Pass-fail deadline nears

Students have until Friday to delete pass-fail status and withdraw from a course with a WP or a WF in their academic dean's office. Students withdrawing from a course must also pay a fee of $3 in the bursar's office.

Dec. 8 will also be the last day for December graduates to file a statement of intent to graduate in their academic dean's office. The graduates must also pay their graduation fee in the bursar's office by Dec. 8. The office is open from 8 a.m. until 4 p.m.

Dallas schoolboy convicted

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - Oliver Davis' lawyer argued Tuesday there was no evidence to support the 99-year prison sentence assessed the former Dallas schoolboy basketball player for jailhouse rape.

Davis, a 17-year-old black, was convicted of the aggravated sexual abuse of Wayne Mayfield, 18, a white inmate at the Ellis County jail.

Davis, a 6-foot-6 star at Dallas Skyline, learned of the sexual abuse charges as he left the courtroom after an all-black jury had sentenced him to 10 years probation on a robbery conviction.

He was in jail on robbery charges when the alleged rape occurred Jan. 3, 1975. Mayfield, a resident of Tulsa, Okla., had been in jail since Christmas Day 1974, also on a robbery charge.

Carter's son separated

WASHINGTON (AP) - Neither White House officials nor relatives are saying whether President Carter's son Chip and his wife Caron are planning a divorce. But the couple has separated.

"I don't know if it's a divorce or legal separation or what," Rosalynn Carter's press secretary, Mary Hoyt, said Monday in announcing the separation.

She said Caron Carter and the couple's 20-month-old son, James Earl Carter IV, have returned to Georgia. Chip, 28, will continue to live in the White House and work at the Democratic National Committee.

The statement announcing the split added that the young couple "know that their friends respect their decision to make no further public comment."

Exotic bird's nest moved

NEWPORT BEACH, Calif. (AP) - The bird's nest needed to be moved about 60 feet, but it took local, state and federal officials, a telephone company, an electric utility and a ferryboat operator to do it.

The nest that drew so much official attention Monday was that of an osprey, or fish hawk, which is rare in these parts, said a spokesman for the state Department of Fish and Game.

After obtaining clearance from the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, the California Coastal Commission, the county Harbor Patrol and the city of Newport Beach, the 10-pound, 2 1/2-foot diameter nest was moved to an 80-foot pole donated by Southern California Edison Co.

Watching with avid interest was Dr. Robert E. Levis, head of radiology at Good Samaritan Hospital in Los Angeles and the female osprey's reluctant host until the move.

The osprey, with a wingspan of about four feet, first built her nest atop the mast of Levis' 55-foot schooner, Samarang, and the radiologist said the dubious honor was costing him about $1,500 a month.

Talks reach turning point

By The Associated Press

Egyptian President Anwar Sadat said Tuesday the peace talks with Israel are at a turning point and he is sending his vice president to Washington with a message for President Carter.

"We have reached a turning point. If the other side does not respond, well, this will be their responsibility before the whole world," said Sadat, referring to Israel.

In Tel Aviv, Israeli Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan said the two sides had made much progress in the five weeks of talks, but they hadn't yet reached "the end of the road."

"We have ended the major main text of the peace treaty, though there are still a few items we don't agree on," Dayan told reporters after returning from the Washington talks.

INSIDE

Entertainment... The possible demolition of the Lab Theater is being discussed. But an administration official said the building won't be torn down until a new home has been found for the student-run theater program housed in the facility. See the story on page six.

WEATHER

Occasional rain today changing to freezing rain with a chance of snow flurries tonight. The low will be near 30 with highs in the mid 30s. Winds will be 10 to 15 mph. The probability of rain is 70 percent, and the relative humidity is 80 percent.

Iranian oil workers return to jobs

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) - Iran's 37,000 oil workers flocked back to their jobs Tuesday, ending their crippling two-week strike against Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi. But troops opened fire on two anti-shah demonstrations west of here, killing at least three persons and wounding 19, the official Pars news agency reported.

The agency said the casualties occurred in Sonqor, west of Tehran, where protesters set fire to the offices and home of the provincial governor. The deaths raised the known death toll from clashes with security forces in the last three days to at least 23.

Troops also fired into the air to disperse a crowd near the giant bazaar in Tehran, but no injuries or arrests were reported.

In the past 11 months, an estimated 1,000 Iranians have been killed in anti-government disturbances. Conservative religious groups oppose the shah's attempts at modernizing this overwhelmingly Moslem society, while his political opponents seek an end to his 37-year one-man rule and other governmental reforms. Both groups have called for the shah's abdication.

The National Iranian Oil Co. said that strike leaders agreed to order a return to work after receiving assurances from the shah, through his representatives, that he would bow to their political demands.

The demands were said to be the restoration of civilian government, release of all political detainees and an end to martial law, which had been imposed Sept. 8 in Tehran and 12 other cities to suppress a burgeoning wave of civil unrest.

Sources close to the palace said it was possible that national oil officials during negotiations with the strikers had given them a pledge from the shah that their political demands would be met. The shah approved a 22.5 percent pay increase for the oil workers last week, but also to install a military government last Monday.

One of the strikers' key demands was the expulsion of all foreigners from the oil industry. Whether this demand will actually be met was not clear and appeared highly unlikely. The oil industry, on which Iran's economy is built, could not operate without the technical know-how of thousands of foreigners, experts say.

The first serious attack against a foreign oil executive occurred when George Link, the U.S. director of the Oil Services Co. of Iran, narrowly escaped injury when a bomb shattered his car in Ahwaz, in the heart of the Persian Gulf oil region.

Amin orders withdrawal

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) - Ugandan President Idi Amin announced Tuesday he has ordered the withdrawal of his troops from their two-week-old "hot pursuit" invasion of Tanzania. But Tanzania denounced the statement as "complete lies" and "camouflage" and vowed to keep fighting.

"The struggle continues," said a Tanzanian government statement issued in reply to Amin's announcement.

The withdrawal order was announced in a telegram to the Organization of African Unity, the United Nations and the Arab League, Radio Uganda said.

"I have decided to withdraw my armed forces to the recognized border of Uganda and Tanzania in spite of the provocations which earlier led them to Tanzanian territory in an exercise of their right of hot pursuit," Amin was quoted as saying.

Researchers study natural fibers

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Textile Research Center is currently studying uses and production of cotton, wool and mohair with grant money from the Natural Fibers and Food Protein Commission. This story is the third in a series on Tech Research.

BY MARY SAILOR
UD Reporter

Promoting the use of Texas' three natural fibers—wool, cotton and mohair—is the objective of research in the Textile Research Center (T.R.C.).

utilizing the N.F.F.P.C. funds this year.

One T.R.C. project is an evaluation of twistless yarn. T.R.C. is the only research center in the United States that is conducting research on twistless yarn, Parker said.

Yarns used to make fabrics today are twisted so the individual fibers will stick together and not slip. An alternative method of keeping the fibers together is to apply an adhesive to the fibers instead of twisting them.

procured commercially, but Parker said a production system for twistless yarn will be perfected for industry through T.R.C. research.

Other research is being done in the area of developing knitted apparel fabrics. The use of wool, cotton and mohair in knitted fabrics will be studied.

Chemical finishings to make fabrics nonflammable are being developed. Research efforts will be directed toward producing non-flammable finishes for cotton fabrics.

Another similar project is a study of which blends of fibers can be put together to make a fabric which has reduced flammability. Parker said there is a need for blends which resist burning but are also comfortable to wear.

Three T.R.C. projects focus on cotton. Agricultural stations across the state send samples of cotton to the T.R.C. for tests of grade and fiber strength.

Another project involves evaluating cotton ginned by various levels of cleaning. The T.R.C. is also studying the effects of foreign material in cotton on the yarn quality and fabric quality.

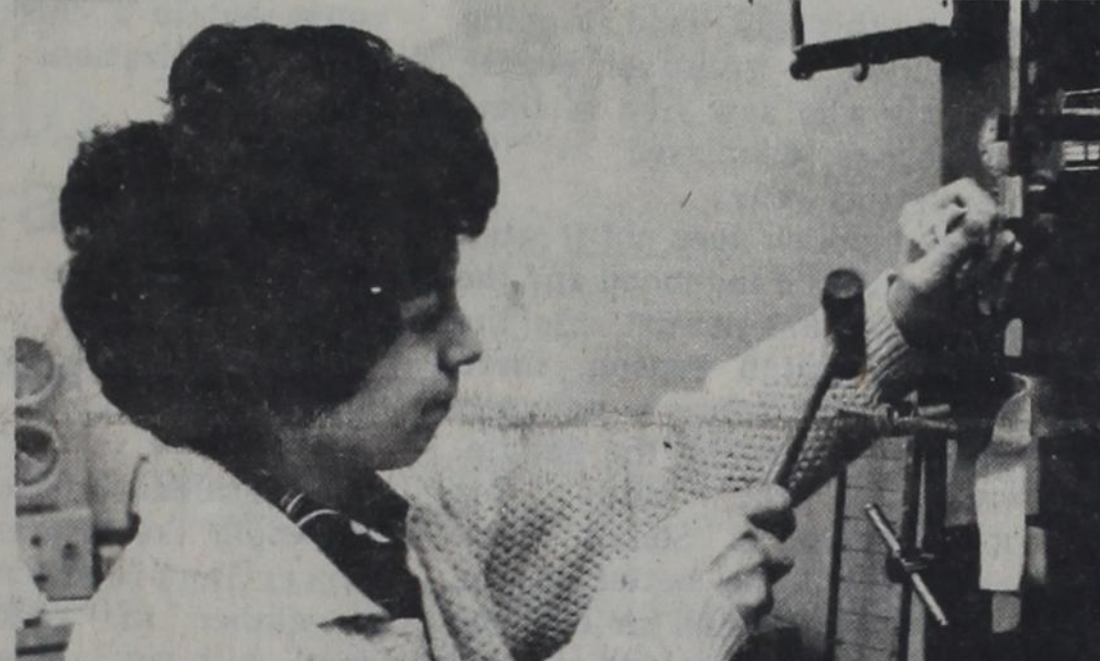

A study is being made of the quality of yarn made from short wool rather than regular length wool. Some sheep growers are experimenting with shearing their sheep twice a year instead of the normal yearly shearing. This gives a much shorter fiber to produce yarn from, Parker said. The project will evaluate the yarn produced from the shorter wool.

The T.R.C. is also working with the Texas prison system. The Huntsville prison operates the largest textile production plant in the state, Parker said.

The Huntsville prison produces all its own fabric apparel for prisoners except socks. It produces all the clothes, sheets, towels and even mattresses used by inmates.

The T.R.C. will be helping the prison textile workers start producing their own socks. Currently, the inmates are given socks which cost the state 59 cents a pair, Parker said. When the prison textile center begins to produce socks, the cost will be greatly reduced.

The advantages of twistless yarn is that it produces a lustrous-appearing fabric which is strong and wears well. Also, the production rate of twistless yarn is about 50 times faster than conventional yarns.

Council to review LPOA request

BY MIKE VINSON
UD Reporter

Lubbock Property Owners Association president Jack Howe will appear before the Lubbock City Council Thursday to present an LPOA request that city vehicles no longer be used as private transportation by city employees.

The City Council will meet in regular session at 9:30 a.m. Thursday in council chambers. House will also discuss the LPOA's interest in having as many city services as possible put on a self-sustaining basis.

Some of the city services the LPOA wants made self-sustaining will be covered by a resolution to be considered by the council.

The resolution would require the city director of finance to review all fees for licenses and permits issued by the city and determine if the income from those fees is sufficient to cover administrative costs.

According to the resolution, the director of finance would forward his findings to the city manager no later than 90 days prior to the adoption of the city budget.

The city manager would then adjust the fee rates to insure that income from the fees would offset administrative costs.

Representatives from the Airport Board will make recommendations to the City Council concerning overflow parking problems at the Lubbock International Airport.

The Airport Board believes more efficient use of available space could increase parking revenues by as much as $60,000 per year.

Among the alternatives the Airport Board is considering is the possibility of hiring an additional airport security officer to supervise parking or the hiring of two parking lot attendants.

The council will also consider

Association donates money to start new loan program

BY CHINO CHAPA
UD Reporter

Tech's Ex-Students Association have donated $5,000 to initiate a loan program next year entitled, "The Opportunity Plan," that will help students who do not qualify for federal grants and loans.

Ex-Students donated the money to the Canyon-based organization earmarked to help Tech students. Opportunity Plan, a non-profit group founded in 1954, has helped students on other college campuses.

"We made the donation as an initial move," said Bill Dean, director of Ex-Students, "to get this program started on our campus. We hope that other groups and individuals will follow and donate money to make this a strong program."

"We think this will benefit the student," said Dean. "The Opportunity Plan has proved itself as a fine loan program at many other campuses. We hope it will do so here."

Dean said The Opportunity Plan issues loans to students who applied for financial aid and did not receive it. Most Opportunity Plan loans go to scheduling public hearings concerning a request by Pioneer Natural Gas Co. for an increase in the domestic gas rate.

The council is currently holding hearings on a Pioneer request for an increase in the industrial gas rate.

students who do not qualify for federal loans because their parents' income is too high.

"Many students want to continue their schooling," said Dean, "but can't because they cannot afford it. They have been turned down by bank and federal loans. This is the type of student we want to help."

Ron Barnes, director of Financial Aid, said about 1,200 students did not qualify for loans this fall.

"I think this program would be a great asset if handled correctly," said Barnes.

Ex-Students and The Opportunity Plan have not finalized all preparations, but Dean said all details would be worked out before the next school year.

Initial plans are that loans will be issued from the Canyon office with the applications and decision of awards approved by an Ex-Students board.

The Opportunity Plan is recognized by some administrators as the finest loan program. Almost 98 percent of all loans are paid back. Since 1954, over $5 million has been loaned to students.

Re: Directions, vending machines

Have you ever lost money in a vending machine and did not know how to get it back? Today's Re: column answers this question and others regarding university policies, functions and activities. If you have a question, mail it to The University Daily, Box 4080, Tech, 79410, call in to 742-2935, or drop it off at The University Daily newsroom on the second floor of the Journalism Building. The column appears each Wednesday and Friday.

"Why is Directions shrinking all the time?" Akbar Gillan. Directions is the weekly feature magazine of The University Daily which appears each Monday. UD Editor Gary Skrehart said the size of any newspaper always depends on the amount of advertising sales. "Evidently, there is a problem in getting advertising for Directions," Skrehart said.

UD Advertising Manager Debbie Brown said one-third of the magazine should be advertisements to make it a profitable venture. The advertising staff has only been selling about half this many advertisements, so the magazine is running in a deficit, Brown said.

It is sometimes difficult to get sponsors to advertise in certain issues, Brown said, because they are not interested in some of the subjects covered in the magazine.

Directions is not shrinking in number of pages. It has been eight pages all year. However, Directions was 12 pages last year.

"I have several friends who play football for West Texas State who have the gall to insist that not only could W.T. beat Tech but that Tech is afraid to play them. They claim that W.T. has challenged Tech on several occasions but has been turned down. Why do we never play them?" Name Withheld.

Football schedules are committed as far as 10 years or more in advance, according to Sports Information Director Keith Samples. The Tech football team is contractually tied up until the 1990s, Samples said.

The National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) limits teams to 11 games a season. Since each of the 11 games a season for the next 10 years are already contracted, there can be no challenge games. The only way W.T. could play Tech would be if a team cancelled out of a contract. But Samples said this is not likely to happen.

Also, Samples said such a match would be financially impossible. "They only draw a crowd of about 6,000 for each game," Samples said. "There would be nothing to be gained by it."

"Where do I go when I lose money in a vending machine on campus? I lost 50 cents at the English building." Rudy Chapa.

The vending machines on campus are serviced by B & M Vending Company of Lubbock. If money is lost in a classroom building, a person should either tape a note to the machine or call B & M Vending to let the company know where to send the lost money. B & M's phone number is 763-5455.

If money is lost in a machine in a residence hall, a person should register the complaint with the Housing Office. Then the money will be returned to the dorm resident who lost the money.

"Most vending machines have small cokes for 15 cents, but the Ex-Students building has large cokes for 10 cents. Why?" Name Withheld. The reason for the price difference of cokes in the Ex-Students building is that the Ex-Students Association does not make any money on the cokes, according to Executive Director Bill Dean. "It is a service to our staff," Dean said. "There is only a small number of people who use the coke machine."

'Only in Lubbock' awards: The losers are . . .

WELCOME TO the 1978 "Only in Lubbock" Awards presentation. These awards are presented to the few Lubbockites who show outstanding dexterity in their fields to help put Lubbock on the map.

So without further adieu, I don my tuxedo and tennis shoes. May I have the envelopes please. I'm so nervous.

Our first division is Media and the News. In the category of "Best Comedy Routine During a News at Six and 10 Broadcast," the winner is... Sharon Hibner of KLBK-TV. Sharon has dutifully kept her viewers rolling on the floor with laughter ever since Kay Stella left the news scene at KLBK.

SHARON'S MOST memorable routine occurred last September on the six o'clock news when a fly landed on her nose. She started giggling uncontrollably while on camera, and the station had to break for a commercial.

Tod Robberson

And now I gingerly pick up the envelope for the category of "I See No Conflict of Interest Here" category. The winner is... oh, I see we have a tie. The first winner is Mary Alice Robbins, again from KLBK, for her coverage of the Texas Senate race between E.L. Short and Joe Robbins.

The other winner is Avalanche-Journal Business

Manager J.C. Rickman for his outstanding service on the Board of Managers for the Lubbock County Hospital District. Funny, but the A-J never seems to print any bad news about the district or the board. Frankly, I wouldn't touch this award with a 10-foot pair of tweezers.

AND NOW we come to the Protest division John Paul Jones is the winner in the category of "Best Effort in Trying to Kick a Dead Horse to Life." Jones is actively involved in the effort to decriminalize the use of marijuana here in Lubbock. Has anyone ever tried to tell him that it's still illegal to sell packaged liquor within the city limits, much less marijuana?

In the "Is That You Behind Those Foster Grants?" category, the winner is the Iranian Students Association. The ISA recently won a lawsuit against Tech for the right to wear masks during its campus demonstrations. Good effort, guys.

And in the "All I Want is My Fair Advantage" category, the winner is the Lubbock Property Owners Association for its recent complaint about Lubbock policemen being allowed to drive their patrol cars home when they go off duty.

The complaint was given scant notice by the press, but the association made a good point. It seems so unfair for the police to get to drive their cars home while the Lubbock firemen don't get to drive their fire trucks home when they go off duty. Life is just filled with inequities.

Next we have the on-campus division. There are several winners in the "Progress Through Science" category, but I'm afraid we only have one trophy, so we'll have to chop it up so everyone can have a piece of it.

THE FIRST WINNER is Fred Guthery of the range and wildlife department for his research on the "Status of Knowledge on Lesser Prairie Chickens."

The next co-recipient is Reed Richardson of the animal sciences department for his research on the "Efficacy of Feeding Formaldehyde Treated Soybeans to Growing Steers."

The other co-recipient is C.C. Reeves of the geosciences department for his study on "Sedimentary Zonation of the Ogallala Aquifer."

May I have the hatchet please? Gentlemen, your award.

AND NOW the award I'm sure you've all been waiting for: the last one.

In the "Flatulence Will Get You Nowhere With Me" category, our winners are the cattle yards of Lubbock. Rarely does a week go by that we aren't reminded of our furry friends to the southeast part of town. Ah, the full-bodied aroma of fresh cow manure gently perfumes the air. The aroma reminds me of wild hickory nuts.

Well, I guess we'll have to come to the close of this year's local "Onlies". But the competition doesn't stop here. Next we have the state-wide awards, and then we go to nationals. So stay tuned. There's more to come.

TALLY-HO! -- A VIRGINIA HUNT SCENE

Issue stealing revisited

William Safire

(c) 1978 N.Y. Times News Service

WASHINGTON -- "Don't you see we have dished the Whigs?" That was the delighted observation of England's Lord Derby a century ago, when his conservatives stole the opposition platform and rode the Whig reforms to a Tory victory.

Same kind of issue-stealing happened in last week's election. With the stock market quietly crashing, with the dollar demanding emergency resuscitation to avert panic, with double-digit inflation likely to worsen, congressional Democrats were able to seize the anti-spending, anti-taxing banner and escape the normal mid-term punishment.

SHELLSHOCKED Republican leaders are trying to convince each other that the pickup of a half-dozen governorships and a dozen seats in the House of Representatives was all that could be reasonably expected, given the way incumbents have "reformed" the election process to entrench themselves.

But it makes no sense to minimize the extent of the missed opportunity. Thirty seats in the House is the normal midterm swingback, and more than that in economic adversity. The fact is that House Republican candidates blew it.

SENATE Republicans did far better, picking up three seats despite the numerical vulnerability of GOP incumbents this year. About the only Republican leader who looks good this week is Sen. Bob Packwood of Oregon, not running himself, who headed the GOP Senatorial campaign committee. He evidently invested money and time shrewdly.

President Carter can heave a sigh of relief; he was not repudiated. In New York, he inveiled Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin into what seemed to be a last-minute pictorial endorsement of Democrat Hugh Carey (which was shortsighted of Begin). However, the senator on the top of the Carter hit list, Jesse Helms, breezed to victory, and the two Carter-Mondale Minnesota visits are being shut out of White House minds. As for Pennsylvania, the President could take the advice Sam Rosenman gave to FDR: "Deny you were ever in Pittsburgh."

The news of the election was the House-seat swing that did not swing, and the resurgence of Republican state legislators that only slightly resurged. Despite a President in office with a negative approval rating on Election Day, the electorate decided to mire itself further in the one-and-a-half party system. Why?

A GOOD part of the answer was in the dishing of the Whigs. Just as Democratic liberal candidates glommed onto the "law and order" issue in 1970, Democrats grabbed "cut taxes responsibly" in 1978. Behind California's Jerry Brown, most Democrats decided to go with the flow of events, and snuck down by the riverside to snatch the conservative Republican duds.

Carter aided this fuzzy of battle lines with his pretense of a tax "cut," and his well-publicized veto of porkbarrel legislation. In his pre-election seizure of television time to dramatize his concern about inflation, he posed as one who was reducing the budget deficit.

With a once-populist President trying to appear conservative, the Republicans made their big mistake: trying to appear as free-luncheonaires. The "Kemp-followers," in economist Herbert Stein's apt phrase, touted tax reduction as the only answer to economic woe -- abandoning the traditional Republican counterpoint of spending reduction.

THUS, THE Republican Party, after losing elections with a cut-spending message for 40 years, tossed it aside just as the public began to accept the need to cut spending. It was like an advertiser who becomes bored with his message just as the public begins to take notice.

The ideological ships passed in the election night. One reason the Ins were not punished by the Outs is this: tightfisted Republicans were not as adept at presenting themselves as free-lunch Democrats as free-lunch Democrats were at passing themselves off as tightfisted Republicans.

Carter can start worrying about main event in 1980

Walter P. Mears

WASHINGTON (AP) - Now that the warmup is over, President Carter and his political planners can start worrying about the main event in 1980 - and they'll have company.

The Democratic ticket Carter presumably will head is going to include a group of Senate liberals who saw five of their colleagues dismissed by the voters this year.

One election does not foretell another, but if the mood and the issues of 1978 persist into the next campaign season, there will be some nervous Democrats around the Senate. Overall, the odds for Republicans in Senate competition will be better in the next election than in the one just past, which yielded a three-seat GOP gain. The terms of 24 Senate Democrats expire in 1980, while Republicans will have to defend only 11 seats.

Among the Democrats facing re-election contests next time are three senators who saw their seat mates ousted by Republicans Nov. 7. Sen. Gary Hart will be up for a new term in Colorado, which ousted Democrat Floyd Haskell in favor of Senator-elect William L. Armstrong. Sen. John C. Culver's term expires in Iowa, where Republican Roger Jepsen ousted Sen. Dick Clark. Sen. John A. Durkin, who won his first term only after a rerun election, will be up for re-election in New Hampshire, which has just replaced Sen. Thomas J. McIntyre with Republican Gordon Humphrey.

There are other swing-state liberals facing 1980 contests, too; like Birch Bayh of Indiana, Mike Gravel of Alaska, Patrick J. Leahy of Vermont, Alan Cranston of California and Frank Church of Idaho.

For Carter strategists, the changes decreed by the voters in 1978 raise some potential problems, too. Pennsylvania, Texas and Wisconsin, for example. Those are states that produced crucial electoral votes for Carter in 1976, and elected Republican governors to replace Democrats this year.

Governors do not control votes, but in a close election, their organizations and their patronage powers can be an asset for their party's presidential nominee.

Republican governors now will be in charge in the states that ring the Great Lakes from Pennsylvania to Minnesota.

With the addition of Governors-elect Richard Thornburgh in Pennsylvania and William Clements in Texas, the GOP will hold office in five of the seven most populous states.

Letters:

Get story straight

As residents of Gordon Hall we would like to make several corrections concerning the November 13, article which dealt with an incident in our dorm. The corrections are as follows:

- 1) Greg Gardner is not the Head Resident of Sneed Hall as Rick Gerber, Sneed Head Resident, will testify.
- 2) The humidification "system" mentioned consisted of a wet towel and a small fan.
- 3) There was not 375 lbs. and 12 inches of potting soil in one closet.
- 4) Closet locks were not exchanged by the perpetrators of the incident.
- 5) The staff has access to a master closet key so even if the locks were changed, which they were not, the doors could still be opened.
- 6) Every hallway light in Gordon Hall is in perfect working order; the theft of the light was immediately (5 minutes) noticed and then reported by residents because of the dark spot it created.
- 7) One cannot see through the key holes in Gordon Hall.
- 8) The stolen fixture was not connected to any source of electricity - thus, it would have been difficult for it to put off light while in the closet.

9) The RA did not discover the light, the Head Resident did.

10) The University Police were not called to force the door open. The Head Resident, who was as "ingenious" as the perpetrators, used the keys to the doors.

Furthermore, we would like to object to the tone of the article. The perpetrators were made to sound like victorious heroes of the populous of Gordon Hall. Quite to the contrary, we strongly object to their illegal, immature, and imbecilic actions.

We also object to Larry Elliott's attempt at investigation and reporting. He obviously made no attempt to double check his story or the sources of his story. The "perpetrator's" version could have been verified (corrected) by questioning the Head Resident. This was not done.

In short, the University Daily and Larry Elliott have made fools of themselves. Evidently the U.D. is more interested in being first than right.

Residents of Gordon Hall Editor's note: This letter was signed by 193 Gordon Hall residents.

French professor to be recognized

BY KARLA SEXTON
UD Staff

Beatrice W. Alexander, associate professor of romance languages, is to be honored today as the recipient of an award for Faculty Recognition Week, according to Mortar Board member Anne Elliott.

Unfortunately, the recipient of the award cannot be told of the award until the day of the award. And Alexander managed to escape the University Daily photographer who was trying to take her picture on the sly. So, the UD apologizes for not having her picture.

One faculty member will be honored each day this week and Alexander is the third professor to be chosen for this year's honor. The recipients are chosen for outstanding overall leadership, personal and civic contributions, enthusiasm and continuous motivation.

Alexander was nominated by the French honorary Pi Delta Phi who cited her outstanding ability "to sense students problems in class and know the best methods for teaching French. It is often clear that she actually knows the student better than he knows himself."

Alexander has been teaching at Tech for 33 years having come here in 1945 as an instructor in foreign languages. She completed her graduate study at the Universite d'Aix France in 1950. Alexander was promoted to associate professor in 1971.

Among her honors, Alexander was named the recipient of the first $500 Moderator's Award from the national executive committee of the national French honor society Pi Delta Phi in 1969.

During her years at Tech, Alexander has been active in committees within her department and in various university-related activities. She has been chairman and supervisor of teaching assistants in first-year French since 1974 and occupied that position also from 1964 to 1972. Alexander is the current sponsor of Pi Delta Phi and the Phi Mu Social Sorority.

She is also the production head of six annual French play productions as well as set designer for the Annual Foreign Language Plays and was editorial advisor of "L'Esprit francais" 1962-1974.

Alexander also served as chairman of the Departmental Language Laboratory Committee and the Departmental Executive Committee.

Alexander has participated as a member of the Projects Board of the International Center for Arid and Semi-Arid Land Studies and was co-director for the French Language Institute for professors going abroad on government assignments, sponsored by ICASALS and the Division of Continuing Education in the summer of 1976.

Another university-related activity included serving as a panelist on Comparative Literature Symposia dealing with Campus and Ethnic Literature.

She is also chairman for the Parent's Dormitory Group at the Lubbock State School and serves as a member of the board, as past president, for the Parent's Association at the Lubbock State School.

Alexander has also published several articles in Modern Austrian Literature and has received citations in other publications which show recent evidence of the impact of her research.

The five faculty members chosen this week will be also honored at a special reception 2:30 p.m. Friday in the El Centro Room of the Home Economics Building.

The University Daily was unable to obtain a picture of Alexander.

Heroes

Two Tech students, Robert E. Williamson (left) of San Antonio and John A. Couch of Houston, will receive awards for courage from the Dad's Association Saturday. The students will be recognized during the Dad's Day luncheon for their courage in rescuing a pilot from a burning airplane, Nov. 16, 1977.

Library posts holiday hours

For those students who have projects or term papers due after Thanksgiving or who just have nothing to do during the holiday, the library will be open for their convenience.

The library will be operating on the following schedule during the holiday: Nov. 22, the library will be open from 7:20 a.m. until 12:30 p.m.; Nov. 23, (Thanksgiving Day), the library will be closed; Nov. 24, the library will be open from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m.; Nov. 25, the library will be open from 8 a.m. until noon.

On Nov. 26, the regular schedule will be resumed: 7:20 a.m. to midnight, Monday through Friday; Saturday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Sundays from 2 p.m. until midnight.

The Law School Library will also have a special schedule through the holidays. The schedule is as follows: Nov. 22, the library will be open from 8 a.m. until 1 p.m.; Nov. 23, (Thanksgiving Day), the library will be closed; Nov. 24 and 25, the library will be open from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m. Nov. 26, the library will be open from 10 a.m. until midnight.

Regular hours will be resumed on Nov. 27 with the following hours: Monday through Friday 8 a.m. until midnight; Saturday 8 a.m. until 10 p.m. and Sunday 10 a.m. until midnight.

A special hours and information number is available for students at the library, which is 742-2251.

Hamburger chain faces rumors

OAK BROCK, Ill. (AP) - They laughed at the first letter and even the second one. But soon came the sickening understanding that a false rumor threatened to take a big bite out of the "Big Mac."

"Is it true that 20 percent of what is given, is given to Satan's Church in Los Angeles?" the Piqua, Ohio, woman asked McDonald's in that first letter more than a year ago.

Nothing could be further from the truth, but the rumor - that McDonald's gives money to a satanic cult - smolders today despite all of the mammoth corporation's efforts to douse it.

As the rumor flared across the Bible Belt and sparked isolated - but effective - boycotts in ensuing months, executives of the multi-billion dollar hamburger operation mobilized. Tracking false leads and fighting new outbreaks, they were at once firemen and detectives.

But theirs is not an unusual story, for rumor has bedeviled concerns that sell everything from beer to bubble gum for years.

"It was a very difficult time," recalls one victim, Mac Morris, whose bubble gum company faced a rumor of spider egg contamination last year.

Library provides 'new book' shelves

Information concerning everything from dance to psychopolitics and even color for winter gardens can be found in the Tech library on the new bookshelves.

Library personnel have recently moved these shelves from the basement to the reference room, a more accessible area.

These bookshelves are special in that they contain new books recently acquired by the library.

A student may browse through the books and might just find that particular book he's been looking for. Titles of some of the books indicate there might be something for everyone. Some of the books are "Psychopolitics," "America for Sale," "Color

For Your Winter Yard and Garden," "Lincoln and the Economics of the American Dream," and "Group Dance Improvisations."

If students can't find something for enjoyable reading, maybe they can find something to use in research for a class assignment.

Approximately 15 to 20 percent of the 1,000 volumes received by the library every week are put on the new bookshelves, according to Ray Janeway, director of library services.

After a book is received by the library it takes about two weeks to place it on the shelves. However, if a book is needed sooner, it can be done within 24 hours, said Janeway.

Is it sick to love a pen?

Is it crazy to love marker pens that give you the smoothest, thinnest line in town... and feel so right in your hand? Is it mad to worship pens with clever little metal "collars" to keep their plastic points from getting squishy?

Not if the pen is a Pilot marker pen. Our Razor Point, at only 79¢, gives the kind of extra-fine delicate line you'll flip over. And for those times you want a little less line, have a fling with our fine point 69¢ Fineliner. It has the will and fortitude to actually write through carbons.

So, don't settle for a casual relationship. Get yourself a lasting one, or two, to have and to hold... at your college book store. Pilot Corp. of America, 30 Midland Ave., Port Chester, New York 10573.

Tutoring program to help students

BY CATHY CONLEY
UD Staff

The semester is nearly over and some students may still be contemplating withdrawing from a class they thought was too difficult.

For students having academic difficulties, help is on the way by simply contacting Willie Thomas in the Office of Student Life.

Thomas is the tutor coordinator for "the first campus-wide tutoring service for students."

"The program is geared to give individualized services to the students' needs and is available to any student upon request," Thomas said.

An important objective of the tutoring program is "to improve the student skills and academic performance of students who otherwise would be unsuccessful at Tech," Thomas said.

He encourages students to seek academic help immediately.

"Don't wait too late. Come by the Student Life Office and get help."

Once the student contacts Thomas requesting tutorial services and has filled out an application specifying his desired area of tutoring, Thomas will select the tutor qualified to provide the desired tutorial services.

The program not only seeks students who need to be tutored but tutors as well.

Any student interested in tutoring should also contact Student Life, Thomas said.

"With the information provided by the prospective tutors, the professor of the course to be tutored will be asked to certify the prospective tutor for the job," Thomas said.

Through the use of student tutors, "the program promotes personal and scholastic development of academically successful students," Thomas said.

Thomas said there was a special demand for tutors who have excelled in courses of geography, computer programming or engineering.

Thomas is tutor coordinator for both Peer Assistance and Project Assist. The difference in the two programs is that Peer Assistance is open to all students and the students pay the tutors out of their own pocket ($4.10 for graduate students and $3 for undergraduates), Thomas said.

Project Assist on the other hand screens students who are financially unable to pay tutors and provides for the tutors through federal funds.

Project Assist also provides for academic and personal counseling, vocational and academic testing and more, all available to qualifying students, Thomas said.

The coordinator of the program, Thomas, is a May graduate of Tech. Thomas received his bachelor's degree in secondary education with a specialization in history and English.

Thomas said he is very pleased with the results the tutors and students have achieved through the program. He said he hopes to build the program up more each semester.

Alcohol film to be shown

BY HOLLY BEA
UD Staff

Although alcohol is not allowed on campus, it is still something that students have to deal with. Alcohol misuse is a growing problem at Tech and other campuses nationwide, according to David Nail, assistant director of Student Life.

"There have been more disciplinary problems involving alcohol in the dorms this year, than in previous years," Nail said.

What is being done at Tech to counteract this trend?

Nail is willing to present a film and informative presentation on alcohol's use and misuse to any organization upon request.

"There is a misconception about just who is doing the excessive drinking. Most people think that men do most of the drinking. But we're finding more and more disciplinary cases involving women recently," Nail said.

According to Nail, the students may not consume the alcohol on campus, but the problems are brought back to the campus.

"Students will get polluted in a club and then come home to the dorm. Arguments and fights occur, with results of damage to people and property," he said.

"There is also a misconception that Greeks do most of the drinking. This just isn't so. Fraternities and sororities are just more publicized," Nail continued.

Nail thinks that much of the abuse falls on freshmen.

"The freshmen come to school and are bombarded with advertising pushing alcohol ... All you can drink, free beer ... and some take it literally," he said.

Nail's presentation is not a sermon. He said, "I drink myself. I'm not being hypocritical. We just stress that if you choose to drink, drink responsibly."

When asked if alcohol would be allowed on campus Nail replied, "I suppose so, but not in the near future. Look at what happened when Tech played Texas. Sure, you can tell the regents that the students are responsible adults, but they read in the newspapers that damage was done by drunk Tech students. What are they to think?" Nail said.

"We're offering this presentation to educate students about alcohol and to let them choose for themselves," Nail continued.

Any organization wishing more information about the alcohol presentation should call the Office of Student Life at 742-2192.

FBI informant testifies in Cullen Davis trial

HOUSTON (AP) - FBI informant David McCrory testified Tuesday millionaire Cullen Davis flashed "five fingers three times...and kinda laughed" as he coolly ordered the murders of 15 people.

At one point, McCrory said, Davis told him he had decided on his first victim and instructed his one-time friend to find him a "hit man."

"If you turn me around..." McCrory quoted Davis as saying, "I'll kill you and your whole damn family. You know I've got the money and the power to have it done."

McCrory, 40, the key witness in Davis' murder-for-hire trial, said it was one such threat that convinced him to take his bizarre story to the FBI and ask for protection.

Seven federal officers, armed and wearing radio receivers in their ears, roamed in and out of the courtroom as the hard-drinking, pool-shooting McCrory told that story to the jury.

The alleged hit list included Davis' estranged wife,

Priscilla, his younger brother, two judges, and several accusing witnesses who testified at the Amarillo murder trial last year when Davis was acquitted in the shooting death of his 12-year-old step-daughter.

He is charged specifically in this case with soliciting the murder of his Fort Worth divorce judge, Joe Eidson.

No one was killed and Davis, 45, a Fort Worth industrialist, was arrested minutes after a meeting with McCrory last August that was monitored by the FBI and others.

Courtroom officials installed television screens and hooked up earphones to permit jurors to see and hear audio and video tapes of that pivotal summer-time encounter.

A debate late Tuesday over the transcripts prevented the jury from hearing any of the tape recordings.

The trial judge ruled, however, that jurors will be permitted to read the prosecution transcripts when they listen to the tapes Wednesday.

McCrory earlier outlined his meetings with Davis and how he had been hired as an investigator for Davis' divorce case. After telling the industrialist what he had learned, he said Davis brought up the planned killings, starting with Beverly Bass. She was a witness to the August 1976 shootings at the Davis mansion during which two persons were killed.

"He said...he was going ahead with a plan to kill her Miss Bass."

"And you're going to help me and hire someone to do it," McCrory quoted Davis as saying.

McCrory said Davis then threatened him and his family.

"I told him, 'Don't you ever say anything like that again or I'll tear your damn head off.'"

Did you think he was serious? McCrory was asked.

"I thought he was serious at that time."

McCrory testified, however, "I felt like I could handle the situation, talk him out of it...get him out of it...I thought

I could handle the situation without anyone getting hurt."

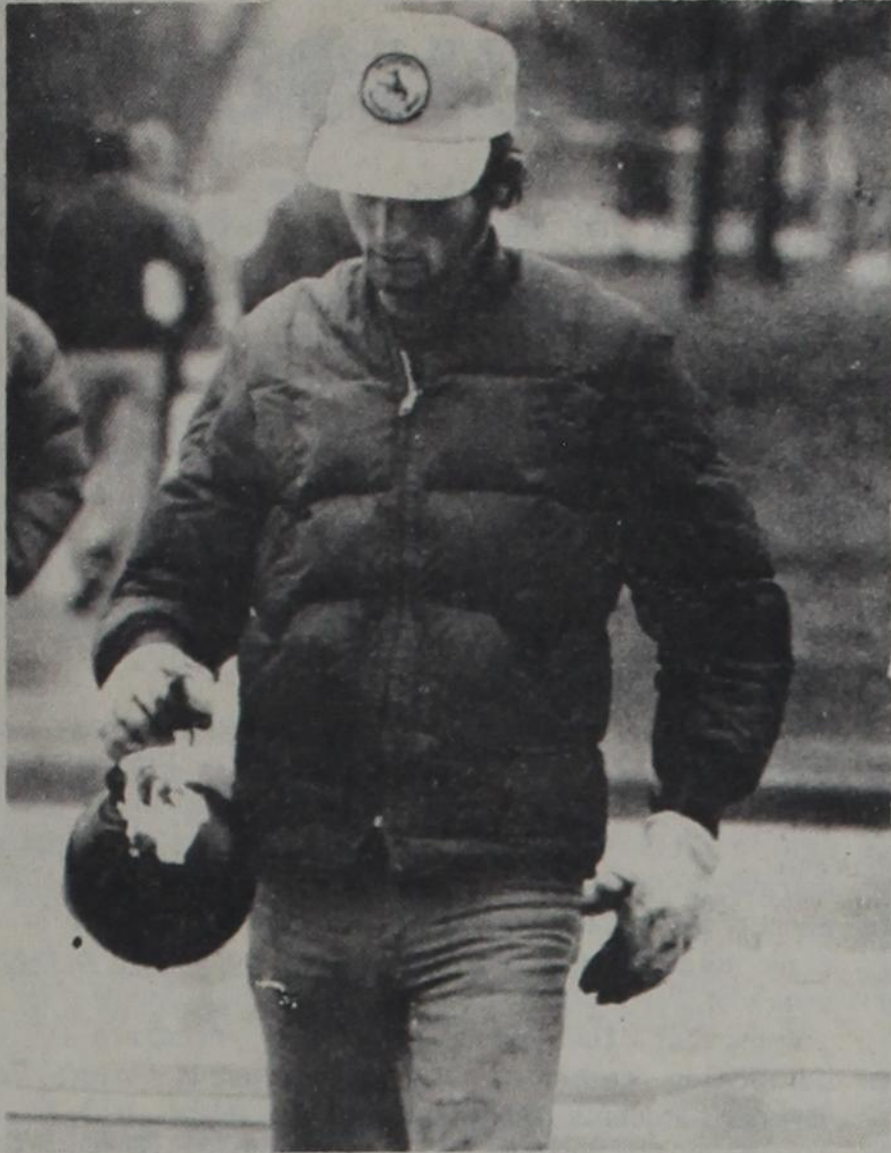

He said he told Davis, "All right, I'll work on it."

He said Davis discussed paying from "$25,000 to $200,000" for the murders.

Asked who was on the list, he said, "Priscilla Davis, Miss Bass, Bubba Gus Jr. Gavrel, Gus Gavrel Sr., Judge Eidson, Bill Davis, a guy that used to run a company for him. I can't remember his name. Judge

Tom Cave. I'm not sure who else."

Gavrel Jr. was Miss Bass' date the night of the mansion shootings and was wounded by the killer.

Dads to honor professor at membership luncheon

Marion O. Hagler, electrical engineering professor, has been named 1978 recipient of the $1,000 Dads Association Spencer A. Wells Faculty Award.

The award will be presented at the Dad's Day membership luncheon on Saturday. Hagler is the 13th faculty member to receive the honor.

Funded by the Hemphill-Wells Foundation and awarded by the Dads Association, the award recognizes outstanding professional performance in teaching. The late Spencer A. Wells, for whom the award is named, was chairperson of the Tech Board of Regents and the University Foundation.

Hagler serves as instructor in electrical engineering, applied physics and applied mathematics. He is also director of the Texas Tech Center for Energy Research. Hagler has conducted research in electrical engineering and related areas.

Besides teaching on the graduate and undergraduate levels, Hagler has directed an interdisciplinary, semester-long seminar on "Contemporary Problems in American Society."

Hagler has also served on graduate student committees in departments of engineering, psychology and biology. He also served as an advisor to honor students in the College of Arts and Sciences.

Weather

Patricia Ferguson, of Big Spring, seems to be having a little trouble with her rain gear as the wind tries to turn it into a funnel. Hank Green, senior from San Angelo, looks on with a laugh. More and more umbrellas seem to be popping up around the Tech campus as the miserable weather continues to plague West Texas. (Photo by Mark Rogers)

Lab Theater demolition discussed

'Sorcerer'

The student-run Lab Theater may be torn down. But demolition of the facility probably won't take place until the Lab Theater program can be relocated in another building, according to Dr. Jerry Ramsey, associate vice president for Academic Affairs.

The Lab Theater program involves participation from students. Tasks range from the direction of a play to the publicity necessary for selling tickets.

"What we're really after is to find an adequate space for the program," Ramsey said. Ramsey called a meeting last week of some university officials. The officials met to discuss the possible demolition of the Lab Theater and to consider alternative locations for the program.

The meeting was attended by Dr. Richard Weaver, theater department chairman; Dr. Lawrence L. Graves, dean of Arts and Sciences; Dr. William B. Conroy, associate dean of Arts and Sciences; Dr. Billy I. Ross, mass communications department chairman; and Ramsey.

The Lab Theater's possible demolition stems in part from the apparent fire and structural hazards of the building. "A large number of deficiencies was noted (to the administration) that were related to the fire hazard aspects of the Lab Theater," Ramsey said.

A fire marshal inspected the building last week. His complete report will not be available until later this week.

Weaver gave at the meeting a list of alternative locations for the Lab Theater program. "I listed all the locations I can think of," Weaver said, "even the most remotely feasible ones."

Among the theater's priorities were:

--An addition to the University Theater's facility. "We would use the same equipment as the University Theater," Weaver said. "The program would be housed in the same building." The University Theater does not contain enough space for both programs at this time, Weaver said.

--Build a new building behind the University Theater. "That's not likely," Weaver said.

--Remodel the Dairy Barn next to the FL&M Building. "That's our best bet," Weaver said. "... It would be exciting to remodel the Dairy Barn."

But nothing definite has emerged from last week's meeting except that a new location is being sought for the program.

"We're trying to find a better space," Ramsey said. "... But it's a little early right now."

"Some locations have been proposed for analysis and evaluation." Locations proposed for the program include the Dairy Barn, the Mass Communications Building, the BA Building, Holden Hall and the Journalism Building.

"We're shaking these around," Ramsey said. Administration officials may decide after further investigation that the alternative locations may not be economically or practically feasible.

"We have to look at all the alternatives and the costs," Ramsey said. The alternatives may prove more expensive than remodeling of the theater.

News of the Lab Theater's possible demolition didn't settle well with Lab Theater Business Manager, Deborah Bigness.

"I'm disappointed," she said. "This could be a detriment to the program. Short of a new building, there is no suitable space that I'm aware of."

Word of the possible demolition came as Lab Theater students continued renovating the theater.

"Renovation has stopped dead," Bigness said. A marquee to be constructed outside the front of the building was among the renovations stopped at the Lab Theater.

Rumors of the theater's demolition have existed for the past several years. But last week's news was the first solid evidence that the facility might be destroyed.

The Lab Theater is located north of the Library, next to the Ag Pavilion, the Ag Building and the University Center. It was built in 1928 and is the oldest theater in West Texas, according to Bigness.

The program's next production is "Who's Happy Now?" which will be performed Dec. 1-6.

TV program finally finds its place . . .

'Weekend' show to appear on regular basis

BY JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) - NBC's "Weekend" news-magazine show, first set to start a weekly prime-time run in September, then given guest-show status, still will go weekly, no kidding, Dec. 2 is the date.

Reuven Frank said it's the real thing this time. Frank should know. He's executive producer of the Peabody-winning program, which has aired twice this season.

Not only is it definitely starting its weekly run next month, he said, there is no talk of another postponement so an entertainment effort can get a tryout in his show's

Saturday night slot.

"I have us scheduled through the winter-spring cycle," said Frank, who has run "Weekend" ever since it began as a latenight, once-a-month Saturday show in October 1974.

"We go through, I believe, the end of June, we're off in July, and then we have some repeats in August and early September, the same as '60 Minutes' on CBS."

And after that? Well, the keepers of NBC still want him to ready a budget for the 1979-1980 season, which doesn't suggest authorities there are planning a half-season run and then a discreet fadeout.

"To the degree these things matter, they've done all the right things and said all the right things," said Frank, who has been with NBC News since 1950, both as a producer and as president, 1968-73.

His show, begun with Lloyd Dobyns at the podium Linda Ellerbee joined the on-air roster this fall, so far this fall has done features ranging from college football hype to a troubled home for old folks.

On Dec. 2, its yarns will include one about Idi Amin's double and a report on artificial insemination that includes a chat with a lesbian mother in London who had a child by that process.

Cagers blitz Bulgaria

BY CHUCK McDONALD
UD Sports Editor

The Bulgarian National basketball team's arrival in Lubbock Tuesday was delayed for several hours due to a heavy fog that kept planes from landing at the airport for most of the afternoon. When the Bulgarians finally did arrive they must have wondered if it was really worth all the trouble.

Because a young Tech squad blitzed the Bulgarians 97-78 Tuesday night before 2,392 fans at the Coliseum. No less than 13 Raiders got into the scoring act for Tech as the Raider depth proved too much for the Bulgarian squad.

Kent Williams, Ralph Brewster and Jeff Taylor led the Raider attack as all three finished with 16 points. Ralph McPherson was the other Techman to break into double figures scoring 10.

Tech controlled the opening tip and scored first on a 20 foot jumper from Williams. After that the Raiders never trailed the Bulgarians even though the contest was initially tight. But the European squad soon succumbed to Tech's pressing defense and in the last five minutes of the first half it became a runaway. Tech led 43-29 at the intermission.

"I thought the best part of the game was the team defense and our running game," said head coach Gerald Myers. "But we've got some areas where we definitely need to get better. We need to improve on our offensive rebounds."

Fortunately for the Raiders there weren't that many offensive boards as Tech connected on 36 of 72 shots from the field for a 50 percent average. Tech's leading rebounders were Brewster, McPherson and Thad Sanders—all who had five.

"Well, they (the Bulgarians) were a very physical team," commented Brewster on the rebounding situation. "They were strong and it really wasn't a rebounding type of game."

The Bulgarians were led by Ilyia Evtimov who pumped in 25 points and Milko (try to pronounce this one) Arabadjiycki who added 16. Myers was concerned with Tech's inability to go inside against the Bulgarians.

"The basic part of our offense was a lot of perimeter shots," he said. "We didn't get anything inside. We're going to have to depend on a lot of medium range, 16-17 footers, this year but you still need a combination. You've got to have a balance."

Tech forced the Bulgarians into 30 turnovers, something that pleased Myers.

"We forced a lot of turnovers and that was something we had been emphasizing in practice," he said.

Rounding out the scoring for Tech was Geoff Huston, Thad Sanders, Tommy Parks and David Little with six, Adam Beadle with seven, Steve Smith with three, Joe Baxter and Ben Hill with two and Larry Washington with one.

The Raiders next action comes when they face Central St. of Oklahoma on Nov. 27 in the Municipal Coliseum.

Fire away

Freshman Jeff Taylor goes up for two against a Bulgarian defender in Tuesday night's contest. Taylor made the shot and finished the game with 16 points, scored in 17 minutes of playing time. Looking on are Kent Williams, Tommy Parks and Ralph McPherson. (Photo by Ron Hays).

Cold no problem in Tech practice

BY DOUG SIMPSON
UD Sports Staff

The wind howled, temperatures plummeted, and drizzling rain seeped through helmets and pads.

Ron Reeves was having a hard time throwing the football with what he probably thought were frostbitten fingers.

And when Godfrey Turner's hands made a stab at a pass or when Don Kelly introduced a ball carrier to the wet Jones Stadium astroturf, sharp pains accompanied the sufferers.

Overall, it was a rotten day for a practice, or at least that's the way it seemed to those on the outside looking in.

But most of the Tech players viewed Tuesday afternoon's weather-hampered practice from a positive approach. After all, the Raider coaches and players know who's coming for dinner this weekend, and that a silly thing like weather isn't going to stop the Mustangs from walking away with the main course.

"This cold weather is something else," Tech tailback Phil Weatherall said of the practice conditions. "I have never experienced anything like this."

Weatherall, who comes from Greenville, went on to say that the weather might actually help the Raiders against the Mustangs Saturday.

"The attitude is good," Weatherall explained. "We realize that this cold could be a factor in the game, so we have to work hard this week and do our best."

While Weatherall must devote his concentration to the SMU defense, Alan Swann made some remarks about Mustang quarterback Mike Ford and about defending the high-powered SMU aerial game.

And of course, Tech Coach Rex Dockery had some of his own comments about the weather, but more importantly, about the Mustangs.

"Sometimes it's fun to play in weather like this," Dockery said. "As a football team, you get ready for whatever weather there is. But we still have a lot of work to do. If we want to beat SMU, we've still got a long ways to go."

Cowens named player-coach

BY DAVE O'HARA
AP Sports Writer

BOSTON (AP) - Veteran center Dave Cowens, a fiery reed noted for aggressive, hard-nosed play on the court, was named player-coach of the Boston Celtics Tuesday.

The shocking move was seen as an effort to rebuild the National Basketball Association club's sagging fortunes.

Cowens, an eight-year veteran from Florida State who just turned 30, confidently predicted better days ahead for the Celtics after accepting the challenge offered by new owner John Y. Brown and president and general manger Red Auerbach.

"I'm very flattered that Mr. Brown and Red even considered me for the job, but we're not going to win because of my smarts," Cowens said. "The players will have to win by playing better together, playing as a team."

Cowens, who walked out on the Celtics two months two years ago to "get away from it all," was picked to lead the one-time dynasty in one of the team's most dismal periods. Boston is off to a 2-12 start after failing to make the playoffs last season.

Cowens, given a pay raise to a reported $300,000 a season on a multi-year contract by Brown last month, replaced Tom "Satch" Sanders, who took over as head coach when Tommy Heinsohn was fired last January.

Sanders will remain with the Celtics as chief of scouting and a member of the public relations staff. K.C. Jones and Bob MacKinnon were retained as assistant coaches.

"My first concern is player response and respect," Cowens said at a news conference before an afternoon practice. "Actually, I never recall envisioning myself as a coach. I've always thought of a coach as a motivator. Now I'll have to find someone else to motivate me. My primary responsibility will still be as a player."

Dorsett feels media is out to get him

BY DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer

DALLAS (AP) - Dallas Cowboys Coach Tom Landry said Tuesday star running back Tony Dorsett was just reacting to all the pressure he had been under when he said the local media was trying to run him out of town.

"I don't think he meant it the way he said it," Landry said at his weekly press luncheon. "It's not that unusual for a player to get uptight and react like that to all the pressure. It's understandable."

Dorsett said after he had rushed for 149 yards in a 42-14 National Football League victory over Green Bay Sunday that, "I feel like the press is trying to run me out of Dallas."

Dorsett added, "I'm hurt about all the articles that have been written. It hurts to read them."

The second-year Cowboy running back had been heavily booed in Dallas' last home game which was the first one he had started after Landry demoted him for missing a team meeting.

Landry termed Dorsett's remarks "unfortunate." Landry said, "Tony had been mentally down because he was not running well as hoped. A competitor feels bad when that is happening and he probably was. I'm sure that's what resulted in that feeling after the game."

The 18-year Cowboy coach said of the Dallas media, with a grin, "For the most part they are pretty nice. I don't know if the article that disturbed Dorsett was justified. I didn't read it."

Earlier this year Dorsett said that the local media had been more than fair with him in his various scrapes with law enforcement officers. Dorsett went so far to say that he felt if the same thing had happened in the East, the media would have blasted him.

Cats beat Tech Cagers

The Tech women's basketball team dropped its season record to 1-1 when they lost Monday to Abilene Christian University, 85-67.

The dribblers played in Abilene and coach Gay Benson said, the reason the women lost was because of too many turnovers. The Wildcats made 17 errors compared to the Raider's 27.

The leading scorer for Tech was Donette Marble with 27 points opposed to the Wildcats leading scorer Kathy Hooper with 17 points.

Other Tech leading scorers were guards Rosemary Scott and Louise Davis with 10 points each. Lynn Webb, Liz Havens with six points and Cheryl Greer with five points.

The women play Wayland Baptist College Saturday in the Wayland Baptist Clinic.
