American Violinist Plays Here Tonight

Artists Course Sponsoring Concert By Albert Spalding

By MARIE PETERMAN
Toreador Staff Writer

ALBERT SPALDING, American violinist who is to appear at Lubbock High school auditorium tonight at 8 o'clock under auspices of the Tech Artist Course, is known to concert audiences throughout the world.

Born in Chicago in 1888, Spalding began his musical career at the age of seven when he requested a violin for Christmas. His first "little tin fiddle" soon gave way to better instruments, and now his most prized possession is his concert violin, made by Joseph Guarnerius in 1755, which has attracted the attention of the connoisseurs for over 100 years. The instrument is insured for $50,000, but Spalding, unlike most violinists, does not insure his hands. "There will always be violinists," he says, "but there is only one violin like this one."

At the age of 14 Spalding was graduated from Bologna Conservatory of Music with the highest honors accorded anyone since Mozart. He made his professional debut in Paris and shortly thereafter appeared with Adelina Patti at the Chatelet. His American debut was at Carnegie hall, where he appeared as soloist with the New York Symphony orchestra conducted by Walter Damrosch.

Spalding made his first concert tour of the United States in 1906 as soloist with the Dresden Philharmonic orchestra. Since that time he has appeared and been re-engaged from one to twenty times, with almost every leading symphony orchestra in America and Europe.

He is the only American violinist who has ever performed at the Scala Opera house in Milan and he is one of three violinists ever invited to appear as soloist with the famous Paris Conservatoire orchestra.

In 1917 Spalding cancelled $30,000 worth of contracts to enlist in See AMERICAN, Page 6

Plant Industry Department Head On State Board

A law filed with the secretary of state April 23 made it mandatory for the head of the department of plant industry of Texas Tech, head of the department of genetics, and chief of field seed certification of the State Department of Agriculture to be members of the State Seed and Plant Board.

House bill number 297, which actually amended the law creating the board in 1925, was passed by the representatives March 17 and by the senate on April 14. According to the original bill, members of this board were to be appointed by the state commissioner of agriculture and the president of Texas A&M. Question of the members of the board also holding other state positions was brought up by the attorney general.

Dr. A. W. Young, head of the plant industry department, has been a member of the board for three years.

Function of the board is to regulate the production of certified and registered seed within the state.

Senior Aggie Engineers Now Studying Irrigation

Students of the senior class in agricultural engineering, under Henry P. Clay, assistant professor of agricultural engineering, are studying irrigation in the Plainview section today.

Pumps and engines used for irrigation around Plainview are the oldest in this section. By studying these types of motor power in irrigation, students may compare them with more modern motors for the study of the history of irrigation.

Using the Texas Land Development company as a starting point, the class will visit holdings of this company to study the different types of irrigation.

Prof. W. L. Stangel, head of the department of animal husbandry, will take his beef production and range management classes to the Pitchfork and 6666 ranches Thursday and Friday.

Making the field trip will be Bob Deats, Robert Hargrove, Otis Levens, Mac Brandon and Ross Montgomery.

May 13 Date Set For Presentation Of Speech Play

Talented Students Chosen; Each Is One With Experience

In selecting the cast for the play, "Ladies in Retirement," Miss Helene Blattner, director and assistant professor of speech, chose students showing the most talent and those having the most experience.

In this production to be staged May 13 in the senior high school, four freshmen have roles. Evelyn Cooper, senior, plays the role of Ellen Creed. Miss Cooper has played a role in the play "Quality Street" and was Queen of Spades in the 1943 Varsity show.

Anita Hale, freshman, as Emily Creed, has had no previous college experience in dramatics. Euclette Harper, junior, as the featured singer, Jean, in the 1943 Varsity show, plays the part of Leonora Flske in "Ladies in Retirement." Mrs. Harper also starred in the Sock and Buskin production, "Chloe," and has taken roles in several LAFS and SPARS shows.

Jo Hal Wolford, also a freshman, has had no college experience and is to play the part of Lucy in this production. Martha Parnell, senior, to play the role of Sister Theresa, starred in last year's speech play "320 College Avenue."

Jack Terrell, sophomore, will play the part of Albert Feather. He took part in the production "320 College Avenue," 1942 Varsity show as Professor Meeker, and also starred in several Lubbock High school productions before coming to Tech.

Other Texas chapters are at Baylor university, Texas Christian university, Southwestern, Sam Houston State Teachers college, North Texas State Teachers college, Our Lady of the Lake, and Baylor College for Women.

"The local society was organized late in the fall semester. Its early recognition by the national chapter of Sigma Tau Delta is a distinct honor," said Dr. Gates.

Legislative Allotments....

THE DAILY TEXAN, student newspaper at Texas University, recently published an editorial complaining of the allotments being given that institution by the state legislature. The editorial carried the theme, in a rather hesitant manner, that the state's largest institution of higher learning was not receiving what they deserve in the way of money.

The Texan has long been one of the Southwest's greatest college papers, but a few weeks ago began to decline rapidly in its editorial powers. A recent editorial in that newspaper advocating communism brought the wrath of the state legislative bodies down on officials there, and the Texan was placed under faculty supervision.

Since that time articles placed on the editorial page have lacked fire and vigor that for so long was a characteristic of that paper. This recent article asking for more money from the House was the one that championed all of the rest.

The article was very reserved in its denouncing of the wisdom shown by our legislative bodies in this cut of allotments. The writer raved for paragraphs on what great men we had in our Senate, but how wrong they were to cut such a great institution's allotment so drastically. The article even carried the figures, in percentage terms, on how much less the university was suffering in comparison with other state schools.

Here at Texas Tech, officials have never complained about such items. It seems to be the feeling of Techsians and their leaders that if Tech deserves a raise in allotments the legislators will give it to this college. But where the university has the right to complain about their finances we simply do not know. That institution has more financial backing than any one in the state. The land they own would support any other five colleges in this state. We believe in share and share alike, but for years the state university has hogged most of the educational allotments. When they suffer a small cut, in proportion to what Tech has suffered, we can endure their complaints no more.

This college has always received the jackals share of the state's financial support, while Texas University has received the lion's share. When that educational institution received a drop in state allotments of some twenty per-cent, it hurt them about one half as much as it did Tech when she suffered a cut of some six per-cent.

We are proponents of free speech and even more so of free education. When the Texan spoke boldly about the legislature cutting allotments, it received the hearty approval of The Toreador. But they were a little too selfish in their motive. That is what we dislike so much.

It is common knowledge that any one college paper can do nothing about such things. And especially is this true when editorials are written in such a selfish, martyred manner. But with all state schools working together perhaps something might be accomplished.

Faculty members here have suffered greatly from this cut, as have departments and the college as a whole. With the added load of instructing government students, the entire administration here is overworked. But with all this added load the legislature forced Tech to cut expenditures even more—when they are needed most.

We have never been too well situated here, with reference to finances. With the last cut we are even worse off. We feel that when conditions will allow a normal amount of money to be given to the furthering of education here, it will be done without hesitation by state officials.

But we condemn The Daily Texan for its selfish outburst on state school allotments. If they have the brash conceit to complain about meager finances at the richest school in the state; then what can The Toreador say in regard to the situation at Tech... (this paper is too small to carry such an article.)

Army Reservists—

A Techsan Speaks

—By Barnett

RECENT calling of Army Reservists has had a bad effect on the enrollment of Texas Tech. It seems that each time a group of students are called, the remainder of the student body gets a bad case of "defeatism" and are ready to drop from school.

This has been the biggest enemy to a successful school year at Tech. Everything has run smoothly with the exception of these few times when some of our close friends are called to the service. When this happens it is the campus-wide opinion that the time has come to withdraw from school.

The Toreador has been fighting this feeling the entire year along with school officials. The editor is firmly against such panicky action. He believes that patience is its own reward.

A recent example of what happens when this situation comes up is the most recent calling in of service men. When the Army Reservists received a letter telling them to prepare to leave about April 28, several of them withdrew from school immediately. Instructions came with the letter, via the president's office, for students to remain in school until definite word was received. But it was to no avail!

This is May 5 and these Techsans are still on the campus. Those who withdrew received no credit and very little of their money in return for the time spent in school this spring. Complaints have been registered here about have realized these students' hopes that they receive credit for their works.

The date of May 8 has been set by the Administrative council for students to receive credit in their work, if they are passing. That is Saturday. If those men who left last week had looked into the future with the slightest degree of calm thought, they would have realized that it was only a short amount of time before they would receive their credits.

In the future I hope that students will not be so hasty in such actions until they receive definite orders about reporting for duty.

The editor wishes to urge club officials to report the progress being made in the tennis and golf competition now being held between the men's social clubs. Also the women's clubs softball games are unreported, and it is impossible for the present staff to cover all of these events. It takes little work to turn in a short report of such events. Merely give the name of the participants, the score, and in the softball games, the pitcher, and the hits runs, etc. It will be greatly appreciated by yours truly if the clubs continue to cooperate as they have in the past.

Muskopf Promoted From Corporal To Sergeant

Sgt. Elmer J. Muskopf, member of the staff of the military department at Tech, was promoted from a corporal to sergeant April 28. Muskopf came to Tech Oct. 4, 1942 from Fort Riley, Kansas, and was promoted to a corporal Oct. 20.

Former Tech Professor, Now Ensign, Is Married

Sgt. Frank M. Foster, former member of Tech's military staff, was recently promoted to a first sergeant, when he was transferred to Louisiana State university to join the Army Specialized Training Unit.

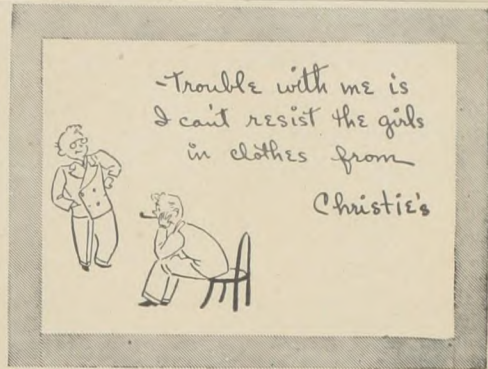

Foster came to Tech as a sergeant in January 1942, and was promoted on Sept. 7 to staff sergeant. April 14, 1943 Foster was promoted to the rank of technical sergeant.

The sergeant has more than 20 years service. Captain H. D. Weston said today.

R. C. Mitchell, Tech graduate of 1937 who is now vocational agriculture teacher at Alpine, and W. E. Williams, area two supervisor of vocational agriculture, were on the campus recently investigating applicants for American farmer degrees in Future Farmer association work.

W. A. King, district supervisor of Rural War Production Training, who has offices in the Agriculture building, accompanied Mitchell and Williams to Amarillo to make investigations there.

Callahan And Hale Captain 1943 Team

Morganmen Close Workouts With Intra-Squad Scrimmage

HALFBACK J. R. Callahan and Center Billy Hale were elected co-captains of Texas Tech's 1943 Red Raiders Saturday as Coach Dell Morgan's footballers closed their spring training grid with an inter-squad scrimmage.

Hale and Callahan will both be seniors when next fall rolls around, playing their third year of varsity football here. These two men received the most votes in the poll of sixteen varsity and freshman lettermen eligible to participate in the election. Others who received votes were Roy Williams, James Reed and Walter Schlinkman.

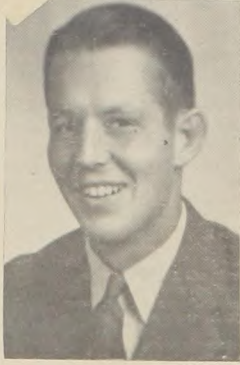

Both of these men were members of the 1941 Sun Bowl aggregation and both have lettered two years previous to this one. They succeed Willburn Allbright and Kenneth Robbins, last year's captains, who are now in the armed forces. Allbright is an aviation cadet in the Army Air Corps and Robbins is an ensign in the Navy.

Following the election of captains for the coming season, Morgan divided his squad for the closing intra-squad scrimmage. The scrimmage was won by the Whites on a late pass play, giving them a 19 to 13 margin.

Linemen James Reed, J. E. Branton, and Tuffy Nabors and backs Deverelle Lewis and Walt Schlinkman and Ralph Earhart were outstanding in the closing workout.

At present, plans are running according to schedule for a football team at Tech in 1943. No more serious opposition has arisen to the Red Raiders taking the field against regularly scheduled opponents next fall. However, this will not be definitely determined until next September.

The game scheduled with the Texas Aggies has been changed from December 4 to October 3 at San Antonio. This was done when Miss McDonald, took first places in all of the five events which she entered. They were horse shoe pitching, doubles, relay races, volleyball, badminton doubles and baseball. Five events is the maximum number of events which a participant may enter.

Second place for the day went to Mary Alice Horton who tallied 13 points. Muriel Richey and Margaret Leggett tied for the third place slot with 11 points each.

Officials and managers were Mrs. George Langford, Miss Margaret Baskin and Mrs. M. E. Harrison, physical education staff members. The play day was sponsored by the Women's Recreation association and the physical education department for women. The event was open to all women students.

SWC Track Meet Slated Saturday

Entire Net Proceeds To Go To Red Cross

The Southwest conference has voted unanimously to give the Red Cross all net proceeds of the twenty-ninth annual championship track and field meet to be held at Rice field in Houston next Saturday.

Besides the track meet, the tennis championships will be held on Rice courts Thursday and Friday and the 72 hole golf tournament scheduled the same days over the Burn Burn Country club links.

Indications are that every school except Baylor will favor some program of intercollegiate athletics when officials meet to decide whether or not the conference will continue athletic competition during wartime.

Also in this meeting rules must be rewritten if Navy and Army trainees are permitted to compete. They must also decide if this play will count against a boy's post-war eligibility.

Texas Christian will be represented in golf but not in track or tennis. Baylor will send representatives only to the faculty and athletic director's meeting. Texas, Texas A. and M., Rice, Arkansas, and SMU will have competition in all three meets. But even Texas and the Texas Aggies have much smaller squads than in former years.

Coed's Corner—

Freshman Initiations Near For Coed Honors

—By Kara Hunsucker

THE CREAM of the freshman group of coeds, scholastically, will be initiated into Freshman Honor society at the organization's annual dinner tomorrow night.

These officers were elected by members of the organization, rather than by means of a campus-wide election as has been the custom for FHS.

It seems that by allowing only members to elect their officers, the society has taken another forward step.

From the group of freshman girls to be initiated tomorrow night will, more than likely, come most of the campus leaders in the years to come.

I hate women They cheat and lie. They prey on us males Till the day we die;

—Couger.

COED OF THE WEEK: Maxine Craddock has won the distinction of being the first coed ever to be elected to the high position of Student Council vice-president and AWS president simultaneously.

SPALDING AMERICA'S VIOLINIST

Albert Spalding's career is unique in the history of American music. As the editor of Harper's Magazine observes: "Nobody has done more to dispel the old idea that a ranking musician must be a long-haired foreigner."

Until the outbreak of the present war, Mr. Spalding was a favorite visiting artist in Europe. In fact, it was in Europe where he was first acclaimed, making his professional debut in Paris at the age of sixteen.

His greatest praise may be summed up in the words of Herman Devries, of the Chicago Herald-American: "He stands among the noble few who may be called masters of the violin. He has been called 'the aristocrat of the violin.' Better reason than an impressive stage-presence can be advanced for this title.

Season after season the popular artist travels up and down the land cheering the hearts of his countless admirers. Long a favorite soloist with orchestra, Mr. Spalding will appear this season with seven of the leading symphony orchestras, in addition to his regular recital tour.

Besides being a concert artist, Spalding is recognized as one of America's most noted composers. Over 60 of his compositions have been published, and his songs and piano and violin compositions have found their place on the programs of many prominent artists.

MEET TOM!

Tom is an expeditor for a New Jersey war plant. All day long, he contacts suppliers and subcontractors by Long Distance.

"Are the castings ready? . . . OK New Orleans."
"Hello Detroit, have those parts been shipped?"
"Have you received the brass yet, Atlanta?"

Urgent war calls like Tom's are crowding Long Distance lines, 'round the clock. And the load is increasing daily. Won't you help us give war calls the right of way by observing these simple rules.

1. Make only necessary Long Distance calls.
2. If you must call, plan your conversation.
3. When you find the circuit busy, cancel your call if possible.

Thank you for your help.
