

Panhandle Rural Development meeting held.

Hansford County well represented

There were seventeen men and women representing Hansford County at the regional Panhandle Rural Development meeting. This meeting was held in the Phillips Building located in Borger. The people were there to get help to improve the economic development of their communities. Hansford County had more representatives than any of the other four counties in the region.

The representatives of Hansford County were business people, community officials, and others interested in the further economic development of Hansford County. There were people from both Spearman and Gruver. They are a part of the Hansford County Planning Committee of the Panhandle Rural Development Foundation. This committee was formed by organizing meetings held in both Spearman and Gruver over the past two weeks.

At these organizing meetings in Gruver and Spearman a chairman was chosen, the nature of the county was discussed, and a list of areas the people of the county would want to improve was formed. Pete Fisher was chosen as chairman of the Hansford County Planning committee. The committee put together a list of physical aspects of the county. These aspects included good roads, good medical care, adequate water supply, and mainly an agricultural economic base.

There were seven areas the committee felt the county could use help in improving. The first on the list was to improve communication between different communities within the county. Second, was to retain and develop local businesses. After local businesses came attracting new businesses and industries to the county. Fourth on the list was retaining the youth of the community. The fifth area was to establish ways to make use of the established resources of the county. These resources include the petroleum reserves, cattle feedlots, and commercial crops grown in the county. The best development of new resources, such as the Palo Duro Dam and Lake, was sixth on the list. The final area was that any development of the area should not damage the quality of life the residents of the community enjoy. These are the areas the Hansford County representatives brought to the regional meeting in Borger Thursday night.

The Hansford County representatives joined representatives from the other four counties that make up the region. These counties are Ochiltree, Lipscomb, Hutchinson, and Hansford. Each of these counties brought a list of areas they would want help in improving. At the meeting they presented their lists from their county. The lists from each of the four counties were then posted for all the representatives to look at and to see where each of the counties might have areas in common. After establishing areas that all four counties want help in, committees are to be formed to study these areas, and to propose strategies to help the communities in their county to develop these areas.

There were seven areas that the four counties had in common. After listing them the people at the meeting ranked the areas to see which the majority thought were the most important. This was done to help decide which of the areas would be designated for study. The areas were ranked in the following order.

The area that the county representatives thought was the most important was retaining local businesses. The second most important area was recruiting new industry to the county. Medical care was next in importance to the county representatives. Fourth on the list was making use of the natural gas resources of each county. The disposal of solid wastes was fifth on the list. This area was brought up because of the new Environmental Protection Agency guidelines on solid waste disposal. These new guidelines will go into effect in the near future. Sixth on the list was improved education. The part of education most concern was on job training availability and continuing adult education. The last area for improvement was promoting tourism. It was decided after the ranking that all of the areas should see HANSFORD p. 5

Dallas Trosper holds the plaque he received from the Texas Department of Human Services for his volunteer services in raising money for Hansford County Children's Fund.

Scout Nominated for "Governor's Award"

Dallas Trosper, of Spearman, received a plaque on June 26 from the Texas Department of Human Services. The plaque was awarded to Trosper in recognition of his volunteer services in raising money to establish the Hansford County Children's Fund. This fund was established to help the less fortunate children of Hansford County. Along with the plaque, Trosper was nominated for the "Governor's Award for Outstanding Volunteer Services." All of this came out of an Eagle Scout project for troop number 551.

Trosper had to pick an Eagle Scout project. "I had several choices," Trosper said. The one he chose was to volunteer to raise money for foster children of Hansford County.

Some of the money that Trosper raised went to provide Christmas and birthday money for one boy, at Boystown, and three girls at White Face. If Trosper had not given his time to raise this money, there probably would not have been much for those children on those occasions. Some of the money Trosper raised went to buy Bibles for the children. "I knew the children before they went to Boystown and White Face," said Trosper. What Trosper did not expect was the amount of recognition his volunteering would bring to him personally.

Trio departs for Kenya

"Go therefore and make disciples of all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Spirit, teaching them to observe all that I have commanded you.. (Mathew 28: 18-20)

This biblical passage is called The Great Commission, and it is a Christian mandate that three Spearman residents will be fulfilling next week when they travel to Kenya, Africa, as missionaries for the evangelical organization International Crusades.

Scott Taylor will lead a team of three individuals, made up of himself, Jodie Stevens and Jodie's son Stan Brandt, during a week-long visit to rural Kenya. Scott is youth minister at First Baptist Church in Spearman. Jodie is a homemaker who works part-time and Stan will be a senior at Spearman High School this fall. The three are a part of ten such teams of over 60 Panhandle residents who will make the missionary journey to Africa with International Crusades, an inter-denominational Christian outreach program based in Dallas.

The Spearman participants, all members of the First Baptist Church here, were inspired to volunteer for this mission last winter and spring, when two spokespersons from International Crusades visited their church and expressed the need for evangelical work in Kenya. The organization's president, Ben Miese, who is a personal friend of First Baptist's Pastor Russell Gibbs, came in December to see if there were any local interest in the Kenya crusade. He gave a presentation at an informative meeting which immediately caught Scott's attention. "A missionary in Kenya had alerted International Crusades to their need for more people to blanket the rural area in Kenya with the gospel," explains Scott. "I realized this was a unique opportunity. A crusade hasn't been done around here in quite a while.

Miese's visit was followed by one in April from International Crusades' Calvin Beech, the organization's executive vice president. His preaching on the need in Kenya inspired Jodie and her son Stan to volunteer for the mission. "Mr. Beech was preaching and he told us about an old man in Kenya who walks with a cane three miles each way to go to church services each day. He said this man would have tears running down his face each time he heard the name of Jesus," Jodie says, "when I heard this, I realized the Lord was calling me to go to Kenya."

Kenya." She and her son exchanged a meaningful look during this sermon and afterwards, Stan announced that he intended to go to Kenya as well. "I felt like-hey! Here's an opportunity to radically save a bunch of people," Stan says with an enthusiastic grin.

The trip, which will cost each participant about $2,400 a piece, will begin next Wednesday, July 12. The Panhandle teams will depart from Amarillo for Dallas by plane and then fly on to New York City to Nairobi, Kenya, via Frankfurt, Germany. The local church underwrote one-third of the expense to Scott and his team and many individuals contributed towards their costs as well. (A few Spearman residents also contributed materials for the missionaries to distribute to the natives in Kenya, and these people will be named in our follow-up story when the crusaders return.)

Once in Nairobi, Kenya, Scott, Jodie and Stan will participate in an evangelistic service and opening rally Friday, July 14. Following this and an orientation meeting, they will be transferred to their "host church" in a rural village. The Spearman trio will be the only members from International Crusades in this village, as each team is assigned a different host church, and here they will spend the next week preaching daily and teaching Bible studies to the native villagers.

"You have to bear in mind that many of these people will have never heard the name Jesus Christ," Scott says. He explains that the native language spoken in this part of Kenya is a dialect of Swahili, but that many of the people speak English as a second language. "We have testimonies printed in the native language to pass out and 'card talks' that will translate what we are saying."

Scott, Jodie and Stan will live in tents during their week long crusade in this village and eat the meals prepared for them by the native Kenyans. "It will be hard, but it will be fun, too," Stan comments. At this point the Spearman missionaries do not know if they will even have a church building to use. "And if we do, it will probably be a hut," says Scott. "These people are very poor."

At the end of their week in the village, on Sunday, July 23, there will be a victory rally for all the teams in a central area before the mid-afternoon return to Nairobi. Arrival back in the United States is scheduled for late night on July 24.

In preparation for their trip to Africa, the Spearman team has spent time praying, packing and getting inoculated! Immunizations against the diseases cholera, tetanus, yellow fever, typhoid and hepatitis were required for the journey to Africa, and the three will have to take malaria pills during their stay in Kenya. They will also be traveling with a special water purifying filter.

It is apparent that Scott, Jodie and Stan are very excited about their upcoming crusade, in spite of their soreness from all the shots and the grueling 21-hour flight they face next week. They eagerly talk about the 12 to 15 rolls of film they plan to take. This film and their cameras will be about the only things they bring back home, as Scott says missionaries traditionally give away everything else to the natives--from extra shoes to Hansford Hospital admissions for last week are: Eva Boyd, Flossie Boyd, Elmer Adcock, Tom Spivey, Gene Leatherman, Ward Nolder, Gruver, William Sheets, Borger; Robert Novak, Eva Pierce, Jozie Goodman, Sue Tindell, Louise Watts, Margarete Jenkins, Inez Bennett, and Fern Fulkerson, Spearman.

Life has taken on a brighter glow for Kent and Tammy Benton with the arrival of Austin Ford. Their firstborn arrived on June 30, by way of High Plains Baptist Hospital in Amarillo. He weighed 7.1b 10 oz. and was 20 inches long. On the maternal side, Austin Ford has grandmother Charlotte Ford, Spearman; great-grandparents Elvin and Mildred Martin, Spearman, and Thelma and Kermit Ford of Snyder.

His only paternal ancestors are Nell and Marshall Benton of Spearman.

Latest information regarding Roy Devers comes from friends who report that he is now with his son and family, Donald Roy Devers, at Carlsbad.

Next Saturday he will go to Hereford to attend a family reunion and remain there in the home of his son Bill and family.

He will commute to Amarillo for his radiation treatments, which will begin on Monday.

The voice of Dwayne Smith is again heard on KDRF radio after a weeks absence.

Dwayne took his vacation at his parents home in Pampa, where relatives from Tenn. were visiting. Family outings were the main activity.

For Dwayne the highlight, and sufficient vacation, was just not setting an alarm for 4 a.m.!

When the Texas Legislature convened last January, the announced primary purpose was the passage of changes in the sloppy, expensive Workmen's Compensation law.

When the session ended the first of June, the Legislators proudly announced they had passed 1000 'measures' (but the Workmen's Compensation was not among them).

So, to pass the law, they were called into special session, and now after 30 days, it has not been passed. However, they did try to amend one law they had passed without understanding what they were doing; namely the release of names of victims of crimes. The announced intention was to prevent salesmen for burglar alarm systems from contacting the victims. Overlooked were three important angles - all obvious to the average layman.

1. They were restraining legitimate trade.
 2. They were discriminating against honest salesmen selling a needed product.
 3. Maybe, just maybe, the victims are capable of handling salesmen at their own discretion, without 'Big Brother'.
- And for this they are asking a raise in pay???

Weatherford - Tucker wed

Candlelighters were Jennifer Brooks, of Burnett, and Kali Strain, of Goodwell, Okla.

Best man was Tybo Thompson, of Canyon. Groomsmen were Clayton Smith, of College Station, Shane Weatherford, brother of the bride, of Stinnett, and Justin Tucker, brother of the groom, of Stinnett.

The guests were seated by Jason Varnon and Eric Varnon of Spearman.

ruffled rosettes and strands of Pearls. The chapel length train was trimmed with ruffles, lace motifs, sequins, and pearls.

The bride's waist-length veil of white net cascaded from a floral headband trimmed with sequins and pearls. Her bridal bouquet was of white roses accented with peach roses, peach and mint-green ribbon and streamers. The bouquet was highlighted with pearls and sequins to match her bridal attire.

The reception that followed was assisted by hostesses, Debbie Brown, Peggy Richardson, Anne Richardson, Stacy Bruce, Shelli Nolen, Susan Isbell, and Wendy Smith.

be studied. It was decided that the committees to study and report on the seven areas of improvement the counties had in common, should be made up of two members of each individual planning committee in each county. These study committees would meet together starting the first of August. The study committees will not only have the two representatives from each county present but a representative of Texas A.&M. University will also be present.

The representative from Texas A.&M. University will provide assistance to the study committee in locating data on the area of improvement the committee is studying. The data that A.&M. University will provide can take the form of written material video tape, or even an expert witness to testify before the committee. The expense for providing the committee with data will be born by Texas A.&M. University.

The meeting was then adjourned so that the county planning committee chairman could organize the selection of the people from their county to serve on the area study committees. Hansford County needs two people to serve on each of the seven study committees. The committee selections are open to anyone. If you are interested in serving on one of the committees, please call the Spearman Reporter office and leave your name, telephone number, and which committee you would be interested in serving on.

socks and other clothing. According to general information put out by International Crusades, Scott and his team will probably inspire 100 or more Kenyans to become Christians. Kenyan is currently viewed as an awakening Christian nation with inadequate manpower for sharing the gospel to the multitudes. "This is the whole point," Scott asserts. "This is why we are going." He adds that he and his team will return to Spearman even more committed to sharing their faith.

According to the American Cancer Society, one out of ten women will develop breast cancer during her lifetime. It is currently estimated that over 37,000 women will die each year as a result of breast cancer.

Ninety percent of breast cancers are diagnosed by women or their physicians finding a lump in the breast. Women who are diagnosed with an ominous lump large enough to be easily felt have a 50% chance of five year survival rate. A woman who is diagnosed as having breast cancer by mammography before the lump is felt has a 97% five year survival rate and a 90% ten year survival rate.

AMI'S breast cancer screening unit will be at Ochiltree General Hospital July 12, 1989, from 9:00 a.m. to 7:00 p.m. The complete cost is only $55.00 which includes the Radiologist fee and is payable at the unit at the time of the service.
