

VP candidate wants debate

Election rally set for today

A rally for candidates for executive offices of the Student Association will be today in the Coronado Room of the SUB at 3:30 p.m.

Elections will be Wednesday. Polling places will be set up in the BA Building, Union, Civil and Mechanical Engineering Building and English Building. Votes may also be cast at each dorm between 5:30 and 6:30 p.m.

In conjunction with the rally vice-presidential candidate Roger Settler challenged his three opponents to a debate.

"There has been a lot said about the lack of attention paid to issues and this debate is an answer," Settler said.

Settler said Robin Cash and write-in candidate Allan Soffar had agreed to the debate, but he was unable to reach Larry Meyers. The debate will follow the rally.

IN ADDITION to the election for executive offices, two proposed amendments and a change in the student code of affairs will be on Wednesday's ballot.

The two amendments outline the composition and length of terms of student Supreme Court judges.

Article IV, Section 2 says, "The Supreme Court shall be composed of a Chief Justice and four Associate Judges. They shall be appointed by the President of the Student Association, with the advise and consent of the Senate, by two-thirds of those present and voting."

Article IV, Section 4 states that a member once appointed may serve as long as he is enrolled in school and maintains the requirements listed in Section 3.

THE ADDITION to the Code of Student Affairs states, "No recognized student organization at Texas Tech University is permitted to restrict membership in that organization solely on the basis of race, creed or national origin."

Voting places are the Business Administration Building, Tech Union, Civil and Mechanical Engineering Building and the English Building. Votes may be cast at each dorm between 5:30 and 6:30 p.m.

Campaigning material for the elections will be available to workers in the Coronado Room today and in the Mesa Room Wednesday.

Tech receives grant to train instructors for junior colleges

Tech has recently received notification of a $45,000 grant to finance special training of personnel to teach at the junior college level.

The funds will come from the office of Education, according to a telegram to Dr. Grover E. Murray, Tech president, from Congressman George Mahon of Lubbock. Tech, in cooperation with Texas junior colleges, has been approved to participate in a short-term training program designed to meet critical shortages of higher education personnel and to improve qualifications of teachers and other personnel working in junior colleges.

Dr. Kenneth Freeman, professor of higher education and director of the newly-created Center for Junior College Professional Development at Texas Tech, will supervise the special training.

"AUTHORITATIVE SOURCES point to the national need for 50,000 new teachers and 10,000 replacements for junior colleges by the mid-1970's," Dr. Freeman said. "During this time in Texas, new college facilities and replacements in existing ones will require 1,000 to 2,000 new teachers."

The specific objective is to meet these needs by effective selection and preparation of candidates for teaching in the junior college.

Dr. Freeman said plans to meet these needs call for a cooperative program especially tailored to the unique characteristics of junior colleges and their students adapted to the individual need of teachers. It will be of 12 to 15 months in duration, including a 36-semester hour academic master's degree program with a minor in professional education — six semester hours and a one-semester full-time for pay non-credit internship in a cooperating junior college.

A SIX WEEKS INSTITUTE will be held this summer with courses on curriculum and instruction in junior colleges, along with a seminar in higher education, mostly for teachers who enter the junior college field this fall for the first time.

Freeman said one source of faculty for junior colleges is from the ranks of professional and business people who have master's degrees but who decide they want to go into the field of teaching. "Some examples," he said, "are CPA's, nurses, insurance personnel, accountants and others."

"Another source," he said, "are students who have obtained their master's degrees in an academic field but have decided to go into teaching in junior colleges."

Executive candidates air election platforms

SAM STENNIS candidate for business manager

Keep complete and accurate records of all transactions and adhere strictly to the budget, publish in The University Daily the monthly balance of the Student Association budget, suggest to the Allocations Committee of the Senate reallocation of funds to areas as they become evident during the course of the year, and serve as student coordinator of the Western Information Network (WIN). WIN is part of the platform of Sam Stennis, candidate for Business Manager.

In discussing his qualifications for Business Manager, Stennis said that he has served in student government since a freshman. He has been on the Freshman Council, various other councils, and is presently Supreme Court Justice.

WHEN ASKED about the past issue of deletion of pay or of the office itself, Stennis said, "I feel that we should keep this position, if for no other reason than having one more school-wide official who represents the total student body to our administration. It's always easier to have four people working for you trying to persuade somebody than three."

"On considering the pay of $75 a month, which has been paid this year, to the Business Manager, it isn't very much money. I don't believe anyone running for this position should be paid some stipend. This makes a person feel more obligated to the people he's serving when he knows he is being paid for this."

AS EXPLANATION to the section of his platform concerning WIN, Stennis said, "Western Information Network is a closed circuit two-way television system set up between 18 colleges and universities in the Western part of Texas. This is a new concept in education. It is in the very infant stage right now. As far as telling what the coordinator of WIN would do I really can't say. This is something that is going to have to be worked out. But from virtue of the position of the Business Manager it would be a good position where he could set up and arrange the time schedule of who can appear on the closed circuit television and just work as a coordinator of the program."

Stennis concluded, "I feel that it is very important that every body does get out and vote. It's been a very dead year politically. There hasn't been any real astounding issues that bring people out and have a lot of controversy over. But it is important that everybody does get out and support their student government."

BONNIE CRADDICK candidate for secretary

The main element in the election of the secretary of the Student Association is apathy said Bonnie Craddick, the only candidate for that office.

"I am sickened by the fact that no one is running against me. I don't believe someone should run just to hold the office but the lack of a qualified candidate to oppose me shows the lack of concern students have for the Senate and Executive officers," she said.

"I feel that two years in the student senate and a year as head of the Academics Committee qualify me for this job. I also feel that my platform is important in this election. Just because my name is the only one on the ballot does not mean that I will be elected. The students will still have to show enough concern to circle my name on the ballot," she said.

"IN THE PAST this office has not been expanded as far as it could have been. There is no reason to be paid $125 a month and not do as much as possible for the job," Miss Craddick said.

"The main planks of my platform are assistance of the president and Vice President, student communication with the Student Association, elimination of one of the paid secretaries in the Senate office, academics, and Senate organization," she said.

"I would like to see more work done on keeping the students informed on exactly what is going on in the Senate. This should be one of the duties of my office," she said.

"MY JOB SHOULD also include the duties now handled by a paid secretary that assists the vice president and Business Manager of the Senate. This would eliminate her job," she said.

"Anticipating problems caused by paperwork is another area I would like to see my office expanded to cover. Adequate files should be kept by the secretary to supply Senate chairmen with the information they need to handle various bills," she said. "In other words, I would like to see more organization in the job."

Miss Craddick concluded "There has been a lot of criticism of the Senate and Executive officers lately. The officers and senators have a responsibility to the students but the students also have a responsibility to their representatives, to voice their opinions," she said.

Underground newspaper sales halted at U of T

A temporary court injunction prohibiting the on-campus sale of The Rag, an underground newspaper at the University of Texas, was recently issued by Judge Thomas D. Blackwell of the 167th District Court in Austin.

According to The Daily Texan, the UT student newspaper, Blackwell ruled that existing University regulations against commercial sales on campus are "reasonable" and "not arbitrary."

Blackwell held that the sale of The Rag was not protected by the First and Fourteenth Amendments under these circumstances and that the University had no effective administrative remedy since many of the salesmen of the underground paper are not students.

The temporary restraining order was requested on grounds that the University rule to stop commercial sales is "designed to stop all solicitations—hot dogs, insurance, books, fur-lined coats, magazines or newspapers."

The suit was filed against The Rag by the University during the summer.

The injunction means that anyone selling The Rag on campus will be liable to a maximum fine of $100 and three days in jail for contempt of court.

Hussein: Mid-East near war

AMMAN, Jordan—King Hussein said Monday the Middle East is sliding rapidly toward a point where Israel may launch a large-scale strike against the Arab countries.

He said the United States should—and could—stop the slide into war but it has done nothing in the Middle East toward "the interests of peace" since the Arab-Israeli war of 1967.

The king, who predicted the outbreak of war in 1967, told an interviewer: "The situation in the area is deteriorating sharply and the chance of peace are now virtually nonexistent."

Hussein claimed Israel was deliberately "polarizing" the Arab-Israeli conflict into an East-West confrontation.

Hussein said it was not too late for the United States to prevent another all-out Arab-Israeli war and he asserted that it was Washington's responsibility to do so. But, speaking of American policy in the Middle East, the 34-year-old king declared he "felt let down, dismayed and discouraged."

Draft law ruled on

WASHINGTON — The Supreme Court ruled 5-to-3 Monday that men who violate the law that requires them to register for the draft at 18 may be prosecuted only until they are 23 years old.

After that age, Justice Hugo L. Black said for the court, the federal five-year statute of limitations protects the man from punishment.

Precise implications of the decision were not immediately discernible but Justice Department lawyers said the ruling does not shield evaders who have fled the country to avoid prosecution.

Black, for the five-man majority, interpreted the registration requirements as applying once, at age 18.

The three-man minority, Chief Justice Warren E. Burger included, said the requirement if not met at 18, continues until the age of 26, the usual cut-off for induction into the military and that men who do not register are liable for prosecution until they are 31.

Nixon apologizes to Pompidou

NEW YORK — President Nixon flew to New York Monday and personally conveyed to French President Georges Pompidou his regrets of the hostile demonstrations he encountered during parts of his visits in the United States.

Nixon flew up from Washington and paid a courtesy call on Pompidou in the presidential suite of the Waldorf-Astoria shortly before 6:30 p.m., in advance of a formal dinner for the French leader.

Earlier in the day, Nixon had sent his apologies at Pompidou in advance of his arrival, and the French president declared himself gratified by Nixon's concern.

Pompidou told employees at the French Consulate, "I'm deeply grateful because his presence, like mine, will testify to the strengthening of French-American friendship."

Comply-in organized

WASHINGTON — The antiwar movement hopes to bury the nation's draft system in an avalanche of paperwork this month through massive obedience to the most trivial and overlooked technicalities of Selective Service law.

They're calling it a "comply-in" at the New Mobilization Committee to end the war in Vietnam. It's the second phase of the New Mobe's spring offensive, which focused last month on the courts and will turn in April to dramatizing the link between the war and taxes.

The week of March 16-22 will be devoted, a New Mobe spokesman said, to draft-related activities aimed at tying up most of the nation's 4,100 local draft boards.

Although the Selective Service system generally pays no attention to its registrants once they've passed the draftable age of 25, the law — although overlooked 99 per cent of the time—requires every male born after Aug. 30, 1922, to be registered and carry his draft card with him.

Speaker series to host noted author, columnist

Harry Golden, author and social critic is the speaker for this month's University Speakers Series. Golden's lecture will be Thursday at 7:15 p.m. in the Municipal Auditorium.

Golden's topic, "Only in America," is also the title of his syndicated newspaper column and a volume of essays that became a best-seller and the basis for a Broadway play.

Golden has spent his life writing books that continue to challenge readers with irreverent opinions and wry humor, including such books as "So What Else is New?", "You're Entitled," "Enjoy, Enjoy," "Ess, Ess, Mein Kindt" (Eat, Eat, My Child), "For 2 Cents Plain" and his recently published autobiography, "The Right Time."

GOLDEN ALSO WROTE "Mr. Kennedy and the Negroes," the background story of the civil rights movement and "A Little Girl is Dead," an account of the Leo Frank trial of 1913.

Golden was born and educated in New York where he was a teacher in the city's elementary schools before becoming a reporter on the New York Daily Mirror.

In 1939, he began working for the Virginia Press Association and three years later started his own personal journal, The Caroline Israelite, a one-man newspaper, in Charlotte, N.C., where he still lives.

A social historian by interest and training, Golden was drawn initially to Charlotte, he says, because he felt that one of the most profound chapters in the development of the country was being written in the South.

In 1968, Golden ceased publication of his one-man newspaper, however he continues to write his syndicated column "Only in America" and a weekly column for The Nation.

Students get -- and earn -- short end of stick

That famous old American institution—the election—is coming to Tech again tomorrow and judging from the feeling on campus it isn't coming to determine who will be the student officers next year—that has already been determined. In fact two of the candidates, Sam Stennis for business manager and Bonnie Craddick for secretary are running unopposed.

If the elections are in the bag for certain candidates, then why, you might logically ask, are we having elections at all? Good question!

THIS IS PROBABLY the very question most people who don't vote ask themselves. Their answer, or rather their rationalization for apathy, is that there isn't a good reason for an election this year, and, if the election isn't worth the trouble then voting isn't either.

That being the thinking, Tech students should be heartily congratulated for their long standing wisdom. BRAVO! You've done it again. You've skimmed the surface of a problem, picked a salient point that fits your laziness and then forgotten the whole thing.

You've gone no deeper than you would for a history 231 test. You've successfully failed to realize that you, good old apathetic Tech students, have caused the whole mess.

If over the years, or even this year, you had gotten out and fought for your rights, supported your student government in mass; if you had worked either for or against candidates; if you had just gotten out and voted, then more than one truly serious candidate would deem it worthwhile to seek your support and vote.

If this election is something of a farce, it's because you poor boobs let it be a farce, because the power seekers on campus know you couldn't give a damn about who represents you.

But this election doesn't have to be a farce. It can become a referendum for concern. By simply getting out and voting, you can say, "I GIVE A DAMN." You can say, "I want to be part of a student body that cares about what is done to it."

You might even consider this as a way to get more people to the polls: whenever you get ready to vote, take two or three friends with you to the polls. If you're just standing around with four or five people and you haven't voted yet, encourage them to go vote with you.

If you get out and vote and show the world you care, there is a pretty good chance the world might give a thought to your reaction before they hand you the short end of the stick next time.

Letters To The Editor

Mr. Unknown, you blew it

On Feb. 26 the UD published a letter by an anonymous person concerning the column written by Dave Burket. In addition to blasting Burket, the author chose also to take a cut at fraternities.

You evidently want someone to think you are either extremely liberal, intelligent, or someone's champion, but unfortunately you made several fatal mistakes.

First of all, why are you hesitant or afraid to have your name associated, in print, with your opinion? Are you afraid that all the Ogres with frat pins on are going to burn you for heresy?

Secondly, you failed to define your terms very well. What exactly is a "fraternity man," and how can you "pick one out in a crowd"? If you know, please tell me, because I've been associated with the Greek system for nearly three years and not even with all the knowledge the psychology department has thrown at me, have I been able to pick out who is a Greek and who is not.

You said that you wished that the only people who gave a damn wouldn't always be labeled "freaks" or "pinkos." I think that we can both agree that such labeling of any group, or individual is clearly bigotry and prejudice. Yet, you Mr. Unknown, committed this same unpardonable crime when you tacked the labels of "plastic," and "unfortunate soul" on each member of the fraternity system. You pre-judged all Greeks without just grounds or sufficient knowledge. You even went so far as to judge Dave Burket by his picture.

Lastly, I would like to ask if you have talked with enough fraternity men in enough situations to pass judgment on such individuality?

I dare say you haven't, and I dare say that if I know who you were, and walked up and opened a conversation with you, it would be hard for you by your definition, to know I was a Greek. I am a Greek though, and I think a fairly liberal one; free from a lot of prejudice, and possessing enough individuality to have my name printed with my opinion.

Shulz directs with sensuality

Electronics excite production

By CASEY CHARNESS
Fine Arts Editor

The University Theater production of Euripides' "The Bacchae" has the sharp Ronald Schulz touch about it, and he directs the play with a keen sense of sensuality.

From the stunning entrance of Dionysus, to the inclusion of a jarring electronic score; from the brilliance of the bright, flower-bedecked maenads, to just the simple touch of a constant flame above Semele's tomb, "The Bacchae" is a full production.

IT'S A SHAME the actors themselves can't see the show. It's a fully realized stage event, visually exciting, exquisitely staged and moved.

Mike Bearden, as Dionysus, interprets the role as a mixture of fiery god, student rebel, rabble-rouser and ingenious idiot, and the combination works in bringing off what Schulz called the timelessness of the play.

Trudie Marchbanks as Agave, despite her late entrance, has the show in the palm of her hand.

MISS MARCHBANKS is just a sophomore actress, yet I could write paragraphs about her. Her performance in this play clenches the gut-clutching theme. Her realization of the role is frightening. Even the gory head she holds cannot steal the scene from her great control of the stage.

Regan Upshaw as Cadmus is good in the first part, but in the play's climax with Agave, he seems more concerned with maintaining his old-man voice than with emoting the proper horror of the moment.

Richard Maggi as Teiresias, is disconcerting. He does not have a stage voice, and he was the only one whom I was conscious of as a student actor.

Two minor roles deserve special note for their impact. First is chorus leader Kathy Klein who commands the stage with her rich dramatic contralto. Perry Langenstein, in his only scene in the play, as the messenger, delivers his one speech, describing the death of Pentheus, with aplomb and naturalness.

THE CAST is completed by Pat Rogers, whose boy-king interpretation of the role of Pentheus includes a well-timed

Astro-auditions to gather talent for 1970 revue

Astroworld, an entertainment center next to the Astrodome in Houston, will audition Techsans Friday at 4 p.m. in the Student Union Ballroom.

The park is seeking high school and college age performers for its "1970 Crystal Palace Revue" and other entertainment areas of the park.

THE AUDITIONS are only for singers, singing groups, dancers, banjo players and novelty or variety acts, according to John Moehring, Astroworld's live show manager.

Persons wishing to audition are requested to have one number prepared to perform, Moehring said, and this should be the number which the performer feels best displays his talents.

A pianist will be available for accompaniment, but the performer may furnish his own.

Musicians desiring positions in the Astroworld bands are asked to write Astroworld Live Show Department, P.O. Box 1400, Houston, Tex., 77001, for audition appointments.

sense of gesture and movement.

The play's sensuality is stunningly aided by Larry Randolph's costumes, among the best designs he has ever produced.

Clifford Ashby's set has a few surprises, too—they include the spiraling timbers of a quaking palace, and the exquisite symmetry of a thoroughly satisfying set.

Union presents Beatles' movie

The Beatles' film "Magical Mystery Tour" will be shown Wednesday in the Coronado Room of the Tech Union as a joint presentation of the Public Relations and Special Events committees.

Showings will begin at 11:30 a.m., 2:30 p.m., 4:30 p.m., 7 p.m. and 8 p.m. Length of the film is one hour 15 minutes. Only Tech students will be admitted. Admission is 50 cents, and a student ID must be presented.

The film is being shown only on college campuses in the U.S. because of back taxes the Beatles owe the U.S. Internal Revenue Service. This limits any U.S. appearances by the Beatles or their films to non-profit situations. The film has been run on a commercial basis only in England and Germany.

Kerr stages the 15-member chorus all across the stage, and she has inspired all 15 with the proper primitive emotionality. The girls all move beautifully.

Finally, Mary Helen McCarty's taped electronic score, the most contemporary thing about the production, is at the same time the most ancient, for in her dissonances she creates the grating response necessary for the audience to become involved in the play.

Parking closed

The parking lot of St. John's Methodist Church is closed today and Wednesday to Tech students.

The church, located at 1501 University, is having a convention on these two days. The lot will be opened again once the convention is over, according to a representative from St. John's.

Raiders meet Bears in finale

Tech's Southwest Conference title hopes have been erased but the possibility of a bid to a post-season tournament still looms in the future for the Raiders.

Tonight the Baylor Bears come to town for the Techsans' season finale and a Raider victory could be all-important.

"I hope our ball club is over the shock of being out of the race," head coach Bob Bass said Monday. "There is still an awful lot riding on this contest." "WE STILL HAVE a remote chance of a bid from the National Invitational Tournament in New York just for the simple reason that a SWC team hasn't been represented in the NIT since the 1940's," Bass said. "It will certainly be worth our effort to play our best tonight. Of course we play every game the best we can."

Baylor poses a lot of problems, though, as they are the only club in league competition that Tech has not defeated. Saturday the Bears knocked Texas A&M out of the race 70-68 in Waco.

The Bruins enter the game with an 8-5 loop record and a win over Tech could cause a logjam at the second slot in the standings.

If Rice, TCU and Baylor all win tonight there will be a four-way tie for the No. 2 position with Tech, Baylor, A&M and TCU all finishing with 8-6 marks.

THE RAIDERS will be trying to rebound from a disappointing 85-80 loss to SMU that eliminated the Techsans for a shot at the conference crown.

Earlier in the year Baylor beat Tech 47-46 in Waco.

William Chatmon, 6-5 junior college transfer, has been the big gun for the Bears all year. Chatmon sank the basket that downed Tech in the first meeting.

Chatmon is the leading scorer on the club. He has averaged 21 points a contest and is the leading field goal percentage shooter in the league.

Other Baylor starters are Tommy Bowman, 6-5 forward, Tom Freidman, 6-4 guard, Larry Gatewood, 6-5 forward and Tom Stanton, 6-1 guard.

The Raiders have also been

Raiders snatch season opener in ten innings

Tech had to go into extra innings Saturday to down stubborn Hardin Simmons 15-10, in the season opening baseball game for both squads.

The Raiders, expected to be one of the leading contenders for the SWC crown this year, took advantage of walks and passed balls in the top of the tenth to score five runs and take the victory.

Tech had led by three, 10-7, going into the bottom of the ninth thanks to homerun clouts by Max Martin and Dick Shaw.

MARTIN, Raider catcher, unloaded his homer in the second inning while first baseman Shaw hit his round-tripper in the seventh.

The Cowboys came back to knot the score 10-10 on a homerun by Walter Haynes, a hit-batsman, a walk and two singles.

Reliever Mike Muchalek, who entered the game in the eighth, was credited with the victory after taking over for Bobby Geruin. In all Tech used four pitchers in the contest.

Stan Goode started for the Raiders but was relieved in the sixth by Gilbert Vasquez, who lasted only one inning.

needed a first in the 400 yard freestyle relay to take the meet, but just couldn't get it.

Tech diver Chris Schacht remained undefeated this year as he won both the three and one meter events against the Aggies and the Longhorns. "I feel Chris will be able to win the conference meet in a couple of weeks," added McNally.

Tech finished the three-day road trip against the young Rice team in Houston. Tech had little difficulty in winning the meet as they beat the Owls 80-22.

putter Norman Tanner, with a fifth place toss.

Dave Gnerre gave Tech its only point in the running events with a fifth place in the 880. Gnerre, who had run the mile only an hour or so before, garnered fifth with a time of 1:56.0.

That wrapped up the scoring for Tech as the Rice Owls ran away with meet honors. Rice was expected to battle with Texas A&M for the team trophy, but the heralded Mills brothers, Curtis and little brother Marvin, backed out complaining of leg pains, which gave Rice all the room they needed.

Tech downs H-SU 6-1 in netter's match here

The Tech tennis team competed in a dual meet yesterday afternoon against Hardin Simmons University, winning the contest 6-1.

Hampered by strong wind gusting above 30 miles per hour the Raiders won four of five single matches and two of two doubles against the Cowboys.

Competing in the meet for Tech were Rusty Powell who won his match 6-2, 6-2 against Les Blackburn, Robbie Sargent over John Van Buskirk 6-2, 6-1, Joe Williams over Bob King 6-3, 3-6, 6-3, and Joe Ben Whittenburg who defeated Danny Blair 6-0, 6-1. Jerry Crane was the only victorious Cowboy as he defeated Mike Nye, 7-5, 9-7.

In the doubles matches Sargent and Whittenburg teamed up and won over Blackburn and Buskirk 6-1, 7-5, and Powell and Williams defeated King and Crane 6-1, 6-1.

The Raiders' next meet will be next Friday when they face West Texas State here in Lubbock.

Tech tankers lose to A&M and Texas but defeat Rice

The Red Raider swimming team had a busy weekend competing in three dual meets against Rice, Texas and Texas A&M. All three were on the road and the Tech tankers dropped two of them to the Aggies and Longhorns.

The first meet came last Thursday against the University of Texas. Tech lost the meet 69-44 but the Raiders did come in with some of their best times of the season. John Glennan had his best time of the year in the 50 yard freestyle with a 22.2, and Rick Denman cut four seconds off his best time of the season in the 200 yard butterfly with a 2:02.4.

Head Swim Coach Jim McNally said the reason for the good times was swimming in the lower altitude. "We had better times than we have had all season," said McNally. "Unfortunately Texas had the best time."

After the Texas meet the Raiders traveled to College Station to face the Texas Aggies. Tech did a little better in that meet as they lost to A&M 62-51. The meet went down to the final event as did the SMU meet here in Lubbock. The Raiders only

Tracksters place in meet

The Red Raider track team was in Fort Worth last Saturday for the Southwestern Recreation Meet and came back to Lubbock with a first place in one event and a disqualified relay team in another.

Ken Ford was the blue ribbon winner in the long jump with a leap of 24 feet, 1 1/4 inches. Ford was one of few bright spots for Tech during the gloomy day on the rain-soaked track.

Preliminaries in the invitational division were scheduled for 9 a.m. Saturday, but the condition of the track forced postponement and the finals were run Saturday afternoon with several heats in each event, the runners competing against time.

The Tech sprint relay quartet, composed of Bill Garrett, Allan Schreier, Zane Reeves, and Ford managed a fifth place but they were disqualified for running out of their lane.

Pole vaulter Bob Blaine won a legitimate fourth place with a vault of 14 feet, 6 inches. Also scoring in a field event was shot
