GOOD ROADS PROGRAM

Ever since the opening of Tech's ninth year, there has been some comment on the condition of the main driveways leading to the various buildings on the campus. Most of these comments, however, came from the new students enrolled in the college.

Texas Tech is comparatively a new school, and as far as the completion of its plant is concerned, it has only begun. The cost of some of the buildings on the campus run well over the quarter million mark, that is, counting the equipment that is housed by them. Our style of architecture rivals any other school in the state and the southwest in beauty and uniformity in carrying out the Spanish theme.

A picture of the Administration building was carried on one of the pictorial pages of the Denver Post, one of the most widely circulated newspapers in the western section of the United States, last year. The picture showed a beautiful building that symbolized a great institution of learning, but immediately in front of the building was a road that symbolized the poverty of a farm section afflicted with a drought.

True enough, not many people noticed the road because the photographer had in all probability used one of the numerous tricks of his trade in hiding the real condition of the driveway, but to those students who have travelled that road, it brought a shade of embarrassment to think that such a beautiful building in which he attended college was marred by the bumps and mud-holes of the road in front of it.

The Toreador realizes that the college has difficulty in taking care of all the things that comes up in the way of upkeep of the college. Money some times is the cause for what the students call neglect, but in the case of our driveways and road on the campus, it looks like a case of not grading frequent enough.

This matter is being called to the attention of no one particular person, but is merely being discussed in hope that whatever may be concerned will understand the importance of good roads on the campus.

COLLEGE PUBLICITY

During the course of last week a picture of the Vice-President of the United States and the President of Texas Tech college was carried in the pictorial sections of no less than 14,000 newspapers in the country.

A picture of these two figures is a news story in itself, but this time the real news story lie in the fact that Dr. Knapp was presenting to the Vice-President a suit made of strictly Tech products, and that it was made by the students of the Textile department of Texas Tech.

Publicity for the college, some say, Without a doubt its the greatest publicity stunt pulled in this section for boosting the school, but is not the school deserving of it? Surely, any school that can boast of such well-equipped facilities in teaching its students one of the leading industries of the south, would not hesitate to go for the publicity.

This kind of publicity never hurt anyone or anything. In the first place, the story was based genuinely on facts. Secondly, it was connected with some of the outstanding notables of our country today. President Franklin D. Roosevelt received a suit, and he was equally as appreciative. Appreciative of the fact that there are efforts being made to train the younger generation to make a living off the soil of the land.

Lubbock and the country surrounding may some day receive front publicity again, but not from the college students of Texas Tech. Instead the eyes of the nation may be focussed on the Plains area as one of the leading textile centers of the nation.

Alumni News

BY MAMIE WOLFFARTH
How many of you know all the Tech graduates in your home town or county? Do you have any sort of organization or regular meetings where you can get together and discuss old times and amuse yourselves? If you do, write us about it, your membership, the things you do, etc. If you don't, start organizing.

We will be glad to furnish you with a list of graduates in your community and we will also furnish you a speaker from here to help you organize or to appear on your program if you are already organized. Just make your request through the secretary.

The President, Mr. Speer, is planning a get-together luncheon or banquet in Austin during the State Teachers Meeting, and similar gatherings are being planned in other places. Don't forget home-coming day here November 11, start making your plans now to be here.

Now, for some news of graduates: Orin J. Sanders, Geological Engineer, who graduated from Texas Tech last August, is now employed by the United States Geological Survey. Sanders will work in the Underground Water branch. Joe Lang, August liberal Arts graduate, is also employed by the U. S. Geological Survey, in the Topographic branch. He is located in Amarillo.

Mrs. J. V. Morton, whom you probably remember as Willie Auvens Hufstader, Home Ec. '29, is keeping house and looking after her three year old son, John Douglas in Lubbock, Texas.

Miss Virginia Hufstader, M. A. '33, is a teacher in the History Department of Abilene Christian College.

Miss Allene Ruth Huston '32 is teaching English and Spanish in the Spade High School.

James A. Jackson, Ag. '30, is farming near Pampa, Texas. His wife also a graduate of Tech you will remember as Gertrude Osborne.

Miss Lela Marie Jackson, '28, is now Secretary, Bookkeeper, and Cashier for Jackson Brothers, Lubbock, Texas.

Under The Double "T"

BY LOMER NELSON
Toreador Sports Editor

Now that the Matadors have successfully warded off the scratching Wildcats, they run head-on into a pack of barkers, biting Bulldogs from Louisiana Poly. Judging by the brand of football the Mats dished out at Tucson, the Canines are in for a night of trouble. But you can't tell about bulldogs in general. Some are ferocious and belligerent while others are as docile as Mary's little lamb. You can judge for yourself tomorrow night.

The Bullfighters play on foreign soil next week. They journey to El Paso in an attempt to throw off a link that has been laid over them for three years by Mack Saxon's Texas Muckers. It will be the old story of master vs. pupil. Pete taught Saxon the rudiments of football at Austin college and judging by the record the latter has hung up, the pupil absorbed his lessons thoroughly and permanently. Tech enters the Haskell's rambling Tardars in the next home game which is on the night of Nov. 4.

MATADORS HAPPY
Coaches Cawthon and Smith together with 27 Matadors and Manager Cy LeMaster rolled into town Monday on the Santa Fe bubbling over with pep and ginger. Some of them were not recognizable because of the wide grins they were wearing. And the coaches were no exception. The railway coach was plastered from one end to the other with "7-0". The figures were made of endless strips of tape.

From El Paso to Tucson, the Matadors were honored by the presence of baseball's immortal Bambino, George Herman (Babe Ruth). Matt Hitchcock and other Techsters spent their time playing bridge with the diamond hero's daughter, Judie.

The all-around fine performance of the Matadors against the Wildcats warranted many bouquets from critics and fans who were under the impression that S.M.U. was the only aerial circus in the Southwest. Tech took to the sky long enough to complete 14 tosses out of 19 attempted. That's good enough to make the Mustangs envious. According to those who went to the western city, it was a good trip, an exceptionally good game, and every one had a bank-up good time. Ask fullback Prof. Pender and quarterback Jack W. Jackson.

ONE-ROUND CAWTHON
In Tucson a man acquired a group of Tech men and inquired if "One Round" Cawthon was with the team in the capacity of coach. The Tech mentor, who was standing nearby, was pointed out to be a former boxing promoter in Houston when Cawthon was attending Southwestern university. In those days the Matador coach had quite a "rep" as a fighter of no mean ability and he used to scrap for the promoter who had asked about him. At that time Coacher Cawthon met few fighters who could weather more than the early rounds with him. Hence the monicker, "One Round" Cawthon.

Let's see how Tech's 1933 opponents are faring as they go marching by in the nation's football parade. S.M.U.'s prancing Mustangs grabbed their first conference game Saturday by walloping Rice, 13 to 7. Simmons' faltering Cowboys were turned back by the T.O.U. Frogs. It was two straight setbacks for the Ranchers who dropped to the Saint Edwards Tigers the previous week. Baylor's Golden Bears lost a heart-

Polytechnic Bulldogs Come Out Of South Land To Challenge Scarlet In Intersectional Tilt

Louisiana Eleven Was Un-defeated In 1931; First Clash Of Two Teams; Mats Seek Win Over Poly

With a hard-earned Border conference victory over the scrapping Arizona Wildcats tucked safely away, the Matadors will seek still another conquest from an out-of-state foe tomorrow night at Tech field when Louisiana Tech's Bulldogs come to grips with the wearers of the Scarlet and Black.

In uptown spirits following their triumph over the Wildcats, the Mats hope to repel the Bulldogs and annex their third straight win of the season. The Techsters returned from the Arizona front without any serious casualties. Aside from a few bruises, sore muscles, and skinned noses, most of the Bullfighters are in excellent physical trim except a few who received injuries in the two days of terrific drills following the S. M. U. invasion. Coaches Cawthon and Smith will be able to throw almost all of their full strength against the men from the South. Next week the Matadors take to the road, stopping at El Paso for a joust with the Texas Miners.

MINERS WHIPPED
The Texas Miners were nosed out by Howard Payne's Yellow Jackets, 6-0. Haskell's Indians were thumped soundly by Pop Warner's Temple outfit in a comeback effort. Louisiana Tech bowed to Southwestern Louisiana, 13-7. "Bo" McMillin's Kansas Aggies fared the best of the lot by shellacking Frank Carideo's Missouri Tigers 33-0 in a Big Six go. The win was the third straight for the Aggies. Beware of the Farmers Turkey Day.

Did you know that—Texas Tech topped the nation in total scoring in 1932, tallying 382 points in 12 games, as against 45 for the opposition... the Matadors also had the highest average with a game average of 31.8 points.

Tech Clouds Air With Passes To Blast Arizona For 7-0 Win

McKeever Makes Touchdown As Result Of Triple Lateral Late In Game; Davis Boots Extra Point

Flashing a brilliant aerial offense the Matadors defeated the University of Arizona, 7 to 0, in a hard-fought homecoming game last Saturday night in Tucson before 5,000 excited spectators.

A lateral from Sollis to McKeever, after the left-hander had caught a pass from Curfman, resulted in as one of the Bulldogs' terminals. He is death on passes and is an excellent defensive man. Charles McKay is at home in a guard position and C. E. Colvin serves as his running mate. H. E. "Tke" Lowery, 189 pound tackle, does much damage at his position.

UNDER NEW MANAGEMENT
Rockne Hall, for boys, is clean and orderly. Board and Room, $18.00 per month. 1809 College Ave. Tel. 1108.—Adv.

Coach Bohler has 11 lettermen and four squadmen from last year's team around which he is moulding this year's aggregation. The Bulldogs boast of speed and deception instead of brawn and power. For the first time this season Tech will not have to concede pounage to the opposition.

Nearly every grid outfit has its scintillating stand-outs and Louisiana Tech is no exception. James Davis, halfback, punts, passes, and runs with the ball and does all three well. L. D. Keller, the "little big man" of the squad, backs up the line in great style. Boyce Johnson, fleet back, can handle any job in the backfield. Louis "Horse" Garrett, is the "racehorse" of the Bulldog backfield. He made the first touchdown of the season for the Canines by returning a punt 62 yards. He is a swift and sure broken field runner. Harford Causey is the human "battering ram" fullback.

Louisiana also has some linemen that flash brilliantly. "Muddy" Waters is serving his second season.

Anytime is the time to be with the crowd at Martin's Drug. Phone 1800—Adv.

the lone counter of the game. Davis converted to add the extra point. The scoring occurred with only six minutes left in the game.

Tech Threatens Six Times
The Bullfighters threatened six times before crossing the pay stripe. The feature of the game was the Matadors' powerful aerial offense and a stubborn defense that could not be penetrated. The Wildcat offense was so completely bottled up that in the net yardage column, if the losses were subtracted from the gains, the Arizonians ended the game actually owing the Techsters about 50 yards.

The Cats were held for only four first downs. Three of these came in the second half. The two times that the Wildcats passed Tech's 35 yard line they were hurled back with heavy losses every time they carried the ball.

Sensational passing by the Matadors puzzled the Cats so completely that Tech registered 14 first downs during the game. Tech completed 13 passes out of 19 attempts.

The scarlet-clad backs also got off some nice gains in their ground attack. Lefty Sollis got loose for a 41-yard jaunt just before the touchdown play, and Butts scampered 35 yards to the Arizona 8-yard line earlier in the game. Almost every man in the backfield along with the ends, figured in the Tech sky attack. The scoring play started on the Matadors' 37-yard line, and only five plays were used to carry the ball across the goal line.

Arizona's Defense Stubborn
Arizona presented a stubborn defense in the scoring territory. They held Tech on the four-yard line once and within the 10-yard zone three other times.

Barton and Davis starred in the Tech line, although individual heroes were lacking throughout most of the game. Every one of the Matadors were clean, hard tacklers who bore in with such drive that the Wildcat backs frequently were completely knocked backward through the air when hit. The Tech line was a powerful wall, well balanced all the way.

Score by quarters:
Tech 0 0 0 7-7

Sans Souci Club Has Its Annual Open House At Snyder Home

Four Hundred Invitations Are Received By Collegians And Lubbock People; Patronesses Are Present

College girls who were received into the San Souci club last spring stood in the receiving line at the society's annual open house Saturday evening in the Fred Snyder residence, 2701 Nineteenth street. Other members, the patronesses and sponsors were in the house party.

Miss Della Wilkinson, a patroness, greeted guests at the door. Others in line were the three club officers, Misses Frances Snyder, John Anna Boyd and Rosemary Leaverton, and Misses Polly Schultz, Lois Pitts, Christine Bundy, Lena Grace Sanderson, Nancy Ruth Leaverton, Helen Barrow, Fay Brown, Eleanor Halbert, Mary Genesee Harberger, Lois Watson, Martha Gholson, and Audrey Farris of Floydada.

Others receive callers. Misses Melba Watson, Dorothy Dobbins, Mary Lee Bardwell and Roberta Myrick showed callers into the dining room. Misses Mary Wilson, Zena Giles, Catherine Jameson and Wanda Butler served. The patronesses, assisted by the sponsors, Mrs. Lorenz Ellis and Miss Johnnie McCrery, took time about in presiding at the tea table. The former are Mesdames Roscoe Wilson, J. E. Vickers, Freda Hunt, C. E. Muedgen, W. O. Stevens and Floyd Beall.

You should be. The only reward they received was some refreshments bought by some "Tech Boosters" that reside in Lubbock, and they thought enough of those boys to drive almost 700 miles to see them play, realizing the possibilities of Tech being defeated. How far would you go to support the same club? It is again quite evident that you would not go across town to show the boys and the coaches that you are proud of them.

Tent Theater To Show This Week

Harley Sadler and his company played a return engagement in Lubbock this week, under auspices of the American Legion. The tent theater was located at Ninth street and Avenue H.

The plays, vaudeville numbers and music this week were different from that presented when the company was here recently. The opening play, which was offered Monday and Tuesday nights, was "Puppy Love," an hilarious modern society drama, with Harley and Billy Sadler appearing in important roles. For the opening play one woman was admitted free when accompanied by a paid admission. The program changed Wednesday.

Directed by Joe Gelforb, the show orchestra is composed of 12 pieces. It plays a concert before each performance.

One Big Night Of Entertainment In Lubbock!

WHAT'S DOIN'

The highlight of the week-end social activities for Tech students is the annual open house held by LAS Chaparras club Saturday evening from 7 until 10 o'clock in the F. R. Friend home at 2005 Broadway.

Sharing the honors of the social activities for Tech students this week-end is the first Aggie club dance of the year. Members of the Aggie club and their guests will dance at the Country club starting at 9 o'clock. Jack Casteel and his orchestra will furnish the music.

An all girls' dance will be given in the gym by the association of women students next Wednesday night from 8 until 10 o'clock. Ned Bradley's orchestra will play.

No girl will be admitted without a ticket which may be obtained at a table in the east rotunda of the administration building next Tuesday and Wednesday. The coeds who have paid their dues of 25 cents may call for their ticket at this time and those who have not paid may obtain their ticket and at the same time pay their A. W. S. membership dues before the dance. This is the second all-girls' dance of the year. The first was sponsored by the women's athletic association.

Geologists Plan Programs And Initiate Pledge

Ursel Armstrong, a senior geology major, was initiated into the Alpha Beta chapter of Sigma Epsilon, a national honorary geological fraternity, at a meeting of the chapter Tuesday night at 7 o'clock in room D of the chemistry building.

It was decided that a speaker would be given for prospective pledges soon. A special executive meeting will be called within the next week to work out the programs for this winter.

Two addresses will be a feature of the program when the Geological Engineers meet next Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock in room D of the chemistry building.

Dr. E. F. George, head professor of physics, will speak on "The Applications of Physics in the Magnetometer," and Dr. L. T. Patton, head professor of geology, will discuss the use of the magnetometer and give demonstrations.

This will be an open meeting and all who are interested may come. The Geological Engineers plan to study several projects of this nature at their meetings during the year.

Young Demos Attend Meet

Several Nationally Known Democrats To Attend At Fort Worth Conference; Students Attend

Twelve Lubbock county Young Democrats left last evening to attend a breakfast at the Blackstone hotel in Fort Worth this morning at 9 o'clock. The breakfast is given in honor of national Democratic leaders.

The guests of honor will include Vice President John N. Garner, Postmaster General James A. Farley, and Jesse Jones of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, formerly of Houston. The honor guests include this breakfast in their program of activity during their five day visit in Texas. They are flying from Washington to Uvalde where the ranch of Mr. Garner's is located.

Y. W. And Y. M. Make Plans For Secretary's Visit

Plans for the visit of Miss Fern Babcock, traveling secretary of Young Women's and Young Men's Christian associations in the southwest region, were made Monday evening at a cabinet meeting of the Y. W. C. A. at the Camp Fire girls' house on Broadway.

Reports of the different committees were heard during the business meeting at which Miss Inez Hensley, president, presided.

Rooms elsewhere, nearly every one having had offers of chairs in universities outside Germany.

Annual Aggie Rodeo Staged Friday Night

Al Simmons Is Champion For Feature Event; Prizes Are Given Winners; John Anna Boyd Crowned Queen

Al Simmons, a senior engineering student of Santa Anna, was champion bronco-riding of an annual Aggie rodeo at Texas Technological college yesterday and last night.

The night's program, which included coronation of Miss John Anna Boyd as queen of the rodeo, drew the largest crowd, said Bill Gregory, manager. Barbecue was served at the livestock pavilion.

Prizes were donated by Manager Gregory, and the rodeo business manager, Jesse Young of Cotulla, both senior agriculture students, placed first in the wild-cow milking contest. Gregory held the cow; Young milked.

The prizes were donated by Lubbock merchants. Simmons' award for bronco-riding was a jacket from Hemphill-Wells company. Gregory and Young won gloves offered by J. C. Penney company and Ross Edwards company.

Other winners. Other first place winners were: Belled-calf roping, Dick Perrin, junior agriculture student of Lubbock, a rope from Sherrod Bros.; Jesse Young, second, sweater, from Hub Clothing company.

Steer-riding, Euel Limer, graduate student of Lubbock; jacket from Carter-Houston company; Jerry Dean of Waco, second, gloves from Caprock Uniform and Embroidery company.

Two-on-a-steer contest, Austin brothers, representing the Wrangler's club, $2.50 credit at Model Laundry.

Musical-chair race, Odie Holly, senior agriculture student of Spur, shirt from Levine's.

Rick-Rack, a bull owned by Mr. Horton of Hurlwood, tossed every would-be rider. Al Simmons, by toppling the bounding bull longest, received a shirt offered by Mallory's.

Gregory last night expressed appreciation for the cooperation of merchants aiding in the rodeo.

Homer Brumley was assistant manager, Odie Holly arena manager, W. L. Stangel head sponsor.

WAA Introduces Sports Program

The WAA has just introduced a new sports program for the girls at Texas Tech. At five o'clock on every afternoon except Saturday there will be an hour's training in some particular sport.

Those who are interested in Archery should report to the Gym on Monday and Thursday. If Tennis is your choice report on Tuesday. Wednesday and Friday will be devoted to Basketball and Thursday to Skating and Bicycling. All of these classes will be held at the Gym except Skating and Bicycling. These two will be arranged later.

At the last meeting of the association the following officers were elected to fill vacancies: Jerry Turner, vice-president; Floye Snodgrass, basketball chairman; Catherine Cox, Soccer Chairman; Dolly Clements, Tennis Chairman, and Katherin Baskin, Volleyball Chairman. Jorga Barkham and Mathilde Riemer were elected to the Membership Committee.

The Block and Bridge club sponsored the rodeo, net receipts from which will be used in sending the senior judging team to contests at Kansas City and Chicago this fall. The 1933 agriculture graduates arranged the barbecue.
