

It's Election Day —

'Rough' Campaign Will Close At Last

WASHINGTON (AP) — The sound and fury of what has been called the most bitter presidential campaign in modern times ended with a final burst of oratory Monday night — and with all polls forecasting a victory for President Johnson.

Many of the polls estimate it will be a Johnson landslide rivaling Franklin D. Roosevelt's victory in 1936. But the President's Republican rival, Sen. Barry Goldwater, says he doesn't believe the polls and is predicting the "upset of the century."

His lieutenants say they see a chance of carrying every state except Massachusetts, Connecticut, Rhode Island, Alaska and Hawaii.

Not On Ballot

Johnson's aides, however, have given up hope only on Mississippi and Alabama, a state where Johnson's name isn't even on the ballot.

Beginning at one minute after midnight in some New England towns, an estimated 71 million Americans — a record number — will deliver their verdict in the presidential race — and also choose 25 governors, 435 House Members and 35 senators.

Many of these lesser candidates will rise or fall with the futures of the No. 1 man on their ticket although widespread ticket-splitting is forecast — by Republicans who don't go along with Goldwater's conservative views and by Southerners and others who reject Johnson's civil rights stand.

Ride Easy

But even with ticket-splitting, if Johnson wins on the massive scale predicted by some pollsters, many Democrats may ride into Congress and statehouses on the President's coattails.

And some of these seesaw races have won almost as much national attention as the Johnson-Goldwater battle.

Former Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy is in a tight, tough battle in New York in his effort to oust Republican Kenneth B. Keating from his Senate seat.

Tough Battle

And in California Sen. Pierre Salinger, the late President John F. Kennedy's press secretary, is in just as tough a battle to keep his appointive Senate seat against a challenge by former song-and-dance man George Murphy.

With the deadline only hours away the smoke of battle still hung over the campaign trail as Goldwater, Johnson and Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, the President's running mate, tried to corral a few more votes.

Texas Politics Blaze Brightly

DALLAS (AP) — The national election campaign, with roots sinking deep into the Lone Star state, closed Monday night as an expected 2.5 million Texans made ready to ballot.

Although attention centered on the presidential show, Texans found a major battle flaring over a U.S. Senate seat. Also at issue was the political complexion of the delegation the state will send to the House.

The greatest bitterness of the campaign arose between Democrat Ralph Yarborough, seeking reelection to the U.S. Senate, and his Republican opponent, George Bush.

Sen. Yarborough, supporting issues considered liberal, attacked Bush on many points, including the claim — denied by Bush — that the Houston off-shore oil drilling executive was an oil importer.

Bush pegged his campaign to conservatism, and sought to make an issue of Yarborough's one-time support by Billie Sol Estes, the bankrupt promoter now appealing sentences of 23 years in prison.

Gov. John Connally, a Democrat, is seeking his second term. Polls show him leading the Republican gubernatorial candidate, Jack Crichton of Dallas.

NEW STICKERS — Jane Edwards, left, Lubbock sophomore, and Andy Welch, Houston sophomore, are putting new "Texas State University" stickers on their car. The new stickers were printed by the Joint Name-Change Committee and are available at the Episcopal Student Center, 2407 16th St., today at noon and 7 p.m. to anyone desiring one.

Joint Committee Designs Stickers

Windshield and bumper stickers bearing "Texas State University" will be distributed at two public meetings of the Joint Name-Change Committee at noon and 7 p.m. today at the Episcopal Student Center, Seaman Hall.

The stickers are red and black and feature the "Double T," Tech's traditional symbol, in the spelling of Texas.

Further plans of the committee's campaign to secure general agreement among all interested groups on a suitable name and to persuade the Board of Directors to submit this name to the legislature will be announced today.

The committee believes that the "Double T" should be retained as the trademark of the college and has heard no objections "... to the continued use of 'Texas Tech' as the popular nickname."

Russell Bean, committee chairman, says action taken during the next two weeks will determine whether agreement can be reached on a beneficial name change for submission to the next legislature or will remain in stalemate another two years.

According to Bean, the substantial points under consideration are as follows:

- The contradictory use of the terms "Tech" or "Technological" with "University."
- The position of the alumni on the name-change issue.
- The possibility of general agreement.

Bean said the use of the term "Tech" in the name "would downgrade the school with connotation of a technical high school, trade school or technological college."

Bean also said, "Though our supporters overwhelmingly favor 'Texas State University,' we do not want to close the door to other possibilities."

Mock Election Gets Comment

Glen Looney, member of the national Young Americans for Goldwater steering committee, and Tech's Young Democrats president, James Simpson, made political comments concerning the outcome of the Phi Mu-sponsored mock election Friday.

Looney said, "Results of this election clearly demonstrate that the students of this campus endorse the responsible conservatism of the Republican party and Sen. Barry Goldwater."

'Front Lash'

Simpson said, "In spite of the result, Young Democrats have reason to be confident. In 1960 Richard Nixon carried Tech by 20 per cent even though he lost the state; whereas in 1964 Goldwater carried Tech by six per cent.

Republicans dropped 14 per cent in total voting strength. This drop is evidence of the 'front lash' of responsible Republicans from the 'Right-Wing' take-over of the GOP," he said.

Senatorial Races

Looney said, "The overwhelming vote for George Bush for U.S. Senator reflects the tremendous support of his candidacy. Texans reject the ultraliberalism of Ralph Yarborough."

Simpson interpreted Bush's victory as, "...sad for the college. In face of Yarborough's contributions to college students in the form of educational funds, we young Democrats find it amazing that college students would vote against the man who co-authored the National Defense Education Act."

Both parties predict wins from the courthouse to the White House today.

Editor To Speak At BSO Session

The Board of Student Organizations will meet at 5 p.m. today, Joe Murfee, president, said Monday.

Interested persons may attend the meeting in the Tech Union.

Nominations End Today For 'Handsome' Entries

Announcement of skits will be made Nov. 5.

A 5x7 glossy photograph of the nominee must be brought to the Journalism Bldg., room 102, by 5 p.m. today.

According to Carolene English, president of Theta Sigma Phi, women's professional journalism sorority, sponsoring the contest, "Organizations unable to secure a 5x7 photo by today may call Ext. 4252 between 1-4 p.m.

Tech's Most Handsome Man will be elected at Club Scarlet Nov. 14 in the Tech Union Ballroom.

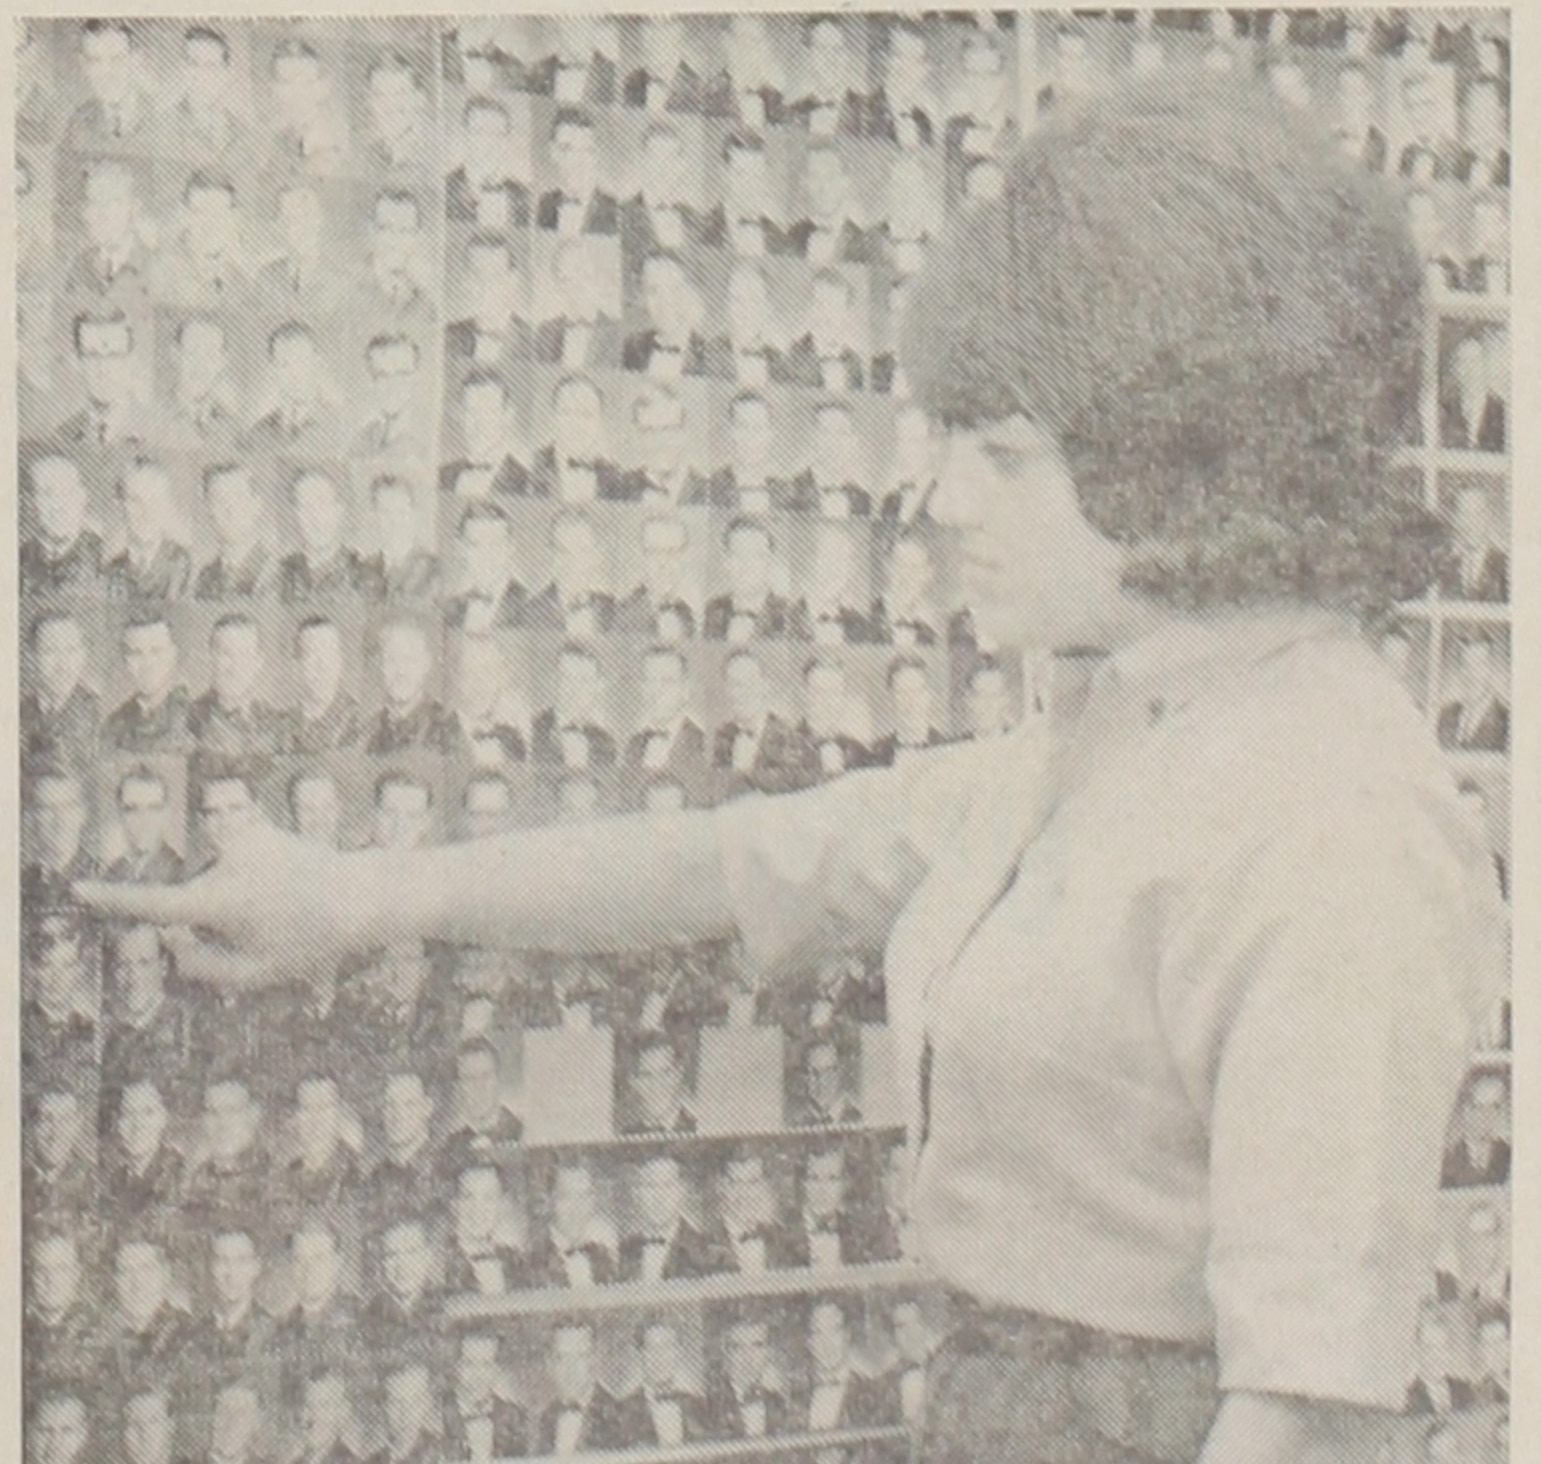

A floor show will be presented by campus organizations who have applied at the Journalism Bldg. by 5 p.m. today.

John Drollinger, was elected head cheerleader with 295 votes. The others are Sam Kayem, 206; Jack Sims, 217; Pat Moore, 157; Marcia White, 205; and Donna Schulz, 151.

Elections were conducted in the Tech Union Ballroom from 2:30-5 p.m., with 46 candidates trying out. Only those attending tryouts were eligible to vote.

EENEY MEENEY MINEY MO — Marcie White, Lubbock freshman, one of the newly elected freshman cheerleaders, comes up with her choice for Tech's Most Handsome Man from the thousands on campus. Today is the deadline for skit and candidate entries for Theta Sigma Phi's Club Scarlet, annual mock nightclub.

HE Goes To Meet

Fifteen to 20 members of the Tech Home Economics Club will attend the college workshop of the American Home Economist Assn. in Austin Friday and Saturday.

A highlight of the trip will be the selection of this year's State Home Economist. Lynn McElroy, from Lubbock, is Tech's bid for the honor.

The Tech organization, with 205 members, is the largest chapter represented.

UA Debaters Win Trophy At Tech Meet

The University of Arizona won the sweepstakes trophy at Texas Tech's Fall Forensic Festival last weekend. Abilene Christian College won senior men's debate and the University of New Mexico won senior women's debate.

At the end of the preliminary debate rounds, Tech had scored 55 sweepstakes points and Arizona University had scored 50. Tech debaters Hal Upchurch, Kermit junior, and Bruce Roberson, Lubbock junior, went through the preliminary rounds undefeated, and beat Abilene.

Not Eligible

However, Tech debaters were not eligible to go into the finals.

At the Tech tournament last year Tommy Watt and Mike McKinney won senior men's championship. Debate coach James Robbins decided to eliminate Tech students from the finals this year. He said, "Too many Tech people judge the final rounds, and I don't feel that is a good policy to have Tech students win the trophies at their own tournament."

Preliminary Rounds

Hac Brummett, Lubbock senior, and Tom Ramey, Ft. Irwin, Calif., senior, went undefeated in preliminary debate rounds. The teams of Nan Todd and Joe Jackson, Minnie Hogan and Melanie Reno and David Bradley and Gary Frazier each had 3-1 records in preliminary debate.

In individual speaking Tech students took five top ratings.

Viet Cong Rate A-Plus In Raid

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — U.S. military sources grudgingly gave the Communist Viet Cong an A-plus grade Monday for the daring mortar raid against American planes and personnel at the Bien Hoa base.

A force of about two Vietnamese battalions sent in pursuit of the raiders returned empty-handed. It appeared that, despite the base's overwhelming ground strength and a counter-attack by air, the Viet Cong pulled off the mission Sunday without a casualty.

Inside the base, 18 miles northeast of Saigon, the mortar shells killed four U.S. Army men and wounded 31 other Americans. Two Vietnamese air force men were killed and two wounded. Twenty-seven aircraft, including 20 B57 light jet bombers, were destroyed or damaged.

It's nice to be back.

Returning to a position you've held before is like going back to a place you once loved — provided you liked the position in the first place. It's warm and comfortable. And if the job has been held by a very able predecessor, there's a little bonus—a challenge.

And so we have returned with a familiar column, a good fine arts staff, and a year of seasoning away from Tech.

Tech has changed a lot, as far as fine arts go. There's the new theater — a joy to behold and a wonderful surprise to one who remembers when plays were presented in a building only slightly larger than a closet.

There's the jam sessions in the union. The Walter Marlin trio, possibly one of the best groups around Lubbock, has turned the Union into a Mecca for jazz fans. It only takes one trip to the Union on a Tuesday afternoon to realize that jazz is becoming an important part of music at Tech—you can see it in the faces of people watching, in the tapping feet, and in the crowd that jams the doorway.

There is Civic Lubbock, which brings outstanding plays to the Auditorium, and which, this year, has a lineup that includes "Oliver" and many other hits. And there's the Lubbock Theatre Center, which is opening "Anniversary Waltz" Thursday.

Radio has improved — If you don't think so, listen to Artie Shaw's "After Hour's" on KLBK some evening.

But best of all, there is an increasing awareness of the importance of fine arts at Tech. The Music Dept. plan to bring top artists to Lubbock shows this. So do the editorials urging more and better speakers.

We'll try to keep apace of this growth. Drama, arts, books, records, movies, radio and TV will come in for a fair share of attention on these pages, as we try to keep one jump ahead of activities slated in the fine arts area.

Sure, it's a challenge.

But it's nice to be back.

Carvings On Exhibit

Wood carvings by Willard Stone, a 48-year-old sculptor of Cherokee ancestry, will be on exhibit until Nov. 15 in the West Texas Museum.

Stone's sculptures were displayed in the Kennedy Art Gallery in New York in 1962, and his fame has been growing since. His exhibition appeared at the New York World's Fair last summer.

Born in Oktaha, Muskogee County, Okla., in 1916, Stone studied art for three years at Bacone College in Muskogee under the direction of the late Acee Blue Eagle and Woody Crumbo.

Collectors in 36 states own his sculpture, as well as museums, both here and abroad.

Among those carvings on display in the West Texas Museum are "Unity of Purpose," "Oklahoma Congressman," "Rhythm in Action," "Part of Creation," "Follow the Wind," "Scooped Up," "Wrapped in Sackcloth," "Gar Fish," "Seminole Brave," "Seminole Woman," "Osceola, Seminole Chief," "Commanding Respect,"

"Our Children's Children," and "Bashful Linnie and Sugar."

Also on display until Nov. 15 at the West Texas Museum is a watercolor exhibit by Phil Dike, painter, illustrator, muralist, ceramist and associate professor of art at Scripps College in Southern California.

Dikes' paintings are being sponsored by the West Texas Watercolor Assn. a group of local artists whose water colors are now hanging in the Art Gallery.

Voice Of The People

Today, Then Tomorrow

IF THE POLLISTERS ARE RIGHT, the election today is an anti-climax to the presidential campaign.

Only in the Texas senatorial race are the results uncertain, and the pollsters are baffled. Perhaps, they say, George Bush has the slight edge. But they quickly add that a sweeping Johnson victory could carry many Democratic candidates who are "in trouble."

The pollsters say Johnson will win or Goldwater will lose, whichever way you look at it. And we guess they are right.

By this time most Techsians have voted by absentee and those who will vote in Lubock today have made up their minds also. Now it's just the formality.

According to newspaper editors across the country, the concensus is this:

	States	Electoral	Votes
GOLDWATER	8	68
JOHNSON	38*	440*
EVEN RACE	3	23
NO FORECAST	2	7
Totals	51*	538*

* Includes District of Columbia.

According to Gallup, Johnson will carry 64 per cent of the popuar vote and Goldwater 36 per cent.

Some persons are talking about a Dewey situation occurring today, but people have been talking about another Dewey election since 1948 and it hasn't happened yet. And there is no reason to believe it will happen today.

The most important thing to begin thinking about now is, what does it all mean? Tomorrow, examine the election returns in that light.

Gary Pullen Is Glad Barry Won

Dear Editor:

Regardless of the outcome of the national election, I am glad Tech voted for Sen. Goldwater.

The election will not mean much to the Young Democrats because everyone voting was not a government or history major. It was not surprising to see the Young Democrats, the "Party of the People," poll only government and history department staff members. Then defend the biased results by taking the position that these departments are the ones qualified to elect our public officials.

Why doesn't the Toreador's great political writer, and Young Democrat, Mike Read, write on the idea of a constitutional amendment to correct our voting laws? Such an amendment might allow only people with government and history degrees to vote.

Possibly the Young Democrats want to allow Harvard graduates with economic degrees to join the select voting group.

Sincerely,
GARY PULLEN

Finance Class Backs Barry, Bush

Dear Editor:

A straw vote was taken in the finance class Monday. Out of 200 students the vote was 59 percent for Goldwater and 81 percent for Bush.

We feel that this is the feeling of the School of Business.

Thank you,
BILL DENNIS

'Easy Solution' Southern Says

Phi Mu Expresses Thanks For Help

Dear Editor:

We feel that the mock election held Friday was very successful and worthwhile because it enabled the students of Texas Tech to express their political attitudes.

Our many thanks go to three groups who backed us in this project.

First we would like to thank the Daily Toreador for all the publicity. Bronson Havard and the staff were most cooperative and the coverage could not have been better.

We also want to express our appreciation to the Student Council for standing behind us in this project.

Finally a big thanks to the student body for turning out in record numbers to vote, and to the Young Democrats and Young Republicans who supported this election and sent representatives during the ballot counting.

Sincerely,
PHI MU SORORITY

Pat Oden Blasts 'Me-Too' Attitude

Dear Editor:

As the political campaign unfolds, one may observe many inconsistencies. A prime example of this inconsistency has occurred at Texas Tech; for the students have witnessed the published endorsement of presidential candidates by our "campus leaders."

The inconsistency comes when one observes closely the nature of these endorsements. First of the Republican side, the Goldwater campus leaders attempt by this listing to "herd" the voters to the poles in a burst of conformity. Contrast this attitude with that of the national Republican of unbridled individualism. These campus leaders are saying vote with us, not because of our ideas, but because of our position.

Even more incredulous in viewing inconsistencies is the Democratic rebuttal. The Democratic party chose not to use the golden weapon of silence which has been used so effectively on the national level, but the weak attitude of "me-too."

The only conclusion that may be drawn is that the Democrats did some hasty rustling up of leaders of LBJ.

The voters decision must be made by viewing the role of ideas in the political context, not by the role of the student leaders within the campus heirarchy.

Surely in the college atmosphere the college voter will not cast his vote on the basis of "which group has the most and the best campus leaders."

WTSU Says—

Shame On You . . .

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The Prairie — the sometimes twice a week — student newspaper at West Texas State University published the following comment on our editorial endorsing Lyndon Johnson. We believe our readers would be amused to read what the Prairie has to say. If this is an example of what it takes to become a university, The Daily Toreador may consider reversing its position on the name change. Incidentally the headline of the page one political story in the Prairie was "Donkeys And Elephants Discuss Current Issues.")

Texas Tech seems to be having its share of problems, and will probably garner a few more.

An editorial in the Daily Toreador, campus newspaper at Tech, on Oct. 20, came out for Lyndon Johnson for President of the United States. The front-page editorial has as its headline, LYNDON JOHNSON BEST FOR OFFICE.

This editorial is full of glowing statements for President Johnson. But why?

With all probability, the writer of this editorial, Bronson Havard, was sitting at a state-owned desk, typing on paper paid for by the taxpayers of this state, using a state-owned typewriter and working on state time.

If not, the paper, ink and printers' time were being paid for by citizens of the State of Texas.

In my personal opinion, it is ridiculous for a student body newspaper to support Lyndon Johnson or, for that matter, Barry Goldwater.

To use state funds in presenting personal views to a student body would be tantamount to being on the brink of idiocy.

Anytime, Mr. Editor, we take it upon ourselves to speak for a student body of 1,000 or 13,000, we are being highly presumptive.

While it is true that "the demand on democracy is too great for us to fail to stand up at this hour and be counted," we must never let ourselves make the statement you did.

Students on the campus of West Texas State University will never see any political views expressed on these pages of the PRAIRIE.

There are perhaps some who would wish to turn this publication into a "political masterpiece" — it will never happen.

We have a story on Page 1 of this issue about the panel discussion of the Democrats and Republicans, but if it is slanted toward one faction or the other, it is most certainly not meant to be.

Never let it be said we have "lukewarm opinions." We are as politically oriented as anyone could be, but we pray to God that our beliefs never back us into a corner as the DAILY TOREADOR has done.

Gesticulations:

Today We Vote Because Of One Important Reason

By JIM T. RICHARDSON

Today we vote . . . not for principles, not on issues, not rationally, perhaps not wisely. But . . . today we vote.

Today we vote—as Dorothy Thompson says in her "cult of personality" concept—for the most charismatic candidate. Or we vote for a "father-image" because we need security.

Today we vote . . . perhaps with no indecision if our parents did a "good" job of indoctrinating us. Or we have no indecision if we have become habituated to voting a certain way.

Today we vote . . . with no indecision if we are a Negro — or a white Mississippian — or a Northern big-city industrial worker — or a munitions plant executive.

Today we vote . . . with some indecision if we "vote for the man, not the party" — for both candidates leave something to be desired.

Today we vote . . . with great indecision if we are a "marginal man" — one caught between two sets of allegiances.

Today we vote . . . and, if we live on the east coast, our vote is more important because we contribute to the "projected voter profile" that will be flashed across the country — even before the polls close in the West.

Today we vote . . . on the west coast after we have seen the "voter profile" — and we decide to vote with the "winner."

Today we vote . . . and the computers already tell how we will vote. So why do we bother?

Because . . . the American with bowed head in the voting booth is still the symbol of freedom throughout the world.

Today we vote . . . because in this troubled world we are still our brother's keeper.

JIM RICHARDSON

The Candidates: Where They Stand

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This story shows by direct quotation where the presidential candidates stand on the leading issues.)

WASHINGTON (AP) — Here are quotations, issue - by - issue, from the thousands of words that Lyndon B. Johnson and Barry M. Goldwater have addressed to the nation this presidential campaign year:

ROLE OF GOVERNMENT

Johnson — "A responsible government will not turn its back on workers whose jobs have been taken over by machines. Will not gaze into the sky while millions of Americans live in poverty... a responsible government is going to put education at the top of our list of unfinished work." (Oct. 15 at Rochester, N.Y.)

Goldwater — "This Democratic administration, no matter how you slice it, wants to pass solutions on to the people from Washington. It is Washington-centered, not state-centered. It is a bureaucracy-centered, not individual-centered. People generally... are coming to recognize the issue involved: free enterprise and balanced government versus a controlled economy and an all-powerful central government..." (Oct. 6 at Washington.)

WAR AND PEACE

Goldwater — "The outright lie that I am trigger happy... the nuclear thing, 'Goldwater will get us into war,' that's the most damaging thing I have run into. But I think that is being overcome by just people stopping to think that no man, particularly no American, is ever going to push the button." (Oct. 12 at Phoenix, Ariz.)

Johnson — "Peace is the most important issue in this campaign... in a world such as this — a nuclear world, there is no room for bluster and bluff and belligerence. There is room only for courage, intelligence and reason." (Oct. 21 at St. Louis.)

CIVIL RIGHTS

Johnson — "We seek to give every American, of every race and color, his full rights under the law." (Sept. 7 at Detroit.)

Goldwater — "If you ever hear me quoted as favoring the right to associate — without favoring the equally vital right not to associate — look again, because somebody will be kidding you." (Oct. 26 at New York.)

MEDICARE

Goldwater — "The Social Security system is not the way to do it effectively. One sure way to wreck the Social Security system would be to saddle it with unnecessary new burdens, such as medicare. We penalize every aged citizen if we thus bankrupt the system." (July 5 statement to The Associated Press.)

Johnson — "Is it asking too much for this bountiful country to prepare a law so that older folks can face illness when it inevitably comes and face it without the chill foreboding of an empty purse or an inadequate insurance policy?" (April 17 at Washington.)

VIET NAM WAR

Johnson — "We will not be worn down. We will not be driven out. We will not be provoked into rashness. But we will continue to meet aggression with firmness and unprovoked attack with measured reply." (Aug. 12 at New York.)

Goldwater — "If I am elected I intend to come to grips with this vital question... The unfortunate fact is that we are at war in South Viet Nam. American boys are fighting and dying in the Asian jungles and it becomes more apparent every day that this administration is drifting — that it has no policy worthy of the name." (Oct. 5 at Washington.)

MORALITY

Goldwater — "Something basic and dangerous is eating away at the morality, dignity, and respect of our citizens — old as well as young, high as well as low... When immorality occurs — and you know this from the study of history — it always starts at the top." (Oct. 20 on television.)

Johnson — "The seemingly insurmountable moral issues that we face at home and abroad today can be resolved by men of strong faith and men of brave deeds... The identity of private morality and public conscience is... deeply rooted in our tradition and Constitution." (March 25 at Washington.)

VIOLENCE

Johnson — "We do not, of course, condone violence or taking the law into your own hands, or threatening the health or safety of our people... We do not think that the violation of one right or the denial of one right should permit the violation of another right." (April 16 at news conference.)

Goldwater — "The growing menace to personal safety, to life, limb, and property, in homes, churches, playgrounds, and places of business, particularly in our great cities, is the mounting concern of every thoughtful citizen. Security from domestic violence, no less than from foreign aggression, is the most elementary and fundamental purpose of any government." (July 14 at San Francisco.)

NUCLEAR CONTROL

Goldwater — "I suggest that the supreme commander of NATO, who is an American officer and probably always will be, have direct command over a NATO nuclear force, trained, ready and equipped, on European soil." (April 14 position statement.)

Johnson — "I believe that the final responsibility for all decisions on nuclear weapons must rest with the civilian head of the government, the president of the United States." (July 24 news conference.)

SOVIET RELATIONS

Johnson — "We must never forget that the men in the Kremlin remain dedicated Communists. A time of trouble among Communists requires steady vigilance among free men — and most of all among Americans. For it is the strength of the United States that holds the balance firm against danger." (Oct. 18 at Washington.)

Goldwater — "The present administration has made the mistake of thinking that 'peaceful coexistence' is the same as 'peace.' And

K's Fall Might Heal Wounds

TOKYO (AP) — Red China called attention Monday to the views of a leading foreign Communist who raised the possibility that Nikita Khrushchev's fall could result in a new approach between China and the Soviet Union. He said "many difficulties and obstacles" must still be overcome, however.

Peking newspapers quoted D. N. Aidit, head of Indonesia's big Communist party, that Khrushchev's departure was "a good thing for the Soviet Communist party, for the international Communist movement and also for the emerging forces because a cleavage within the international Communist movement may affect these forces."

The official New China News Agency said the new Soviet rulers had expressed hope for "Solidarity" between the Soviets and the Chinese.

Indonesia's Communist party, the third largest in the world, has supported the hard-line policies of the Red Chinese.

it has made the mistake of trying to distinguish different kinds of communism and of supporting some and not others. It has ignored the fact that all Communists agree on the same goal — a Communist - dominated world." (Oct. 12 at Washington.)

CUBA-LATIN AMERICA

Goldwater — "We have failed to prevent Communist Cuba from exporting arms, propaganda, and saboteurs throughout Latin America... Many Latin-American nations have expressed a willingness to support action against Castro before it is too late. But there has been no leadership from the present administration." (April 14 position statement.)

Johnson — "The use of Cuba as a base for subversion and terror is an obstacle to our hopes for the hemisphere. Our first task must be, as it has been, to isolate Cuba from the inter-American system, frustrate its efforts to destroy free governments and expose to all to see the ugliness of communism. That policy is working." (April 20 at New York.)

AGRICULTURE

Johnson — "The agricultural commodity programs developed during the past 33 years have served us well... but they are in need of improvement." (Jan. 31 message to Congress.)

Goldwater — "Most of our farm ills have been the product of government price-fixing." (May 25 at Redding, Calif.)

Rice Battles To Hold 6-6 Tie

Raiders Not Ashamed, But Feel Should Have Won

By DAVID SNYDER
Sports Staff

Most of the Red Raiders weren't too pleased with their showing in the Rice game Saturday, but were a long way from being ashamed. The general attitude was that they should have won. The dressing room was quiet like a losing one, but it was obvious that they hadn't lost. With nothing to be particularly glad about, and nothing to be particularly sad about, it was just so-so.

"You've got to be disappointed when you don't win," said head coach J T King, "but we're well pleased with the effort. They were putting out 150 per cent out there."

King said the Raiders played well enough to win, but that penalties hurt them, stressing that the officiating was not at fault. The Rice touchdown came on a defensive stunt. "It was just one of those things," he said.

Athletic Director Polk Robison said the Raiders were unfortunate in not winning and that Tech did a great job of overcoming bad breaks.

"I don't think we lost any face Saturday," said Robison, in obvious reference to both the team and band's showing on regional television which covered 14 states and took in such cities as Chicago, St. Louis and Kansas City. Only 25,000 were at the game, but millions more were watching from their homes.

The hot weather bothered the Raiders to start with since it was their first afternoon game. This was offset, however, by 16 delays in the game for TV commercials.

Kenneth Gill, who kicked two field goals for all the Raider points, said the last kick just didn't feel right. "It sure scared me," he said, but the ball sailed on through to gain the tie.

Quarterback Tom Wilson was pleased with the way the Raiders moved the ball, but said they should have scored more. They played a good game, he felt, because they "had to."

"Rice had a good club," Wilson said, adding that linebackers Russell Wyatt and Malcolm Walker hit him especially hard. As for the Raider success in the passing game, he said the game plan was to pass quite a bit.

Captain Jerry Don Balch, who recovered the Owl fumble that led to the tying field goal, said bad breaks and penalties kept the Raiders in a hole. When the Owls fumbled on a double-reverse hand-off in the final quarter, Balch was crashing from his defensive end position. "I just sort of stumbled onto it," he said.

Halfback Donny Anderson, who had Rice linebacker Russell Wyatt following him like a shadow all afternoon, thought the hot weather bothered them in the first quarter. "A couple of times, there was just one man left — I should have been gone," he said, referring to the second half-kick-off.

Johnny Agan revealed the reason the Raiders were making good running yardage. "They were going with the play," he said, "and we just cut back over the middle."

The Raiders meet West Texas State next Saturday night. They close out the season with a three game home stand. "We can't afford a letdown," said King. "They're going to be ready for us. They always are."

Obviously, he was thinking of the W.T. game two years ago, when the Buffaloes came to Jones Stadium ready to play and returned with a 30-27 victory.

HOUSTON — The Rice Owls caught the Texas Tech defense stunting when it should have been staying on the first play of the game here Saturday afternoon, turned the quirk of fate into an 81-yard touchdown run, and then somehow held on by the skin of their teeth to preserve a 6-6 tie with the Red Raiders.

Tailback Gene Fleming broke open over his right tackle in an area vacated by a Tech linebacker, then utilized his speed to outrun all hopeful Tech tacklers. That, however, was about all the offensive attack Rice could muster.

Two Field Goals

Kenneth Gill booted a couple of field goals for Tech in the second half, both better than 30 yards, to ring up the Raiders' six points. Another attempt from 37 yards out in the first quarter was blocked by linebacker Russell Wyatt.

It was a frustrating day for Rice kicking specialist Larry Rice. He missed the extra point which eventually cost the Owls a victory, missed a 37-yard field goal and had another try voided because of a fumbled snap.

Prestige Only Salvation

The tie isn't much better than a loss in Southwest Conference annals, but it does give the Raiders a certain amount of prestige since they entered the regionally televised game as seven point underdogs.

The Raiders completely dominated the game from every standpoint except the big one — the scoreboard. They racked up 20 first downs to Rice's six; amassed 297 yards to 198 for the Owls; and ran 84 plays compared to 52 for Rice.

But Tech couldn't carry it in for a score, as they constantly met up with a Rice defense that got tough when it needed to, as well as a rash of their own miscues.

Two pass interceptions, two lost fumbles and several penalties that came at the wrong times halted at least six Raider drives. Penalties hurt the Owls considerably, too.

Neely, McReynolds Absent

Rice was playing for the first time in 25 years without the services of head coach Jess Neely, who was bed-ridden with a respiratory ailment. The Rice mentor watched the game on television, however, and still managed a third quarter telephone call to a press-box scout to relay information.

Quarterback Walter McReynolds was also missing from the Owl attack, apparently sidelined with an ankle injury suffered against Texas. The senior two-year letterman served as a tri-captain for the pre-game coin flip, was introduced on television as a starter, and then retired to the sideline for the remainder of the day.

Yankee Pitcher Slates Surgery

NEW YORK (AP) — Pitcher Whitey Ford of the New York Yankees will undergo a shoulder operation Nov. 9 at St. Luke's Hospital in Houston, the club announced Monday.

The operation was recommended by physicians at Lennox Hill Hospital, where Ford underwent examination of his shoulder. He was released Monday.

Ford's ailment was described as material blockage of his left shoulder.

The Houston operation will be performed by Dr. Denton Cooley of Houston, assisted by Dr. Martin Schulman of Great Neck, N.Y.

Dallas Group Fetes Anderson

Tech halfback Donny Anderson has been selected Southwest Conference athlete of the month for September. The Greater Dallas Southwest Conference Lettermen's Assn. will honor him with a dinner Nov. 9.

Anderson last week surpassed his 1963 rushing total and ran his year's total to 625 yards for seven games. Prior to the Rice game, he rated fourth in the nation in rushing.

— KING TELLS RED RAIDER CLUB —

West Texas Will Be Tough Foe

Texas Tech head coach J T King told members of the Red Raider Club at their Monday luncheon that the Raiders were "disappointed" after not winning the Rice game, but that they would play one of their better games this Saturday against West Texas because they "would have to."

"They (West Texas) have size, speed and maturity," King said. "And more than that, they would rather beat Tech than any other team. It'll take an all-out effort to win it," he said.

Freshman coach Berl Huffman, who scouted the Buffaloes against San Jose State Saturday night, had nothing but praise for the West Texas group. "Right now, they've got a potent outfit," he said.

Huffman stressed the maturity of the Buffaloes, saying their average age is 23-24 while Tech's is less than 21. Most of the Buffs are junior college transfers.

Fullback Russell Munday, who has been compared to Jimmy

Brown of the Cleveland Browns, is the mainstay of their offense, Huffman said. But the Buffaloes also have two 9.7 halfbacks and a couple of monster tackles (6-5, 6-7, both 235).

West Texas has used a little bit of everything in their offense to gain their 4-3 record, he said, and they stunt defensive, as much as SMU did.

"West Texas is talented, has a good squad, and wants to win," Huffman concluded. "We've got a task on our hands, there's no doubt about it!"

As for the Rice game, King said the Raiders thought they could win when they left Lubbock. "The thing that's frightening," he said, "and makes a coach lose sleep, is how a team can play so good and still wind up with a tie."

He said it was key defensive plays by Rice on crucial third down plays that kept the Raiders from winning. Also, it had rained in Houston the Monday prior to the game, and the north end of the field was muddy. This hurt the Raiders, especially Donny Anderson.

"That field was no place for friendly folks," said King, referring to the hard-hitting game, adding he was particularly pleased with the Raider defense.

King singled out captain-linebacker C. C. Willis, who chalked up 22 tackles, as the "unsung hero" of the Raiders. "C. C. has outplayed every linebacker we've played against this year, and it's still doubtful that he will receive much recognition."

He also cited quarterback Tom Wilson, saying he did one of the finest jobs of play-calling he had ever seen.

It had been the Raiders' game plan to pass and run wide, he said. Ten of the Raiders 13 completions came on second down, and 15 pass plays were called that never even materialized.

Freshman coach Huffman also reported to the group on the Picador's victory over the Rice Owlets.

"Actually, we thought they all looked pretty good," he said, as the Pies played four complete units. "They're improving all along."

The Picadors made themselves go the hard way, though, he said in reference to their five fumbles. "They were tackling the ball, but we were just careless. We've got to work on that."

The Pies meet the Red Shirts Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in Jones Stadium.

Rice Battles To Hold 6-6 Tie As Raiders Dominate Game

Sophomore Mickey Holder replaced McReynolds, and the Owl passing game suffered considerably because of it. He hit but five of 18 passes for 40 yards. McReynolds rates third in the conference in passing.

The Raider pass defense may have had something to do with it, though, as they batted down seven passes in their best showing by far of the year, even though they failed to intercept a pass.

C. C. Willis, as usual, stood out at his linebacker post with 18 tackles. Marc Bryant and John Carrell anchored the defensive line, as did Robert Yancer and Teddy Roberts in the secondary.

Anderson Leads Offense

Halfback Donny Anderson led the Raider offense as he continued his assault on statistics. He collected 71 yards rushing (3.3 average) and added 72 more yards via pass receptions. That pushed his season's total rushing yardage to 625 — better than his entire total last season.

Quarterback Tom Wilson completed 13 of 22 passes for 146 yards as he kept the Rice defense confused with heads-up play calling. Halfback Johnny Agan rushed for 59 yards.

The Raiders completely dominated the first quarter, running 24 plays to 9 for Rice. The Owls' only first down was on Fleming's TD run. Tech penetrated to the Rice 18 on its first possession, but Gill's field goal was blocked.

Dull Second Quarter

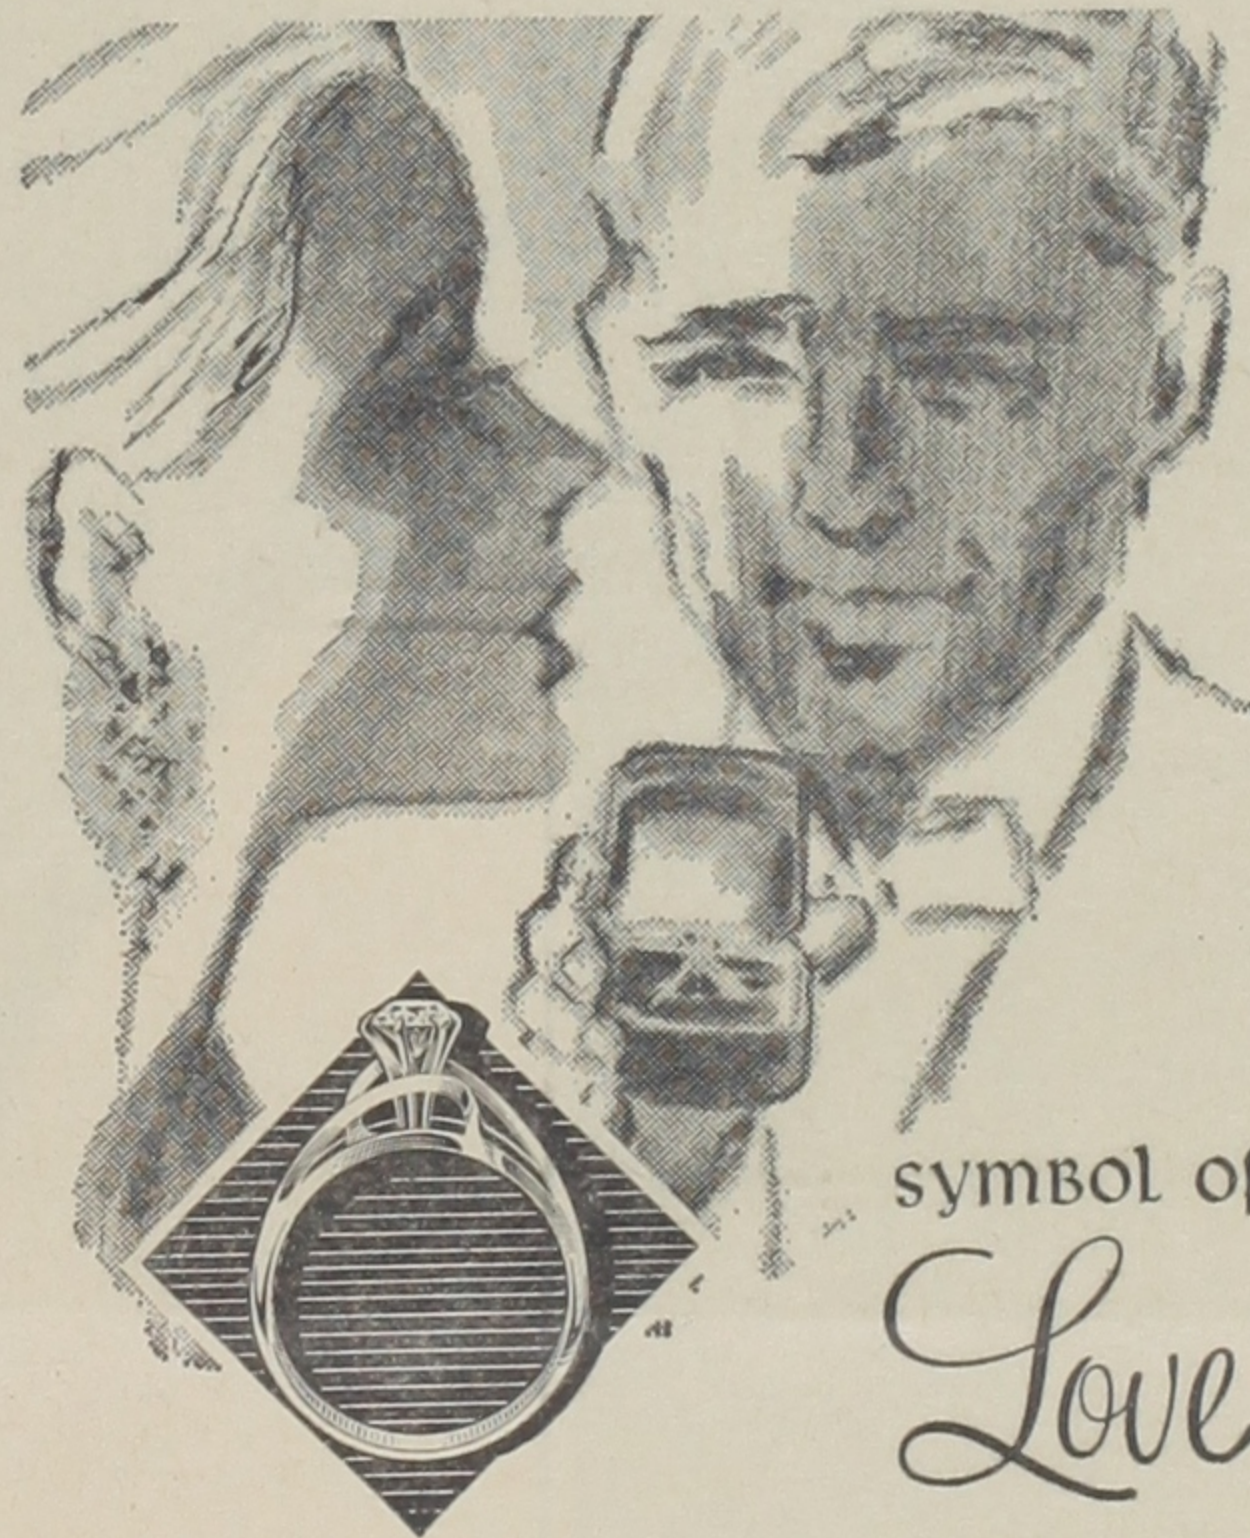

Neither team could accomplish much in the second quarter, as penalties killed several drives for both teams.

Tech marched 55 yards in its first drive after the half, 52 coming on passes. The Owls stiffened at the 16, and Gill kicked a 33-yard field goal. Rice made but 13 yards in the whole quarter, and no first downs.

Fumbles Catch

Teddy Roberts fumbled a fair catch of a Rice punt early in the fourth quarter, but a field goal attempt resulting from it was way short. Tech got the next break when Jerry Don Balch recovered a Rice fumble on the Owl 37. Four plays took the ball to the 20, and from the 26-yard line left hash mark Gill booted his game-tying field goal with 4:42 left in the game.

Roberts narrowly missed an interception at the Rice 35, and the Owls were able to punt. Tech could advance no farther than the Rice 45 where the Raiders were halted on downs. Three incomplete Rice passes ended the game.
