SC Supports Final Break

By BRONSON HAVARD
Toreador News Editor

The Student Council gave unanimous support last night for a day break between dead week and final examinations.

In a whirlwind meeting the Council passed a resolution requesting the Council of Deans to include in the school calendar an entire day free of tests between dead week and the finals.

The Council also took positive action on the class officers, married students, and school song questions.

Action on the day break came swiftly after a stand by Royal Furgeson, council president, and a report by Ken Patterson, academic committee chairman.

PATTERSON REPORTS

Patterson gave a report on his interview with Dr. W. M. Pearce, academic vice president. Patterson said Dr. Pearce told him "dead week" was solely to remove social activities from the students and it does not restrict the faculty in any way.

Dr. Pearce was also accredited as saying the college will have to take into consideration registration, scheduling of athletic contests, cost of operation for the extra day and the number of days of registration before approving the day break.

FURGESON DEBATES

Furgeson, in a rare action for a Council president, took the floor to debate the question. He said, "I think that at Texas Tech it is one of our major objectives to learn . . . I think we need an opportunity to have a break here."

Patterson in concluding his report said, "We, the Academic Committee, recommend in the form of a motion that the Student Council, speaking as a united force for the students at Tech, submit a proposal . . . suggesting that a day break . . . be considered."

Furgeson further commented, "It is unfair for a student to go to school on Monday and have two hour tests and on Tuesday have two finals."

The proposal was not opposed in the Council debate before receiving unanimous support. Furgeson said the proposal probably would be formally presented to the Council of Deans by student officers themselves. The Council is composed of all college deans and it is charge with the responsibility for the school calendar.

SPECIAL RATES

In other action the Student Council debated the merits of having special rates at athletic events for the spouses of Tech students who are not students.

James Cole, Council vice president, said "I think the athletic department ought to consider special rates. I am opposed to the rates as they exist."

He cited the case of one Tech student who had to pay $4 to get his wife a ticket into a Tech game.

"This money just doesn't come easy," Cole said. He pointed out that 20-25 per cent of Techsans are married.

Two members of the Tech Dames, an organization of non-student wives of Tech men, were present at the Council to request special rates.

Mrs. Jerry Houchin of 2813A Cornell said, "I feel like more married students would attend if they could afford it."

Mrs. Danny Martin of 2105B 35th agreed, "Married students don't have the financial budget which allows them to go and pay high prices."

The Council directed their Student Welfare Committee to study the problem and report at the next meeting.

SCHOOL SONG REPORT

On the school song the Council decided to request the Tech band to play the official "Matador Song" at the beginning of each game. Also the Council asked the Welfare Committee to study the pros and cons of either maintaining the Matador song or getting a new one. The committee will report at the next meeting.

School Trip Of Sales Fall Short Of Goal

School trip tickets to the University of Texas are not selling as well as expected and have not reached the campaign goal of 300 according to James Cole, Student Council vice president.

The tickets, including transportation, noon meal at Brownwood and game admission, are on sale in the Student Council office, in the Union and in every dorm. The tickets cost $14.25.

Buses will leave from the Union at 7:30 a.m. Saturday and will arrive at the Austin Hotel at 3:30 p.m. where a pep rally will be staged. Students will be picked up in front of the hotel and taken to the game at 6:30 p.m.

After the game will be a dance at the UT Student Union. Buses will leave for Tech at 1 a.m.

Persons who have already bought tickets are asked to come by the Student Council office in the Ad. Bldg. and sign up for a bus no later than Friday.

The deadline for buying tickets is 5 p.m. Thursday.

The dorm with the most residents going will receive a trophy, and the Student Council member who sells the most tickets will win a free bus trip.

Senate Okays Test Ban Treaty

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate voted overwhelming approval yesterday of the historic treaty banning all but underground nuclear tests.

Giving President Kennedy the big "aye" vote he asked, the senators lined up 89 to 19 in favor of the pact.

The only absentee, ailing Sen. Clair Engle, D-Calif., was listed as supporting the treaty.

Pleased With Margin

Kennedy issued a statement expressing his pleasure at the winning margin. He commended leaders of both parties and Chairman J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee for their "painstaking work" in bringing the treaty "to this highly satisfactory vote."

"The wide support of the senators of both parties given to the treaty after an extensive and wide ranging debate is evidence not only that the treaty has wide public support but also of the collective judgment that this instrument is good for the people of the United States and people all over the world," Kennedy said.

There never had been any serious doubt about ratification.

But nearly two weeks ago, as some opposition to the pact appeared to be building up, Kennedy had sought to stem it with these words:

Can't Offer Leadership

"If we are to give grudging support, if this small, clearly beneficial step cannot be approved by the widest possible margin in the Senate, then the nation cannot offer much leadership or hope for the future."

Those words plus Kennedy's assurance that he will keep the nation's nuclear arsenal in alert readiness to guard against any cheating, gave him the resounding support he sought. Part of the support was based on the desire expressed by some senators to halt the increase in radioactive fallout.

Fulbright Predicted

As it turned out, the margin was predicted by Fulbright a month ago. That was before his committee's 14 days of hearings on the pact and the Senate's 12 days of debate in which senators made 125 speeches.

Supporting ratification were 55 Democrats and 25 Republicans. Opposed were 11 Democrats and eight Republicans.

The Democrats who voted against the treaty were Harry F. Byrd of Virginia, Robert C. Byrd of West Virginia, James O. Eastland of Mississippi, Frank J. Lausche of Ohio, Russell B. Long of Louisiana, John L. McClellan of Arkansas, A. Willis Robertson of Virginia, Richard B. Russell of Georgia, John Stennis of Mississippi, Herman E. Talmadge of Georgia and Storm Thurmond of South Carolina.

The Republican opponents were Wallace F. Bennett of Utah, Carl T. Curtis of Nebraska, Barry Goldwater of Arizona, Len B. Jordan of Idaho, Edwin L. Mechem of New Mexico, Margaret Chase Smith of Maine, Milward L. Simpson of Wyoming, and John G. Tower of Texas.

102 Signed

A total of 102 nations have signed the nuclear test ban treaty.

Nine additional signatures are anticipated. Cuba remains a question mark and five countries are not expected to sign. They are Communist China, France, North Korea, North Viet Nam and Albania.

Off The Deep End

by Lyne

I think it is safe to say that most of us come to college expecting something. Aside from the relative superficialities of dates, sports events and bridge sessions, occasionally we experience vague yearnings for "better things" as hinted at in most aspects of our environment.

Many of us are still wondering what is going on. Some of us will never find out. Others will discover something above and beyond an accumulation of cut-and-dried facts.

It may be a whole new philosophy of life or merely one altered viewpoint. It may even be a husband or wife, depending, of course, on our personal preferences.

One fact is fairly certain. Whatever it is that is lurking around, waiting for us within the brief confines of these years, will have to be tremendous.

We're at that stage of the game, you see. Most of us are not yet independent, at least financially, and so we are constantly pushing in all directions.

Toward what? Toward something resembling real independence, of course, but also toward greater self-knowledge, self-experience and our assumedly rightful share of varied experiences.

Don't delude yourself into thinking that these things come easily. At the risk of sounding pedantic, I say that they don't. Even if they should happen to come easily, they are meaningless unless one pauses long enough to think about them.

I personally advocate a Stop and Think program consisting of 10 minutes of uninterrupted thought per day.

It's marvelous for achieving a sense of well-being. Moreover, occasionally it helps to fill otherwise-empty newspaper space.

And then there is the story of the four-year-old pessimist. When asked what he thought about Santa Claus, he replied gloomily, "I don't think about Santa Claus at all." Maybe it's just as well.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—A former church business manager said Tuesday he put $12,500 of his own money into the church till and falsified the books so his pastor's feelings wouldn't be hurt.

"I made an error in judgement, no question about that," said James K. Loftin of San Antonio. "But all the church money is there and everything I did was for the church."

LOFTIN, BUSINESS manager of Central Christian Church since 1945, resigned Sunday night after an audit turned up some irregularities.

"This is a highly unusual affair," said The Rev. Myron W. Christian, pastor of the church. "Our audit shows there's no money missing from church receipts. Mr. Loftin told me he falsified total income and outgo figures in order to improve the church image."

"IN GENERAL, Loftin kited pledged contributions on our books and tried to offset that by kiting the amount of money we were reported as paying to the International Christian Church Mission Fund."

When the books still didn't balance, the pastor said, Loftin started paying from his own pocket.

"First of these payments came in on April 25, 1961," the pastor said, "and the last was on July 12 of this year."

"I WANT TO stress that the audit shows no sign of church collections or other income not accounted for," The Rev. Mr. Christian said.

Loftin, a father of three, said he tried "to protect the church . . . help it stay in business, so to speak."

The pastor plans to give his congregation a new financial report Sunday. He does not plan any further action against Loftin, he said.

A noted German philosopher's ideas will be the topic of a paper read when the Channing Club meets at 7:30 p.m. in the Anniversary Room of the Union.

Buford Terrell will read German philosopher Herbert Schneider's paper, "Global Orientation."

Schneider's paper was read at the 13th International Congress of Philosophy, held in Mexico City this month.

According to Terrell, Schneider proposes that the American system of global orientation is both inaccurate and misleading. He suggests several possible methods for improving the system in the light of political and philosophical implications, Terrell said.

The Channing Club meets for discussion on alternate Sundays and is open to all interested students.

Angel Flight Begins Tryouts, Fall Practice

Angel Flight activities will begin today with practice sessions for all prospective members.

Practice sessions are scheduled for 5-6 p.m. today, 4-6 p.m. Thursday, and 5-6 p.m. Sept. 30.

Angel Flight, Air Force auxiliary sponsored by Arnold Air Society, stipulates several requirements for membership. All members must be enrolled in at least 12 semester hours, and upperclassmen must maintain a 2 point grade average.

All members must be able to practice 5-6 p.m. Tuesdays and 4-6 p.m. Thursdays.

Potential members are judged on their grades, appearance, poise, personality, marching ability and interest in AFOTC.

Two members of Angel Flight and two members of Arnold Air Society will judge the preliminary tryouts. Finalists will be interviewed by the entire group.

Angel Flight activities for the year include appearances at the Homecoming parade, the Dad's Day game, and freshman games. They will also participate in the area drill meet, won by the Tech flight the past three years.

Later during the year, the drill team will be guests of the Air Force Academy in Colorado Springs, Col., and they will also attend the National Conclave in Denver.

Officers for this year are Carolyn Wood, commander; Kay Haldy, drill commander; Jane Loughmiller, secretary; Sheila Helbing, treasurer, Betty Newby, AWS, and Johnnie Lu Raborn, publicity.

Library Sets Copy Fee

Tech students will be charged five cents a page for using the Xerox copier this year, according to James Platz, associate librarian.

The Xerox machine is capable of making photostatic copies of pages from books and magazines, and is especially good for copying charts, maps, columns of figures, and statistics.

Because the Xerox copier was an experimental machine during its first year at Tech, students were not charged for using it. The library personnel wanted to be sure that it was a worthwhile investment to make, as these machines are rented. On Sept. 23, 380,028 pages had been copied by the machine, costing five cents a page.

To save mutilation and abuse of the machine, such as copying entire books, a charge of five cents has been added for each copy made by a student. At times over 20 people waited in line to use the copier.

Clear, sharp, reproductions come from the machine. The copy is an exact facsimile which does not smear or fade.

On Test Ban Treaty

U.S. Uses Caution

The Senate's 80 to 19 ratification Tuesday of the nuclear test ban treaty proved that this country's two powerful political parties can work together with non-partisanship when the nation's best interests are at stake.

All proposed amendments to the resolution were crushed by the Senate Monday, but the legislators approved a preamble to the resolution declaring that any amendments to this or other treaties must be submitted by the President to the Senate for ratification.

The participation of the U. S. in this agreement is a cautious step toward peace, since we realize that the Soviet Union has broken other agreements with this country.

However, being a nation based on democratic principles, the U. S. must be optimistic in its hope for world peace and take action to promote international amity whenever possible.

If this country had declined to endorse the treaty, the 102 nations who have signed the agreement would have questioned the peace-seeking motives of the U. S.

However, the official approval of the agreement is just a beginning. Now the U. S. must do all it can to see that the treaty achieves its purpose.

If the second primary aim of the treaty—to stop the increase in radioactive fallout—is to be achieved, the big three nuclear powers, the U. S., Russia and Great Britain, must conduct only nuclear underground testing as denoted in the agreement.

With vigilance, the U. S. should take every possible means to be certain the Soviet Union is observing the no-atmospheric, no-underwater nuclear testing specifications.

Salute To John Connally

Higher Education Aid

"Education" — the area of state government which commanded more space than any other subject, in the written platform of Gov. John Connally, has taken making great strides since the 37th governor took the reins of Texas government in January of 1963.

GOV. CONNALLY HAS said his aim is to "attract to Texas colleges and universities more professors of pre-eminence and national reputation, and provide them with adequate research facilities . . . raise the level of excellence in our graduate schools . . . form a citizens' commission to study the role and scope of public junior colleges . . ."

OTHER ITEMS

These are only a few of the 11 major items dealing with education that the governor listed in his platform. And he not only advocated these things during his gubernatorial campaign, he has taken actions to back up his proposals.

TEXAS' COLLEGES and universities should salute this statesman for the stands he has taken for higher education.

Shortly after taking office, Connally set up a special Governor's Committee on Education Beyond the High School Level. This temporary body will study Texas higher education — state supported and denominational — and report its findings and recommendations in August of 1964.

The politician not only has backed the colleges appropriations bill, he has also fought for it.

In a television speech, "Bricks vs. Brains," the governor pointed out areas where the Texas budget could be cut, in order to allow for more money for higher education.

AFTER BOTH HOUSES passed a $33 million tax bill, with many of the legislators voting for it expressly because of the needs of higher education, the Conference Committee used substantial proportions in other areas, rather than on the governor's recommendations for higher education, according to Reed Quilliam, state representative from Lubbock.

ACTION OPPOSED

The governor publicly opposed this action and asserted that he was considering calling a special session of the legislature to reconsider the matter, since the Texas lawmakers do not reconvene until the spring of 1965.

Whether or not Connally decides to take this action remains to be seen this year. We hope he does.

THE COMMITTEE OF the Governing boards of State Colleges and Universities is scheduled to meet with Gov. Connally Monday in Austin. Possibly the question of a special session will be discussed.

Gov. Connally has said, "You shouldn't spend a penny unless you spend it wisely and well, nor a penny you haven't earned or surely will earn."

But he believes there is hard economic logic behind this new emphasis on education.

The influx of new industries needs "laboratories as well as labor, technicians as well as trade outlets, brainpower along with electric power. ! If Texas is to attract new industry, it must offer an educational climate that is at least as appealing as the God-given advantages of the past.

"BRIGHT MINDS are now more important than a bright sun and basic raw materials to the jet-oriented industries of today," as was pointed out in an issue of "Texas Parade."

The development of Texas' native intelligence will be achieved only by the upgrading of our universities and colleges.

RAISE STANDARDS

The DAILY TOREADOR believes Gov. Connally has dedicated himself to this purpose and is standing behind the promises he made to raise Texas' standards of education and give colleges and universities the opportunities to better themselves.

Last winter the governor came to Texas Tech to look over the recommendations by the park research team for the renovation and development of Texas parks and recreation areas.

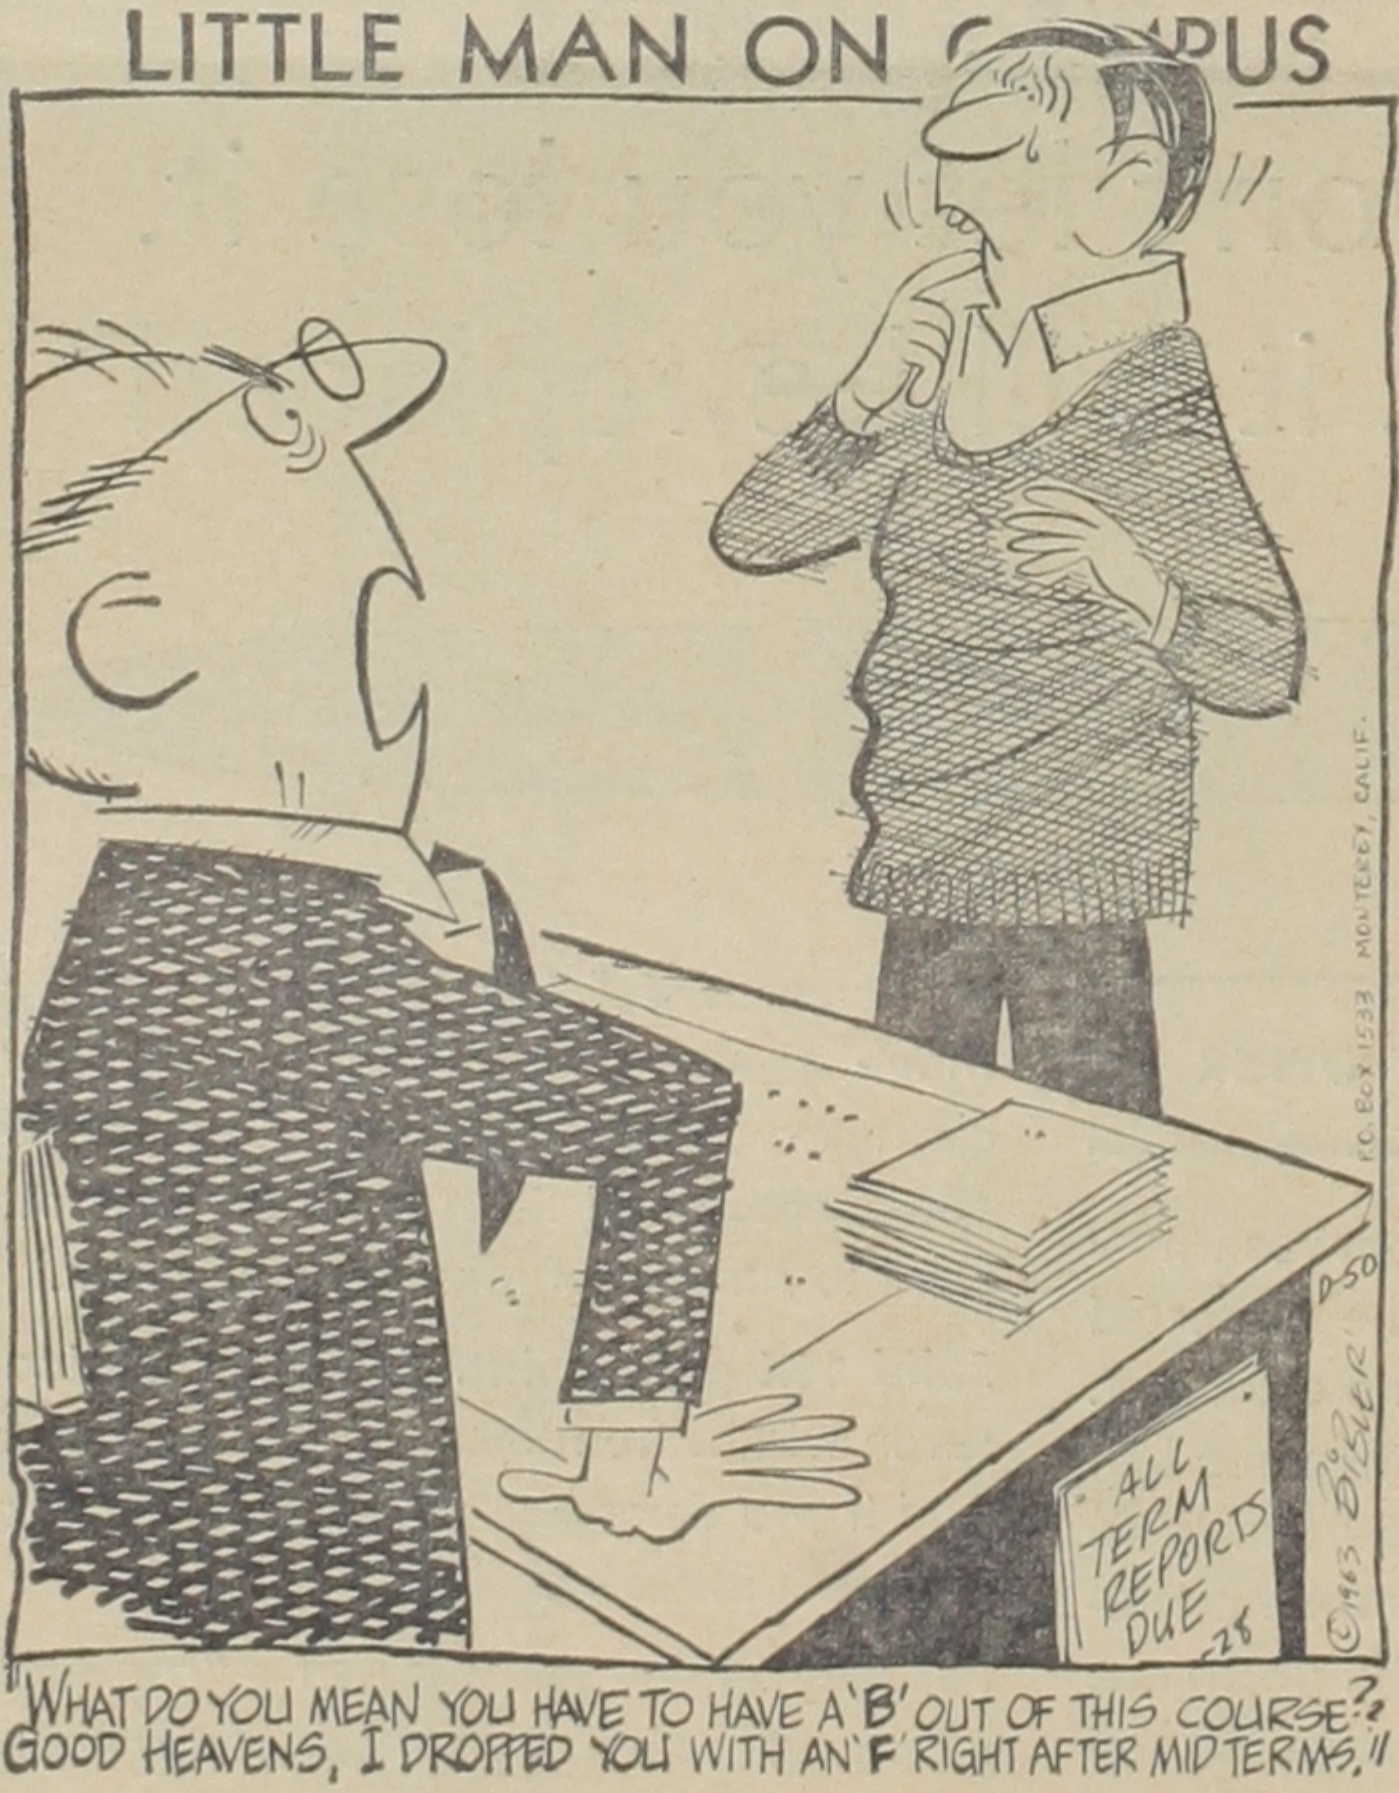

CONNALLY PRAISED the research that had been done in this area, and he showed competent background knowledge of the project. So the governor was interested, informed and impressive.

"Gov. Connally is probably the most pro-higher education governor Texas ever has had," M. L. Pennington, Tech's vice president in charge of business affairs, said Tuesday.

And just as the Texas helmsman has shown personal interest in Tech, so has he in the state's other colleges and universities.

Gov. Connally wants a better Texas and has said that one of the major steps in realizing this aim, is to improve higher education.

Pen-Knife Plus Razor Equals Fancy Figures

To the few of us in these parts who have nothing to do but sit and play bridge between classes, the Museum has introduced a new pastime—whittling.

"Western Characters," an exhibit created by A. A. Gieger of Houston and the late H. S. Andy Anderson of Santa Fe, demonstrates what can be done with a pen-knife and a straight-edged razor. The exhibit consists of about 15 figures portraying some of the wildest-looking characters the Southwest has produced.

Parker Wins Socony Award

Johnnie Neal Parker, petroleum engineering major from Farwell, has been awarded a Socony Mobil Oil Company scholarship for the 1963-64 school year.

The purpose of this scholarship is to encourage, assist and recognize students in fields of study directly related to the petroleum industry.

Academic standing, leadership, character, and sincerity of purpose were primary considerations in making the scholarship award.

Anderson and Gieger have turned into a profitable trade a pastime once reserved for tobacco-chewing old men. Several of Gieger's figures are on sale ranging in price from $70 to over $260. Anderson's figures are estimated to rise in value as his reputation grows.

The characters themselves are mostly just plain or plainer-than-plain folks in all sorts of comic life situations. They are horse-faced and broad-nosed, uncouth and grotesque but have most expressive faces. Detail and color are exact in every one.

Each group of characters has a quality of its own. "The Bar" consists of several pot-bellied cowboys and a female bar-fly lined in a bar complete with bottles of white mule and brass spittoons.

"The Jury," most detailed of all, is a scene out of the days of Judge Roy Bean and law west of the Pecos. Judge Bean, in a black stove pipe hat, naturally, presides over a jury—and what a jury.

In sharp detail Anderson gives an eloquent-looking Indian, a cigarillo-rolling cowboy, a blind beggar, and two of the ugliest women ever made.

The exhibit will continue until Oct. 27.

Chiropractors Donate $500 For Scholarship

The Texas State Chiropractic Association is offering a $500 scholarship for chiropractic study. Dr. A. F. Veau of Marshall, chairman of the education committee, announced the scholarship this week. "Candidates must be residents of Texas and high school graduates, preferably those who have completed two years of college work," said Dr. Veau.

Dr. Veau said the scholarship offer should interest students proficient in anatomy, physiology, chemistry, bacteriology, pathology, hygiene and public health. He pointed out that these "basic science" subjects are prerequisite to the granting of a chiropractic license.

Chiropractic courses, under terms of the scholarship, would be studied at Texas Chiropractic College in San Antonio. Students lacking any of the basic courses could obtain them simultaneously at adjoining San Antonio College.

Application forms can be obtained by writing Dr. Veau, 407 North Lafayette, Marshall. They will be accepted until Dec. 1. Anyone interested in additional information about the scholarship may write Dr. Veau.

Of Russian Integrity

Poll Reflects Doubt

Opinions on Tech campus were varied concerning Senate ratification of the limited nuclear test ban treaty yesterday. Although most students were for the ultimate aim of the treaty, almost all doubted that Russia would live up to the agreement.

Ann Courtney - Andrews sophomore-liberal arts: I am for the treaty if it will stop the testing completely.

Bill Dunn - Sanderson junior - engineering:

I am against the treaty because Red China is not bound to observe the pact. Although they do not now have nuclear capabilities, they will probably develop them in a few years. The treaty is worth it now, however, if both Russia and the United States will observe it.

Bob Nieman - Morton sophomore liberal arts:

I am not really familiar with it, but I am for it because I think we can detect a great deal of testing above ground. If Russia does start testing, however, the United States should go ahead with its tests. It would place us in a bad light even then if we had to break the treaty.

Larry Wilson - Pasadena sophomore:

I'm for it because I believe it would have been used as propaganda by countries fighting us in the cold war if we had not ratified the treaty.

Mary Behrends - Dimmitt junior - home economics education:

I hope it works because our relations and dealings with certain countries for the past few years have not been on the up-and-up. I hope that all countries can live up to the standards set up by the treaty and that the people of the world are willing to give it a chance.

John Sampsel - graduate student:

As the treaty stands, it will probably not do much good. We must have on-site inspections for a real test ban.

Jim Stone - Lubbock sophomore

Royal Furgeson - Lubbock senior

pre-law: I hopefully feel it is a step in the right direction for world peace. Ratification was a move dictated by world opinion, although I think we are taking a big chance in trusting Russia completely.

Beverly Callison - Dallas freshman - secretarial administration: If it will stop the world from being blown up, it will be o.k.

Jake Angle - Lubbock senior -

I am for the treaty because there was a definite moral question involved that could be correctly answered only by ratification.

engineering:

I am against the treaty because I don't believe the government has told us all of the facts about it. I don't think it is in the best interest of national defense.

IE Profs Attend Conference

Two Tech professors are in New York City this week attending an international conference of industrial engineers.

Dr. Erwin R. Tichauer of Tech spoke Monday afternoon about the utilization of industrial engineering techniques in primitive countries.

Dr. Richard Dudek participated in a panel discussion Monday concerning the industrial engineer and his home.

Both men are professors of industrial engineering at Tech.

Seventy-five representatives from underdeveloped nations are attending the conference, along with several thousand other industrial engineering experts from throughout the free world.

The conference is the first of its scope held in the U. S. in the past 25 years.

Choral Reading Class Offered

Tech speech department offers a Choral Reading Class this semester.

The class consists of individuals learning to read together as a group in order to sound as one voice. The class will be working with both prose and poetry readings and expects to perform for the first time before Christmas.

Although the class met for the first time Monday with 15 students present, Mrs. Vera Simpson, speech assistant, expects that many more will soon enroll.

The class may be taken as a one hour credit course or as a non-credit course. However, to enroll one must be taking Speech 319.

The class will be meeting on Monday and Wednesday from 4-5 p.m.

Parks May Topple '59 Tech Record

David Parks, at the pace he set against Washington State, could break still another Texas Tech receiving record held by Bake Turner, now a New York Jet.

If Parks can average 55 yards receiving per contest (as he made on four catches in the Raiders' 16-7 win), he'll easily surpass the school record of 444 yards gained in a single season. Turner amassed that total in 1959.

Needed 39 Yards

Parks entered the Washington State game needing 39 yards to tie the career mark for yards netted receiving — 647 — established by Turner in three seasons, 1959-61. Parks' mark is now 663 with nine games to go.

Prior to Saturday night Parks had already written his name into the Tech record book under three headings: passes caught in a season — 32; passes caught in a career — 48 (now 53); interception return — 98 yards against Colorado last season.

Lubbock's Avalanche - Journal named Parks as the outstanding lineman of the game after the Saturday skirmish with WSU.

Names Daniels

The Avalanche - Journal also named fullback H. L. Daniels as the outstanding back, in lieu of his three field goals and 10-point total for the game.

The Journal said, "The 6-2, 290-pound all-Southwest Conference end had an outstanding game, catching four passes for 55 yards and showing up great on defense."

In addition to the records Parks already holds and the one he set Saturday night, Daniels tied his own record for three field goals in a game.

Parks won in close balloting over end Jerry Don Balch and Charles Gladson.

Billy Weise and Donny Anderson were Daniels' main competitors in the backfield competition.

Tech Retains Underdog Role

Texas Tech, with a surprise win under its belt, resumes the underdog role against the University of Texas in Austin Saturday night.

University of Texas, defending Southwest Conference champion, returns 28 lettermen from the team that trounced the Red Raiders 34-0 in Lubbock last year.

Following the clash in Austin the Red Raiders take up a home stand with three consecutive Southwest Conference games in Jones Stadium. The Raiders will be hosts to Texas A&M Oct. 5, Texas Christian Oct. 12 and Baylor Oct. 19. All are night games.

Leggett Moves Up To Baylor Center

WACO (P) — Squadman Curtis Leggett, a former quarterback, was installed at center for Baylor Monday.

Leggett replaces letterman Weldon Price.

Gwinn Corley, letterman fullback who moved to end a week ago, was assigned to the No. 1 offensive unit at right end. He replaced Ken Hodge, who injured a knee in a scrimmage last week.

Hodge is a doubtful participant in Saturday's opener with Houston.
