TRAIL DUST
By DOUGLAS MEADOR

The fluency of truth retains its sublime dignity amid the thunder of derision, and like the mountain peak, glows serenely after the storm.

Time is a limited which roars through our lives so fast we are unable to enjoy the scenery except when childhood looks through our eyes.

Fresh, flowing water tumbles through the concrete flume day and night but death has marked the small grapevine for harvest. Life is only a few inches away but the roots can never pierce the stone barrier. Men perish and their works decay because the roots which feed their impoverished souls can never find the living waters of love.

Slivers from shattered youthful dreams grind beneath my worn sandals and weariness has come to the heart that once rejoiced at the adventure of life. The termites of necessity have eaten away the ladder from which I planned to touch the stars.

Melancholy decay awaits the old saddle tree discarded among the mesquites. A few pieces of hard, curled leather clings to the bleached wood and rusty metal horn, like a dead falcon's claws, and pieces of brittle leather strings hold a battered concho. Plows have turned the soil of a thousand trails where cowboys rode and dreamed their conquests of destinies; the rain and sleet and freezing winds — the loneliness men know. The clattering hoofs are silenced and the scent of sweat is gone. Horses and cowboys, the rainswept camps and bellowing herds have returned to the earth; to peace. The old saddle is the final period in the history.

With its wick in the oil of freedom, religion has brought light to the world's long caravan of lives, each carrying an individual torch to the portals of eternity. (Tribune Files, August, 1954)

E. Rippetoe Rites Held

Funeral services for Mrs. Emma Eskridge Rippetoe, 95, were held at 2:30 p.m. Wednesday, Sept. 4 at the First Baptist Church, with Rev. Leonard Sims, pastor, officiating.

Stocker-Feeder Auction

The Floydada Livestock Auction Sales will feature a big sale of stocker and feeder cattle Thursday (today). The sale begins at 11 a.m. and there will be a free barbecue lunch.

John McCandless reports that over 300 head of young cows and lots of yearlings have been consigned for auction. The auction is timed for the farmer or rancher who has good fall grass and wheat coming on following the recent rainfall.

PLEASE DON'T PICK THE FLOWERS — A new attraction on the streets of Matador is a flower box on the corner in front of the Matador Variety. This is a project of the Matador Garden Club and they hope to add more flower boxes at various locations to add color and beauty to Matador. The box is made of fire tile such as is used in fire places. The decal on the front with the name Matador is the brand of the famous Matador Ranch. Being cautioned not to pick the flowers are Craig Turner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dean Turner and Brenda Renfro, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Renfro. (Staff Photo)

Burial was in East Mound Cemetery, with Seigler Funeral Home in charge of arrangements.

Mrs. Rippetoe passed away early Monday, Sept. 2, at Methodist Hospital, Lubbock, following an illness of several weeks.

She was born August 26, 1878, in Arkansas and moved to Matador in 1941. She made her home here until ill health forced her to make her home with a daughter for the past two years.

She was preceded in death by her husband, R. H. Eskridge, who died in 1949. She was later married to Lee Rippetoe, who also preceded her in death. Three children, Raymond, Charlie and Lillian Eskridge also preceded her in death.

Her survivors include two daughters, Mrs. Slim Felts (Lula) of Paducah and Mrs. Lessie Roberts of Littlefield; 11 grandchildren, and several nieces and nephews.

Palbearers were R. C. Giesecke, Bill McCaghen, C. M. Barton Jr., Oscar Stokes, Billy Wason and J. E. Edwards.

LIONS MEET

It was principally business for the Matador Lions Club at regular luncheon-meeting Tuesday in the United Church basement.

Boss Lion Joe Smith announced that a committee had been appointed to check with the Homecoming Association and offer to assist with activities for that event.

He also announced that another country and western "Jamboree" featuring local talent had been scheduled for Saturday, Sept. 21, at 8:00 p.m. He asked that any local or area person wishing to participate on this jamboree, contact Pat Seigler at least one week in advance, so that a program can be arranged.

A guest at the luncheon was O. B. Davis, a representative of the Al G. Clark and Son Circus from Dallas. Mr. Davis asked the Lions Club to sponsor the Clark and Son circus to be presented in Matador on Tuesday, October 15. He explained the different acts of the circus and the different type of animals that the circus had. After some discussion concerning the proposal, the board of directors voted to sponsor the circus.

Tentative site will be the lots on the northeast corner of the courthouse square in Matador.

Making Saddles Beats Riding One

Following article is from Monday's Lubbock Avalanche-Journal featuring Carl Darr and his saddle shop in Paducah. Following Houston Schweitzer's death in 1936, Mr. Darr bought the Schweitzer Saddle Shop here and operated it for four years, with Q. Canon as manager. Due to Mr. Canon's health, he resigned the indoors work, and Mr. Darr ran the business for a time, then closed it in 1960 to return to his business in Paducah.

By Gerry Burton
Avalanche-Journal Staff
SADDLES have been a way of life for Carl Darr.

He climbed into one almost as soon as he could walk, sat one as a cowboy for almost three decades and then turned saddlemaker for others.

His first money from saddles came at the age of 11 right after Oklahoma became a state. He helped drive 24 carloads of steers to the railroad.

He was four the year the family moved to Oklahoma. His father and the man who was to become Darr's father-in-law went to Indian Territory together — hiring railroad immigrant cars for livestock and household goods while the families rode passenger.

Back in Texas, his father raised cotton and Darr started looking for his life work.

"I raised dry weather cotton, cowboied a little, pipelined and was a yard clerk for the Santa Fe when an uncle thought he'd get me off a horse," Darr said. Darr rode for several brands before going with the 6666 Ranch in 1931, staying with it until he bought the saddle shop in 1944.

At "the Sixes" he broke a lot of horses, riding as many as 19 a day.

"We rode 67 head of horses five weeks and then took them out to the wagon and put them to work," he explained. That was back when "they were still pulling the wagon out" at roundup.

Like other working cowboys he had five to nine grass horses to ride and care for. "I got bucked off many a time," he said, adding that only recently did he discover the sore shoulders he had now and then were broken collar bones.

Darr was making bull whips and chaps without tools when the chance came to buy the Price saddle shop. W. E. Price had started in Graham in 1880, gone to Oklahoma for a while and settled in Paducah in 1920.

Darr got the batch of equipment except for "a few pet tools Price gave his nephews."

Saddle business boomed with the close of World War II, so Darr set about learning to make them.

He soon had some pet tools of his own, cutting metal and grinding it to the desired shape. Handles, most times, are bits of antlers cut to fit.

Over the years he has turned out 1,500 saddles, many of them going to celebrities.

"At one time I had 20 saddles on Arthur Godfrey's ranch in Virginia," he said, recalling how he went to Virginia once to help Godfrey "throw a real western rodeo."

He turns out a saddle a week now. It takes eight days, 80 hours of work to create a Darr saddle. Each is a distinct creation with "free hand drawing that is hand-tooled."

He has a regular helper and, when things get busy, can double the output.

Normally, a steady pace, with time to talk to oldtimers dropping in, a saddle a week is plenty.

Making a saddle a week beats riding one from before to after dark.

"I was too old to work when I bought it anyway," Darr grins.

MAKING HIS MARK — Carl Darr of Paducah, cowboy turned saddlemaker, stamps his brand into a saddle nearing completion. Darr, one of the last independent saddlemakers, turns out one hand-tooled saddle a week.

ATTEND CHURCH SUNDAY

STUDIES ABOUT THE BIBLE

At the date zero (where A.D. and B.C. meet), Satan was in complete command of the lives of the world population. Let Paul describe the situation.

For the wrath of God is revealed from heaven against all ungodliness and unrighteousness of men, who suppress the truth in unrighteousness, because that which is known about God is evident within them; for God made it evident to them. For since the creation of the world His invisible attributes, His eternal power and divine nature, have been clearly seen, being understood through what has been made, so that they are without excuse. For even though they knew God, they did not honor Him as God, or give thanks; but they became futile in their speculations, and their foolish heart was darkened. Professing to be wise, they became fools, and exchanged the glory of the incorruptible God for an image in the form of corruptible man and of birds and four-footed animals and crawling creatures.

Therefore God gave them over in the lusts of their hearts to impurity, that their bodies might be dishonored among them. For they exchanged the truth of God for a lie, and worshiped and served the creature rather than the Creator, who is blessed forever. Amen.

Ro. 1:18-25.

Man lowered himself to such sinful ways that became "worthy of destruction." Men changed God's TRUTH. When truth is changed, it is no longer truth. When a nation believes that human beings are no more than animals, the people begin to worship animals, and the people began to act like animals.

Cartwrights Observe Golden Anniversary

PADUCAH - Honored with a reception Sunday afternoon, Aug. 25, in the home of a son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Billy Smith, to mark the 50th anniversary of their wedding, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Cartwright recalled they were married on Aug. 23, 1924 in Matador while seated in a Model T Ford parked before the home of an oldtime preacher, the Rev. Charlie Pipkin. Mrs. Pipkin and son Bill were witnesses.

Hosts for the observance were the honorees' four children and their families, Mr. and Mrs. William Wood (Juanita) of El Paso, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Welch (Winona) of Cohoma, Mr. and Mrs. Smith (Ann) and Mr. and Mrs. Billy Lane Cartwright, also of Paducah.

The former Annie Cooper was born near Little Rock, Ark. on Aug. 24, 1907 and moved with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Cooper, to Matador at the age of 6.

Born May 4, 1901 in Duncan, Okla., Cartwright, the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Cartwright, came to Motley County in 1913. In 1943, he and family moved to Cottle County when he accepted employment with Swenson Land and Cattle Co. The Cartwrights were at the SMS East Camp for 16 years before he became the assistant manager at headquarters for two years.

He and his wife have lived in Paducah since his retirement in 1962 from the cowboy work Cartwright had known most of his life. He punched cattle on the Matador Ranch, 6666 in Panhandle and on New Mexico ranches before his marriage.

Granddaughters and grandsons assisted with the reception. Misses Sheri Welch and Sheila Cartwright secured names of guests for the golden wedding book at a table with a gold cloth, white pen set and a standing gold "50" within a gold wreath.

Presiding at the refreshment table covered with white lace over gold were Roylyn Welch and Mrs. Rhonda Gale of El Paso. Centerpiece was an arrangement of gold chrysanthemums, daisies and baby's breath. Appointments were in milk glass and goldware.

The four-tiered white cake was decorated with white and gold roses and leaves of gold, topped with a white rose in nest of gold metallic white net, and white doves bearing gold rings tied with white ribbons. A gold numeral 50 was encircled by white pearls.

Gift tables were laid with gold net caught up with white bows over white. Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Smith of Lubbock, Mr. and Mrs. Randy Welch of Cohoma, Rudy Bill Smith and Bill Cartwright Jr. assisted in gift display.

Mrs. Doyle Parnell and Mrs. Don Clark were members of the house party.

The children's traditional gift to their parents were gold wedding bands and gold engraved watches; her a pendant style and his a pocket watch.

A focal point was the money tree whose leaves were currency of varying denominations tied with gold ribbons to its white-sprayed branches.

JOINING the Cartwrights in the celebration were her three brothers and sisters and spouses, Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Cooper, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Cooper, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Cooper and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Campbell, all of Matador; also his sisters and their husbands, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence V. Jinkins of Matador and Mr. and Mrs. Mose Dameron of Pampa.

FREEMAN THACKER

WE DO NOT WANT TO SELL

But the Matador Tribune and The Tribune Publishing Building are FOR SALE

We do not want to sell the Matador Tribune. This is the first time it has been advertised.

We will consider any buyer who has sufficient funds or financial backing. WE WOULD PREFER people who have been born or raised in Motley County (at least one, if a couple), or someone with a Motley County family background. We want the new owner or owners to be dedicated to Motley County and its future.

The Tribune is solvent (barely). There is no indebtedness on the Tribune building.

We have operated the Tribune Publishing Company as a man and wife partnership for over 40 years. It has paid its entire way and provided us with a livelihood. We have not gotten rich, but we have enjoyed the work until age has crowded us out of the traces.

The Tribune will pay for itself in six or seven years out of the circulation alone. In addition, there is equipment for commercial printing, our office supplies department and the sale of books, which bring some profit.

The Tribune is completely offset and letterpress equipped. We have it printed at Floydada and advise any future owner to continue to do so.

If a new owner should be a letterpress printer and wants to operate in that manner, all the equipment is here. It is of course obsolete, but we are not trying to sell it, despite the fact that it cost over $40,000.

We want to assure our subscribers, new or old, that the present owners will guarantee a continuance of your subscription in any circumstance.

The Tribune has many attractions, but the greatest is living among and serving the finest people in the world.

This is not an auction. The Tribune is for a bonafide sale, not unlike a farm or ranch. It will take money, like a farm or ranch deal. It will take hard work and a dedication.

If you are interested, write for an appointment some week .end.
