

Ruth Nichols Injured In Crash Of Plane

HOME TOWN TALK

By BEDDY

This evening a Junior Chapter of Commerce is scheduled to be organized.

The motives actuating the group of young men who met last week and discussed an organization are highly worthy.

They realize that, as citizens of Big Spring with their futures tied up in the future of the community, they ought to be in a position as effectively as possible to do things for benefit of the entire community.

The enthusiasm necessary to handle successfully a number of community tasks must be found among the young men. Older men have their hands full all the time with matters that only the experience, wisdom and influence that they have can handle.

A Junior organization formed along the same lines as other successful organizations of the kind will bring much benefit to Big Spring and to each individual member of it.

Somebody asked yesterday, "What is going to happen in Big Spring on July 1?"

This man said he noticed a number of neighboring towns were planning various types of patriotic celebrations and that he felt Big Spring should plan something. He predicted this would look like a "deserted village" on independence day.

Here's a piece of a friend of our's who came from Brookhaven, Mississippi, clipped from the Semi-Weekly Leader of that city this worth digesting:

HOW TO BOOST BUSINESS

Let's sit down and whine. Let's business is good. Let's grumble and pine. Let's business is good.

Let's kick and complain. And display our disdain. From all boasting refrain. Until business is good.

Let's quit eating meat. Let's business is good. Let's turn off the heat. Let's business is good.

Let's buy no more clothes. Or attend any shows. And shut off the hose. Let's business is good.

Let's pay no more taxes. Let's business is good. Let's lay down our axes. Let's business is good.

Let's build no more school. Or obey traffic rules. And pawn all our jewels. Let's business is good.

Let's not shine our shoes. Let's business is good. Let's holler for booze. Let's business is good.

Let's blame all our cares. On bulls and the bears. And see in our chairs. Let's business is good.

Let's hide all our cash. Let's business is good. Let's live upon hash. Let's business is good.

Let's stop paying bills. And quit taking pills. And shiver with chills. Let's business is good.

Let's quit paying rent. Let's business is good. Let's live in a tent. Let's business is good.

Let's go without socks. And quit winding clocks. And invest in no stocks. Let's business is good.

Let's stop driving cars. Let's business is good. And stop smoking cigars. Let's business is good.

Let's quit eating pie. And lay down and die. So the undertaker will cry "My business is good!"

Negro Convict Is Killed In Affray

SUGARLAND, June 23 (UP)—A negro convict was dead and a Central state prison farm official was in the hospital here today as a result of a cutting and shooting at the farm last night.

The negro, Henry Asbury, 35, was shot to death by B. B. Gaines, a guard, after the negro had attacked T. B. Gott, 40, assistant manager, with a razor. Gott was slashed down the right side.

Asbury had been on the farm since 1928 and was serving twelve years for burglary in Fort Bend county.

Red River-To-Mexico Highway Paved With Exception 36 Miles

AUSTIN, June 23 (UP)—With the recent completion of paving on Highway 2 near Elgin, nearly the whole LaBalle county line, the unpaved portion of the road was reduced to 36 miles, according to J. B. Early, chief of the maintenance division of the state highway department.

The highway, which extends from Ringgold to the Red river in Montague county to Laredo on the Mexican border.

Highway 2 is the second longest highway in the state being outdistanced only by Highway 1, the main east and west artery.

Plans for the improvement of the remaining 36 miles of the unpaved portion are being made by the highway department with one paving project nearing completion.

This is a stretch of 15 miles south of Fort Worth.

Another unpaved portion is from the Williamson county line, north 11.2 miles in Bell county.

The third unpaved section extends from Bowie to the Red river. The section between Bowie and Ringgold is gravelled while from Ringgold to the new Red river bridge the highway is of dirt. The section from Bowie north probably will be improved by graveling in the near future, according to highway officials.

Highway 2 is one of the most heavily travelled roads in the state, carrying hundreds of tourists from northern states through the Texas winter garden district and into Old Mexico via Laredo.

Brennen Addresses Legion Members At Barbecue; Mellon Flayed, Hoover Debt Moratorium Endorsed In Talk With The W.C.T.U.

Hal Brennen, Laredo, commander of the American Legion, departed Austin, Texas, on Monday evening for a spirited address to members of the Women's Christian Temperance Union has been extended the privilege of addressing the public on matters of interest to it. Through columns of The Herald and its communications will appear each Tuesday—Editor's note.

L. W. Croft, local post commander, was chairman. W. T. Strange, Jr. of Big Spring appeared in a short talk.

About 250 men attended the barbecue. Mr. Brennen, who took occasion pointedly to criticize actions of Andrew Mellon, secretary of the treasury, reviewed the objectives of the Legion, defended its legislative program of the past and that mapped for the future.

He expressed in a private conversation agreement with the soundness of the Hoover debt moratorium plan. He is an exporter himself and declared that no matter how much money the United States might obtain from war debt and reparations payments it could not return to domestic business normalcy until foreign markets were reopened and because of the depressed financial condition brought on in some European countries by efforts to raise money through taxes to pay the war debts, he said.

Prohibitionists are not being worried at the thought that the Eighteenth Amendment will be repealed. When the roaring dashings, sparkling Niagara reverses its course and flows back over the falls, there will be time enough to think of such a catastrophe. But the question is still being agitated. And who is responsible for it? Evidently not the prohibitionist. For this amendment was adopted by the most overwhelming majority ever known. Forty-six out of forty-eight states ratified this amendment.

More than ten to one of the members of the different State Legislatures voted for it. Prohibitionists were satisfied and every other loyal, patriotic citizen should have been. But the rebellion, unconquerable, whisky demon never surrenders. So we are confronted with the duty and responsibility of giving the monster another drubbing.

If the friends of the whisky traffic have any regard for the expressed will of the majority, if they were controlled by generous patriotic impulses, they, instead of antagonizing, would have thrown their influence and efforts toward the enforcement of the law there would have been wide difficulty in its enforcement. It is said to think that men like Senator Dwight Morrow, Gov. Al Smith, Ritchie and other individuals high in the confidence and estimation of the people, who have taken a solemn oath to support, uphold and defend the Constitution of the Nation, and the laws thereunder, should be found fighting the devil or human ingenuity could devise, but we think the just proof has been knocked from under them by the recent decision of the Supreme Court of the Nation.

But the liquor interests contend that the argument was not fairly adopted, that hundreds and thousands of our noble men were in foreign lands fighting to make the Investigation into Kaufman's slaying by a gunman Saturday night revealed the operation, authorities said, of a gigantic operators' union which netted between $750,000 and $1,000,000 annually to Thomas Maloy, its dictator.

Maloy and five others, including Danny Stanton, Capone representative in high racket, were sought in connection with the slaying.

Young German In U. S. To Study Farming

DALLAS, June 23 (UP)—Ambitious to become a good farmer so he can return to his fatherland and manage his father's lands, Count Paul von Bernstorff of Germany, is in Texas looking for a connection where he can store up worthwhile experience in tilling the soil.

He was here en route to Plainville for a conference with Hickman Price, controller of one of the world's largest farms, hopeful he could get a place in Price's organization.

The count said he hoped to spend two years in this country making an intensive study of American agriculture. When he returns to Germany he plans to assume management of his father's farms in North and East Germany, the plantations comprising eight separate units, of 1,000 acres each.

The young German, 20 years old, is a graduate engineer, having attended technological schools at Munich and Hanover.

Plowshare Decayers

ELECTRA, June 23 (UP)—A farmer's plowshare, laid work uncared for, was found an unidentified man whose body, apparently, was thrust first into a hole more than 25 years ago.

Jim Bryant, who lives on the Silber farm 11 miles Northeast of Electra, found the skeleton late one afternoon as he was finishing his plowing for the day. He called officers to the scene the next day and the skeleton was unearthed and examined by Dr. C. W. Monahan, city health officer, and other physicians. No trace of clothing or other means of possible identification was found. The physician said the skeleton apparently was that of a white man about five feet and two inches tall and about 50 or 60 years old at the time of his death. They found no certain evidence that the man had met death by violence. People living in the community 20 or 30 years could remember no missing man who would fit the description given by the doctors.

The field in which Bryant found the skeleton had been in cultivation 25 years. It was once a part of the late D. Waggoner's Three D Ranch.

Conjectures Made On Whether Bill Will Be Enforced

AUSTIN, Texas, June 23.—What the Texas court of criminal appeals will do with the law passed at the recent session of the legislature requiring law enforcement officers to wear uniforms when making arrests for violation of the traffic laws, is a matter of conjecture among sponsors of the bill and persons interested in highway motor traffic.

The appeals court several months ago declared the law passed by the 41st legislature which contained similar provisions unconstitutional on the ground it penalized an officer in the performance of his duty. The decision was handed down in a case in which the defendant had sought dismissal of a charge of transporting intoxicating liquor because the liquor was found in his automobile after he had been stopped for speeding by an officer not in uniform.

He claimed the arrest was illegal and that the officer had no authority to halt his automobile since the officer did not wear the blue or gray uniform prescribed by the legislature. Since his stoppage for speeding was illegal, his arrest on the liquor charge also was illegal, he contended.

The court settled the argument, at least temporarily, by declaring the law unconstitutional. But the court reckoned without the legislature then in session and another law requiring the blue or gray uniforms was passed.

In the new bill however, the legislature went a step further and limited the number of deputy constables that could be employed by a constable and required the approval of the commissioners' court for each deputy in a precinct in which there is a town of less than 2,000 inhabitants. The constable may appoint one deputy between 1,000 and 2,000, two deputies and above 2,000 population, five deputies.

Persons serving as deputies without the approval of the commissioners' court or constables appointing deputies without consent will be subject to fines of $50 to $100.

The same penalty will be imposed on officers violating the provisions of the section with reference to uniforms and prosecutors who refuse to prosecute persons making traffic arrests when not in uniform are made liable to removal from office.

Tactics of constables in preventing traffic for the loss of office were bitterly denounced at the last session of the legislature.

Small Wheat Farmers Seeking New Outlets

AMARILLO, June 23.—Small wheat farmers of the Panhandle country are looking for new outlets for their grain, discouraged from placing it on the market at present low prices.

In Hardeman and Childress counties and other sections that are not generally considered as wheat producing areas, but where wheat was planted for winter pasture, much of the crop is being cut and baled for hay. Specialists are dairy farmers, who have considerable need for roughage, adopting this plan.

It is estimated that five or six tons of hay can be cut from one acre. The objection has been made by some that cheaper hay can be grown, but considering the winter pasture benefits, county agents say the undertaking is wise.

Small farmers in other sections of the Panhandle and South Plains are planning to feed their wheat to livestock and poultry.

E. R. Eudaly, special county agent in Floyd county, has expressed the belief that farmers can realize 65 cents a bushel for wheat and about 54 cents a bushel for barley by feeding it to hogs. He recommends buying feeder pigs weighing from 50 to 75 pounds. He is furnishing farmers of his county with balanced rations for feeding projects.

Scattered projects throughout the Panhandle last year brought reports of prices that doubled the market for grain.

Mrs. Chas. Torian, and son, Chas. Junior, of Dallas, are the guests of Mrs. Torian's mother, Mrs. Mary Richardson.

Mad Pursuit... SYNOPSIS: Frances Lindsay, now reconciled with her husband, realizes that it was her cousin, Nora Lake, and not herself who had attracted Fergus More. Was there, then, significance in Fergus' protest and his impulsive kiss when Nora had told him of her intended elopement with Joe Trayner? Joe's wife, Damon, decides not to prosecute Nora's father for the fraudulent exhibit of Nicholas Trayner's picture as his own, while Joe reproaches himself for breaking his engagement to Nora because of her suspicious connection with the scheme of her father's trouble. Nora's desperation is lessened and she tells Joe her plan to drive the car in which they are riding into the path of a train.

Chapter 36... HOPES IN SPRING... By a miracle, a second only, it seemed, they jumped across the tracks and the train swept by, its hot cylinders in their nostrils. Curiously enough, Nora was not afraid.

Chapter 37... HOPES IN SPRING... She knew now that nothing she could do would stop Joe. He was a man. At some time, if by a hair's breadth, Joe answered the fear, they would be dashed over. She knew all this in fleeting vision as the danger increased. But even this she faced with a kind of triumph as though she were living in a dream. If he were bent on killing them both no words would stop him now.

Chapter 38... HOPES IN SPRING... They crossed a bridge and she heard the car grind over the boards with a violent clatter and saw the iron rails swing past. At the next turn was a strip of woods that she knew ended in a curve and drop—unless it were carefully taken—straight toward the river hundreds of feet below.

Chapter 39... HOPES IN SPRING... She closed her eyes and clutched her teeth so that she would not scream. She felt a sudden horrible jolt. She opened her eyes. The car had come to a standstill. Joe had shot on the brakes. He bent over the wheel, his head in his arms. She saw that he was sobbing.

Chapter 40... HOPES IN SPRING... He looked up at last. "I thought I could end it that way," but I couldn't. You never know my mother went that way. It's madness in our family. I never told you." "Joe, I'm sorry, I'm sorry," she whispered.

Chapter 41... HOPES IN SPRING... "But it's no use, Nora?" "No use." "I'll drive you home if you're not afraid!" "They drove back in almost complete silence; a silence that was curiously shared as though they each knew that the other was remembering that first meeting and all these last months.

Chapter 42... HOPES IN SPRING... Nora had begun to tremble. She had not felt the shock in those first few minutes, but now her whole body was shaking; after a while this stopped too.

Chapter 43... HOPES IN SPRING... She looked at Joe and saw his pale clear-cut face unchanged. She could not hate him, knowing as she did that he would have killed lifted him to attention even before he brought Marlene Dietrich to Hollywood. Lubitch's screen style likewise is distinctive.

Chapter 44... HOPES IN SPRING... Milestone's productions, depending rarely on stars, have been consistent hits.

TALENTED TRIO... Josef von Sternberg, Ernst Lubitch and Lewis Milestone probably are the best box office names among directors of recent prominence. The von Sternberg technique, his eccentricities off screen,

Spring had come. It came in the blowing March wind and the swaying of the horse chestnut buds outside the window; it came from the open country with the tang of wild things pushing through the forest earth.

"When Nora let herself in that March evening she heard Hallie's voice and Aunt Em's answering laughter. She had them still; she would always have them, she thought with a queer little tug at her heart.

"What do you think?" Hallie cried as Nora went into the back parlor. "A letter from Fran?" Hallie's yellow face was flushed a deep red. Aunt Em's eyes were lively.

"The oil stock is good?" "Tell her, Hallie." Hallie thrust into Nora's hand a long document with a light blue back. Nora rushed through the typewritten pages without understanding.

"Don't you know a contract when you see it, my child?" Hallie cried. "You remember that letter to Fran? I've done more since— even worse—and the editor wants me to conduct the column. I think the poor fellow's a fool or he would never have done it. But I'll make enough money to live on."

"Not on $40 a week," Hallie insisted. They sat entranced as Hallie read through a long and rigorous roll of the contract. Aunt Em said at the end they thought of taking the white cottage near the McDonalds in the country.

"I can give roses and old-fashioned pink," she looked at Nora, "and there'll always be a room just for you, Nora. We want you to be happy."

Nora remembered how Fran had said just those words. Months ago when everything was still before her; when life was a great expectation; when anything might happen she could have believed them. But now...

They were going to leave the little red brick house. For the first time she knew she loved it; the back parlor with its cottage piano and the bare floor with the oval rug, the pussy willow in the gray earthen jar, the starchy books, the basement dining room where they had talked and laughed and planned; the narrow back yard with its straggling little flowers and magnificent tree.

The little house would be empty. Perhaps she could find a room near by, Nora thought, and the girls would follow each other and some day perhaps Mr. Dusenbury would make her his secretary. She could buy flowers and books and hear music and go out to spend Saturday night with Aunt Em and Hallie.

But she would be part of their life no longer. Perhaps in time she would become like Miss Brown in the book-keeping department at the office, pretending that the desk is a house and that when she closes it up and covers the typewriter she is putting the children to bed. Nora repressed a shudder at the dismal prospect.

TOOK CARDUI IN MIDDLE LIFE... Lady Tells How She Suffered From Head Pains and Disturbed Sleep.

"About four years ago, I had a terrible feeling in my head, like a band around it, pressing so tight," says Mrs. T. B. Harbin, of 1138 South Main Street, Anderson, S. C. "I was so dizzy, and felt so bad, I was afraid to leave home for fear I might fall or have a dizzy spell."

"I knew I must do something. It was change of life (doctor said), and I decided to take Cardui. "After my first bottle, I felt better. I had not had any good sleep (my sleep was fitful and I would wake frightened), but after the first bottle of Cardui, I felt better and slept. I took three or four bottles of Cardui, in all, and am feeling better than in a long time. Cardui certainly is a splendid medicine."

Cardui is a mild, medicinal extract of herbs that are well known for their corrective influence in simple disorders, suffered by many women, when in need of a good reconstructive tonic.

Without Lowering Our Standards

WE realize that many people think that we are lowering our standards, but we are not. We believe that it is better to have the plainest of things, if they are made in a proper way, than to have the finest of things, if they are made in a haphazard way.

During the past few months, we have been receiving many orders for our "PYCOPE" shoes. These shoes are made of the finest materials and are made in a proper way. We believe that it is better to have the plainest of shoes, if they are made in a proper way, than to have the finest of shoes, if they are made in a haphazard way.

ROMANTIC LEGACY SMOOTHIES BRIDES JOURNEY TO ALTAR

BATON ROUGE, La., June 22 (AP)—A fund established 107 years ago has just furnished $2,000 for dowries of 11 West Baton Rouge parish brides.

Romantic Julien Poydras once loved a girl of the parish, but was unable to marry because neither he nor the girl had riches. When he became wealthy he set aside $20,000 as a perpetual fund for benefit of dowryless brides so that Cupid might never again be frustrated in the parish for want of a "suiting up" fund.

The foundation has grown to $33,000. This year $2,000 in interest was divided among 11 girls. Each bride's share is determined by number of applicants and the interest the young women might have in their parents' estates.
