Toreador Troubles

SOME journalistic wit once defined news as anything that makes a maiden lady cry. "Gracious sakes!" The Toreador, of course, does not subscribe to this definition and we suspect that few, if any, newspapers today do either.

But The Toreador does regard as news anything which is sprightly, timely, alive, informative, educational and of interest to its readers. In short, virtually anything which takes place on Tech campus or elsewhere which affects Texas Technological college or its students and has not already grown stale. But we feel that many newsworthy items die a natural death before they reach the maturity of print. And this is so because they are neglected, ignored and, perhaps, even trod upon by the very people to whom their publication would mean most.

Most news travels the peculiar cycle from reader to newspaper to other readers, since the best news sources usually are newspaper readers themselves.

Thus when a possible news source fails to release promptly the news in his possession, he not only nullifies any value to the public or to himself which publication of the story might bring, but also deprives other readers of the opportunity of informing themselves on the subject.

Sometimes news has been released to The Toreador which might have been inscribed on a stone in the ruins of Pompeii for all the good it did our readers, since its timeliness had waned and it was therefore dead insofar as our definition of news goes. For instance, not long ago we received a story announcing a contest which Tech students were eligible to enter, but by the time the facts were given to the reporter it was too late to print the article, for the deadline of the contest would have passed before our next issue. Thus Tech students were deprived of the opportunity to compete for the awards.

Too often we suspect news is not released to The Toreador because those who know most about it—either faculty members or students—do not recognize it as news. What is familiar ground to one person may be unexplored territory to his neighbor.

Too many newspaper readers feel they have nothing of interest to contribute to their paper, but it is a journalistic truth that cooperation of its readers is necessary for any newspaper to do its best job. Few Tech students take the trouble to pass on timely news tips to Toreador staff members while the news is still of interest to others, and not very many even care to air their opinions in letters to the editor.

We would like to see all our readers take a more active part in helping The Toreador to give them the best service possible.

We would like to see you accentuate the positive viewpoint of passing on all the news you hear about, and eliminate the negative when asked by Toreador staff members if you know any news.—B. D. R.

Bill Of Rights

SCANNING the front page of last week's Toreador, we noticed a familiar set of words. It seems that a framed Bill of Rights was presented to the library recently by Dr. H. L. Kent.

"Oh yes, the good old Bill of Rights, well that's fine," we thought. The story went on to say that the framed copy was hung in room 101 of the library and intimated that it might be a good idea for Tech students to go and see what it was all about.

We paused rather indignantly. Of course all good Tech students know that Bill of Rights is the name given to the first ten amendments of the Constitution, and have known it since junior high days. It provides for freedom of speech, freedom of religion and freedom of the press—so there.

But strangely enough, when we were told to write an editorial on this subject so dear to our childhood, only the faintest, haziest snatches of it could we remember. So back we trekked to room 101 of the library, and here, briefly is what it says.

1. Congress shall neither establish a religion nor prevent the free exercise thereof. It shall not abridge freedom of speech, of the press or the right of the people peaceably to assemble and to petition the government for a redress of grievances.

2. The right of the people to keep and bear arms under a regulated militia shall not be infringed.

3. In time of peace no soldier may be quartered in a private house without the consent of the owner, and in time of war it can be done only in a manner prescribed by law.

4. The right of the people to be secure against unreasonable searches of their persons, houses, papers and effects shall not be violated.

5. Persons will not be punished for a capital or infamous crime without trial by jury, except military personnel in time of war. They can not be retried for the same offence after being acquitted. And no person shall be compelled to testify against himself not be deprived of life, liberty or property without due process of law.

6. In all criminal prosecutions the accused shall have a speedy and public trial by an impartial jury of the state and district where the crime was committed.

7. In suits exceeding 20 dollars the right of trial by jury is granted.

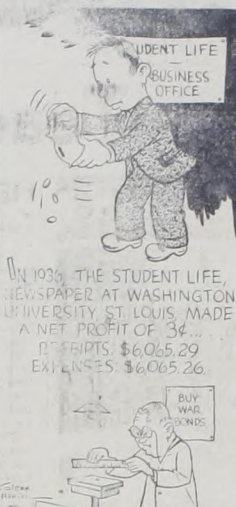

8. Cruel and unusual punishments shall not be inflicted on those proved guilty. Excessive bail shall not be required nor excessive fines imposed.

9. The listing of certain rights does not mean that others not mentioned in the Constitution are to be withheld from the people.

10. Powers not delegated to the United States by the Constitution nor prohibited to the states are reserved to them or to the people.

In short, these first ten amendments set forth our rights as free citizens of these United States. They are our protection against tyranny and dictatorship, and we will never cease fighting for their preservation.—K. P.

A Hint To The Wise

THE SERIES of lectures on "How to Look at a Picture," now being sponsored by the Art Institute, is being held for the express purpose of enabling students to understand the values in good paintings. Continuing Sunday afternoon with the second lecture, the series brings to mind some of the attributes of art and the bearing they have on individuals.

Many students are prone to think of painting as some people think of spinach. That is, they don't like it. Consequently, they never consider it from the standpoint of what it does for them. Just as spinach furnishes food for the building of a strong healthy body, so does art appreciation contribute material for the construction of a well-rounded life.

To be able to appreciate anything it is necessary to know something of the materials, terms and modes of expression applied to that particular subject. In order to be able to discern whether a painting is good or bad, it is essential to recognize the subject, and be able to estimate the truth of the representation regarded as an imitation of nature. Most important of all is a knowledge of composition and workmanship.

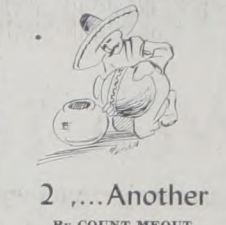

The Institute is sponsoring this project chiefly for its potential value to students. There will be five or six lectures in the series, according to F. A. Kleinschmidt, director of the Art Institute. Those who have never had the opportunity to learn to appreciate painting will find the lectures helpful from an educational standpoint; those who already know something of art will find pleasure in their appreciation. The aesthetics have found a definite place in our cultural background and the person who overlooks their value is very unwise indeed.—V. M.

LOMETA HODGE seems to have become quite a sensation since her pleasant (more than that, boys) appearance at the Social dance.

PAUL BEAVER is really getting to be a wizzard. Not only that, but his colorful personality. It becomes definitely more vivid after laboratory recess—a touch of red blending in with his complexion, kids!

Our old friend, 'UMPY' ROBINSON and fiance HERBERT BECHTOL, have recently been on the campus seeing the old haunts. 'Umpy' plans to go to Texas university next semester. Their spring semester begins March 1.

All you energetic, beware! A country dance school, sponsored by the physical education department, WRA, and Major and Minor club will be held between March 5 and 9. There will be classes in the morning, afternoon and at night.

DAVID BUCHINGHAM created a sensation last week when he slept 24 hours without waking up. An over dose of sleeping tablets was responsible. It certainly must have been a dose. Moral... beware of sleeping tablets, all those who indulge.

SARA LOVE is tops as the laugh-getter of Doak hall. Congratulations on having kept up the residents' morale, Sara.

LANELL KING is always willing to lend a helping hand to anyone. She is a mighty helpful person to have around.

We are wondering why BILLIE REX KELLY loves to talk so much over the phone in Sneed hall? She must be very stunning!

HAROLD PATTERSON spent the weekend in Vincent visiting YAN CAMPBELL. We wonder what's cooking. Could it be that cupid is sneaking around again?

The Count hears that MARY LOU SPENCE received a telephone call from "Him" Friday night. The news was very gratifying, for he is coming to see her next Monday. I guess she really rates!

AVONNE VICKERY is expecting "Sailor George" from Corpus Christi soon... it has been said. George is a Lubbocker, and the Toreador staff says "Welcome Home, George."

Sock And Buskin Selects Fourteen New Pledges

Fourteen new pledges of Sock and Buskin club were chosen after try-outs at the last meeting. They are Dorothy Bell, Bernard Jeanette Bowden, Ruth Brock, Lou Burns, Bernice Bradshaw, Joanne Crabtree, Bill Crunk, Bess Griggs, Bobby Hays, Martha Hughes, James Simpson, and Lewis Wilford.

"The Hero Returns" a play directed by Louise Ince, will be given at the next meeting.

Mrs. Carroll McMath, the former Roberta Ellison and her son, Bobby are now residing with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Ellison of Lubbock. Her husband, Carroll McMath, '38 band graduate, is now in the Navy.

Raiders Defeat West Texas Teachers 48-43 Saturday

Friday's Game Breaks Tech Winning Streak

Last Game Of Season Played Wednesday Night With Roswell Air Field

Red Raiders surged from a 61-51 defeat by West Texas State Teachers college Friday evening to a 48-43 victory over the Teachers Saturday night. The Friday night loss broke a four-game winning streak by the Men-in-Red.

Texas Tech star of the first night was Jay Kerr, who looped 16 points into the basket, backed up by Jiggs Jackson and Ernest Hawkins who accounted for 12 points each. Tech's big center, Don Grove was taking his pre-induction physical Friday along with Gene Hardey, another regular starter. Seth Murphey of Levelland ably filled Grove's place. Ernest Hawkins, Kerr and Jackson played a fast, rough game.

West Texas State led 36-26 at halftime intermission, but the Red Raiders doggedly held on, and with five minutes to play, pulled up within 3 points of the Buffaloes, making the score 48-51.

In the second half, the Buffaloes again took the lead to victory over the game Techsians.

The Red Raiders went at their fastest pace throughout the game Saturday night to top the Buffaloes, 48-43.

Tech's team caught the Buffs off form during the first half and early in the second. Some neat goal tossing by Gene Hardey and Jiggs Jackson kept the quintet out in front.

With a score of 29-19 at intermission, the Raiders took advantage of West Texas' poor goal shooting to get an 18-point, 42-25 margin in the first ten minutes of the second half. The home team was content then to protect its lead, which at the end looked none too secure with the Buffs hitting with regularity.

Hardey and Jackson tied for high point honors at 13 in the final scoring lineup.

Tech's last game of the season was played Wednesday night with Roswell Army Air field at the gym. The final scores were not available at the time of the sport page going to press.

Ed McKeever Mentioned For Fordham Post

A note of interest to local friends of Ed McKeever was released last week by the Associated Press in Hugh Fullerton's sports column. McKeever, former Texas Tech gridiron star, is now coach of the Notre Dame football team.

He stepped into the famous shoes of Frank Leahy last season and has been at the helm of the Fighting Irish since then. Fullerton hinted that McKeever is being considered for the coaching job at Fordham university after the war. Fullerton commented: "Notre Dame's Ed McKeever hasn't signed with Fordham yet, but you can bet he will be on the job when the Rams resume football."

McKeever was quarterback for the Red Raiders during the seasons of '33, '34 and '35. He captained the Matador team during the last two years he played. He was originally from Lubbock.

Rosa Renfrow, '41 commerce graduate is now in Dallas and is office manager in the sales department of a department store there. A sister, Willean Renfrow of Muleshoe, is a student in Tech this semester.

Tri-State Service Cage Tournament Plans Dropped

Plans for the first annual Tri-State Service Basketball tournament set for the Tech gym March 2-3 were dropped last week as officials at Lubbock Army Air field announced the promising hardwood event has been cancelled.

The tournament was called off after the LAAF officials received a directive from higher headquarters which prohibits any Army Air Force cage squad to enter in tournament competition after March 1.

An attempt to arrange the tournament for an earlier date was not successful because some of the teams which had accepted invitations to enter the event had previous commitments.

Plans for these engagements were the most extensive of any such event planned in Lubbock. Games had been scheduled for the afternoon and night of Friday, March 2 and the morning and night of Saturday, March 3.

WRA Discusses Spring Program, Initiation Plans

Women's recreation association council discussed initiation plans at its meeting Monday night. Plans for the spring program were also considered.

The initiation is set for March 27 and will take place in Annex G of the Home Economics building at 7:30 p. m., according to Mrs. Mattie Sorenson, assistant professor of physical education. Initiates must have the required 24 points registered by March 16. Pledges who qualify will be notified.

Entrants of the tennis tournament to be held in April must pay an entry fee of 50 cents to Nina Jewell Fairbairn or to Mrs. Sorenson. All applications should be in by April 10.

Tickets to the country dance school to be conducted by Jimmy Clossin of El Paso can be purchased from WRA members or from Mrs. Johnnie Langford, department head. They are $1 each plus federal tax.

Ruth Griffin, chairman of the volley ball group, issued a call for eight more teams to take part in a tournament. Squads are already working on technique each Friday from 5 to 6 o'clock.

Annual sorority softball games will be sponsored by WRA again this spring.

Proof Submitted For Catalogue

Proof for the first 26 pages of the twentieth annual catalogue has been received by A. H. Leidigh, dean of agriculture and chairman of the catalogue committee. After printing has begun, it will take about five weeks to complete the bulletin, he says.

It will be about June before the annual catalogue comes out, but the summer edition will be out next month. There is now a limited supply of the present catalogues on hand. Dean Leidigh says, which will probably be exhausted before the new one is off the press.

A 50 per cent reduction in the number of issues was made last year in accordance with paper rationing, said Leidigh. A total of 15,000 copies was printed at one time but the number has now been cut to about 7,500 copies.

Ena Jimmy Reed, '42 student of Lamesa, has recently seen action in the Pacific. He is expected back to the States soon.

The Sideline--

King and Buckingham

Since the last basketball game of the current season has been played, Coach Dell Morgan is already looking forward to next year's prospects. Morgan has the nucleus of a basketball club for the ensuing year and is looking forward to it as a year filled with bright prospects.

Missing from the line-up will be this spring's 17-year-old James Gimmel, Glenn Lewis, Billy Webb, Billy Joe Snodgrass and Seth Murphey. Ex-servicemen Russell Birdwell and Spider Dillon will also be in hand to aid the 1946 cagers.

Jiggs Jackson and Don Grove, stars of this season, are not expected to return as they are in 1-A classification. Marine Lt. Robert Duncan, graduate of '42, who has just returned from 27 months of service in the South Pacific, dropped in the athletic office for a visit recently. Also back on the campus at the same time was Lt. Tom Douglass, letterman of '42, who has spent 14 months in Italy.

Hubert Bechtol, who is now in the Naval Academy at Texas University, and Buster Melton, on leave from Tulane, called at the office last week. Bechtol, who was named an All-American by Associated Press and who made Bill Stern's second team last year, informed Coach Morgan that he would face Morgan's Men-in-Red next fall on the gridiron. He expects to be stationed at Texas university for 16 months longer.

Another Double T boy, Robert Hale, has returned to the States after over two years in Italy. Hale lettered in both basketball and football while attending Tech. He is now at Miami Beach, Fla., awaiting reassignment.

Two Tech exes, Lts. Pat Farris

and Elvis Erwin, both in the Army Air forces, have returned recently to the States for rest. Farris is at Midland Air field after having flown 30 missions over Germany. Erwin, who served 14 months in China flying over the hump, is now at rest camp in California.

A frequent visitor in the Athletic office is Tom Pirtle who is stationed at Amarillo. Word has just been received that Bob Brewer, who has been reported missing since last fall, is now a prisoner of war in Germany. "We were happy to hear that Bob is safe, although a prisoner," Morgan said. Brewer, also, is an ex-Raider from Lubbock. He was married to Sue Grimes from Merkel last spring. Mrs. Brewer was a Tech beauty for 1943-44, and a member of Sans Souci.

Football spring training will start after Easter holidays, according to Coach Morgan. At present, there is no definite information on the number of boys who will report.

Spanish Technical Magazine Now Available For Techsians

A bi-monthly technical magazine in Spanish, entitled El Ingeniero Westinghouse is now available for Tech students in the library. A Portuguese edition of this magazine will be published in April, and its title will be "O Engenheiro Westinghouse." Printed by the Westinghouse Electric company, these have been placed regularly on the library mailing list.

HE Club Presents Talent Program

A short program of tap dancing, group singing and a nutrition skit was presented by Home Economics club last week. The program was sponsored by freshman club members, with Frankie Cummins as chairman.

All freshman girls were asked to give names, home towns and majors as an introduction to other members. Several visitors from arts and sciences and commerce divisions attended.

The club voted, as part of the campus beautification project, to purchase rosebushes for a rose bed between the annexes of the Home Economics building.

Home Economics club will sponsor the Double T Roundup March 17. A western style dance and floor show will be presented at the gymnasium.

SPARS Lower Requirements

Minimum height for SPAR applicants has been lowered from 39 to 35 inches, Comdr. V. F. Tydnack, Personnel and Recruiting Officer for the 8th Naval district, announced this week.

Under new Coast Guard rules for enlistment of women, the eyesight requirement is also more lenient. Defective vision will be waived if correctable by glasses to 20/30 in each eye, if the defect is not due to any organic disease. This means that the person can see an object from a distance of 20 feet with the same clarity as a person with normal vision at a distance of 30 feet.

Other requirements for enlisting in the SPARS are: age—between 20 and 36; citizenship—American; dependents—no children under 18 unless legally adopted by someone else; weight—at least 95 pounds, and in proportion to general build; good general health.

Further information may be obtained at your nearest Coast Guard Coxswain's office at 1112 Irwin Kessler Bldg., corner of Commerce and Ervay street, Dallas.

Women's Dorm I To Hold Sport Dance Tonight

Students of Women's Dorm I are having a sport dance tonight from 8 until 11:30 o'clock. The dance will be held in the lounge.

Residents of Sneed hall, boys' dormitory, are invited. Also, 200 soldiers from Lubbock Army Air field are expected.

Chaperones for the evening will be Miss Charles F. Hartman, head of military science and tactics; Miss Elizabeth Young, director of Dorm No. 1; and Sgt. and Mrs. Eugene V. Sloan. Mr. Sloan is secretary to the dean of women.

Officers for the dormitory this semester are Audrey Melton, president; Ethel Burns, vice president; Laween Putnam, secretary; and Maxine Harp, finance chairman.

A semi-formal dance is scheduled for April 6 as the main social event for this semester. Plans are being made to have a band and floor show.

Design Classes Redecorate HE Dining Room

Redecoration of the dining room in the Home Economics building has been completed by classes in interior design. The project was done in cooperation with the department of foods and nutrition, according to Miss Martye Poindexter, head professor of applied arts.

Floor plans, selection and arrangement of furniture and choice of color scheme which were made in last year's class have been carried out by interior design students this spring. Adaptable furniture has been chosen so that the former dining hall can now be used for a small conference room also.

Dark, heavy furniture has been replaced by light pieces and colorful pictures and flower arrangements have been added. Students acquired the present furniture without cost by utilizing spare pieces. The foods and nutrition department, home management house, clothing and textiles department and the business manager of the dormitories contributed the furniture.

Tech Engineering Society To Hold Annual Banquet

Engineering society will hold its annual banquet Saturday night, March 17, in the Cocanougher cafeteria at 7:45 o'clock. It is for all engineers and their dates and will be informal.

Pres. W. M. Whyburn and George W. Pfeifferberger will be guest speakers of the evening and W. F. Gray will be toastmaster. Student speakers from each class are as follows: Bill Underhill, freshman; Jim Wanner, sophomore; Earl Christy, junior and Maxine Carddock, senior.

Elmo Walling, president of Engineering society, will introduce special guests and make a short speech.

Vivis Entertain With Coke Party

Las Virarachas entertained with a coke party Wednesday at the Corral Members of Socii, Centaur, Wrangler, and Double T were guests.

Faculty guests included Mr. and Mrs. James G. Allen, Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Harmon and Miss Edith Coleman. Miss Coleman and Mrs. Harmon are sponsors of the club.

Officers of Las Virarachas formed the receiving line, which included Jody Wofford, Lucille Melton, Sarah Scroggins and Audrey Melton.

HM Residents Entertain Parents

Residents of the Home Management house will entertain parents Sunday with a dinner. Guests will be: Mr. and Mrs. O. H. Cummings; Mrs. Maude Zorns of Meadow, mother of Maude Alice Zorns; Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Tech Graduate Teaches Speech, English In Hawaii

Miss Willie Pearl Dockray, 1930 graduate of Texas Tech, was recently placed as a teacher of speech and English in the American School at Lihue, Hawaii, by the Teacher Placement bureau, according to Dr. Doyle D. Jackson, director.

Other enrollees who have been located during this semester are: Misses Gertrude Schoolcraft of Lubbock, to teach the third grade at Plains; Dorothy Weiss from Lubbock, to teach elementary work at K Carter school; Earline Rodgers of Winters, to teach speech in high school at Seymour; Barbara Cox from Post, as a teacher of English and social science at Lovington, N. Mex.; Mary Ruth Blake of Lubbock, to teach music and art in the grades at Abilene; Bettye Floyd, also from Lubbock, as a public school music teacher at Perryton.

Mesdames Harvey Turnbough of Lubbock, to teach mathematics in Slaton High school; Mary Fairchild of Lubbock, teach seventh grade at Amberst; G. R. Day of Brownfield will serve as high school principal at Post.

Class Studies Ceiling Prices

Miss Mayme Twyford's food purchasing class made a survey of ceiling prices on foods in grocery stores of Lubbock last Friday. A list of foods was made out which an average family of four with a moderate income would likely use in a week. The ceiling prices of such food as bread, potatoes, canned fish, cereal, flour, steak, butter, lemons, margarine, coffee, onions, carrots and lettuce were checked.

The class filled out charts listing size or weight of foods, ceiling price, and selling prices. The procedure recommended by the Office of Price Administration was followed. It is: (1) Examine the price tag or label; (2) Look for the list of ceiling prices. If you don't find it ask about it; (3) If the selling price is over the ceiling, call the merchant's attention to it; (4) If the error is not corrected, don't buy and report it to your War Price and Rationing board.

Apply For Duration Reservation--Bonds

War Bonds! War Bonds! WAR BONDS! That's all you hear nowadays. "Buy a War Bond" is about as original as "Don't you know there's a war on?"

A Utopian set-up would be for a person to have to be qualified to buy a bond—show himself worthy, be able to provide suitable environment and plenty of company for each little war bond he adopts.

Acquiring war bonds is every bit as much the possessing of a share of the future as adopting an orphan—and just think how much red tape there is to securing ownership of a parentless child.

Here's the way it should be: Man and woman entering a war bond office... the silence is broken by the man's saying, "Pardon me, madam, I should like to buy a war bond."

"What are your qualifications?" she replies.

"My wife and I are in good health, we have quite a few bonds at home and a little money in the bank."

"And you want to buy a bond?" (sarcastically).

"Yes."

"Are you an American?"

"I was born here."

"So, what? Are you an American? I mean do you save papers for the scrap drive? Do you donate to the Red Cross blood plasma campaigns? Does your wife save waste fat and sell it to the butcher? And do you write to your relatives and friends in the service?"

"Yes."

"All right, you may buy a war bond."

How silly, how ridiculous, how juvenile! Still it might work. If we conceived Americans were made to believe that it was the elite thing to do, that only those qualified could have a war bond, there would be many anxious hopefuls trying to buy 'em. We are made to believe that we are doing such a huge part of the war effort by giving our money and that things certainly would not turn out all right if the party of the first part did not do his part.

What would happen if said party were told that he was not qualified to do his part? That fighting Yankee individualistic spirit would probably make him work until he might be eligible for a bond.

An outbreak is an untouchable of being better citizens instead of thinking only of what our filthy lucre might do for the war effort, and he who had a war bond would have prestige, and he who did not would be an outcast.

An outbreak is an untouchable of India. One might not want to be touched for money at the moment, but buying a war bond is an honor. Anyway, who would want to be like an Indian pariah?

Laugh at the thought of YOUR doing Yogi tricks but the idea of Japanese customs is not so funny. For example, throwing one's self into Mt. Fuji for the glory of Nippon.

The possibility of Jap victory is pretty well passed, but it is not impossible that American prisoners of war might suffer worse fates than we can conceive at the hands of these customs before V-day.

And so, dear children, in order that this and all other tales to come may have happy endings, get another duration reservation on the bond wagon!

Co-ed's Corner . . . Campus Politicians Fail To Arouse Techsans

When only 14 per cent of the student body exercises its right to vote in a campus election it begins to look as if some changes would have to be made. In the election Tuesday only 241 out of 1,622 students voted. This may have been because there was not much interest in a campaign when there is only one candidate for all offices except one, but nevertheless students should feel a responsibility to vote for the man of their choice in that one office.

We hope that in April, when the polls will be open for Student council election, that more students will vote. Any person who did not vote cannot complain about an office that is filled, to their belief, with an incompetent person.

And now that we are on the subject of Techsans who are delinquent to their duty, what happened to the victory bells after the basketball game Friday night. They rang approximately 10 minutes and then were silent. The lights in the tower went out. The freshmen went home. We may be wrong but it is our understanding that they are to ring one hour after the basketball game. Hope the "slimes" were properly reprimanded.

We recently read an open letter in The Daily Texan, student paper of Texas University asking the students if they would like a course in the fundamentals of religion; of the Christian religion and any others requested, giving the understanding of what each church has to offer. This would explain the original beliefs of each church, and would not be controversial, giving only the facts, according to the letter. This struck us as a course that would be well worth offering. We wonder how many Techsans, there is doubt as to the ultimate means and doctrines of the various churches. Understanding of all religions would eliminate prejudices and would bring about greater tolerance of those of different beliefs in religion.

Spring fever seems to be hitting some people pretty hard, what with all the weddings taking place. Has anyone noticed that far-away look in Neil Wright's eyes. He says that he and Beth Jackson expect to tie the knot on April Fools' day.

Some of the things people won't think of to do during "pre-imitation!" The social clubs' pledges are having a tough time of it. The funny part is that they don't seem to want to say much about it. Why is that, pledges?

HITHER & THITHER—Louise Ince is still hearing from that "sweet" Clay Woods. Corinne Payne has been seen with Pete Waller quite a bit recently. It's good to see Frenchy and Buster Melton on the campus again. What's this we hear about Mickey Sweeney and Bea Green? Jim Henninger has the reputation as the most gallant man on the campus, especially before the election. Here between Texas U terms are Mary Jo Turner, Panze Butler, Jean Newman and Margaret Rossan.

Our cold spell seems to have retarded the work of the campus "beauticians." We all hope that the warm weather will come, but fast. These dark and dreary days are not in the least pleasant.

Tech War Vets Sponsor Movies Of Battle Scenes

A special showing of war pictures taken by the Army Signal corps will be sponsored here by the Tech War Veterans association. These movies, showing actual scenes from the European and Pacific theaters, will be held Thursday evening at 8 p.m. in the auditorium of the Agriculture building. There is no admission charge, and all students and staff members are invited to attend.

The films are being shown under auspices of the Eighth Service command of Dallas. Following the movies Lt. Henry G. Ball, a veteran of the South Pacific now working with the Eighth Service command, will speak briefly describing his own experiences and observations while in the Pacific.

Such activities as the assembling of troops and materials, bombardment of islands preceding invasion and the landing of American troops will be shown.

Marketing Class Visits Lockers

Advanced marketing class will visit the frozen foods lockers this afternoon at 3:15 o'clock, where W. Paul Faulkner, manager, will lecture to students. At 4:15 o'clock, they will go to Baldrige bakery and hear a discussion on modern baking by R. A. Burford, manager.

Wednesday afternoon the Santa Fe Railroad company, Thore H. R. Bayless discussed the business aspects of railroad transportation. They also visited Waples-Platter company, where C. C. Files, manager, discussed the wholesaling of groceries.

Pvt. Spencer Liberated From Japanese Prison

Pfc. James Clarence Spencer has been liberated from a Japanese prison camp in the Philippines, according to an official communication to his brother, Charles A. Spencer of Lubbock. A few days after the communication was received a letter came from him stating that he was free again and hoped to be home by July 4.

Spencer graduated in textile engineering in 1936 and served in the Texas legislature from 1938 to 1940. He went into the Army in 1941 and was stationed in Manila several months. While there he was taking post-graduate work in the University of Manila. He was taken prisoner on the fall of Bataan.
