

Trail Dust

It is small tribute we can pay tomorrow, to those who sleep so serenely in far away France that we may have Peace and Liberty. Those who gave their all without complaint. What price they paid to bring silence to cannon and still the tramping of tired and heavy feet, those who gave life for Peace because they had no more to give. Nor will they complain against those of us who may forget that terrible alter at which they piled high with courage, blood, agony, tears and death, that we might breathe the sweetness of a new day in a new world, where the laughter of little children and the songs of birds are not shattered by fear. Yet, there are those they left behind, widows, mothers and the ones they loved, who still listen for voices and the sound of footsteps on the walk. To them we owe eternal homage. To forget is to break faith with the souls that dwell in Valhalla.

With election now over it may be possible to pick up a newspaper or listen to a radio, to read or hear something besides the lofty virtues of a candidate. Our country would need little else if all the candidates elected keep the promises they have made. However, they will soon forget most of them until another election nears when they will come forward with a new set.

It may be possible that the great battle between the railroad and the automobile, in which the motor vehicle has in the past few years made great gains, will show some victory for the railroad. According to some recent statistics, railway travel is one of the safest modes of travel on earth. Only one fatality in one and one-half million passengers. While the automobile has hurled on to an ever increasing cost of lives, the railroad has constantly been reduced until now it is almost as safe to be on a train as in your home. With the possible advent of an increasing use of intoxicating beverages, and the already-tried practice of mixing strong drink and gasoline, the railroad may again return to its rightful place in the world of transportation.

ADVERTISING vs BANK- RUPTCY

A trade publication points that according to Bradstreet's report for 1930, 95 per cent of all business failures were non-advertisers. One does not hesitate a minute about insuring his home or place of business, but how about the business itself? The successful business man is the one who goes after business, the failure is the one who sits around and waits for business to come to show that the going business man is an advertiser.—Keenesburg (Colo.) ### CHURCH OF CHRIST

We shall have no crede but Christ, no book but the Bible, no name but Christian. We shall give opportunity to every person whether member of this or any other church to have part in the church program.

Soon there will be a Sunday evening program for children and young people where they will present their lessons to the Sunday evening audiences. The minister will divide time and thus furnish an audience for this group. This arrangement has proven very interesting at other places and should appeal to all interested groups here.

SUGAR BEETS WEIGHING 15 POUNDS ARE RAISED NEAR ROARING SPRINGS

Proving the fertility of the soil in this country, W. P. Cooper, whose farm is located two miles south of Roaring Springs, has on display in the Spot Cash Grocery show window this week two large sugar beets weighing 15 pounds each.

Mr. Cooper planted a small amount of sugar beets on some of his sub-irrigated farm land this year as an experiment and the two giant specimens were in the result. With fifty or sixty acres of sub-irrigated land on his farm, Mr. Cooper has been very successful in raising alfalfa, some years averaging as much as four tons per acre. Thus, in the past, when the alfalfa market was high he has produced as much as $100 per acre per year on sub-irrigated farming land.

With an abundance of water, the soil in this country is second to none in the production of farm products.

MATADOR LITTLE THEATRE OFFERS THREE ONE ACT PLAYS BY ITS MEMBERS

Presenting their first entertainment this season, the Matador Little Theatre offers to the patrons of dramatics Tuesday evening, 7:30, at the Matador High School Auditorium, three one-act plays, directed by members under the supervision of the Little Theatre Director, Mrs. H. C. Eargle. The three plays are presented in the form of a contest, the winner to be selected by three expert judges who will come to Matador especially to judge the contest.

The three plays: "Apartments to Let," by Elliott Nugent and Howard Lindsay, "Pink and Patches," by Margaret Bland, and "Finders Keepers," by George Kelly, are the highest types of royalty plays obtainable and have been exceedingly successful throughout America in recent performances.

The character portrayal offers instant appeal to the audience, realistic and life-like, depicting the universal emotions under conditions that are easily understood. Two of the plays are of modern social life, while the third has for its local the home of mountaineers east of the Mississippi River, thus offering a variety and affording excellent range of characters.

The Little Theatre of Matador is grateful for the support given by Matador and surrounding communities in the past, and promises its patrons and friends a delightful evening of entertainment Tuesday.

While a non-profit organization composed entirely of local talent, the Little Theatre of Matador assures you of more than your money's worth in the small admission charged to defray expenses.

ROARING SPRINGS SCHOOL DISMISSAL IS EXTENDED FOR TWO MORE WEEKS

At a recent meeting of the Roaring Springs School Board it was decided to extend the resumption of school until November 21, because of the serious shortage of school funds and also because of the great amount of cotton still to be gathered in this section.

Tax payers are urged to exert every effort possible to pay their school taxes and a special provision has been made whereby delinquent tax payers will not be charged either interest or penalty if delinquent taxes are paid before January 1st.

The school is badly in need of funds and you are urged to pay all the taxes possible, even if only a part, you may receive a receipt and pay the remainder later.

Pay your school taxes first.

AUTOMOBILE TURNS OVER IN DITCH NEAR DOBKINS GIN THURSDAY NIGHT

An automobile driven by Woodrow Haney turned over in a borrow ditch near Dobkins Gin south of Roaring Springs early Thursday night. Five of the six occupants received injuries requiring medical attention.

Overtaking a cotton wagon driven by John Huffstutler, the driver of the car attempted to turn out to pass when the car became unmanageable and plunged into the ditch. Two of the most seriously injured were Miss Lola Low, receiving an arm injury, and Miss Opal Hughes receiving a severe hip injury. The automobile was badly damaged.

The occupants of the automobile were: Woodrow Haney, Hazel Hughes, Lora Low, Madge Rose and Noble Dunlap.

IS MEAT UNHEALTHY?

It has become the general belief among many people that meats of all kinds are unhealthy. The human family is both carnivorous and vegetarian. In fact, so far as our eating is concerned, we take after most all other animals in the world, and mimic the combined lot. But according to the best dieticians the idea of abstaining from meat is all wrong almost as much as if we were to cut out the vegetable family. This idea is helping the stock-raising industry to a certain extent in this country. Here are some statistics given recently by the West Texas Chamber of Com-

"West Texas is interested vitally in increasing the consumption of meat as a food. Seventy-three per cent of the sheep of Texas are produced in West Texas. Texas produces twelve per cent of the total of the United States. Fifty-nine per cent of the beef of Texas is produced in West Texas, and Texas produces ten per cent of the nation's supply.

"The hog production for recent years has declined, but Texas and West Texas have occupied a commanding position in the United States in past years and are capable of it again. Texas is at present importing much of its pork products that it consumes.

"In short, West Texas is either now a big producer or a potential producer of every kind of meat. Livestock prices are not what they should be because of the low demand for meat. People are not eating as much meat as they should. Why? We attribute it largely to the prejudice that has been built up against meat as a food through this and that propaganda and advertising for competitive foods. The consumption of meat has been reduced per person in the United States. Meat substitutes have been highly advertised and promoted. We have been and are being taught through advertising that meat is in various, that it increases waistlines, adds to weight, decreases mental efficiency, and alertness and so on."

This executive by Sandino's order has jurisdiction over all the territory which the insurgent commander controls. The regime will ignore next Sunday's Nicaraguan election, will call an election of its own.

TELEPHONE CALL INVITES WOMAN TO SEE FLOGGING

Los Angeles, Oct. 30.—Invited today by telephone to attend the "first flogging at a county jail whipping post" by an irate wife to an undesirable husband, Mrs. Grace Murphy sought more particulars.

She called jailors for details. They said no California law authorizes a whipping post where mistreated wives may chastise disobedient husbands.

Now, sheriff's deputies are seeking a mysterious "Mrs. Wilkinson," representative of the "Woman's Protective League," who telephoned Mrs. Murphy an invitation to witness a lashing given to a man by a "Mrs. Moulton" Tuesday at 10:30 o'clock. What motive for such a hoax is not known by officers, they say.

The above scene is a graphic representation of the homes of two housewives — just before guests arrive for the evening meal. The woman at the left has been working in a hot kitchen all afternoon . . . nothing has gone off well . . . she is nervous, tired, irritable . . . and looks it. But the modern home-manager at the right is cool, fresh, lovely and unhurried. She has been away from home all afternoon, yet is ready to take a delicious, savory and attractive meal from her oven. Her meal will be an unqualified success . . . the success of the other housewife's dinner-party is extremely doubtful.

The difference is that the modern home-manager, at the right, has an Electric Range. . . The other housewife still cooks by old-fashioned methods!

You, too, should profit by the many advantages and superiorities of modern Electric Cookery. With one of the new General Electric Hotpoint Ranges in your kitchen you'll save money, work, time and food. You'll serve better, more healthful and more attractive meals. It was about bedtime, so Enoch Perkins started to wind the clock while his wife was fastening the windows.

Suddenly his wife jumped at the sound of a crash which came from the kitchen. She hurried there and found the clock in pieces on the floor.

"Enoch," she said, "What have you done?"

"Maria," he said, "I have smashed that clock to smithereens."

She said, "Enoch, you ought to be ashamed of yourself. Why did you smash that fine old reliable clock that we have had with us for the thirty-two years of our married life?"

He said, "Dammit Maria, for thirty-two years I have wound that clock every single night. I have just discovered that it is an eight-day clock."

LOG'S OWNERSHIP LEADS TO FATAL TEXAS SHOOTING

East Bernard, Wharton Co., Texas, Nov. 3 (AP).—Charlie Peters, 30, father of nine children, was killed, August Kobsell was wounded and George W. Stephens, 60, was jailed at Wharton Thursday afternoon after a shooting at a farm that climaxed a quarrel over ownership of a log.

Peters was shot four times with a pistol and Kobsell, Peters' son-in-law, was taken to the hospital at Rosenberg, where it was said he had a chance to live.

In a statement taken by justice A. F. Urbancic at the hospital at Rosenberg, Kobsell said he told Stephens not to use the log and that Stephens drew a gun and began shooting.

Stephens claimed he had contracted to buy the farm, two miles south of here, from W. L. Thomas of Waller. He intended to use blocks sawed from the log under a barn he was building, he said. Peters and Kobsell intended using it for firewood.

A charge of murder was filed with Justice Urbancic but hearing was delayed pending the outcome of Kobsell's wound. Justice Urbancic said he probably would hold the hearing here next week.

INDIAN OIL HEIRESS SAFE AFTER REPORTED MISSING

Oklahoma City, Oct. 30.—Police were notified today that Miss Exie Fife, Creek Indian oil heiress who was reported missing last night after leaving the home of a friend in a taxicab last week, was "safe."

A close woman friend of Miss Fife said she had called her by telephone after reading a newspaper story about her disappearance. She did not reveal the whereabouts of the heiress, who came to Oklahoma City to live some time ago from Eufaula.

An Irishman, who had been in Alaska told the following story: "I landed me boat on an island. I went ashore and when I got up to about the middle of the island I met the biggest bear I ever saw in me life."

Somebody listening to the story said, "Did you make it?"

The Irishman replied, "I didn't make it going up but I caught it coming down."

THE GOVERNMENT IN BUSINESS

The question of the government in business in competition with its private citizens should be considered from the standpoint of the principle involved, rather than from the interest of any particular line of business. The business itself is incidental to the principle. If we subscribe to the theory that public ownership is good for any business, even in a small degree, we should be honest enough to go all the way and sanction complete public ownership and control of the means of production and distribution. We should not single out one line of business to stand the brunt of such unfair and killing competition.

Government competition might better apply to the local meat market, grocery store, or clothing store, than to ocean shipping, insurance, public utilities, railroads and banking, for it is much more important that the average family get the first three items at cost than it is that they get the latter items at cost.

One of the worst things that is happening to the country today is the government in business. In the first place it is acknowledged as impossible to get a person who will take care of a business as well as the owner himself. The same thing happens with the government in business. People are put on a salary to take care of it. If the business does not pay off, all Congress has to do is to add another cent on postage, put two cents on every check, tax this and tax that in order that the deficits may be paid. Individuals in business "must" make the business pay, or they have to step down and out and let some one else take their place who can put it over. Not so with the government. When the business does not pay (which it never does) we can make up the deficit by taxation. All government business is "dosed out" by some theorist who puts it down in figures rather than practical experience. Men who have operated business on "theory" have always gone broke. Theory and business will not work—it takes actual experience, based on an economical program. Here are a few reasons that might be given for the government staying out of business:

Because government in business opens the flood gates of public expenditures at the taxpayers' expense; many of the expenditures being for special services to a limited number of persons from which services the general taxpayers, who must pay for them, can derive no benefit.

It creates new classes of political agencies and gives them unlimited power to incur debts, levy taxes and spend public money.

It discourages industry and prevents the investment of private capital in new enterprises because a private citizen can not compete with tax-free, government-owned projects.

It invites the worst kind of political gerrymandering for promotional schemes at public expense.

Each time the government goes into business, it removes taxable property from the tax rolls and loads the taxes thus lost onto remaining taxable property, plus additional taxes for new governmental ventures into the field of industry.

Texas Wool Industry

By W. E. TALBOT

Editor's Note.—This is the first of a series of articles dealing with the possibilities of the wool industry in Texas. Claude Talbot, managing director of the Southern Industrial Development Bureau, is an acknowledged authority on the subject of industrialization in Texas.

STORY No. 3.
Copyright, 1937, Southern Industrial Development Co.

In the past when wool and mchairs were selling at a profit there was little thought of industrialization and the manufacture of the finished product in Texas. But in the last few years wool and mchairs have been sold at considerably less than the cost of production and today it requires the wool from twenty sheep to buy a moderately priced suit of clothes, and this has brought untold hardships upon the grower.

In addition to this the price on mutton and lamb are comparable today to the prices received in the early days when Texas was just beginning to develop. The sheep and goat raiser today is confronted with a problem that can be solved only by our own people. No legislation, no act of providence, no chance is going to rehabilitate this industry. The only thing that can help it is to bring to these growers and the people of Texas the sums of money they are entitled to through the development of this raw material into the finished product. Since Texas today produces more than 80 per cent of the mohair produced in the United States and about one-sixth of the wool, is there anyone who can say she has not the right to take advantage of the full profit accruing from these crops?

Texas like Nevada, San Antonio, Brownwood, New Braunfels, Del Rio, Dallas, San Antonio and Fort Worth should get busy and get organized to develop this industry. These cities are close to the sources of the raw material and could manufacture into the finished product.

With the advantages of freight rate, nearest going to New England and back that dominate the entire West, an increase in price, with the aid of home consumption, there is no reason why numerous concerns in these different cities could not, with prompt management and ample capital, develop Texas as a wool center of the United States on both sides and finished product.
