Publication Editors Named For 1966-67

The Student Publications Committee Wednesday named David Snyder as editor of The Daily Toreador for 1966-67.

The committee also named Nancy Hedleston and Charlotte Shive co-editors of the 1967 La Ventana at the meeting.

Snyder, a sophomore accounting major and journalism minor from Denver City, was copy editor of the Toreador last year and is presently assistant managing editor. He is a member of Sigma Delta Chi, men's professional journalism society and Phi Eta Sigma, freshman men's honorary.

Miss Hedleston, a sophomore elementary education major from Big Spring, was editor of the Freshman View section of the La Ventana last year and is currently editor of Mademoiselle and associate editor of Sophomore View. She is a member of Delta Delta Delta social sorority.

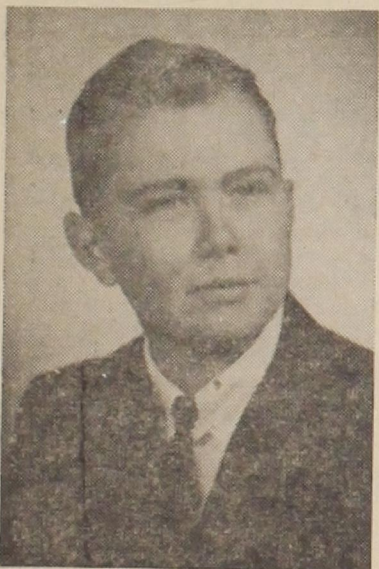

Miss Shive, a sophomore secondary education major from Big Spring, is editor of Future and Senior View. She is a member of Delta Gamma sorority.

Miss Shive and Miss Hedleston were co-editors of the Big Spring High School annual, "El Rodeo," in 1964.

Applications for next year's Toreador staff are due Friday at 4 p.m. The new staff will be announced next week.

La Ventana staff applications for six section editors and an art editor are due at 4 p.m. Monday. Next year's La Ventana staff will be announced in Tuesday's Toreador.

Applications for both staffs may be turned in to room 102 of the Journalism Building.

IFC Names Murray As New President

Representatives of 11 Tech fraternities Wednesday night named Alan Murray, chief justice of the IFC Court, as President for the Interfraternity Council during the 1966-67 school year.

Murray, representing Delta Tau Delta, replaces Larry Strickland as head of the fraternity governing body.

Gary Knust, Pi Kappa Alpha, will replace Bob Brandenburger as Vice President for the coming year.

John Strickland, Kappa Alpha Order, will assume the duties of Secretary, replacing John Skear-ton and Dennis Spradley, Alpha Tau Omega, succeeds Johnny Walker as Treasurer.

Allen Writes Letter

In other action, Larry Strickland read a letter from James G. Allen, dean of student life, interpreting the alcoholic beverage rule in the Code of Student Affairs to mean that drinking in addition to serving, as stated in the Code, was illegal.

The IFC Court earlier this semester found Sigma Alpha Epsilon innocent of a charge alleging infraction of this rule. The basis for the decision, the court said, was that the rule only forbade the serving of alcoholic beverages and not the drinking of them.

Murray reported that the court will have one more hearing in the Sigma Nu case before reading its decision next Wednesday night. Sigma Nu was charged with violating the alcoholic beverage rule.

Committee To Be Formed

President Strickland said that a committee would be set up next fall to "revive, rejuvenate and rewrite the Code of Student Affairs." He said the information was related to him by the President of the Student Association. Strickland said, "We will insist upon equal student-faculty representation on the committee."

A representative from the Lubbock Army and Navy recruiting stations gave brief explanations of their OCS programs and distributed literature to the representatives.

Women's Day Activities Set For Tuesday

Identity of Texas Tech's Woman and Faculty Woman of the Year will be announced during the 34th annual Women's Day Tuesday.

Tech coeds and female faculty and staff members traditionally wear white on Women's Day.

Mrs. Anna Chennault, widow of Lt. Gen. Claire Lee Chennault of the "Flying Tigers," will speak at the Women's Day Banquet at 6 p.m. Tuesday.

Mrs. Chennault, an author, journalist and lecturer, has spent much of her career working with Chinese Refugee Relief and Voice of America.

Mrs. Chennault is a native of China and a graduate of Ling Nan University. She became the first woman to serve as correspondent for China's largest news agency.

Women's Day activities, sponsored by the Association of Women Students, will include a luncheon in Gates Hall honoring Mrs. Chennault and open house in the Dean of Women's office from 1:30 to 4 p.m.

All Tech coeds and women faculty are invited to the open house.

Tech Groups Solicit Books

Residents of Texas Tech's Stangel and Murdough Hall (Men's Nos. 9 and 10) have joined with Lubbock sorority Beta Sigma Phi in a drive to collect paperback books for servicemen in Viet Nam.

Dormitory spokesmen said the book drive would be conducted today on the Tech campus.

Books may be deposited at the Student Union, Bookstore or either of the two dormitory offices.

Milburn "Doc" Stone and Ken "Festus" Curtis will wrangle their way into Municipal Coliseum tonight for the first of four performances they will give during the Tech Collegiate Rodeo.

The stars of the popular television western series "Gunsmoke" will put on a thirty minute show during each rodeo performance. They will be accompanied by the "Sons of the Pioneers," a western singing group.

Queen To Be Selected

The crowning of the 1966 Rodeo Queen will also highlight tonight's rodeo performance.

Queen finalists and their sponsors are Mary John Espy, Gordon Hall; Meg Garland, Alpha Tau Omega; Marianne Munz, Gaston Hall; Karan Robinson, West Hall; and D'Lynn McGinty, Agricultural Economics.

More than 250 top-ranked cowboys and cowgirls from 12 colleges and universities will compete in this year's rodeo.

Competing against the Tech rodeo team will be Midwestern University, Panhandle A&M, Oklahoma State, Cisco Junior College, Hardin Simmons, Sul Ross, Texas Western, West Texas State, Eastern New Mexico State, South Plains and New Mexico State.

Events Listed

Events include bull riding, bareback riding, saddle bronc riding, tie-down calf roping, ribbon roping and steer wrestling. There will also be wild mare racing for Tech fraternities.

Girls events include barrel racing and goat tying.

Grand entry time is 8 p.m. each night with a matinee set for 1:30 p.m. Saturday.

A special guest will be Miss Carolyn Seay of Corpus Christi, currently Miss Rodeo of America. She was selected by members of the Rodeo Cowboy's Association. Miss Seay will make several appearances in the show here.

Rodeo officials announced Wednesday that Bernie Howell will provide music for this year's show.

Techsans Win

Tech Rodeo teams won the South Plains Junior College Rodeo Championship last weekend.

Tech students Dale Johnson and Marianne Munz were named Champion All-Around Cowboy and Champion All-Around Cowgirl at the rodeo.

In bareback riding Dale Johnson placed second, and Garland Weeks and Eddie Puckett split fourth through sixth places.

In bull riding Johnson placed third and Puckett split fourth through sixth places.

Richard Snyder took second in calf-roping and Jarrell Russell was second in ribbon roping. Johnson was first in saddle bronc riding and Bob Young was first in bulldogging. Craig Haythorn placed second in calf roping and Johnson was third.

Senatorial Platforms Presented...

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The following platforms have been presented by senatorial candidates for consideration by Tech voters. We will attempt to run as many as possible in today's paper, and the remainder Friday. We hope this will become a serious, annual affair with both candidates and voters, in hopes that elections may be based on something more than personalities.)

Arts & Sciences

By JERRY BOATNER

Tech needs an active and progressive Senate, one that will deal with the basic problems which affect the stature of our school. We are behind now in seeking solutions for these problems, and are falling further behind each year as our enrollment soars. We must have action now if these ills are to be remedied. Reform of rules which affect the personal freedom and activities of students is needed, including revision of the Code of Student Affairs.

Apportionment of the Student Senate on a representative basis would create a student government more responsive to student opinion. "At-large" elections have become outmoded as our enrollment has increased.

An equitable refund of the $40 room deposit should be sought for those who move off campus during the semester.

That tired issue, the name-change, has been with us since 1963, when a state legislative study committee saw the light and recommended a change. The Senate should work closely with the new administration in bringing about prompt action on this matter.

We must work unceasingly if we are to realize these goals which are so vitally important to us all. Close co-operation between the Senate and President Murray in achieving a new atmosphere at Tech, one which will encourage academic excellence and freedom of expression, is the key to Tech's future as a university of the first order.

By RONNIE BROWN

Next year promises to be one of the greatest in the 40 year history of Texas Tech. We are now standing on the brink of having an adequate name for our university. We have a chance of being removed from the AAUP blacklist. We may soon have a new Code of Student Affairs, a code which will be rewritten by both administrators and students.

These jobs will be difficult. They will require conscientious student leadership, leadership which has proved its ability.

It is therefore important that we, the students, elect senators who will dedicate themselves to the solution of these and other problems on our campus.

If re-elected I would urge these points:

1. An examination of our present form of student government to find possible grounds for improvement. Students cannot be interested in their government if they do not even know who their representatives are.
2. The revision of the Code of Student Affairs that would reflect student opinion, not the opinion of the administration.
3. A suitable name for our university.
4. An expanded program of course and instructor evaluation.
5. An expansion of Government

Day in an effort to give student government more importance to more people.

QUALIFICATIONS:

- Student Senate 1965-66
1. Course and Instructor Evaluation Committee
 2. Summer Senators Committee—author of current by-law on Summer Committee
 3. Government Day Committee
 4. Senate delegate to B.S.O. retreat.

By ALICIA BURNS

First, ask yourself what you are doing at Texas Tech. Then think of your personal goals and ambitions and you will realize what a very important base your work at Tech will be.

In your considerations you will notice that you have included a very important quality—improvement. Your concern with improvement should be reflected in every area in which you invest your time and thought. When your time and thought are directed toward voting for your representative on Friday, I would like for you to consider the platform that I believe to contain needed improvements at Texas Tech.

The action of your senator is his voice, not this paper or any wild promises that may be hastily made. In all honesty I can pledge you my continuous effort in the improvement of your position as a Tech student, and ask you to cast a vote for your improvement for this is the job of your senator.

I. Of primary concern are the name change and AAUP blacklist removal. I favor the name change and consider removal from the blacklist as essential for Tech's growth.

II. Revision of current Senate organization to "university" standards.

III. Organized movement for removal of constraints imposed by "in loco parentis."

IV. Further organized action for food service improvements.

V. Extensive effort to bring the Student Senate to the student.

VI. Active students in an active Student Senate.

By DAVE HANCOCK

It has been stated that the students of Texas Tech have no rights, only privileges. The year of 1966-67 should be the year that Tech students obtain rights also.

Next year should hold a new role for the student senate with Dr. Murray as President, for many matters which have formerly been decided by the administration will now rightfully be placed on the shoulders of the elected student senate. As a candidate for Senator of Arts and Sciences, I promise to initiate these necessities if we are to have the best campus life obtainable at Texas Tech:

- (1) to form a direct line of contact between the student senate and President Murray, and a line from us, by him to the Board of Directors;
 - (2) to create a new faculty senate;
 - (3) to bring wider extension of the noon lunches;
 - (4) to extenuate an effort to strengthen the MRC;
 - (5) to see that dormitory students pay only for the meals they eat;
 - (6) to establish standards committees consisting of students;
 - (7) to increase the exchange of ideas with student senates of other schools;
 - (8) to let upperclassmen register before freshmen;
 - (9) to open a wider search for both academic and athletic recruits;
 - (10) to make sure all students have a seat for all athletic events for which they have paid;
 - (11) to let you know where your student service fees are going;
 - (12) to strengthen the Tech Union;
 - (13) to give proper recognition to the service organizations of Texas Tech;
 - (14) to again strive to bring a Medical School to Texas Tech;

there's more to a Diamond than meets the eye

The true value of a diamond, as a symbol of love, romance and affection, goes far beyond its intrinsic worth. But, as in most things . . . there is a difference in diamonds. The finer the stone . . . the greater its beauty, its sentimental value and pride of possession.

We of Anderson's much prefer to sell these finer diamonds . . . gems in which you will always have great pride. Yet, because we buy loose diamonds in quantity lots and set them in our own shop, our prices are truly moderate . . . from $50, in fact! We are confident that when you select your diamond you will be guided, as we are, by the realization that a fine diamond is one of the most beautiful, most precious things a man can own.

(15) to bring a complete revision to the Code of Student Affairs.

The student senate must make many changes in Tech policy if we are to form a greater, stronger, multi-purpose university. I would sincerely appreciate your vote Friday. Thank you.

By KATHY HARRISON

The Student Senate at Teaxs Tech has a chance also to improve with the coming of a new administration. It should not be considered unimportant or powerless because it is a vital part of this institution. The people that comprise the Senate should be interested in the affairs of their respective schools and seek to find new and better ways to improve them. They should be responsible individuals who care what's going on and desire to contribute their talents to the betterment of Texas Tech.

This is why I am seeking a position in your Student Senate at Texas Tech, why I am asking for your votes and support. I want to serve Texas Tech and contribute to its growth. I will not promise any earth shaking reforms, rather I will give my support in aiding the transition that is to take place next year at Tech. This is the important thing at present, this is what we need to achieve and do well.

I do believe very strongly on one point and that is not to take this position lightly. If elected, I will be a student senator in my School of Arts and Sciences. I will be representative and my chair will not be empty. I have learned to handle responsibility in my dorm as a legislator as well as serving as past chairman of the Fine Arts Committee at the Student Union and future chairman of the Dance Committee. My scholastic achievements have enabled me to become a newly initiated member of Junior Council. I think I can serve you, in fact I know I can.

By LYN McCLELLAN

The position of the Student Senate, as stated by the Constitution of Texas Tech Student Association, is to promote, regulate, and coordinate student activities and student opinion. This is a tremendous job to be fulfilled and it will take qualified leaders to do this job.

There are several programs that I would like to institute, if elected, to make Tech a better place for students and student opinion.

1) The Senate is empowered to supervise all campus elections, and I believe this is a job that has been overlooked and taken lightly in the past. There are several election changes that need to be made. I think that the Executive and Senator elections should be held together, and that the cheerleader elections should be separate. Only way to do this is to have the Executive and Senator elections the first part of the week and the Cheerleader elections the second part of the week. b) There should be election polls in the Residence Halls. c) The election rules should be enforced or eliminated.

2) The Senate should push for a new committee or executive post that could be used to establish a link between the Residence Halls and the Student Senate. There should be a Student Senator responsible for reporting to the Halls. This should be a two way link. The Senator should report on the Senate activities and he should also take back to the Senate any suggestions.

3) As a Student Senator, I would also like to see that the action taken by the Senate be relayed to the Administration as student opinion in an effort to get student opinion heard on this campus.

I hope that you, the voter, will consider my candidacy.

By DIANE NAYLOR

Having served on the Senate during 1965-66 and having observed student government in action, I would like to see the following proposals carried out in the Senate next year:

I. Senate representation should be changed so that each dormitory and each campus organization would be represented in the Senate. This would be beneficial in several ways:

(A) This system would provide more wide-spread representation than the current voting-at-large allows, giving more campus groups a voice in their government. Also, better communication between Senators and the student body would result with each campus group represented in the Senate.

(B) Such a system would give indepedents more representatives than the present Greek-supported elections allow.

(C) This system would cut down the number of campus-wide elections.

II. Informal debates should be regularly set up in which Senators and all interested students could exchange views on current campus issues. This would give Senators a better knowledge of how the student body feels about issues.

By JAY RIBBLE

In past years the Student Senate has been the "glory land" for people interested only in their own social standing. There have been times when Senate members have lacked the genuine desire and dedication necessary to improve Texas Tech.

It is time to replace the "glory seekers" with capable, dedicated leaders; it is time to replace the "dead weight" in our Senate with people who are willing and able to stand up for what is best and what is right for the majority of Tech-sans.

Replace the will of the minority with a voice for the majority. Elect Jay Ribble Senator. Arts and Sciences.

By GEORGE RICE

For several years it has been obvious that Texas Tech will one day be the educational center of Texas. For a university to so grow and thrive, there are important requirements:

First, there must be room to grow. No one can deny that Tech has almost unlimited room for expansion. Second, a university needs an excellent faculty. At the present time, our professors, on the whole, are above average and within the next few years Tech will be off the AAUP blacklist and thus will be able to attract the finest teachers in the nation. Finally a great institution needs what has come to be known as the "university atmosphere." In this area, Tech is sadly lacking.

All true universities have a strong fraternity system. When allowed to function in its intended manner, a fraternity system cannot fail to benefit the school and the student body as a whole and as individuals. I will use all of my influence as senator to ease the pressure Tech has put on its fraternities to inhibit their growth.

Lately, the TOREADOR has been loudly protesting Tech's policy of "in loco parentis," or being mommy and daddy to over 16,000 adults. Naturally with an enrollment this large there must be rules and regulations. It is my opinion that these rules must take into consideration the age of the governed. When a person reaches the age of 21 the state government allows him certain privileges. Tech has no right to restrict or qualify these privileges.

My platform in a nutshell is a movement toward a more mature university.

To Finish A Job...

UNFORTUNATELY MANY STUDENTS thought the job was done March 31 when the Student Senate voted to accept the Course and Instructor Evaluation proposal.

However, this was not the end but rather a beginning, for the evaluation proposal still has at least two more critical periods to pass before it becomes an effective program at Tech.

Unless students are truly interested and participate in the program by evaluating their instructors on the days designated, the system will die before it even gets started. However, there is no reason why students shouldn't participate. It is for their benefit, it provides them an opportunity to channel their gripes and complaints in a constructive manner, and much thought has gone into preparing the questions to be used in the evaluation.

The evaluation form itself will probably consist of 16 questions to which students may select one of four responses: disagree strongly, disagree slightly, agree slightly and agree strongly.

Four of the questions will deal directly with the course itself, covering such things as "Does the course follow the objectives outlined in the catalogue?" "Is the textbook efficient?" etc.

The other 12 questions will give students an opportunity to rate their instructor's lectures, tests, grading methods, knowledge of the subject matter, etc.

The Senate Course and Instructor Evaluation Committee utilized questionnaires from about six schools in compiling these questions and then checked them with the psychology department to see if they were adequate.

Tentative plans are to allow two days for students to fill out evaluation forms, which will be counted by IBM. The dates will be announced later but will probably come at the first of May.

If students do show an active interest and participate by fairly evaluating their courses and instructors, the system will still have one more critical period to pass, which will come when the published booklets are passed out next fall.

The success of the program will depend not only on student reactions to the evaluation booklets but upon the reactions of instructors as well.

The evaluation booklets could benefit both groups if they use them effectively. Students can more wisely select their courses and instructors by checking the evaluations of past students. Instructors can use them as guideposts in improving their lectures and teaching methods.

Indeed we agree that the passage of the Course and Instructor Evaluation plan may have been one of the Senate's greatest accomplishments this year, but now it is up to students and instructors to see that it becomes an effective program.

McDonald Defends Walker's Election

Dear Editor,
I feel that for the sake of good student government at Texas Tech, as well as for a better informed student body, there are several areas of the protested Business Manager election which warrant clarification. It is my hope that as Johnny Walker's campaign manager I am able to shed some light on these rather pressing matters.

First, there seems to have been a basic fallacy in the implications made by the Toreador concerning the protested election. While it is generally accepted by the majority of students at Texas Tech that an individual is innocent until proven guilty, the Toreador seems to have forgotten this concept. In the April 26 issue, the Toreador not only proclaimed the idea that Johnny Walker was and is guilty, but also the innocence and righteous indignation of Lyn McClellan, a very active supporter of Walker's opponent.

The simple truth in the area of the questioned election and the reported breaking of the election rules is as follows:

First, there is no reason for the legality of the placing of election material under dorm doors to be questioned. That this is illegal is beyond question and has been so stated several times. The campaigners of Johnny Walker were informed to this effect and were told to abstain from this. It is my contention that none of Walker's campaign organization committed this act.

On Wednesday evening we distributed tags to all dorms on campus. On Thursday night we distributed only a platform and qualifications letter. The material evidence presented before the Elections Committee was of the tag type distributed on Wednesday night; while the supposed violation of the rules occurred on Thursday night. Furthermore, the legitimacy of why only two rooms were chosen is rather pertinent.

One of the co-plaintiffs testified before the Elections Committee that he "saw Johnny Walker going from door-to-door on his wing and shortly after found the material under his door." The fact is that Walker campaigned in Dorm No. 10 Thursday night and was not even in Dorm No. 9.

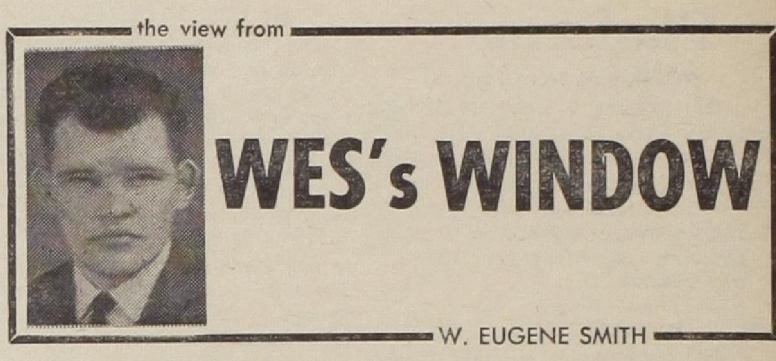

The issue is not whether or not the material was placed under the two dorm doors, but, more important, by whom. We feel that we obeyed the prescribed rules of the Elections Committee.

A much larger issue also looms; if we are to have popular elections at Texas Tech, does the voice and vote of the student actually count? Or does the so-called "political machine" along with the student newspaper constitute the determining factor in student government?

the view from

WES'S WINDOW

W. EUGENE SMITH

THE RESPONSIBILITY OF THE PRESS is to print the news. To learn to do this in a fair and accurate manner, many of us who are associated with the Toreador have gone to school here for two, three, four years. We think we have learned our lessons fairly well.

So, when someone accuses us of being part of a political machine, we naturally get slightly upset, and we have been accused.

Since Thursday, there have been some who are quite convinced that this paper is part of a political plot.

On Thursday, we carried a story on the emergence of a write-in candidate for vice president. The story was straight, factual reporting of an event of interest to the student body and the campus in general. But some didn't see it as such.

The editor was visited by a fraternity delegation backing the regular vice presidential candidate. They were very unhappy, to say the least. Then, later in the day, the Toreador staff became acquainted with a 1.5 G.P.A. hold-over pledge.

He called us twice during the day and said the same thing both times. He called the editor first to protest our alleged political affiliation with a "move to break up the Johnny Walker forces." (We just wonder how a vice presidential race can affect the business manager race.) Though it was obvious that Walker did command quite a "force" (his advertising work was done by a professional agency as a favor to him), most of us hadn't really thought about it. Then the pledge called again.

Late Thursday afternoon, he apparently heard that the write-in candidate might withdraw, so he called to ask about it. We refused to divulge the information because the "candidate" requested we not release the information 'til Friday. We informed the pledge that everyone would find out at the same time Friday morning, upholding our ethical promise. He then went on a tirade.

He claimed that there was a political machine on campus and the Toreador was either part of it or being subverted by it. He also claimed that the publicity given the recent mock trial was a political campaign maneuver by the "anti-Walker forces." He pointed out that "the whole thing was planned by (Roland) Anderson and Max Blakney" to get Blakney's name before the students. He added that one of the coed cheerleader candidates had "just incidentally" appeared recently in Toreador pictures. He then made more of a fool of himself.

When his persuasion through glib explanations didn't work, he resorted to a threat. He told this reporter that the president of the college would certainly hear about this, and this pledge felt sure that Dr. Goodwin would be able to "pull some strings over there."

It's too bad there aren't any long strings to pull.

And now comes another writer who shares this page with us today.

He speaks of the Toreador's "implication" and its "proclaiming that Johnny Walker was and is guilty" and the "innocence and righteous indignation of Lyn McClellan."

To him, let us say this. We doubt if any candidate could be stupid enough to engage in so flagrant a violation of the rules. But we are not so sure the same can be said for his supporters, for whom, it must be admitted, a candidate is responsible.

It calls to our mind the presidential campaign of 1964, when some people were afraid to vote for Barry Goldwater because they feared his supporters (i.e. KKK, Birch Society, etc.). As it turned out, Goldwater, too, suffered because of his supporters.

The foregoing campaign and the ensuing protest are two symptoms of the somewhat farcical nature of elections on this campus. While it's not so bad for cheerleader candidates to raise such a ruckus (after all, they are supposed to be good at that), there should be a limit. One person wanted to land a helicopter in Memorial Circle and another wanted to place an outhouse there, and the amazing thing about the former is that candidate actually got school approval for the stunt, but couldn't get permission from the Civil Aeronautics Board.

Which brings us to the financial limits placed on campaigns by the Student Senate. While they may seem ridiculous ($50 for executive candidates, for example) in light of the obvious expensive campaigns, we still think they are a good thing. Judging from the above examples, there is no telling what someone might try if there was no limit on money.

But there is a definite need for change. If there are going to be rules, there should be some method of enforcement. The only one which exists at present is the check provided by zealous opposition. Sara Cox, chairman of the Elections Committee, thinks we should have an investigative body of some sort and tighten the rules governing the reporting of finances and campaign actions. We second the motion.

As for our pledge friend, we might remind him that one of the oldest and most effective political campaign weapons around is keeping the candidate in the news. Think back to LBJ's domination of the news in 1964, and see just how effective, gentlemen. If someone "used" this paper by making news that we had to cover, more power to them. Everyone had the same chance before the elections.

WE'S WONDERINGS . . . what the other "animals" in the SWC will think of Tech's cheerleaders next year. We will have a "cannon," a "duck," a "tiger," and a "rat" leading our cheering sections.

WE WONDER . . . how Dean Allen would look leading "Two Bits, Four Bits" on the football field. We understand someone wrote him in as a cheerleader.

school of Arts and Sciences, I have chosen to let the big issues such as name changes, dorm cafeteria changes, the betterment of the school's academic status, and other similar propositions needed for our progressive institution to be tackled by our newly elected executive officers. I wish, instead, to encourage more student representation and responsibility.

I hope to see the students entertaining more rights and powers concerning student-administration affairs. I believe that an applicable and understandable Code of Student Affairs should be written through the work and cooperation of both the students and the administrators.

Furthermore, I contend that the governing bodies of the Senate and the dormitories should have some type of linkage whereby they might work together in their duties. In this way, the process of government could be speeded up, and quicker action would result.

Finally, it is my belief that certain measures to give more people a chance to openly express their views on all phases of student government should be executed. Examples would be regular visits by senators to dormitories and other groups on campus, or the placing of suggestion boxes in the dorms and various places around the campus.

Texas Tech is progressive and needs progressive ideas. If elected, I will pledge my energies to the fulfillment of these ideas.

By NAN TODD

As a candidate for student senator from the school of Arts and Sciences, I would like to put forth a policy statement of what I would like to see the student senate do next year.

If elected, I will work for clarification and formulation of a new policy by the Student Senate to take the place of "in loco parentis." I feel that at the present time this policy is very evident in every phase of life at Texas Tech and is doing a definite harm to the school. It is the Student Senate's place to do all it can to improve relations at this school. Students must know where they stand and must not be subjected to arbitrary decisions.

I believe the student senate has an obligation to the student body to find a way to implement a system of recourse. Too often a student feels he has been dealt with harshly and there is no other person he can discuss the problem with to get results or help except the particular administrator with whom he has come in contact. The student senate must work toward the establishment of some system to remedy this situation.

As a bridge between students and administration, the Student Senate should do research into the registration muddle. There are many workable solutions and it is their job to find the right one for Tech.

I would also like to see published records of senatorial attendance at meetings. Senators are committed to work for Tech and it is difficult to conceive how they can do this effectively if they are not at meetings. The student body should be aware of their attendance.

By BETSY TYSON

The greatness of a university lies in its student body. We are the vital force behind Texas Technological College; and, just as this name has become outdated, so has the philosophy that regulates our lives.

A prime example of this philosophy is our antiquated Code of Student Affairs, which should be revised with respect for student opinion.

Registration has become a nightmare. A survey should be conducted among other schools to find a fair, efficient method.

Many qualified teachers are lost due to our AAUP blacklisting. Steps should be taken with Dr. Murray's help to have Tech removed from the list as soon as possible.

Very little has been done in answer to student protests concerning cafeteria food and service. An optional meal ticket would solve this problem in part. Other protests should be reconsidered.

These are but a few of many instances where student opinion has been virtually ignored. However, this situation can be changed. It is the Student Senate's responsibility to see that student views are respected and implemented. It is each Senator's responsibility to voice student opinion, as answers to our common problems are sought. I want to be your voice.

As a candidate for student senator, I have put much thought into the organizational needs of the students of Texas Tech.

With the coming of a new president to the Tech campus, the students and faculty are presented with an excellent opportunity to change some of the outdated codes and rules of Tech to the practical plans that are necessary for a modern, growing university.

I believe that two of these changes which must be made lie in the area of student affairs.

The first is a revision of the Code of Student Affairs to keep up with, and to maintain the progressive atmosphere of the 1960s and of Tech itself.

The second change I hope for is the ratio of student-faculty representation on important administrative committees. At the present time, the number of faculty members on such committees outnumber student members, as on the Committee on Student Organizations and the Publications Committee. I believe that students should be given equal representation in all groups that deal with student affairs.

I would like very much to serve on the Student Senate to try to achieve these goals in the structure of our university. Rule without representation — let's make Tech equal!

By WESLEY WALLACE

Texas Tech is at a critical point in its history. We are following a steep mountainside trail to a summit of success and high achievement. However, wandering aimlessly or backsliding on this path is certain to kill our potentially great university. To misquote a famous poem, "All the governor's horses and all the governor's men will not be able to put us back together again." History awaits our decisions. The following guides must mark our way:

IN LOCO PARENTIS: Re-evaluate the Code of Student Affairs, bring rules governing students up to date—modern, enforceable rules for a modern university.

REGISTRATION: Create a system which gives students a chance to calmly select the classes which they need. Continuation and expansion of pre-registration.

FINANCIAL FAIRNESS: An optional dorm meal ticket and "pay as you go" athletic seating.

NAME CHANGE: Push for Texas State University—a modern, realistic name for a deserving school.

SIMPLIFY ELECTIONS: Why should students be data processing majors in order to vote?

ACADEMICS: Remove Tech from AAUP blacklist. Give faculty an empowered voice through a functional Faculty Senate.

By ROBERT WHITEHILL

1. The madness of Election annually peers its frenzied head into the windows of Texas Tech, submitting fatigued candidates, tired campaigners and peeved voters to its hysterical ravage. We should find out from other universities how they conduct their elections, so that the number of ulcers and mental breakdowns so prevalent during these past two weeks may be decreased.

2. The Senate should also work out a definite plan, giving the Freshman Council some real responsibilities. At present the Council is completely unable to perform its function of helping to orientate incoming freshmen to college life.

3. The Senate must implore the Administration to apologize to the professors whom it so narrowly dismissed, so that Texas Tech may be taken off the blacklist of the American Association of University Professors.

4. The Senate must, of course, work closely with President Murray, especially concerning the much-needed revision of the late-Victorian Code of Student Affairs as well as the Name Change issue (which will again be brought up this coming fall).

5. The Senate must publish in the TOREADOR the names of all Senators absent at regular meetings. We elect our Senators to work, not to sit.

6. The individual Senators should write letters in the TOREADOR, informing their fellow students exactly where they stand concerning the various issues debated on the Senate floor.

Together, we can build and improve our fine university, so that it may be among the greatest institutions in the state and in the nation. To do this, we must all work together. Let us start now. Let's get to work.

By RITA WILLIAMS

By serving as a student senator from the School of Arts and Sciences, I would like to continue working for the best interests of Texas Tech and its students. The most pressing reform to me (as to most students at this time of the year) is in the field of campaigns and elections. I propose that the length of the executive and cheerleader formal campaigning be cut from four to three days and that Senate campaigning be shortened from four to two days. I feel that the elections at Tech are so drawn out that most students lose interest before the day of voting.

I would also like to see absentee voting introduced at Tech for those students who do not have classes or who do not come on campus on election day. I will support the platforms of the newly elected executive officers, calling for optional meal tickets in the dorms, stricter adherence to parliamentary rules in Senate meetings, the resumption of the name change attempts and revision of the Code of Student Affairs.

The Student Senate needs new and fresh ideas, plus freshmen and sophomores who can work their way up, not juniors and seniors who are trying for their first term. I have gained valuable experience in student government work by serving as an off-campus representative and reporter for the Freshman Council this year. An honor graduate from Lubbock

Student Seldom Reads Paper For Learning

By ELAINE McLENDON
Staff Writer

To the average college student of 1966 the American newspaper is a familiar item that belongs on the front steps beside the milk bottle or lining the inside of the kitchen waste basket.

Few students think of it as the text for an essential part of their education—the world we live in.

A student seldom reads a paper with the intent of learning something. Its main function to the college student is to entertain and inform, and, on rare occasions, educate.

Thirty students were questioned on their knowledge of current events and news habits.

The students were asked 10 questions similar to: Who is the Senate majority leader? the Secretary of Labor? the Secretary-General of the United Nations? and the top leader of Red China?

They were also asked to name a third U.S. political party, four metropolitan newspapers outside Texas, and five news magazines.

The average score was 55-60 per cent, proving the questions were not as simple as they seemed.

The question missed most was the name of the presidential press secretary and aide, Bill Moyers.

Second was the Secretary of Labor, Willard Wirtz. The most popular choice for a third political party was the Socialist party.

About a third of the students interviewed could not name the newly elected and much publicized mayor of New York, John Lindsay.

One student even insisted he heard on a newscast that Lindsay had resigned his office and another man was appointed to fill the vacancy.

When asked to explain the point of conflict over the 14-B section of the Taft-Hartley Act some students replied something like, "I don't know, it's just that they want to repeal it." Others mumbled phrases like right-to-work, closed shops, and labor unions. Few students gave a clear and logical explanation of the conflict.

Most answers sounded like a headline or lead snatched from a newspaper front-page.

George Romney, governor of Michigan, won titles ranging from Senator from New York to head of the Atomic Energy Commission.

No one failed to know Mike Mansfield as the Senate majority leader, but Russell Long of Louisiana, next in line of authority in the Senate, is almost unheard of among the college crowd.

When asked to name four major daily newspapers outside Texas, The New York Times held the number one position. The Chicago Tribune, St. Louis Post-Dispatch, The San Francisco Chronicle, and The Wall Street Journal were frequently named.

Names such as The Chicago Star, The San Francisco Reporter, and The Los Angeles Gazette, all misnomers, were invariable choices from a backlog of familiar sounding front-page flags.

Newsweek, Time and U.S. News & World Report were always named as top news magazines.

The second set of questions was not a test, but a survey to see how much a student reads or follows the news.

Two-thirds of the students subscribed to a daily newspaper while the remainder either purchased a paper from a newsstand, and some said they seldom glanced at a paper.

Radio and television newscasts appeal more to the students interviewed because they are a convenient and quicker way to get the news.

Other reading habits reflect the "fairly-well informed" reader's taste.

About a third read books such as "The Making of a President 1960," "A Nation of Sheep," and "The Ugly American," while three-fourths of those interviewed are keeping up-to-date with the latest James Bond novel.

"The Green Beret," "Candy," and "The Man," were the most popular titles.

About two-thirds of the students said they watched political conventions, news specials, and documentaries usually because there was nothing else on at that time. The most popular comics are "Peanuts," "Lil' Abner," "The Wizard of Id," and "B.C.," all comics with sharply satirical comments on current situations.

When asked if they considered themselves well-informed most students replied "fairly well" or "average."

The real significant complaint from college students is that they don't understand the stories they read when they do read them.

One student complained, "Sure, they say what happened, but they don't say why it happened."

School newspapers encounter the same problem when students complain, "They never tell us what's going on."

Students have a tendency to read a school paper once a week or less and expect everything they need to be in that one copy they may choose to read.

The real problem seems to be that students don't understand the real purpose of a newspaper, to communicate happenings to the public so that all the events can be viewed and understood in relation to each other.

Newspapers find they must now begin to interpret news in feature or "depth" stories to explain to readers why today's happenings were caused by yesterday's forgotten occurrences.

Jonathan Daniels, editor of The Raleigh (N.C.) News & Observer, in the No. 29, 1965 issue of Newsweek magazine, sums up the weakness of the press (similar to student views) by saying, "As the American press has become more and more aware of its dignity, it has become less and less able to go after the whole truth, and not merely the released fact."

The college student suffers from a vicious cycle where the news is concerned.

The average student has no background on which to base understanding of current happenings and so continues to neglect sources of news information, such as newspapers and other media, thus furthering a lack of background.

The newspaper to the student seems to be an endless flow of these released facts with little meaning and even less interest.

Monterey High School, I served on the Student Council and class council there. I was also active in Hi-Y, Tri Hi-Y work, serving as first vice president of the Hi-Y district, president of the senior Tri Hi-Y, and as a delegate for two years to Youth and Government in Austin.

Majoring in political science and journalism, I hope to become a political reporter. I am currently holding the Avalanche-Journal journalism scholarship. By combining these qualifications with an intense desire to continue serving Tech, I would like to represent you as your Senator from Arts and Sciences.

By LORRIE WOODS

Contrary to popular opinion in some quarters, the greater percentage of students on the Tech campus are mature and responsible young adults, not uncontrollable fiends or undisciplined children. I firmly believe that, given logical rules which we can honestly respect, Tech students will see that these same rules are enforced.

Many of the regulations now on the books are vague and ambiguous. These should be clarified, up-dated, or scrapped entirely.

Among the restrictions needing the immediate and concentrated attention of our Student Government are those pertaining to election procedures, consumption of alcoholic beverages, "O.D.A." infractions, and other absurdities within the Code of Student Affairs. I pledge, when elected, to work vigorously on these much-needed revisions.

The Techs on the threshold of a business, political or military career has valid ideas and opinions which need expression and deserve to be heard. Given a "soap box" and a sympathetic ear, a college student is unlikely to resort to protest marches and hate campaigns. Many campuses have successfully introduced Student-Faculty forums and Town Hall-type meetings as safety valves for student opinion.

The image of the Texas Tech student is, unfortunately (and I believe, unjustifiably), not ideal among the citizen of the Lubbock community. Periodic luncheon meetings attended by various student leaders and their invited guests from the news media, Chamber of Commerce, business and professional groups, law enforcement agencies and members of local and state government should provide a worthwhile exchange of ideas and information and should reveal the Tech student as the responsible and knowledgeable citizen he is.

It will be my privilege as your senator to urge the exploration of these two new avenues of student expression. Your support will be greatly appreciated.

By PHIL ZEIGLER

Texas Tech is not a university in the best sense of the word. It could be. A university serves many purposes, but its primary one is to mold from youth reasoning, responsible adults.

To fulfill this purpose a university must afford an intellectual atmosphere conducive to the free interplay of ideas and a social community in which individuals may exercise discretion and responsibility without unreasonable regulation. Persons treated as children neither think nor act as adults. The business of a university is education, not regulation, and this is particularly true in areas such as the private lives of students which are divorced from the educational process. The concept of in loco parentis is invalid when it seeks to enforce rules which to the majority, both parents and students, seem to be both unrealistic and outdated.

Too, I feel that Tech is at present hampered in the fulfillment of its promise as the outstanding university of the Southwest by a philosophy of administration, as exemplified by the AAUP blacklisting, which has lagged behind the growth and changing nature of the school. Although I foresee change for the better in this area, I feel that the Student Senate still has a vital role to play in furthering more effective administration.

I pledge myself, if elected, to work in whatever ways are available to me to make Tech the university it can and should be.

Business Administration

By JACKIE DUNN

With an enrollment of 16,000, any university will suffer growing pains. Texas Tech has many. Among these can be listed the AAUP blacklist, the outdated Code of Student Affairs, the name "Texas Technological College," and the lack of cooperation among students, faculty and administrators in working out these problems.

The school year of 1967 holds great promise for solution of these problems. The president and student officers have been selected. It is now left up to you, the students, to select capable Senators who will strive for these goals. Only with strong student government can success ever be realized.

If elected, I pledge my time and effort toward a solution of these problems and a better Texas Tech.

By JIM HAYTER

A Senator should be informed on all issues that affect Texas Tech and take a positive stand on them. This may involve taking a position unpopular with the administration, but when a person places his name on the ballot, he should be ready to accept this responsibility.

This is my stand on issues that will affect the Senate next year:

- (1) The Code of Student Affairs—this document should be revised, and as the elected representatives of the students, the Senate should take an active part. The proposed document should then be put to the students in a referendum election.

- (2) Committee on Student Affairs—the students should be given equal representation on this committee.

- (3) Teacher Evaluation—a good start has been made this year, but to be effective, the results should be evaluated each year, and any changes that are found necessary should be made.

- (4) Name Change—Texas Tech is a university, and we should have a name that will indicate that fact to everyone. I support Texas State University, but the final decision should be left to the student body in the form of a referendum.

- (5) Other Problems—we should make every attempt to get off of the AAUP blacklist. The faculty should be given a voice on the campus in the form of a Faculty Senate. The academic recruitment and honors program should be strengthened.

I am experienced in student government (two years on the Student Council at Amarillo College), and I am fully aware of the time and effort that will be required of me. I will not fail those who place their trust in me by voting Jim Hayter—BA Representative.

By MARTIN HEARNE

My name is Martin Hearne and I am a candidate for senator of the Business School. The reason I am aspiring to be senator stems from my exasperation for the present state of affairs at Texas Tech. A week seldom goes by without events that threaten the rights of all of us. Most students are concerned over these tragedies and yet nothing is accomplished. This is the reason I would like to be your senator. I want to improve this university.

If elected there are several things I would try to accomplish. First and foremost would be a complete revision of the Code of Student Affairs. As all of you know, this ambiguous document is a disgrace to the school and the liberty of American citizens.

Second, I would urge the Senate to support vigorously the creation of a Faculty Senate. At present our faculty is not represented at all in a democratic way; and the faculty, as well as the students has legitimate complaints against the administration.

In general I would state my position as this: I will work and support any activity that improves the image of Texas Tech, protects the individual student and advances the betterment of the whole student body.

There are many topics which I feel are worthy of time and work but the limited space for this platform prohibits any further elaboration. If you feel my platform is in agreement with your views, I would appreciate your support and vote.

By BRIAN LEMMONS

The RISK that we face in a democracy, generally speaking, is that the majority of people are spoken for by a small group of leaders who are intrusted to speak favorably for everyone. Our student senators in turn are to be the spokesmen for their so called school of major. Yet even the handful of senators who will be elected on Friday cannot possibly reach the majority of people they represent. If each student could only realize how influential HIS opinion is to the betterment of the school. And I think few people realize that the Student Senate at Texas Tech has the power over all matters affecting student welfare.

Next year's Senate will decide whether or not to allow freshmen to have cars. I am definitely opposed to allowing this, unless some drastic measures are taken to greatly expand our present facilities. I also feel a need to have representatives from every group on campus present at Senate meetings, who will relay news of importance to their group. The group, in turn, relays their criticisms to the entire Senate. I feel that only through this "person to person" relationship can an effective Senate be created.

I also feel that our whole outlook on elections can be revitalized. We need to create an attractiveness in the voter's mind which will stirup his interest in student government. This could be done by building around a truly impressive election rally, featuring a nationally known government figure. We also need to reorganize voting so that only certain polls are for certain schools, which would avoid many unnecessary inconveniences to both the voter and the vote getter. If elected I will not be merely a "yes man" in our Student Senate, but I will freely express my views, and those of the school that I represent. I was a member of the Freshman Council, 1964-1965.

By MIKE SEEMAN

Texas Tech is an outstanding university which is gleaming with potential but is tied down by antiquated names, rules and administration. Since Texas Tech will be getting a new president, next year will be one of the most important in this school's history. Through Dr. Murray's leadership, we can look forward for the innovations that are necessary as time changes.

I feel that more student consideration should be given in the issues that affect the students. I favor holding a student referendum in order to decide the name for our university. The present Code of Student Affairs was written by the administration and faculty without student consideration or cooperation. It is impossible to have effective, up-to-date regulations which govern student action without the students themselves aiding in the composition of those rules.

This is why I am running for student senator; I feel that it is necessary to convey the true student attitude so that the students can actually help govern themselves.

Tech Baseballers Beat West Texas Twice

By GARY TILORY
Staff Writer

Scoring 14 runs in the first inning of the second game of a double header, the Tech diamondmen trampled the West Texas State Buffaloes 16-0 Wednesday afternoon.

The Raiders took the opener 3-2. In the second game David Callarman, with one inning relief pitching from Pat Abbott, threw a no hitter shut-out at the Buffs.

This now makes Tech's magic number for a winning season at five. This is the 13th straight game the Buffs have lost to the Raiders since 1959. If the Raiders win the four remaining games with Abilene Christian they will end up with a 12-11 season.

Start In Third

The Raiders didn't get started in the first game until the third inning. Jim Miller led off with a single and stole second and scored on a double by Lee Watts. Watts scored on an error by Buffalo's third baseman on John McIntyre's routine grounder. Ronnie Holly doubled to score McIntyre and end the scoring for the Raiders in the first game.

The Raiders also ended a long scoring drought as they hadn't scored in their previous 27 innings.

The Buffs came back in the third inning of the first game with a walk for Mike Hicks. Hicks stole second and third and scored on Darrell Aldridge's single. The Buffs scored in the sixth on a walk to Carl Newmen and a triple by Jerry Cooper. Robert Weber pitched his way out of the jam by getting Eddie Howell to ground out to short and pitcher Gene Gerber to ground out to second to end the inning.

Fox Takes Win

Eldon Fox started for the Raiders and gave up one run on one hit, struck out seven and walked four. He got credit for the win. Robert Weber relieved Fox in the fifth and he gave up one run on four hits, struck out two and walked two.

For the Buffs it was Gene Gerber all the way as he gave up three runs on five hits, struck out one and walked two.

For the Raiders it was Lee Watts with the best average at the plate as he went one-for-two. Watts, McIntyre and Ronnie Holly all had doubles for the Raiders.

'500' FILM

The British Motor Corp. is sponsoring two films on race driving tonight at 7:30 at Overseas Motors, 1907 Texas Ave. They are entitled "Driver's Choice," which shows action of the 1964 Indianapolis 500, and "Zero to Sixty," which is a history of auto competition beginning in the 1890s. Refreshments will be served.

Darrell Aldridge was the big gun for the Buffs as he went two-for-two. Jerry Cooper was the only Buff with an extra base hit, a triple.

Raiders Romp

In the second game it was an entirely different story as the Raiders sent 18 men to the plate in the first inning and nine in the second.

Everybody got into the act as Tech collected 11 base hits. Watts provided the power as he hit three-run home run in the first inning off starter and loser Mike Bailey.

Karate Team Places Second In Tourney

The Texas Tech karate team took second place in the All-American College Team Tournament in Oklahoma City last Saturday.

Two members of the team, David Moon and Doug Hughes, coped trophies in individual competition. Moon, the team captain, took third place in the Black Belt division and Hughes grabbed first place in the Green belt division. Tow Woodward also entered the individual competition but failed to place.

The five-man team composed of Moon, Hughes, Jeff Johnson, Charles Robinson and George Levins placed second behind the University of Oklahoma.

Moon is currently the 1966 U.S. Black Belt champion and Hughes is ranked second in the U.S. Green Belt listings. The third place in the Oklahoma City tournament will not affect Moon's title.

Reds Blast Whites 42-16 In Football Battle

Raiders Will Scrimmage Again Saturday Afternoon

By MIKE LUTZ
Sports Editor

The Reds were first and last in the scoring column and had enough touchdowns sandwiched between to cruise to a 42-16 victory over the Whites Wednesday night in the next-to-last Red Raider football scrimmage of the spring training session.

The Reds performed well their specialty, since they were primarily composed of the No. 1 offensive unit and the No. 2 defensemen. The Whites had the opposite ones and twos.

Freshman Alan Schriewer, who contributed yardage to both sides before the match was over, got the excitement started by racing 97 yards with the opening kickoff for the initial score with only 16 seconds gone in the game.

Whites Tie Score

The Whites came back to tie it up at 7-7 four minutes later as a result of a fumble by Red quarterback Guy Griffis, but Griffis made amends by directing the victors back into the lead and to a 28-7 lead at halftime.

There was no real winning quarterback as Griffis performed for the Reds during the opening two quarters but played the last two stanzas with the losing Whites, as John Scovell directed the Reds in the last half.

The Whites' first score took form when Griffis fumbled on his own 22 and defender Jim Wheat recovered. It took only five plays to get the tally with Gary Golden covering the last four yards for the score. Bob Bearden kicked the extra point to tie the count for the last time.

Reds Surge

The Reds squeezed two more touchdowns into the first quarter, one on a two-yard drive by half-back Mike Leinert and another on a two-yard keeper by Griffis.

The Reds' second touchdown began taking form immediately after the Whites' tally. Griffis spearheaded the drive and kept it alive with a 31-yard scamper on a third and four situation.

The Whites fumbled on their first play from scrimmage after the ensuing kickoff and the Reds took over again at the White's 10. Griffis took it over with 32 seconds left in the stanza.

Defenses tightened in the second quarter, permitting only one score. The Reds got that with 49 seconds showing on a six-yard pass from Griffis to end Larry Gilbert. Vinyard booted the extra point for a 28-7 intermission count.

Griffis changed jerseys at halftime and came back to direct the Whites to their second touchdown with another six-yard pass, this one caroming off the head of a defensive player before dropping into the arms of Gary Golden in the end zone. Bearden kicked the extra point.

The Whites picked up two more points in the fourth quarter when a center went high over the head of Ken Vinyard and out of the end zone for a safety.

The scoreboard quieted until the final 3:02 of the game when the Reds scored on a pass from Ronnie Smith to Gilbert on a 45-yard combination.

Vinyard, who also contributed heavily to the Red's cause with his punting, converted.

The final score came with but two seconds showing as Leinert plunged in from two yards out, climaxing a 46-yard drive.

The (Tom) Wilson-less offense leaned more to the running game as expected. The Reds rushed for 180 yards and passed for another 112.

Smith led all passers with 102 yards from four aeriels. Griffis completed seven of 15 passes for 100 yards.

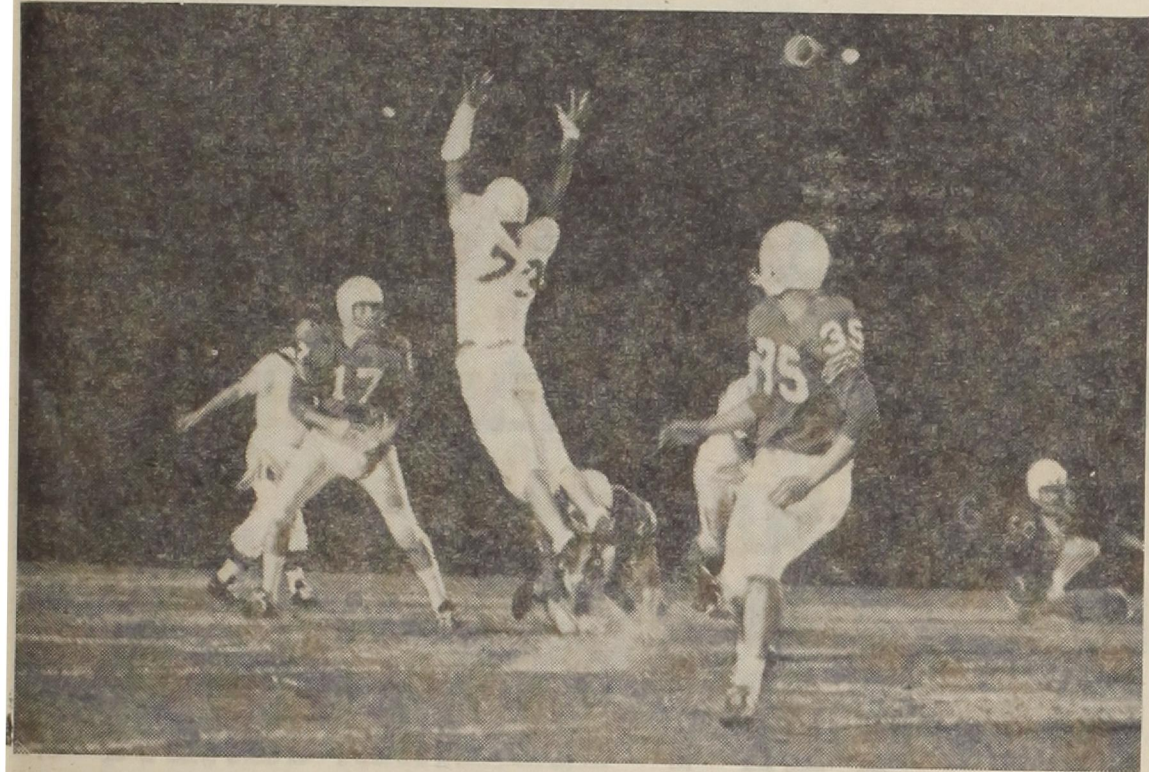

The Raiders will complete spring training drills Saturday afternoon with a full scrimmage in Jones Stadium at 4 p.m.

YOUNG DEMOCRATS

The Texas Tech Young Democrats will elect officers for 1966-67 at 8 p.m. today in Tech Union.

CHEERLEADING ANYONE?—Alan Schriewer (35) looks on as John Konz (73) gives the appearance of a cheerleader as he tries unsuccessfully to break up a John Scovell pass in Wednesday night's scrimmage. The Reds blasted the Whites 42-16 in the contest. (Staff Photo by John Palm)

DO YOU HAVE WHAT IT TAKES TO BE A LEADER?*

If you do, don't settle for less.

If you will complete your first two years of college this spring and have not had ROTC training, you now have a special opportunity to earn an Army officer's commission in the next two years. You can qualify to fulfill your military obligation as an officer while you study for a college degree in a field of your choice.

Through a new two-year Army ROTC program you will receive leadership training and experience that will be valuable assets for the rest of your life, in either a military or a civilian career. You will receive an allowance of $40 each month during your Junior and Senior years. If you desire, you may request postponement of your military service while you complete your studies for a graduate degree.

Most large business and industrial firms prefer the college graduate who has been trained and commissioned as an officer—who has the ability to organize, motivate and lead others—and who has had experience in accepting responsibilities beyond his years.

You owe it to yourself to investigate this important opportunity.

For complete information on the new two-year Army ROTC program see the Professor of Military Science on campus.
