt in some other county and has lived within the city limits of Midland six months, he must first present to the tax collector his poll tax receipt or exemption certificate not less than four days prior to the election, and get his name placed on the poll tax list for his particular voting box.

Four parties—democrats, republicans, socialists and communists will have candidates in the general election. Five amendments will be voted on in Texas: for or against providing that the supreme court may sit at any time during the year; for or against subjecting the lands of the University of Texas to taxation for county purposes providing for the payment of said taxes to the proper authorities of the counties where said lands are located; for or against fixing the terms for convening the legislature of Texas; for or against providing for an increase in the maximum per diem of members of the legislature to $10 per day for the first 120 days and thereafter not exceeding $5 per day and decreasing the mileage traveled by each member in going to and returning from the legislature for $5 for each 25 miles to $2.50 for each 25 miles; and for or against providing that the permanent university fund shall be invested in bonds of the United States, the state of Texas, or counties of said state, or in school bonds of municipalities, or in bonds of any city of the state, or in obligations and pledges issued by the board of regents of the University of Texas, or secured by such obligations and pledges, for the construction of dormitories and other buildings for the use of the university, or in bonds issued under and by virtue of the Federal Farm Loan act approved by the president of the United States, July 17, 1925, and amendments thereto.

Millionaire Sheriff Dead from Apoplexy

EDINBURG, Nov. 1. (P)—A. Y. Baker, Hidalgo county's millionaire sheriff and political ruler, stricken with apoplexy yesterday at Lynn, near here, died at his palatial home here today. He was sheriff for 18 years but was not a candidate for re-election this year. He was 55 years old. He came to Hidalgo county in 1896 and was a member of the Texas Rangers and one of the pioneers of the section. He was a native Texan, born at Uvalde. Funeral services will be held Sunday here. He was a Mason, a Shriner and an active Methodist.

Wreck Fatal to 2 Of Train's Crew

MARTINSBURG, West Va., November 1. (P)—An engineer and a fireman of a Baltimore and Ohio express train were killed today as the train was wrecked while passing over a temporary track near Kearneyville. Others of the train crew were not injured. The engineer, Stanley Pickett of Baltimore, was killed instantly. Charles Pumphrey, fireman, was scalded and died at a hospital in Martinsburg several hours after the wreck.

holding the combined office of county and district clerk would have to resign one of the offices, legal steps then being taken to fill the other office. Meanwhile, voters of Midland county will await the official statement of local officials in the Monday issue of The Reporter-Telegram.

Democrats Optimistic

(By Associated Press) Campaigns for the election passed the peak, leaving the national outcome speculative until Tuesday. Any expectation that President Hoover would make a last minute statement was quashed at the White House. He left his desk Saturday determined to hold no more conferences until midweek. Party chiefsains expressed confidence. Robert Lucas, executive director for republicans, said a normal majority would be returned. Jouett Shouse, executive chairman for democrats, reiterated a prediction that nearly seventy republican seats would be overturned.

BEACH HOMES OF FILM ACTORS IN DANGER BURNING

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 1. (UP).—Malibu beach homes of many prominent motion picture actors were threatened today when a brush fire raced uncontrolled along the sea coast in a direct line for the exclusive colony.

Only a narrow firebreak, which is less than a mile from the front of the blaze, remained to protect the millions of dollars worth of beach estates.

Laredo Axeman Gets 15 Years for Crime

LAREDO, Nov. 1. (UP).—Changing pleas of not guilty to guilty, Jack Allen was assessed to 15 years in the penitentiary for the ax killing of Monica Dovalina in the Escobas oil field of Zapata county in district court here today.

Havana Balloting Automatically off

HAVANA, Cuba, November 1. (P)—The newspaper El Pais today said that 35 per cent of the Havana voting places remained closed today due to the resignation of officials appointed to supervise them. Elections set for today were being postponed.

Fratricide Results In 99-year Penalty

CAMERON, Nov. 1. (P)—H. W. Middleton, Smithville, was given a 99-year sentence by a jury on a charge of murdering his father, J. J. Middleton. The state contended that the elder Middleton died from poison.

Kidnappers Still Being Searched for

INDUSTRY EYES TEXTILES RISE AS A SIGN OF GENERAL UPTURN

By ALLARD SMITH Executive Vice President, The Union Trust Co., Cleveland, O.

In looking over the happenings of the great depression year of 1921 it is interesting to note the developments which were the first to mark the start of recovery. Among these were the improvement in the textile trade and the check in the decline of commodity prices. Both these developments are recurring now.

Whether they will have the same significance in 1930 as in 1921 remains to be seen. Sentiment is decidedly better in the textile trade and wholesale prices, as measured by the comprehensive index of the Bureau of Labor Statistics, gained slightly in September.

This was the first interruption of the steady price decline in over a year. The average for all commodities at wholesale is down over 14 per cent since 1929.

Evidence of betterment in textiles is found in records of cotton, silk, wool and rayon. In September, cotton mills consumed more cotton than in any month since June. Exports of cotton gained heavily over those for one year ago. At around 18 cents a bale, cotton prices are stimulating purchases, some mills buying their requirements for two or three years ahead.

Silk mills in September also used more raw silk than one year before and rayon and wool mills are more active. Evidently the buyers' strike on textiles and wearing apparel is beginning to weaken in the face of low prices, of reduced stocks and growing needs. These are signs on the business horizon which help to offset in some measure the many evidences of adverse conditions.
