Holiday Crowds Watch Chicago Endurance Flight

LANDING IS HINTED; SHIP IS STRAINED

Multitude Moves To Airport For The Day

CHICAGO, July 4 (AP)—The "City of Chicago" continued its epic flight over Sky Harbor Airport as independence day dawned.

At 11:40 a. m., central standard time, the plane had remained aloft continuously for 548 hours, or 127 hours longer than the St. Louis Robin, previous holder of the refueling endurance record. As a result of elaborate preparations for a celebration had been made at Sky Harbor. Fireworks vendors began arriving last night. Lunch stands were erected. Balloon salesmen, pennant peddlers and sellers of miniature airplanes had their wares ready for all comers. And the "endurance" sandwich made its first appearance.

But although they will have much cause to celebrate, there will be no fireworks for John and Kenneth Hunter, brothers and co-pilots of the "City of Chicago." At least not if Wilson Herren, a backer of the flight, can prevent it.

Reports last night that the endurance craft was yielding to the strain of long flight were expected to swell the holiday throng that was expected to view the now famous plane and pilots. These reports, however, were discounted by Herren, who predicted the pilots would decide to land Saturday night, but said he had no definite reason for so thinking. It was generally believed the plane would be kept aloft over Sunday, if possible, and thus bring in more receipts, a percentage of which the fliers receive.

Herren also touched upon the much discussed question of what the Hunter brothers will do upon the completion of their flight. "They will continue to fly," he said. "You can't make actors or acrobats out of them. They live on aviation and in that I believe they will go far. Before the flight began John Hunter and I agreed that if the endurance record was broken I would back a tour of the country for him. We also decided he would try a non-stop, relay-refueling flight around the rim of the country. I don't know how he feels about it now, however."

Irene Hunter, sister of the fliers, who has supervised preparation of their food since the flight began twenty three days ago, announced her plans definitely last night. She is going to give up cooking for aviation.

"All my four brothers fly so why shouldn't I fly too," she inquired. "My brothers promised me that when they made money enough to buy several ships, so I could crack one up now and then, they would teach me."

The 21st contact was made at 6:15 a. m. (CST) with the "Big Ben," the providing plane, succeeding the "City of Chicago" with 50 gallons of gasoline.

At 6:40 a. m., (CST) the enduring plane had been aloft 548 hours. Shortly after the refueling contact the "City of Chicago" zoomed low over the hangar and dropped the following note:

FIRST ROUND IS FINISHED IN NET TOURNAMENT

All of the first round matches in the Big Spring Tennis Association tournament found the favorites winning their matches easily. Only one of the favorites was in action, although Carrol Barnett, defending champion, was defeating Barney Brown with ease.

Whitehurst, seeded No. 3, defeated Harry Jordan, junior finalist, 6-1, 6-0, but in spite of the one-sided rally the former A&M star was extended. Dunnagan won from Wilson in straight sets, 6-2 and 7-5, and Bishop, defending junior champion, downed Hart 6-3, 6-2. Weyer and M. Barnett were engaged in a heated match with Ray Brown, favorite, matched with Bob Stripling. Hutto drew a bye.

Matches in the junior tennis tournament were still running true to form as Harry Jordan and Curtis Bishop swept into the finals of the singles and paired together fairly walked away with the doubles crown without the loss of a single set. The two finalists had not lost a single game until they met Davidson and Vines, whom they defeated 7-5, 6-3, 6-3, in the finals.

Both showed the strain of a day's hard play under a hot sun, indeed Jordan, a 13-year-old youngster in his first tournament, played the last match on nerves. Davidson and Vines came close to winning the first set, and never once did the play of the champions resemble the smashing net attack that carried them to these victories within less than two hours. They agreed to play the finals at another day in singles, for neither of them could have lasted through a gruelling match.

Davidson and Vines pulled a mild upset by downing Hutto and Orr in the semi-finals of the doubles while Jordan and Bishop were breezing through to their third straight 6-0, 6-0 victory. The play of the latter, whose miserable showing in singles against Bishop was as much of a surprise as his brilliant playing in doubles, was especially outstanding in the 6-4 6-2 victory over the No. 2 seeded team.

Both of the finalists swept through their semi-final matches after being threatened with defeat in earlier rounds. Bishop followed up his sensational 6-3, 6-1 victory over Vines with a 6-2, 6-0 decision over Townsend that firmly established the hard-driving champion as favorite to win the singles title for the third consecutive time. Jordan finally reached the form expected of him in pre-tournament dourings to put an end to the dramatic career of Paul Coburn, the tournament's only dark horse, in straight sets 6-1, 6-0, featuring a placement game nothing short of remarkable.

After the first set had been knotted at five-all in his quarter-final match with Orr, Jordan came from behind to stage a brilliant rally and take the first set 7-5 and then engulfed Orr with his brilliant placement game to win the second 6-1. Fred Townsend, chop stroke artist, defeated Tom Jordan for the right to contest Bishop in the semi-finals 6-1, 6-2.

Coburn eliminated Purdy 6-4, 6-3 in the other quarter final match.

W. U. IN LOVINGTON
LOVINGTON, July 3—Coincident with the arrival of the first railroad train into this city, the Western Union Telegraph Company opened its first office this morning, thus giving Lovington direct communication with the outside.

HELEN WINS WIMBLEDON NET CROWN

WIMBLEDON, England, July 4 (AP)—Mrs. Helen Wills Moody won the British women's singles championship today for the fourth successive year, defeating her fellow-Californian, Miss Elizabeth Ryan, in the final, 6-2, 6-2.

Despite stubborn opposition from her veteran opponent, Mrs. Moody captured the Wimbledon title this year with as much ease as she had done in succeeding seasons when her final round opponents were Senorita Ella De Alvarez of Spain on two occasions and Miss Jacobs once.

Miss Ryan, a seasoned campaigner and a master of the chapstroke game, was able to hold her own with Queen Helen a few years ago but today she was all but out-classed under the withering fire from Mrs. Moody's racket.

Mrs. Moody now has successfully defended both her French and British titles and still holds the three major crowns of the feminine tennis world including the United States championship.

WIMBLEDON, England, July 4 (AP)—Johnny Doeg and George Lott celebrated the Fourth today by defeating the great French doubles combination of Henri Cochet and Jacques Brugnon in the semi-finals of the British tennis championships, 8-6, 3-6, 6-3, 6-1.

WIMBLEDON, England, July 4 (AP)—Sarah Palfrey and Edith Cross, young American tennis stars, created an all-United States final for the British women's doubles championship today by defeating Miss B. Feltham and Miss B. Healey of England, 6-6, 6-2, in a semi-final match.

Their opponents in the final will be Mrs. Helen Wills Moody and Miss Elizabeth Ryan. In probably the most impressive showing ever made by any one nation in this historic tournament, the invaders from the United States now have brought about all-American finals in three divisions of play—men's and women's singles and women's doubles.

"Gold Digger" Wins Last Terrapin Race

Lloyd Barker's "Gold Digger" No. 49, won the first heat of the Terrapin Derby this morning, in 18 seconds.

Seventy-five terrapins were entered. Following the free-for-all scheduled heat Gold Digger and Bill Lemmons' "Man O' War" competed in a private race for added stakes and Gold Digger won in 19 seconds, Man O' War crossing the circle line in 22 seconds.

A prize of $25 went to Gold Digger for winning the heat. He will be entered in the final Saturday afternoon. Gold Digger's owner has been training him several weeks. The "hoss" has been given a brilliant gold leaf coat for his back, with a tiny American flag flying aft.

QUEEN DOROTHY

Dorothy, of the House of Ellington, crowned queen of the first annual Oil Men's Jubilee is here shown in her coronation robes. A statuesque blonde she brought dignity and poise to the brilliant coronation ceremonies of Thursday evening which were climaxed when King Carroll Barnett placed the diadem of authority upon her head. She is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. E. O. Ellington and was graduated in June from the University of Texas.

BEAUTY AND SPLENDOR MARK JUBILEE CORONATION RITES

In ceremonies more brilliant than any West Texas crowd has had an opportunity to witness in recent years Dorothy, of the House of Ellington was last night crowned Queen of the first annual Oil Men's Jubilee.

The court of the queen was graced by twenty-six beautiful young women, gowned stunningly. As beautiful new motor cars delivered the duchesses, the princesses, the maids of honor and visiting royalty to the threshold of the court the crowd found itself cheering lustily, oftentimes almost wildly.

King Carroll, of the House of Barnett, made ruler of the Jubilee in brilliant scarlet coronation robes, was the first to ascend the throne. As each duchess reached the foot of the throne she was joined by her escort. Following duchesses were six princesses of Big Spring. The maids of honor, Lolabel Stewart and Muriel McClesky followed, heralding the arrival of Her Majesty.

GOVERNOR CANDIDATES KEEP BUSY

(By The Associated Press) July Fourth, always a white-hot day in Texas politics, today found the eleven candidates for the democratic nomination for governor stumping the state with barrages of political shell-fire involving principally the proposed $350,000,000 state highway bond issue. The campaign appeared centering about Ross S. Sterling, author of the proposal and candidate for governor.

Interest awaited the Waco speech of Lynch Davidson of Houston, who withdrew from the race. In a speech yesterday at Brady at the opening of Brady's three-day jubilee, he promised to reveal today at Waco the candidate he favored for governor.

He declared his aim in the present gubernatorial race would be to defeat the state highway bond issue and Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson, Earle B. Mayfield and Thomas B. Love.

Sterling planned to speak at Gainesville at 2:30 p. m. and at Denison at 8 p. m. Jim Young of Kaufman, one of the gubernatorial aspirants, in a speech last night at Waxahatchie loosed his heaviest campaign shaft in an attack upon Sterling.

Referring to a statement attributed to Sterling that he had sold his stock in the Humble Oil Company, Young declared, "I understand Sterling still owns part of that Humble stock. He organized the Humble Company, which is owned by the Standard and Oil companies largely interested in the sulphur mines which I want to tax."

Young was announced for a speech at 2:30 p. m. today at his home town, Kaufman.

July Fourth hustings found former Congressman Oscar Calloway advertised to speak for Young's candidacy at Comanche. Claude Miller of Waco at Belton, and Rae Young of Longview at Gilmer.

Lieut. Gov. Barry Miller, also opposing the proposed highway bond issue in his platform for governor, was booked for an address at 2:30 p. m. at Stephenville.

In a speech yesterday at Glen Rose, Miller declared that the taxpayers of Texas are too smart to have a $350,000,000 road bond issue saddled on them, no matter how much juggling any candidate may do with the figures.

Thomas B. Love, the anti-Tammany candidate planned three addresses, at Mother Neff's Park in Coryell county at 10 a. m., Corsicana, 3 p. m., and Mexia, 7:30 p. m.

Earle B. Mayfield had a double-header on his hands, speaking at Denton at 2:30 p. m., and Decatur at 8 p. m.

The Fergusons—former Governor James E. and Miriam A. were booked for Conroe. Senator Clint C. Small of Wellington planned to speak at Bertram and Mason.

Paul Loven of New Braunfels, wet candidate, planned a whirlwind airplane schedule for the day, speaking at 5 a. m., at San Antonio, 10 a. m., at Abilene, 3 p. m., at Fort Worth, 4:30 p. m., at Denton and 8 p. m., at Houston.

C. C. Moody, Frank Putnam and Dr. C. E. Walker, the last three of the eleven candidates, evidently planned to spend the day quietly at home.

PLANES HERE FOR JUBILEE AIRPORT FETE

With several planes on the ground, and more expected early this afternoon, the Fourth of July Air Show was scheduled to start this afternoon at 1:30 o'clock.

John Blaine, manager of the airport and director of the show, said this morning he expected more planes to arrive before the events started.

Army fliers had not arrived at 10:30 this morning, and Blaine had received no word from them. A large crowd is expected to attend the air circus. The events in order, follow:

Condemnation Proceedings Are Held Here

Condemnation proceedings against Cody M. Bell and his wife Beulah Bell, by the City of Big Spring, resulted Thursday morning in an award of $100 to Bell and his wife by a board of special commissioners. The city seeks to have a right of way for a sewerage line across Bell's property.

The commissioners were A. G. Hall, Raymond F. Lyons and Fox Stripling. The land in question is part of Section 44, Block 32, T. S. P. 1-N, T. & P. survey.

Bell recently figured in a suit against the city in which he sought damages for "mental anguish" and "internal injuries" to the extent of $20,000 for allegedly impure water he consumed from city mains. The judgment was in favor of the city.

Pat Murphy Speaks Here

E. E. (Pat) Murphy, San Angelo, attorney and candidate for Congress to succeed Hon. Claude Hudspeth, who has retired, made his second campaign speech in Big Spring before several hundred people at the Oil Jubilee grounds Thursday night.

He was introduced by C. P. Rogers of Gil Cotton. Mr. Murphy declared he was over here "to mix and mingle with the people" of Howard county rather than make a campaign speech. He confined his remarks to a brief outline of his platform.

Restricted immigration, and the Fox bill were discussed. He said he is the only candidate to take a definite stand on the measure. Relief for disabled war veterans, needs of the independent oil operators, necessity of "breaking the trusts and combines," were included in his speech.

While here several weeks ago Mr. Murphy read telegrams from city and county officials of San Angelo assuring him of their solid support. During the past six weeks he has made 10 campaign speeches, and making one of the most intensive campaigns ever made in a congressional race.

Mr. Murphy has also received the endorsement by all the railroad men in San Angelo.

CROWDS IN CITY GROW; DERBY IS ON

Larger Number In City For Second Day

The Fourth of July, Independence Day for every American. And the red letter day of the first annual Oil Men's Jubilee for Big Spring and the entire oil country.

The city was almost jammed Thursday evening. With most everyone observing a holiday today it was indicated the largest number of visitors.

HEADQUARTERS
Jubilee headquarters for the remainder of the week will be in Room 712, Crawford Hotel. All visitors are asked to call here for any information or accommodation they wish. They are urged to do so by Joseph Edwards, general chairman of the Jubilee committees.

Big Spring has ever been called upon to accommodate in one day would be here by nightfall. A typical July Fourth celebration was on tap.

The first feature was the initial heats of the Terrapin Derby at 10:30 a. m. on the courthouse lawn. Several hundred terrapins were entered. The winner of each heat was to be awarded $25. The best five terrapins in each heat were to enter the final Saturday afternoon, for a $100 prize. The second series of heats is scheduled for 10:30 a. m. Saturday at the Jubilee grounds, where the final also will be held.

This evening the most stupendous fireworks display any West Texas city has obtained for an annual celebration will be witnessed by the crowds in the Jubilee amphitheatre.

The Liberty Fireworks Company of Franklin Park, Ill., has a special operator here to supervise firing of the thousands of pieces included in the fireworks display.

Beginning with "The Motordrome Racer," some of the other novelties of the display are, "The Statue of Liberty," "The Acrobat," "The Musical Wheel," "The Ancient Pyramid," "Niagara Falls," "The Glory of the Rainbow," "The Dance of the Fairies," "The Aurora Borealis," "The Electric Fountain," "The Spell of the Yukon," "The Silver Fantasy," "Battle of the Argonne," "American Eagles," "The Messenger to Mars," "Wonders of Yellowstone," "Phantom Messengers," "Treasure Plumes," "The Multiple Fusillade," "The Mystic Illumination" and scores of others. This display cost more than $900.

Following the fireworks display here will be a second showing of the Texas history pageant, "Texas Under Six Flags." This is to be the entire presentation of the pageant. Dancing will be under way on the Jubilee grounds platform through the entire evening.

Saturday's features include the second heats of the Terrapin Derby at 10:30 a. m., and a sham battle at the Jubilee grounds in the evening.

EVERYDAY QUESTIONS

Answered By
Dr. S. Parkes Cadman

Questions from readers are answered daily by the Rev. Dr. S. Parkes Cadman, Radio Minister of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America. Dr. Cadman seeks to answer inquiries that appear to be representative of the trends of thought to the many letters which he receives.

Charleston, S. C.
Was there any prescribed form of marriage ceremony in the Old Testament times; if so, kindly give me details of it?
Betrothal, as the first stage of every Jewish marriage, was always an important function emphasized by solemn ceremonies. In the first periods of Israel's history consummation of the marriage itself often followed after the completion of those ceremonies, or at any time decided upon by the contracting parties. (See Genesis 24:66-67.) The Bible says nothing of the nature of the ceremony at which the wife was transferred to the husband. All we know is that a wedding procession took place; that the bridegroom and his friends marched to the home of the bride; after which the whole bridal party escorted the happy couple to their home.
Following the procession a marriage supper was served in the house of the husband. Some authorities assert that in early times the marriage supper was the marriage ceremony as well. There is a hint in the second chapter of Malachi that the bride and groom entered into a solemn covenant, which, after the Jewish exile, was embodied in a written contract.

My husband was well provided for by his father, but he squandered that provision and now he will not do anything educational for his three fine boys. They earn their own living, except board. My husband is in debt, and I have money on my mind, spoiling my sons if I think they spend carelessly. I want to give my sons the start their father had. My religion is gone and I pray no more. My temper is bad. What should I do? Kindly omit address.
Is it not possible that your husband's domestic failures are traceable to his father's indulgence? Parents who provide lavishly for their children may do them grave and lasting injury. If your mate had been taught the value of money, you might not have had to mourn its present scarcity. A feast today often breeds a famine tomorrow.
Accept the situation without forfeiting the personal values of your family. Suppose your "fine boys" do have to work and economize. Is not that an essential part of their education? Make sure your ambitions for them are not social rather than educational. Reflect that while the merry jazz hounds are having a hilarious time in a luxurious hotel, their future employers may be selling newspapers on the street. The race is not always to the swift.
Do not try to give your sons "the start their father had." He was headed toward the poorhouse by legions. There are many living examples which turn our smoothness rough is beneficial if we make it serve as a spur and not as a cause for offense. These lads of yours can attend evening classes, read books with living power in them and master the secrets of knowledge even if they never see the inside of a college. There are many living examples of the proverb that the best education is that which a man gives himself.

Believe in these real factors of life and dismiss your sulks and protests. Then your outlook will brighten, your temper improve and your general spiritual condition once more become normal. Rebel against them and the troubles you experience will persist, infecting your boys and precipitating in them the delusion that the world owes them a living. As for your husband, let him clearly understand that henceforth you mean to practice the self-denial which glorifies a mother and invite him to join you or quit the field.

Batesville, Ark.
I would like to ask what per cent of the ministers preaching today believe what they preach. Is it possible to have absolute faith in a thing you do not thoroughly understand?
The large majority of preachers undoubtedly believe what they declare. They maintain the freedom of the pulpit as one of the safeguards of religion and also as an indispensable condition of religious and social progress. But it is not always expedient for a preacher to say all he knows. This is not due to harmful reserve, but to the intellectual and spiritual apprehension of his people. He is a teacher and if he is to be helpful he cannot get too far ahead of his hearers. The term "absolute" is a misnomer when applied to faith, freedom or anything else, since it implies a perfection not attainable on earth. In one sense faith resembles a scientific hypothesis. We first believe, then verify our belief, and from the basis thus secured we proceed to further trust and illumination.

Faith, however, is not a conjecture or a guess, but a postulate of the reality in us which responds to the ultimate reality. It is an experienced relationship between our personality and that reality. It is a relationship between the knowing subject and the object of its knowledge. Such a faith grows from more to more, according to the better understanding of that upon which it is fixed. One of the best books on this subject is "Faith in God and His Christian Consummation," by D. M. Baillie (Scribner).

to bond themselves—and place
taxes on the farms, ranches, homes, and business property of their citizens—in order to make any highway in building a State system of highways. State highways should be paid for and maintained entirely by the State, and the revenue should be collected from the traffic over the highways and not from the farm and home owner. The present revenues of the State Highway Department are not sufficient to pay for the necessary construction, but they are entirely adequate to take care of bonds in an amount sufficient to pay for necessary construction, without further aid from the counties, and at the same time to relieve the counties of the taxes they are now paying to take care of outstanding bonds voted to construct State highways. This will not require any increase even of the gasoline taxes. And it would mean a reduction in ad valorem taxes on property in practically every county in the State. The present plan is running the counties in debt and requiring property owners to help pay for the building of State highways. The Sterling plan would relieve the counties of debt, and would require the traffic to pay the entire cost of building the State highways. The Sterling plan would not place a "heavy burden of debt"
on the property owners of the State. On the contrary it would relieve the property owners of the burden of some $100,000,000 of outstanding road bonds, and stop the present process of adding to that burden from year to year.

HOW'S your HEALTH

What Is Normal
What is normal? always a provoking and frequently a difficult question to answer. Does normal mean the best or does it merely represent the average?

What, for example, is the normal span of human life? What is the normal height and weight of a sixteen year old boy?

The question of what is normal
has been brought to a new point through recent studies in nutrition and growth.

The studies, conducted by Sherman and Campbell, were made with the albino rat.

This common laboratory animal whose life cycle revolves about 30 times as fast as man, offers excellent opportunities for the study of nutritional effects upon growth and development.

Sherman and Campbell studied two groups of rats, through 21 generations. By feeding one group on a normal diet and the other on a diet richer in milk it was found that the better fed group lived longer, had more offspring, many more of which survived, than did the other group.

The albino rat is an animal which in its feeding habits, and body chemistry, closely resembles the human. The conclusions drawn from these and similar nutrition experiments, therefore,
are, to a large extent, applicable to man.

The principal point in the experiment reported here, however, is not the value of added milk in the diet of the rat, but rather the possibility to improve on the normal life span the function of the animal,
through improvement in the so-termed normal diet.

Of course, the problem is where-
in and how to improve the diet.
There is no full answer available
as yet.

Still, if everyone were informed and applied what is at this time
known about proper nutrition,
there would quickly result a marked improvement in the well-being of our population.

Hollywood Sights

By ROBBIN COONS
HOLLYWOOD—Stanley Smith,
the singing juvenile, and his mother live in separate apartments but they always breakfast together in her.

R. William
Neill, director, uses a rocking
chair on the set,
while Eddie Cantor seldom sits down between scenes.

Maybe the others haven't thought of it, but Thornton Freeland is the only director ever seen wearing dark glasses to ward off "keig-eyes."

Clara Bow growing thinner, seems more like her old self now. She sings in a voice that's far from bad, in her new picture—but she's behind a food counter again, as in
"True to the Navy."

PLENTY OF GLORY
Chronically, Gray predominates in the movies' acting ranks with Alexander, Lawrence, Glida, Arnold and Gloria, while two Greys, Zane and Johnnie, are writers. There are eight Browns, Joe, Johnny Mack and Joe E. being actors. Harry and Mitzel act for the four Greens. There is no Black-and only two important Whites, Alice and Marjorie, though four or five others are non-actors. Monte Blaine is Blue.

And the Smiths, while on the subject, have it all over the Jones, of which there are four. Buck the cowboy being the only actor. Of eleven Smiths, three are actors—Stanley, Al and Oscar—the latter's avocation, incidently, being the blackening of boots.

Irving Berlin's first movie production will star Bebe Daniels, who will be "borrowed" for the occasion soon after her wedding to Ben Lyon. The title is "Reaching for the Moon."

SECOND CHANCE
Frances Dee is here with a contract to prove that trying again after failure may pay. White playing extra, the little brown-haired girl was given a screen test. It was during a pause in shooting, on the set, and she went through the ordeal while the rest of the cast stood around and stared. Nervous and embarrassed, she failed to "register."

But time came for another test.
This time, with only the necessary workers about, she was composed and free, and made a hit.

A NICE GIRL COMES TO TOWN

By Mervyn Goffe
SYNOPSIS: Mary Lou Leslie
comes to a parting of the ways with Brynne Whitmore. He thinks her a "nice" girl from the country, and becomes engaged to a night club dancer.
Mary Lou, however, resolves to live down the "nice girl" reputation and have a good time without Brynne. Tony Titherington, a reckless young aviator, takes her to parties and Mary Lou shortly loses some of her demureness. He takes her to visit his Aunt Ethelber-ta, a temperamental, wealthy spinster. Previously she had refused to back Tony financially on a flight around the world.
She likes Mary Lou, and tells Tony that she will finance his flight if he becomes engaged to her. Tony is in a dilemma, for he has sworn never to marry.
Finally he decides to talk it over with Mary Lou.

Chapter 15
MAKE-BELIEVE
Tony wanted to introduce the subject tactfully, but he was at a loss for words.

"You made a hit with Aunt Eth-elberta," he finally blurted out.
"I'm so glad you think so," Mary Lou rejoined.

In her own mind Mary Lou knew that Miss Titherington had liked her. Hadn't she seemed so far as to kiss her good-bye?

To her, it seemed that the biggest obstacle to capturing Tony was out of the way. Mary Lou had been changing hopefully to this thought ever since they had left Ham Green cottage.

All sort of hopes and fancies had been flitting through her brain. She was roused from a trance to hear Tony saying:

"You'll probably have a fit, but Aunt Ethelberta actually suggested that I should become engaged to you!"

Mary Lou's head swam. This remark didn't seem to fit into her picture.

"That was funny."
"Decidedly funny—quite ridiculous, in fact."
Mary Lou suddenly felt sick.

"And she's set on it," Tony replied. "She said she won't finance my flight unless I become engaged to you."

Mary Lou was limp. "And—what did you say?"
"I said you'd laugh at the mere suggestion."

Tony seemed to think it was a joke.

"She persisted in her nonsense, too," Tony frowned. "She won't let me have a penny unless we become engaged."

"What are you going to do?"
Tony slackened his speed. "I'm putting it up to you, Mary Lou. My fate lies entirely in your hands."

"Do you mean that you want to marry me—just because of what your aunt said?"
"Heaven forbid!" cried Tony in dismay. "I've no intention of marrying anyone, my dear. But I'd sure be grateful if you'd be spot enough to become engaged to me—for a time."

have been engaged to him—if only for a time.

"All right, I'm on," Tony was too elated to notice the strained
note in her voice.

"That's great!" he exclaimed.
He looked at her, and her quietness made him uncomfortable.

"I say, you'll think I'm beastly conceited, but there—er—isn't any danger of your growing too fond of me, is there, Mary Lou?"

That piqued Mary Lou's pride.
"Of course not!" she said sharply, and laughed. "You're the last man in the world with whom I'd fall seriously in love!"

Tony sighed contentedly and grinned. "Well, that's reassuring. I suppose I'm not the type you admire?"

"I like you well enough to play around with," Mary Lou lied. "But the sort of man I'd marry would be quite different—serious—or—intellectual—better looking, perhaps."

Tony chuckled.
"That's a bit of a sting, the better looking part. Still, you're justified in having your own ideas on the subject."

It set Mary Lou laughing. Sometimes, she had found, it's better to laugh than to cry.

"What's the joke?" he demanded.
"La it on me?"

She shook her head. A knowing voice whispered to her: "Mary Lou, the joke is on you!"

Result Has Been Amazing, Says Lubbock Farmer

For several years I have had an awful lot of trouble with my stomach and everything I ate disagreed with me and after meals I would have that puffed up bloated feeling," said Mr. W. W. Murrell of 1614
Ninth Street, Lubbock, Texas.

"I would belch my food up and I got to the point where I was afraid to eat anything because of the suffering I knew it would cause. I was constipated and had terrible headaches and my sleep was very poor and my system seemed to be all run down. I was losing weight and felt tired and worn out all the time.
My condition grew gradually worse
all the time and I felt that unless I could get the right medicine my troubles would soon become critical. A friend recommended Argotane to me and it has not only relieved me of my troubles but it has built me up amazingly. I have taken one bottle and my stomach is in good shape. My appetite is fine and I eat what I want without feeling a sign of indigestion and the gas does not form on my stomach any more. My heart seems to be back to normal and my constipation is gone. Argotane has been a great thing for me and I don't think anybody can make a mistake by giving it a fair trial. It has started me on the road to health and I think it is the best medicine in the world."

Genuine Argotane may be bought in Big Spring at the Collins Bros.

PARIS HAS 1200 VEGETABLE PEDDLERS
PARIS (INS)—Paris now has 1,200 duly authorized "crémiers" or fruit peddlers. As they push their barrows through the streets each morning they do so with full approval of the city authorities and have their prices publicly marked. These street hawkers are doing all they can to combat the high cost of living for the middle-class Parisians, but the buyers must watch carefully to see that they get the full measure to which they are entitled for the peddlers have many clever tricks, such as putting the copper scale on the loading side of the cart, etc.

In fact if we get all of the pie recipes that have been threatened on us we will start a pie factory.

The National Pressure Cooker for Canning too!
For years the National Pressure Cooker has been standard among housewives and cooking authorities. It is the fastest and most economical cooker; the Government's recommended practice for canning. Following the coronation last evening the pageant, "Texas Under Six Flags" was presented. More than 500 people acted in their parts before a crowd that jammed the Jubilee Grounds on West Third street. Following is an account of the pageant by scenes: Scene 1—Opened to find Indians around campfire and a scout on horseback who told of by signs the story of white strangers approaching. The Indians then hid and French explorers entered. Scene 2—Period of French claimation. Boys and girls executed minut and Indians attacked. Scene 3—The Spanish came to find the French massacred. They claimed the country for Spain, made peace with the Indians, sang Spanish songs and gave dances. Scene 4—Spain presented the land to Mexico and Mexican entertainers from the Big Spring Mexican settlement gave songs and dances in costume. Scene 5—Represented the Republic of Texas and was signified by covered wagons and the Lone Star flag flying from the pole. Old Fiddlers played the "Virginia Reel" and other familiar "breakdowns." Scene 6—Signified the Slave days and saw a group of negroes singing spirituals and dancing. Scene 7—With the sound of bugles the soldiers of the Confederacy entered. They ran up the flag of the Confederate States. The final episode showed the flag of the United States in place. A group of children executed a flag drill and the pageant closed with the appearance of Uncle Sam, Miss Liberty and Miss Texas.

The National Pressure Cooker for Canning too!
For years the National Pressure Cooker has been standard among housewives and cooking authorities. It is the fastest and most economical cooker; the Government's recommended practice for canning. The toughest old hen will be tender as a broiler when cooked 30 minutes in the National Pressure Cooker. Baked beans in 50 minutes—a whole ham in 50 minutes... these are everyday performances of this great cooker. To see the National Pressure Cooker is to want one! We have a size for every family.

OIL BRIEFS

DALLAS, July 3. (AP)—Oil is reported flowing five to twenty barrels an hour at 4,100 feet in the Texas Consolidated Oil company test on the Walker ranch eight miles northeast of this one, in wildcat territory.

The fourth well in the Holly area, the Standard Oil company's Farm A-2 section 5-13-13, DeSoto parish, Louisiana, has been completed for 1,000 barrels daily at 2,860 feet.

It is between two earlier producers.

The Humble Company told No. 5, estimated at potentially 5,000 barrels a day, flowed 500 barrels yesterday through a three eighths inch choke, and was reported the best producer to date in the Boggy creek area near Palestine, Texas. It is the farthest southwest well in the field and extended the area of production several hundred feet that direction.

A semi-wildcat between Sunshine Hill, the George Proctor No. 1 W. B. Honaker section 1, CM&R survey, has come in at 120 barrels at 885 feet. The Edwards Schlaffke No. 2 Honaker, 300 feet west of the new producer, has been spudded in.

James E. Ferguson Addresses Howard County Voters

CROWD IS RESPONSIVE TO PA JIM

Penitentiary, Taxation Highways Chief Of Topics

Centering his oratory about the "real issues in this campaign," predicting "an era of good will and prosperity when the Fergusons take over the reins," and referring to Governor Dan Moody, his political enemy, in the midst of terms, mingled with bits of sarcasm, Former Governor James E. Ferguson spoke to several hundred persons here Saturday night in the interest of his wife's candidacy for Governor.

Typical Crowd
It was a typical Ferguson crowd that greeted the politician on the lawn of the Howard county court house. And it was a typical Ferguson that had them in an uproar one moment, and the next tense with interest in the things he was saying.

"Tell it to 'em, Jim," seemed to be the popular cry of the night, with a variety of others tossed in at intervals.

The former governor spent almost the entire two hours discussing what he considered the major issues confronting the voters of Texas—the state-wide road bond issue, prohibition, the penitentiary system and taxation.

Referring to opposition to his aiding his wife, Ferguson declared, "you might as well know it right now as any time. When my wife is again elected governor of Texas, old pa will be down there to bring in the chips and fetching up the water."

"God pity some of these boys in this race if they don't have a wife to give them advice. And God pity them if they don't have a wife with more sense than they have."

"Not Afraid"
They are not afraid I'm going to give my wife any bad advice. They are sure to get it. I don't want you to think I'm going to be these. Some of the candidates seem to think I should get mad and leave home just because my wife is elected.

"Come before you tonight," Ferguson said in opening his speech, which a battery of loud speakers carried to the corners of the court-house lawn, "neither to rehearse nor to refresh; neither revive nor renew; not to live in the past. But I do come to talk to you about the present and the future—the present condition of Texas and what awaits it in the future."

"I take it you would rather have me talk plainly. And Jim Ferguson has never talked any other way to the people of Texas. We are nearing the end of the rope. For too long we have been going downhill. This summer you select a governor. My wife is a candidate."

"Class By Self"
I am in a class by myself. If there is a political zoo, it would be the unnamed animal. As it is I'm the only animal in Texas that can neither run for office nor hold one. They won't let me run, but somehow I manage to keep all the other politicians in this great state as busy as a one-eyed man in a three-ring circus."

Ferguson told of the plank in his wife's platform "which is drafted to keep the officials of the state from drinking the bootleg liquor they send the poor devils to the penitentiary for selling." In discussing the plank he declared it was designed so that officials would be compelled to file affidavits they do not drink liquor before they could hold office.

"When that is done," he houted, "I won't be the only one that can't hold office. For too long the public has been subjected to the noising of prohibition officers, who stick the bootlegger in the penitentiary and drink the seized liquor before night. My wife is a prohibitionist. I am an anti. And I'm asking my anti-friends to support my wife while they drink the liquor themselves. Prohibition is not a question of right or wrong any longer."

Economy
Ferguson discussed his wife's plan to create economy in government. He declared the state needed more efficient employees. He advised combining the offices of county assessor and collector, abolishing the chief clerk, combining auditor and treasurer, and limiting all public salaries to $6,000 a year. His wife advocates passage of a law, setting for payment of taxes quarterly rather than annually. He talked at length on "keeping Texas money in Texas."

"On those Wall Street gamblers," he declared, "the worst of Oklahoma gamblers shouldn't look like anything but angels compared to them. They tell you there is no money to be had here. Why? They have sent it all to the coast for the big boys to gamble on."

"My wife wants a law, passed whereby any bank sending more than ten per cent of its capital out of the state shall not be made a state, county or city depository. And when that is done prosperity shall come around the corner. And we're after the shyluck and intend to put him out of business. We believe in the equity of redemption law." We propose to give two years extension by paying interest and principal and having the attorney's fee limited to two per cent. And the foreclosure business would be on the wane.

"It is the law in Oklahoma. It's the law in California, Alabama, New York and Missouri, but just as long as Texas goes without such protection for the farm and firefide, the hearth and the home, this state is going to be the Shyluck's paradise."

"Being governor never ruined Jim Ferguson's conception of the home. I do not oppose capital, but I do stand for the home, for the family life, and if this be socialism, make the most of it. I stand before you tonight and say I will always oppose any measures that threaten the happy family life of this great state. I say the time is here now to rise up and protect the home from the foreclosing profiteers. Farm creditors are oppressing farm debtors. And Mrs. Ferguson and myself are going to Austin to pass laws that will help the masses."

As To Roads
Ferguson spent more than thirty minutes discussing the state-wide road bond issue. He declared he favored an elective highway commission rather than an appointive one.

"Those boys were pretty good when they first went down there," he said, "but it was got so now if you want to see them you have to send an engraved card in on a silver tray borne by a black negro. That's how aristocratic and autocratic the highway commission is now. The Fergusons, who are going to be elected, want to elect the body, and the rest of the crowd want to appoint them."

He declared the "cement trust is behind the $350,000,000 road bond issue." He added, "the corporations are for it, the big papers are for it, and the crooked politicians are for it, but the Fergusons believe in the 'pay as you go' plan."

"There is one thing about me," he said, "I know every political crook as soon as I see his mug. And the crowd I saw down at Austin trying to get that bond issue through would have made the Teapot Dome bunch look like a group of pickers."

"I fought them, and I kept on fighting them, and we finally licked them. Love and Sterling had little Dan as busy as a cat on a rock. And some of these candidates are telling you they fought it. But, friends, they weren't down there when the hell was popping."

About Moody
"Remember three years ago when the road controversy came up and Dan Moody told you voters he was going to produce evidence to send Jim Ferguson to the penitentiary? Well, Dan hasn't produced anything but evidence that he is the biggest fool ever to occupy the governor's chair."

Present funds provide enough for road building, in Ferguson's opinion. "We've got plenty now to build roads. Anyone that needs more than $38,000,000 a year for road building is either too ignorant or too crooked to handle your money."

"If you want to shackle your children with 40-year bonds to pay for 10 year roads, then go the state wide bond issue route. We can build 750 miles of road a year at a cost of $10,000 a mile, and 1,200 miles more at a cost of $5,000 a mile. And they will be roads that will outlast the bonds, and won't be the future generations down with debt, and interest and principal pouring into the cement trust."

Ferguson spoke at length on the penitentiary system. He told of the experience he had while governor, of the visits he made to the prison farms, and how he combined his "experience as a country banker, farmer and railroad worker" to make the system pay money.

"When I was your governor," he declared, "you didn't catch Jim riding around in an airplane. Every Saturday night I went to the prison farms and the penitentiary and tried to solve that problem."

Penitentiary
"I found all hope had been destroyed in the heart of the convict. I found him without friends, and I made up my mind to start something. And I did, and the minute Jim Ferguson's covenant with the convicts was made the system started paying money."

He told of his fight with the legislature when that body appropriated $100,000 for his wife to run the penitentiary on.

"They wanted her to come begging to me, and I didn't want them to embarrass my wife, so I established a $700,000 credit and those ignoramus down there couldn't borrow $70 on the old system."

"They got it in fine shape. It's closed, and those that are in can't get out, and those that are out can't get in.

"I believe in the power of pardon. If it is wrong to reach down and give the friendless convict a lift, then Jesus was a hypocrite and the Bible is a lie."

2000 Pardons
"Listen to this. When my wife is elected she is going to pardon 2,000 of them. She is going to give those poor devils a chance to go out and help their starving children. She is going to do it."

Ferguson said he is against moving the system and declared three groups wants it transferred to Austin, namely, the ones "wanting to steal the oil and gas, ones wanting to steal the surface rights for irrigation purposes, the richest and finest in the world," and, finally, "the ones wanting to move the system to Austin and construct a $5,000,000 building in cedar breaks where only armadillos can live."

Ferguson said he and his wife could take the penitentiary and make it pay. "And we'll hold them there with a barbed wire fence that even a Moody convict wouldn't slip through."

Ferguson closed his address with an appeal to "take up the thread of good government."

"You've been mighty good to us Fergusons. You have honored us as you have no other family. We are here to serve you. We believe you need the service you haven't been receiving. If you want to vote for us, do so. If you don't, vote for some of the others. If others are better than we are, in your belief, vote for them. If you think we are better, you owe it to your state to vote for us."

Ferguson was introduced by C. P. Rogers, who declared he was supporting Barry Miller in the race, but added it "remains to be seen who we support in the run off."

Mr. Ferguson was brought here from Lamesa, by Sam Lamar, J. B. Nall and Ben Miller. Mr. Lamar had arranged for Ferguson to speak here. Preparations were made late Friday, too late for announcement in the press.

Texas Fire Loss Is Over Half Million

AUSTIN, June 27.—Fire destroyed $577,704 worth of property in Texas during May in cities that reported the losses but still this record was good enough to win the praise of the state fire insurance department.

For it cut in half the $1,137,668 fire loss toll of April.

"The Texas fire insurance department attributes this reduction to the relentless war that is being waged against careless fires, vacant house fires and incendiary fires," Commissioner J. W. DeWeese said.

"It wants to commend the city officials and the citizens of Texas for the stand they have taken for fire prevention."

Twenty of the May fires were attributed to incendiarism, with losses of $44,268; and 132 were of an unknown origin, destroying $327,080 of property. Other principal losses were in 32 fires from electricity, with $37,000 losses; 21 from vacant house fires, costing $35,656; and 32 from stoves and furnaces, costing $32,530.

The boys backed away from the other car and followed the girl. Fowler was attempting to grab one of them when he heard an explosion and turned to see his own machine bursting into flames. Start Every Day Right By Awakening Appetite

Occasionally we hear someone say, "My breakfast the year around is always the same." Certainly this does not sound very appetizing; and most of us would dread breakfast-time if we knew we must eat exactly the same sort of meal day after day.

Of course we all know how easy it is to drift into the habit of serving familiar dishes over and over again when we are busy and do not plan our meals ahead of time. And since only certain foods seem suited for breakfast, we sometimes feel it is even harder to vary the menu for that meal than for any other.

However, there are many delicious fruits, cereals, hot dishes and breads that can be used to help make this important first meal of the day much more interesting. During the spring and summer there is a wide variety of fresh fruit that will be very welcome for breakfast, and the following menus will help provide a number of nourishing, well-balanced meals to start the day right.

If Your Brain Seems Sluggish You Need Your Iodine

If your mind is sluggish, your perception slow, and your imagination dull then you probably haven't had your iodine today.

Rapidity of action, keenness of thought, brilliancy of imagination, quickness of perception and soundness of judgment depend a great deal upon the thyroid gland, whose function in turn depends upon iodine. The thyroid gland, which often causes so much trouble, is the speed regulator of life. Although it can store up iodine, convert it, and release it in certain quantities, according to the requirement of the body, it cannot manufacture it.

Iodine is taken into the body by eating, drinking and breathing, so it may be said that food, drink, and air are the purveyors of the necessary raw material to the thyroid. As long as there is sufficient supply of iodine the thyroid behaves, but if there is not, the thyroid often causes a goiter.

The chemical, iodine, was discovered by Courtois in 1812 in the ash-er of seaweeds. Its character and properties were further investigated in 1814 by Gay Lussac. Iodine and its iodides, especially those of sodium and potassium, have been used in medicine since the Chinese are supposed to have introduced them, about 2000 B. C. or earlier.

Anything which comes out of the sea or has contact with it is rich in this protective element, iodine. It exists in sea water, sea plants and animals and in mineral springs. It is obtained from seaweeds, especially those on the north coast of France, the coasts of Spain and Ireland, and the west coast of Scotland. Its principal source at present is the mother liquors of the nitre works in Chile.

Vegetable marine life, such as Irish moss, agar agar and kelp, all edible, contain much iodine.

The greatest amount of iodine is found in shellfish, clams, oysters, lobsters and shrimps, with cod, halibut, shad, bluefish, unckerel, haddock, herring, and yellow perch ranking next. Cod-liver oil and water cress also contain a good deal of iodine.

Butter, eggs and oatmeal are also rich in it. Cucumbers, celery, endives, lettuce, onions, parsnips, potatoes, spinach, rhubarb, tomatoes, pumpkins, squash, unless raised in a soil entirely devoid of iodine, all have a small percentage.

So, whenever you are asked whether or not you have had your iodine today, don't forget to include your iodine, too. — Columbia Missourian.

MRS. FERGUSON'S STRENGTH MINIMIZED BY OBSERVERS; SMALL, STERLING STRONGER

BY RAYMOND BROOKS
AUSTIN, June 30.—The past week has seen Mrs. Ferguson ranked with apparent finality down into the second group of governorship candidates...

These views summarize the drift of widely divergent views, heard both at Austin and in a considerable swing over North and Middle Northwest Texas during the past few days. They represent conclusions based upon a composite of individual expressions by partisan and non-partisan voters.

Just as the race has gone through one or more revisions completely changing its outlook, the conclusions may be all asked as the race lengthens toward the stretch.

The first group should represent candidates who will get some between 165,000 to 100,000 votes apiece. Many say Barry Miller will breast the wire with over 100,000.

The second group would represent those getting from 50,000 to 100,000 votes; but with the line of demarcation so clear that probably with Miller's exception, none of the runners in the second bracket will crowd the 100,000-mark closely.

The rest of the candidates for the democratic nomination ought altogether to get about what the second or third man in the race gets. The past week has definitely shown that the Ferguson race is not a serious threat, if virtually unanimous opinions of everyone heard during the time reflect the substantial truth.

Uncalled Money
This writer has been told repeatedly there is $1,000 in Austin waiting a caller that Love will not get 65,000 votes. He does not know who has it; and it wouldn't do him any good if he knew.

In West Texas there is cumulative opinion that Sterling, Mayfield and Clint Small will break about even in carrying the midwestern, thickly-populated counties that are down to the southeast of Senator Small's own Panhandle pastures.

These are the counties that most likely went two to one for Hoover, and you don't hear a great deal about Sen. Love in them.

Sterling and Small seem to be the most uncertain factors in the race. Both are on the up-grade, with Mr. Sterling's campaign just in its early formative stage.

Small Gains
Of all the candidates now, it appears that Sen. Small has shown the strongest capacity to enthrone his adherents.

TERMINAL IN CRAWFORD LARGE ONE

The Southland Greyhound Lines, Inc., one of the strongest and largest motor bus transportation systems in the country, will open its new Big Spring terminal in the Crawford hotel annex, here Tuesday morning, according to J. S. Hopson, district passenger agent, Fort Worth.

Mr. Hopson said a second conference of West Texas bus operators would be held in Abilene Saturday in an effort to "settle" a new West Texas-wide schedule of all lines.

The railroad commission held a hearing in Mineral Wells last week at which operators applied for numerous changes and revisions.

The Big Spring bus terminal is located on Scurry street near West Third, a few yards from the Bankhead highway. A driveway extends entirely through the north side of the building. Entering this a bus may discharge passengers through a wide entrance into the main waiting room. This waiting room is unusually large.

Large rooms for baggage and express and a commodious ticket office open off it. Both men's and women's lounging and rest rooms adjoin.

Connecting with the waiting room on the south side is the Crawford Sandwich Shop, opened last week. It is, like the bus station, new in every detail.

The Crawford annex was but recently finished. The main corridor, beginning with a short flight of steps from the east end of the bus waiting room past the lounging rooms, connects with the Crawford banquet hall and ball room and, at its south end, with the main lobby of the hotel.

CITY TENNIS MEET WILL OPEN HERE

Barnett and Bishop to Defend Crowns On Courts

A pair of champions will be hard pressed to defend their crowns this week-end when Carrol Barnett, senior titleholder, and Curtis Bishop, junior champion, face the greatest array of tennis talent ever to step foot upon a local court in the annual Big Spring Tennis Club tournament.

Neither of them are ruling favorites, indeed Barnett being conceded only a slender chance to grasp the title from such players as Ray Brown, brilliant captain of the Southwestern University Racqueters, Frank Whitehurst, former Texas A. and M. letterman, Charles Weyer, San Francisco club star who is visiting in the city, and H. B. Dunningan, who learned a bit of tennis under Doctor Penick at Texas.

Other probable entrants who are considered as threats are Kenneth Hart, former Albany high school star, Theo Ferguson, who with Howard Smith captured the district meet for two consecutive years, Milburn Barnett, Scotty Wilson, and the flock of junior stars headed by Bishop and Harry Jordan.

In the doubles Ray Brown and Whitehurst, last year's winners, are considered almost cinches to repeat, for their play this spring has marked them as one of the best combinations in West Texas. The Carroll and Milburn Barnett combination is a threat, as is the partnership of Meyer, who is something of a dark horse, and Dunningan. Hart and Vines present a combination that is to be reckoned with, but none of the pairs have yet displayed the form that carried Brown and Whitehurst to the title last year.

It is expected that the crown Bishop has worn for two years will be taken away during the week-end. His doubles partner, Harry Jordan, a thirteen year old racket wielding wizard, has several times beaten him in match play, and Charles Vines has recently stepped up from the ranks to be considered a serious challenger for the championship. In addition there is the finalist of the winter tournament, Tom Hutto, Big Spring high school star, probably Bill Neal, Conhoma ace, and Fred Townsend, ranking No. 3 on the high school squad this year.

In doubles Bishop and Jordan are favored to win handsily over the field, with possible rivals being Davidson and Vines, and of course the defending champions, Hutto and Townsend. Junior play being Thursday at eight o'clock at the local courts, entries being accepted until that time. Senior play begins Friday at the same time, entries accepted until one o'clock Thursday afternoon when drawings will be made at the Chamber of Commerce office. An entrance fee of $1 is charged for senior entrance, nothing for the junior. Entry can be made through either Ray Brown or H. B. Dunningan for senior play, and through Ray Brown for junior competition. The Herald will forward all entries to the tennis association.

Chase Ends In Arrest, And Theft Charge

A chase that extended from the Bankhead highway east, through the business district, to the Casino Dance Hall, resulted in the arrest Sunday night of one youth.

Constantly John Williams declared today a charge of theft would be lodged against him.

The chase started when Williams and his deputy, McArthur, saw two youths taking automobile tires at a junk yard east of Big Spring. When the boys saw the officers they left the scene in their automobile, with Williams giving chase in his car.

The race ended when the car driven by the boys went into a ditch in an effort to round a curve. Williams, standing on the outside of his automobile, was thrown from the car. A .45 calibre revolver, said to have been thrown from the car also, was recovered.

Charges Filed After Fight At Baseball Park

A free for all fight between players of the Richardson Refinery-Cohoma and the Barbers, City League baseball teams, which occurred in the ninth inning of the game to determine the winner of the first half of the season Monday afternoon, went into the channels of the County Attorney today.

County Attorney James Little announced this afternoon an investigation, to be followed by several charges, would be launched today. One charge of affray was filed against one of the Richeo players early this afternoon. Little announced several had appeared before him in regard to the fight. He also announced his department would probe the statement made by several that J. W. Patton, Barber catcher, was spiked in the forehead by one of two Richeo players while he was on the ground.

"We can't have the players think they can go out there and fight like they did Monday afternoon," Little said.

He indicated several arrests would be made after the probe was completed. The charge of affray was filed against Warren Connelly, left fielder for Richeo, who, with Patton, were the first to start fighting.

The fight started in the first of the ninth inning, when Richeo was leading 5 to 0.

150 ATTEND 4-H CLUBS' RALLY HERE

Howard County Boys And Girls Meet At City Park

Approximately 150 4-H club boys and girls attended a county 4-H club rally at City Park here today. Filled baskets of fried chicken and accessories were spread before the crowd. About thirty-five gallons of lemonade was consumed by the crowd during the noon hour.

Immediately after the lunch hour the group assembled for a photograph and to listen to a program from members of their own group. Sidney King 1929 winner of the Howard County club discussed how each local club was affiliated with the county organization and that with the State organization and the National 4-H clubs and how boys could win State and National premiums by efficient work.

Hubert Hayworth also winner gave a brief report on his trip to the College and to the boys' encampment. A trip to A. & M. College during the Farmers Short Course is more than worth the effort required to win it, said Hayworth.

The Big Spring Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring a 4-H club program being conducted by county agent J. V. Bush and county home demonstration agent Mrs. Lucille Allgood and words of encouragement were given by Manager C. T. Watson who spoke on the subject of "Doing Things."

Club members were exhorted by County Agent Bush to keep their records and complete their projects in order that those doing the most creditable work could receive State recognition. The afternoon was spent in playing games and telling stories for entertainment.

Bowls and vases of roses were placed at vantage points about the room where the ceremony was performed and ferns and pot plants adorned an improvised altar. Thornton Crews, minister of the Church of Christ, officiated with the ring ceremony.

The bride was beautifully gowned in pink chiffon crepe and cream lace with harmonizing accessories and carried a bouquet of pink carnations and baby breath tied with ribbons of the same hue. Miss Nofa Couch, the only attendant of the bride, wore flesh chiffon crepe with accessories to match.

BONEHEAD CLUB ORGANIZED; KUYKENDALL ANNOUNCED AS CANDIDATE FOR GOVERNOR

SON ALSO INJURED BY MACHINE

Mysterious Infernal Device Believed To Be Cause

AMARILLO, Tex., June 27 (AP)—Mrs. A. D. Payne, wife of a well-known Amarillo attorney, was blown to pieces, and her 14-year-old son probably fatally injured, today when the Payne automobile was destroyed by what police believe was an infernal machine.

The boy was hurled 30 feet into the yard. The chassis jury unanimous—for the extreme penalty.

Looks Like TNT
Bits of wiring and pieces of dry cell batteries were found by detectives in the wreckage, and they said they believed either dynamite or some kind of powerful explosive had been placed in the automobile.

Payne had been a candidate for district judge but recently withdrew. He had participated as an attorney in several sensational murder cases in the Panhandle during the past year.

Tex Thornton, widely-known nitroglycerine expert and oil well shooter of the U. S. Torpedo Company, inspected the wreckage and said positively the blast was not caused by gasoline or dynamite, but that either nitroglycerine or TNT had been used.

Mrs. Payne and her son were driving towards the downtown district and were about 10 blocks from home when the blast occurred. The boy's left side, next to the driver, was badly mangled. An arm and a leg were almost torn from his body. Police believed the infernal machine had been placed under the driver's seat.

All available men of the sheriff's office, police department and the district attorney's office were working on the case.

38 KILLED IN STORMS

By The Associated Press
Forty-eight persons were killed yesterday and last night in electric, hail, and rain storms that swept down over Ontario, Newfoundland and the northeastern section of the United States.

Four passengers were killed and one was believed to have been fatally injured when a passenger coach of a train bound from Winnipeg to Toronto plunged into the flooded Vermilion river at Capreol, Ontario.

Also near Capreol, the engineer of a freight train and six men, believed to be tramp stealing rides, were killed as the train ran into a washout and was wrecked.

154 Years Old

MORE than a century and a half the United States of America, as a nation, has been the growing wonder of the earth. It has offered opportunity to millions from every corner of the globe. It has been the leader in almost every line of human endeavor.

In 1817 the United States leaped the European cauldron and the thousands of American men and women offered up in the burning pots before the altar of the God, quite in contrast to another Melting Pot, that into which peoples of every nation and color are mixed into one great mass—the American people.

These are peace times. Our nation is not at war with other nations. As we celebrate the 154th anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence we cannot do so from seeing and hearing unending threats upon the peace of the world, of ourselves.

Thank Imperialism! It has been a favorite epithet of people on every continent. Once the American flag was considered everywhere a symbol of friendship, of peace and fairness.

Regardless of what we as American citizens may believe about our economic policies we must admit that those policies are intended to the unfriendly feeling that has been accumulating since the Mussolini, dictator of Italy, has been ready even anxious, to try spurs at conquest.

Mussolini's outspoken policy is for the spread of communism and the destruction of governments similar to his. Russia's particular target is the United States.

Raymond Poincare, former president and former premier of France, last week denounced the United States for its new high protective tariff policy, made mandatory under the Reed-Smoot bill, just signed the president.

Mussolini hiked important duties on automobiles clearly as in retaliation for our new tariff rates.

War is immediately probable. War always is possible, quite possible.

The tariff commission has an opportunity greatly to improve foreign trade by proper use of the flexible clauses of the tariff bill.

Not with larger army and navy with common sense in common, made possible by the people through wise selection of men for the body may the situation be remedied.

HOW'S your HEALTH

Reducers

The federal government has issued a warning on the dangers of obesity remedies.

Since the boyish form has come into such prominence there has appeared on the market numerous so-called fat reducers.

Practically all of these remedies assert themselves harmless and effective, claim to achieve results without diet or exercise. Yet practically all of them are ineffective and some are positively dangerous.

The bulletin of the federal government well summarizes the condition by stating that no drug or mixture of drugs at the present time known to the medical profession can be offered for the promiscuous use of the public in reducing weight without at the same time introducing a large element of danger.

Most of the so-called fat reducing preparations contain either thyroid or laxatives. Thyroid is a potent substance which may bring about harmful effects if taken without proper supervision.

Cathartics are sometimes sold as fat reducers on the principle that the diarrhea resulting from their use will abstract fluids from the body and thereby produce an appreciable loss of weight. The use of such weight reducing methods if carried on for any length of time would bring on very marked weakness and profound disturbances in the body.

Still another type of fat-reducing nostrum are sold, with instructions to the user for a bath with a soap in hot water.

The perspiration produced by the hot bath and the exercise may cause the user to lose a pound or so of fluid. The tendency is for the weight to be regained just as soon as the resulting thirst is appeased.

Weight reduction is not safe except under supervision.

Diet and exercise are the only two dependable means known to medicine for the reduction of weight in normal cases of obesity.

Judge Shepherd of Chico will be here during the Jubilee Celebration.

OPINIONS OF OTHERS

Why He Favors Sterling

Herald: How comes Hon. Ross Sterling, says that he is not "running" any office, but has placed his name upon the Texas primary ballot if the people of Texas want to leave he will do so, not for financial remuneration, not for honor, but as a duty that he has placed upon himself from this state from which he has had a great and successful business.

He has been 23 years since the new Ross Sterling, and as shown upon the back of a chair in the town of Alto a few days ago he returned to the plain country in an elaborate oratorical manner, the postures with his hand upon Ross Sterling original kind, he recalled the fact that years ago, he and 11 other boys and girls and a good mother were operating a farm in the southern part of Chambers county, raising truck and carrying it to Galveston and selling it to the produce row in the island city.

Time had marked him in looks, certainly, but he was the same good natured rural boy that he was way back yonder. Money hasn't changed him, wealth and prestige have done him no harm, and we have watched his career through all these years as he climbed the ladder of success, and the thousands of dollars he has accumulated have been turned back into the channels of his life to make it a better place to live.

He is a Christian citizen of the highest type, and while he will not countenance the publicity, we do know that he has placed thousands of dollars into the coffers of the Christian churches of Texas, to say nothing of the amount that has gone into schools.

He is not a politician, because he never had the experience in his younger years in that game. He is not an orator, because he never had the opportunity to finish high school. All of the education he obtained was in a frame schoolhouse in Chambers county where one teacher taught all the pupils. He managed to get to the fourth or fifth grade here and had to launch out with his brother to keep the family larder filled.

Through all those years, like other boys of his age, he was dreaming dreams and seeing visions, and by the school of experience, he has made many of those dreams come true and has accumulated much of his world's goods, and has permitted that deed in a manner that no man or set of men can look at his record and find a blemish hereon. Now as he turns down on the western side of life, rich in experience of business and worldly affairs, he presents this experience to the people of Texas and says that if I can serve you as governor I will do so.

In presenting himself to the people of Texas, Mr. Sterling is offering something that Texas needs, and that is an experienced executive, who knows how to guide the destinies of this big state through the turmoil of politics and strife. That he is competent there is no doubt, that he is honest is beyond all reproach, and we believe that the majority of voters will see this matter as well as on July 26; at least we hope so.

The Alto Herald will support Mr. Sterling in this campaign, because we know him, because we sincerely believe that he will make us a successful governor, and we have the assurance that he hasn't failed in his life missions, and he has shouldered propositions just about as big as the governorship of Texas, and the empire state will make up to mistake if he is elected to take up the job where Dan Moody leaves off.

Hollywood Sights & Sounds

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—There are few things so funny as a comedian being interviewed.

One expects each moment from their lips gems of wit and humor which seldom are forthcoming. Probably because they know that they are expected to say bright things to interviewers, most of the talking screen's noted wisecrackers seem to draw into a shell of reserve, and conversationally become "poor copy."

Jack Oakie is that way. He usually begins by admitting that he isn't funny, a precaution learned after one newspaperwoman some time ago, gave him the printed razz because he so miserably failed to live up to his reputation.

"It's like having a gun thrown in your face with the command: 'Be funny,'" says Jack, who out of school is one of Hollywood's most dependable gagsters.

BEATRICE LILLE

Beatrice Lille is quoted at every turn because of her pointed remarks and bon mots, and her humor has become a colony legend.

But before most interviewers she is reserved, and displays only an occasional flash of the wit which has made her one of the screen's most popular comedienne of the stage. It is out of school at parties and such, that Lady Peel shines.

Then there is Maurice Chevalier, whose personality has captured France and America—my fan mail (both halves of it), attests to that. When Chevalier knows he is talking "for publication," it is seldom when his magnetism shines through his defensive armor of reserve. He seems impatient, slightly annoyed uneasy.

REASON ENOUGH

Will Rogers shuns interviews, for the reason that he's paid for writing his wisecracks and sees no reason for giving them away.

Eddie Cantor utters pearls of fun at every turn, but subjected to an interview, becomes tragically unamusing. Marie Dressler, character actress and comedienne, is more serious than otherwise in her talk.

There are exceptions, like Polly Moran and Marjorie White, and Fifi Dorsay, whose stream of chatter is convulsing. And often those who aren't expected to be funny, like Estelle Taylor and William Powell, keep the reporter amused for hours.

A NICE GIRL COMES TO TOWN

By Maysie Greig

SYNOPSIS: The break-up of one romance leads to another for Mary Lou Leslie when she comes to London for a visit. She is cast aside by Brynmor Whitmore as "too nice," and he becomes engaged to Clarice Day, a night club dancer. Mary Lou then attends a round of parties with Tony Titherington, a young aviator. Tony's ambition is to fly around the world and he seeks financial backing from a wealthy aunt. She seems particularly interested in girls with whom Tony goes, and "show girls" find no favor with her. Tony decides to take Mary Lou for her inspection in the hope that she will approve of her. Aunt Ethelberta, an eccentric spinster, is curd with Mary Lou at first, but takes a liking to her when she finds that Mary Lou is "sensible" and knows a few things about gardening.

CHAPTER 14

A DILEMMA FOR TONY

In the dining room, delightful with its old fireplace and antique furniture, Mary Lou met the other two members of Miss Titherington's household.

Mrs. Fawcett, the elderly widow of an Indian army colonel, lived with her as a companion. She and Miss Titherington once had been schoolmates. The other inmate of "Ham Green Cottage" was a Miss Pitts, a maid of all work. She was a buxom country girl.

The informal atmosphere soon made Mary Lou feel quite at home, much to her surprise. Her nervousness disappeared as Miss Pitts served lunch.

"I suppose you and Tony see a great deal of each other in town," Miss Titherington said, as the first course was being cleared away.

"Oh, yes, Mary Lou and I are great pals," Tony answered for her. "Playtime pals. Dancing together, parties together, you know."

Was it Mary Lou's imagination, or had he deliberately stressed the words "playtime pals"? Miss Titherington appeared to notice it, too. "I hear this season is fairly jolly in town."

"It is," said Tony.

"Not half as jolly, I'm sure, as the seasons used to be in India before the war," Mrs. Fawcett began.

Miss Titherington looked depressed.

"You must bring Mary Lou down for a week-end," she interrupted, addressing Tony.

"Great," he said. "I'll do it."

"Have you taken Mary Lou up yet?"

"Not yet," said Tony. "I'm going to ask her to go up with me some day next week."

Mary Lou's eyes shone excitedly. "Oh, I'd love to go up. Will you really take me, Tony?"

"Sure," Tony told her.

"Well, you can have your flights," said Miss Titherington. "Nothing would induce me to go up in one of those abominable contraptions."

She reached for a little Swiss cow bell and rang it sharply.

"You can clear away," she said to Miss Pitts. Then to Mary Lou, "Come along with me. I'll take you around and show you the garden."

Miss Titherington talked volubly on gardening matters and seemed pleased with Mary Lou's intelligent comments. Some time later, as they stood in one of the hot houses inspecting some tomatoes, Tony's aunt remarked suddenly:

"Tell me, child, are you playing about with my nephew, or are you seriously fond of him?"

Mary Lou wished Miss Titherington wouldn't insist on asking such embarrassing questions. What was her idea, anyway?

"Why, I'm fond of Tony, surely," she stammered.

Miss Titherington nodded.

"That's what I wanted to know. I've always been fond of him myself, yet I can't understand any girl's wanting to marry him. But then," she chuckled, "I don't suppose we ever can understand what anyone should want to marry out relatives."

His aunt's disposition was so genial at tea time that Tony decided to broach the subject of his contemplated flight as soon as possible. There was an opportunity when Mrs. Fawcett lured Mary Lou upstairs to see a collection of Indian brass ornaments.

"Look here, Aunt Ethelberta," he began. "I'm dead keen to start preparations for that flight around the world. Remember, I told you about it some time ago?"

"I remember," Miss Titherington's mouth shut like a trap.

Tony coughed nervously.

"And—er—I'd be most awfully grateful if you would help me out. 'Help you out? What can I do? I'm no mechanic. What are you driving at?'"

"It—it's about the expense," he began again, this time more diffidently.

"Well, why on earth didn't you say so in the first place?" snapped Miss Titherington.

Tony swallowed twice in an effort to get control of himself.

"I was only trying to be tactful, you see."

"Tut, tut. I have no time for tact on this proposition. I've been thinking this matter over for some time, for I knew you'd be after me again soon. Here's your answer: the money for this crazy flight of yours will be deposited in your name at the bank on the day your engagement is definitely announced—and not before."

Tony could only stare at her. He never had expected any such stipulation as this. Had his aunt gone completely out of her mind? What had his engagement to do with the flight, anyway?

"My engagement!" he said weakly.

"But you know that I've never thought of getting engaged!"

"Well, if you haven't thought of it, I've done it for you. I say again, from the day your engagement is announced you can rely on me to back this absurd flight of yours. That's settled. Do you understand?"

His cigar was burning Tony's fingers, but he didn't notice it.

"My engagement to whom?" he asked.

His aunt gave him a contemptuous look.

"To this new girl, Mary Lou, of course. She's a nice girl, sensible and unspoiled. You're lucky to get her. She'll make you a capital wife." She raised a hand when Tony started to speak.

"No, I won't hear a word of protest. You've played around too long. It's high time you settled down to become a useful citizen. Unless you persuade Mary Lou to become engaged to you, there'll be no flight as far as I'm concerned. My mind is made up!"

With that she stalked impressively out of the room. Tony knew only too well of his aunt's stubbornness.

He was moody and silent as he drove Mary Lou home.

The day had started out well enough, but now he felt that he was in the devil's own mess.

Mary Lou had impressed Aunt Ethelberta. There was no doubt of that. And she had insisted that he become engaged to her! Tony had brought Mary Lou down to prove to his aunt that he knew at least one nice girl, but he never had intended her to think that he was serious. Hadn't he told her a dozen times that he had no intention of marrying?

He had tried to argue with her, but to no avail.

"It's all nonsense," he had said finally. "Mary Lou would laugh at the mere suggestion."

"Ask her and see," had been Miss Titherington's retort. "My mind's made up, I tell you."

Tony knew from past experience of his aunt's disposition. Once she had an idea in her head, it was worse than futile to oppose her wishes.

What was he to do?

On the one hand was his fixed determination never to marry any girl. Long ago Tony had promised himself never to become burdened with any domestic responsibilities.

And on the other hand, unless Mary Lou would consent to become engaged to him, he must give up all hopes of his flight. If Aunt Ethelberta didn't finance the flight, his most cherished dream would be shattered. That was unthinkable. The flight meant more to him than anything in the world—more than a hundred Mary Lous.

Tony knew that Mary Lou would understand how eager he was to make the flight after planning on it for so long. If only she would consent to become engaged to him temporarily until the flight was completed—everything would be fine.

That would fulfill his aunt's insane stipulation, and surely there could be no harm in it, so long as Mary Lou understood perfectly that he was not serious.

Of course, there was Mary Lou herself to be considered, but he

And so they talk, these "not-so-old timers." They remember especially the "fun" at high school and favorite or unfavorable teachers. The trips to other towns with the football team recall hectic days that they are not so old as to wish that they could do it all over again.

After the business session, Mrs. K. S. Beckett gave the closing prayer. Refreshments were served to the following officers: Mesdames Clyde Hutchins, W. R. Douglas, R. V. Jones, Lester King, R. A. Parker, W. T. Bolt, J. A. Austin, C. E. Carter, K. S. Beckett and M. H. Cravens.

The first demand of the new corset is an unbroken line from bust to below the hips in order to give the proper foundation for dresses with the normal waistline and moulded princess effect. The allright girle of elastic webbing has been abandoned almost altogether in favor of combinations of elastic with satin, batiste or crepe de chine, with the attached brassiere in net or lace.

"These are lovely models in delphinium shades, pale and deep, the turquoise of the Elegant Eighties, and the Sevres china tint of the eighteenth century. Then there are many quiet cool shades for town wear, a lovely hyacinth-blue, the stronger Chinese, a natter blue and plenty of baby for evening wear."

Madame Claire is combining a daring rose-pink with brilliant blue for a rarely beautiful evening dress of mousseline, with shoulder cape and double volant.

The dark blue shoe is becoming almost as popular as black and is worn whenever the gown calls for it.

"Navy silk serge, plain or with the tiny pin-dots, make the majority of smart jacket-suits for morning and travel wear."

And Mrs. Ethel Holland Little of Woman's Home Companion quotes from her Paris correspondent, Madame Revilla, to the following extent: "Hundreds of smart women gathered at the Casino this evening for baccarat and for once black did not dominate the scene. In its place was blue—blue in every shade—pale blue, mauve blue, turquoise blue, sea blue, sapphire blue, blue Sèvres, dark blue—these are only some of the tones endorsed on

Lo! The Garter Returneth Blue Is Prevailing Color for Late Summer and Early Fall Fashions

BY ADA E. LINGO Ever since king whoeveritwas retrieved lady whoeveritwas's garter from the ball room floor with a deep bow (and a deeper frown in the direction of the gallants who snickered) and loosed the little saying "Honi soit qui mal y pense," my ladies garter has been an object of amusement to both the good and the evil minded.

Unromantic things they often are—circlets of stretched cottonized rubber lying limply on the floor beside an old house shoe. But fashion says that they are coming back—

Directly in line with femininity they are coming back. And believe us, if they do, it will be in full cognizance of the fact that they are at once the most feminine and sophisticated piece of wearing apparel designed for women.

They will be of narrow widths covered with silk or satin to match the frock. They will be of the type to lend without embarrassment to the eloping girlfriend to be one of the things "something old, something new, something borrowed, or something blue" that she must have to face the altar with correctly.

And the reason that we harp so long on the fact that the garter (that demon of stopt circulation) is "coming back," is because we think that it typifies the new note of women's appeal and takes us back to the days when king whoeveritwas squealed his gallants with the little saying "Evil be to him who evil thinketh," as he presented lady whoeveritwas her garter from the glassy surface of the ball-room floor.

LET US HAVE OUR LITTLE SAY. And in this same strain let us have our little say about corsets and gussets.

"Gussets"... a word to conjure with... a Rabalaisian word almost too bare and strong for this country and this period. But pardon again our wandering. Let us quote Miss Langelier:

"Corsets, too, have most assuredly come back, and even that old-fashioned lacing in the back. Although many women are loathe to accept them, they are undoubtedly necessary for the new gowns and the best adjustment for the high waistline which will be chic from now on."

"New features of the 1930 corset are the use of gussets at the top and at the lower edge, the uplifting curved lines of the brassieres and the deep, back decollete of evening models. Gussets are more employed than ever before because the greater length makes sitting down almost impossible without them."

"The first demand of the new corset is an unbroken line from bust to below the hips in order to give the proper foundation for dresses with the normal waistline and moulded princess effect. The allright girle of elastic webbing has been abandoned almost altogether in favor of combinations of elastic with satin, batiste or crepe de chine, with the attached brassiere in net or lace."

"These are lovely models in delphinium shades, pale and deep, the turquoise of the Elegant Eighties, and the Sevres china tint of the eighteenth century. Then there are many quiet cool shades for town wear, a lovely hyacinth-blue, the stronger Chinese, a natter blue and plenty of baby for evening wear."

Madame Claire is combining a daring rose-pink with brilliant blue for a rarely beautiful evening dress of mousseline, with shoulder cape and double volant.

The dark blue shoe is becoming almost as popular as black and is worn whenever the gown calls for it.

"Navy silk serge, plain or with the tiny pin-dots, make the majority of smart jacket-suits for morning and travel wear."

And Mrs. Ethel Holland Little of Woman's Home Companion quotes from her Paris correspondent, Madame Revilla, to the following extent: "Hundreds of smart women gathered at the Casino this evening for baccarat and for once black did not dominate the scene. In its place was blue—blue in every shade—pale blue, mauve blue, turquoise blue, sea blue, sapphire blue, blue Sèvres, dark blue—these are only some of the tones endorsed on

Stockings are taking on tones that are strikingly somber. Brownish and copper-beiges, smoky greys and tans are being seen with all the new light frocks and form almost amazing contrast with white and pastel-colored evening dresses.

An interesting development is the lighter coat worn over darker frocks. One of the smartest models consists of a foilard frock in a black and white small flowered design and plain tailored coat of white shantung with a neat black velvet collar.

Dresses with yokes, blouses or tunics of very light tone and the rest in dark fabric are very chic. Vionnet uses light-colored, surplised jackets with dark frocks. Black with white is a big favorite, as usual. Dark blues with white or ecru, tailored suits in blue popelin, with white or rose-colored blouses, black taffeta with cream lace, all announce chic color contrasts this season.

Pastel pink and the blue called "lavie" because it looks somewhat washed out and thus delicately pale, are combined in charming contrast for many smart summer frocks. Schiaparelli put this half and half effect in a pink and white tussor frock with a pleated flounce set low down on the skirt.

The Pator combination of pink and black is still popular, although a little on the wane, and there is dark blue, trimmed with light blue, lilac dresses with blue coats and lovely pink and mauve combinations, not to mention scarlet with royal purple but together as only a Frenchman could do it.

Club winners feted by losers

The six losers for the year of the Bluebonnet Bridge club entertained the six winners and their families with a chicken barbecue at the City Park last evening.

The menu consisted of barbecued chicken, salads, deviled eggs, pickles, iced tea, toast and ice cream.

After the barbecue enough of the members and guests went to the home of Mrs. Jack Hodges to make five tables of bridge.

Mrs. E. M. LaBeff won high score for the year and Mrs. Lee Weathers won high for club members for the evening. E. M. LaBeff won high for the men.

Mrs. S. L. Baker will be hostess to the club July 16 at her home at 200 Dixie street, Washington Place.

Those attending the barbecue were: Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Shive, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Service, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Rives, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Weathers, Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Barker, Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Plans Made To Fete Visiting Royalty

Tomorrow afternoon between 4 and 5 o'clock a tea will be given for the visiting duchesses at the home of Mrs. E. O. Ellington, president of the City Federation of Women's Clubs.

This will be for the purpose of introducing the duchesses, the princesses and the maids of honor who will be associated for the next three days. Invitations have been issued to only a few people outside the royal group.

Following the tea will come a small banquet for the Duchesses and their escorts at the Crawford Hotel. And immediately following the coronation the Queen's Ball will be held.

Private entertainment for the visiting royalty has been planned but none of these plans have been made public as yet.

Coy Cook, A. Rowland and Alton Ledbetter Win Library Essay Contest

Coy B. Cook of Lomax community won the first prize for the best essay written by a county school child on "Why Howard County Needs a County Library."

The second prize goes to Alton Ledbetter; also of Lomax. He will receive a shirt given by Gary & Son.

The third prize will go to Alpha Rowland of Moore community. This will be a book, "Cockatoo" by Gladys Hasty Carroll and is to be given by the Big Spring Herald.

Call For Prizes

If the winners will call at the Herald office and ask for Miss Lindgo, Woman's Editor, they will receive their prizes. They should then go to the Bradshaw Studio and have their pictures made.

The Winning Essay

Howard county needs a county library because of its education value to her citizens. When we say a county library we mean a free library system with headquarters located at the county seat, and whose object is to distribute free of charge books to every man, woman, boy or girl in even the most remote part of our country.

One might wonder just what kind of literature a library of this kind has to offer. This brings in one of the advantages of the system for all libraries offer a sufficient amount of fiction, but classical literature, encyclopedias, reference books, information on any kind of research work, magazines, newspapers and plays. It is probably that the rural citizenship will receive more benefit from a library of this kind than others for at the present time there is very little available help for them. A county library would have a complete set of books dealing with the various problems related to farm work, poultry raising, dairying, gardening and the various phases of work, which rural people are interested in.

Today none of our rural schools have sufficient libraries. Often the teacher calls for a report on a book which the student does not have or cannot borrow. Sometimes he is not able to buy the book, but if we had a county library the student could get the book free of charge, read it, make his report, and return it so the librarian might issue the very same book to hundreds of other students throughout our county for the same purpose.

People are now beginning to recognize the fact that the literature read is going to influence his life and have a part in moulding his character. Boys and girls are going to read something, and it seems an easy thing for the poorer sort of literature to fall into their hands. With good clean literature available to thousands of people it is probable that there could be a marked change within the next few years. There seems to be a tendency on the part of the youth of today to distaste instead of appreciate classical literature as well as classical music. The only way to overcome this deplorable condition is to give to the youth a supply of fresh new books so that they may be taught while young to recognize, appreciate and enjoy good literature.

Texas has two hundred fifty four counties. Only thirteen of these can boast county libraries, but the testimonials of these thirteen positive prove of their advantages. We can not afford to let Howard county offer to the youth less educational advantages than her sister counties.

No doubt the question of the cost of establishing and maintaining this institution is uppermost in the minds of many. It is estimated that the cost will be around four thousand dollars per year. The county commissioners have the power to create the system and it will be financed by the commissioners appropriating a certain sum of money to be used this way. The state gives a certain sum annually to help carry on the work. The tax rate can not exceed five cents on the one hundred dollars.

The cost might seem enormous when one considers that Howard county has got along thus far without a library, but anything worth while costs, and the good that this

OILBELT VS. CITY LEAGUE TODAY

THE WATER BUCKET

Big Long Slim Boy Tim Grissett with his horde of cohorts come galloping in from the oil fields this afternoon for a baseball game with the city slickers. Grissett, it will be recalled by those who had the misfortune to attend the pugilistic encounter staged for the customers between the Barbers and Richeo, was the lad that hurled for the towel tusslers. Today's game begins at 4 o'clock, central standard time, and it behooves us to inform holders of passes that they are not worth the paper they are written on today, tomorrow and Saturday. The field team plays on a 60-40 basis after expenses have been taken out. If their passes were good there wouldn't be anything but expenses and who wants to split a bunch of expenses 60-40 or any other direction. So Shylock gets his knife out and it costs money to see these frays.

What is the future of the City League? That seems to be the pre-dominating inquiry among the City League followers. A revision is going to be necessary. The board of governors will meet tonight and decide partly what is to be done. Four teams or six. Four seemingly would be better. But the thing started out with six and we hate to lose ground. The Barbers are talking about merging with the Texas and Pacific. Such a merger would provide a strong team, it is true, but what else would it do? It would throw lots of amateur ball players out of a team to play on. There are 22 men on the two teams. Should they combine that would mean 16 would be waived away. The main thing, when this league was started, we believe, was to provide means for baseball players to play ball. Two teams would place vacated by the withdrawal of the Laundry. It is indeed a problem.

We would much rather go take a nose dive in the nearest swimming pool than hear that argument that is due to arise tonight over the conduct of Richeo players at the ball game Monday. Everything is over not. That is, all's over but the putting. The main thing is someone spiked Patton in the head. If it can be determined which player did the spiking he should be booted unceremoniously out of the league for the rest of the year. But it should be definitely, you verify, definitely decided, the shoe the spike was on, and the foot the shoe was on, and the sole owner and operator of the pedal extremity. If that can be done, then the possessor of the same should be given his walking papers by the City League officials.

Ha, ha! Hey, hey! We see by the printed page that none other than Wendell Bedichek will be in the golf tournament at Abilene during the West Texas Press Association. Ha, and a brace of golf-faws. We can't play golf any better than Hugo the gangling galley gatherer, and would just as soon be on a diet of fried mush and drar our bunion laden feet around the course, but we could eliminate the man that resides to our right. This office boasts of some stellar lights. Such golf-faws as Joe Galbraith, the supt., Bill Yarbro the fellow that makes all the mistakes in the paper, even N. L. Miller, mauler of the linotypes, reside in the rear quarters of this establishment. We could take 'em all, spot 'em four strokes a hole, win all their money and then whip their ears down playing the more gentle game of stud in the mud, joker good for aces, straights and flushes.

CROUCH SET TO START BATTLE

Dickman To Hurl In Fourth of July Fray

Headed by Tip Grissett, flashy hurler of the Oilbelt League, the boys "from the field" will invade Big Spring this afternoon for the first of a three game series with the City League All-Stars.

The battle will start at 4 o'clock. The two All-Star aggregations will clash riday afternoon at 8 o'clock in a feature Fourth of July battle, the final tilt between the two being set for Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

Each of the tilts will be played at Dusky D. diamond, just east of the city on the Bankhead highway.

Sammy Sain's shining lights had a light workout Wednesday afternoon. It has not been decided the exact team which he will send against the invading aggregation in the pener.

All of the hurlers are set for the fray, although Dickman, the stellar light of Richeo's contingent, probably will not be used before tomorrow inasmuch as he shutout the Barbers in the first half championship tilt Monday afternoon.

Grouch, the light haired electric refrigerator dispenser, and incidentally, the latest crack twirler for joia Richeo's ranks, is plenty ready for the games. Lefty Potter, the glittering southpaw with the personality plus grin, Simms, the jerring young man of osden's team, Jess Vick, the veteran with the lazy lob, and please-go-away-and-let-me-sleep Baber, the Texas and Pacific odd hander, are on tap to go against the boys that fill the oil tanks.

Grissett declared this morning he did not know exactly whom he would use against the city slickers in the initial contest.

Sain declared rouch will probably receive the call today and start peddling his wares against the Oilbelt contingent.

DEFER BOARD MEET

On account of the Oil Jubilee the Board of Governors of the City League will not meet tonight, it was announced today by George Gentry, president.

The meeting of the board will be held Monday night at 8 o'clock at the Herald office.

"There is so much to come before the board at this meeting, I feel the limited time we would have would not do justice to the things to be decided," Gentry said.

An effort will be made to get Cosden and Richeo to play Sunday afternoon at the opening of the second half. No game will be played Monday and Monday night the second half schedule will be decided upon, play to be resumed Tuesday.

RUBBERY JOHNNY RISCO DEFEATED BY GRIFFITH

CHICAGO, July 3 (AP)—Gerald Ambrose Griffith, the aspiring heavyweight hope from Sioux City, Iowa, has changed his ring monicker from "Fluffy" back to "Tuffy."

Fighting for the position he once held as a heavyweight—of championship caliber, Griffith silenced his chiding critics at the Chicago Stadium last night by giving Rubbery Johnny Risco, the big cake baker from Cleveland, a sound thrashing in 10 rounds. It was his third victory over the notorious spoiler of championship hopes and by far his most impressive.

Casting aside his usual care, Griffith carried the fight to Risco from start to finish, winning nine rounds decisively. He outgassed and outboxed his rugged rival and cracked his almost at will with his shower of lefts, rights and hooks. Risco, veteran of many a tough battle against even tougher fighters than "Tuffy," stood upright through it all, however, and never was in distress.

From a financial standpoint, the match was far from a success. Less than 10,000 watched it and the receipts only totaled approximately $20,000.

Austin Players In Net Tourney

CHICAGO, July 3 (AP)—Tennis as played in Sunny Texas, particularly in Austin, dominated the tussle for the western men's single championships today on the hard courts at River Forest.

As the title fight entered the quarter-final bracket, three Austin stars were very much in the running and going strong. They were Karl Kamrath and Joe Bill Bralley, junior stars, and Bruce Barnes, one of the sturdiest players in the west. None of them had much difficulty reaching the round.

One of them was certain to be eliminated in the quarter-finals, however, as the luck of the draw aligned Barnes and Kamrath against each other.

Chicago ranked second to Austin in placing two of its stars, George Jennings and Charles Lejeck, in the quarter-finals. Des Moines, Iowa, had another in Morris Coggeshall while the other two places in the bracket were up for decision today. Coggeshall is paired against Bralley in the quarter-finals.

For the two open places in the quarter-final bracket, Cliff Sutter of New Orleans, national intercollegiate champion, and Maurice Bayon, the Tulane University star, were heavy favorites.

As the women's singles championship entered the quarter-final round, all the favorites who played their matches were still present. They included Clara Louise Zinke of Cincinnati, first ranking western woman star, Catherine Wolf, Indianapolis; Mrs. Ruth Rose, Saginaw, Mich., and Mary Michale, Dallas, Texas.

SPUDDERS ROPPING ORBIT

BY GAYLE TALBOT JR., Associated Press Sports Writer

There have been all sorts of theories advanced in an effort to explain the phenomenal success of the 1930 Wichita Falls Spudders, most of them fairly sound, but the best one seems to lie in the fact that Carl Williams' young men can bust the baseball a mile when they need to most.

The record is not at hand, but it is safe to say that the first half champs have won a score of games this season by the simple expedient of knocking a sphere or two out of the lot in the closing innings. Not a player in the Spud lineup is listed among the league's first ten batters, but every man-jack of them is dangerous, capable of hitting for distance in the clinches.

A pair of circuit smashes in the last two frames provided the north countrymen with a 4 to 3 victory over Dallas in an overtime tussle yesterday, squaring their series.

The Steers apparently had the best sewed up in the ninth, 3 to 2, but Jack Bradbury, Spud catcher, sprang one over the pallings to knot the score, and Jack Kioz duplicated his feat after two were out in the tenth to wind up the melee.

It was a tough loss for Walt Teuscher, who had given up only seven scattered knocks until Bradbury rang the bell in the ninth. The Spuds scored their first two off hits in the fourth after Gene Moore had lost a fly ball in the sun. Milt Steengrafte hurried steadily for the outfielders after the first inning, when the Steers scored twice.

Some flimsy pitching by Jimmy Walkup, the league's premier curve ball artist, and the vicious slugging of his mates enabled the Beaumont Exporters to wallop San Antonio, 9 to 1, and break a five-game losing streak. Hamilton's homer in the first frame was the only run off Walkup, who whiffed five Indians. Mullen, Shiver and Eastering, hit circuit blows for Beaumont in the third, sending Old Tom Estell to the showers.

Falling on Dick McCabe and his successor, Lil Stoner, for seven runs in the eighth, the Sports team from behind to make it w straight over Fort Worth, 5 to 3. Stoner gave the season's prize exhibition of pinch-hitting after relieving McCabe. He tossed to six batters, and the result was five hits, one walk and four runs. Egan finally went in to put out the fire.

Bill Morrell held the Cats to eight hits and a pair of runs until he went out for a pinch hitter in the big eighth but, through one of those dizzy twists of the scoring rules was not credited with the victory. The honor went to Houston.

Enjoy it!

SENATORS DEFEAT BROWNS

Eastern Clubs Have Copped 46 Out of 65 Tilts

By HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR., Associated Press Sports Writer

Of 65 games played in their recent home stand, the eastern clubs of the American League won 46, leaving only 19 victories for the western clubs.

Washington put the big spurt into the finish of the inter-sectional play yesterday, moving into second place in the standing and bringing its total of victories for the home stand to 12 against three defeats by winning both games of a double header from the St. Louis Browns, 5 to 4 and 5 to 3. The first contest went 12 innings.

The double victory gave the Senators a game's advantage over their rivals, the Athletics and the Yankees, both of whom divided double bills. They now are a full game ahead of New York and only a 1-2 games behind Philadelphia.

The Athletics five games winning streak was broken when Detroit beat the champions, 4 to 3, behind the fine pitching of Earl Whitehill in the first game, but they returned to slam Waite Hoyt for a 7 to 2 triumph in the second.

An injury to Babe Ruth and the slugging feats of C. Reynolds shared the interest as the Yankees won the first game from Chicago, 5 to 1, as the Babe hit his 31st homer of the season, then took a 15 to 4 drubbing in the second. Reynolds equaled two records by hitting three home runs in successive times at bat and by driving in eight runs. Ruth made a great attempt to catch the second homer and only succeeded in entangling his hand in the wire guarding the beachers and injuring it painfully. One fingernail was completely torn off and the damage may keep the Babe out of the coming series with the Athletics.

Boston put on a fine late rally to take a single game from the sadly slipping Cleveland Indians, 5 to 4.

The National League pennant race became more complicated than ever as the New York Giants and Brooklyn Robins gave a great display of civic spirit before starting their own private fray. The Giants defeated the Chicago Cubs, 9 to 8, by putting on the batting rally in the ninth inning while the Robins pulled out a 6 to 5 decision.

Atlanta, Shortstop Raps Out Victory

ATLANTA, Ga., July 3 (AP)—Loke Appling, young Atlanta shortstop who has made a name for himself in the short time he has been out of college, won the game for the Crackers yesterday. He tripled in the ninth and tied the score with Mobile 2 and 2. Another run in the eleventh gave Atlanta the sixth straight victory over the Bears, 3 to 2.

The win put the Crackers within a few percentage points of the third position in the Southern Association as Birmingham lost to New Orleans 9 to 1. Paul Andrews, making his debut for the Barons, was routed as his teammates made four errors. The Pels scored 5 runs in the third while Blakeley hit for the circuit.

over the St. Louis Cardinals on the strength of Ray Phelps' pitching. The result put Brooklyn in first place once more by the margin of less than half a percentage point although another method of reckoning shows the Robins still a half game behind. The Cubs have more victories but have lost two more games to bring about this odd result. The Giants also benefitted, going a game and a half ahead of St. Louis.

The Boston Braves also improved their position a bit, turning back Pittsburgh's threat to take fifth place with a 6 to 4 triumph. Harry Belbold, Boston's reliable veteran, did the major share of the work, bearing down heavily when men were on base.

EVERYDAY QUESTIONS

Answered By
Dr. S. Parkes Cadman

Questions from readers are answered daily by the Rev. Dr. S. Parkes Cadman, Radio Minister of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America. Dr. Cadman seeks to answer inquiries that appear to be representative of the trends of thought in the many letters which he receives.

New Haven, Conn.
What do you think of Gene Tunney's presence as an inspiration to Professor Phelps' Shakespeare classes at Yale?
There is much to be said for the example it taught. It was a modern instance of the Greek idea of a sound mind in a healthy body, and gave the Yale undergraduates the welcome opportunity of observing a man of superb physique and vigorous action who also values culture. Yale is "the mother of men" and nobody seriously questions Gene Tunney's manhood.

His utterances demonstrated that a champion pugnist need not be a ruffian with cauliflower ears, a broken face and animalized tastes. On the contrary he can be a gentleman, and not only that, but a scholar and even a minister of religion.
Gideon Ougley wielded an Irish blackthorn to perfection. He also preached the Gospel in Ireland as one of John Wesley's itinerants and found his skill in self-defense very useful at a pinch. The pious often associate consecration with mutilation, or imagine that a feeble body is the favorite vehicle of an intelligent mind. I prefer stalwart limbs directed by moralized brains.

New York City.
I am a coward. The other day I was accused of something I had never done and denied it; but when the other fellow bellowed the charge again I skulked away, too timid to deny it further. Can you imagine how I suffer? Yet I want to be a somebody in this country, and have wandered about the world looking for a chance to make good. I change jobs often. There is no scope in them. I am twenty-six, of German birth and want help.

If you were a coward you would not make a clean breast of your difficulty. It takes genuine courage to confess faults which disgrace manhood. You have that courage, so believe in yourself. Stop thinking you are a "nobody" and read some sensible books on mental efficiency. The remedy is largely in your own hands.
Again, you are ambitious. But your diffidence creates a gulf between your desire to excel and the full use of your abilities. Subdue that diffidence and give your powers to serve a fair chance. Accept criticism which is just, but when it is unjust, turn on the critic and give him a Roland for his Oliver.
I have met your type, self-conscious to the point of extreme nervousness, often liable to think in German while they have to speak in English, somewhat sentimental, timid, and too anxious to make a good impression. You do not have to sacrifice your finer sensibilities in tuning up the machine elements of your character. Stick to your task, and waste no time on what others say so long as you satisfy your conscience and a reasonable employer.

The United States is a marvelous country for the bracing mental atmosphere your malady needs. It may not be at neat, natty and precise as Germany. But it leads the nations for a liberating force which makes a man square his shoulders, look out and not in, up and not down, and play the game unhindered by a false feeling of inferiority. So go to it, and by your thirty-sixth birthday you ought to be a German American (with the emphasis on the last word) of whom those who know you can be proud.

its breeds an abject spirit? Nietzsche charged it with this result.
You are correct to this extent, that Christ's religion is one of absolute servitude. Its best example in Western Christianity is St. Paul, who declared he was "the slave of Christ." The half-hearted translation of Romans 1:1 in the Revised Version uses the word "servant," but the apostle wrote "slave," and meant it.
Beyond that he was neither brazen nor abject. The lion-hearted little Jew who recreated the Christendom of Europe and America cannot be accused of cowardice and he did not know the meaning of retreat. He challenged the proud Paganism of his day, and defied the imperial power which beheaded him in the vain hope of silencing him. What, then, was the connection between St. Paul's slavery and his freedom? It was the absolute and unconditioned surrender of his life and being to his Lord's complete control. Nothing troubled the Apostle except the fear that he might have reserved something.
