Team First At KC, International Shows; Livestock Judgers Place Ninth At Meet

By C. J. WREN

Tech's crop judging team sent records tumbling at the National Intercollegiate Crop Judging contest in Kansas City and a similar contest at the International Livestock Exposition in Chicago this year.

At the Intercollegiate contest in Kansas City last week, the Tech team won first place for the fifth consecutive year—a record for consecutive wins. At Saturday's International Show, the team won its fourth victory, establishing another record.

On the championship team are Jim Gaede, senior from Muleshoe; Ellis Huddleston, senior from Lubbock; Ray Joe Riley, senior from Dimmitt; and an alternate member, Richard Ridgway, junior from Brownfield. All are Agronomy majors. Coach is Cecil Ayres, associate professor of Agronomy.

In the Kansas City contest, Gaede was the highest man in individual points with a total of 1,733.8 of a possible 1,800. Second was Huddleston with 1,717 points. The team made a total of 5,133.8 points with a possible total of 5,400.

A total of 5,255.6 points of a possible 5,400 was racked up by the team to win the International contest in Chicago. The score was based on seed judging and identification and a first place tallied by Huddleston and a second place by Riley.

High score man in this contest was Huddleston with a total of 1,772.8 points out of a possible 1,800. Next high was made by Riley with 1,756 points.

Kansas State College was second in the contest and the University of Nebraska wound up in the third place slot.

Club Issues To Be Aired In Workshop

The second annual Student Officer Workshop is scheduled at noon Dec. 10 in the Union. It is offered to any student who wants to become a good officer, whether the student holds office now or not, according to Workshop Chairman David Jones, and is planned to benefit student organizations by the discussion of common problems.

Dr. J. Chess Lovern, pastor of the First Methodist Church, will be the luncheon speaker. The workshop will include discussion groups on organizational records, membership acquisition, publicity, and program planning.

A student may register in the office of the Dean of Student Life either as an individual for a nominal fee or at a lower fee as a member of any organization which has paid its Board of Student Organizations dues, said Jones.

Noted Berlin Ballet Troupe To Perform Here Thursday

By TED HANNAH

The Texas Tech Artists Course series raises the curtain at 8 p.m. Thursday on the Dance Theater-Berlin in the Tom S. Lubbock High School Auditorium.

The fourteen European dancers comprising the ballet group will present to the Lubbock audience their interpretations of four modern ballets against the backdrop of music from the pens of noted composers.

Each of the dancers is an accomplished soloist in his own right, but, say critics, each has been fused into an ensemble in which virtuosity exists not for its own sake, but to heighten the dramatic impact of the performance.

The first ballet to emerge from the dancers' repertoire is "Balade," a romantic expression set to the music of Mendelssohn.

"Orphee" is drawn from Greek legend and displayed against the background of music by Frank Liszt, while "Souvenirs," a masterpiece of deft satire based on Schnitzler's "Reigen," serves to display the versatility of the ballet group as the program unfolds.

The concluding, climactic number is the presentation of "Hamlet," a Shakespearean play superimposed upon an original score by Boris Blacher, considered by many to be one of the most inspired composers of present-day free Germany.

Director-choreographer of the talented ballet troupe is Mme. Tatjana Gsovsky. A refugee from her native land of Russia, Mme. Gsovsky established herself in Berlin at a time when dance, theater, and music were in the throes of the expressionist movement and, in the face of the modernist assault, succeeded in restoring ballet to its rightful eminence by opening her own school of dance.

It was through the efforts of Mme. Gsovsky that the dancers were brought together. Her penetrating insight into literature and music and her unusual choreography have, say those who have seen the show, endowed the repertoire of the troupe with a dramatic impact rare in the field of ballet.

Mme. Gsovsky has created more than twenty principal works, many of them set to music written expressly for her by leading contemporary composers.

This is the second in a series of Artists Courses for the year. The Dublin Players, a company of 16 actors, will perform Jan. 6, followed by a Feb. 9 concert by Andres Segovia, guitarist.

Operatic tenor Jan Pierce will perform for Techsians on Mar. 17, followed by pianist Jorge Bolet on Apr. 5.

Director Sought For Show

Applications for Varsity Show director are now being accepted, Student Body President Glen Cary announced today.

They should list previous experience and be addressed to Cary at the Student Council Office. Further information will be available later.

Beauty Elimination Scheduled Sunday

Tech has its share of beautiful women . . .

And 276 of them are entered in the 1956 La Ventana Beauty Contest. The figure was released today by Editor Pat Boles.

First elimination will be held at 1:30 p.m. Sunday in the Union ballroom. At this time, 20 girls will be picked by a five-member panel of judges. Among the judges, whose names will be released later, are three photographers, a former national Maid of Cotton judge, and an Air Force lieutenant colonel.

Entrants are asked by Miss Boles to wear formals to the judging.

Raiders Take Border Crown, Accept El Paso Sun Bowl Bid

Texas Tech's 1955 Red Raiders have accepted a bid to play in the Sun Bowl at El Paso against an opponent that late today remained unnamed.

Among the teams mentioned as possible Bowl opponents for the Techsians are Miami of Ohio, Denver, or Syracuse.

Probably a bigger surprise than even the Sun Bowl bid and acceptance was the crowning of Tech—again—as Border Conference champion. Thus the Raiders, by a slim margin, kept the record intact of never having lost the title under Coach DeWitt Weaver.

Two factors contributed Saturday to the Tech victory — the Raiders' own narrow win over a determined Hardin-Simmons University eleven, and a thin 7 to 6 Arizona Wildcat upset of Arizona State of Tempe.

This combination enabled Tech to move into the host team berth at the Sun Bowl with a season mark of 7-2-1, compared with Arizona State's 6-2-1 score, with one game to go — against Hawaii at Honolulu Friday night.

Art Luppino, Arizona halfback and the nation's leading rusher, Saturday turned a 20-yard scamper across the goal and extra point kick into margin which provided Tech with an opportunity to win the conference top spot. Luppino was the difference between the Wildcats and Arizona State.

Bobby Mulgado scored Tempe's lone touchdown, but missed the extra-point try that cost the title.

A few hours before Arizona edged out Tempe, the Techsians were sneaking past a fired-up Hardin-Simmons crew with a two-point margin to close out their regular season.

Hal Broadfoot's blocked punt charge was the most exciting play of the game for the Raiders. When the ball rolled back into the Cowboy's end zone and out of bounds, the Raiders had two points and a winning margin.

Immediately following the H-SU game, the Raiders voted to accept a Sun Bowl bid. The appearance of the Tech team in El Paso on Jan. 2 will mark its fifth entry in that bowl and its eighth in post-season competition.

Tech's only bowl engagements under Coach Weaver have been victories. The Raiders beat College of the Pacific, 25-14, in the 1952 Sun Bowl, and Auburn, 35-13, in the 1954 Gator Bowl.

Tech has lost to West Virginia, 7-6 in 1938, to Tulsa, 6-0 in 1942, and Miami of Ohio, 13-12 in 1948 in other Sun Bowl appearances. The Raiders also went under to St. Mary's 20-13 in the 1939 Cotton Bowl, and to San Jose State 20-13 in the 1950 Raisin Bowl.

"We are pleased to cooperate with the tradition of the Sun Bowl that the highest ranking Texas team in the Border Conference play there Jan. 2," Dr. E. N. Jones, Tech president, said.

President Points Out Campus Traffic Hazards

To the Students of Texas Tech:

This is an urgent note to some of the students of Texas Tech on a seriously important subject — traffic dangers on the Campus.

One student, Carey F. Lively, a sophomore from Gatesville, was seriously injured in an accident on the east side of the Circle on the Campus the night of November 7. He was hit by a car. He will be in the hospital a total of at least five weeks and will there, most unfortunately, lose an entire semester.

I am increasingly concerned with the possibility that more accidents will occur this year. There are symptoms shown by drivers of some of the more than 4,800 registered-on-campus cars which cause this concern. The roar of dual exhausts and the screaming of tires, both on the take-off and while braking, are increasingly common. I like the sound of a good motor too, but the crowded Tech Campus is not the safe and proper place for such demonstrations. It all adds up to too much speed with resulting danger to students and others who walk on the Campus.

I appeal to you to be careful and considerate. The fact that only a few out of every hundred need this appeal is gratifying, but that fact does not reduce its urgency. Let me urge those of you who are pushing up into an increasingly serious situation, to use your 'CONSIDERATOR' more and your ACCELERATOR less.

Concernedly yours,
E. N. Jones
President

Every Day Should Be S-D Day

Thursday is Safe Driving Day in Lubbock and throughout the nation.

For the second year, President Eisenhower has declared Dec. 1 as a day to demonstrate that traffic accidents can be greatly reduced when motorists and pedestrians cooperate.

The challenge to every community will be not a single traffic accident during the 24-hour period—in daylight or darkness. We can cooperate in this move by keeping Tech accident-free for this period.

On page one of this Toreador is an appeal from President E. N. Jones calling for more consideration and less acceleration. The request is a good one to comply with—both on and off campus.

Last year United States traffic accidents killed 36,000 people—one every 15 minutes, injured someone every 25 seconds, and cost an estimated $4.4 billion in medical bills, property losses and other expense.

According to Rear Admiral H. B. Miller (USN, ret.), director of the President's Committee for Traffic Safety, the basic goal of S-D Day is to demonstrate that these accidents can be greatly reduced "when all motorists and pedestrians fulfill their personal responsibility for safety."

Let's get behind the program, and make every day S-D Day.

FACULTY FOLLOW-UPS

Profs Give Limited Enrollment Views

By LADOYCE LAMBERT
The question of whether any school should put selective or limited enrollment into use is a many-sided one which needs analyzing from all viewpoints. The students at Tech got a chance to advance their theories and opinions at a recent Oxford Debate. Here are some faculty comments.

Dr. Truman W. Camp, head of the English department, is certainly aware of the over-crowded conditions in some classes, and he believes that selective enrollment will eventually have to come.

"The only way to avoid diluting higher education is to accept only those who are willing and able to learn," Dr. Camp said. He stated further that if a college education is to mean anything at all, the numbers will have to be limited.

Dr. Camp advised that an ideal situation would exist if two brackets were reversed. That is, swap the ones with money and no brains or desire to learn with those who have capabilities but not enough money to attend college.

Perhaps it is not widely known, but Tech already exercises selective enrollment on one level of study—that of graduate work. According to Dr. W. B. Gates, head of the graduate school, graduate study is only for students who have already demonstrated "intellectual ability and the power of independent thought and investigation."

Dr. Gates said, however, that he would be opposed to using one test in gaining entrance to undergraduate studies even though that is the system used on the graduate level.

"No one test is valid enough to be a basis of determining entrance to college," he said, "but a battery of tests might be significant enough." Dr. Gates confided that he would personally hate to see Tech limit its enrollment.

Assistant Dean of Student Life James Whitehead said that from his administrative position the matter of selective enrollment didn't make as much difference as from the viewpoints of others involved.

However, as a taxpayer, Dean Whitehead stated that he is violently opposed to limiting students in a state institution. He also expressed an opposition to the use of entrance exams as the sole means of gaining entrance since so many students are not emotionally, or otherwise, up to par at the time they take the tests.

Dr. J. W. Davis, government head, commented that as a general rule he is not in favor of limited enrollment. It is his theory that everyone should be given a chance and then if they cannot make the grade they will drop out anyway.

THE TRUE AND TRAGICAL TALE OF HAPPY JACK SIGAFOOS

Who would have thought that Happy Jack Sigafos, the boy the sky never rained on, would ever teeter on the edge of a life of crime?

Certainly there was no sign of it in his boyhood. His home life was most tranquil and uplifting. His mother was a nice plump lady who hummed a lot and gave baskets to the poor. His father was a highly respected citizen who could imitate more than four hundred bird calls and once saved an elderly widow from drowning in his good suit. (That is, Mr. Sigafos was in his good suit; the elderly widow was in swimming trunks.)

Happy Jack's life was nothing short of idyllic—until he went off to college.

In college Happy Jack quickly became a typical freshman—tweedy, seedy, and needy. He learned the joys of rounding out his personality, and he learned the cost. His allowance vanished like dew before the morning sun. There were times, it grieves me to report, when he didn't even have enough for a pack of Philip Morris—and you know how miserable that can be! To be deprived of Philip Morris's gentle flavor, its subtly blended tastiness, its trauma-repairing mildness, its ineffable excellence—why, it is a prospect to break the heart in twain!

Happy Jack tried to get more money from home. He wrote piteous and impassioned letters pointing out that the modern large-capacity girl simply could not be maintained on his meagre allowance. But all Jack got from home were tiresome homilies about thrift and prudence.

Then one day a sinister sophomore came up to Jack and said, "I know how you can get more money from home." Jack said, "How?" and the sinister sophomore handed him a sheet of paper. "For one dollar," said the sinister sophomore, "I will sell you this list of fiendishly clever lies to tell your father when you need extra money."

- Jack read the list of fiendishly clever lies:
1. A bunch of us fellows are getting together to buy a new house for the Dean of Men.
 2. A bunch of us fellows are getting together to buy a headstone for Rover, our late, beloved dormitory watchdog.
 3. A bunch of us fellows are getting together to buy the college a new fullback.
 4. A bunch of us fellows are getting together to endow a chair of fine arts.
 5. A bunch of us fellows are getting together to build our own space satellite.

For a moment, poor Jack was tempted; surely his father could not but support all these worthy causes. Then Jack's good upbringing came to the fore. He turned to the sinister sophomore and said, "No, thank you. I could not deceive my aged parent so. And as for you, sir, I can only say—Fie!"

Upon hearing this, the sinister sophomore broke into a huge grin. He whipped off his black hat and pasty face—and who do you think it was? None other than Mr. Sigafos, Happy Jack's father, that's who!

"Good lad," cried Mr. Sigafos. "You have passed your test brilliantly." With that he gave Happy Jack a check for a half million dollars and a red convertible containing four nubile maidens.

Boys Use Phonics To Master Lyrics

BY GLORIA WALLER

"Lovely Lies" by the Manhattan Brothers on the London label should prove quite interesting, as was recorded by a group of English boys, who penned the English lyrics to the Zola folk song "Let Me Go, Love Me," which is only the fourth to have its first play on TV.

The three others that have preceded are "Let Me Go, Love Me," "The Ballad of Davy Crockett" and "Hard to Get."

Youngsters are coming out of the Yule tunes this year. Rick Nelson and the Blue Jeans are releasing "Nuttin' for Christmas" in Columbia, and six-year-old star Barry Gordon is doing the same song for MGM.

"A Merry Christmas with Four Aces" is ideal for those who would like a seasonal album.

Six strictly popular tunes, including "White Christmas," "Christmas Song," "Jingle Bell Rock," "Fudolph," are in the group "Silent Night," "Joy to the World," "The First Noel," and "O Come All Ye Faithful" among the nine carols in the album.

Tri Delt Bazaar In Union Saturday

The Annual Pine Pilgrimage Delta Delta Delta will be held the Union from 2-6 p.m. Saturday. The Pilgrimage is a Christmas Bazaar sponsored jointly by the active chapter of Tri Delta and the Lubbock Alumni Alliance.

It features Christmas decorations and Christmas gift items ranging from holiday table cloths to personalized ceramics.

Special interest to Tech women who are affiliated with sorority will be decorated pin cushions, novelty colors and monogrammed Greek letters, said Miss Mary Alice Braselton, chapter president. Home-made Christmas delicacies—cookies, cakes—are included in the bazaar plans—special attraction this year is a four piece of a 12 pound smoked turkey.

All items sold at the bazaar are handmade and are donated to the Tech chapter, the Alumni Alliance, and the local patron group.

Its purpose, according to Mrs. Braselton, is to raise money for the local Tri Delta Scholars' Fund. Each active chapter of Delta Delta Delta annually awards scholarships to two deserving women students of its college campus. Any woman student of Tech is eligible to apply for the scholarships which are awarded on a basis of academic standing, character, and need. Recipients of the awards are selected by a committee composed of three Tech faculty personnel.

The Pine Pilgrimage is Tri Delta's only money-raising project. Proceeds from the bazaar are the only source of funds from which scholarships may be awarded.

Boys Use Phonics To Master Lyrics

By GLORIA WALLER

"Lovely Lies" by the Manhattan Brothers on the London label should prove quite interesting as it was recorded by a group that does not speak a word of English. Tom Glazer, who penned English lyrics to the Zula folk song, spent five weeks rehearsing the Manhattan boys until they learned the English words through the use of phonics.

Despite countless tries that have been made to introduce future hit songs on TV, "Love and Marriage," which has recently made the top ten, is only the fourth song to have its first play on TV.

The three others that have succeeded are "Let Me Go, Lover," "The Ballad of Davy Crockett," and "Hard to Get."

Youngsters are coming out on the Yule tunes this year. Ricky Zahn and the Blue Jeaners are releasing "Nuttin' for Christmas" on Columbia, and six-year-old TV star Barry Gordon is doing the same song for MGM.

"Mr. Executive" Will Be Elected At Friday Party

Vying for the honor of "Mr. Executive" at the Phi Gamma Nu Christmas office party to be held Friday, will be Dane Grant, Lubbock; John Hutchens, Pampa; Fred Schmidt, Brownsville, and Weldon Taylor, Sherman. The event will begin at 8 p.m. in the Rec. Hall.

Approximately 150 guests are expected to attend the first annual Christmas party of the national honorary business sorority. Invitations have been extended to members of all clubs in the business department and all business faculty members. Music for dancing at the informal get-together will be furnished by a juke box.

The candidates for "Mr. Executive" were chosen by Phi Gamma Nu members. The winner will be announced and crowned at the party.

Phi Gam pledges entertained members with a coke party last Tuesday in the Student Union. "The Life of a Pledge" was depicted in a skit given by pledges. The group also presented songs for the local chapter.
