

Tickets Sales Extended For Trip

Tech students still have a chance to sign for a place on one of the chartered buses for the official out-of-town trip to Fort Worth. Horton Russell, Student council president, said.

The deadline for signing has been extended from Friday to 5 p.m. Wednesday.

Students desiring bus tickets should fill out the blank on page two and take it to the Student council office, Ad323.

The round trip ticket price of $7.50 is greatly reduced from the regular rate. As many buses as needed will be chartered for the trip.

Russell emphasized the economy of the chartered buses in his announcement of the extension of the deadline for buying tickets. Fare of $7.50 is little more than half the price of a regular round-trip ticket to Fort Worth.

Buses will leave Lubbock at 8 a.m. Saturday and will arrive in Fort Worth in time for the 4 p.m. pep rally in Burkburnett park. Buses will return to Lubbock Sunday morning.

Those students who want to attend Texas Tech day at the State fair in Dallas Sunday can get special rates to Dallas and then return Sunday night.

Women students are reminded that they must have their parents' permission before they can attend the game. This permission must be checked with the dean of women.

The trip will be adequately chaperoned by faculty members who will be given lists of the students' names and addresses of their parents. They will also have the Fort Worth addresses where the students will spend Saturday night. Dean of Women Margaret Twyman said.

Traditional Howdy Smiles To Reign All Next Week

A big smile and a friendly "howdy" will be the official campus greeting during "Howdy week" which begins Monday and continues through Saturday.

Now sponsored by Tech Chamber of Commerce, "Howdy week" was started by the Tech War Veterans association. The plan was originated when the returning veterans noticed that Tech was losing its reputation as the "friendliest school in Texas."

To promote the spirit of friendliness which will prevail next week, Ed Stalcup publicity director of the "Howdy" week committee requests that all Techs wear "howdy" tags. These tags will be distributed in the dorms Monday or may be picked up in any of the class buildings.

Members of the committee are Jack Shelby, Charlie Joplin, Bob Parkinson, Coy Orr, Tom Cleveland and Stalcup.

Climaxing the traditional week of friendliness will be the pep rally Thursday night, Stalcup said.

ASCE Honored By National President; Rename Chapter

Tech's chapter of American Society of Civil Engineers was officially renamed for J. H. Murdough, head of civil engineering department, at a meeting Wednesday night of 175 Tech and area engineers.

Ernest E. Howard, national president of ASCE, discussed the place of civil engineers in public life today and awarded the Tech chapter one of the three top honors given in the West.

Vice Pres. E. N. Jones gave a welcoming address following a barbecue supper held in the Stock Judging pavilion. Lober Snow, president of Texas section of ASCE, introduced Howard.

Murdough is a member of Tech's original engineering faculty. Local chapter of ASCE will meet at 7:30 p.m. Monday in the Engineering auditorium.

Wagley Awarded La Ventana Post

Wendell Wagley was appointed business manager of La Ventana at a meeting of the Publications committee Tuesday. Prof. A. B. Strehli, chairman, has announced.

Wagley, a senior BA student from Abilene, won the position over four other applicants. The business manager post was left vacant when Roy Grimes, senior BA student was called into the Navy.

Other applicants were Ed Stalcup, Charles Joplin, Harry Albaugh and Darrel Freeman.

Robert I. Lockard, associate professor of architecture, was named sponsor of La Ventana.

Goodwin Represents Tech At Texas A&M Celebration

Dr. R. C. Goodwin, dean of arts and sciences, represented Tech at Texas A&M's seventy-fourth anniversary celebration Oct. 4.

Dean Goodwin was accompanied by his father, John W. Goodwin of Lubbock who was the only member of the first Aggie class present for the occasion.

The program was patterned after the ceremony which marked the beginning of the college in 1875. Included on the program was an address by Governor Shivers.

DEAN HOLCOMB TO ATTEND COLLEGE STATION MEETING

Dean of Engineering Dyssart Holcomb will attend a meeting of Texas junior college executives Monday and Tuesday at College Station.

Holcomb will take part in a panel discussion concerning problems of the engineering curricula in junior colleges and freshman and sophomore curricula in senior colleges.

CHOIR SETS PICNIC

Tech choir will have a wiener roast in Aggie grove at 6 p.m. Monday. President Bill Sylvester announces.

Professor To Talk On Indian Exhibit

A lecture by Dr. Ernest Wallace, professor of history, will highlight a preview showing of an exhibit on Comanche Indians and early life on the southern high plains at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the Museum.

Museum members and guests are invited to hear the lecture, "The Comanches, Lords of the Southern Plains," in the south gallery of the Museum.

Wallace will discuss the customs, culture and history of the Comanche Indian. He is author of a forthcoming book, "The Comanche," and served as advisor in preparation of the exhibit.

A diorama showing a Comanche camp in Yellowhouse canyon about 1840 is a part of the exhibit. Another phase depicts the advent of the white man and the subsequent decline of the Comanche.

Included in the exhibit will be a collection of Comanche buckskin costumes and Quannah Parker's pony ceremonial outfit. The pony was a weed consumed by the Comanches for its stimulating effect. All costumes were loaned by the Denver Museum of Fine Arts.

Plans are being made for the formal dedication of the museum on Oct. 19, according to Dr. W. C. Holden, museum director. The program will include a ranch dinner at 7 p.m. followed by a dedication speech by Dr. Clifford B. Jones, president of the West Texas Museum association.

Monday Meeting To Plan Pageant

Representatives of all campus organizations that wish to enter the Homecoming parade must attend a meeting at 5 p.m. Monday in Ad308. D. M. McElroy of the Ex-Student association announced.

Competition for engraved plaques which will be awarded to the most beautiful, most descriptive, and cleverest floats, will be keen this year. Participating organizations will draw for the year in Tech's history they are to represent. Plans are for a historical pageant of Tech's 25 years.

Many organizations have been contacted by the Ex-Student association but those that have not been reached and wish to enter the parade are especially urged to attend the meeting Monday.

Two Committees Are Appointed By Broadcasting Club Wednesday

A publicity committee was appointed Wednesday at a meeting of the Tech Broadcasting club. Committee members are Gordon Downum, Elva Land, Bob Harlein and Anne Eskin.

At the club's next meeting at 5 p.m. Wednesday in Speech building a constitutional amendment committee and a nomination committee will be appointed. All persons interested in radio broadcasting, technical radio and radio writing are invited to attend.

All persons interested in debate, discussion, extemporaneous speech and other individual speaking are asked to meet at 5 p.m. Tuesday in the Speech building.

Student Runoff Vote Light; Seniors Elect Buddy Hewett

Buddy Hewett, engineering student from Midland, was elected senior class president in runoff elections Wednesday.

Out of a student body of 5,434 a total of only 317 students voted, said Horton Russell, Student council president.

Hewett received 49 votes, while his opponent, Andy Behrends, ag-

Jesse James' Signature Captures Faculty Attention

By MARGARET BOURLAND
Toreador Staff Writer

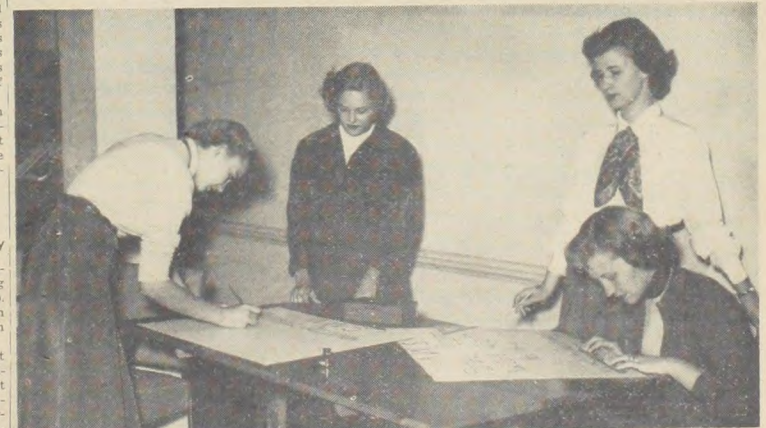

A century ago a notorious robber and killer became prominent in the history of the West. Jesse James! To Texans today the name signifies the state treasurer, who was elected to office in 1941.

However, it was with various degrees of surprise that several new faculty members read the name, Jesse James, on their first pay checks from Texas Tech.

"The name seemed to jump out at me from the paper," said J. Russell Heitman, head of journalism department. "I looked at the name before I checked the amount of the check," said the former Alabamian.

J. T. Matthews, instructor in physics from the University of Oklahoma, was definitely more interested in the amount.

Being from Missouri, where the infamous Jesse James once robbed and killed, Clifford B. Shipley, head of business and secretarial administration department, was slightly surprised but dismissed the fact as a coincidence.

RAIDER RECEPTION PLANNERS—Thalia Atkinson, above left, heads the arrangement committee for the reception to be given by Association of Women Students honoring Tech football players. Jeannette Bell, Fannie Beth Allen, AWS president, and Jerry Freeman are preparing posters to invite the student body and faculty members to attend the reception from 2-4 p.m. tomorrow in the Rec hall. Miss Freeman is publicity chairman for the reception, and Miss Bell is assisting with art work.

Second Accident In 10 Days Injures Tech Coed Student

Another traffic accident, the second in two weeks, occurred Wednesday morning when Caroline Nunnelee was struck by a car driven by Carolyn Pinkston. The accident happened on the street south of the Tech Bookstore.

Miss Nunnelee was taken to the South Plains clinic with a head bruise and was reported to be in good condition.

Glenn I. Myers, agent for the South Western Publishing company, was struck by a car east of the Ad building Sept. 25.

Education Department Will Offer New Classes At Adjoining Towns

New classes in elementary curriculum workshop will be offered on the Tech campus and in three nearby towns. These classes for in-service teachers will be held in Lamesa and Sardoona and probably in Plainview, said Dr. John Carroll, head of the education department.

Thomas Livingston, assistant professor of education, is the coordinator of these classes.

STUDENTS ASKED TO STAY OFF GRASS

Miss Sannie Callan, head of the child development department, has requested that students not walk across the lawn in front of the child development house, located west of Doak hall.

Dr. Emmett Hazlewood, math department head, is reported convalescing in the Plains hospital after an operation.

Matador Band To Form Buffalo, Tech' In Game Half-Time Show

The half-time show at the Tech-West Texas State game tonight will include the formation of a buffalo and a "WT" by the Matador band.

The band will march on the field playing "On, On Buffaloes" and form the outline of a buffalo and the letters "WT" facing the west stand. The band will play the West Texas Alma Mater song.

Still facing the west the band will reform and spell out "TECH" diagonally across the field and play "Fight, Raiders, Fight." The band will face the east stand and form "TECH" while playing "The Matador Song." With the "T" and "E" remaining the same, the "C" and "H" will reform into an "A" and "M," spelling "team," in honor of the Red Raiders.

SATURDAY IS LAST DAY TO MAKE UP SPRING WORK

Today is the last day requests for making up examinations missed or for removing conditions incurred during the spring semester may be filed with the student's academic dean, announces Vice Pres. E. N. Jones.

First Toreadors Report 900 Students Overflowing Classes; Teachers Needed

Tech Day At Fair Features Students

Panhandle-South Plains fairgrounds resembled the Tech campus yesterday as hundreds of students took advantage of the free admission privilege.

Highlight of the fair, for Tech-sans, was the program presented by Tech band, cheer leaders and Saddle Tramps. Bill Parsley, Student council member and master of ceremonies, opened by dedicating the program to Tech's Silver anniversary.

Tech's cheer leaders, Coffee Connor, Jo Simmons, Ben Willis, Rhetta McMaster and Kenneth Hobbs directed a brief pep rally aided by the Saddle Tramps. Tumbling acts and a "Homer and Jethro" skit followed.

The band and Saddle Tramps concluded the program by leading a community sing.

Mrs. Richards Announces Modern Dance Club Plans

Modern Dance club will have its first meeting at 7 p.m. Monday in the Gym. Mrs. Richard Richards, sponsor and physical education instructor, has announced. Officers will be elected.

Both men and women who are interested in dancing are invited. No previous experience is necessary. Mrs. Richards has requested that work suits be brought to the first meeting.

The club plans to stage several modern dance demonstrations during the year.

Liederkrantz Elects Prexy; Takes In Bavarian Women

Joyce Worrell was elected president of Liederkrantz, German club, Monday. Other officers chosen at the meeting were David Smiley, reporter and Anna Lee Schaeffer, social chairman.

T. W. Alexander, German instructor, announced that a scientific German group will be added as one division of the club. The two other groups are in dramatic art and in conversation.

Students from Bavaria were taken in as honorary members at the meeting. They are Anna Schaeffer, Rose Menget, Elfe Schneidawind, Rosemarie Witting, Ruth Barthow, Gertrude Schulze, Christine Sauer-mann, Annie Sion and Paula Niklas.

Centours Initiate New Members In Hilton Hotel Sunday Afternoon

Formal initiation for new Centaur members will be held at 7 p.m. Sunday in the Chimayo room of the Hilton hotel, according to reporter Bob Duff.

Those to be initiated are Bob Price, Colorado City; Bob Lovelace, Wichita Falls; Jim Kennedy, Lubbock; Bud Almy, Fort Worth; Leon Smith, Decatur; Hugh Davidson, Lubbock; Bob Poteet, Orlton; Bill Kobylek, Houston; Hal Clark, Fort Worth.

Batley Elected Drama Club Head; Sock & Buskin Seeks Members

Jeanne Batley was elected president of Sock and Buskin, dramatics club, at a meeting Tuesday night.

Others elected were Harry Albaugh, vice president and Mary Evelyn Richardson, secretary-treasurer.

Anyone interested in dramatics and wishing to join Sock and Buskin may see any officer to obtain information about the club, Miss Richardson said.

International Relations Club Will See Atom Movie Monday

The International Relations club will meet at 7:30 p.m. Monday in the Extension building. All students who are interested in government, business and international relations are invited to attend, said Bill Arnold, PoataotreeETA said President Bill Arnold.

A movie, "Atomic Power and Turkey," will be shown. New officers will be elected.

By JO DELLA SMITH Toreador Staff Writer

In October, 1925, The Toreador in its first month of publication, reported that the 900 students in college were overflowing the classes and new faculty additions would be necessary.

President Horn made a "mighty fine speech" to a student convocation. He stressed that students with cars must be careful because "an accident would mar the whole life of the school."

Tech's game with Montezuma college was to be played at the Fair grounds since no seats had been constructed at the college field. W. L. Stangel announced that games would be played at the college as soon as seats could be constructed. He believed that campus games would be more convenient for students and would promote better spirit. Two pep rallies were held before the Montezuma game.

The military science department was "highly pleased" to announce that 125 students had enrolled.

Press club was undertaking to sponsor the first Tech yearbook and the Drama club was meeting in the Stock Jugging pavilion.

An article by Miss Flora McGee entitled "The Part Girls Play in Texas Technological college" stressed the fact that the 200 Tech co-eds were "serious-minded girls."

Miss Co-ed could live in College Inn and get her hair bobbed at the Bobber and Beauty shoppe. She could buy stylish wrap-around coats with fur trim and side flare at Barrier Brothers store.

Joe Collette probably lived at Cheri Casa and went to parties at College Inn. He could buy the latest style powder blue pants at J. C. Penney's and Cheney Cravats at Perkins Men's shop. He probably took his best girl to see the latest movie, "The Gold Rush," starring Charles Chaplin at the Palace theater.

Major-Minor Club To Have First Meeting Tuesday Night

Major-Minor club will have its first meeting of the semester at 7 p.m. Tuesday in Ad214. Dr. Ramon Kirellis, head of the physical education department, will speak.

Major-Minor club membership is made up of women majoring or minoring in physical education and recreational leadership.

AWS Honors Red Raiders With Football Reception Sunday

Association of Women Students will hold its annual reception honoring the Texas Tech Red Raiders from 2-4 p.m. Sunday in the Recreation hall, according to Fannie Beth Allen, AWS president.

All faculty members, their families and members of the student body are invited to attend. The receiving line will be headed by Mrs. Jim Hall, vice president of AWS, who will greet guests and in turn introduce them to Dell Morgan, head coach; Morley Jennings, athletic director; Polk Robison, Tapp Mooney, Carl Mulleneaux and G. B. Morris, assistant coaches; George W. Scott, freshman coach.

AWS council members will act as hostesses at the reception. Football boys will be introduced in groups of six by two AWS council members. This system is designed to eliminate the long lines present at previous receptions, Miss Allen said.

Mrs. Margaret Twyman, dean of women, and wives of the coaches will preside at the refreshment table, which will be adorned with a large ice double-T containing red roses.

Members of the house party include J. William Davis, chairman of the athletic council; Mrs. Davis; Jimmie Wilson, athletic business manager; Mrs. Wilson; Rick Jay, chairman of sports publicity; Mrs. Jay; Coffee Conner, head man cheerleader; Jo Simmons, head woman cheerleader; Cheerleaders Kenneth Hobbs, Ben Willis and Rhetta McMaster.

Janet Crandall is general chairman in charge of the reception. Other committee chairmen are as follows: arrangements, Thalia Atkinson and Emily Keys; refreshments, Jo Ann Deaton and Marie Lewis; decorations, Dottie Stokes and Jane Foster; publicity, Jerry Freeman.

Texas Christian has lost the services of all three right halfbacks, John Medanich, Malvin Fowler and Jim Hickey, by injuries received in the Kansas game. All are expected to be back in the lineup within two weeks.

Alderson Elected President Of Keys

Jack Alderson was elected president of Silver Key at a special election last week. He replaces Roy Grimes, who is now in the U.S. Navy.

Other fall officers are Ross Brown, vice president; Charles Joplin, secretary; France Meier, treasurer; J. R. Jennings, reporter; Dorrance Guy, corresponding secretary; Jim Bob Bryan, historian; Willie Berry and Frank Austin, pledge trainers; Jim Elliott, sergeant-at-arms.

Bob Renner and Dr. John Harding, a former sponsor of Silver Key, will replace Dr. J. William Davis and Dr. Emmett Hazelwood as club sponsors this fall.

Sans Souci Introduces 23 New Pledges At Sunday Tea

An introductory tea honoring new pledges will be given by Sans Souci from 3-5 p.m. Sunday at the home of Mrs. George R. Pierce, 3124 Twenty-first, according to Pat Johnson, secretary.

Members of all campus social clubs, Sans Souci patronesses and alumnae members, pledges and their families and close friends will be invited.

Phi Gamma Nu Holds First Fall Party at Quicksall Home

Phi Gamma Nu, honorary business administration organization for women, held its first party of the year Thursday. Mrs. J. L. Quicksall, sponsor, was hostess at her home on Slide road.

Assisting Mrs. Quicksall in the receiving line were club officers and sponsors Mrs. Ethel K. Terrell, Mrs. George Heather and Mrs. Clifford Shipley. Mrs. Terrell, head of secretarial administration department, said.

Sunday Afternoon Tea Honors Dean And Staff

Dean of Women Margaret Twyman and her staff were honored at a seated tea from 4 to 5 p.m. Sunday in the lounge of Women's Dorm IV.

Hostesses were Mrs. Edna Eikel, Mrs. Cecile Turner and Mrs. Elizabeth Young.

Members of Mrs. Twyman's staff are Miss Nancy Nall, Miss Marion Thompson, Miss Mary O'Connor, Miss Mary Lou Cox and Miss Patricia Martin.

Fall Tea Honors Freshman Women

Alpha Lambda Delta, women's freshman honor society, will hold its annual fall tea Sunday from 2-4 p.m. in Drane hall, according to Pat Findley, president.

The purpose of the tea is to acquaint women freshmen and transfer students with the society and its members.

The receiving line will consist of Mrs. Margaret Twyman, dean of women; Miss Findley; Jane Holman and Margaret Stewart, co-sponsors; Frances Cox, vice president; Cecilia Winingham, secretary; Juanita Davis, historian; Ina Jean Martin, reporter; Sharon Cone, AWS representative; Carolyn Reeves, junior advisor; Jean Beene, senior advisor.

Jane Austin will preside at the guest book.

Women's Social Clubs Announce Formal Services For Pledges

Officers of the various women's social clubs have announced formal services for new pledges of the organizations.

Las Chaparritas will hold pledge services Sunday in the Yaquing to Guida Miller, president. At the service, which will be held from 5-8 p.m., members will choose their little sisters from the group of 41 pledges. Members and new pledges are to have dinner together immediately following the service.

Jane Adams, president of Las Vivarachas, reports that their formal initiation of new members and new pledges will be held at 4 p.m. Sunday at the home of Mrs. Jack Griggs on the Levelland highway. Girls to be initiated as new members are: Jeannine B. Childers, Elizabeth Cocanougher, Gloria Griggs, Jo Alyce McMullan, Ann Nix, Margaret Nelson, Donna Pyka and Marion Thomas. Sixteen new pledges will be received.

DEF held services for 35 new pledges Wednesday evening at Jane McCoy's home, 1724 Thirtieth, according to Pat Todd, president. Members took their little sisters to dinner at Phil's Ranch House after the meeting.

A candlelight ceremony was held by Ko Shari, Wednesday night at the home of Dr. and Mrs. W. C. Holden, said Mary Ruth Norris, president. Thirty-seven women received pledge pins.

Safer Signals . . .

During the last three years, the traffic system at Tech has progressed greatly. The officials saw the need for a safer campus in the 1948-49 school year and traffic lights were installed. At the beginning of this year, a parking system was initiated to eliminate some of the between-class traffic.

In spite of the progress made in traffic regulation, however, two persons have been injured within the last 10 days. The accidents were unavoidable, according to officials, but others can possibly be avoided by making a few changes in the regulation and position of campus traffic lights.

Much emphasis has necessarily been placed on automobile traffic system on the campus. This has resulted in a safer campus for pedestrians. But the recent accidents have proved that the campus is not safe enough, which makes us believe that pedestrians need more help to protect themselves. A better system of traffic lights—directed more toward those who walk, seems to be a solution.

The present position of some traffic lights makes signals invisible to the pedestrian. For example, the light in front of the Museum is faced away from the pedestrian, and he cannot tell when to cross, except by looking at the cars. The same situation is evident at the crossing from the Chemistry building to the Administration building. "Walk signals" or lights facing the person walking should be installed at places where pedestrians can see them.

Furthermore, the light in front of the Museum and the one south of the Engineering building are not regulated to give pedestrians a chance to cross at the northwest point on the circle. When cars stop from one direction they start from the other. Those lights should be regulated so that the cars from both directions would be stopped for a few seconds.

The suggested changes would make it easier for people to know when to cross and would eliminate the necessity for their standing in the middle of the street while cars whiz by on both sides. (D.A.)

Howdy Conscious . . .

Every week is Howdy week at Tech, but beginning Monday the Tech Chamber of Commerce is planning a special emphasis on campus friendliness. Howdy week will be climaxed by the all-school trip to Fort Worth for the Raider-Froggie game Saturday.

Tech has grown, certainly, but we think the largest student body should mean just that many more howdies. The nice thing about the special week is that it takes no time from classes, studies, dates or work. You can observe Howdy week for six days without spending a cent on the celebration, unless, of course, a friendly response to your howdy leads you to follow up with a coffee date!

Tech incorporated Howdy week as a tradition soon after World War II. Before the war Tech had a closely-knit student body which was considered to be the friendliest group in the state. But post-war days saw the return of many former students who thought something had happened to the pre-war spirit. Tech War Veterans' association, now disbanded, originated the idea of the special week set aside to emphasize friendliness. Since then Howdy week has been an important part of each school year.

Last year Howdy week was held in conjunction with Homecoming activities. Ex-students were shown that the Tech friendliness they remembered was still present. This year we have the opportunity to prove to another school that Texas Tech has by far the friendliest students in Texas.

Smiles and friendly greetings will prevail when students or faculty members meet each other. There's no chance of overdoing friendliness; you just can't be intemperate about it. Tags will be distributed to every student and will have space for each student's name, home town, classification and division. These tags may lead to the acquisition of good friends, or perhaps will refresh your memory as to the names of the students whom you've met hurriedly and can't quite place. It's likely you will discover that the tags will lead you to someone you don't know from your home town or area.

Get your tag, fill it out and give forth with the "howdies." And when you get on that chartered bus for Fort Worth, take along all that friendliness you have managed to bring to the surface during the week.

With No Respect . . .

Rush week has called our attention to a rather childish act on this campus. With the appearance of the familiar red rushee ribbon worn by women students, a new type of identification has been noticed. This is a small white ribbon bearing the red letters "GDL."

A small rivalry between "independents" and social club members has existed in the past. But is this to become a real problem because of someone's thoughtlessness? Every student on this campus may find, if he desires, a suitable place for himself. If he does not care for social clubs, then departmental clubs and other campus organizations are wide open and eager to have members.

Why make our newcomers feel that there is segregation in our student body? It has been proved in the past that "independents" and members of social clubs can and do work harmoniously together for the good of the campus as a whole. The merits of the groups should not be discussed separately. We should all cooperate and each respect the other fellow's choice.

If the persons responsible for the printing of these crude badges realized that they are falsely representing the largest per cent of our student body, they might reconsider. By wearing these ribbons, the few are branding the majority of their classmates with an unwanted title. Let's stop and think twice before we start something on our campus that we may be ashamed of later. (B.W.)

Announcement last summer of a possible increase in tuition in Texas operated colleges brought a landslide of comment from students—mostly unfavorable.

The possibility was voiced by the budget division of the state board of control after receiving a request for a 68 per cent increase in funds for the 18 state colleges. The request for the 1951-52 biennium calls for an increase of $35,454,720 over the present appropriation. Increases in requests have been attributed to the graduation of many veterans who have brought federal funds to campuses in the state.

Considerable trimming of the $35,334,043 appropriation requests may be expected by all the schools involved. In 1948 the request for $35,576,198 was trimmed to $32,379,323.

State legislative budget board Director Vernon McGee wonders if the 20 year old tuition "pattern" is still valid for present-day needs and present day economic conditions.

Arguments heard on the campus immediately after the August announcement put forth the idea that no boost in tuition should be made for fear that it invite aid from the government and with it government control.

Few Texans would want their schools to be subject to federal control, and many feel that such would happen if federal aid were granted.

Texas doesn't need, and never has needed federal aid to operate its schools, however. The fact is that the state could supply the needed funds through new taxes. But would that be the best means? Are not Texans able to pay slightly more to have their sons educated via tuition?

Obviously the proposed budget can be reduced by the Texas law makers, but where?

Unless we are mistaken, the first school to go to the chopping block will be Texas State University for Negroes. The school has asked for $6,600,000 for new buildings on the Houston campus. The school will need the buildings, but that figure makes their request second only to the Austin branch of the University of Texas.

Numerous members of the legislature may think that white schools should come first. THEY SPOKE.

We make such an assertion for only one reason—there is little use in spending large sums of money to duplicate our already adequate schools, just to satisfy an overaged attitude of segregation.

Why spend $6,600,000 to improve a campus that may be declared useless by one sweep of the supreme court?

What women will be wearing next week is anyone's guess, but not so with the men.

Nevertheless, Esquire magazine has come forth with what they call "a radical approach to men's fashions," but if we know Tech men, the style here will continue to be levis and tee shirts. The new styles include:

1. Tapered crown hats. Tech men would choose a bare head or agriculture students may select 10 gallon hats.
2. Less width across the shoulders. This one would be very difficult for residents of West hall.
3. Straight hanging, T-square lines. An engineering student should be able to tell us what they plan.
4. Tapered trousers for trimness. Next year they would choose bell bottoms if they followed the women's cycle in style making.
5. Comfortable, less bulky shoes. How could a shoe be comfortable and less bulky at the same time?
6. Restrained, smaller knot ties. We like a little flash in our ties. As for the knot, we have our own preference, why change?
7. Neat, new pin-point collars and smart, rounded-point collars. We aren't particular.
8. "Up"-looking terraced designs. Such might be a good style for West Texas since terraces help prevent land erosion.
9. New, reserved mid-tone colors. If it is sport shirts, the colors won't be reserved on the Tech campus.

We, like most men, are content to continue wearing the same styles from year to year. A visitor to New York last spring noted that colors were somewhat more lavish there this year. But, the Southwest has its own style. As for the new tartans appearing in men's dress, we wouldn't be caught dead in Scotland wearing them.

Block And Bridle Club Calls Animal Husbandry Pledges Animal husbandry majors wishing to pledge the Block and Bridle club should pick up their pledge sheets as soon as possible at the animal husbandry office, Glenn Johnson, club president said. Each pledge must make a "B" Block and Bridle club symbol, and show it when he picks up his pledge sheets. The pledge sheets should be signed and returned to the office by noon Thursday, Johnson added.

Letters To The Editor

Editor, The Toreador
Tech Campus
Dear Editor:
Texas Tech administrators, in the fall semester of 1949, inaugurated a plan whereby juniors and seniors would no longer be penalized for cuts if their grades remained sound. This was an admission that cuts per class could not be limited by a set number with any justification. Yet some professors insist on the old three-cut ruling, and dole out their own point demerits to violators.

Certainly excessive absences should not be overlooked, but a figure plucked arbitrarily out of the ozone is not the way to decide just how many misses is too many. Class comprehension is the criterion for grading; why not let it also be the guide for lecture attendances.

Students who cut classes are usually motivated by something stronger than a mere impulsive whim. Their reasons for absenteeism, while not always legitimate from a professorial viewpoint, are often scholastically valid. For example, students master some courses with unruffled ease, while other subjects leave them gasping and disheveled over the finish line. Should fudging on the one to facilitate a better understanding of the other be looked on with disapproval?

Another issue concerns sickness—not the under-a-doctor's-care excused absence type, but the wheezing-sneezing-sniffing, bad-cold kind. A person affected by the latter ailment is not a very efficient classroom scholar. Should he be forced to discomfort himself, and possibly his neighbors, by sitting in the close confines of a lecture room aware only of the endless interlude between the convening and releasing jangle of the electric bell?

All cuts do not have grounds for defense, of course. Purely promiscuous absences can and should be held in disfavor. A casual attitude toward class attendance, even by a person who is "making his grades" will undermine the discipline of the school by influencing less apt persons to follow suit. Yet, a more liberal attitude toward the cuts that have a purpose might increase, rather than decrease, the merit of the new voluntary absence plan.

San Anderson,
Doak Hall.
Your letter seems to contain the logic voiced by our president last year in a convocation address. He said part of an education was learning when to cut. There has to be a limit, though, else some

Grass? At Tech? Ex-Techsan Of "Good Old Days" Surprised

By MARY HALL
Toreador Feature Editor

"Grass? At Tech? I've never been so amazed in my life." This comment was offered by John C. (Red) White, Texas agriculture commissioner-elect and ex-Techsan, when he visited on the campus Tuesday.

White was graduated in 1946 with a degree in animal husbandry. Since that time he has been head of the agriculture department at Midwestern university in Wichita Falls.

"Tech has grown tremendously since I last saw it," he said. "When I was here the school only had about 2,800 students. Everyone knew everyone else and the old 'howdy' spirit was in us all. I only hope that with the enlarged enrollment the spirit of friendliness and democracy on the campus will not be forgotten."

Tech's new building program particularly impressed him. "When I was here the favorite method of obtaining money from home was to write that you were so broke and despondent that you were going to jump off the Museum. Since the completion of the building (which was only a basement then) that is regrettably no longer possible," he said.

White said that the campus looked completely foreign to him. "It has been the dream of all Techsans for so many years to build wings on the Ad building that it is scarcely believable that they are now under construction."

The campus is losing its "lost prairie" look according to White. The new parking areas, traffic lights and extensive paving caused him to remark that Tech is rapidly becoming "one of the best looking colleges in the state, as well as one of the best scholastically."

White worked his way through school as a bellhop at the Hilton hotel. In 1944 he married Mary Jean Prince, a member of Las Chaparritas. He carried a full load of courses and was an active member of College Club. In addition to this he was a cheer leader from 1944-46.

Known as "Red" to all students on the campus, White said that he would never forget the democracy of Tech and Techsans. "Too many schools base their friendships on an economic level and completely ignore the 'ordinary guy,'" he said.

"I don't believe in forcing my ideas on other people, but I'm hoping my four-year-old son will be a Tech student someday," he added.

Only 25, White is the youngest agriculture commissioner Texas has ever had and is reported to be the youngest official ever to be elected in the state.

In winning the Democratic primary over the incumbent J. E. McDonald, he said that a great deal of the credit must go to

West Texas Throws Winning Team Against Tech Tonight

By JIM HOLLEMAN
Toreador Sports Editor

A team West Texas State considers the best in its history will roll into Jones stadium at 8 p.m. tonight primed to win its fourth game from the Red Raiders in 15 contests between the two teams.

The Buffaloes are out to make up for their long drouth of victories in the series. West Texas hasn't won from the Raiders since 1930.

Amazing scoring power has been exhibited by the Buffaloes this season. The West Texans have scored no less than 34 points against each team they have faced. The Buffs opened their season by overpowering Arizona State of Flagstaff 52-18 and followed with triumphs over the University of Arizona and McMurray college by scores of 34-20 and 41-19 respectively.

West Texas presents a team that some have considered potential Border champions in 1950.

Offense has overshadowed defense around Canyon this year as is witnessed by the fact that the Buffaloes have allowed three touchdowns per game to each of their opponents.

Tech, too, will present a team with ability to score. The Raiders have racked up two touchdowns in each of their first two games against Southwest conference opponents.

However, defense is more emphasized by the local aggregation Raider defensive lines have shown well against powerhouses from Texas U. and Texas A&M, although a lack of reserve strength has weakened the team in late quarters.

Tech enjoyed its most one-sided victory in the WTSC series in 1942 when it rolled to a 39-0 victory over the Buffaloes. West Texas State's widest margin was a 20-0 triumph in 1929.

Ike Stuver and Earl Jackson, ranked fourteenth and nineteenth nationally in rushing, are again expected to carry the brunt of the Raider attack. Passing has been emphasized in recent Raider practices and may be more evident in tonight's game. Quarterbacks Pete Edwards and Don Seale will be on the firing end.

West Texas quarterback Gene Mayfield completed 54 out of 100 passes in 1949 and is counted on as an aerial threat tonight. Minute Bill Cross, 150-pound fullback, will lead the Buffalo ground attack along with halfbacks R. C. Dalton and Walker Bateman.

All indications point to a high scoring battle for tonight's game. Game time is 8 p.m.

Starting line-ups for tonight's game are:

Price	LTR	Williams
Gray	LGR	Covington

Dormitory Ping Pong Contests Open Intramural Sports Program

Intramural ping pong started this week in the men's dormitories.

The tournament will include contests in singles and doubles. Eliminations within the dorms will be followed by playoffs between the dorms.

According to George Philbrick, director of the Intramural league, Sneed hall, Doak hall, West hall and Men's Dorms III and IV have entered an average of 35 contestants for each tournament. Trophies or plaques will be given the winners in singles and in doubles.

Men's Social Clubs Begin Rush Period Activities Monday

Monday will mark the beginning of a 10 day period of rush activities for men students wishing to pledge a social club this semester. There will be no introductory convocation for rushes.

Each of the seven men's clubs will be permitted one function during the rush period. Schedule of the functions is Monday, College Club; Tuesday, Los Cams; Wednesday, Centaur; Thursday, Soci; Monday Oct. 16, Kemas; Tuesday, Oct. 17, Silver Key; Wednesday, Oct. 18, Wranglers.

A pledging convocation will be from 4:45-6:15 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 19 in the Aggie auditorium. Preferential bids must be submitted at this time by the rushes to James G. Allen, dean of student life.

Each club must turn in a list of men they are bidding for to Allen by 10 a.m. Thursday, Oct. 19. An official list of men each club has received will be posted on the bulletin board outside the office of the dean of student life by 10 p.m. No male student on scholastic or disciplinary probation may be pledged to a club, according to Men's Inter-Club council rules. He must have been in school for at least one semester or two (summer terms and must have maintained a 1-point grade average for that period.

John Porter, who received an MS in zoology at Texas Tech in August, was awarded a service free fellowship at Iowa State college, Ames, Ia.

Marketing Society Calls Monday Night Election

Tech society of American Marketing association will meet at 7:30 p.m. Monday in Ad210. A vice president and secretary-treasurer will be elected.

All students who will have completed six hours of marketing by the end of this semester may join the organization. They must pledge during one semester and be approved by the club membership. All marketing students are invited to attend Monday's meeting, said club reporter Frank Austin.

exceptional students might just as well be taking correspondence courses.

A survey conducted last spring on fall grades proved that the better the class attendance, the better the grades made. The plan for juniors and seniors was inaugurated, as we understand it, to instill some degree of self-discipline in students who, in one or two years hence, would be required to rely upon themselves.

Upperclassmen who miss classes because of illness are allowed three more cuts to be taken at their own discretion. Most students, it seems, realize the value of attending classes in order to profit by lectures, which in turn makes assigned work more understandable.

Holleman Hollers . . . .

While not ranked nationally in any department, the West Texas State Buffaloes have compiled an outstanding record as an offensive team in the Border conference this year.

Tiny (150 lbs.) fullback Bill Cross averaged 17 yards per carry in his first two games this season, gaining 288 yards in 16 tries. The 5-foot 6-inch speedster also received two passes for 65 yards and punted twice for an average of 46 yards.

Cross' substitute, Tommy Airhart, has averaged 11 yards in 20 carries. The Buff team's average of 6.6 yards per carry is one of the highest in the Border conference this year and definitely labe them as an offensive threat in any game.

Whether Tech's defense is debatable. However, its opponents so far this year have been much tougher than have those of West Texas. Arizona U., Arizona Flagstaff and McMurry can not be ranked with Texas university and Texas A&M.

Buffalo scoring sprees in their games are a sharp contrast to Tech's two touchdown average against its adversaries. The performance of West Texas State's backfield cannot be ignored.

With almost a full team of veterans returning for action this year the Buffaloes are aiming for a conference championship. Hardin-Simmons shouldn't stand in their way. The Buffs have virtually the same team as the one which upset the Cowboys last year, and the H-SU team is very little stronger this year.

Tech is a pretty good bet to cop its first victory of the season tonight in what may be a high scoring game. West Texas State can and probably will score, but its weak defense, which allowed three touchdowns to each of its first three opponents, won't hold what has been called the best backfield for Tech in the last five years.

Three other Border conference games will be played tonight. A weak Arizona Flagstaff team rolls onto the home field of its neighbor, Tempe, and should be prepared to take a cleaning from the Sun Devils who possess their strongest team in many years.

Hardin-Simmons may be able to take advantage of a youthful Arizona university squad in Tucson although the rapidly improving Wildcats could score an upset.

The University of New Mexico will receive the New Mexico A&M team on its home field in what should be a breather for the Lobos.

The only non-conference game on the schedule will occur at El Paso where Texas Western will entertain the University of Idaho. The Miners' red hot backfield should outscore the northwesterners no matter what their capabilities.

In the Southwest conference TCU meets Arkansas in the first conference game for both teams. Rated almost even by the experts, the fact that the game is played on their home field should give the Horned Frogs a one touchdown advantage. Mississippi State should stop the Baylor Bears who are hampered by a change in their playing system and an inexperienced team, this year.

Rice will have trouble with the LSU Tigers but may eek out a victory, and SMU will continue its winning ways against the University of Missouri, rolling over the Tigers by a two or three touchdown margin.

Seventeen hundred students signed petitions in 1936 to lengthen the Christmas holidays two days. The request was refused by college officials.

A crowd of over 200 turned out Monday night at the Quarterback club to hear coaches Dell Morgan, Pat Pattison and Damon Hill tell of their games in the past weekend.

Border Conference Tennis Tourney Continues Today

Texas Tech's tennis team is host today to an intercollegiate tennis tournament with three visiting Border conference teams, announces Glenn Ivy, coach of Tech's varsity tennis team.

Eliminations began yesterday and finals will be played today, Ivy said. West Texas State, University of New Mexico and Hardin-Simmons have each sent four representatives to compete in A and B competition.

Playing for Tech are Joe Wheatley, Jimmy Burgess, Charlie Oren and Chris Daugherty. Wheatley won the singles championship in Lubbock's city open tennis tournament last semester, and, teamed with Burgess, captured the doubles crown.

Ava Stangel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Stangel was born Sept. 16, 1925 and is the first child of a Tech faculty member born after school began, to enroll in Tech.

Texas Tech's Red Raiders played against Texas A&M's Aggies at Kyle field, College Station in Oct., 1942 to begin Tech's first big-time series of games with Southwest conference teams.

Dorm IV downed Doak hall 7-6 in the opener of the 1950 Texas Tech intramural football dorm league, Thursday afternoon.

A first half touchdown by Tracy Brown put Doak hall nto a temporary lead. Dorm IV unveiled a passing attack in the second half which carried them to the score. Archie Campbell made the extra point which won the game.

Dorm IV controlled the game with their passing attack, completing 6 of 17 while Doak hall was able to complete two of the 13 aeriels they attempted.

Officials for the game were Travis Smith, umpire; Charles Smith, referee; J. H. Bentley, head linesman; Charles Adams, field judge.

Meith Tools Belts For Skinny Boys; Tricky Folded Wallets Make Money

By BERNIA BARTLETT
Toreador Staff Writer

"I have my own special fold for billfolds," explained Hugo C. Meith, junior from Fort Worth. H. C. was speaking of his favorite hobby and most profitable business, the making of leather billfolds.

Billfolds made by this junior require no stitching other than decorative leather stitches, because of a unique system of folding the leather. There is ample room for pictures, change, licenses and cards.

In addition to this specialty, Hugo makes belts to order with prices ranging from about $4 to as high as $20. As all of his tools and materials are in his dormitory room in Sneed hall, he is able to take as many as seven or eight orders per day for belts or billfolds from college students.

Not all of his orders come from Tech, however. He also takes orders for a Lubbock boot shop. Twice a week, H. C. picks up a sheaf of orders with specific instructions on each. For example, a fairly recent group of orders included the following data for instruction.

"One lady's belt, size 27, black or brown, name Janet."

Naturally, with such a variety of taste among leather fanciers, a few usually manage to appear which are somewhat difficult to understand. Into this category falls the order blank which stated simply, "Belt for an awful skinny boy, age 11." As the boot shop knew nothing about the order whatsoever, the boy obviously wrote it himself and placed it in the order pile.

Another puzzler was a billfold ordered by a prominent Lubbock businessman who stated emphatically that he must have no less than five secret pockets in his billfold, and that two of them must be glaringly conspicuous while the other three must be so difficult to find that even the owner would have to go to quite a bit of trouble.

When asked about his most unusual order H. C. said immediately, "I'm sure it was the four-buckle belt with 'Constance' tool on the back. That wouldn't have been odd except that four-buckle belts run about six inches wide, and this particular belt was a size 38."

Tech Dairy Team Adjudged Tenth

Tech's Dairy Cattle Judging team placed tenth in the National Dairy Judging congress completed Monday in Waterloo, Ia. R. C. Mowery, head of animal husbandry department said.

First place honors went to Ohio with 2,081 points. Cornell won ninth place with 1,926 points and Tech's tenth position registered 1,924 points.

Thirty-four teams from the United States and Canada competed in the contest, Mowery said.

Tech's team was composed of Tommy Hewlett, Ropesville; Vestal Shipman, Lubbock; Billy Chestnut, Dalhart; Thomas White, Paris. Koy L. Neeley was coach of the team.

Tech placed second in Jersey judging; individual honors in this division went to Hewlett in third place and Shipman in seventh place.

Club President J. W. Rosson says that any student or faculty member who has a message for a friend anywhere in the nation may reach him through the club's "ham" operators.

Broadcasting from the second floor of the Textile quonset hut, operators are on hand from 4-5:30 p.m. Monday through Friday, and from 8-9 a.m. Sunday. They'll transmit your message to Portland, Me., or Portland, Ore., or wherever you say. The "ham" at the other end will complete the process.

Those interested in getting an amateur broadcaster's license may go to the club's code classes Monday through Friday from 5-5:45 p.m. No radio knowledge is necessary.

New officers of the club, which meets at 7 p.m. Tuesdays, are Rosson; Calvin Finley, vice president; George T. Baker, Secretary; Luther Harris, treasurer.

Heitman Schedules Journalism Clinic

The West Texas Scholastic Press clinic will be held at Tech Oct. 27-28, announces J. R. Heitman, journalism department head.

The clinic is held annually for training high school staff members and instructors to comply with the principles of journalistic procedure.

This will be the first meeting since 1941. The clinics were discontinued during World War II, Heitman said.

Letters have been sent to principals of 90 high schools in this area which have student publications.

Other activities offered these students and instructors during the clinic will include the game between Tech and Texas Western and a program-dinner.
