WASHINGTON (By George Durso) Financings—Sharps who follow Treasury manipulations anticipate about two billion dollars more of federal financing very shortly.

On March 15 $460,000,000 in Treasury obligations come due. On April 15 Secretary Morgenthau will have to absorb about a billion dollars worth of fourth Liberties.

Meanwhile emergency expenditures are speeding along at the rate of nearly $30,000,000 a day.

If Morgenthau continues his earlier practice, notes of slightly longer term and slightly higher interest than were sold last time will be offered to meet the indebtedness.

The last issue—several times over-subscribed—was for $400,000,000 in 23-month notes at 3 1/2 per cent and $400,000,000 in 3-year notes at 3 per cent.

Ten Drouth Stricken Counties To Send Envoys To Washington

Representatives of ten drought stricken counties in West Texas voted Friday at Midland to send two representatives to Washington in an effort to obtain relief for this area.

Because state relief directors work through Harry Hopkins, federal relief director, the conference of county judges, commissioners, mayors, chamber officials thought it would be wise to attack the problem from Washington.

An attempt will be made to increase the amount of "work relief" in this area as CWA rolls are reduced. As it now stands, the representatives agreed, persons are lining up for direct relief as fast as they are cut off from CWA, and direct relief facilities are not sufficient to stand the strain.

Carter paused here Friday evening enroute to California by plane long enough to say that he could not accept the task. He said he was on his way to join Mrs. Carter for a short vacation. Paul Vickers of Midland will likely accompany Watson.

Testimony Is Completed By Woman-Doctor

Trial Adjourned Until Monday Morning, After Testimony Heard

CHICAGO, (UP)—Dr. Alice Wynekoop, on trial for a second time for slaying her daughter-in-law, Rheta, collapsed Saturday during cross-examination by the state.

The prosecutor had been questioning her closely regarding a purported "confession". Suddenly she turned to the judge and called to him in a low voice. As the jury filed out, Dr. Wynekoop leaned to one side of the stand, gasping for breath.

She was hurriedly removed from courtroom, but returned several minutes later, and the trial was resumed.

D. Wynekoop completed her appearance as a witness, and the celebrator murder trial adjourned until Monday. She had been on the stand for an hour and forty minutes during the morning session.

Local Plants Have Envoys At Oil Meet

Big Spring Refiners To Send Representatives To Amarillo

Local plants will be represented in Amarillo Monday morning in a meeting of West Texas refiners, called for the purpose of discussing methods by which the refiners themselves may stabilize prices of gasoline.

Several local situations have arisen on this region in the past three weeks with independent retailers slashing prices after a few small refineries offered a lower wholesale price. The refiners will seek to get together on a method of controlling wholesale prices charged by jobbers and commission agents, who in turn will be urged to sell no retailers who slash the price.

An unusually imminent danger for the independents is seen in the price-slashing in view of well-founded reports that the major marketers are ready to meet any price, no matter how low in an effort to annihilate price-cutters.

Wendell Bedichek was to represent the Coeden Oil Corporation at Amarillo and M. E. Ooley planned to attend for the Howard County Refining company.

NOTORIOUS CRIMINAL GAINS FREEDOM BY USE OF 'DUNNIE' PISTOL

Notorious Killer, Seen Here Recently Is Again At Large

JOHN DILLINGER Dillinger, killer and bank robber, recently captured at Tucson, Ariz., and taken to Lake County, Indiana, to face a charge of first degree murder in connection with the slaying of a police officer in East Chicago, Indiana, in January, is again at large. He escaped from the so-called "escape proof" jail of Lake County, Indiana, early Saturday morning.

Woman Sheriff, Who Said Indiana Jail Was "Escape Proof"

MRS. LILLIAN HOLLEY Lake County sheriff had previously declared Dillinger, notorious criminal, would never escape from her jail. On learning of his escape, Mrs. Holley immediately ordered all entrances to the jail locked and posting of guards.

Guard Forced To Open Cell Door; Obtains Machine Guns, Auto, And Flees Toward Chicago

PEOTONE, Ill. (AP)—Five hundred members of a posse chased Dillinger near here Saturday after he had released a deputy sheriff and garage attendant, held as hostages after his escape. The posse had not yet caught sight of the fleeing desperado.

CROWNPOINT, Ind., (UP)—John Dillinger, killer and bank robber, escaped from the county jail Saturday.

Dillinger, accompanied by a negro prisoner, walked out of the "escape proof" Lake County jail.

Both were armed with machine guns.

Dillinger's escape from jail, which is in charge of Sheriff Lillian Holley, apparently climaxed a week's planning, during which he whittled a dummy pistol out of wood in his cell. He used the pistol Saturday to threaten a guard and forced him to unlock the first floor cell in which Dillinger and four other prisoners were locked.

Once outside the cell, Dillinger and his companion went to the warden's office, seized two machine guns and departed with a deputy sheriff as hostage.

They took the hostage to a nearby garage, stole an automobile, and forced an attendant to accompany them.

They headed toward Chicago. Mrs. Holley, who had declared Dillinger would never escape from her jail, immediately ordered all entrances to the jail locked, and posted guards.

Entire forces of state police were concentrated on a manhunt for the killer.

At Lima, Ohio, the jail was closely guarded to prevent Dillinger from trying to free five members of his gang who were incarcerated there.

Kay Francis, above, furnishes the feminine interest in the Oriental romance, "Mandalay," which comes to the Ritz this week. Miss Francis turns in a creditable performance in the thriller adventure which, although it is set in the east, has no orientals as principals. She appears as a beautiful Russian refugee.

A scholarship was awarded to Crabbe by the Alumni Association of Yale from Honolulu. "I have given myself one year to make good in pictures," said Crabbe. "The box office will decide my fate and if I'm not gaining headway rapidly at the end of twelve months, I'll be ready to start on law, the alternative I've always realized is mine." To an unbiased observer, however, it would appear that the law will have to wait some time for the appearance of another Clarence Darrow, as Crabbe's present vehicle is proving an outstanding success, and his portrayal of Edgar Rice Burroughs' jungle man is nothing less than sensational. Jacqueline Wells, charming stage and screen actress, plays opposite Buster in this great serial. Philo McCullough, Edward Woods, Mathew Betz and other well-known actors are in the cast. The picture was directed by Robert Hill.

Livestock tests have proved calves can be weaned from milk at 50 to 60 days of age without handicapping growth.

Oriental Setting For Romance Is Francis Vehicle

A tale of thrilling adventure with colorful romance comes to the screen of the Ritz Theatre Tuesday and Wednesday with the First National picture, "Mandalay." It is set in the picturesque background of the Orient, in that section of Burma where the whites come in contact with the natives. The romance does not concern Orientals, however, though there are many of them appearing in the production, but the white man, and particularly that breed of soldier of fortune who turns to gun running, traffic in women and other illicit trades.

The theme concerns a beautiful Russian girl, an exile from her own country, who is sold into virtual slavery to a resort keeper by her own lover. Her escape on a boat to Mandalay and her pursuit entails some of the most thrilling action in the picture. Colorful scenes take place in the night club resort which is patronized by civil and army officers, travelers or any of the whites who have the necessary money to spend, and aboard a boat on the Irrawadi River where the principal characters meet again in conflict and romance.

There is an unusually strong cast which includes such players as Kay Francis, Ricardo Cortez, Warner Oland and Lyle Talbot in the featured roles. There is a long list of talented players among the members of the supporting cast, some of whom are Ruth Donnelly, Reginald Owen, Hobart Cavanaugh, David Torrence, Rafia Ottiana, Etienne Girardot, Lucien Littlefield, Bodil Roising and Herman Bing.

The picture was directed by Michael Curtiz from the screen play by Austin Parker and Charles Kenyon which is based on the story by Paul Hervey Fox.

Suave Sherlock

Despite his immaculate costumes, and superb mannerisms, Philo Vance (William Powell) is a detective par excellence. Take the affair of the "Kennel Murder Case," in which the commissioner says, "Suicide," "Murder," responds Vance and he sets about the task of proving he was right. At least half a dozen have a right to claim the distinction of "killer," but Vance gets his man.

Suave Detective Makes Statement After Suicide Verdict Returned

William Powell, who thrilled movie audiences about three years ago with his clever characterizations as Philo Vance, debonair gentleman detective, will be seen again in the same role in another S. S. Van Dine detective mystery story. This time, Powell is called upon to solve the Warner Bros. picture, "The Kennel Murder Case," by S. S. Van Dine which comes to the Ritz Theatre Friday and Saturday.

A dead man sitting in an armchair in his own bedroom, the door and windows locked, a revolver in his hand and a bullet would in his temple. That was precisely how the authorities discovered Archer Coe, wealthy bachelor, bon vivant, authority on Chinese ceramics, the morning after his mysterious death. Sergeant Heath from headquarters was positive that it was suicide. District Attorney Markham was almost equally convinced of it.

But Philo Vance suspected murder and set about to unravel, slowly and patiently, the method of the crime—and that's what makes the most baffling, and yet the most

John Boles Stars In 'Beloved', A Composer's Saga

A new road show program, billed by Robb and Rowley theatres as "a new and greater R. & R. Road Show" and boasting as its feature unit the Universal production, "Beloved," is the current attraction at Ritz theatre, to remain 2 days. John Boles sings again in "Beloved," in which he is co-starred with Gloria Stuart. The film is described as a glorious dramatic romance with haunting music and song. It tells the full story of a man with two great loves: good music and his wife. It crowds a lifetime of stirring event into the hearts of a man and a woman who loved each other "till death do us part." It is a story told with the epic sweep of "Cavalcade," and is possessed of the wholesomeness of "Little Women," the poignancy of "Smilin' Thru," and the charm of "Farewell To Arms."

"Beloved" is said to have exciting color all the way through, and action interpreted by music that includes Chopin, Negro spirituals, martial music, down to modern jazz—the whole topped by a symphonic climax reported to be of such indescribable glory and reverence that there is a pause after its presentation so that the screen will not intrude upon the emotions of the spectators.

The story sketches the life of Carl Hausmann whose parents hope to breathe music into his being by having an orchestra play at his birth and put him to sleep through his infancy; his early musical endowments; his tragic home-leaving to migrate to America; of his gallantry in the face of heartbreaks innumerable, not the least of which were the misconduct of a son, which make up the first half of the picture; and the supposed theft of his musical compositions for the purpose of jaxing them by a grandson, in the second half of the film.

It is difficult to say which are the most interesting, the early or the late sequences of this saga of three generations; the later ones are enlivened by the controversy between grandfather artist, a composer of symphonies, and grandson musician, prolific writer of popular jazz compositions. Each will find proponents in any audience, hence the picture is one alike for youth and old age; age, and for middle-aged. But young or old or middle-aged, all will be bound in a common bond of admiration for "Beloved" who love music in any form. There is plenty to suit all tastes in this epic romance.

As usual in R & R Road Show programs, the short subjects have been selected with a view to balancing the program and making it a superior all-family entertainment.

Jilted Woman Spends Life In Vengeance

"You Can't Buy Everything," the new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture which opens today at the Queen Theatre, serves the veteran stage and screen actress, May Robson, as her fiftieth anniversary picture. Fifty years ago Miss Robson launched upon her career as an actress and has worked steadily at her profession ever since. In her newest picture she portrays the eccentric and miserly character of Hannah Bell, phenomenal financier of thirty and forty years ago, whose life was devoted to avenging a man who had jilted her in her youth and to make her son, Donny, the richest man in America.

The production is laid in picturesque New York of more than a quarter of a century ago and introduces many novel and historical settings—street scenes now quaint, with their lack of modern, congested mechanical traffic; hospitals as they thrived in the earlier days; a famous Newport mansion of the Mauve Decade; notable banking institutions of the day which would now appear useless

R & R THEATRES
NEW DEAL ANNIVERSARY 1934

March 4th. NEW DEAL ANNIVERSARY 1934 May 5th.

A year ago, March 4th, 1933, America inaugurated as President the man who had promised this country a New Deal—

FRANKLIN DELANO ROOSEVELT

Today all branches of industry are enjoying the fruits of a confidence restored as a result of Mr. Roosevelt's NEW DEAL

In no branch of industry has confidence in America's future under the New Deal, been more marked than in the Motion Picture Industry. In none has it found greater expression!

During the past six months the studios have excelled themselves in producing films of greater excellence than ever before. These films signalize a New Entertainment Era and symbolize The New Deal. A few of them you have seen. Most of them are just now reaching the theatres.

We have grouped the best of them for celebrating the R & R NEW DEAL ANNIVERSARY, honoring Our Chief Executive, March 4th to May 5th, and invite you to join with us in this significant celebration.

RITZ THEATRE

J. Y. ROBB
Manager

Salutary Effect Of Roosevelt To Be Symbolized In Better Films

Manager J. Y. Robb of Ritz Theatre, a unit of the R & R theatre circuit announces the R & R theatre new deal anniversary, a celebration inspired by Mr. Roosevelt's first anniversary as president, and the salutary effect of his new deal upon the motion picture industry.

A year ago Hollywood was in the slough of despondency. And who wasn't? No industry save the press more eagerly accorded the new president its hearty cooperation than did the motion picture industry. Today practically all branches of a restored confidence, and all are looking toward a rising sun of prosperity.

Motion picture producers began to feel sufficient improvement in matters economic six months ago to warrant the carrying out of plans long dormant. In consequence 1934 bids fair to mark a new era in motion picture entertainment. These films according to those in position to know, signalize the progress of an industry under the new deal if they do not indeed symbolize the new deal.

It is this portent which R & R theatres have recognized. R & R theatres new deal anniversary will be celebrated from March 4th. to May 5th.

Among the exceptional attractions to be offered during this period are: "It Happened One Night," with Clark Gable and Claudette Colbert together for the first time; "Rip Tide," co-starring Norma Shearer and Robert Montgomery; "David Harum," starring Will Rogers; "Viva Villa," starring Wallace Beery; "Mystery of Mr. X," starring Robert Montgomery; "Men In White," with Clark Gable and Myrna Loy; "The Fox Pollen"; "George White's Scandals"; "Convention City," the comedy of the century; "Bolero," co-starring George Raft, Carole Lombard and Sally Rand, the fan dancer; "Fashions of 1934," with all star cast; Richard Barthelmess in "Massacre"; Ann Harding in "Gallant Lady"; Greta Garbo in "Queen Christina" and others.

has assumed imposing proportions on the Hollywood horizon, is cast in the featured role of "Mary Fanshawe," a professional woman who falls in love with Walter Byron, against her better judgment. When Byron is unmasked as a philanthropist and a roue, she seeks consolation in the sincere devotion of Ralph Bellamy, a brilliant young surgeon, then to discover that his love is what she had mistakenly believed Byron's to be.

Bellamy's role in "Once to Every Woman" marks his second co-featured assignment opposite Fay Wray, having appeared last season as her leading man in "Below the Sea." More recently he performed in "Before Midnight" and "Headline Shooter."

Walter Connolly again proves what a grand veteran he is in the difficult role of "Dr. Selby," whose long reputation as a great surgeon is being dimmed by the brilliance of his assistant and protege, Ralph Bellamy.

As the Daughter

Jean Parker, one of the most promising of the younger film players, who will be fondly remembered for her work in "Rasputin and the Empress," and, more recently, in "Little Women," appears as Lewis Stone's daughter, Elizabeth, who falls in love with Hannah Bell's son.

Stone, who was last seen as Greta Garbo's chancellor in "Queen Christina," plays the man who jilted Hannah Bell in her youth, who left her waiting at the church, and against whom old Hannah directs all her wrath and vengeance.

Mary Forbes, also a veteran of stage and screen, has been given the most important role in her screen career as Kate Farley, noted philanthropist of the Gay Nineties, who is instrumental in causing Hannah to mend her miserly ways.

Bakewell as Son

William Bakewell, born in the shadow of the movie industry and with many notable performances to his credit, plays the role of Hannah's grown-up son, who refuses to be made the richest man in America and renounces his mother's miserly ways. Tad Alexander, who enacted the young Czarévitch in "Rasputin and the Empress," plays Donny as a boy.

Others in the cast are Reginald Mason as Dr. Lorimer, Walter Walker, Reginald Barlow and Claude Gillingwater.

The picture is based upon an original story by Dudley Nichols and Lamar Trotti, and was directed by Charles F. Riesner.

Mrs. Martha Toole of Boone, Ia., owns a clock 150 years old, whose "works" are made of wood. It still keeps accurate time.

engrossing murder mystery of the year.

Before Vance has completed his investigation of the case, seven people are shown to have had both the opportunity and the necessary motive for killing Archer Coe. The suspects range from his ward, Hilda Lake, to his brother, Brisbane Coe. How Vance eliminates the people under suspicion, one by one, from the crime, and at last brings about the proof of the murderer's guilt and his identity in a climax as thrilling as it is unique, constitutes a mystery picture that never sacrifices suspense or tempo from the opening shot to the finish.

S. S. Van Dine fans who remember William Powell in the earlier pictures made from this brilliant author's unequalled crime mysteries will be glad, not only to welcome back William Powell as Philo Vance, but to see Eugene Pallette once more in the part of Police Sergeant Heath.

An exceptional supporting cast has been grouped by Warner Bros. around the star, Robert McWade, one of Broadway's best known headlines, has the role of District Attorney Markham. Mary Astor plays the role of Hilda Lake, Archer Coe is played by Robert Barrat, who will be remembered for his powerful characterizations in "Lilly Turner" with Ruth Chatterton, and in "Captured," as the commandant of the German prison camp.

Birthday Ball Chairman Thanks The Daily Herald

The following letter from Henry L. Doherty, chairman of the National Committee for the Birthday Ball for the president has been received by The Herald, and is herewith reproduced:

"National Committee The Birthday Ball for the President, February 27, 1934. Mr. Joe Gallera, editor, The Herald, Big Spring, Texas, Dear Mr. Galbreath: Now that the Birthday ball for the president has come to a successful conclusion, I feel that I would be remiss in closing this activity unless I took opportunity to express to you the appreciation of the National Committee for all that you and your associates have done in making this success possible.

"Of course, no social event is a real success without the cooperation of the press, but in this particular case the newspapers of the country played a much greater role than the invaluable one of acquainting all of their readers with the event.

"Over 3600 local committees throughout the country were organized in practically five weeks. Mr. Carl Boyer, the general director of the national committee, tells me that this record of organization would have been absolutely impossible except for the fact that the local chairmen, almost without exception, were nominated by the local newspaper publishers. Thus we were able to enlist, almost instantly, chairmen who had the support and confidence of their community.

"I think the most heartening fact developed by this campaign was that, without a single exception, the newspapers of this country, both daily and weekly, joined in organizing and supporting this great humane work. This is probably the first time in the history of our country that a nationwide organization has been effected through the medium of the press although, of course, the newspapers of the country have frequently given unstintingly of their space to many charitable causes.

"As soon as returns from local committees are complete and have been audited by a firm of nationally known certified public accountants, full detailed information will be furnished the public through the press so that all may know the extent of the success of the Birthday Ball.

"It has been a real inspiration to me to have been associated with you in this work and I just want you to know that I feel very deeply that you can always have a just pride in having played so important a part in the fight against infantile paralysis.

"Sincerely yours,
"Henry L. Doherty
"National Chairman."

PERFORMANCE SHOWS VALUE OF V-8 ENGINE

The most important part of any automobile is the engine. Other features may contribute to your comfort and convenience, but it is the engine that runs the car. Performance, economy, reliability and long life—all these depend on what's under the hood. . . . The New Ford V-8 is an unusually fine car because it has an unusually fine engine. Millions of miles of use have proved the efficiency of its V-8 cylinder design. We invite you to ride in it and let it tell its own story of performance, comfort and all-round motoring satisfaction.

The New Ford V-8 is the only car under $2000 with a V-8 cylinder engine. It combines eight-cylinder speed, power and smoothness with unusual gasoline economy. Dynamometer tests show that the Ford V-8 engine delivers more horsepower per gallon of fuel than any Ford engine ever built.

GO TO CHURCH SUNDAY

Recovery and The New Deal are terms that are on the lips of everyone today. Everyone is thinking in these terms because everyone has been affected with the conditions of the last few years. The NRA is in effect today because the administration realized that selfishness was the keynote of the cause of the economic unrest. Business and industry leaders have been thinking only of "me and my wife and my son John and his wife, we four and no more." Unselfishness is the keynote of the new day. When men can see beyond themselves and their little circle, and not before, better days will be here. The most unselfish one this world has ever known is Jesus the Christ. When we begin to think in His terms we are on the R-ight Road to R-ecovery. The best influence toward this kind of thinking is the Church. Co-operate with the Churches of your city during this Go to Church Campaign. Attend your Church, if you have one, if not, some Church regularly.

JOHN C. THORNS.

Contributes To Art of Living

The world is moving along at a tremendous pace today and marvelous indeed are the continuing accomplishments of science and invention. With it all we need to build moral and spiritual fiber into our people to keep pace with the development of material things. In training the children of today as the leaders of tomorrow, the church constitutes a potent force for good and contributes greatly to the art of living in the right way.

Frank C. Emerson, Governor of the State of Wyoming, (June 21, 1930).

Go To Church Today

Whatever your creed or belief—come to church on Sunday in a Christian spirit of peace, good fellowship and love. Leave worldly things behind, and give one hour to quiet contemplation at the church of your choice.

REASONS FOR CHURCH GOING

Because, for one thing, he was a scrupulously regular churchgoer, what Theodore Roosevelt said in nine terse paragraphs about church workers and church going is ever alive:

- 1.—In this actual world, a churchless community, a community where men have abandoned and scoffed at or ignored their religious needs, is a community on the rapid down-grade.
- 2.—Church-work and church-attendance mean the cultivation of the habit of feeling some responsibility for others.
- 3.—There are enough holidays for most of us. Sabbaths differ from any other holiday in the fact that there are fifty-two of them every year. Therefore, on Sabbaths, go to church.
- 4.—Yes, I know all the excuses. I know that one can worship the Creator in a grove of trees, or by a running brook, or in a man's own house, just as well as in church. But I also know, as a matter of cold fact, that the average man does not thus worship.
- 5.—He may not hear a good sermon at church. He will hear a sermon by a good man who with his good wife is engaged all the week in making hard lives a little easier.
- 6.—He will listen to and take part in reading some beautiful passages from the Bible. And if he is not familiar with the Bible, he has suffered a loss.
- 7.—He will take part in singing some good hymns.
- 8.—He will meet and nod or speak to good, quiet neighbors. He will come away feeling a little more charitable toward all the world, even toward those excessively foolish young men who regard churchgoing as a soft performance.
- 9.—I advocate a man's joining in church-work for the sake of showing his faith by his works.

Biles & Long Pharmacy, Inc. Name Of New Drug Firm Here

Cecil Long Buys Half Interest In Biles Pharmacy

J. D. Biles, who has been in the drug business in Big Spring for twenty-five years, has sold half interest in his store, The Biles Pharmacy, to Cecil Long, and the new firm name will be known as Biles & Long Pharmacy, Inc.

A man's anger should melt like the snow upon the hillside. Anger when it finds words becomes hatred, the most virulent poison that ever attacked the mind and heart.

RIX FUNERAL HOME
AMBULANCE SERVICE
800 MAIN ST.—PHONE 5C

Mr. Long has been connected with Biles Pharmacy for three years, and has been a resident of the city since 1927, when he came here from Colorado. He is a registered pharmacist, having graduated from the University of Texas school of pharmacy at Galveston in 1924 and received his certificate as a registered pharmacist.

The Biles pharmacy is one of the pioneer business establishments of the city, having been established in 1909 by Mr. Biles, who bought out the drug business of Mitchell & Park. The store was known as Biles & Gentry Drug store, and did business in a frame structure where the Harry Lees Tailor shop is now located. Mr. Gentry died in 1917, and the name of the store was changed to Biles Pharmacy, and has continued under this name since. The store moved from its first location to an adjacent building belonging to Dr. J. H. Hurt of this city. Later the drug store moved to the building now occupied by Wacker's Store. In 1921 Mr. Biles again moved his store to its present location, 222 Main street, where he has been doing business for the past thirteen years.

Mr. Biles, before locating in Big Spring in 1904, was first assistant chemist for the First Texas Chemical company of Dallas. He was employed by the Mitchell Park drug store, which he purchased in 1909. There were two other drug firms in the city at this time, B. Reagan Drug store, and the J. L. Ward Drug store. The former store was later purchased by Cunningham & Phillips, and the latter store was bought out by the late Clyde Fox.

During his time here as a druggist, Mr. Biles said his store had filled over 1,000,000 prescriptions. He said he had not kept numbers past 500,000, and when the store reached that figure, it was customary to start over in numbering. Roger Gallemore, who was born and reared in this city, has recently made connection with Biles & Long Pharmacy, and has charge of the prescription department.

Mr. Gallemore, a registered pharmacist, for the past three years has been head of the prescription department of Madding's Drug

IN DRUG BUSINESS HERE FOR 25 YEARS

J. D. BILES

Mr. Biles, proprietor of Biles Pharmacy, who has been in the drug business for twenty-five years in Big Spring, has sold half interest of his store to Cecil Long, and the store will be known as Biles & Long Pharmacy, Inc. The store is located on the ground floor of the Lester Fisher building, 222 Main street.

Mr. Biles was born November 30, 1880, near Pittsburg, Texas, where he spent his childhood days. He received his early education there. He took a liking to chemistry, and pharmacy, and it was not long before he understood these subjects to a fine degree. At the age of 19, Mr. Biles had already secured his temporary certificate as a registered pharmacist, and a short time thereafter passed the pharmacy board test which entitled him to a permanent certificate.

Coming to Big Spring in 1904, after having been connected with the First Texas Chemical company, at Dallas, as assistant chemist, Mr. Biles went to work in the Mitchell & Park Drug store, the drug section of which he purchased in 1909, and has been in this business since that time. "Our store has filled over 1,000,000 prescriptions since beginning business in Big Spring," said Mr. Biles Saturday. "We do not have a complete record of this number, but I am confident we have filled more than that number. When we reached Number 500,000, it was customary to start over in numbering the prescriptions."

Mr. Biles is deeply grateful to the people of Big Spring and its trade territory for their patronage during the past twenty-five years, and the new firm is ever at their command for service in the drug and its kindred business.

Mrs. Bland B. Ivie, formerly of this city, returned to her home in Amherst Saturday morning after visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Pittman, for the past two weeks.

Mrs. Wendell Bedichek is ill at Big Spring hospital.

The new firm, which was formed and effected on February 26th, is extending an invitation to the public to call at their store, 222 Main, where personnel of the store is anxious to be at their service.

A TASTE OF GOOD HARD WORK
Here after all boys and girls who desire to enter German universities must serve at least six months in the Nazi labor camps, toiling with pick and shovel just like any proletarian wage earner.
This ruling just had been announced by Nazi authorities in Berlin, and in many ways it looks like an excellent idea.
The lad who is permitted to attend a university is privileged. He is fitting himself for life-long emancipation from back-breaking physical toil. It is not a bad scheme, this one which would require him first to find out by actual experience just what manual labor is like.
It not only might help him to understand the viewpoint and the problems of those less fortunate than himself; it might also to help him see how lucky he really is.

TROOPS ON MARCH AS RUMORS EXCITE AUSTRIA

Rumors ranging from war to peace obscured the objective of troops of Austria's fascist heimwehr as they marched in many sections of the troubled nation. One report had it that troops led by Prince Ernst von Starhemberg (right) and Emil Fey (inset above) planned a march on Vienna such as Mussolini led on Rome. (Associated Press Photos)

TODAY and TOMORROW

By WALTER LIPPMANN
The Balance of European Forces

The post-war era came to an end, as Mr. Frank H. Simonds has pointed out, with the National Socialist revolution in Germany and the rise of Hitler. A new era is now in the making. What it is to be like, whether it is to bring peace or another war, no man can say until the realignment of the powers, which is now in progress, has taken place.

In the post-war era the Continent was organized around the predominance of France and her allies in Central Europe. The hope of peace then rested upon prompt and generous concessions to the German republic. Some concessions were made. But they were always too late and always too grudging. So that hope was dashed. The result was the provocation of fierce resentment in Germany and the alignment of Italy on the side of the vanquished nations. The German resentment, aggravated enormously by the terrific pressure of domestic deflation, was exploited in the Nazi revolution. This brought into power a new Prussianism, based not on the Divine right of the Junkers to rule, but on the passions of an exasperated mob. The revival of the military spirit in Germany coincided with marked diminution of the military spirit in France.

In the last year, as the German now has a government strong enough to re-establish the prestige France has lost in the past year, and is determined to do it. The small nations of Central Europe must of necessity gather around a strong power, and France is the only power in Europe which has a vital interest in their security. Unless France asserts herself, they are bound sooner or later to follow the example of Poland and risk temporary and separate bargains. After that they will exist by the grace of Germany, and not because they have treaty rights and the strength to maintain them.

The world is now waiting for the Domergue government in France to show its hand. France, in partnership with Italy, has the power to check the Nazi advance and to give the sixteen people of central Europe a chance to stabilize their position. If this is not done the experience of Austria will almost certainly be repeated many times throughout the Danube valley, and whatever the outcome it will be stained with blood and scorched with violence.

The event which France has dreaded for fifteen years is now at hand. There is once more a militant Germany. The French alliances are crumbling. Britain, and of course, the United States, will not interfere. It is not war, but it is a situation in which force and not formulae, power and not pacific diplomacy, self help and not peace pacts are the measures of what will and will not be done.

It is a sad, mad world. The responsibility for making it, like the responsibility for the great war itself, of which it is the direct sequel, cannot be fixed exactly. It is a tragedy of human incompetence and of the unrestrained passions of mankind.

The moment of decision has arrived. It would be vain to deny it, and for the time being the hope of peace and order in Europe depends entirely upon the resolution and the power of the two nations, France and Italy, which have a direct interest in maintaining them.

SCOUT NEWS

Uncertain weather hasn't killed the boys' love for hiking. Practically every troop in town is getting out in the open.

Troop No. 7 boys made an important discovery the other day while hiking. One of the scouts ran across a sand stone bearing the inscription, a date nearly 200 years old in an initial.

To Jimmie Meyers goes some sort of a distinction. He is the only scout in the city coming up for a rank above first class at the court of honor today. He is now a star scout.

When Court of Honor meets today 3 p. m. in the district court room to award badges, scouts will see five new faces on the court. They are W. C. Blankenship, chairman, Ray Cantrell, Rev. C. A. Bickley, Rev. W. H. Martin, and Merle Black. All are interested in scouting.

"We are going to have a court of honor every month if enough of the boys are up for advancement," said Chairman Blankenship Saturday. He's taking hold of his job and means business.

These longer days have scouts thinking about the jamboree already. "Watch our smoke," says troop No. 2. "We're going to win the knot tying event as usual," says No. 7.

Troop No. 4 pulled an interesting affair Friday evening. They had all the parents and friends in for a short and interesting program and topped it all off with good eats. Scoutmaster D. J. Wright says the troop plans to repeat once every three months.

Refreshments were served by the members of the troop.

The following committeemen were present D. F. Bigony, F. S. McCullough, Verdi Phillips, Mel Thurman and others were Mrs. D. F. Bigony, Phillips, Thurman, Scoutmaster D. J. Wright and wife, A. F. Kauch, Mrs. Jess Andrews, Mrs. Reeves, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Martin, Mr. and Mrs. Joe B. Wright, Rev. and Mrs. Woodie Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Floyd, Miss Catherine Gregory and Johnnie Hanling.

These scouts attended: Ray McCullough, Robert Winslow, Weldon Bigony, J. L. Andrews, Leo Wright, Floyd Davenport, R. J. Johnson, Garrett Patton, Vorda Taylor, H. C. Smith, Bruce Phillips, J. L. Miller, Charlie Vaughn and William Wright. Reported by Scoutmaster D. J. Wright.

Troop No. 5—Despite the rain the troop went through with its planned hike and spent an enjoyable evening in the open. After cooking supper, the troop divided and played capture the flag in the moonlight. Later "Stack" was also played as was "Double Steal the Bacon."

After the games, a council fire was kindled and the troop sang some before the scoutmaster told a story. The hike was concluded by singing taps and the scoutmaster's benediction. Troop Committeeman George Gentry helped to carry the boys out to their camp site.

Troop No. 7—The troop spent Friday evening in practicing for the jamboree. Sixteen boys were present, both Steer and Hound Dog patrols being full. Some new looks are being added to the boys' collection for annual training. Scoutmaster John R. Hutto met with the boys.

COSTLY PSYCHIC
By Tom O'Neil
Some players, after two passes ahead of them in the auction, are prone to psychics if their hands are worthless. They fear that the opponents have slam possibilities and wish to deter them.
For every time such a psychic works the chances are that there are many more occasions in which the bid increases the point total of the side with the big cards.
George Dinwiddie, young New York expert, tried a psychic on the not so expert Charles Honce. The result was that Honce and partner won 1,760 more points than they otherwise would have done. Here is the hand.

AIR MAIL FLYERS FREE FROM SCANDAL

The mess which centers about the air mail contracts throws a bright light on one of the most vital problems of modern times—the way in which all manner of skill, devotion, and efficiency can be short-circuited if a few men at the top of the heap get to thinking too much about the clink of dollars.

In the cancellation of air mail contracts there has not been a shadow of a reflection upon the men who actually have been doing the work.

The pilots themselves have made one of the finest records in the history of aviation. They have been good, superlatively good, at a job calling for skill, coolness, and devotion.

From the standpoint of physical service, they have made the American air mail network one of the finest things of its kind in all the world—if not the very finest.

Similarly, the technicians, the designers, the men who built the planes and fabricated the engines, the operating officials who arrange schedules and hand out assignments, the repair men and service men and radio and weather men—all these have filled their difficult jobs with distinction.

The troubles that led to wholesale cancellation of contracts were in no way due to the men who actually were doing the work of flying the mails. From a purely physical viewpoint, the air mail setup is and has been a thing of which the whole country could be proud.

Where, then, was the trouble? It arose solely from the fact that this magnificent edifice of service rested on the wrong kind of financial base.

In some cases—not in all, by any means—the men at the very top were less concerned with doing an important job in an efficient manner than with making two dollars grow where one had been before.

To put it more simply, the fact that a few men were greedy was enough to nullify all the skill, the courage, and the devotion to duty which the great mass of employes put into their jobs.

There has been a lot of talk, this last year, about the necessity for curbing the profit motive. The air mail situation is a striking example of it.

Because a few men let the lust for profit run away with them, an entire industry has had to suffer.

RIISING FARM PRODUCTS

Business statistics usually make pretty dull reading. But the average of wholesale commodity prices, compiled recently by the Bureau of Labor Statistics, is something that is well worth glancing at for a moment.

This average now stands at the highest level since 1931. Furthermore, it becomes evident that the greatest rains of all have been registered by farm products, which are up 50 per cent over their level of one year ago, and by textiles, which have gone up 49 per cent in the same period.

This reflects a direct and substantial improvement in the position of the American farmer. It puts more money into his hands, it means that industrial markets are going to be wider, it means that debts which looked very bad a year ago are going to be good.

And if it is true, as the economists say that general prosperity must have a healthy agricultural industry for a base, it means that American recovery is getting established on the right kind of foundation.

ROOSEVELT YEAR SUCCESSION OF DECISIVE MOVES

Bowling over precedent, puzzling politicians and amazing observers throughout the country, President Roosevelt started upon a program announced with action the day he took office. His first year has been a succession of dramatic steps, most of them looking toward recovery. Almost immediately after his inauguration he declared a bank holiday. When the banks reopened, long lines of depositors at many institutions bespoke popular confidence. Foreshadowing his monetary program, which was later to result in a 41 per cent cut in the gold content of the dollar, the President banned the hoarding of gold, and holders of the metal rushed with bags, satchels and baskets to return it to federal reserve banks. Millions were out of work. To lighten relief rolls and add to the nation's spending power, the public works administration. Boys and men in the civilian conservation corps trooped to the forests with shovels and axes and saws. Thousands went to work on bridges, dams, buildings; even artists and actors came under the influence of the "New Deal". Agriculture was not forgotten. In one of the most important moves of the administration, provision was made for acreage reduction and the elimination of surplus. Seeking to lift business from the depression, the President pushed for the creation of the national recovery administration, which, by codifying industry, aims to better the status of the worker in all branches of trade. All through the year the administration championed the cause of repeal. The twenty-first amendment brought with it an increase in governmental revenue and the dropping of several special taxes. As the end of his first year in office approached, President Roosevelt, following the cancellation of contracts held by commercial companies, provided one of the most remarkable chapters in aviation history by ordering the army corps to carry the aircraft

Baseball Teams To Organize Loop At Colorado Today

Cosden May Enter A Team In New League

Big Spring, Colorado, Sweetwater And Hamlin Fans To Meet

Backers of a plan for organizing a baseball league to include Big Spring, Colorado, Sweetwater, and Hamlin will hold a confab at 7 o'clock this afternoon in Colorado.

At this meeting it is hoped to make some definite plans. Cosden is expected to put in a team to represent Big Spring. Lefty Babers, veteran baseball player and sportsman, will likely take charge of the Big Spring team. He will attend the meeting with C. E. "Spiker" Henniger.

Conhoma May Enter
Conhoma is expected to be represented at the meeting. They always have a strong baseball team and there is a possibility they will get admittance to the new circuit. The loop will be organized with the idea of consuming as little time in traveling as possible. Expense will also be held at a minimum. Games will be played only a week-ends.

Col-Tex Sure Shot
The Col-Tex team at Colorado Springs, led by Leroy Grisset, is nearly a sure shot to enter. Gulf of Sweetwater will probably line-up in the first meeting. Not much is known here about the Hamlin team, and if they decline the offer, Conhoma will probably take their place.

Thirteen Big Spring firms and individuals have pledged to form the Big Spring team. They are: First National Bank, Albert M. Fisher, at Allen's, Vie Fawcett's, Melgers, Jess Slaughter, Westerman, Dr. M. H. Bennett, Ford Motor Co., First National Bank, Big Spring Herald, Smith Drug and J. C. Penny.

When Christopher Columbus appeared before Queen Isabella upon returning from his first exploration, he presented her with sweet potatoes picked in the new world.

The Daily Sport Mill

By Tom Beasley

J. Walter Morris, baseball promoter who has been on a tour of West Texas towns in interest of forming a Class D league, announced at conclusion of his trip that four towns had already lined-up for the loop. They are: Coleman, Ballinger, Abilene and Sweetwater. Lubbock expressed interest in the proposition if San Angelo would enter, but Concho sportsmen apparently aren't interested in the circuit.

Morris intends to work on Big Spring and Midland next. The trip out here will simply be a waste of time and money. Neither Big Spring nor Midland can meet the requirements.

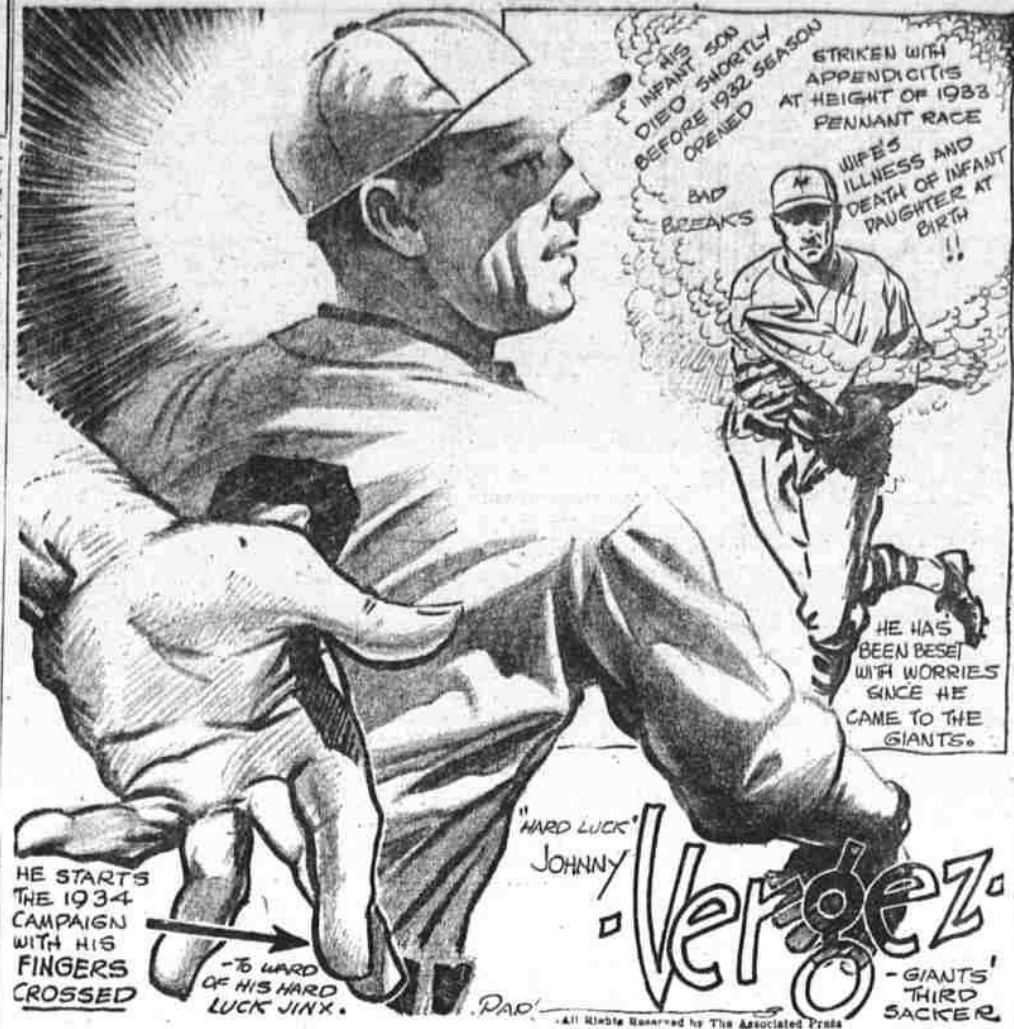

Briefly, here's Mr. Morris' plan: The league would be operated on a four-month schedule, with games on four days of each week. The club would be either home owned and operated or a farm for some major league. Each team would play: one opening day, one holiday, nine Sundays and 10 week days at home. The operating cost for the season would be, as Morris and other officials, of the National Association of Professional Baseball leagues have dropped it out, $6,500.

According to the figures Mr. Morris presents, it would require the attendance of 1200 paid customers on the opening day, the holiday and each of the nine Sundays, and 100 cash customers on each week-day for an operating profit of $2,350. That, of course, provided other sources of income are included. These other sources include fence advertising, sign advertising and the sale of one player. Figures for these have been set at the minimum.

If Big Spring wants the Class D professional baseball, the opportunity again presents itself. It should be borne in mind that Morris is hired by the National Association to organize clubs and leagues, and that he draws his salary through that channel. Whether Big Spring comes into the prospective league or not makes no difference to his pocket-book. The big bugs of baseball want more leagues from which to draw young players. Unless the various projects go through, baseball as a major institution will suffer.

The best proposition for Big Spring will be the semi-pro class organized with towns close around and playing only on the week-ends. Big Spring fans are apparently organizing better this year than they have in the past. It looks like a banner season for a small compact league.

Range Country Track Meet To Open March 17

Steers, Winners In 1932, To Compete In The Event Again

BARNHART—The third annual Range country track and field meet will be held here Saturday March 17 according to an announcement made by L. V. Gentry, Barnhart high school coach and the director of the meet. Invitations have already been mailed to 100 high schools in West Texas, with twenty three teams accepting the invitation at present.

The teams that are entered for this year are Big Lake, Sherwood, Miles, San Angelo Bobcats, Ozona, Iranan, Fort Stockton, Big Spring, Rocksprings, Robert Lee, Crane and Barnhart. Each team will have a senior team with the exception of San Angelo. The junior high school may enter.

The meet was won by the San Angelo Bobcats last year when the mile relay team composed of Schumard, Delker, Linthicum and McGlothing representing the San Angelo school won the relay event to nose out the Big Lake Owls 2 1-2 points. San Angelo amassed a total of 38 points and Big Lake 35 1-2 with Iranan coming in third with 21 1-2.

The meet this year is expected to be the biggest in the three years of the invitation affair. Forty teams were entered last year.

Interscholastic league regulations will follow in the senior and junior divisions with the exception that there will be only one division in the junior division.

Bissett To Handle Gun
Bill Bissett former track coach of San Angelo high school and producer of national champions will handle the gun as the official starter for the third year. The famous starter and track coach is one of the biggest drawing cards of the meet.

Members of the Barnhart school board have been giving trophies in the first two years of the meet and they are repeating again this year. The local dramatic club composed of local talent has asked to give all the trophies this year.

A Wide Trophy List
Loving cup for winning senior team, a three year cup donated by L. Q. Sparks, won by Big Spring in 1932. By San Angelo in 1933. Loving cup for winning junior team a three year cup, donated by Barnhart Drug Co. Won by El Dorado in 1932. By Big Lake in 1933. out of "the red" last year.

Trophy to senior runner up. Trophy to junior runner up. Loving cup to senior relay team. Loving cup to junior relay team. Gold medal to senior high point boy. Gold medal to junior high point boy. Awards to 1st, 2nd, 3rd, and 4th place winners of each event for seniors and juniors.

Every dance and college social function at Iowa state college has made a profit this year. Few kept dorado in 1932. By Big Lake in 1933. out of "the red" last year.

Schmidt Named To Ohio State Grid Job; Gets Long Contract

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Francis A. Schmidt was appointed Friday as director of football at Ohio State university for the next three years.

As he received word that the board of athletic control had unanimously approved his appointment, Schmidt said, "well adapt our game to our material. If we have big, husky boys, you bet your bottom dollar there'll be plenty of bone crushing football."

"But," continued Schmidt, "if we have an open field runner, we'll build our offense to shake him loose. And if they give me a passer, that guy will have a chance to use his throwing arm."

Schmidt's salary is expected to be near the seven thousand mark. Nothing was said about assistants and Schmidt declared he had not given this angle much thought.

ball the pitchers will find it more difficult to fool the batters. When the race for first place becomes a real eight club fight, public interest picks up and club owners do not cut each player and look after each expense dollar. The National past time business will undoubtedly pick up.

Mrs. E. V. McCollum of Ponca City, Oklahoma, arrived this morning for a visit with her parents, Rev. and Mrs. R. E. Day. A son, Morris Day and wife of Tahoka are expected to arrive this afternoon.

Ramona Joan Sneed, 6-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Sneed, who was operated on for mastoid abscess at the Big Spring Hospital several days ago, was removed to her home Thursday.

It is a different story this year, as the Redlegs have been purchased by a wealthy Cincinnati sportsman, and Bob O'Farrell, a well informed ball player, was placed at the helm. The new owner seemed to want the Reds to play somewhere other than the cellar, and knew that it would be next to impossible to overrun the other teams with what he had. He knew that if he secured a smart manager he would be more apt to find what he wanted so he went to St. Louis for this man. As the Cards and the Reds have been rather friendly toward each other and as Rickey already had his lines out for another catcher, Bob O'Farrell was brought to Cincinnati. Bob has already opened up and shown that he meant to give Cincinnati a winning ball club.

Philadelphia, too, journeyed to the Smoky city to secure a new manager. Jimmy Wilson, catcher, was persuaded to take over the leadership of the Phils. Although they had to sell the best known outfielder in the National league, the Quakers are still very dangerous. It will be Jimmy's problem to rebuild a pitching staff which has been very weak for quite a while.

The New York Giants will find it very difficult to repeat this year although they have the same club that finished as Number One last year. Their excellent pitching staff may find it more difficult to throw to such sluggers as Klein, Hafey, Herman et cetera. The new ball is built for slugging as well as pitching.

Frisch Leads Cards
With the lucky Frank Frisch again leading the Cardinal crew, the Red Birds have a very good chance to come through this year. Too, it is do or die with the Fordham Fris, for if he doesn't turn the trick this year he might be seeking another position in '35.

In Chuck Klein, the Chicago Cubs secured what they have been seeking for quite a while. Charlie Grimm, the musical manager, has plenty of material to work with this year and should take advantage of it. If the Bruin mates cooperate as a team it might mean a world series for Chicago in the fall.

Manager Gibson should tell his Pittsburgh Pirates they have varied long enough among the leaders. What is needed for a good ball club to get going? They possess the best outfield in the majors, their pitching staff is excellent, a catcher is not seriously needed, and their infield is not wobbly. The Pittsburghers should show more fight.

Able Manager
The Boston Red Skins, with probably the most able of the National league managers, have yet to show that they deserve to occupy the top rung of the ladder. They signed a bit last year and for a while threatened the leaders, but their pitching weakened. They need power behind their hurling.

With the popular "Casey" Stengel as their manager, the Brooklyn Dodgers should find their much needed pep and fight this season. Stengel is known as a clown and the Robin fans like his enthusiasm. He should be a major factor in bringing the fans back to Ebbets' field.

The crowds who like to witness a ball game in which the apple goes out of the infield a number of times will probably see them in the National circuit this season. With the adoption of the new

Eight Evenly Matched Teams To Put Plenty Of Color In Race

The National league, like the American, has again become a fighting eight club circuit, whereas in the past, and especially in the last year or two, the fight has centered around two or three teams. BLOND GODDESS

A New Social by Herbert Jensen

CHAPTER 36

If only he could retain consciousness a little while longer! Vaguely he knew that an airplane flying at normal speed could travel in a minute almost the distance one could travel in a day's beating through head-laden jungle. Just a half hour more he wanted. His sight grew dimmer. Just a few minutes longer, he prayed. He must get the ship to the coast. The beach, he knew, was one long landing field.

Through bleared eyes he observed that the jungle thickness below was spotted with many savannahs. Again he tried for altitude, but his muscles refused to supply strength sufficient to haul back the stick.

Then ahead of him, abruptly, he saw tree tops. A clock of darkness obscured his sight for an instant. When his vision cleared he felt the upper branches slap against the landing gear.

Savagely he fought the controls. The effort sent blinding pains through his brain. He was conscious of a great crashing noise.

Eons later, it seemed, he dreamed that he was struggling through incalculable jungles. It was very real to him. The smells of rotting vegetation were bitter in his nostrils. Trees and brush weaved like unreal phantoms before his eyes.

From time to time a variety of tastes spread over his palate, as if he had eaten of jungle fruits; twice his brain dwelt in dull wonder that water could taste so sweet even in a dream.

His body felt as though it were encased within hot metal. When that nightmare became too painful to endure, all his senses became blank again. After a period of time the dreams would recur.

When finally he awakened, it seemed that he had been sleeping forever. The air about him was cool and gracious. He opened his eyes. He was lying in a palm clump.

He saw the drooping fronds above, outlined against a sky brilliant with stars. Memory swooped upon his consciousness like a great and evil bird. He struggled to a sitting position. A small fire burned nearby.

"Janice!" he cried. "Janice!" "What is it, Frank?" She stood before him. The fire-light illumined her. He stared in amazement. Her trim costume was stained and torn, her laced boots were cut to tatters.

He observed that her face seemed thinner of contour and the skin was pink and peeling as if it had been blistered. At first he thought she was wearing gloves but a closer glance showed him that her hands were bound with white strips of cloth.

"Where's the plane?" he asked. "What happened? We crashed, I know."

She looked at him with an expression of puzzlement.

"Of course," she answered. "This morning, her face lighted with dawning understanding. "You were delicious. The ship went down in a savannah. It rolled awhile over the open until the ground became swampy. It struck something and went over on its nose, and then righted itself. It sank to the lower wings. It started to burn just a little at first, then very fiercely."

"You sat there holding to the control as if you were made of wood. Your eyes were wide open, (thought for a horrible instant that . . . that . . .")

"I know," said Frank softly. "Go on."

"There were one of those big knives the natives use, in a leather case, strapped beside the fire extinguisher. I cut the belt that strapped you in. The buckle was twisted and I couldn't loosen it. The flames reached you. You began to move then, I tell you." She smiled wanly.

"I had to leave the rifle; it was too heavy. I knew we had to get away from there. I thought the smoke from the burning plane might bring those natives after us."

She shuddered a little. Her eyes filled with tears, and she dropped to her knees beside him.

"Poor Horatio Greene, and that little Mexican boy!" She wopt quietly openly now and Frank threw his arm over the slim shoulders in a clumsy attempt to soothe her. His own throat was tight.

She pressed her bandaged hands against her eyes.

"At the time I couldn't understand you. You staggered through the jungle in a daze, striking at the creepers. Sometimes you would fall, and lay as if you would never get up. But you did."

"Once you fell in a pool of water. I got you out. Your face was covered with slimy things that wigged. I brushed them all off and fished in the pool for the knife you lost."

Frank glanced at her hands. "No," she said, anticipating his question. "They were blistered from the knife. After a while you didn't chop at the vines any more, but would just crash at them with your body. So I walked ahead and chopped."

"You did that?" Grahame's voice was incredulous.

The girl nodded and hurried on. "It wasn't so bad. This afternoon, when I thought I couldn't fight the creeper another minute, we stumbled on an old road that seemed to lead in the direction we wanted to go. It was like a concrete road at home, only the stone blocks were smaller."

"I've heard of them," said Frank. "The old Mayas built them. Usually, though, they've been swallowed by the jungle."

"This one was a godsend. We followed it until dark. Then it stopped. Just like that." She made a downward gesture with her arm.

"It was like walking off an open bridge. I stepped out and my foot touched nothing. I fell—I don't know how far I fell—into some brush and rolled out of it down a slope. I think I screamed, but you didn't hear me."

GIANTS MOURN FOR M'GRAW

"I was shaken but not much hurt. I think I called to you but you didn't answer. I thought I was in some kind of a well and you had walked on, missing it."

"I was really terrified then." She smiled a little apologetically. "I think I was too frightened to call to you. I sat there—I don't know for how long. Then the moon came up . . ."

"You were lying just a little way from me. Your face was terribly scratched . . ."

"There were matches in your coat. I made this fire. There were clouds of mosquitoes." A tear glistened on her cheek and fell. "I don't know where we are. We're lost, Frank! Do you think there's any chance . . ."

and murderous. The rifle was gone. He discovered in a glance that his pistol was not in the holster. There was a sagging weight in his coat pocket—ammunition—but worthless without the gun.

They had the machete, but that was little use as a food-getter. It would serve to hack a trail through the jungle; that was all.

How far they were from the coast had no idea whatsoever. Distances in miles but in days of travel. They had no food—no means to provide themselves with food. Water, even might prove to be a problem.

They must depend upon the afternoon rain, or else drink the brackish and germ-thickened water from the swamps they might pass. Furthermore a casual wound, the small mishap of a thorn scratch might become infected and prove more deadly than snake bite.

As he watched the fire dwindled. Mosquitoes sang closer. A slight sound in the surrounding darkness made him realize that jaguars were ferocious cats and might be lurking about.

Gently he allowed the limp form of his companion to rest upon the ground. He took off his coat and covered with it the upper part of her body. He threw fresh fuel upon the fire taking care that some of it was green.
