Miss Tech, Two Council Members, Five Class Favorites To Be Chosen

Religious Emphasis Week Begins Monday Dr. W. M. Stowe To Be Guest Speaker

By MARGARET DANIEL
Toreador Staff Writer

Religious emphasis week, promoted by the Tech Student Religious council, will begin at 7:30 p.m. Monday in the Recreation hall when Dr. W. McFerrin Stowe delivers the first of four addresses. Frank Junell, assistant to the president, will introduce Doctor Stowe.

"Building a Personality" will be Doctor Stowe's subject Monday night. This will be followed by lectures Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday on choosing your life's philosophy, partner, and work.

Special music will be furnished by students each night. Dave Morton will sing Monday. Jane McCoy will give a violin solo Tuesday. Gene Sorley will sing Wednesday and Ruth Willis will sing Thursday. George Morris, vice-president of the Student Religious council, will be song leader for all services and Margaret Wilson will be the pianist.

Bull sessions will be held in the men's dormitories Tuesday night. They will be held in the women's dormitories 10 p.m. Wednesday. Dr. Stowe will speak to Women's Dorm III, and guest speakers will be in the other dorms.

Doctor Stowe will speak for the morning watches at 7:30 a.m. at the Baptist student center Tuesday, the Presbyterian on Wednesday, Thursday, he will speak to the Methodist morning watch at St. John's Methodist Church. Everyone is invited to these, said Marion Baumgardner, president of the student Religious council.

Arrangements have been made for Doctor Stowe and his wife to stay in Drane hall. There he will be available for individual consultation throughout the day.

Coed Will Be Chosen To Represent Tech At Sun Carnival

Curtis Sterling, president of the Student Council, announces that girls desiring to be considered for Tech's representative to the Sun carnival, may petition the Sun council office, Ad-323, and must be turned in by 5 p.m. Nov. 4. The council will meet at 7:15 p.m. in Ad-210 Nov. 7. At this time the candidates will be judged by council members for a representative, Sterling said.

Requirements to be a Sun Princess are that each girl be at least 17 and not over 21. She must not be married.

The Sun carnival is an annual pageant presented in El Paso. This year, the coronation of the queen, selected from El Paso girls, will open the pageant Thursday, Dec.

Runoff elections will be held from 8 a.m. until noon Monday as a result of Tuesday's general election, acting elections committee chairman, Lobby Salem, Sudan, announces. All positions will require a runoff except those of Mr. Texas Tech, junior and freshman favorites who were elected by a majority vote, he said.

Those positions yet to be filled are two vacancies on the Student Council, one from arts and sciences and the other from home economics; Miss Texas Tech; and favorites other than those elected by majority vote.

Margaret Clark, senior arts and sciences major from Van Horn, and Barbara Scott, senior arts and sciences major from Shamrock will vie for Miss Texas Tech in Monday's election, Salem said.

Ben Willis, Dallas, and Brodie Hutchinson, Littlefield, will fight for the vacancy on the Student Council from the arts and sciences division; while Tommie Jean Wall, Waco, and Janet Crandall, Lubbock, are contesting the vacancy from home economics division, according to Salem.

For senior girl favorite, A. J. Bishop, Winters, and Bill McCasland, Lamesa, will be in the runoff; while for senior girl favorite, Kathryn Witty, Hamilton, and Alice Hix, Abernathy, will compete.

Dorothy Stephenson, Fort Stockton, and Wanda Mills, Snyder, will be in the runoff for junior class girl favorite; while Pat Noland, Strawn, and Rheta McMasters, Abernathy, will be in the sophomore race for girl favorite. Jack Shinn, Meadow, was the only contestant for sophomore boy favorite, Salem said.

In the freshman girl favorite race are Pat Montgomery, Lubbock, and Albertine Foster, Lockney, according to the elections committee.

Twenty-one percent of the student body voted in Tuesday's election in comparison to approximately three percent last spring, announced the chairman.

All favorites will be announced in Wednesday's Toreador, but Mr. and Miss Tech will not be revealed until the 1950 La Ventana is made available, Salem said.

The balloting procedure will be the same as in the first primary with the arts and sciences and business ad students voting east of the rotunda in the Ad building; engineers in the south wing of the Engineering building; aggies in the north end of the first floor in the Home Economics building.

Freedom Of The Press One Of Our Main Heritages

Freedom of the press has never been easily defined. After the Revolutionary War, editors began to print more and more news criticizing public policies and public officials. The feeling was so strong that at the time the Declaration of Independence was drafted publishers demanded that some provision for a free press be made in the document. Thomas Jefferson was chiefly responsible for adding the press freedom clause.

Just what is freedom of the press? Most people believe it to be the right of editors to criticize public policies and public officials, to expose evil anywhere they find it. For awhile after this new freedom was granted, many people abused it by printing facts injurious to the character of individuals. Since that time certain limitations have been placed upon the printing of such news. This then is why freedom of the press cannot be so easily defined.

Press freedom as we know it isn't a true freedom, but it is true enough to criticize poor policy on the part of the government. In fact, the only limitation is that placed on news which is defamatory to the character of individuals.

Freedom of the press is a vital source of power in the world today. Destroy this freedom and democracy is destroyed. Suppression of the press would mean the rise of dictatorship. The newspaper is the soul of a community. Its purpose is to present all sides of a question fairly and completely, praising or criticizing as it sees fit.

The newspaper leads the way to progress in a community, in both business and employment. National newspaper week, Oct. 1-8, was established to make people aware of their newspapers. Take a good look at your local newspaper and be proud of it.

As long as freedom of the press is not abused, danger will come only if that freedom is taken away. . . . B.S.

Common Cold Is Prevailing Ailment Of Techsans Through Winter Months

"Sniff, sniff" is probably the sound heard most often on the campus during the past few weeks since a majority of Techsans have a common cold.

A report from the infirmary indicates that 90 per cent of its winter ailments are colds, which means between 300 and 400 students a week come in to be treated for this virus infection. That does not take into account the many persons with colds who "stick it out" without aid from the infirmary.

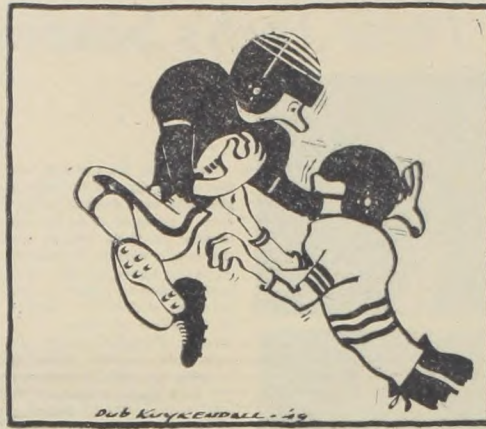

Lack of sleep is considered the predominant cause for so many colds among students. The body gets into a run-down condition from lack of rest and is susceptible to diseases. Nor can the body combat disease germs effectively in this state of health so colds tend to linger.

Cold preventives for the average Techsan are simple. If a student would sleep eight hours each night, drink plenty of water, and dress in accordance with the weather itself, not the forecasts, then he would find he was not nearly so apt to take a cold.

Sniffers who are interested in how to get rid of the colds they have unwittingly contacted already, should go to the infirmary. Students who refuse to go because "it's just in the sneeze and sore throat stage" can at least try these four simple home remedies.

First, drink lots of water and fruit juices. Second, eat lightly, and stay away from heavy foods which tend to "clog" up the system. Third, gargle a glass of warm salt water often and finally get more sleep.

Should these prove to be ineffective, however, go to the infirmary—that's what we have it for! . . . D.A.

THINKING ALLOWED

By Jerry Hall

The first campus wide elections of the year have come and gone with the exception of the runoffs Monday. As usual too darn many of the student body was noted by its absence. What's to be done about the situation? Certainly the student cannot help but know the election is in the offing when he is confronted by signs and placards at every turn. What is it then? Are we in such a hurry that we just don't have the time to take the time to vote? If we are in that big a hurry to get nowhere fast somebody is going to end up with ulcers (and we hope it is not us). Seriously however, voting should be a matter of personal pride to each and every student. We should each one feel it is our personal responsibility to get out and cast a ballot for the person of our choice. The runoffs Monday are of vital concern to all of us. Why not vote?

Football season is more than half over. But for a game guy in the college infirmary it has been over for some time. We understand that Don Williams, who was seriously injured in the Texas Aggie game, was given a present from grateful students whom he represented on the gridiron. To him playing football for Texas Tech has meant the long days of more than a month of bedridden confinement. But you won't hear Don gripe. It's a nice gesture on the part of the students to show their appreciation to Don, in this manner. After giving so much to the school it is only proper that the students of that school should give something to him.

It is nice to have an Administration who believes in doing rather than talking. We refer to the progress which has been made on plans for a Student Union building for Tech students. We had the good fortune to sit in on the recent Board of Directors meeting and hear first hand just how much the college officials are for the student. With plans in the "paper" stage we only hope it doesn't take too long to get them in the actual construction stage.

La Ventana announces its 16 top beauties for the current year today. While we were always sure that Texas had the most beautiful women in the world we are now positive of it. The three judges Sunday afternoon had the most difficult task which one could imagine. God! With 46 lovelies such as were present for the judging it's no wonder more than one campus wolf (and we won't call any names but the initials of one can be found in the by-line for this column) was on hand trying to get a peek at the proceedings. Of course all of them couldn't be named as the final beauties but the judging was done fair and square and each Miss was selected according to her own qualifications. To those who did not make it we would like to say don't feel badly because Texas Tech is proud to have each and every one of you girls here. You're all beauties!

Professional Model Talks To Tech Architect Students

Nelson Bennet, of the "Flying Bennetts", a professional model, gave a lecture and demonstrated various poses to architectural students Thursday.

Formerly a trapeze artist with Ringling Brothers circus, Bennett turned professional model when he was the lone survivor of a trapeze accident that killed his parents and grandparents.

On his return from Albuquerque he will pose for the live drawing class.

One of the more noted pieces of sculpture Bennett has posed for is "Prometheus" which is in front of Radio City in New York. He has recently been posing for the sculpture that decorates the new Baylor University hospital.

Sock and Buskin Pledges Give Show
Fall pledges of Sock and Buskin, dramatic organization, presented a program for members at a meeting of the club this week. Groups of the pledges gave dramatic skits and variety numbers.

Kiker Is Chairman Management Club

Meeting time for the newly-organized Tech Management association has been set for 8 p.m. every first and third Monday.

The purpose of the organization is to provide a channel of exchange of ideas and information between the academic and non-academic phases of management, and to encourage the fellowship of students and graduates in the field of management.

Officers of the association are Louis Kiker, chairman; John Huchabay, vice chairman; Bob Carmichael, secretary-treasurer; Hiram Jordan, director of public relations and Bill McMillan, director of education.

Faculty advisors are Dr. F. L. Mize, C. E. Hubbard and Richard Shoschan. All management majors interested in becoming a member may attend the meeting which will be held Monday.

Tech Chapter Of ACS Will Have Halloween Party

The Student Affiliate chapter of the American Chemical society will give its annual Halloween party Monday at 7 p.m. in the basement of the Chemistry building. Betty Shipman, chairman for the party stated that refreshments will be served and a scavenger hunt and dance are being planned.

This party is the second in a series of events planned for the school year by the group. Several speakers have been heard by the group this semester and several more are to be scheduled before the close of the term said Warner Petcolas, president. Dr. James A. Watson is sponsor of the group.

Tech Broadcasting Club To Begin Casting For Play

Robert L. Cunningham, assistant professor of speech, spoke to the Radio club Wednesday afternoon on radio play rehearsals.

He announced plans for the radio club to start casting two plays which will be presented in the near future. Casting will be held at 5 p.m. Wednesday in the speech department radio studios, Cunningham said.

One of the plays will be based on Marie Curie's account of her husband's life and the story of her future. Casting will be held at 5 p.m. Wednesday in the speech department radio studios, Cunningham said.

Anyone who is interested in joining the radio club may try out for the plays, Cunningham stated.

Teacher Talks To Clubs

Mrs. Johnnie Michie, professor and head of foods and nutrition, spoke at the City Federation of Women's Clubs Thursday.

Mrs. Michie addressed the gathering on the subject of nutritional problems of older women. She stressed moderation in the consumption of food, declaring that overeating was conducive to many of the diseases of middle age.

The meeting was held at the Hilton hotel.

Halloween Party To Be Held

Girls of the Home Management house will hold a Halloween costume party at 7:45 p.m. Monday. Miss Patsy Stout is hostess for the party.

Guests will be Jo Reneshinn, Laverne Watkins, Joy Hill, Nadine Willis, Maggie Bullison, Barbara Scott, Miss Martha Buttrill, and Mrs. Gloria Inman.

Press Superintendent Is Father

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Kittley are the parents of a boy, Wayne Winifred III, who was born Thursday morning at West Texas hospital. He weighed eight pounds, thirteen ounces.

Mrs. Kittley, nee Laurette McClung, is a former Tech student. Kittley, 1946 Tech graduate in journalism, is superintendent of Tech Press.

Bookstore Surplus Profits Appropriated For Construction Of The Union Building

By MAC STRONG
Toreador Staff Writer

"I want Techsians to feel that they own the bookstore and get the profits from it," W. C. Cole, manager of the Tech bookstore, stated.

"For this reason, I fostered the idea of turning surplus bookstore profits into funds to finance a Student Union building. At a recent board meeting this plan was approved, and $164,000 surplus funds from bookstore profits accumulated over the years was made available to the finance committee of the building project," Cole stated.

The bookstore, which does an annual business of $460,000, sells between 75,000 and 100,000 textbooks annually. Many of these are resales of the same books, of course.

"The bookstore is here to serve the students," Cole said. "Every thing for the student except a degree" might well be its slogan, he stated. Although the bookstore is open to persons besides students, Cole takes pride in his efforts to make the store a service center for students.

"We invite Techsians to not only buy here, but to carry on their social life in our place of business. For this purpose soft drinks, popcorn and candy machines are conveniently located in the store close to divans where students may rest between classes," Cole said.

"Students are invited to cash their checks here also," Cole stated. "We pride ourselves on our record of check cashing without large losses. Last year, over half the store's business was done by check, and only $41.50 was non-collectable," he said.

The bookstore, which opened the same year as the college, was first housed in a single room in the Home Economics building. In 1930, it moved to its present location, which was previously used for the college cafeteria. Today, a force of 22 full time employees and seven students are necessary to keep the store functioning.

The store manager said that new books are sold at publishers' list prices and used books are sold at 25 per cent off list price. Books returned for the first time for repurchase are bought at half price from the students.

Jack Brock Is Named Winner Of State Citizenship Award By 4-H Clubs

By JERRY WALTHALL
Toreador Staff Writer

Jack Brock, a junior education major, has been named the winner of the state citizenship award for boys by the leader of the Texas A&M college extension service, Floyd Lynch. He was chosen out of 1,000 contenders over the nation.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Brock, of Floydada, and has been active in 4-H club work for the past 13 years. He has won three trips to the National 4-H club congress, through the 4-H club achievement contest in 1943, sponsored by Santa Fe Railroad company in 1944 and the National Safety Center, sponsored by J. W. Mining company. He also won a college scholarship and a trip to the National 4-H club congress in Chicago, Ill.

In 1945, Brock won the state leadership contest and in 1946 a trip to the National 4-H club encampment in Washington, D. C. where he studied functions of the United States government. While there, he met President Truman and spent a day with Truman and his cabinet.

Jack won the state leadership contest in 1946 and in 1947 he won a four-year scholarship to the National Youth foundation sponsored by William H. Danforth at Camp Miniwanka, in Shelby, Mich. He won the 4-Square development personality contest in leadership training camp based on mental, social, physical and reliability traits. In 1947 he won the state leadership contest, which awarded him a gold watch. He was given a college scholarship and a trip to the National 4-H club congress in Chicago.

Jack has been president twice of the State 4-H Roundup at A&M, and was elected unanimously both times. He is district two 4-H club president at present.

Jack is engaged to Ann Sheppard of Robert Lee, Tex. She won the girl's citizenship contest award, and is a freshman home economics student at San Angelo Junior college.

Phi Upsilon Omicron, national home economics society, is holding a rummage sale today on the corner of Avenue H and Thirteenth.

HOWDY DANCE BIDS NEEDED

Curtis Sterling, president of the student body, announces the opening of bids from recognized college organizations for the spring Howdy dance. Bids must be submitted to the Student Council office, Ad-323, by Nov. 14.

Mineral Origins To Be Discussed By Doctor Mackin

Relationship between granite intrusions and iron ore bodies associated with them in Southwestern Utah will be discussed by Dr. J. Hoover Mackin, professor of geology at the University of Washington, at 7:30 p.m. Monday in the aggie auditorium.

Subject of his talk is to be "Origin of Mineralizing Emanations in the Iron Springs District, Utah."

Doctor Mackin is making a tour under the sponsorship of the distinguished lecture committee of the American Association of Petroleum Geologists and is speaking before the affiliated geological societies.

He was born in Oswego, N.Y., in 1906, and received his academic training at New York university and Columbia university. His studies of the Utah ore deposits are sponsored by the United States Geological Survey.

The Tech Geology club will honor Doctor Mackin with a banquet at 7:30 p.m. today in the Hilton hotel.

Red Raiders To Meet Top-Rated Owls Of Rice Institute In Houston Game Today

The Red Raiders make their final bid of the season for a victory over a Southwest conference when they take on the power-laden Rice Owls at 2:30 p.m. today in Houston.

The Owls knocked off the Longhorns of Texas last week with a last ditch field goal to prove that they are one of the top teams in the Southwest.

In the meantime here in Jones stadium the Raiders were taking an unimpressive Arizona eleven into camp to further their drive to another Border conference championship.

The Tech gridders came through the Wildcat tussle in good shape and outside of a few bruises will be in top shape for today's game. The return of quarterback Milton Rathbone, who missed last week's game because of a knee injury, will strengthen the Raiders' hopes in upsetting Coach Jess Neely's Owls.

Rice's powerful ground game mixed with a potent attack through the air has carried it to conference victories over SMU and Texas. Tobin Rote, operating from the man-under slot of the Owls' "T" is one of the smoothest ball handlers and passers in the game. The services of Halfback Van Ballard who received a broken collar bone in the Texas game will be missed by the Owls, but Sonny Wyatt does a creditable job in the same position.

Bobby Lantrip, a 190-pound full-back, has power to spare in the Owls' land thrusts with John Kelly aiding from the other halfback slot.

In the line, Rice looms big and strong. Joe Watson, a two-year all-conference man, is the pivot man for the Owls and plays a tough defensive game along with Gerald Weatherly, another standout defensive center.

Often a target for Rote's aerials is James "Froggy" Williams. An all-conference end from Waco, he is one of the better defensive ends in the Southwest.

The Red Raiders arrived in Houston yesterday afternoon by plane and went through a light limbering-up drill in preparation for today's game.

Probable starting lineups:

Cummings Wins Net Consolation Finals

Ted Cummings, junior from Lubbock, behind 6-0 in games, rallied to win the consolation finals over Dorrall R. Sandlin in the tennis tournament for physical education majors, George Philbrick, assistant head of the department announced Thursday.

Sandlin had drawn a by and beaten Aaron Kinslow, before Cummings turned on the heat to finally thwart the drive that seemed sure to carry Sandlin to the consolation championship.

Cummings opened his consolation play with a victory over Adolph Kunz; next he conquered Kenneth Shepp, then Billy C. Baucum, and finally met Sandlin, who was defeated only after Cummings had made a courageous comeback.

Others competing in the consolation round of the all physical education majors tournament were: John P. Jones, Cecil Hale, Mason Gorby, and Jack D. Ramsey.

Three other tennis tournaments are in progress in the men's physical education department, Philbrick said. These are open to all Tech students and are called tournaments A, B, and C. Players are placed categorically in one of these groups according to ability, and the number of years each has participated in the game of tennis.

Football also shared the spotlight in this week's intramural sports, when four dorm teams fought it out on the gridiron behind the gymnasium.

The Doak hall Hornets kept their string of victories intact by edging the Dorm IV Rebels 7-0.

Placement Service Industrial Library

By GENE BRASHEAR
Treador Staff Writer

A little known duty of the Tech Placement service is its function as a library, a library which furnishes information on many types of business, industrial and federal employment.

This library contains handbooks and pamphlets from major business concerns and industries as well as bulletins on such federal departments as the armed forces and the civil service.

Contained in these pamphlets is information on such topics as the history of an organization, its different fields of endeavor, personnel information and opportunities, working hours, pay rates and benefits.

A major function of the placement service, of course, is to supervise the filling out of personnel information sheets by graduating seniors.

Another service performed is the arrangement of interviews for students with various business and industrial concerns. Approximately 90 such interviews were scheduled last year, averaging 35 students each. The office also handles letters from such concerns offering employment and notifies interested students of these opportunities. Files are kept providing information on employment obtained by graduates.

The placement service also receives requests from schools offering teaching positions and sends out announcements of such opportunities.

The service was set up Nov. 1, 1947, but did not assume active duty until it moved to its present office on the second floor of the Ad building Feb. 1, 1948.

Picadors Will Meet Strong Odessa Junior College Eleven Here Today

The junior Red Raiders get their second test of the season by taking on a tough Odessa Junior college eleven at 2:30 p.m. today in Jones stadium.

Not much is known in this camp about the Odessa team, but Coach Allie White is expecting to have his hands full. In their first outing, the Picadors turned back the West Texas freshman team by an overwhelming score of 59-7.

A game scheduled last Saturday against the Roswell Military Academy was rained out, and may be reset for a later date, so this will be good conditioning for the charges of Coach White before a meeting with that tough New Mexico aggregation.

If the Odessa team expects to win, it is going to have the job of stopping such promising backs as W. H. Barker, Waldo Young, Don Seal and Carl Madison. Seal and Madison, quarterbacks, are more than adept at the art of passing. Against West Texas, they both showed that it was going to make a good defense to stop them.

Probably the outstanding single performer in the West Texas affair, Barker is the type runner who can explode for long gains almost any time he gets his hands on the pigskin. He is a fast-stepping, hard-charging lad, who seems possessed of an amazing capacity of knowing just when to change his pace or to reverse his field.

Not giving anything away to Barker in the art of fancy stepping is Young. Although not showing up to as good advantage in the first contest as Barker, Young did make a beautiful run on the final play of the game. He can also be a headache for any opposing II having the duty of stopping him.

It is the line that really shakes the backs loose to give them their chance, and the Picadors have the line to do that. Anchored by big tackles weighing 260 and 270, it is the best to come along for Tech in some time.

Coeds To Take Part In Bowling League

Women may participate in the Texas Tech Bowling league for the first time in its history, Tommy Scott, arts and sciences senior from Odessa, said today.

Scott, a co-sponsor of the league with Margery Rowland, freshman from Sweetwater, also stated that all students who would like to become members of one of the leagues teams should be present at 7:00 p.m. Monday at a meeting in Ad 302.

Officers will be elected, team captains will be appointed, and plans for the next two semesters of the Bowling leagues operations will be completed at this meeting, Scott said.

Eight teams will comprise the league with six members on each team, three men and three women. Each team will be handicapped by computing the team average and spotting the superior team 75 percent of the difference in the units.

Games will be played at 7:15 Friday nights at the Lubbock Alleys, Scott stated, with practice sessions held only on the initiative of the individual members.

The American Bowling company will sanction the league and will receive dues from the organization.

Individual trophies will be presented to the high scoring teams in the Bowling league, the co-sponsor of the Tech organization said.

COOKING with the TRUE FLAVOR of the WEST!

THE LONG AND SHORT OF IT—Head basketball coach Polk Robison explains a few hoop tricks to Paul Nolen, six foot nine inch freshman from Alvarado. (Photo by Pug Davidson.)

Robison Has Triple Duty As Scout, Head Basketball Mentor, End Coach

By PUG DAVIDSON
Toreador Sports Writer

One of the main reasons that Tech's football opponents in the Border conference fail to fare so well against the Raiders is that they have been thoroughly and carefully scouted. The gentleman who does this scouting is recognized as one of the better football scouts in the nation, besides this work he has full-time chores as head basketball coach and end coach of the Raiders.

Polk Robison was born in Springfield, Tenn., but moved to Texas early enough to attend Ranger High school for three years and Lubbock High school for one year. He was graduated from the latter in 1929. He did not gain any athletic letters in either school, but it was in these pre-college days that Robison developed the interest in basketball that led to his being one of Tech's all-time cage greats.

Coach Robison came to Tech in 1930 and was out for football in his freshman year although he was only 16 and weighed a mere 135 pounds. Robison soon discovered that he was too small for college football and centered his interest on basketball, winning letters in 1933-34 as a regular center. He was also a member of the college tennis team for three years, but during those days no letters were awarded for participation in this sport.

After graduation from Tech in 1934, Robison went to Burk Burnett High school as head basketball and assistant football coach under Volney Hill, another Tech great. Robison resigned his coaching position in 1940, worked for General Motors for a time, then went back to Tennessee and worked for the Portland Cement company in Cumberland. After five months there, he resigned and accepted the position of basketball coach at his alma mater. He has held this position since 1941 except for the season of 1946-47, when Burl Huffman returned from the military service and resumed his former position as head basketball coach. During the war he worked with the training program at Tech.

Robison is married to the former Stephanie Corley from Houston. They have three children, one boy, 9, and two girls, 6 and 5.

Pres. D. M. Wiggins was the principal speaker at the regular Agriculture club meeting Tuesday. He spoke of the importance of agriculture to the South Plains and to the nation.

A brief business meeting was held before Dr. Wiggins' talk, and refreshments were served after the meeting.

Ted Alexander, sponsor of the German club, has announced try-outs for a German play, to be given as part of a Christmas program by the foreign languages department. All students taking German are eligible to try out for the play. Try-outs will be held at 3 p.m. Saturday in Ad 202.

Sports Chatter

by
KEITH ANDERSON

Every once in a while, we hear a new rumor about proposed plans to form a new conference using Tech as one of its members. Of course these plans are just some sports writer's dream, designed to fill space in a column, but at least it shows that other people besides us realize that we need in a larger conference than the one we are in.

The latest plan comes from an Oklahoma newspaper, and if we might say so, we think that it is a pip. This columnist would have Oklahoma A&M, Tulsa, Arkansas, Tech, St. Louis university and another school or two that could be induced to come into the cunks. The writer says that the reason we should have Arkansas in 'the deal is because it is not wanted where it is, so this new proposed conference should give it a place to settle.

The likelihood of such a conference as this ever being formed is about as remote as our beating Rice, but still it shapes up as something of a conference. How would it be to play basketball in such a conference? Just think of competing with such teams as Oklahoma A&M, St. Louis, and Arkansas, not to mention the fact that Tulsa comes up with a good team every now and then. No one could say that it wouldn't be one of the best basketball conferences in the United States.

Another thing that would be interesting to watch would be to see which one received more penalties, Tech or Arkansas. We don't know, but we bet we would be running as a rule, are held in high regard. Razorbacks received more penalties, we bet ours would happen when they would hurt most.

The season is only about half over, but already talk is starting about the possible bowl teams. Since the Rose bowl is a closed affair between the Big Nine and the Pacific Coast conference, the main talk centers around the Sugar, Cotton, and Orange bowls. From here it looks like a shoo-in for Oklahoma to repeat in the Sugar bowl, with probably Tulane as host.

The Cotton bowl in Dallas is still a wide-open affair, with any one of four teams having a chance as host, and any number of teams as visitors. We personally would like to see an eastern team get the bid. If Cornell doesn't meet too much difficulty, we think that it would be a good selection. Eastern teams, them a close second. Even if the by the rest of the nation, and it is good if a Southwestern team can beat them. Villanova, despite its loss to Tulsa, has a terrific ball club, and would give any team in the conference a rough afternoon.

With the added seating capacity, the Cotton bowl is coming into attention as the nation's leading bowl game. Don't get us wrong. We know that the Rose and Sugar bowls are still ahead of it, but we said "coming" into attention.

The Rose bowl, despite all its tradition, is fast losing prestige because of its pact with the Big Nine conference. The main thing that has kept it up so far is the fact that the Big Nine has been turning out some good teams the last few years. This year probably the team that meets California will be a much better 11. It will have a great deal of shine worn off it.

If the Sugar or Cotton bowls can come up with an unbeaten team as the visiting 11, people will just naturally turn to a game that they consider will be better. Whether the Rose bowl produces as good teams or games as the other bowls will not be taken into consideration. What will be pointed out however, is the fact that, without the pact, the Rose bowl could have had an unbeaten team to show its wares.

Another thing in favor of the Cotton and Sugar bowls is the financial status. Already they are reported to be on as sound an economic basis as the Rose bowl, and with greater seating capacity, revenue could be increased. All of which doesn't mean too much except that for our money, and lots of other people's, the best games are being played in Dallas and New Orleans.

Jane Skinner, president of the Press club, announces that the club will meet at 5 p.m. Tuesday in J206 for the regular business meeting. Vicki Martin, Tech graduate of 1946, will be the guest speaker.

Peggy Dunn is wearing Allen "Smokey" Dunbar's College Club pin beside her DFD pin.

L. G. Harmon, professor of dairy manufactures, has returned to Tech after a year's absence during which he worked on his doctor's degree in dairy bacteriology at Iowa State college.

The Home Economics club will meet at 7:15 p.m. Tuesday in Annex G instead of on Nov. 8. This change has been made because Miss Frances Urban, field secretary of the American Home Economics Association, will be here on that date, to speak to the club. Miss Margaret Weeks, dean of home economics has announced.

Don Williams Is Presented Watch

Don Williams, Red Raider guard, was presented with a 17 jewel Hamilton wrist watch Thursday by representatives of the Student association. The presentation was made by Raymond Brigham, chairman of the committee appointed to select the gift, with Bill Trenfield, Marshall Gettys and Curtis Sterling also present acting as representatives of the association.

The gift was presented as a token of Tech students appreciation to Don for his contribution to the college. He was injured in the A&M game played in San Antonio Sept. 24. Hospital attendants report Don is improving. He should be released within three weeks.

The inscription on the back of the watch was "To Don from the Texas Tech student body, 1949-50". Brigham said. Beneath the message was engraved a football. Lucian Thomas, jeweler on the avenue, donated the inscription and engraving.

Faculty Members Attend Meeting

West Texas School administration held its fall meeting Wednesday, at Lamesa.

Those attending from Texas Tech were Dr. D. D. Jackson, acting head of education and president of the school administration; W. P. Clement, registrar; Homer Millikin, director of extension; and Dr. Ernest Wallace, assistant dean of arts and sciences.

Delbert Downing, manager of the Lamesa Chamber of Commerce, discussed problems in modern and future education as seen from the layman's viewpoint.

The meeting was held in the new Lamesa high school. Costing nearly a million dollars, this school is reported to be a model of convenience.

Hardy Benson, jr. who was graduated last spring, is farming at Hereford.

Hi-Y Groups Hold Session At College

Approximately 100 Hi-Y and Tri Hi-Y boys and girls from high schools over West Texas will register for an all-day session at 9 a.m. today in the Aggie building.

With the theme of "Hi-Y Youth and Government: A Laboratory in Democracy" as its theme, the session will be a prelegislative training program. Byron R. Abernethy, professor of government, is chairman.

Dr. D. M. Wiggins, president of the college, will welcome the group to the Tech campus. The first speaker, J. William Davis, professor and head of government, has chosen "Government in the State of Texas" as his topic.

A round table discussion on "Suggested Areas for Legislation" will be composed of Reginald Rushing, professor and chairman of accounting and finance; J. W. Jackson, professor of government; and Preston E. Smith member of the Texas House of Representatives, 119th district.

The morning session will be concluded with a tour of the college, S. M. Kennedy, assistant professor of government, will be the first speaker for the afternoon. His topic will be "Drafting a Bill." R. D. Mack, instructor in government, will speak on "The Path of a Bill in Becoming Law."

Election of officers will be held at 3:15 p.m. The session is to adjourn at 4:30 p.m.

Tech Rifle Team To Compete In Matches

Tech's rifle team will compete with teams from Utah, Wisconsin and Colorado universities and all teams in the Fourth Army area. Sgt. Woodrow W. Brooks, sponsor of the team, said.

The group's actual firing will be done in the Tech 50-foot indoor firing range and the scores will be compared with those of the other teams.

After the completion of the Fourth Army matches Tech's team will try for the William Randolph Hearst trophy and will enter national competition, the sergeant said.

The group plans to challenge teams from West Point and Annapolis as soon as the preliminary marksmanship eliminations are finished and officers have been elected, Brooks said.

"I think we will have a very good team this year," Brooks stated. "We are planning to form three 15-man teams."

English Workshop-Conference Ends Annual District Session This Morning

The second annual District Four English Workshop-Conference is continuing at Lubbock Senior High school auditorium today, with this morning's program to include a business meeting, a general question period and a discussion of the critical reading of a newspaper.

The two-day meet began yesterday afternoon and will close after today's business session. Participating in the series of lectures are teachers from Tech and from high schools in the West Texas area.

Third session of the workshop is to start at 9 a.m. today in the auditorium when Mrs. James G. Allen, assistant professor of journalism, speaks on "Critical Reading of Newspapers."

At 10:45 a.m. Dr. Alan M. F. Gunn, associate professor of English, will be director for state committee recommendations concerning the ACE English cooperative test and remedial reading program.

Miss Dorothy Lomax, director of secondary education, Lubbock, is to lead a question period for all teachers from 11 to 11:30 a.m. The business session from 11:30 a.m. to 12 noon will end the workshop.

Registration at 1 p.m. yesterday afternoon in the high school opened the conference. The welcoming address was given by Dr. W. E. Gates, professor of English and president of the Texas conference of College Teachers of English.

Program for the afternoon session included a speech by Dr. Everett A. Gillis, associate professor of English on "Vocabulary Development as an Aid to Reading Comprehension", and a discussion by Dr. L. C. Hutchins, associate professor of education and psychology, of "The Non-Directive Approach as a Means of Interesting Students in Reading."

Persons attending the workshop saw a presentation of "Twelfth Night", the speech department play, at 4:15 p.m. yesterday in the speech building auditorium.

"Role of the Library in the Improvement of Reading" was the subject of an address by R. C. Jame-way, Tech librarian, at an informal dinner for the teachers at Luby's suburban cafeteria last night.

Other topics for discussion at the dinner included "Reading Guidance for Superior Students" with suggestions by Dr. Alan L. Strout, professor of English, and H. N. White, assistant professor of English.

Former Tech Student Is Seriously Injured In Accident Near Tulsa

A former Tech student was critically injured and her husband is in serious condition as a result of an auto accident near Tulsa Sunday. The couple is Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Tomlinson of Tulsa.

Mrs. Tomlinson is the former Joan Yeager of Amarillo, a 1946 Tech graduate in English and an ex-Ko Shari member. She is a teacher at Jane Addams school in Tulsa.

Noted Author Will Speak On Rec Hall Program Nov. 2

Vincent Sheean, internationally known author-correspondent, will lecture at 7:15 p.m. Wednesday at the Rec hall. He is the first speaker to appear on the lecture phase of the program this semester.

Prior to Mahatma Gandhi's assassination, Sheean interviewed him extensively for the New York Herald Tribune and the Washington Post, among other newspapers. Sheean's first major work of non-fiction is several years, "Lead, Kindly Light," resulted from the interview with India's religious leader. The lecturer was a student at the University of Chicago until World War I interrupted his studies. After the armistice he travelled in Germany, Italy and Spain while serving on the staff of a Chicago paper.

During World War II Sheean was commissioned in the Army Air corps intelligence division. He covered the San Francisco conference for the American Broadcasting company after the war, later retiring to his home in Maine to write "This House Against This House."

More recently the speaker covered the Paris meetings of the Foreign Ministers' council. Fifty architecture students have sent design problems to the Beaux Arts Institute of Design in New York City. The problem for this year was "A suburban department store." Judgment will be made on these designs some time before the new year.

Dairy Team Wins Events On Coast

Tech dairy manufactures judging team took five places in competition at the Collegiate Students' International contest in judging dairy products last week in Los Angeles. The team placed tenth in cheese, twelfth in milk, fourteenth in butter, seventeenth in ice cream and fifteenth in all-products judging.

Terry Smith, Harold Sawyer, Royce Jackson and Clarence Darter represented Tech, and were accompanied by J. J. Willingham, professor and head of dairy manufactures.

There were 18 colleges and universities represented at the meet.

Play Cast Presents Extra Performance

The cast of "Twelfth Night" has played to a capacity crowd every night since its opening Monday, Miss Cecilia Thompson, director of the play, said Thursday.

Yesterday afternoon, a special matinee performance was presented for the members of the District Four English Workshop conference meeting in Lubbock this weekend.

This is the first time in the speech department that a play has run for six consecutive performances, Miss Thompson stated. Because of this, members of the "Twelfth Night" cast are receiving valuable experience in the problems concerned with presenting a long-run play, she said.

"Much work is involved, which the public doesn't know about, when a play is run in successive performances. The cast's work only begins after opening night. Plays must be tested before an audience before they can really be polished. Every audience reacts differently but it is our job to pick out the weak parts of the play, which the audiences have shown us by their reactions, and improve them," the director said.

The cast will go on a tour soon to present "Twelfth Night" to high school audiences in this area. Definite dates for these performances have not been set, Miss Thompson said.

The Arnold Society for Air Cadets met Monday and initiated new members. Those initiated were Kelly McCormick, Walter C. Walshall, jr., William E. Hayes, Malcolm W. Tisdell, John D. Whiteside and Austin C. Rose.
