Local Youth Suffocated In Accident

Tragedy struck a local family Thursday night for the second time in about three months when sixteen year old Randy Armstrong was suffocated in an accident. Approximately three months ago, the Armstrong home was destroyed by fire after an explosion in a heater destroyed the Armstrong's mobile home along with an adjacent mobile home in the West Camp community.

Officers and ambulance personnel were notified about the Thursday night accident around 9:15 p.m., which occurred on the Jim Crawford farm west of Muleshoe. They determined that Randy had apparently fallen into a pile of harvested corn and his head was partially covered by the corn before he was discovered. His death was ruled an accident by Justice of the Peace Ken Martin who was summoned to the scene before his body was removed.

Randy Armstrong was born March 17, 1960 at Clovis N.M. and was a lifetime resident of Bailey County. He resided with his parents and family in the West Camp area. He was a student at the Texas School for the Blind and attended the Assembly of God Church.

Funeral services were conducted at 4 p.m. Saturday in the Assembly of God Church in Muleshoe with Rev. H.D. Hunter, pastor, assisted by Rev. Russell of Fort Worth, officiating. Interment was in Bailey County Memorial Park under direction of Singleton-Ellis Funeral Home.

Kiwanis Host Guest Speakers For Meeting

During their regular meeting Friday, the Muleshoe Kiwanis Club presented a special program to honor National Newspaper Week.

Guest speaker for the meeting was Cleta Williams of Muleshoe Publishing Co., publishers of the Muleshoe Journal and Bailey County Journal.

She spoke on "What It Takes To Have A Newspaper." Mrs. Williams discussed the role played by various individuals in a community and how communities, especially small communities, are served by a local newspaper.

SOLOIST LOSES SHIRT TAIL... Following a successful solo flight Thursday morning, Prentice Griffiths, 25, loses his shirt tail to Don Locker at Muleshoe Airport. Locker was instructor for Griffiths during the past four weeks. Griffiths said he had not expected to solo that morning, but Locker told him he was "getting out" and he would have to take the flight. Then Griffiths, who had worked all night before his solo, went home to get some sleep.

'Cats Skin Mules In District Action

Muleshoe's Mules took an early lead in the Mules-Wildcat football game at Littlefield Friday night, and although they stretched the lead to 13-0 at midpoint of the second quarter, two touchdowns, and two point conversions had the Mules trailing by one point at the half. During the second half of the game, the Wildcats held the Mules scoreless while adding an additional 21 points to the score.

Jeep Shanks slammed over from the six yard line with almost eight minutes left in the first quarter to start scoring for the Friday night action at Littlefield. Tony Vela failed on an extra point try.

The Mules first touchdown capped nine plays which began when the Mules took the initial kickoff.

Mule defense held the Wildcats scoreless as they added an additional seven points to the scoreboard at mid-point of the second quarter. Dean Northcutt fought his way through the Wildcats and added six more points when he made a five yard touchdown play. Tony Vela added another point to make it a 13-0 game.

Then a combination of Rudy Ayala, Littlefield's outstanding quarterback and surehanded end Ralph Mendez proved to be the start of the Mules undoing. Mendez went in easily from the 18 yard line after latching onto a pass from Ayala and then booted in the extra point. A few plays later, a bad snap on a punt led to the 'Cats recovering on the Mule's 18 yard line and Ayala to Mendez again added points from the 16 yard line. Mendez added an additional point to lead the Mules by a narrow score of 14-13 going into halftime.

During the second half, the Mules were held scoreless while tailback Jet West added six points when he slammed over from the one yard line; Rudolph Smith scored twice, both on long runs. He broke loose early in the fourth and scampered 37 yards and late in the fourth he added Littlefield's final point from the 35 yard line.

McGuire and Royce Harris will be new directors.

Tuesday, January 25 was designated at the Chamber of Commerce Annual banquet with the theme "Country-Western" in keeping with the agricultural area. Bob Murphy, a lawyer-rancher and well known humorist, has been signed as guest speaker. Murphy, who lives at Nacogdoches, combines southern humor and "down-home" speeches which have been heard nationwide.

Entertainment for the banquet will be a western group from Lubbock according to an announcement made at the meeting.

Reports were heard on the recent teacher appreciation breakfast, and it was noted that an outstanding group of nearly 70 people attended the breakfast. On December 2, the Citizen of the Year will be specially honored during a breakfast.

Nominations were made for the Citizen of the Year from Muleshoe during the board meeting.

A report was given on the proposed agriculture and civic center for Muleshoe, with an update given on plans as presented by an architect during the past week. However, it was emphasized that nothing is finalized to date. Other meetings.

Rotary Plans Guest Speaker For Thursday

Muleshoe Rotary will host a special guest speaker for their noon meeting on Thursday, October 21, as Major Joseph E. Hickox of Reese AFB, Lubbock, will be sponsored by Jess Winn.

Winn said Major Hickox is assigned to the 64th Flying Training Wing as the Chief of Standardization/Evaluation Division under the Deputy Commander for Operations. He is responsible for evaluating the ability and proficiency of both the instructor pilots and the quality of the flying program at Reese.

On May 8, Major Hickox was honored by the Lubbock Chapter of the Air Force Association as its "Officer of the Year" for 1975-76. During 1975, Major Hickox made 62 public speaking appearances on behalf of the Reese AFB community relations/speakers bureau programs. In addition, he appeared on two 30-minute radio and two 30-minute television specials during that time and was consulted by both national congressman and state legislators from a number of states.

In his speaking engagements, Major Hickox draws upon his experience as an Assistant Air Attache at the U.S. Embassy in Moscow to contrast the dreary, restricted life of the average Soviet citizen with the freedoms in the United States. He also describes the Soviet military buildup and emphasizes the need to maintain American military superiority.

Winn has asked that all Rotarians be sure to attend the meeting and welcome the special speaker.

Mahon Reception Slated Wednesday

George Mahon, chairman of the Committee on Appropriations in the House of Representatives and senior member of Congress in years of service, will be honored in Muleshoe at a reception.

Reception committee members and Don Williams, coordinator for Mahon's campaign in Bailey County said the reception will be at 4 p.m. Wednesday, October 20, in the Muleshoe State Bank community room.

Williams said the reception will also recognize the Congressman's Guardian of Small Business Award which was presented him recently by the National Federation of Independent Business.

"Mr. Mahon has extended an invitation to all his friends and supporters to come out Wednesday to renew old acquaintances or establish new ones," said Williams. "And to discuss the issues facing the area and the nation."

The campaign manager said Mahon's stand on "Energy" is to consistently work and vote to improve the incentives for oil and gas exploration and to decrease the nation's dependence on foreign energy supplies.

In speaking of Food Stamps and Welfare, Mahon said he believed that all these programs are out of control and that abuses must be eliminated. He further added that he is working toward that end and feels that only those truly in need who are not able to work or who cannot find work should receive these benefits. He emphasized that he does not believe that strikers should receive food stamps.

Williams said that Mahon's stand on agriculture has been one of the foremost in support of the farmer and rancher since he went to Congress. He said his presence in Congress has resulted in farm legislation and funding that has been vital to the agricultural interests in West Texas.

Other issues may be discussed with Mahon at the reception.

Swine Flu Not Found Locally

In view of a recent bout with 'normal' cool weather illnesses and respiratory ailments, Dr. Gary Albertson, Bailey County Health Officer, said there have been no cases of diagnosed swine flu in this county.

He discounted a report of a case of swine flu in Muleshoe approximately three months ago and said there has been none in this county as of Friday afternoon.

There presently is a virus which induces vomiting and diarrhea, but is the only reported illness of any consequence at this time.

Direct Distance Dialing Slated October 27

In keeping with promises made during the past five or six months, General Telephone workers will throw the switches to institute Direct Distance Dialing for Muleshoe on Wednesday, October 27.

On that morning, at 6 a.m., the switches will be thrown, switching Muleshoe, Amherst, Earth and Springlake into the DDD system. Last week, several area cities joined the DDD system and scheduled for Wednesday, October 20 are residents of Anton, Whitharral, Spade, Sudan and Olton.

"This new telephone convenience, sometimes called Direct Distance Dialing or DDD, is an improved long distance service which offers station-to-station calling," Bryan Galloway, Customer Service Manager in Littlefield, explains. "General Telephone customers will discover the many advantages of 1 plus dialing, such as considerable savings, and faster and more convenient service."

"To use the service, calls are made by dialing 1 plus the area code (if different from your own) plus the 7 digit directory number. The telephone equipment automatically routes, times and bills your call, saving time and insuring accuracy," he added.

"Complete instructions and information on other benefits of 1 plus dialing are being mailed to each customer," Galloway advises. He suggests reading closely the 1 plus dialing steps to receive the benefits of this service.

Hurt Youth Transferred

Ben Harmon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Harmon, was transferred to Methodist Hospital in Lubbock for treatment of a broken leg received in an accident Friday afternoon.

He was a passenger in a pickup driven by Darrell Chancey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Red Chancey. Chancey apparently lost control of the pickup on a dirt road about four miles northeast of Muleshoe and it overturned in a ditch after leaving the roadway. He was uninjured in the accident.

Championship Golf Playoff Underway

The championship match in the women's division of the City Tournament was played Tuesday. Anafita Haley and Pearl Gunstream teed off shortly after noon.

Assistant Golf Pro Jeff Smith said the match followed a pattern of a thrilling movie as both golfers held the lead at one time during the match and the outcome couldn't be detected until the last hole and after the last hole they were all even. Gunstream held a 2-up lead after nine holes and Haley drew even with some pressure shots on the final three holes.

The playoff took one hole with Mrs. Haley coming out on top. The new city champion established herself as a clutch player as two of her three matches required sudden death playoffs. The runner-up displayed outstanding sportsmanship, added Smith, as the close of the match approached and commented, "It was a good match."

First flight determined a championship as Cookie Bamert and Joan Lowry teed off. This was also a very good match. Lowry sank several clutch putts and proved to be a fine competitor and won the match 3 and 2.

Her proud husband, John, watched the match from the group playing right behind the champion as his wife won her first title ever. She has been playing part time for the past three years. Smith commented that it is questionable as to whether or not there was a happier couple in Muleshoe Tuesday night as the new champion and her husband celebrated her victory.

Mrs. Lowry commented, "I can't believe I won. I played in the tournament for the fun and never expected to win. I've never won anything before."

In the men's competition, Derrell Oliver defeated Stan Wilson 3 and 2; Curtis Walker defeated J.W. Coppedge 3 and 2, setting up a showdown for the First Cont. on Page 2, Col. 8

C of C Executive Director Tommy Black reported on the Texas Employment office. He reported that TEC was informed they would have to vacate their present location by November 1. Black and TEC Manager Lonnie Merriott found a building which would be suitable in both price and size on West Avenue B which was leased for the TEC. The Chamber board reaffirmed their support of keeping TEC offices in Muleshoe and to continue financial aid for rent and utilities for the office. Another Sewing Factory may be in Muleshoe's future, with tentative plans under way at this time, said Black. A building is under discussion for location of the factory and a possible location has been found.

Reports were given on the beginning construction of the Sonic Drive In, which will be located on West American Blvd., and the probability of a Pizza Inn to be constructed in Muleshoe.

Reorganization of the Muleshoe Chamber of Commerce Industrial Commission was discussed with meetings to be held in the near future for the reorganization.

Muleshoe's annual Christmas parade will be Saturday, December 5 at 2 p. m., and plans are underway for the parade.

Black also reported on the recent Small Business Administration Seminar, the water bond amendments of the year and the general election and surveys being conducted in Muleshoe at this time.

A brief report was given on the audit committee meeting to be the second week in November; the farm family of the year and the upcoming George Mahon reception.

Also discussed by the group was the proposed 'peddler' ordinance for the city and county.

Q and A On Swine Flu

Q. What is the significance of the swine flu virus?

A. The virus which causes influenza in man is constantly changing. Most of these changes are minor. Once every 10 years or so the change is more dramatic, and this is when we have extensive outbreaks such as the pandemic of Asian flu of 1957 and the Hong Kong flu of 1968. The newly identified swine-like virus represents a major change from viruses which are currently circulating in the human population. Since it has the capacity to spread from person-to-person, it could develop into a pandemic strain and cause extensive illness and death.

Q. When was it first identified?

A. In February 1976, a new strain of human influenza virus, designated A/New Jersey/1976 (HswNI), was isolated during an outbreak of respiratory disease among recruits in training at Ft. Dix, N.J. Although an influenza virus of swine has been known as the cause of illness in swine for many years, the Ft. Dix outbreak is the first known example in the United States since about 1930 of person-to-person transmission of a human influenza virus related to that of swine. The influenza virus of swine is relatively stable as opposed to the changing virus which causes flu in people. (There is little difference in the virus which caused flu in swine in the early 1930's from that of today.)

Q. What relationship does this swine-like virus have to the 1918 influenza pandemic?

A. Influenza viruses were first isolated from man in the early 1930's. We can only speculate about the characteristics of the viruses prevalent before that time. Testing of blood of individuals who were living in 1918 shows almost all have antibodies to swine-like virus. This suggests that a virus of this sort may have caused the 1918 pandemic. Such antibodies are also found in many persons over the age of 50, suggesting that a swine-like virus was widespread in human populations, perhaps up to 1930. There is, however, no evidence to indicate that the virus recently identified at Ft. Dix has the same characteristics of virulence as the 1918 virus.

Q. How was the 1918 influenza pandemic different from other influenza pandemics?

A. It was unique because of its high mortality, and the fact that so many of the fatalities occurred among apparently healthy young men and women. It is estimated that the 1918-19 pandemic resulted in a world-wide health toll of more than 20 million, with half a million of the fatalities in this country. By comparison the Asian flu of 1957 - the most severe influenza pandemic since - caused an estimated 70,000 deaths, primarily among the elderly or individuals with chronic illness.

Q. What has been found in the investigation of the extent of human influenza caused by the swine-like virus?

A. It has been demonstrated that the initial outbreak of swine influenza at Ft. Dix was fairly extensive. Although only 12 cases have been confirmed, extensive blood testing has indicated that several hundred recruits were probably infected during this outbreak. No spread to the nearby civilian New Jersey population has been demonstrated. Hundreds of blood samples of individuals from various sections of the country have been tested. As expected, approximately 80% of people over the age of 50 have swine-like virus antibodies in their blood. Some individuals below the age of 50 also have antibodies to swine virus. However, no additional instances of person-to-person transmission within a community have been demonstrated. In one family, blood tests suggested that person-to-person spread had occurred within that family, but not in the community. On the basis of limited investigation thus far, it would appear that the influenza caused by the swine-like virus is no more virulent than that caused by recently circulating strains of influenza.

Q. Is there a treatment for swine influenza?

A. As with other strains of influenza, there is no specific treatment. Science has, however given us the ability to significantly blunt the impact of this disease. Vaccines - not available in 1918 - are now an effective way to prevent the disease. Antibiotics, also unavailable in 1918, are important in treating the complications of influenza and thus reducing fatalities.

Q. How effective would a vaccine be against influenza caused by the swine-like virus?

A. Flu vaccines in the past have been variably effective, depending primarily on how closely they match the strain of influenza. Significant progress has been made in recent years. Today's vaccines are more potent, purer, and produce a higher degree of protection with fewer reactions. It is generally believed that effectiveness ranges somewhere between 70-90%. When a distinctive new strain comes along, scientists are generally able to better match a vaccine to the new strain, and it is likely that a high degree of effectiveness could be achieved in a vaccine against the swine-like virus.

Q. How would you go about immunizing more than 200 million Americans?

A. The goal would be to immunize the population in a three-month period - September through November 1976. The nation has never attempted an immunization program of such scope and intensity. It would require a major effort by both the public and private sectors. Essentially, the plan would rely on the Federal government for its purchasing power, technical leadership, and coordination through the Center for Disease Control; on State health agencies for their experience in conducting systematic immunization programs; and on the private health care sector for its extensive medical and other health-related resources. The strategy would be to tailor the approach to the opportunity and need - using mass immunization techniques where appropriate, but also using delivery points already in place, such as physicians' offices, health department clinics, and community health centers.

Q. What is influenza?

A. Influenza is a respiratory disease caused by a virus. There are two main types of influenza virus - A and B. Each type includes various strains. Type A epidemics are generally more frequent and severe. From time to time, new virus strains develop. When this happens and if the strains are quite different from previous ones, they may cause epidemics because people have not had any previous exposure to them and consequently have not built up any specific immunity against them.

Mexicans Still Hold On To Their Dollars

Currency flows across the border earlier this year showed many Mexican expected devaluation of the peso. And now, with devaluation a fact, the flow has slowed to a trickle.

The lack of much return flow of dollars could indicate concern that economic developments might force either further realignment of exchange rates between the dollar and the peso or the imposition of controls on the movement of goods and monie between the United States and Mexico.

For the months before the peso was cut loose from the dollar on September 1, South Texas bankers had been responding to Mexican demands for American dollars, furnishing big bills in exchange for pesos. The pesos were then promptly presented to the Bank of Mexico in exchange for dollars.

The Federal Reserve Bank of Dallas, operating through its El Paso and San Antonio branches, provided large amounts of dollars to the Bank of Mexico and South Texas banks. All told, hundreds of millions were involved in transfers of pesos to dollars.

Some observers believe movements of Mexican money in the Southwest made up only the tip of the iceberg. According to this view, most of the shift into dollars was made through deposit transfers and most of the transfers were made in European accounts.

The first surge in Mexican demand for dollars came just before Easter. This has happened every year since 1954.

It was over the Easter bank holiday in 1954 that Mexico had last devalued its currency, setting the official value of the peso at 12.5 to the dollar. That was a devaluation from 8 pesos to the dollar.

After Easter, dollars had always flowed quickly back into the United States. But this time, the dollars did not come home. Apparently, there was apparently great concern that the peso would soon have to be devalued.

By late summer, demand for dollars was up even more in Mexico. As another bank holiday approached, currency was converted into dollar denominations all along the border.

On September 1 every year, the President of Mexico delivers an address roughly comparable to the President's State of the Union address in this country.

And in Mexico, the banks close. After three years of rapid inflation that had brought severe unemployment and a sharp outflow of capital, Mexico was no longer in a position to maintain the value of its money relative to the dollar.

For 22 years, that country had kept the value of its peso pegged to the American dollar. Now, it had to cut its currency loose to float in world exchange, letting it find its own level.

With wholesale prices in Mexico averaging a third higher than in the United States, an exchange rate of 16.5 pesos to the dollar might be needed to reestablish parity with the purchasing power of the dollar. But with consumer prices more than half again higher than in the United States, an exchange rate of 19.6 pesos to the dollar might be closer.

Within days, the value of the peso fell nearly 40 percent, dropping from 8 cents U.S. to about 5 cents. That made an exchange rate of 19.8 to the dollar. At that point, where the exchange rate appears more or less in equilibrium, the Mexican government stepped in again. Backed by $1.2 billion in loans from the United States, it resumed stabilization of the peso. The exchange rate is being held within a 1 percent. When the value drops to 19.7 to the dollar, they will begin using dollars to buy pesos, driving the rate up.

Of funds borrowed from the United States to help see Mexico through its adjustment, $540 million was provided by the Federal Reserve and $720 million by the Treasury. Mexico will repay these short-term loans from a long-term loan being negotiated with the International Monetary Fund.

With the exchange value of the peso stabilized again, it would ordinarily be expected that those usually holding their liquid assets in pesos would convert their dollars back into Mexican currency. So far, however, there has been little return of dollars to the United States. Mexico may have to make more progress in reducing inflation and boosting production and exports before flight from the peso is finally ended.

When In Doubt Throw It Out

COLLEGE STATION -- Prevent foodborne illness--throw out food of "questionable" safety. Frances Reasonover, a foods and nutrition specialist, advises.

She is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

"Homemakers can be alert to possible spoiled foods by learning some signs of spoilage in canned vegetables, meats, fish and poultry."

--Swelled top of jar
--Swelled top and bottom of can

--Dents along side seams of cans
--Foam
--Milkyness of juice

--Leaks
--"Off" odor

"Some spoilage, however does not have an 'off' odor. Home-canned food should be cooked for 10-20 minutes for added safety. Do not taste before cooking. Pork spoils first at the meeting point of bone and flesh in the inner portions. To test for spoiled pork, use a pointed knife to reach the interior of the meat. An 'off' odor on the knife means spoilage," she reminded.

"Spoiled fish will have an 'off' odor. Gills will be gray or greenish and eyes sunken. The flesh will be easily pulled away from the bones and the fish will not be rigid, the specialist added.

"Pink color on the upper fins and near the tail of shrimp denotes spoilage, as does an 'off' odor similar to ammonia. Some types of shrimp are naturally pink. Cooked shrimp are pink, and both are wholesome if the odor is normal."

"Meat with an 'off' odor or slimy feel is spoiled. Beef usually spoils first on the sur-

Is there ever a convenient time to start saving your money?

At 25 years of age, you say you can't accumulate money because you're just getting started, and you're not making much money yet. At 35, you've got a growing family, and the children and home cost money. At 45, with children in college, it takes all you have to pay expenses. At 55, you hope that things will get better; that something "will break" and you'll be able to step into a higher paying job. At 65, well you find that Social Security doesn't go far, and you can't take advantage of the business opportunities you see.

It all comes down to "procrastination," putting off today what you should have started yesterday. It's sort of like dieting: I'll start after the weekend's over.

A "convenient" time will never come. Start saving for your future today - NOW! There never will be a better time.

4-H's List Tips For Animal Safety

CHICAGO -- Don't let your pet become an accident statistic!

Broken bones, puncture wounds and accidental poisonings occur with alarming frequency among household pets and farm animals. It's up to you, the owner, to guard against these accidents and injuries.

Here's an animal safety checklist prepared by young people in the national 4-H veterinary science program:

*Be certain pastures and yards are free of baling wire, nails and poisonous plants. Get rid of toxic houseplants.

*Store pesticides, cleaning compounds, sewing pins and knives where animals can't get to them.

*Check backyard and pasture fences for protruding nails, sharp edges and splinters. Are there concrete abutments that could cause stumbling or physical injury?

*Keep animal living quarters and bedding free of sharp edges, nails and wires.

Young animal lovers 9-9 learn to understand and appreciate all facets of veterinary science in 4-H projects and activities supervised by the Cooperative Extension Service.

Using manuals and color-slide sets produced with the assistance of The Upjohn Company, 4-H members study characteristics of the normal animal, symptoms and causes of animal disease, and the relationship between animal and human health.

4-H's develop practical skills by caring for their own animals, working in community clinics, even assisting the local veterinarian—who often serves as their 4-H project leader. And they investigate career opportunities in such areas as veterinary medicine, farm management and public health.

The 4-H veterinary science program has wide appeal to youngsters no matter where they live—on farms, in suburbs or cities. In the last five years, program enrollment has jumped 35 percent.

Upjohn recognizes outstanding accomplishment in the program with a full schedule of awards to 4-H members. Up to four young people per county are eligible for medals of honor, and one 4-H'er in each state receives a $50 U.S. Savings Bond.

Twenty-four sectional winners earn expense-paid trips to the 55th National 4-H Congress, Nov. 28-Dec. 2 in Chicago. And six 4-H'ers are named national winners of $800 scholarships.

Winners are selected by the Extension Service. Awards are arranged and announced by the National 4-H Service Committee.

County extension agents can provide more information on the 4-H veterinary science program.

Animal owners can help prevent accidents and injuries if they follow safety tips from young people in the national 4-H veterinary science program. Conducted by the Cooperative Extension Service and sponsored by The Upjohn Company, the program gives 4-H'ers practical opportunities to learn animal management, physiology and pathology, and to explore veterinary science careers.

Windmills May Help Solve Energy Problems of Future

AUSTIN—Windmills, a thing of the past, hold promise for the future, said Agriculture Commissioner John C. White.

Windmills are still in use today -- there are approximately 175,000 scattered throughout the U.S., with a good number of them in Texas.

But increasingly, scientists are looking to sophisticated counterparts of windmills as a source of alternative power to take the place of fossil fuels.

Many scientific agencies are turning to wind power research, with the federal government funding nearly 50 such projects. Scientists are now working to solve such problems as the high cost of installing equipment, energy storage, and energy conversion systems.

White notes that National Weather Service data indicates that many parts of Texas have a high wind energy potential.

In fact, one study will determine the feasibility of using wind power to pump irrigation water on the High Plains.

"Yet another relic of Texas' agricultural past has been salvaged," White commented. "It looks like windmills may make a valuable contribution toward solving a very real problem of the future."

New 'Consent Card' To Protect Patients

The next time you visit your doctor, or a public health clinic, to get a vaccination for yourself or your child, you may be asked to sign an "Informed Consent Card." This procedure is designed to protect you by making sure that you understand what is involved in a vaccination, according to Hal Nelson, legal consultant for the Texas Department of Health Resources.

greatly expanded. Nelson explains "It has always been necessary for some sort of consent to be given for any type of medical treatment or immunization. The consent quite often has been implied, however." For example, when a person goes to a physician and seeks treatment, the person's consent is implied by the fact that he sought the treatment. However, Nelson says that this line of legal reasoning doesn't necessarily apply in the case of a mass immunization program or a public health clinic, where a physician is not making an independent medical judgement on each individual recipient of the vaccine. Furthermore, Nelson says, a recent federal court case has spurred renewed concern over the matter of informed consent. The case, "Reyes versus Wyeth Laboratories," developed in Texas and involved vaccination against polio. When a child who had been vaccinated later came down with polio, the parents sued the manufacturer of the vaccine. Although the court agreed that the manufacturer had not been negligent in the sense of producing a harmful vaccine (the child evidently contracted the polio from some other source), nevertheless, the court felt that the parents had not fully understood the inherent risks and limitations of vaccination. "The key word here is 'informed,'" says Nelson. "The Court in the Wyeth case said that not only does a recipient, or his or her parent or guardian, have to consent to receiving the immunization, but they have to know what they're consenting to. They have to be informed as to various aspects of the vaccine itself, the possible side effects, something about the disease, special precautions, and special allergies, if any." Nelson emphasizes that informed consent is not an entirely new concept. He points out, "Your physician, your surgeon will not operate unless you give him consent to do so. It's a protection for both parties, actually. It's so that the patient knows fully, and appreciates fully, the treatment he is about to receive, and it's also for the protection of the physician or those persons working in the clinic." The informed consent concept, although it is not entirely new, became a major problem for both private physicians and public health authorities when the Supreme Court's decision was made in the Reyes case. Part of the problem was that, for the first time, the manufacturer of the vaccine was held responsible for seeing that the recipient had been properly informed; in the past, this was always considered the sole responsibility of the person or agency administering the vaccine. The vaccine manufacturers, understandably, have now taken the position that they will not release any vaccine until they have been assured that "informed consent" will be achieved. This stance on the part of the manufacturers has resulted in delays in the production and distribution of the new influenza vaccine, for the so-called "swine flu" campaign, and has caused shortages or delays in the delivery of polio vaccines in some parts of the country.

Gnus Edge Out Otters, 28-22

The Annual FTA Powder Puff football game was played Monday night, October 11, at the Benny Douglass stadium. FTA members kept the gates, worked in the concession stand, sold boutonniers and also refereed the game.

Dani Dunham kicked for the Otters to the Gnu who didn't return the kickoff. Tanya Burton started the Gnu's offense with a run around the right end. The Otters were penalized 15 yards for tackling. The second play was a reverse from Tanya Burton to Sheryl Stovall who scored on a long run. Shelly Dunham's attempt for extra points failed because of an illegal procedure penalty.

The Otters, again receiving the ball, ran a short play but were penalized. Treena Bass took the ball to begin the drive. Then Benetta Roming dashed around the right end for a 35-yard gain. The Gnu was penalized for tackling as the first quarter ended.

The gnus candidates for King were Linnie Davis escorted by Donita Dale, Tom Pepper escorted by Laura Beene, Curtis Carpenter escorted by Patti Poyner, Robert Brown escorted by Melissa Biggerstaff, and Tommy Marlow escorted by Shelly Dunham. Linnie Davis was crowned King for the Gnu.

begin the second half of the ball game. Lauri Burgess covered the kick for the Gnu. After several runs by Stovall, Burton, and Sandy Dunbar, the Gnu scored as Sheryl Stovall took the ball in for six more. Extra points were successful as Quarterback, Laura Beene "bootlegged" and "snuck" through the Otter defense.

per completed the Otter's scoring with a two point conversion. Sheryl Stovall returned the following kick-off several yards before the end of the third quarter. Nancy Ramm began the Gnu's drive with a short yardage gain but the Gnu were penalized 15 yards for a first down in Otter territory. Tanya Burton later dashed around the left end for the Gnu's final score. In their last possession of the game, the Otters were threatening for a touchdown, but a penalty stalled their drive as time ran out leaving the final score 28-22.

Mulette Maneuvers

The girl's basketball team will begin workouts after school this week. The Mullettes will work out twice a day until the season begins in mid-November.

The coaches received some good news last week as Susan Crittenden will begin to work out soon. Susan has been recovering from the knee surgery she had last spring. Last week the doctors gave Susan permission to start back in the basketball program. Sherry Washington is back at school after her knee surgery a couple of weeks ago. Sherry will be unable to compete for several months.

The Varsity Player of the week for October 4-8 was sophomore Treena Bass. Treena is the sixteen year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E.A. Bass, Jr. As a second year Mulette guard, she is also active in FTA. Treena commented, "This year we have more team spirit and ability than I've ever seen. I feel that if we keep working hard, we'll be at the top in our district. When you have the coaching we have, you can't help but be number one."

Brenda Dodd was chosen by the coaches as Freshman Player of the Week. Brenda is the fourteen year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Dodd. Art Club, FTA, track, and Student Council are the activities in which she is involved. Brenda stated, "Everybody is really trying hard this year, and I think with the ability and hustle we shown now, we'll go on to have a great season."

Freshman Football

The Mules Freshman Team defeated Dimmitt last week by a score of 16-0. The Mules thus gained some revenge from the only team that defeated them last year as eighth graders. The Mules were able to push across a score in the first half and a score in the second half in the cold damp weather. The Mules defense played an outstanding game allowing the Bobcats only one penetration. On this penetration, Terry Burton intercepted a pass to stop their drive. The Mules played littlefield Thursday here; and this week, we play Dimmitt again in Muleshoe. GOOD LUCK!

Also discussed was the District Convention to be held November 13 in Plainview. Monday, October 18, the FTA chapter will meet during third period to elect Mr. and Miss FTA and to choose people to run for a District office.

NOTE: All FTA members need to turn in their points to Mr. Moore, Tom Pepper, or Linnie Davis.

It doesn't take an expert to spend money faster than it can be made.

Mrs. John Gunter, Jr. presided over the meeting as the general chairman of the Supper. Mothers volunteered for different jobs and to be in charge of different committees. The Chili Supper will be held October 29 in the Muleshoe High School Cafeteria. The menu for the supper includes Chili, Beans, Crackers, Onions, Cole slaw, and Apple Cobbler, Iced Tea, and Coffee. If you are interested in purchasing tickets contact one of the Senior Class Members. Tickets are $2.25 per person.

HERO Cookout During October Tops Activity

The Hero organization will be sponsoring several events this year. At their last meeting, they discussed plans for wearing uniforms and picked out the pattern and material. They discussed their big event for the month of October, a cookout in Mr. Griffin's back yard.

The Hero members want to thank the parents who came out and helped with the Hero chicken supper in September.

FHA News

The FHA chapter has decided to have a booth at the carnival where they will sell raffle tickets for stuffed animals and also will sell caramel apples.

They regularly baby sit for PTA and Young Homemakers, and they recently assisted Xi Omicron Xi Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi with the Cystic Fibrosis Drive.

This is about the time of the year when active political workers begin to think about the possibility of getting good jobs if the candidate wins.

A gifted mind is one that easily discovers plausible excuses.

Any Senior mother who was unable to attend the meeting and would like to help with the Chili Supper, please contact Mrs. Gunter.

West Texas C of C 'For' Amendments

The West Texas Chamber of Commerce believes there is a need for additional water bonds, a matter which will be before the voters of Texas in the November 2 election, according to WTCC President Bill Collyns of Midland. Appearing on the ballot as State Constitutional Amendment No. 1, the proposal would, in part, authorize the issuance of an additional $400 million of Texas Water Development Bonds with certain projects approved by a two-thirds vote of the membership of the Texas House of Representatives and Senate.

"Water for the future long has been one of the major concerns of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce," Collyns said.

"Over a period of several years, the WTCC has developed a water program for West Texas, which includes developing all possible water storage sites, and in-site pipeline moving water from areas of surplus to areas of shortage. The WTCC feels that the availability of water bonds is crucial if we are to move ahead in these areas."

Collyns pointed out that the WTCC Water Program for West Texas has been endorsed by Governor Dolph Briscoe, and that the WTCC has an audio-slide presentation entitled, "West Texas' Water Needs for the Future," which outlines the water program and is available for use by groups or organizations at no charge.

Bob Scott of Fort Worth, chairman of the WTCC Water Development Committee, emphasized the future water needs of cities and towns, industry, energy, agriculture and recreation. "One out of every three Texans has been affected by the loans from previous water bond issues since the Water Development Fund was created in 1957," Scott said. "The WTCC Water Development Committee believes that the proceeds from the sale of additional bonds are necessary to satisfy water needs throughout the state. We're talking about future job and profit opportunities for everyone, which boils down to our quality of life and that of our children."

Loans from the sale of the bonds are made available to cities, river authorities, water districts and small communities. More information can be obtained from the Office of Information of the Texas Water Development Board in Austin.

Muleshoe Graduate In Play

Rehearsals begin this week for the Texas Tech University Theatre Production of "The Royal Hunt of the Sun." Bill Durham, freshman student from Muleshoe, has been named to the cast of the drama, which will be Texas Tech's entry in the American College Theatre Festival.

"The Royal Hunt of the Sun," a play by Peter Shaffer, is an account of the Spanish invasion of Peru in the fifteenth century. Durham will portray the character of Rodas, a tailor who reluctantly accompanies the Spaniards.

"The Royal Hunt of the Sun" will open November 19 at the University Theatre on the Texas Tech campus.

Bill Durham, a 1976 Muleshoe High School graduate, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C.W. Durham. He is a member of the United States Institute for Theatre Technology and is currently attending Texas Tech on a Texas Interscholastic League Foundation Scholarship.

Communicating In A Silent World

There is one major medical problem many people will never hear anything about—especially if they have it. Between 14 million and 18 million people in the U.S. have hearing problems in one or both ears.

Almost everyone knows someone with a hearing problem. Both people can make communication a lot easier by taking just a little extra trouble, the Texas Medical Association says. When talking to someone who is hard of hearing, it is important to face the person directly, and on the same level with him or her, whenever possible. Eating smoking, chewing gum and putting the hands near the face can make it more difficult to understand anyone. Background noise such as a radio or television also can blot out conversation for a person with a hearing problem. Perhaps one of the most overlooked facts is that many hard of hearing people hear and understand less when they are tired or ill. Another common error is failing to get the hard of hearing person's attention before speaking or speaking to the person from another room.

Some things hard of hearing people can do to help the flow of conversation are to get medical evaluation and use any hearing aids they have. Of course hearing problems often sneak up slowly on people and they may not realize they need medical evaluation. This is particularly true as one ages. About 30 percent of those 65 years of age and over have some kind of hearing problem.

The Society of Medical Audiology (audiology is the study of hearing) has made a list of signs that may indicate hearing problems. (There is a different check list for small children.)

--Do others accuse you of turning the TV too loud?
--Do others accuse you of not paying attention?

--Can you hear as well when you are not facing the speaker as when you are?

--Do you understand someone talking from another room?

--Do you become irritable trying to hear in the presence of background noise?

--Do you experience ringing, buzzing or humming in your ears?

--Do words seem clearer when spoken slowly than when spoken loudly?

--Do you seem to hear words but not understand them?

--Do you have a history of ear infections, earaches or draining ears?

--Is there a history of hearing loss in your family?

--Do you find yourself saying "what frequently?"

--Can you hear as well on the phone with one ear as with the other?

--Do you feel unusually tired or tense trying to follow group conversations, plays or lectures?

--Have you stopped attending plays and lectures because of the strain exerted to hear what is said?

--Have you experienced any dizziness or loss of balance you cannot relate to a specific cause?

--Do you miss the punchline of a joke or story?

Answering "yes" to several of these questions shows a need to see a doctor about a hearing problem. Prompt treatment can make life a lot easier.

Publicity is a dangerous habit; some people make fools of themselves over a little bit of it.

Sports aren't everything but they provide good competitive training for boys and girls.

SCIENCE and GOD

Not too long ago, a man determined from accounts in the bible that oil could be found in certain areas of bible lands . . . now this country is rich in oil wells.

In the past, vigorous arguments arose between some scientists and bible scholars, however with the passing of time, new discoveries in science have helped us to have a better understanding of God's word and now most scientists and bible scholars are in accord. God's word has not needed to be proved, for it will stand forever.

"For the earth shall be filled with the knowledge of the glory of the LORD, as the waters cover the sea." ATTEND CHURCH AND STUDY GOD'S WORD.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Senator Bentson Hails Reforms In Estate Tax

Senator Lloyd Bentson Tuesday said the increased estate tax exemption approved by Congress this year is one of the most significant tax reforms since the 1940's.

The new tax law includes provisions that will, in effect, gradually increase the estate tax exemption to more than $175,000 over the next five years, Bentson explained to reporters in Corsicana Tuesday.

"This is a welcome change and one I had fought for. The old $60,000 exemption, established back in World War II, was forcing the widows and children of farmers, ranchers and small businessmen in Texas to sell off their properties to pay the tax," the Senator said.

Bentson is a member of the Senate Finance Committee, which writes tax legislation. He had introduced legislation increasing the exemption to $200,000, an exemption approved by the committee and later by the full Senate.

The $175,000 exemption was a compromise between the Senate and the House of Representatives, which had initially approved no legislation changing the estate tax exemption. The compromise that was signed into law increases the exemption to $120,000 next year and boosts it more each year after that until $175,000 is reached in 1981.

"I would have preferred the full $200,000 exemption that we approved in the Senate, but the changes that were made are substantial. They represent one of the most significant tax reforms since the 1940's," Bentson said.

"Everything has gone up in the 34 years since the exemption was set, except for the exemption itself. Experts estimate that a farmer earning some $10,000 a year will leave an estate valued at $320,000. The $60,000 inheritance exemption for him meant that his widow and his sons and daughters had to sell off their land," Senator Bentson said.

The new tax law also includes a proposal by Bentson that bars artificially high land valuations that drive up the estate tax. It prohibits an existing practice by the Internal Revenue Service of assessing some farm land at its commercial value rather than its agricultural value for estate tax purposes.

DALLAS--Pecan products will be displayed in the branches of a smiling "pecan tree" in the Texas Pecan Board's State Fair exhibit October 8-24.

The exhibit will be housed in the Texas Department of Agriculture Food and Fiber Pavilion.

"Visitors to the exhibit can try to guess the number of pecans in a five-foot tall container," Agriculture Commissioner John C. White said. "Each day, the person whose guess is closest to being correct will win a bundt cake pan."

In addition, free recipes featuring Texas pecans will be available.

FARMERS

Joint-Venture Sunflower Production Contracts are being offered to Sunflower Producers on the High Plains by a European Firm thru a Joint-Venture agreement with John F. Herzer & Associates of Lubbock.

Cash price to the producers shall be determined on the date of delivery of seed by using the combined price of Sunflower Oil and Sunflower Meal in Rotterdam.

The producer is guaranteed a base price of $0.09 cents per pound which is correlated to a combined Ex-Tank Sun Oil and CIF Sun-Meal price of $747.00 per metric ton at Rotterdam. The Joint-Venture Contract offers the producer a $.50 per metric ton for each $1.00 fluctuation up or down above the $747.00 combined price of Sun Oil and Sun Meal.

This Joint-Venture Contract gives the High Plains Sunflower Producers who contract with John F. Herzer & Associates the assurance of a strong Local Market determined by the World Market demands for Sun Oil and Sun Meal based on the Rotterdam prices.

Producers interested in discussing Sunflower marketing through Joint-Venture Contracting or Direct Selling on an open market at harvest are asked to call 792-4418, or 747-0014, or 1-894-3598, JOHN F. HERZER & ASSOCIATES. "THE SUNFLOWER PEOPLE OF WEST TEXAS."
