Presidential Secretary Joseph Short casually disclosed Churchill's plans Sunday.

Short was telling reporters of how the President got up early Sunday and walked outside the naval submarine station where he has his quarters, and of how he swam and sunbathed at the naval submarine station.

A reporter asked about a story, by John M. Hightower of The Associated Press, that Churchill is expected to visit Washington early in January for talks with the President.

international tension.

"We suggest," he declared, that disarmament "should begin with the less important categories of armed forces and armaments, then move on to those that are more important and secret, and therefore more difficult to handle.

be development and conservation of the oil resources of West Texas mean a lot to every American, but a lot more to

Yes, you.

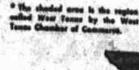

To the average American, oil means gasoline for his car, power for his factory, strength in the sinews of national defense. It means all of that to you, too.

But it also means to you, and to everybody living and working in West Texas, some of the money you pay the grocer, the doctor, the landlord; some of the money to end your sons and daughters off to vacations. It means school houses and highways, new businesses and civic improvements.

The value of crude oil produced in West Texas* in 1950 was approximately a billion dollars. This is productive money. It pays taxes, salaries and wages; it buys equipment and supplies; it goes to landowners as royalty and lease payments, to stockholders as dividends; a heavy percentage of it is reinvested in the further development of the region's petroleum resources.

Productive money. It means progress, not only for the oil industry, but for all of West Texas, including you!

Women Armed Forces Volunteers Sought To Gain Necessary Level

The armed services this week are carrying on an intensive publicity campaign to stimulate enlistment of women in the armed forces. The present strength in the various women's organizations is 41,000, with officers out of all proportion to en-listed personnel—14,600 officers, 22,500 en-listees. The goal of this campaign is 9,000 additional officers and 71,000 additional additional officers and 71,000 additional enlisted women. The drive will continue for 7.5 months if necessary to reach the strength desired.

There are now nine women's services, excluding the SPARS, which have not yet been reactivated. We have four groups engaging in general military activities engaging in general military activities— WAC, WAP, WAVES and women Marines. The Army, Air Force and Navy have women nurse corps. Both the Army and the Air Force have corps of women medical specialists, including distitions, physical therapists and occupational therapists.

Nurses in particular are urgently needed. Including the Army Nurse Corps, the Army has only 18,000 women in an over-all strength of 1,500,000, only a little more than one per cent. The old limitation of two per cent has been removed.

The armed services came to the use of comen as officers and ratings very reluctantly. At first it was not thought that women could perform more than half a dozen or so tasks, but experience in World

Housewives Of Past Had It A Good Bit Easier In Shopping

In lots of ways, the women of a gen-eration or two ago had it much easier when shopping for groceries than the housewives do today.

True, the super markets of today make shopping a pleasure and perhaps even tempt many a woman to spend more than her budget allows.

However, 20 or 25 years ago, much of the vegetables, fruits, melous, and meats were brought to the family's doorstep by vendors who made a comfortable living at the business.

Ordinarily, they drove slow-moving wag-ons up and down the streets and used melodious little bells to signal to all in the neighborhood that their goods were available for inspection.

Sometimes, they bawled out in operatic tones what they might be peddling. If business were slow, they might even dismount and take their wares to the doors

Among the small fry, they always commanded much attention. If they happened to be selling goodles like peaches or water-melons, they had no trouble getting the kids to circulate news of the products to the mothers.

The vendors had this much in their favor: They were usually well known, for they lived in the community, and would vouch for their product. If they sold melons, they could be counted upon to offer evidence that their product was ripe, and that by a procedure they called "plugging the melon." That was accomplished by cutting out a sample of the melon's meat and passing it along either to the prospective buyer to one of the children lingering near-

Editors Seem To Favor New U.S. Tax On Bookmaking, Gambling

Majority editorial opinion approves the new Federal tax on bookmaking, and like types of gambling, as an effort toward increasing local law enforcement against illegal types of gambling. But a large minority of editors disapproves the new law, as resting on a bad moral basis. Opinion appears to divide about equally now as to the probable effect of the law. One group is cautiously hopeful that the result will be local pressures and action against gamblers exposed by their payments of the Federal tax. The other group argues that this effort to kill off the human gambling nations, particle, will fare no better. man gambling instinct will fare no better than the Prohibition Laws.

YOUNGSTOWN (Ohio) VINDICATOR (Ind.-Dent.): "Time and experience will be needed to show the full effects of the new tax. But it has a bad moral basis and so the net outcome cannot be good even though it has the effect of driving some racketeers out of business and oth ers underground....Although it does not make gambling legal, it gives an impression of approval. The government now has an interest in bigger and better gambling, since this will bring in more revenue....And the law gives local officials an excuse for winking at rackets."

ST. PAUL (Minn.) PIONEER PRESS "The new tax provisions exact a 10 per cent levy on bets placed with bookmakers, policy and numbers collectors, pool managers and the like. In addi-tion it assesses a $50 tax on all persons connected with the business of wagers, in-connected with the business of wagers, incliding the boss and the humblest runner. There is no hint of Tegalizing gambling in this arrangement or giving its operators the semblance of respectability... They must pay their taxes or get into serious trouble, and if they pay their taxes on illegal operations, they make themselves bright and shining marks for local and state law enforcers."

LOUISVILLE (Ky.) TIMES (find.-Dem.): "One basis for our skepticism is the history of the federal license tax, in effect for several years, on slot machines and other nickel-grabbers classified as gaming devices. This tax and the ed as gaming devices. This tax and the attendant publicity, to say the least, have not driven the slots out of existence. What reason then is there for believing that our bashful bookles will take flight en masse? We'd like to believe this going to happen ... But our guess is there'll still be bookmakers around for TAMPA (Fig.) TRIBUNE (Ind Dem): "Florida citizens all knew that slot machines were strictly illegal in this state but few were aware that slot operators had to pay a federal license tax. Then The Tribune dug into the files of the Collector of Internal Revenue at Jacksonville in 1949 and printed a county-by-county list of the names of licensees. The pressure on the Governor and local law enforcement officers as a result of this incontestable evidence forced a statewide slot machine cleanup. The federal tax on bookies and lottery operators can serve the same purpose."

NORFOLK (Va.) LEDGER-DISPATCH (Ind.-Dem.): "Nobody knows what the new law will do... Nobody knows whether the gamblers will comply with it. If they comply with it, their names on Federal records as gamblers will be sure invitations to local prosecution in all States ex-cept Nevada, where all forms of gambling are legal. It is hard to imagine racketeers so obliging as to put their necks in a noose. A certain number may turn to other rackets. Others surely will ore the law, as they ignored so much of the income tax law as it stood before November 1."

ST. LOUIS (Mo.) GLOBE-DEMOCRAT (Ind.); "No one in the gambling frater-nity can doubt Uncle Sam's ability to ferout the violators. With the current basketball scandals fresh in the public mind, prosecution may be, counted upon to be prompt and vigorous... More serious is the loop-hole in the law which exempts other forms of gambling, including dice, card games and roulette wheels. With the heat on the bookmakers and policy, rackets, the underworld may be expected to turn to such games of chance instead. However, if the tax proves successful, it should be a simple matter for Congress

NEW YORK DAILY NEWS (Ind.): "Neither this nor any other Act of Con-rees will kill off the human gambling in-inct. As time runs on, and the Internal Revenue Bureau lines up its desired 4,000 new employes to 'enforce' this law alone, we can expect a repetition of the federal prohibition rowdy-dow. We'll have gamblers merrily evading the law in ways yet undreamed-of, crooked federal agents shaking the gamblers down, local police horning-in on the takes—and bet-ting, like drinking, going happily on....

Legalizing and taxing gambling is by far the most practical—though certainly not a perfect—solution for this problem."

Anaconda To Get Cheap Federal Power Despite Any Objections

WASHINGTON.-Despite President Truman's 1948 whistle-stop campaign based on profesting the nation from big business, his administrators have now decided to put one of the biggest metal companies in the world in the already tightly held aluminum business.

They are awarding the cheap government water power from Hungry Horse.

Dam in Montana to the Anaconda Copper Company, despite vigorous objections by Truman's own Justice Department that the contract violated the principle of the Sherman Antitrust Act.

eriminal record of Anaconda, whose Ana-conda Wire and Cable Company was twice convicted of war frauds during World War II for selling defective wire to the armed forces—wire which, if not de-tected, might have caused the loss of American troops in battle.

Ironic fact is that a small business firm, the Harvey Machine Company of Los Angeles, was about to receive an RFC loan to help put it in the aluminumebusi-ness in Montana. But when Harvey's wartime record in producing Navy shells was questioned, the loan was held up.

It was right and proper that Harvey's record should have been scrutinized, though for unexplained reasons Secretary of the Navy Kimball has flatly refused to give the Navy's files on this case either to his own colleague, the Secretary of the Interior, or to the House Investigating Committee. However, this columnist, who has seen the files, can report that Harvey's record was saint-like compared to Anacon-

Anaconda was convicted at Fort Wayne, Ind., on June 12, 1943 for defrauding the government in connection with the sale of defective wire, was fined $31,000, and three of its men were given suspended prison sentences.

Again in Pawtucket, R. I., Anaconda was convicted Jan. 12, 1944 on a war-frauds charge, with four of its people giv-en 18 months to one year in jail and a fifth placed on parole for two years.

The Big Spring Herald Charge and question abstracts of the control of the perpetrated these frauds with the intent to increase their profits without regard to the lives of American boys."

On top of the criminal convictions, the government brought civil, suit after the war and collected $1,826,000 from Ana-conda. Yet this is the company which will now be favored with cheap govern ver, a tax-amortization deal whereby the investment is written off in four years, and a contract whereby the government buys virtually all its aluminum

Other phases of the Anaconda alumiman Harvey rang government doorbells and sat in government ante-rooms trying to get support for his aluminum plan, he was advised "why don't you get a wealthy partner?" Meanwhile Anaconda made various overtures to him, proposed a lopsided part-nership. Harvey resisted. Finally the gov-ernment served notice that the priorities had received on materials, together with his power contract at Hungry Horse, would be taken away. Throwing in the sponge, he agreed to become Anaconda's junior partner. This means Harvey will be swallowed up by Anaconda like a boy eating an ice-cream cone. Interesting Fact No. 2-The man who made the final decision for Anaconda was Manly Fleischmann, head of defense proditction. One of his right-hand men is Joseph Mulally, an official of Anaconda Wire and Cable, the same company twice convicted of defrauding Uncle Sam during the war. Mulally is a $1-a-year man, s to draw salary from Anaconda. He declined to tell this columnist how much Anaconda paid him, claimed he had nothing to do with Fleischmann's deci-sion in favor of Anaconda, but is one of Fleischmann's assistants.

Interesting Fact No. 3-Fleischmann and other defense production officials did not bother to consult the Justice Department either in regard to Anaconda's criminal record or its monopoly position until after they had reached a decision. The past record of an individual seeking a government job is sometimes acru-tinized by the FBI for months. But not the slightest check was made of Anaconda's war record until Pleischmann was called by a newsman. By that time the decision to give Anaconda the contract was already, made. A brief session was then held with the Justice Department to go through the more formal routine of checking.

Remarked a friend of Jess Larsen. the efficient but frequently discouraged General Services Administrator: "It looks like the only companies that get big war contracts are those which have committed crimes against the government." "No," replied Larsen wearily, "it's the

Leo Greene, general production superintendent of Mead baking plants, described the new baking process which is being adopted ex clusively in Texas by the Mead organization

"The bread eating habits of the American people are on the threshold of a new era," Greene said, "with the inclusion of added vitamins, minerals and proteins which will assist greatly in filling out the dietary deficiencies of most adults and children."

Collapse Seen In Anglo-Iran Oil Discussion

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12. UR. Gloomy Iranian negotiators look collapse by Wednesday American efforts to mediate the bitter Angio-Iranian oil dispute. Prime Minister Mossadegh plans to leave for Tehran Thursday un-less Britain backs down in its determination to retain the billion dollar British company in Iran. He has scheduled a farewell blast at the British for Wednesday when he will address the National Press

State Department mediators, once optimistic over a settlement, appeared discouraged today. Assistant Secretary of George McGhee, the chief American mediator, scheduled more talks with Mossadegh in an effort to avert a collapse of the three weeks of mediation efforts.

Mossadegh, in the capital since
Oct. 23, showed no signs of backing down on his country's decision to boot Anglo-Iranians out of Iran and run its vast oil properties. The Iranian leader has been re-ported ready to sell about 70 per cent of Iranian oil to Britain.

Britain seemed to be deaf to all such propositions. This pickup pinches pennies!

There are two simple reasons why you save money when you buy an International pickup truck.

First, you get lower operating and maintenance cost. You get a pickup truck that is engineered throughout to do more work for less money.

Second, you get longer truck life. Even the smallest International pickup truck has the traditional stamina that has kept Internationals first in heavy-duty truck sales for 19 straight years.

You get these all-truck savings right along with features that no other pickup truck gives you. For example - the compo-vision cas is "the roomiest, most comfortable cab on the road." The Silver Diamond engine is an outstanding development of the world's largest exclusive truck engine plant. Super-steering gives you the maneuverability and ease of handling that make driving a pleasure.

But get all the facts for yourself. Come in and learn why International pickup trucks are the best truck value in pickups today.
