McPherson Calls Initial Meeting; Eubank Hits Voting Rights

MARCUS (Hop) Halsey, Lubbock arts and sciences senior, was elected president of the Tech chapter of the Young Democratic club of Texas at its first meeting...

Name Officers

All candidates were selected without opposing nominations. Others besides Halsey elected by an almost unanimous vote were Walker Nichols, San Angelo, first vice-president; Katherine Leidigh, Lubbock, second vice-president; Myron McCormick, Amarillo, third vice president; Jim Lindsey, Lubbock, secretary; Charles Still, Fort Worth, treasurer; Jack Quinlan, Lubbock, parliamentarian; and E. C. Blythe, Lubbock, sergeant-at-arms.

Halsey announced that the next meeting date would be made public at least three days before it is called. The regular meeting date will be determined after a committee has arranged to place the organization on the college calendar...

Resulting from a split in the Texas Young Democratic organization, J. Doyle Settle, one of the organizers of the state body and president of the Tech Alumni and Ex-Students association and legislator of the 15th district, was chosen president of the group adhering to the original constitution in Fort Worth last November.

Officials Plan Welding Parley

Mechanical Engineering Department Sponsors February Meeting

Five hundred guests are expected to attend the second annual welding conference sponsored by the mechanical engineering department of the college February 13 and 14. Registration is free and open to all commercial welders and others interested in welding technique...

Knapp To Talk

Addresses the first day by national authorities on welding will deal with multiple flame welding, economy and quality in welding through personal training, identification of metals to be welded, welding of farm implements, and welding as applied to locomotive boilers. Discussions follow the speeches.

Subjects and addresses and discussions Friday include some recent development in silver solder and brazing, hard surfacing, welding in plant rehabilitation, and seam and spot welding.

President Bradford Knapp will make the address of welcome at 9:30 o'clock Thursday, following registration that morning at 8 o'clock.

Prizes in the form of welding equipment and accessories are to be offered throughout the conference, which is in charge of J. C. Hardgrave and H. F. Godeke of the mechanical engineering faculty.

Russian Experts See Machines In Textile Division

Russian Soviet Union officials who are inspecting spinning methods and cotton production visited the college textile department this week to inspect machinery there.

M. E. Heard, acting head of the department, said the three representatives, B. G. Voronin, G. I. Volkov, and A. Gotchfield, were impressed with work of the department.

This is the second visit of officials from other nations to the textile department during recent months. In December a group of Argentine government officials inspected the department and invited a party of its students to visit the South American country. The Russian engineers also visited the college agricultural division during their stay here. Their object was to study cotton growing methods on the South Plains, according to Dean A. H. Leidigh of the division. Their special interests were in mechanical harvesting and the cleaning of cotton by gin machinery. They chose this section, they said, because the length of the growing season here compares favorably with that in Russia.

Graduate Speaks At Joint Meeting Of Campus Groups

Dr. Elliot Powers, Tech graduate, addressed a joint open meeting of the science club and Sigma Xi Wednesday night in the Chemistry auditorium. His subject was "Deep Well Drilling in West Texas."

Powers discussed the various geologic formations and ages that are likely to contain oil holdings. He cited examples of West Texas drilling, describing the entire process of drilling a well, from the time of scouting for oil possibilities until the completion of final drilling.

Dr. C. C. Schmidt, president of Sigma Xi, was in charge of the meeting. Leroy T. Patton, head of the geology department, introduced the speaker.

Dr. Powers, who is now employed by the Gulf Production company, has received M. A. and Ph. D. degrees from the University of Iowa since his graduation from Tech in 1930.

Students Direct Play For Meeting

Lillian Heard and Clay Thompson will present three Sock and Buskin club members in "Casualties," a one-act tragedy drama by Flavin before Sock and Buskin Tuesday evening in its regular meeting.

Roy Thurston plays the part of a doctor who keeps Clay Thompson, a man gassed in the war, alive by feeding him dope. Elizabeth Arnett acts the part of the ex-soldier's wife.

"Casualties" was first produced by Eva Le Gallienne in Garrett theater in New York. The student directors of the play are both experienced amateurs. Miss Heard worked with the Little Theater in San Angelo before entering school here. Thompson has been active in college dramatics.

College Receives Foreign Plants For Local Tests

The horticulture department has received a number of trees and shrubs imported from foreign countries for trial in the United States. They were received from the plant industry division of the national Department of Agriculture according to O. E. Howell, assistant professor of horticulture, and C. E. Russell, head professor of plant industry.

Heads Demos

THE Young Democrats of Tech chose Marcus (Hop) Halsey to succeed Frank McPherson as president of the club at a meeting Thursday night. Halsey, a senior in the arts and science division, lives in Lubbock.

Schuck Leads Texas Survey

Foods Professor Begins Statewide Research Study Of Teeth

Dr. Cecilia Schuck, professor of foods and nutrition, is conducting research work in the home economics division on the subject of "Prevalence of Mottled Teeth in Texas." Conditions in West Texas particularly are being studied.

Dr. Schuck said, and results of the investigation will be available in printed form by June. The United States Public Health service reports that the Panhandle-West Texas area is the largest mottled enamel region in the Union, although this defect is common in that part of Texas between Austin and Dallas.

"Mottled enamel appears to be attributable to a toxic effect of fluorine and is associated with high fluoride content of drinking water," Dr. Schuck explained. She added that the harmful effects occur sometime between birth and the twelfth year, and that since not all individuals are affected in the same way, other factors may be involved.

The investigation includes a survey of the prevalence of mottled teeth among Tech students, a record of their homes before their twelfth year, plans for interviews with local dentists and those of nearby towns, and a study of groups of children in Lubbock public schools.

Faculty Members, Senior Students To Judge Contest

Two faculty members and two students from the home economics division will go to Monroe Thursday to judge a clothing contest in the high school home economics classes taught by Miss Roxana Ruth Ford, Tech graduate. Misses Mabel D. Erwin, head professor of clothing and textiles, Vivian Johnson, associate professor of foods and home economics education, and Pauline Hooser and Sarah Louise Cook, senior student, are to make the trip.

Winners of the Monroe contest will be eligible to enter the state contest this spring, Miss Erwin said. They are to be judged on the suitability of the cotton dresses made in the high school classes.

Council Talks New Student Activity Fee

Ince Outlines Semester Tickets; Announces Election Plans

THE student activity fee for those enrolled in school at present will be $1.50 for the next semester, stated Leon Ince, president of the Student Council, at a meeting of that organization Thursday night. This sum includes artist course tickets, subscription to The Toreador for the closing session and the band fee.

In addition to this fee, the new students enrolling in school for next semester will pay one dollar for the athletic ticket, which entitles them to attend local athletic contests in which Tech participates. The program includes boxing, wrestling, basketball, track, and fun nights. Besides admission to the athletic meets, the payment of this sum allows the student to vote in elections held by the Student Council.

Considers Handbook

For some time the council has been tentatively considering a college handbook, which definitely decided upon, will be published by that body and distributed free to students next year. The booklet will contain college yell, traditions, and general information about the school. Several pamphlets of this type were submitted by Oklahoma City University, University of Texas, Leland Stanford Junior college, Oklahoma A. and M., Northwestern university, University of Florida, and Arizona university upon request of Ince. These were considered as possible models for the local publication.

Ince called attention to the fact senior agricultural student, to ascertain printing costs of the booklet. The question of including advertising was debated and the council decided that some advertising should be solicited to help pay the costs of publication.

College Director Sustains Surgery After Long Illness

Roscoe Wilson, vice chairman of the college Board of Directors, is in Memorial hospital, Houston, following a delicate operation performed there Thursday. His condition was reported satisfactory yesterday.

Wilson, a Lubbock attorney, has been suffering from a cardiac ailment for several months. He received treatment in Lubbock sanitarium before going to Houston. His condition had been considered serious for the past few days.

A Boston specialist was called to the case this week and reached Houston from Harvard Medical school by plane. He injected a new serum designed to deaden sensibility of several nerves for a long period. The serum relieves pain that has been felt in the cardiac region.

Faculty Women's Club Plans Affair

Plans for an open luncheon meeting to be held in March were made by the Quarterly club Wednesday night. The following committees were appointed: arrangements, Miss Jonnie McCrery, head professor of foods and nutrition, Miss Ruth Horn, instructor of English, and Miss Annah Jo Pendleton, professor of speech; invitations, Miss Vivian Johnson, associate professor of foods and home economics education, Mrs. Eleanor M. Chitwood, assistant dean of women, and Miss Evelyn Clewell, assistant professor of home economics education. Miss Emma Main, assistant librarian, spoke on "Rare Book Collections."

The department of clothing and textiles in the division of home economics has received a water softener as a gift from the Webb manufacturing company of Kansas City, Mo. Miss Mabel Erwin, head of the department, said this morning. The new softener has a capacity of 150 gallons, and must be regenerated by pouring a concentrated salt solution into the bottle and allowing it to stand about 30 minutes.

Manufacturing Company Gives Water Softener To Clothing Department

Hand weaving classes find the water softener very valuable, Miss Erwin pointed out. It makes the dye used to color the thread more soluble, she added. It takes five drops of soap solution to make suds in a bottle of water treated with the softener, while it requires 15 drops of soap to make suds in hard water, the department head explained.

First Year Enrollees To Give Annual Dance In March, Shaw Says

FOLLOWING the selection of the freshman queen in an election held Thursday, Bob Shaw, president of the freshman class, announced that a meeting of first year students would be held soon after registration for the closing of this year. Plans for the dance which is scheduled on the social calendar for March 28 are to be discussed.

"The date for the annual entertainment for freshmen has been changed three times but Dean Mary W. Doak states that this date is definite. Shaw stated to a member of The Toreador staff last night. "Definite plans are to be formulated following appointment of committees at the next class meeting during the opening weeks of the final session," Shaw added.

Reigns At Dance

The affair will probably be held in the college gymnasium, Shaw said, Ned Bradley, college orchestra, is being considered to play for the dance.

The freshman class named Anita Matheson, arts and science student from Wink, to reign over festivities of the first year enrollees. She defeated five other candidates for the honor.

The freshman dance was originally scheduled for January 18. However, conflicting dates on the social calendar caused the postponement. A picnic in May concludes the year's activities for the class.

Nominate Six Candidates for queen were nominated at a meeting of the class in the Chemistry auditorium Monday night. The date was set by Shaw and given approval by the class.

Lonnie Langston, assistant professor of mathematics, and Miss Margaret Baskin, instructor in physical education, are sponsors chosen by class members.

Cast Enters Speech Meet

The speech department has entered a cast in the annual state intercollegiate dramatic tournament to be held at Houston in March.

Tech has ranked high in previous state dramatic contests, winning first place in two consecutive years preceding the last tournament, to which the college was host, being disqualified for participation. The preceding year besides winning first place with Kasper's "Smoke-screen," each member of the cast won high individual honors.

Eileen Graves Heintman, now formed there Thursday. His condition was reported satisfactory yesterday.

Williams Places Second In Thursday Poll Of Fresh Students

ANITA MATHESON will reign as queen at the annual freshman class dance to be held March 28.

A graduate of Wink High school, the arts and science freshman was selected by members of the first year class in a special election held Thursday. Miss Matheson is a pledge of Las Chaparritas, girls' social organization. She won over five other candidates nominated by the class at a meeting Monday night.

Williams is Second Anne Ruth Williams of Chillicothe, enrollee in the home economics division, placed second at the polls, receiving 103 votes to 119 for Miss Matheson. A member of DFD club, Miss Williams trailed close behind in the voting until members of the student council tabulated the main box located in the Administration building for arts and science students. The votes were counted Thursday night.

Other candidates listed on the ballot were Tommie Frank Jones of Memphis, a pledge to Las Vivarachas club; Nan Tandy, Houston, and Frances Cooper, Falls, both Koshari pledges; and Nettie E. Underwood, Lamesa.

Boxes located in the main buildings on the campus were supervised by members of the freshman class and Student Council. The voting polls closed at five o'clock after opening at 8 o'clock in the morning.

List Other Honors Of the six candidates named at the fish queen election, three, Misses Williams, Matheson and Jones, were among fifty candidates nominated in a general election conducted by La Ventana, college yearbook, for the beauty section. The pictures are to be submitted to a nationally known person soon.

Plans for the annual dance are to be made at a meeting of the class next semester. President Bob Shaw of Kaufman, stated late yesterday.

Examinations Begin In Week

College Calendar Shows No Social Functions For Coming Days

Dead week begins tomorrow night at 10 o'clock. During the following days there will be no social functions on the campus, according to Miss Mary W. Doak, dean of women. Final examinations start Saturday morning at 8 o'clock and will continue until 2 o'clock the afternoon of the following Friday.

The examination schedule was made public Wednesday. Examinations begin at 8 o'clock, 11 o'clock, and 2 o'clock each day. Schedules have been arranged by deans of the divisions according to the hours when classes have regularly met this semester. Examinations will be held in rooms where classes have ordinarily convened during the year and will usually be in charge of the professors who have taught the courses, according to the deans.

"Buy British" Policy Can Be Applied To "Buy Texas Tech"

"BUY British!" is the slogan which canny British businessmen adopted as the war cry against old man Depression.

It is a wise policy and worthy of imitation. If British shopgirls use British lip-stuck and British lords drive British cars, industry must certainly be stimulated and everyone of the subjects of King George being benefitted by the policy.

In Lubbock there is a group of business men who are loyal and ardent supporters of the college. They, as leading property owners, pay the taxes which buy our buildings and equipment. They freely contribute their time and money to any project which is for the institution.

Following the British policy we would do well to adopt the slogan "Buy Texas Tech!" in return for the things that the foreseeing merchants have done for the college it is no more than right that we, as students of Tech, should show our appreciation by trading with them.

Entertainment Scope

WITH the coat tails of old man depression rounding the well-known corner, there has come about with his passing, wide-spread changes that have been developing during the past four years of economics and social relationships.

Primed up to the high pressure life of their time, it was not unnatural that the means and types of entertainment of the average college student were expensive, widely scattered, and frequently of a very shallow nature.

Then again, through financial necessity, or through the influence of an inner yearning, or perhaps by accident, the average student found himself and, consequently, found pleasure and contentment in a number of quieter, more regular, inter-related activities.

PARAMOUNT among the advanced agencies of entertainment is the radio. What was formerly a novelty and an awkward youngster in the scientific world is now being changed into a disciplined agency for enjoyment and enlightenment; and in like manner, the stage and screen.

However, far above these forms of entertainment, there is still another prime importance in the educational advancement of students—the revival of conversation.

The collegiate youth is finally becoming coherent, trying out his ideas, finding out that which he knows, that which he thinks is so, and that which he does not know. It is by this last means that we believe the greatest gains will be made in the years just ahead; for through this exchange of ideas will men's minds be made more elastic, their convictions become crystallized more firmly in the light of discussion, and will their understanding and fellowship and human progress be most richly realized.—The Reville.

STUDENT ASKS ABOUT CONSTITUTION

Dear Editor: I think perhaps the student body may be interested in a question which vexes me.

I have wondered lately whether or not the student body has a constitution. I understand that in 1934 a committee was appointed to draft a constitution, but nothing has been heard of the matter since.

If the committee did not draw up a constitution, their negligence is difficult to understand. If they did and this document was not presented to the students, someone's negligence is even more remarkable.

We are supposed to be a democratic, partially self-governing body. The democratic nations of the earth find a constitution absolutely necessary as a framework of government. In our case, even though it may not be absolutely required, a student constitution would inaugurate a greater solidity and unity in the social and political fabric.

Whether an old constitution be dug out of the files or a new one drawn up, it is hard to believe that the student body is so lethargic as to permit the present state of affairs to continue.

Yours for a student constitution, C. E. M.

Book Reviews

The Log of the Betsy Ann, by Frederick Way.

River packets have not retired into museums—here they puff and roar, sweep up and down the Ohio, carry cargo and entertain passengers, race enthusiastically and quarrel heartily. The writer buys the "Betsy Ann" in 1820, and for eight years he leads her over the western rivers, coming to grief with amazing regularity, but the fun of it, the full, comradely life of the rivers holds him.

Valley Forge, by Maxwell Anderson.

The dramatization of the darkest moments of the revolution and of Washington's career as a general is taken up in Maxwell Anderson's book. Powerful in its portrayal of the horrible suffering of the soldiers that "black winter," it catches the spirit of the common soldier's loyalty to and hero worship of Washington. Because of his realization of this devotion he is inspired to continue the seemingly hopeless fight against a tyrannical government in spite of a contrary, bickering, foolish congress and a merchant class clamoring for peace. There is humor as well as tragedy here.—The Reville.

By BOB CANNON Sports Editor

THE columnist who writes for the St. Mary's university weekly has been filling up space with perforated plans about a new athletic association called the Alamo conference that has all the scars and suggestions of Mose Simms' wonderful brain. (Mose Simms, if you don't recall, is the wide awake business manager of athletics at St. Mary's, and has put us on the spot by threatening us, we understand, about a certain autobiography that he dedicated to him after the Tech-St. Mary's game.) This conference, according to the St. Mary's scribe, is composed of Texas A. & L., possibly Hardin-Simmons, Centenary, Loyola of New Orleans, Tulsa, Tech, St. Mary's, even Arizona, and Sul Ross.

Such a conference wouldn't be a bad set-up. But it's highly improbable and not more than four of the teams listed would accept, if the "idea" is put into effect.

The thought of Tech being a member of the new conference is all wet. The athletic department has heard about the new conference, and no doubt, has been approaching on the matter. But if you ask us, the Border conference is whipping out of its dilemma rapidly and may turn out to be quite an organization 'fore long. Not so long ago Arizona, like Tech, did well to match a game within their own state, but now the two teams have been trying to put the young conference on the map. As to strength, the Border conference is more powerful than many of the leading conferences of the nation.

Close observers say that only two teams in the Southwest could have defeated Arizona last fall, although the Brigade was beaten by Centenary early in the season. Centenary, though, went down during the middle of the season, but the Wildcat would have been a tough customer for any opponent on a clear sunny day in Arizona. . . . New Mexico is expected to be in the money the next two or three years. The Lobos have a fine coach in Gwinn Henry, who is expected to put some fair teams into intercollegiate competition. . . . Although New Mexico A. & M. is rather isolated, the Aggies put the closest observers to thinking when they held Hardin-Simmons in the Sun Bowl classic. . . . So why should Tech, even though they haven't the slightest idea of dissolving membership with the conference, want to join the Alamo circuit?

The new conference is far and between. It is a long ride between New Orleans and Tucson, Arizona, and being the minor circuit that it would be, teams would probably have a huge time in making expenses. We feel sure that Arizona wouldn't be interested. . . . They have Pacific coast conference ambitions, and who can blame them. . . . The old ivy clad buildings down at New Orleans house some good football players, but most larger Catholic institutions don't go in for conference competition much, so that lets Loyola out. . . . As for Tulsa, that's even more absurd than Arizona. . . . Tulsa has a grid rep that outranks any other team mentioned above. . . . And in the first place Tulsa doesn't seem to care about conference standings. . . . Centenary, apparently, would like to belong to a conference, but the Gents wouldn't join the Alamo conference, we feel sure. . . . But Simms might be able to rig up a loop composed of St. Mary's, Texas A. & L., possibly H&S, and perhaps Sul Ross and other lesser institutions, if he is ambitious enough.

There have been several suggestions as to why SMU lost the Rose Bowl game, but Bob Zupke and Walter Hagen have the best theories about this department has read.

"The great benefit from sport comes in being fresh and keen about what you are doing," Bob Zupke, veteran football coach at Illinois says. "Even at its best football isn't much fun. It is hard work and the reason so many boys play it comes from the dramatic side—the crowds—the excitement—the national interest in what is done. But too many teams are overdoing it. It is a fault that we have to watch.

"Football takes too much time out of the human system for any college team to play

Huffman Asks Entry Blanks For Tourney

Athletic Director Names Final Deadline; Plans Court Tournament

"Clubs and organizations planning to enter the intramural athletic association basketball tournament are asked to hand in entrance blanks to me or to Bob Cannon by February 5," Coach Gerl Huffman, director of intramural athletics, announced Thursday.

"It is necessary that you attend to this matter as soon as possible so we can find out the number of teams that are making plans to participate in the tournament that is to be held February 13, 14, and 15," the athletic director stated. "If your club has not made application by then, it will be impossible for you to enter a team in the tournament," he added.

The intramural tourney will consist of a championship and a consolation round. The drawing is to take place Saturday, February 8 in the gym under the direction of Coach Huffman. Officials for the meet will be decided upon at the drawing.

There will be no limited number of players on each team. However, names appearing on team's entrance blanks will be eligible to play in the tournament.

The athletic department hopes that more than 20 campus teams enter the basketball meet. Basketball will be furnished the teams only during the tournament.

"It will be impossible," Coach Huffman said, "for every team to work out on the gym floor prior to the meet. However, the teams are welcome to scrimmage against the freshmen any day from 6 until 7 o'clock."

Artist Writes Name On Piano

Guisekling Autographs Instrument After American Tour

Waller Guisekling, one of the five greatest modern pianists, autographed the concert grand in the lounge of the women's dormitory. This and a similar piano in the men's residence are Christmas presents from the board of directors.

While touring the United States, Guisekling used this piano in his concerts. His autograph means that he believes it a good piano, and his choosing it for personal use is a sort of certificate of excellence, dormitory officials state. When Guisekling used this piano in his piano was returned to the Baldwin company, from whom the Tech board of directors purchased it just before Christmas.

The autograph is done in black ink on the metal under the wooden cover of the piano. It is to be preserved in wax.

Debating Teams Discuss Intercollegiate Question

The two Tech debating teams that competed in the recent tournament at Winfield, Kansas, debated each other Tuesday evening before the debate club in regular meeting. LaVada Baze and Jane Woodruff debated Clay Thompson and Alton Hankins on the intercollegiate question for this year. Resolved, That Congress Should Have the Power By a Two-Thirds Vote to Overrule a Decision of the Supreme Court Declaring its Acts Unconstitutional.

twelve or thirteen games. It turns up a lot of emotion and in my opinion eight games are enough. The season used to start around October 1 and end by the last Saturday in November. Now it starts right after the middle of September and ends New Year's Day."

"This was one of the troubles with your football team," Hagen said to Matty Bell, the SMU coach. "The passing reminded me of a fellow who was hurrying or rushing both his back swing and his down swing. Their timing was first upset by Stanford rushing the passers, and after that they could never recover their mental balance for this game."

Captains Team

RALPH Seideman, captain of the New Mexico Mines quintet, is expected to give the Matadors many worries when the two teams meet in Socorro, N. M., February 10. Seideman was named as all-conference guard in the New Mexico circuit last year.

Court Artists Resume Practice February 2; Repay Lobo Visit

BASKETBALL practice will be interrupted during the next two weeks while Coach Gerl Huffman's cagers confine their time to studying for semester finals. But beginning February 3, the Matadors start their big round in the Border conference basketball loop when they meet circuit foes on the road and at home in defense of their three year title.

Coach Huffman announced Friday that the Matadors would not partake in any "sort of organized workout," although they would be getting back into shape immediately after they had finished their exams.

Meet Lobos

On February 3 and 4 the Mats repay the New Mexico university visit when they invade the Lobo gym in Albuquerque. The return game is expected to attract much attention as the Lobos have a few disagreements, both old and new, to settle. After the hair raising episode that occurred in Albuquerque last year in which the entire Tech team was threatened with an all night stay in jail, the Matadors are going up to settle the question once and for all. But they will have a new dispute to iron out during those two nights also. The questioned victory that the Lobos took home with them two weeks ago will go on the mat as well.

The Matadors are improving regardless of the fact that they haven't made a world beating record in their seven games. They have improved more than any sophomore team could ever expect to, Coach Huffman says. But the mentor isn't of the opinion that the Raiders are up to a peak that will carry them through another successful season.

Play Aggies

After the Lobo series, the Matadors return home to meet the powerful New Mexico Aggies in a duo of games on the local floor prior to their embarkment through the western part of the conference. The Aggies are strong this year, even stronger than the quintet that gave the Matadors so much trouble last season.

Fencing Squad Prepares For League Meet

Former Mustang Drills Aspirants Of New College Sport

Fencing has taken an active step toward becoming one of the principal minor sports of Tech with seventeen candidates working out twice each week in the basement of the Engineering building under the direction of Ovid Baker, former Southern Methodist duelist.

The squad is training for the Southwest Fencing League tournament that is to be held in Dallas March 20 to 23. Five men are to be selected from the large squad to represent Tech.

Only two members of the squad have had previous fencing experience, Fred Langsdale, a former member of the Fort Worth Y. M. C. A. team, and James Buchanan, who has had some training.

Team Improves

"The team as a whole seems to be improving gradually," Baker said. "However, the technique of fencing requires much time and work before a candidate can become an expert duelist. By the time of the Southwest meet, I think we may be able to compete with the more experienced teams of the state," he added.

Credit is given in physical education for fencing, although eligibility is not limited to students in this department. Coach Baker announced that all interested candidates are invited to work out with the squad. The squad works in the basement of the Engineering building on Tuesday and Thursday afternoons from 5 until 6 o'clock.

Material For Three Good Teams Helps Solve Worries Of Coach Aubrey Butts; Fish Make Showing In Early Games

Picadors Show Form In Early Wins; Please Frosh Mentor

One of the best all around Picador basketball squads in the last three years is causing Coach Aubrey Butts no little worry in trying to solve the question as to which of these teams is the best.

Out of 20 starts the Picadors have won 15 contests by comparatively narrow margins, but their games have been against all-star aggregations and the best high school quintets in the adjoining counties. Before the Christmas holidays Coach Butts' squad played a game every night against "any and all comers," and since the holidays the Picadors have been booked up by strong high school teams who have been lasting, defeats as well as finding out the weakness in their defenses at the mercy of the Picadors.

Coach Butts has been impressed with the steady floor work of his two first string forwards, Bud Thompson and Elmer Tarbox, the jack-of-all-athletic-trades, who have the "makings" of real varsity material. Not only have Thompson and Tarbox been outstanding, but several freshmen aspirants have shown up as well. Four guards, I. C. Greenlee, Holland Cheaney, Herb Currie and Brummett, are battling for first string positions. R. S. Mosely is pressing Lloyd Taliaferro for the center position, and two second string forwards, Oscar Woodson and Ed Williams, have been seeing much service.

The fish squad will not workout during exam weeks, Coach Butts announced. The team is to resume practice Monday, February 3.

Hap Morse, former star Texas League baseball player, will coach the Southern Methodist university diamond candidates this spring.

Cadet Equilibrium Must Be Preserved; Officials Ban West Point Dancers

WEST POINT, Jan. 18, (ACP).—The "equilibrium" of United States army cadets must be preserved at whatever cost, so the two attractive young women who assisted at their dancing school. It was a good idea, but it didn't work.

The young ladies disturbed the equilibrium of the cadets learning to dance, it was explained.

The two dancing partners who came so near upsetting the academy said they had had "a swell time" and didn't notice anything wrong with their dancing partners.

"It was grand," said Miss Ann Templeton. "If we disturbed their equilibrium I didn't notice it. I'd like to go back."

Parties Honor Bride-Elect In Sunday Rites

Student Architect Weds Former Enrollee In Early Ceremony

Ethyl (Muffie) Murray, an engineering student studying architecture and allied arts, and Sim O'Neal Jr., a former enrollee, are to be married tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock in the home of the bride-elect's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Murray, 2419 Nineteenth street.

Burning tapers, ferns and lady-monica will decorate the fireplace, in front of which the couple will stand in the presence of relatives and friends.

The bride-elect has chosen a navy blue afternoon dress and white accessories. She will carry a bouquet of rosebuds. Her father is to give her in marriage.

Reception follows. Charlotte Ratliff, violinist, and her mother, Mrs. J. L. Ratliff, piano accompanist, are to play Kessler's "Old Refrain" during the wedding. Preceding the ceremony, Toselli's "Serenade" and Lohengrin's wedding march will be played.

A reception is to follow the service. The wedding cake, surrounded by amix and sweet peas, will be cut and served with coffee.

Miss Murray, a member of La Chaparritas club, has been entertained with several parties since the announcement of her engagement. The wedding was held Saturday at a tea given by her mother and a sister, Miss Virginia Murray. Mary Ross Edwards entertained with a bridge party and pottery shower Thursday afternoon in her home, 1219 Fourteenth street. High scores were won by Kathryn Wayers and Anita Matheson. There were six tables in procession.

Give Entertainment. Eva Mae O'Neal was hostess Wednesday afternoon at an informal tea in her home, 1906 Sixteenth street. A kitchen and bathroom shower was given the honoree. Jane Woodruff honored the bride-elect Friday afternoon when she entertained with a handkerchief shower and line party.

The bridegroom-elect, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Sim O'Neal, 1906 Sixteenth street, is employed by a Houston oil company. The couple will live in High Island, near Galveston. Mr. O'Neal is a member of the Wrangler club.

Basketball Tournament Starts At Gymnasium

A girl's basketball tournament, sponsored by the Women's Athletic association, began yesterday at the gymnasium at 4 o'clock.

Drawing for members of four different teams was held last Friday, January 10. Each team will have one of the following colors, red, yellow, blue, or green. Captains for the four different teams were also selected.

At the end of the year six girls selected as the best individual players will receive 100 points toward lettering. Each girl on the second team is to receive 75 points, and those making the squad will get 50 points.

Graduate Seeks Office Of Dickens Judgeship

Marshall Formby, who graduated from Tech in June, 1932, is a candidate for Dickens county judge. He is a former editor of The Toreador.

After graduating from the college, he was editor of the Asperment Star and later held a position in Washington with the national government. After resigning in Washington, he was a member of a Miami Florida newspaper staff. Returning to Texas last year, he accepted the position as the Vernon Daily Record sports editor.

ASK PIRTLE TO SPEAK. Miss Ruth Pirtle, head of the speech department and director of the speech clinic in Lubbock sanitarium, has been asked to address the West Texas Dental association on speech correction. The association meets in Amarillo January 24 and 25.

Miss Ruth Pirtle, head professor of speech, was asked to be critic judge of the Panhandle Speech Arts festival. This is the third year that Miss Pirtle has served as critic judge of the festival. It will meet January 24 and 25.

Texas Student Mails Dispatches From Ethiopia

GREENVILLE, Tex., Jan. 18.—J. C. Arnold, Jr., University of Texas journalism sophomore, decided he wanted to be a war correspondent in spite of having little experience, money or connections. So he got aboard the first freighter offering him a chance to work his way to Djibouti, French Somaliland, and several Texas papers are now using his feature stories, airmailed from Addis Ababa.

According to the last word received by his agent, Boyd Sinclair, editor of the Westley College Pilot, Arnold is staying in Addis Ababa with Count Hillaire du Berrier, French adventurer, an English airplane pilot, and a newspaperman from Lahore, India.

Arnold sailed from Marseilles, France, to Djibouti with Taklo Hawariate, Ethiopian delegate to the League of Nations, interviewing him on the journey.

According to Arnold, whose school paper, The Daily Texan, boasts of being the only college daily having a special correspondent in the war zone, Addis Ababa is law abiding, justice is swift and sure, and the main danger to life and limb lies not in war complications but in the native-driven taxis.

The Tau cast of the college chapter of Alpha Psi Omega, honorary speech fraternity, will be represented at the state meet at Baylor university in April. Probable representatives are LaVada Baze, Clay Thompson, and Mary Scott.

Credit Group Meets In Gym

Production Association Stockholders Gather On Tech Campus

SEE FILM

A two reel film from the Viscose company, large rayon manufacturer, was shown this week to textile engineering students.

Ever Wonder Why Leap Year Comes? Here Are Reasons

This year is leap year. Did you ever stop to wonder why?

Gregory XIII had the days between October 5 and 14, 1582 omitted from the Julian calendar. He supposed the year eleven minutes and fourteen seconds too long. Thus the equinox receded toward the first of the year. In order to keep the calendar balanced and the equinox in place, the present system of leap year was adopted. Every year that is divisible by four is a leap year. The women have the upper hand then except in the year 4,000 and its multiples.

Add Days. A week has not always been made up of seven days. The Egyptians counted ten days for their week, and the Romans had an eight-day week. Seven days to a week was ordered for the Hebrews by Constantine in 321 A. D.

Julius Caesar is said to have added extra days to every other month when he revised the calendar. Augustus Caesar, jealous because Julius Caesar's month, July, had 31 days, took another day from February and added it to his month, August. Modern authorities believe this is false.

Engineering Students See Boulder Dam Films

A public showing of the film "Construction of the Boulder Dam" was given in the engineering auditorium Thursday night. This film has been shown to engineering students throughout the week.

The film, which gives detailed showings of how the huge dam was built, is in two parts, with three reels to each section. Details of how a modern city sprang up at the dam site for the construction workers and other interesting scenes are included.

J. O. Gordon, an alumnus, who was formerly assistant county agent of Lubbock, has been appointed county agent of Parmer county.

Double T Club Gives Dance

Athletic Organization Is Host For Annual Affair At Gym

Double T club entertained last evening with a semi-formal dance in the gymnasium with Ned Bradley and his orchestra furnishing the music. About 250 guests attended the annual affair.

Red and black, school colors, were used in decorating the building. The electric double T sign was placed at one end of the room, which resembled a football field. Special guests were Dr. and Mrs. Bradford Knapp, alumni, townspeople, faculty members, coaches, and freshmen football players.

List Hosts. Hosts were Herschel Ramsey, Demp Cannon, J. V. Beauchamp, Pete Owens, Walker Nichols, Charles Duval, Winifred Baze, Sam Jones, James Neill, J. W. West, Bert Williams, Paul Merrill, Joe Barlow, James May, Aubrey Butts, Leslie and Jesse Browning, George Winters and Adrian Clark.

Guests of these members included Doffie Feagan, Mildred Chappell, Dorothy Neuhardt, Ruth Lewis, Mary Garland Boyd, Linna Gilmore, Emma Smith, Lois Spraggins, Jewel Bishop, Pauline Hund, Alice Townsend, Beth Blackwell and Tommie Frank Jones.

Faculty Members Plan Affair For Classes In Dorm Monday Night

Members of Orientation classes in the division of arts and sciences are to attend a party Monday evening in the women's dormitory. The affair, which is from 7:30 until 9:30 o'clock will be given in the lounge and the dining room. Dancing and other forms of entertainment are planned.

Teachers of these classes include Misses Bonnie K. Dyzart and Gusie Tesque, Dr. Bessie League, Mesdames William H. Dingus and George Langford and Messrs. Lonnie Langston, Don Murphy, H. C. Pender, and Dr. A. J. Bahm.

Most Students Stand Foibles--Not This Coed!

MADISON, Wis., (ACP), Jan. 18.—Most students are inclined to bear the foibles of their roommates in more or less unguarded silence, but a University of Wisconsin coed burst into articulate annoyance recently, and in a communication to the Grippers Club, student paper column, set forth the woes of all roommates everywhere.

"My dear, dear roommate," she wrote, "we have now enjoyed each other's delightful company for three whole weeks. When I first met you, that beautiful maiden's smile of yours, your ever-gay disposition, your happy-go-lucky air assured me that our school life together would be semester after semester of bliss. Certain minor things have come up that irk me. I have tried to tell them to you time and again, but when I see you go blithely through the day, a personification of a ray of sunshine, I haven't the heart to take the chance of spoiling your happiness. So, my beloved roommate, I am taking this opportunity to get these irksome things off my mind, out of my hair. I know you won't read this, and even if you do it will do no good. At any rate, sweetheart here is what I increasingly can't stand:

- List Complaints. (a) Wipe that perpetual silly grin off your kisser.
- (b) When I lend you silk stockings I expect them back. Christ-mas is a long way off.
- (c) Who cares how popular you were in your home town? The fact is that my boy friend is sick of forever fixing you up with dates, consequently making himself Man-be-avoided No. 1 among his friends.
- (d) Give me at least a 50-50 chance at the candy I got from home.
- (e) If you can't stand having your clothes in order, at least let them accumulate on your own bed and chair.
- (f) I know that because of your country peaches and cream complexion you don't use cosmetics while I do. But do you have to make this fact the principle theme of conversation whenever we double-date? Lovingly, Allas Sally."

Biology, Evolution, And The Bible

This is the subject to be discussed next Monday evening at 8 o'clock at Seaman Hall, 2407 16th St. by M. H. Dunson, B. A., M. A. (Yale), formerly fellow in the Yale Graduate School. The teacher will show that the facts of biology disprove the evolutionary hypothesis and give clear evidence that all life is reproduced "after its kind," as the Bible teaches. Students and teachers are cordially invited to hear this and other lectures of this series given every Monday evening at 8 o'clock.
