TAKES GUN FROM MAN AND FIRES

Companion of Texan Captured When In Flight

PITTSBURGH, July 27.—(UP)—Patrick T. Fagan, mine union leader, today balked an attempt to put him on the spot by killing his would-be assassin, Patrick Murphy, of Little River, Texas.

Murphy was one of a group slinking up to Fagan's home this morning following a controversy within the United Mine Workers' organization.

Fagan fought desperately, seizing Murphy's gun and shooting him down.

ARMY BAND AND BALL CLUB WILL BE HERE 3 DAYS

The flying 1st cavalry in a skirmish over the Southwest holds in its musical instruments much of the fate of the army post at Marfa.

The band will be in Midland for concerts and dances two days next month, the 8th and 9th.

Harry Lambert of Pecos, commander of the Davis Mountains Association of Legion posts told of the significance of the concert trip when he arrived in Midland this morning to make arrangements.

The government has apparently doomed the post at Marfa, along with others along the border, in its slicing expense-saving program against military defenses," he said.

Woman, Babies Are Rescued From Island

CORPUS CHRISTI, July 27. (UP).—Miss Fannie Maxey, Mrs. Tillie Kircher, Mrs. W. Hale and two children, all of San Antonio, were rescued today from a barren section of Padre Island by a group of citizens after they had been stranded for 72 hours.

It was not known how the party became stranded as the highway was excellent. The party left San Antonio Thursday and expected to return Friday after an outing. They were sighted yesterday by a flyer from Fort Crockett.

Graf Plowing Steadily Into the Far Northland

LENINGRAD, July 27. (UP).—The Graf Zeppelin was well on its way today toward the north pole.

Commanded by Dr. Hugo Eckener, the ship left here yesterday on the most perilous lap of the cruise. It carried 16 passengers and 30 members of the crew.

The course of the trip lay over the Arctic ice fields which brought disaster to Umberto Nobile's airship Italia three years ago.

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS Taking off in the face of unfavorable atmospheric conditions, the big dirigible lifted her nose from the special mooring mast a little more than 14 hours after her arrival from Berlin to take on hydrogen from a special storage tank erected for her.

During the night the ship took in 9,000 meters of gas.

Just before the start, Dr. Hugo Eckener, her commander, said he was leaving for the North fully confident of success and hoped to reach Franz Joseph Land within 24 hours, unless hindered by the weather, which, according to the latest reports, was not quite favorable.

The Malign already in the vicinity of Franz Joseph Land and has been informed by the wireless station on Rooker Island that the entrance to the bay is free of ice.

The third Arctic dirigible expedition in history carried 12 scientists, a photographer, two journalists and a Russian wireless operator, besides a regular crew of 30.

The American members of the expedition are Lieutenant Commander E. H. Smith of the United States Coast Guard and Lincoln Ellsworth, sportsman and explorer.

Headed by Prof. Rudolph Samoilovich, Russian scientific director of the expedition, and Dr. Eckener, veteran commander of the Graf, the voyagers expect to cover approximately 7,000 miles on a cruise which is for the purpose of gathering meteorological and geographical data with a view to determining whether a regular dirigible route across the North Pole is feasible.

No attempt will be made to cross the pole, however, the farther north point on the journey being about 82 degrees latitude.

By working at night as well as by day in the perpetual northern daylight at this season of the year, the scientists hoped to crowd 12 ordinary days' work into six.

A new pontoon arrangement makes it possible for the dirigible to alight on water and several such descents to the ocean were contemplated, including one for the meeting with the Malign, which is carrying scientists and tourists. Mail will be exchanged between the two vessels.

The Graf Zeppelin is expected back in Leningrad after five or six days.

Stanton Wins Brace Of Baseball Games

Football season is not so far off say. They cite as the basis of their statement the fact that Coach L. K. Barry has sent in his first letter to the squad.

The first letter was addressed to Loyd Burris, captain of the squad, among other things, it said.

The first term of summer school here in Austin has just closed and I am making plans for the football season there. For the past week we have had anything from a light shower to a heavy rain and athletics have been slowed up a bit. I am taking three courses in math and am snowed under.

"During the next 10 days I shall talk with various coaches of the district and find out what few things remain to be discussed unofficially.

"On August 1 I will leave for Lubbock to attend the 10-day coaching school. More than 300 coaches will be there, about 100 of them being from colleges. Notre Dame's coach has signified he will attend. I expect to get some real dope from him and the others. From there I go to A. & M. for another coaching school. I wish you and some of the boys would make plans to attend if it is possible. (The coach here gave instruction for those who will try to take the course.)

"It is hardly time to send out my annual letter to the boys and start the pep. I shall do that in another week or 10 days. Sorry to learn of the loss of Leland Murphy and Conrad Bonner through moving. Both were improving all the time.

"Several backfield men of good experience have asked for the assistant coach job there and I believe we will have a man who will put added (See BARRY WARNS page 4)

WHEN MEN LIVE LONGER

The scriptural quota of three score and ten seems to mean nothing to Dr. Samuel Wesley Stratton, chairman of the executive committee of the famous Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Having reached his 70th birthday, Dr. Stratton not only plans to live to be 100 but believes that he will do an enormous amount of important work in the next 30 years.

His chief reason for mapping out a new program of work at an age when most men think only of death or retirement is probably that he will be happier at work than he would be idle.

But the nation as a whole will be the chief gainer. As a scientist, Dr. Stratton plans to conduct extensive research on such problems as flood control and the harnessing of waterpower. All of his fellow countrymen, directly or indirectly, will reap the benefit.

And that brings up a new angle to this business of an increased life span.

Science has considerably lengthened the life of the ordinary man in the last few decades. Usually we assume that this simply means more individual happiness. John Smith and Tom Jones, having longer life than their fathers, will have more fun, will play more, will get to understand life a little better.

But the chief gainer will be the race as a whole. Its best workers will not drop out after two or three decades of activity. Scientists, teachers, artists, technicians of all sorts—they will be able to give the world more service than ever before.

It has often been remarked that death usually takes a man just as he has learned how to live. If the life span can be extended to a century this will no longer be so. A man like Dr. Stratton, instead of retiring at 70, will be able to begin his most important work. We shall stop talking about "retirement ages"; instead, we shall reap the full benefit of the wisdom of the veterans.

NEW DEMANDS ON CHARITY

Mr. Average American might just as well get ready now to give just twice as much to charity this fall as he gave last fall.

Allen T. Burns, executive director of the National Association of Community Chests and Councils, having completed a five-weeks' study of 184 principal American cities and towns, reports that the relief burden next winter will be double that of last year.

The demands on charity, in fact, will be so great that private philanthropy cannot possibly meet them, he says. City and county governments will have to make extensive appropriations if the need is to be met.

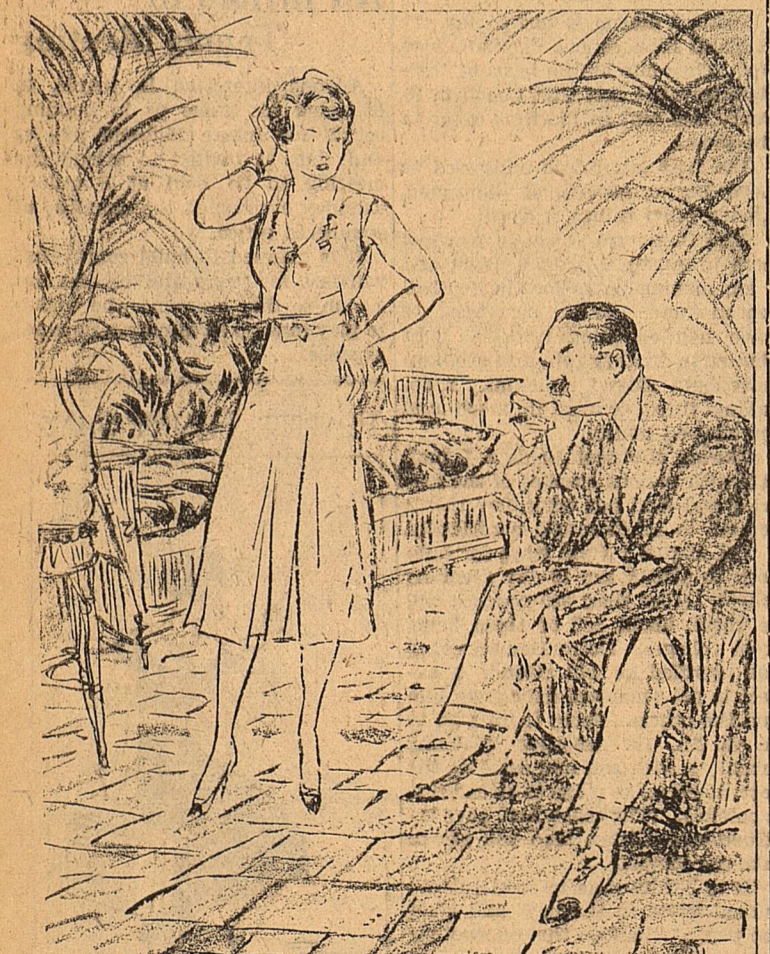

One of the things that makes the situation worse is that private savings of the unemployed are becoming exhausted. Jobless men who did not need help last winter will need a great deal of it this winter. The public will have to give as it has not given before.

FRANCE AND DISARMAMENT

The French assertion that France has reduced its armaments to the lowest possible point reflects once more the unshakable insistence on "security" which has been the highlight of French foreign policy ever since the war. France is generally regarded as the most militaristic nation in Europe today, and her claim that her military forces cannot possibly be reduced any further will doubtless be received with considerable skepticism. Nevertheless, from the French viewpoint that claim is nothing less than the truth.

The French are openly skeptical of war-prevention measures. As long as war is a possibility, France is determined to be in better condition to meet it than any possible competitor. And as long as that spirit prevails, it is hard to see how any disarmament scheme can make very much headway.

Exterminator Called Old Bones Because of Looks

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second of a series of articles, "Ten Famous Triumphs of the Turf," and tells of the great deeds of "Old Bones."

By MAX RIDDLE (Copyright 1931 NEA Service, Inc.)

For almost a decade the name of Exterminator spelled defeat for any horse brave enough to go against him. They called him "Old Bones" and laughed when they saw his scrawny sides and the bones sticking out. But Exterminator never cared, campaigning successfully year after year.

He saw champions come and go; setting enviable records for themselves, winning popular acclaim and forcing the old Exterminator to the back of the stage. But "Old Bones" never cared; just kept running on and on, until at last he had won 50 races and $252,596.

Exterminator was run over any and all distances, always willing and able to do what was asked of him. He was campaigned at a killing pace. His was an iron constitution, capable of the hardest kind of work. And he was still winning races when the white star between his wide old eyes was beginning to grow bald with years.

Perhaps there is no better example of Exterminator's versatility than his victory in the Autumn Gold Cup at Belmont park. Even his third successive victory in the Saratoga Cup won at the age of seven, pales before his performance in the Belmont feature. There weren't many entries for that event—a new one of the turf calendar. It was to be run at two miles and was inaugurated in the hope that trainers would condition their horses for longer distances.

Exterminator was nominated. Doubtless the presence of Willis Sharpe Kilmer's superb gelding restrained many an owner from nominating his horse. Two miles was a long, hard race—with Exterminator in there.

"Old Bones" was an early favorite at 1-3 in the betting, but, as race time drew near, it was whispered about that Exterminator hadn't had much training. "Touts and commission boys gave the news behind sly and knowing looks. Exterminator wasn't in shape!"

Moreover, "Old Bones" had to carry 128 pounds while Harry Payne Whitney's capable Damask had only 98 pounds to bear. Exterminator was spotted Damask 30 pounds, and Cleopatra 23. The price jumped to 4-5 and there it stayed. The public had seen the name of Exterminator in the winner's column too often to make him anything but a favorite.

As the horses left the barrier, Cleopatra took the lead with Damask second. Exterminator trailed by several lengths. Fairbrother allowed Exterminator to run one of his characteristic races, and the chestnut son of McGee just seemed to plod along behind the leaders.

Frankie Coltilletti, astride Damask made these separate moves in an effort to head Cleopatra, but McAtee kept his mount in an easy lead for the first mile and a half. By that time, however, Cleopatra had had enough of pace setting.

Coltilletti moved forward with Damask and Fairbrother began to urge Exterminator. The courageous gelding did not come with his usual burst of speed but he moved slowly up until he was at last abreast of the Whitney entry.

For a hundred yards or more the two ran nose and nose. Then slowly, almost imperceptibly, Exterminator began to gain.

Damask held on gamely, but her early duel with Cleopatra had taken too much. The horses passed under the wire with just the width of a thoroughbred head separating them. In winning the cup Exterminator broke the American running record for the distance. No less a star than the great Ten Borek had once held the record for the two miles, by running it in 3:27.1-2. The record had stood for 30 years or more, until 1910, when Everett raced to a new mark of 3:25.3-5. They said that Exterminator was not fit for his race that day, but fit or not, he ran the race in 3:21.1-2 just three and four-fifths seconds faster than Everett's best time.

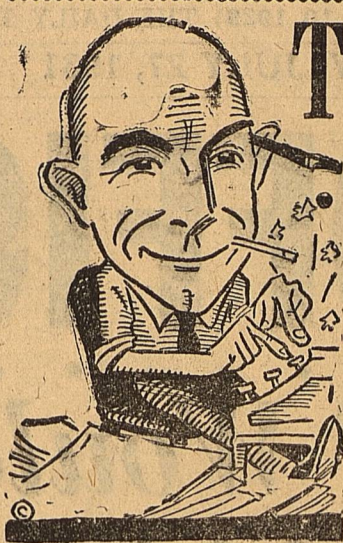

The record still stands—a tribute to "a horse that wasn't fit to run to a horse that wasn't fit" to run his best race.

The Town Quack

(Reserves the right to "quack" about everything without taking a stand on anything.)

It has been officially announced at the office that Mrs. Witty has returned to her desk as society editor.

Dear Old Town Quack: I have been reading your various and sundry quackings for Lo' these many moons and heretofore, have maintained a discreet silence; but this morning I feel the urge to furnish material for that which, I hope will be a resounding and vociferous quack.

In as much as, restaurants, coffee shops, confectioneries, etc., are required to maintain sanitary and healthful establishments to the satisfaction of the city health officers; it would seem only just and right for the city to co-operate with them in this respect; to the extent, at least, of refraining from throwing dense clouds of germ laden dust through the open doors and windows of said establishments by means of the street sweeper.

This writer on various occasions has had a perfectly good drink, not to mention various plates of eatables rendered highly unpalatable to say the least, by this agency.

It would appear, that if the water supply is insufficient to abate this nuisance, that the sweeping would be delayed until such time as places serving food and drink would be closed.

I still maintain that the best way to enjoy a vacation is to go slow about the whole business and enjoy the thing while it lasts. The old idea of pushing a car 500 or 600 miles a day is all bosh.

I am in favor of digging tunnels under Red river and settling the Texas-Oklahoma dispute in that manner.

It is a well known fact that guns point neither way along the border of the United States and Canada. It seems that we could have some sort of dispute with our dominion brothers about Lake Erie and throw a

BIG SPRING TAKES MATCHES PLAYED ON TENNIS COURTS HERE SUNDAY; A BIG SURPRISE OR TWO SLIPPED IN

Big Spring tennis players further demonstrated their superiority in the West Texas tennis league Sunday when they won over Midland and Lamesa netters in a tournament held here.

Aside from an upset or two, Big Spring had a comparatively easy time of the tourney. Play was by brackets, and moved along faster because of Fort Stockton's unexplained absence.

Ferguson of Midland won from White, Lamesa's No. 1 man, 6-3, 6-3 but lost to Bishop of Big Spring who had gone into the bracket final after taking a default from Butz of

COLORADO TAKES GOLF LEAD AS TEXON LOSES IN LAMESA MATCH

MIDLAND LOSES TO COLORADO ON SUNDAY

Colorado went into undisputed lead of the Sand Belt Golf association Sunday when Texon, who had been tied for a week with that town, lost to Lamesa here, 27-17.

Midland's loss to Colorado, 30-14, gave the leaders a 13-point advantage. Although the results of the Big Spring-Snyder matches could not be learned early this morning from Big Spring, it was thought likely that Big Spring won over Snyder by enough points to displace Midland in fourth position. Midland had held fourth with 157 points, closely followed by Big Spring with 148 points. Snyder has been the weakest club in the association and likely lost its match to the Big Spring mashie wielders.

Lamesa and Texon played on the Midland links and the Lamesa win was a decided upset.

Only three of the eight Midland players won their individual matches in Colorado. C. L. Jackson, H. S. Ferguson and Joe Chambers. All eight lost the low ball match. Others to play on the Midland team were Ellis Cowden, Frank Day, Delo Douglas, Arch Thomas and Fred Hogan.

Standings to date, Big Spring and Snyder being totalled only up to Sunday:

Colorado	214
Texon	201
Lamesa	193
Midland	171
Big Spring	148
Snyder	85

Barry Warns--

punch into the club. I don't believe we will lack a thing then. A new tackling dummy that springs back into place will add speed to our early season workouts, and other equipment is as good as you'll find. I hope the club will keep the unreserved respect of the city and do everything possible to aid other members. That is what makes for a football club: play at play time, work at work time and maintain an ethical code at all times. You as captain must keep the good of the team uppermost at all times. Every man on the team has a world of natural ability, but the question is: can every member stand up in a pinch and be dependable?

"That's what I want everyone to think of. We're in a fast company this year. The same conditions that affect us affect other clubs. It's a case of the survival of the fittest, and if Midland team members do as they should I have no doubt of the outcome. The team will do honor to the town.

"I have been playing handball every day. My legs won't stay in there like they did when I weighed less, however, and my loss of 15 pounds will not be apparent to just everyone. I just don't seem to be able to get below 180, stripped.

"I hope the grass on the practice field is growing. That's what we need more than anything else—a practice field. Let me know how it looks."

Grim Question Is Raised by Papers

Should a man die in time to get a good break in the morning papers? Several of the reporters in "The Front Page," the Howard Hughes picture which is at the Ritz theatre today, think so. Others, not so callous, may have other opinions, but in any event, "The Front Page" provides thrill after thrill, with a man's neck at stake, and is one of the great dramas of this decade. The stage play ran for nearly a year on Broadway.

Pat O'Brien, a newcomer to the screen, plays the role of Hildy Johnson, the brilliant and irresponsible reporter who tries to turn "respectable" but cannot. Adolphe Menjou reveals himself in quite a different type of role as the hard-boiled but suave managing editor who refuses to let a good reporter get away from him.

MIDLAND WINS BOWLING TOURNEY; BIG SPRING SECOND AND ODESSA THIRD; DOZEN TEAMS IN MATCHES

Midland won first, Big Spring second and Odessa third at a tournament held in bowling here Sunday. Midland won from the Big Spring Recreation club in the finals.

The recreation club eliminated McCamey, the score being recreation club 2533, McCamey 1990. Highest score prize went to J. B. Simpson of Odessa, a three-months subscription to The Reporter-Telegram.

Searcy of Big Spring won second prize, a smokeless ash tray donated by the Taylor Drug company. Allen Watts of Midland won a tie donated by Everybody's.

PLEASANT VALLEY DRUMS FIRE BOYS OFFERINGS TO WIN

Pleasant Valley's farmer nine gave the Firemen a wash-down Sunday at Bizzell park, 7-5, in one of the most interesting games of the season. The winners erred twice, for the only moners marked up during the game.

Brunson homered, but Heath hit one with two on base to go him one better. As if to disprove the belief that pitchers cannot hit, Girdley two four ply blows out of the park. Simpson got a triple, and Robinson and Johnson doubled.

Each club collected 13 hits.
