

Snow Buries South Plains

By the Associated Press

A vast snow storm, called the worst ever to hit Texas' South Plains, sneaked into the state without warning and continued unabated at a late hour Monday night with no end in sight.

Snow piled more than a foot deep in many places as the storm continued to fog down.

The Lubbock Avalanche-Journal reported at mid-evening that the city's traffic was virtually paralyzed. Twelve inches of snow was on the ground in the South Plains metropolis.

Classes were canceled for Tuesday at both Texas Tech and Lubbock public schools. Many other schools in the area planned no classes until the roads and streets could be cleared.

An Avalanche-Journal reporter said, "Old-timers here tell me there has never been anything like it before."

Schools shut down early in the afternoon so children could get home. Some buses were unheard from for hours, but late Monday night all were believed safe.

The snow reached from the Big Bend Country in far West Texas northeastward into the South Plains and the bottom of the Texas Panhandle.

Near Reese Air Force Base in the Lubbock area, thousands of automobiles were abandoned in the snow-filled roads. Many motorists were taken from their cars by crews driving tractors and road-clearing machines. Some were reported still stranded late Monday night near the County Line community, 20 miles west of Lubbock.

Roads in the area were being closed fast, not by official action, but by accumulations of snow that was very deep in drifts and by cars abandoned on the highways.

Highway patrol units rescued a busload of school children near Reese Air Force Base and took them to a church. From there, the children telephoned their parents, who came after them on tractors.

Streets in Lubbock were piled with snow in many places and abandoned automobiles further made traffic movements almost impossible.

Council Announces Position Vacancies

Academic deficiencies have left nine Student Council positions vacant, the Council office announced Monday.

These positions are six on the freshman council, senior class vice president, business administration representative and engineering representative.

Petitions for these vacancies were released Friday and are due at the Council office by 5 p.m. Wednesday.

Petitions for Mr. and Mrs. Texas Tech, which should include 500 names, must be in the Council office by 5 p.m. Friday. No campaigning may be done for this election and all candidates must be seniors.

Class meetings will be conducted at 5 p.m. Wednesday for class favorite nominations. Seniors will meet in Ad 372; Juniors, Chemistry 101; sophomores, Ag Bldg.; and freshmen, Aggie Engineering Bldg. The election will be March 1.

Petitions for Student Council executive positions and for cheerleaders may be obtained by March 1 and elections will be March 15.

Petitions for Student Council class representatives will be available on March 3 and will be due March 8. An election rally will be held March 14 and campaigning will start March 15. Votes will be cast March 20 for this election.

Should Texas Tech Change Its Name?

by JEANNIE BOOKOUT
Toreador Staff Writer

The Executive Board of the Texas Tech Ex-Students Assn. and the Tech Faculty Advisory Committee both have now gone on record calling for action to change the name of Texas Tech.

Some saw the need for a name change several years ago. Support was given to the idea by Dr. E. N. Jones, former Tech president. Since then the issue has come and gone with periodic interest.

Now many have openly come out with urgent requests for a name change. According to Dr. John Guilds, Tech English professor and secretary to the Faculty Advisory Committee, "We are in the position of being a university but not acting as one."

When asked why he thought Tech should be changed to university status, Guilds replied, "Anyone holding a graduate degree in fields other than technology is handicapped by the fact that we don't have university status in our title."

He further explained that many people across the nation and in other countries, upon hearing the name of the school, thought it to be a technological school only and therefore "we do not attract good faculty members and good graduate students." This is ironic since there is a larger enrollment in the er, professor of economics and chairman of the Faculty Advisory Committee, said "The name of the institution should describe that institution. That is the first thing involved." He went on to state that Tech is putting an increased emphasis on research activity and is attracting students from a larger area than ever before.

"The areas to which Tech's students migrate has come to encompass all of the United States. Prospective students and prospective employers aren't fully aware of the comprehensive academic program of the institution," he said.

Walker also hinted that possible sources of research funds for fields other than those of technology might not be fully aware of Tech's broad academic program.

Perhaps another thought is in the minds of those advocating a change in Tech's name. That thought is, "Will A&M beat us to being named a university?" There are many "ifs" in this question. However, if the University of Houston is taken into the state system and if A&M does become a university, many fear that there will be no room for another university in the Texas system, namely Tech.

On the other hand there are those who do not wish a new name for Tech. Tradition means a great deal to many students and alumni. Many old songs

NO CLASSES

President R. C. Goodwin announced late Monday there will be no classes at Texas Tech today.

Classes are expected to resume Wednesday.

The snow had practically buried Texas Tech late Monday night, as it did throughout the South Plains. The veritable blizzard had blanketed the western portion of Texas.

Travel on streets had become hazardous late Monday and was expected to be even worse as the snow turned to ice during the night.

and school yells might have to be abolished if the name were changed.

Others feel that Tech has built a name for itself across the nation and that a change would cause a disassociation of Tech from its reputation and accomplishments.

They further contend that Tech seems to be doing all right in her present status and is growing every year.

And what does Webster's Unabridged Dictionary have to say on the subject? The dictionary defines "university" as "an institution organized for teaching and study in the higher branches of learning, and empowered to confer degrees in special departments, as theology, law, medicine and the arts."

"College" in dictionary terms is "an institution of higher learning in the U.S. receiving approved graduates of preparatory schools and offering instruction in art, letters and sciences leading to the bachelor's degree; there is, however, no clear line of demarcation, as institutions have retained the name, college, while extending their instruction to university scope."

"In the universities the name, college, is usually given to the division of the institutions which provide instruction in the liberal arts and sciences, leading to the bachelor's degree; in some universities the various divisions, including graduate and professional schools, are named colleges."

AWS Announces Officer Election

The election date for new officers of AWS has been set for Feb. 28, Ann Fursman, AWS president, has announced.

A slate of officers will be presented by senior AWS members at the next council meeting Wednesday in Ad. 260.

Attention Editors!

A meeting of all magazine editors of La Ventana is scheduled for 5 p.m. Wednesday in the La Ventana office.

The importance of meeting the yearbook deadlines will be emphasized by editors Pat Porter and Ellen Venable.

Thetas Choose Jenkins Best Sorority Member

Carolyn Jenkins, Tech senior from Dallas, was recognized as Best Member of Kappa Alpha Theta for the year at the sorority's Initiation Banquet at 6 p.m. Sunday in the Tech Union.

Miss Jenkins, who is currently serving as Theta president, was chosen by vote of the sorority membership. She is also news editor of the Toreador.

The Merit Award, given to a member with outstanding activities, went to Pat Porter. Suzanne Alderson was chosen Best Pledge. Miss Porter and Miss Alderson were also given the award for the big and little sister team with the highest scholarship.

Other awards made at the banquet are as follows: senior scholarship, Sandra Cox; junior scholarship, Carlyn Graw; sophomore scholarship, Suzie Hawkins; freshman scholarship, Jan Justice; and most improved scholarship, Julia Mingus.

Zeta Tau Alphas Take Senior Cut

Seventeen Zeta Tau Alpha seniors took their annual 'senior cut' Monday night and substituted snow fights for the usual chapter meeting routine.

Zeta seniors had supper together, went to the show, then ended with a slumber party in the lodge, after underclassmen completed chapter business.

Engineering Student Discusses Role Of Press In Venezuela

The Tech Chapter of Theta Sigma Phi and Alumni group, national professional fraternity for women in journalism, met Thursday night for a professional meeting.

Speaker for the meeting was Jorge Gil, a junior industrial engineering student from Caracas, Venezuela. Gil spoke on "The Role of the Press in Venezuela," emphasizing the great social changes Venezuela has undergone since the dictatorship was overthrown several years ago.

Plans were also discussed at the meeting for the annual Matrix of the Press in Venezuela, emphasizing the great social changes Venezuela has undergone since the dictatorship was overthrown several years ago.

Table for April.

"I'VE GOT NEWS FOR YOU"

I know all of you have important things to do in the morning—like getting down to breakfast before your roommate eats all the marmalade—so you really cannot be blamed for not keeping up with all the news in the morning papers. In today's column, therefore, I have prepared a run-up of news highlights from campuses the country over.

SOUTHERN RESERVE UNIVERSITY

Dr. Willard Hale Sigafos, head of the department of anthropology at Southern Reserve University, and internationally known as an authority on primitive peoples, returned yesterday from a four-year scientific expedition to the headwaters of the Amazon River. Among the many interesting mementos of his journey is his own head, shrunk to the size of a kumquat. He refused to reveal how his head shrinking was accomplished. "That's for me to know and you to find out," he said with a tyn, but saucy grin.

NORTHERN RESERVE UNIVERSITY

Dr. Mandrill Gibbon, head of the department of zoology at Northern Reserve University, and known to young and old for his work on primates, announced yesterday that he had received a grant of $80,000.000 for a twelve-year study to determine precisely how much fun there is in a barrel of monkeys. Whatever the results of Dr. Gibbon's researches, this much is already known: What's more fun than a barrel of monkeys is a pack of Marlboro. There is zest and cheer in every puff, delight in every draw, content and well-being in every flavor, flavorful cloudlet. And what's more, this merriest of cigarette comes to you both in soft pack and flip-top box wherever cigarettes are sold at prices that do no violence to the slimmest of purses. So why don't you settle back soon and enjoy Marlboro, the filtered cigarette with the unfiltered taste.

EASTERN RESERVE UNIVERSITY

The annual meeting of the American Philological Institute, held last week at Eastern Reserve University, was enlivened by the reading of two divergent monographs concerning the origins of early Gothic "runes," as letters of primitive alphabets are called.

Dr. Tristram Lathrop Spleen, famed far and wide as the discoverer of the High German Consonant Shift, read a paper in which he traced the origins of the Old Wendish rune "pt" (pronounced "krahtz") to the middle Lettic rune "gr" (pronounced "albert"). On the other hand, Dr. Richard Cumberbund Twonkey, who, as the whole world knows, translated "The Pajama Game" into Middle High Bactrian, contended in his paper that the Old Wendish rune "pt" derives from the Low Erse rune "ml" (pronounced "gr").

Well, sir the discussion grew so heated that Dr. Twonkey finally asked Dr. Spleen if he would like to step into the gymnasium and put on the gloves. Dr. Spleen accepted the challenge promptly, but the contest was never held because there were no gloves in the gymnasium that would fit Dr. Twonkey. (The reader is doubtless finding this hard to believe as Eastern Reserve University is celebrated the length and breadth of the land for the size of its globe collection. However, the reader is asked to remember that Dr. Twonkey has extraordinarily small hands and arms. In fact, he spent the last year working in a small-arms plant, where he received two Navy "E" Awards and was widely hailed as a "manly little chap.")

New from the makers of Marlboro is the king-size unfiltered Philip Morris Commander—made in a brand-new way for a brand-new experience in smoking pleasure. Get aboard.

BSO Presents Officers Slate

The slate of nominations for new BSO officers will be presented at the regular meeting of the Board of Student Organizations at noon Thursday, in the Student Union Workroom.

The Executive Committee will make the following nominations: Jerry Parsons, executive chairman; Carl McKinzie, executive vice chairman; Mary Jo McClain, executive secretary; and James Langley, treasurer.

After election of officers, final plans for the BSO retreat, March 3-5, at Cloudcroft, N.M., will be completed. All delegates planning to go on the retreat should attend this meeting. Organizations must pay fees by Monday.

Student Council Beat

I was once told while serving as Sports Editor of the Toreador several years ago that "when you don't have anything to say—don't say anything." This is the case today so I am going to take some random shots.

Sportsmanship at our basketball games has been outstanding until Saturday night. Several teams, especially SMU, commented on our fine student attitude at the games. As we have tried to point out before winning and losing is not based on booing or counting off the number of times an opponent bounces the ball before he shoots his free shot. It is based on the play of our team and the reaction of the crowd. The roar that comes up when we score and an opponent brings the ball down court is what puts the pressure on. If bad conduct is allowed at other schools that doesn't make it right for us to act in the same manner. The point is that we have been winning and our crowd reaction has been better than ever before. We haven't won because we display poor sportsmanship. We've won because everyone has worked together with our team. Let's keep it this way!

I have received many letters lately from some of the high school athletes that have visited our campus. They are letters expressing appreciation for having been received so warmly by the student body. Even if these boys don't come here (and many are coming) they will have a good feeling about Tech and will let others know how they feel. Our stock in the public relations department is soaring.

Once again the name change has been brought up—this time by the Ex-Students. If you have any feeling I would like to know what it is because sooner or later a decision will have to be made on this point. We are going to have to decide whether or not we want to change the name of Texas Tech and, if so, what we want the change to be. The more opinions I have from students the better I will be able to say, "This is what our students want." So I'm not only asking but encouraging you to drop me a line expressing your feelings.

In addition to this I have asked all year for your comments and suggestions about every issue that has arisen. I don't care how insignificant you might think your ideas are, I would like to hear them. If there are questions you have I will attempt to answer them. I might not agree with you but I will answer you anyway. Enough said!

Big D Paper Comments . . .

(Editor's note: The following editorial was clipped from the Sunday Dallas Morning News by a Tech student and sent to the Toreador).

There seems to be something in a name, after all. The ex-students of Texas Technological College, Lubbock, are not satisfied with being the "ex" association of a mere college. They want the name changed to Texas Technological University. Only recently Texas Women's University at Denton and Rice University at Houston have blossomed.

In Texas there seems to be a higher-educational ladder. The lowest rung is junior college with a two-year course. Next is senior college with a four-year course. Then comes university, though some that assume the name do not really qualify. Besides its academic department, a university should have enough professional and special schools at least to make a gesture toward being a seat of universal learning.

Occasionally this tendency for Texas colleges to elevate themselves is criticized. But ambition and self-help along the upward path are two leading characteristics of the American way. Why not colleges?

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

"TH' SIGMA PHI NOTHING HOLDS - SEEMS LIKE THAT FRATERNITY IS ON PROBATION MOST OF THE TIME."

Sir:

The February 18 issue of the Toreador contains two journalistic triumphs in inaccuracy. It has become customary to expect in small-town newspapers journalism that is short on accuracy and long on opinion. Undoubtedly this state of affairs arises in part from the large scale use of wire services, in part from the general absence of men of real intellectual stature on small-town newspaper staff and in part from the newspaperman's recognition that if today's masterpiece is to wrap tomorrow's garbage, why worry about ering in fact and stretching the truth.

Thus, it appears that our local editor is unaware of Iowa State University and Rice University or that he does not understand that their international acclaim is not due to their football prowess.

But, we have grown used to this slackness in our local newspaper. We would hope, however, that a campus newspaper, being part of a "University" atmosphere would strive for factual accuracy. In the fairly well misrepresented report on the AAUP panel discussion your reporter has me as advocating the abolition of some departments now at the College. I believe that I made it quite clear that I was not advocating anything. It was my assignment to examine the function of a University from the English viewpoint and apply the analysis to the question of the evening. To do this I described what changes we would see at Texas Tech if it were to become an English University; in so doing we could understand more clearly what the English regard as the function of a University. There was no advocacy in my analysis.

Yours truly,
 H. J. Shine
 Chemistry Department

Dear Editor:

There have been times in the past that I have wanted to write about some points I have had objections to in our college life, but generally someone has beat me to it. This time, regardless of how many people are ahead of me, I am going to tell you how disappointed I am in the proposal made by the Ex-Student Association to change the name of our college to Texas Tech University. What are we trying to do? Are we trying to have our cake and eat it too?

The word Tech or Technological denotes that our school of technology is the main part of our institution. But looking back as far as I can remember (which is a pretty good period of time, since 1950), Tech's School of Arts & Sciences (and sometimes School of Business Administration) has been a larger school than the Engineering and Technology.

We are not a technological school any more and the college of engineering is only a part of our institution, therefore it is not appropriate to keep "Tech" if we want to be a university.

With no disrespect toward the Ex-Student Association and the Exes supporting their view (as I am class '53 myself), you just don't call your bouncing baby boy Elizabeth just because his grandmother thinks it is a marvelous name!

I think that the reason for their suggestion is to preserve our symbol double T, which I am quite sentimental about. But if we are to be a university this can not be done. It is true that double T is a part of our tradition, but there have been so many changes made that I think we could stomach this one too. I recall when the saddle tramps dressed in western outfits and ten gallon hats since the name suggested such attire; but now they dress quite flashy. The western week was celebrated by the student body and the faculty all going western; but that is a thing of the past. Even our double T symbol was more pronounced when the huge double T which is now on the Jones stadium (and probably 80% of student body is unaware of its existence) was where the Science Building now stands and could be seen from the Broadway underpass at night.

I recall quite a few more changes which were made in our traditions and our campus set up when they were necessary and if we have to lose a double T in order to go forward I am for it.

So, I say let us change the name of our school to something fitting, and as many have suggested before, I also support the name, "Texas State University."

Very truly yours,
 Hossein Karimi
 Box 4382
 Tech Station

P.S. If we are so desperate to keep the Double T, how about "Top of Texas U"!!!!

Dear Editor,

Everyone must know how provoking it is to go to the basketball game at 6 p.m. and have someone say to you and your date, "Sorry, section X is saved for dorm X boys." After finding a seat I recall an argument between two men in front of me. The sentence that impressed me most was:

"But man, it's ridiculous for one man to save fifteen seats."

His answer was:

"I'm sorry, but all these seats are saved."

Finally the boy and his date merely walked into the row behind the little seat-saver and stepped over into the seat-saver's row. The seat-saver was irritated, but there was little he could do about it. And students, that's the way it goes; there's little a seat-saver can do about it. He may be a little sore for a moment, but after a fine victory, all hard feelings are forgotten. Most likely the eight-thirty o'clock arrivers for whom the seats are saved have forgotten the incident, for really and truly they themselves know that they don't own autographed seats in the coliseum.

The little man on the end of the row saving seats may not let you in his row by his run of the way, but he's going to have a difficult time running to the other end and throwing you out for stepping down into his reserved row. All I've ever seen the little seat-savers do in such a situation is to sit there and smoke (through their ears).

Sincerely,
 Charles White

Dear Editor,

Has any one called to your attention lately about the seating of students at the basketball games. If students are forced to pay for attending student activities they should have a place to sit, even if it's on the top and on one end. I noticed at the last game with Arkansas that students, including myself, were forced to take seats in the reserve section. We were finally moved by the regular seat occupants who had a right to sit there. But for the rest of the game we had to stand while general admission ticket holders held for themselves and their pals and companions full rows in the student section. Several times I wanted to ask certain people sitting in the student section if they could show their I.D. . . . but it would only cause an unnecessary disturbance while the game was going on.

If any action on this could be looked into please do so for the Friday night game.

Frazier L. Bridges, Jr.

P.S. The first person telling me that this row is saved . . . is going to tempt me to go ahead and sit right there. FIRST COME FIRST SERVED.

We Want Texas State ...

THE TOREADOR TAKES ITS STAND

For the past several years there has been a movement underway to change the name of Texas Technological College.

The main objective of those who want to change the name of Texas Tech has been to give the school full university status. A new name would erase any doubts in anyone's mind that Texas Tech is in fact a university and not a "technological" college.

Not just any name will accomplish this purpose, such as the one proposed last week by the executive board of the Ex-Students Assn.

We cannot support the name "Texas Tech University." We cannot support it because:

- 1) There is no such word in the English language as Tech;
- 2) If the word "technological" were used, it would be incongruous with the term "university;"
- 3) The prime objective of a name change is to get away from the connotation of technological college; therefore, the name "Texas Tech University" would defeat its own purpose.

Our decision is that a change to university status is necessary for Texas Technological College if this school is to assume its rightful position as THE leading state school in the western half of Texas and one of the leading institutions in the Southwest.

Although it has been argued that a change would tear down the name that Texas Tech has built for itself since 1925, it seems to us that Texas Tech has little national prestige at the present time, except in a few specialized fields. If a suitable name could be accepted the school would be more likely to gain prestige on the national level in all phases of its academic offerings.

We want every Texas Tech graduate to be able to go anywhere in the United States and be able to state the name of his alma mater without being questioned as to the type of degree he has obtained.

We believe that any student would be proud to say he had graduated from Texas State University, regardless of his major field of study.

Texas State University accomplishes the purposes desired in a name change. It deletes the word "technological" while providing the desired term "university."

It has been pointed out that Texas A&M is now making an effort to adopt the name of Texas State University. It has also been pointed out that Texas Tech may not have the political strength to defeat Texas A&M in the Legislature and that therefore Tech should search for another name besides Texas State University.

We say, TO HELL WITH A&M.

Why should A&M be allowed to walk off with the most logical name for a second university while we are in the midst of idle chatter and dilly-dallying?

Either we are willing to fight for the best name or we don't deserve it.

To get an appropriate name, the student body, the faculty, the board of directors, the administration and the ex-students are going to have to join together in a determined and united drive. And if this is to be done, why shouldn't the efforts be toward a name that will stand for 25 and 50 and 100 years and not one that will be brought up time and time again in the future for possible change?

If we're not willing to dump a few traditions to build the status of our school and our degrees, then let's forget the whole business of a name change.

We are not Texas "Tech" University, nor Texas "Hick" University. We are a state university of Texas.

The Toreador has been studying the situation concerning a name change throughout this fall and has remained abreast of all developments.

We have not taken a clear and forthright stand before today for one reason and one reason only: we have waited to be sure that the climate was right for a sustained and determined drive toward gaining a new name. Events of the past few days have convinced the editors of the Toreador that NOW IS THE TIME.

Let's either support the name Texas State University or be content to build with the present name of Texas Technological College.

Raiders Try Bears In Defense Of Lead

By CHARLES RICHARDS
Toreador Sports Editor

The "thin ten" Texas Tech Red Raiders, making a determined bid for the school's first Southwest Conference basketball championship, move into Waco tonight to play the cellar-dwelling Baylor Bears.

Leading the league with an 8-2 record, the Red Raiders will attempt to mark their fourth win in six conference road games with the contest.

Baylor, meanwhile, will try to stretch their victory string to two games, having defeated Texas Christian in Fort Worth Saturday.

For Baylor, the victory over TCU was its first in SWC play, and only the third of the entire season for the Bears. Tech claims one win, 65-59, in a decision in Lubbock earlier in the year.

The Raiders defeated the Arkansas Razorbacks in the Coliseum

Saturday for Tech's fifth consecutive home victory in the Southwest Conference.

The 87-81 victory was played before 9,900 fans, largest both for Texas Tech and the Southwest Conference this season.

The win boosted the Raiders two games ahead of Arkansas, virtually eliminating the Razorbacks from contention, and at the same time, the win kept Tech a game ahead of the second place Texas A&M Aggies, who beat Rice 65-58 Saturday at Houston.

The "hapless" Bears didn't look so ragged in their conquest over Texas Christian. After the first Horned Frog basket, the Bears took command and held the lead the rest of the game.

Baylor led by as much as 21 points in the last half as the Bears hit 50 per cent of their field shots.

Led by Richard Tinsley, who took game scoring honors with 20, the Bears had six players in double figures.

The Bears will get another look at Tech's Mutt-and-Jeff offense in tonight's tilt, although Baylor "held" Tech's powerful duo to 37 points in the game in Lubbock.

Del Ray Mounts made 19 points for the Red Raiders against Baylor, and his taller teammate, Harold Hudgens, had 18.

The pair accounted for 55 of the 87 against Arkansas as the two closed in slightly the gap between their total and that of the Aggies' Carroll Broussard, the league's leading scorer.

Mounts gained 14 points and Hudgens 7 to move within 30 points of the Aggie standout, who scored 17 against Rice.

After ten games, Broussard had 230 points for a 23.0 average, with Mounts and Hudgens having 200 and 199 points respectively for 20.0 and 19.9 means.

Tinsley is the top scorer for the Bears this season. He has made 251 points in the Bears' 20 games for a 12.6 average per game.

Other games in conference action tonight will find Texas A&M at Southern Methodist and Rice at Texas University.

The Aggies will be facing a stiff foe in SMU's Mustangs. The Ponies have won four of five in Dallas in league competition this winter, losing only to the Red Raiders.

Arkansas will play at TCU Wednesday in another SWC game. Following tonight's and Wednesday's clashes, only three games will be left to play by each of the conference teams.

The top match this weekend will be when the Texas Longhorns meet A&M at College Station Friday.

Tech will host TCU on the same day, and in other games, Rice will take on SMU in Houston and Baylor will go to Arkansas.

Raider Golf Season Nears Starting Date

By LEW BULLION
Toreador Sports Writer

Two non-conference and eight conference matches face Coach Jay McClure's Red Raider golf team this season.

At early workouts, the varsity squad sported three letters in its 10-man team, while five freshmen composed the first-year squad.

Returning lettermen from last year's third place squad are Chris Blocker, a senior and two year letterman from Jal, N.M. and the only Raider remaining from Texas Tech's first Southwest Conference championship winner in any sport, the 1959 Golf team; Jimmie Johnson, a senior, one year letter-earner, from Levelland; and Don Nix, also a senior with one letter, from Hobbs, N.M.

Other varsity linkmen are David Moody, junior, from Midland; John Shackelford, junior, from Shamrock; Dannie Elliston, senior, from Hereford; James Davidson, sophomore, from Lubbock; and Rick Jennings, sophomore, also from Lubbock.

Other members of the 10-man varsity squad include Don O'Neal, senior, from Brownfield; and Mac Tubb, junior, from Levelland.

Freshmen hopefuls on the Raider links are George Berryman from Robstown, Houston Brewster from Andrews, Sammy Chaffin from Crane, Bruce Dobie from Worcester, Mass., and Larry Flatt from Wichita Falls.

Non-conference competition will begin for the varsity on March 11 when the group travels to Laredo for the Border Olympiad matches.

Houston will be the scene of the second non-conference match for the Raiders when they attend the Collegiate Invitational tournament there on March 29 through April 1.

Conference meets are scheduled in the following order with date not yet decided upon included:

- March 27 or April 10—At Rice
- April 3 or April 8—At Texas A&M
- April 22—University of Texas
- April 24—Baylor
- April 29—Texas Christian
- May 1—Southern Methodist
- May 6—At University of Arkansas
- May 11-13—Southwest Conference at Houston.

Peterson Advances In Fort Worth Meet

by MIKE COCHRAN
Of The Associated Press

FORT WORTH (AP)—A pair of giant football players, Alfred (Pete) Peterson of Sherman and Claud Devenport of Fort Worth, Monday night battled their way into the finals of the heavyweight division of the Texas Golden Gloves tournament.

Peterson, a middle guard for Texas Tech, scored a technical knockout over Tex Paris of Brownwood in the first round.

Joe Jarvis of Dallas carried, but just barely, Devenport the distance but the decision for all practical purposes belonged to the Arlington State tackle after the first round.

The heavyweight bouts were anticlimactic for a Will Rogers Coliseum crowd of 4,423, who screamed their approval when Corporal Christ's John Peters knocked out Elmer Clement of Amarillo in the semi-finals of the light-heavyweight division.

Peters faces a stern test in the finals against Texarkana's Mill McCawley, who defeated W.H. Woodall of Dallas.

The tournament winds up Tuesday night with semi-finals and finals in the lower divisions and finals in the heavier classes.

Scarlet Scatterings

The last week of the various Southwest Conference races is usually the one that tells the tale as far as championships are concerned.

We feel, however, that the 1961 basketball race is going to be an exception to that rule. The clutch performance by the Red Raiders in the 87-81 victory over Arkansas just about wrapped up the title or Tech.

Tech faces an obstacle in its fight for the championship tonight when the Baylor Bears tangle with the Raiders at Waco.

The Bears don't have an especially good season record, but they proved with their victory over TCU Saturday night that they are still to be reckoned with. They beat the Horned Frogs by the same margin at Tech, 14 points. Tech won 89-75, and Baylor took a 74-69 win.

Baylor always seems to give the Raiders fits whether in Waco or Lubbock. The Bears were one of the two teams to defeat the Red Raiders in Lubbock last year, although Tech finished ahead of Baylor a conference.

But if the Raiders are expecting trouble with Baylor, they can get pretty sure that its closest contender, Texas A&M, is having its own troubles too. The Aggies face the task of journeying to Dallas to play Southern Methodist on its own floor. The Mustangs have been deathly at home this year, losing only one game and that to league-leading Tech.

Tech's Del Ray Mounts made the second team last season, and yet his play this year seems a shoo-in for first team SWC this year, says Harold Hudgens.

Of course in a league such as the Southwest Conference, it's an honor to place even one player on the mythical team.

Aubrey (Red) Phillips, former Texas Tech line coach, signed for similar position with the University of Southwestern Louisiana over the weekend.

He was an assistant to DeWitt Weaver during Weaver's reign as Red Raider head coach.

Pete Peterson, linebacker on Texas Tech's football team, is making quite a name for himself in the Golden Gloves Tournament currently going on in Fort Worth.

Saturday he created quite a stir by taking a decision over Henry Harris Jr., younger brother of Roy Harris, the professional fighter. He now finds himself in the favorite's role as he goes into the final bout.

Ohio State won its 20th straight of the year Saturday night against the Iowa Hawkeyes, and in so doing really proved itself to be an outstanding team.

One distinction of a champion is the ability to fight back after falling behind. That's just what the defending national champions did Saturday.

Playing the ninth-rated Iowa team in Iowa City, the No. 1 Buckeyes found themselves behind 10 points at the half, and trailed 59-52 with time running out.

Led by All-America Jerry Lucas, the Buckeyes then proceeded to score ten consecutive points to go ahead 62-59. The final score was 2-61, but Iowa almost pulled it out of the fire, missing a shot just before the buzzer sounded.

Coach J. T. King and his aides continue to sign the blue chip boys day after day in a recruiting period that appears to be one of the better ones.

Another all-stater signed with the Red Raiders over the weekend. The grizzer, Billy Bellew of Sweetwater, made the all-state team both his junior and senior years.

A tackle, he has been compared to Tech's E. J. Holub.

Then Monday two honorable mention all-state gridders cast their lot with Tech.

Fullback Jack McCleskey is from Dalhart and tackle Bill Malone is from Phillips.

TO BEAT BRUMEL

Thomas Sets Goal

NEW YORK (AP) — Valery Brumel, Russia's whiz-kid high jumper, was full of apologies Monday.

"I'm sorry," he told the weekly meeting of the New York track Writers Association, "that I didn't do better last Friday night in the New York Athletic Club meet."

All he did was clear 7 feet, 3 inches, equaling John Thomas' best indoor jump. This was on his first appearance on boards before a large crowd.

Unwilling to concede he's second best to Russian Valery Brumel—or anyone—Thomas returned to the high jump pit Monday. His philosophy—think in terms of 7 feet, 6 inches.

His formula—relentless, hard work.

His aim—beat Brumel.

The rematch is this Saturday in the National AAU meet in New York.

A year ago the Boston University student was unchallenged among the world's high jumpers. Yet last Friday night a 7-1 effort, his 58th at seven feet or higher, was well behind Brumel's 7-3.

Thomas was third behind Soviet Robert Shavlakadze and Brumel at the Rome Olympics.

Minutes after his latest setback the 6-5 Thomas approached Coach Ed Flanagan with the observation: "Coach, we have to start working all over again just like when I first came to BU."

"Brumel has succeeded in making us really go back to work," Flanagan said. "After I talked with the Russians and learned how much practice they do daily, I'm sure now that I have been babying John in the past."

"They told me Brumel practices two hours a day, six days a week and competes on the seventh. All their jumpers do. That's quite a contrast to Thomas' 45 minutes for four days a week and Friday off."

Cold Cancels Workouts In Johansson Quarters

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Ingemar Johansson called off a scheduled Miami Beach workout Monday because of a slight head cold. Heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson worked out in secret after running four miles on a golf course.

Johansson's trainer, Whitey Bimstein, ordered him not to work out at the Miami Beach Convention Hall—site of the March 13 championship fight—because of the cold.

When the challenger opened his Palm Beach training camp, promoters promised he would work out at least once a week at Miami Beach. Johansson has shown up for only one drill three weeks ago and was unhappy because of boos from the crowd.

Johansson has a day off Tuesday and, according to Bimstein, should be back in top condition Wednesday for training at Palm Beach.

Patterson will train publicly every Friday, Saturday and Sunday at a Miami Beach hotel. He will work out secretly Mondays and Thursdays.

During the secret sessions, Patterson will attempt to come up with some new tactics. He said Johansson is a "sneaky" fighter and comes up with new things.

"Johansson is a thinking fighter, so I must be a thinking fighter, too," Patterson said.

John Henry, veteran sparring partner, said Patterson is a champion who keeps improving. "Floyd is punching sharper and harder... than he was at the same stage of his training for the fight last June with Johansson."
