High School Students Convene On Campus

Approximately 350 high school students are on the Tech campus today, taking part in the Texas YMCA, HI-Y and TRI-HI-Y Pre-Legislative Program of the High Plains District.

Tech acts as host annually to this event which is preparation for a state-wide meeting in Austin in December. The students congregate here from Amarillo, Pampa, Hereford and Lubbock to take part in a mock legislature.

The students have written and submitted 23 bills to have considered by mock committees this morning, and debated and passed by a mock legislature this afternoon. Registration will be in the Student Union from 8-8:45 a.m.

Dr. R. C. Goodwin, President of Texas Tech, will welcome the students to Lubbock at the opening session in the Ballroom of the Student Union at 8:45 a.m.

Seventeen members of the government department staff will serve as advisers at the mock legislative committee meetings in the Ad and Ag Buildings.

R. A. Rooker, assistant professor of journalism, will act as adviser during a press conference of high school reporters. Two government majors, Miss Carole Brennan and Miss Judy Jeter, will also assist the students today.

The mock legislature will meet in the Tech Union this afternoon. The senate will be in the Coronado Room and the house of representatives will be in the Ballroom.

Two members of the Texas Legislature will assist the afternoon sessions. Rep. Bill Parsley will be adviser for the house and Sen. H.

J. Blanchard will advise the senate. The day's activities for the high school students will end with the adjournment of the legislature at 5 p.m.

Klansman's Resignation Causes Life Threats

WASHINGTON (AP) — A former Ku Klux Klan chaplain told congressmen Friday he had received thinly disguised threats against his life after he had quit the Klan and appeared on a national television program.

Earlier another Klansman, Joseph G. DuBois of Goldsboro, N.C., resigned from the Klan while he sat in the witness chair before the House Committee on Un-American Activities. He said he places God and country above Klan vows.

The two dramatic scenes brought the committee's Klan hearings to life after three days of listening to monotonous refusals to answer questions by top Klan leaders, including Imperial Wizard Robert M. Shelton.

The chaplain, the Rev. Roy Woodle, a onetime bricklayer from Lexington, N.C., gave his testimony in staccato fashion, using the colorful rural turns of speech with which he used to exhort Klan rallies in North Carolina.

The most dramatic moment came when he was asked if he had been threatened with bodily harm after he had quit the Klan five weeks ago.

"I don't know if it is bodily harm," Woodle said, "But he said he had the authority to do away with me." Nervous laughter swept the room, in which Chairman Edwin E. Willis, D-La., joined.

Then the minister was asked who had done the threatening. He said it was Boyd Hamby and turning to the audience added, "He's the fella sitting back there with the mustache."

Hamby, a tall, dark man with a black mustache, told a reporter, "I have no comment." He then was called to the stand and declined to answer all questions about Woodle.

Last Minute Duo To Meet

By TERRY WILLIAMSON
Staff Writer

Tech's come-from-behind Red Raiders packed their two-minute offense yesterday as they left the nerve shattering confines of Jones Stadium to take on the SMU Mustangs today at 7:30 p.m. in the Cotton Bowl.

Both teams are well known for their second half heroics, and some 35,000 fans are expected to sit and wait for the final two minutes of play in order to see the winner enter the dressing room.

The Red Raiders came from behind for the third straight time last weekend to overcome surprising Oklahoma State 17-14 in the last two minutes of play.

SMU also took a victory last weekend over conference foe Rice 17-14 after entering the second half 14 points behind. The Mustangs managed the winning margin, surprisingly enough, in the last two minutes of play.

SMU will enter tonight's contest as a one-point favorite over the Raiders. The strength of this prediction lies on SMU's 14-14 tie with nationally ranked Purdue earlier this year.

The Raiders face elimination from the SWC championship with a loss in tonight's encounter. SMU is undefeated in conference play with the lone victory over Rice. Tech stands 2-1 in conference play.

The rival series of Tech-SMU shows the two teams even in 12 previous meetings with both teams winning six and losing six. The Raiders splashed to a 12-0 victory over the Mustangs last year in Jones Stadium in a hail-delayed game.

Mrs. Mildred Wright, ticket sales manager at Tech, said 4,841 tickets had been sold in Lubbock for the contest. More are expected to take advantage of the all-school trip, and possibly 5,500 Tech supporters will be in the Cotton Bowl by game time.

That Going Band from Raiderland will not be on hand for tonight's festivities in order to make the trip to Arkansas in the Raiders' last football encounter this season.

Cheerleaders Ziggy Nicholson,

Jan Fauske, Butch Moses, Connie Curry, Dick Ostott and Patti Perkins will be on hand to build Tech spirit.

Charcoal Cody and Doug "Dink" Wilson will lead the Raiders onto the Cotton Bowl turf, and will stand "guard" over the Raiders—even in the last two minutes when nerves begin to jump in Raiderland.

Griffin To Speak At MUN

Speaker for the Model United Nations March 3-5 will be Eldon W. Griffin, Conservative party member of British Parliament.

Griffin is a former managing editor of NewsWeek Magazine and at one time, was speech writer for Sir Alec Douglas Home.

Registration for MUN will begin Nov. 1. Those interested in independent organization should contact the Union Office after Nov. 1.

The MUN Steering Committee met yesterday to complete decisions on the structure for the MUN organization.

A constitution is being prepared for consideration by the committee. Rules from the United Nations, Oklahoma University, and Tech's previous organization are being used as a basis.

Homecoming Weekend Begins Taking Shape

"Texas Tech-1925-1965—40 years forward," will be this year's Homecoming theme, which will mark the end of a month-long observance of Tech's 40th anniversary.

Homecoming activity will officially begin at 10 a.m. Friday with an Ex-Students Association board meeting and Loyalty Fund board meeting, followed by a luncheon of all the past presidents of the Ex-Students Association in the Tech Union.

The Ex-Students Association Board will host the luncheon.

Ex-Students Association officers for 1965-1966 will be elected at 1:30 p.m. All Exes are invited to attend the meeting in the Tech Union ballroom.

A reception will begin at 3 p.m. in the Union ballroom for all Ex-Students honoring the faculty and students of 1925-35.

Of special interest to the older graduates might be the reunion of Ned Bradley orchestra members, who played for Tech dances during the '30s.

Tech's first football team will be honored throughout the homecoming celebration.

A giant pep rally will begin at 7:30 p.m. Friday at the SWC Tramp Circle, followed by one of the highlights of the celebration, the coronation of the homecoming queen in the Municipal Auditorium.

Twenty campus organizations will enter floats in the annual Homecoming parade which will begin at 10 a.m. Saturday. The parade will also have the Red Raider Band, the Red Raider, and a 1925 Rolls Royce, in which will be riding persons who were instrumental in Tech's formative years.

Final Parade Meet Monday

Final homecoming parade meeting is scheduled Monday at 5 p.m. in the Coronado Lounge of the Tech Union. According to Bill Owens, parade chairman, all organizations, planning any type of entry, whether car, float or other participation, must have a representative at the meeting. Those without representation will not be allowed to enter the parade.

Television Star Withdraws Bid

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Entertainer Steve Allen announced yesterday his withdrawal from the congressional race in California's 26th District.

A statement released by his aides said that he was doing so "in the face of an adverse ruling from the State Supreme Court concerning his eligibility to run as a Democrat."

The California election code says a candidate must be registered as a member of a party for 90 days before he can become a candidate of that party.

Allen, who declined to state a party affiliation when he registered in 1960, registered as a Democrat last Sept. 18.

Thursday he filed suit in federal court seeking to force the county registrar to accept his filing. A spokesman for Allen said the suit would be dropped.

RODEO TEAM—A member of Tech's rodeo team rides it out on a Brahma bull at the Panhandle A&M Rodeo in Oklahoma earlier in the month. The Tech men's team took the team championship while the girls' rodeo team came in second to New Mexico State's team. Dick Zachry led the men's team to the victory and was selected the all-around cowboy.

Men's Rodeo Team Wins Championship

Dick Zachry led the Tech boys rodeo team to the team championship of the Panhandle A&M Rodeo in Guymon, Okla., and was selected as the all around cowboy.

The girls team managed a second place trophy in the rodeo, but the girls from New Mexico State of Las Cruces won the team championship.

Tech's boys amassed 464 points in the competition to easily take the team crown. Zachry received two first place awards, and was the only boy on the team that managed a first place. He placed first in the calf roping and bulldogging competition.

Others receiving points for the boys team were: Dan Reding, second in ribbon roping; Garland Weeks, third in bareback riding; Fred Schmidt, second and fifth in bull riding; Craig Haythorn, fourth in ribbon roping.

Girls receiving points were: Karan Robinson, second in barrel racing; D'Lynn McGinty, fourth in barrel racing; Marianne Munz, third in goat tying; Jan Vaughan, fourth in goat tying.

Tech's Rodeo Association competes in the southwest region of the National Intercollegiate Rodeo Association. The Panhandle A&M Rodeo is in the southwest region, and is held annually on Oct. 9-10.

Tech Society To Host Meet

Tech International Trade Society and Lubbock Chamber of Commerce will sponsor the third annual International Trade Seminar Jan. 6 in the Union.

The seminar will concentrate on trade in Mexico. There will be speakers from Mexico discussing such matters as export trade.

The seminar for businessmen and students precedes a trade mission to Mexico Jan. 22-30 for businessmen interested in importing, exporting, or investment.

Nov. 4 is the deadline for signing up for the mission.

The mission includes 12 people who will fly to Monterey and then to Mexico City. There is a three day side trip to Torreon for people interested in agriculture machinery.

The cost of the trip is $300 per person.

Audience Demanding, Vickery Steals Show

By MIKE NIEMCZYK
Fine Arts Staff

The jokes were corny, the music was country and the mood was informal at Municipal Auditorium Thursday night. The occasion was the Hank Williams Jr. Show, sponsored by KDAV, one of Lubbock's country and western radio stations.

Although the program was slightly disorganized, the entertainers succeeded in pleasing an audience which, though it seemed casual, was actually quite critical and demanding. Members of the audience walked out for a smoke during parts they did not care for. In the case of one or two performers, applause was almost nonexistent.

The best performances of the evening were given by Max Vickery, Grandpa Jones, and Claude King. Vickery, not a name performer, possessed a pleasing mellow voice and a stage presence that was dynamite. A song writer as well as entertainer, he sang a Buck Owens medley and did a riotous imitation of Elvis Presley.

Jones, a regular with the Grand Old Opry, sang, yodeled, and clowned with the flair and sharpness which distinguishes a first-rate comedian. His act was strictly vaudeville, a mixture of old standard songs and corny risqué jokes.

Claude King was the best straight entertainer, with a relaxed, sincere singing style. King sang some western movie theme songs as well as two of his hit songs, "Wolverton Mountain," and "Sam Hill."

Hank Williams Jr. and Lefty Frizzell were both slightly disappointing. Although Williams sang well, his personality seemed rather cold and out of keeping with the rest of the festivities. Frizzell's voice was just not strong enough to carry in the huge auditorium.

All in all, the show was an enjoyable one, providing quality entertainment for all who enjoy "kindly of a heart song" or a relief from lyrics such as are sung on the so-called popular stations.

Backstage —

By Margaret Eastman

The child sits in his city classroom and draws a picture of a smiling green animal. When asked what it is and why it is green, he answers, "It's a cow and they're green 'cause they eat grass."

Naturally, he has never seen a cow, but he imagines what they look like and draws his picture.

The question is: "Is a child's drawing of a green, smiling cow a work of art?" Some would say "yes."

R. G. Collingwood, in his book "Outlines of a Philosophy of Art," says, "Fundamentally, fine art is apprehension of beauty. This awareness of beauty is at once the starting-point and the culmination, the presupposition and the end, of all art."

Is the cow beautiful? Collingwood says, "A beautiful object is not an object having a special kind of shape or colour, but an object which the beholder regards imaginatively." Have you ever imagined a green, smiling cow?

Let's leave the child and turn to the savage. We find that the savage's art works are imaginative. In fact, his art is of an excellence disproportionate to his knowledge of the world.

An example of this is the savage drummer. He has never seen a metronome, a time signature, a half note, a rest, but there is regular meter and fantastic rhythm in his simple drumming.

We can see from these two examples that art is not exclusively for the aristocratic. Surely the aristocratic create works of art, but so do children and savages.

Collingwood said, "Art is the primary and fundamental activity of the mind, the original soil out of which all other activities grow." He explains that in saying this, he means, "that art arises of itself and does not depend on the previous development of any other activity."

If you are still confused by the snob-nosed people who maintain that art is only for the elite and intellectual, here's what Socrates said in "Apology:"

"Art is in consequence an exercise of the emotions, not an exercise of reason. Art is not knowledge, but actually requires the absence of knowledge."

Art, to me, is for imaginative, emotional people. It does not necessarily copy nature, nor is it necessarily beautiful.

It doesn't necessarily copy nature, because it often exaggerates it or distorts it. Art does express emotion, but it often expresses the particular neurosis of the artist.

Is art always beautiful? I think not. A tragedy is a work of art, but if we define beauty as something which gives pleasure, then we could not call a tragedy beautiful. The crash of drums is not beautiful, but when it comes in the middle of a symphony, we call it part of a work of art.

I do not believe the artist aims at beauty or at intellect. I believe he aims at expressing his feelings, whatever they may be.

An Active Group . . .

IT IS INDEED good to see Tech's Supreme Court active this year.

In past years the Supreme Court seemed to take only a secondary position in student government, hearing only two or three important cases during the year and in some instances none.

However, this is no longer the case. The Supreme Court has already written two advisory opinions to the Senate clarifying certain issues and is preparing another advisory opinion for the next Senate meeting. In addition, the Court was asked to hear an appeal concerning the Intramural Program but rejected to do so because it has no jurisdiction in this area.

Much of the credit for the increased prestige enjoyed by the Supreme Court is due to the new constitution and Tech's new form of student government. Under the new constitution, the Supreme Court is the chief judicial organization of the three main branches of government. It exercises powers and duties separate from those of the other two branches.

In addition, the new student association constitution has had another effect on the Supreme Court. Simply because it is new, the constitution contains many rulings and phrases which need to be clarified and explained, and the only governmental body with power to do this is the Supreme Court. Thus the need for an active Supreme Court is evident.

We are indeed glad to see this increasing use of the Court and hope it will continue in future years. The Supreme Court should play an active role in student government at Tech.

The Students for a Democratic Society, the group which has been protesting U.S. policy in Viet Nam at the University of Texas, has only begun their campaign, the Daily Texan reports.

"We will keep on protesting until we stop the war," a graduate student leader of SDS said this week.

The group was denied a parade permit by the Austin City Council for last Saturday's demonstration, but instead staged the protest on the sidewalks.

Two of about 150 silent demonstrators were arrested for attempting to walk in the street. They were later released.

The march culminated on the steps of the state Capitol where about 250 persons had gathered.

John Morbey, a history department instructor, described Viet Nam as "large-scaled murder of innocent civilians," and said anyone backing the policy was "as dehumanized as (Secretary of State) McNamara at times."

The City Council's decision was later upheld by the Court of Criminal Appeals. SDS will wage a legal battle against the parade ban, the board decided Monday.

They also approved a platform for the Oct. 27 campus election which would abolish the Student Assembly and call for the availability for contraceptive pills to all students at the Health Center, said the Daily Texan.

The Election Commission of the East Texas State University Senate recently declared an election for senators and class officers as "null and void," the East Texan said last week.

The election was invalidated because several senatorial candidates were listed from the wrong school on the ballot.

Also, the constitution states senators must be elected according to residential areas. They were to be elected this time on the basis of the school enrolled in, as a result of a Senate bill passed last spring.

No provision is made in the constitution for amendments. A new constitution which would reduce the number of Senators by 15 to 30 and give them two-year terms, will soon be voted upon by the student body.

Texas Tech is certainly not unique in its parking problems. Texas Christian University has a ratio of four cars to one parking space, the Skiff said recently.

The chief of the campus Security Office said no plans to ease parking problems have been made.

More than 4,687 parking stickers have been issued. TCU has 1,841 parking spaces on its main campus.

A poll conducted on the Iowa State University campus last week by the Iowa State Daily showed that the majority of students and faculty favored the United States' policy in Viet Nam.

Of 75 persons contacted, 50 said they believed the United States should stay in Viet Nam, most saying the U.S. would "lose face" if it pulled out now.

Nineteen said they thought the United States should withdraw, saying the war is "none of our business."

Texas-Oklahoma is generally considered the big blow-out of the year in Dallas and Fort Worth, but the Tessies and Aggies of Texas A&M have their own "once a year weekend of fun and excitement," said the Daily Lass-O.

The Tessies and Aggies got together last weekend when A&M was in Fort Worth to play TCU. The annual event is known as "Corps Trip."

The Lass-O labeled the event as a "success minus the icing of victory," since the Aggies lost 17-9.

Phi Mu social sorority has officially withdrawn from the University of Texas campus, the Daily Texan reported Tuesday.

The National Council of Phi Mu said the sorority was being withdrawn for "low membership and the resulting financial problems." The Phi Mu housemother at Texas said she could not comment on the National Council's statement. She said the sorority house would be put up for sale.

Phi Mu has been on the Texas campus since 1913. Operation of the chapter was suspended last spring, and hopes of reinstating it this fall failed to materialize.

For Graduates

Committee Researches Representation Plan

By PAULINE EDWARDS
 Editorial Assistant

Graduate students may soon be represented on the Student Senate. The question of graduate representation was brought up at the first Senate meeting Sept. 21 when Tommy Craddick, graduate student who had been elected to represent the School of Business Administration lost his vote.

Craddick's vote was taken away because he had transferred to the Graduate School and was no longer representing the school of Business Administration.

At the same meeting, the Senate appointed a committee of three—Chris Hickey, George Strickland and Barry Tull—to research the area of graduate representation.

The Supreme Court handed down an advisory opinion at the second Senate meeting which indicated that graduates were entitled to representation. Therefore, the question switched from one of whether they should have representation to how should they be represented, and the same committee was asked to investigate this area. At Tuesday's Senate meeting the committee asked for a time extension on presenting their proposed plan for graduate representation.

The problem as it exists now, according to Hickey, is to determine how many representatives the Graduate School is entitled to since Senate representation is on the basis of full-time students who have paid their activity fee. A full-time student is defined by Graduate Dean Fred Rigby as one who is taking 12 semester hours.

Although some graduates who are taking nine semester hours and serving as teaching assistants are described as full-time graduates they would be exempted from Senate participation because of their quasi-faculty position, Hickey said.

Graduate school has an enrollment of 1,396. However, there is no way of determining how many of this number have paid their activity fee. Dean Rigby estimates that fewer than 50 percent have paid the activity fee and are carrying 12 hours.

"This problem does not exist in the undergraduate schools because as many as 95 percent have paid the activity fee, and an estimate of the proportionate number of representatives for each school can be made without being unfair," Hickey said.

The committee first began its investigation by writing for a consensus from other universities to see if they had graduate representation and how they handled it. "Although we haven't received enough letters to get an accurate consensus, two-thirds of those who did answer favor graduate representation and have it in some form," Hickey said.

The second step was to contact Dean Rigby who indicated he had nothing against representation and seemed interested in the idea.

The Supreme Court's Advisory Opinion partially reads: "Under Article 1, Section 2, which reads in part 'The Student Association shall consist of all students who are duly registered in Texas Technological College,' we find the term all students to include those registered in Graduate School also. In substantiation for representation to the Senate we depend on Article 2, Section 2, which states in part 'The Student Senate shall be composed of representatives elected from each academic school,' this indicates to this court that all academic schools are to be duly represented on the Senate."

"Those who opposed graduate representation at first did so because they felt there was a lack of interest among graduates and that the majority would not be willing to contribute anything, because of the nature of the school itself and the fact that many are married and are not full-time students," Hickey said. "Also many believed graduates would be exempted from representation because of the ruling in the Graduate School manual which states 'Graduate students should not hold offices in undergraduate organizations.'"

"However, this would have no basis since the Senate cannot be defined as strictly an undergraduate association," Hickey said.

"Since the reading of the Supreme Court advisory opinion there has been no real opposition to graduate representation. Now it is merely a matter of clarifying how representation is to be handled and implementing it," Hickey added. "We hope to present a possible solution at the next Senate meeting."

Hickey believes many advantages can be derived from graduate representation. "It would allow undergraduates to benefit from the experiences of graduate students, we need to integrate all academic schools into a common bond for the future welfare of Texas Tech and as the school grows, graduates will demand that their people have a responsible voice in student affairs," Hickey said.

Dr. Petzel To Address Quarterly Club Tuesday

Dr. Florence E. Petzel, professor in the department of clothing and textiles, will speak to the Quarterly Club of Texas Tech at noon Tuesday, on "Problems in Textile Research" in the Mesa Room of the Tech Union.

Dr. Petzel has traveled extensively in Europe, the Middle East, and Hawaii. She has studied the textiles and arts of Egypt, Iraq and Turkey.

She received degrees from the Universities of Chicago and Minnesota, and has taught at Judson College, Alabama University, Ohio State University, Oregon State University, Texas Women's University, and Nevada University. Dr. Petzel is listed in American Men of Science and Who's Who in American Education.

The Quarterly Club, one of the oldest organizations on campus, was established for the professional and intellectual advancement of women faculty members at Tech.

The Club meets in October, December, February, and April of each year, and is open to all women on the faculty, former members, and other women closely associated with the faculty.

Reservations may be made by contacting Evelyn Clewell in room 158 of the Ad Building. Tickets for lunch are $1.30.

Study Group Begins Soon

Announcement was made this week of a new ecumenical study group for Tech students by Houston Hodges, Presbyterian campus minister. The group is sponsored by the Methodist, Disciple of Christ, Episcopalian and Presbyterian groups, and will deal with Harvey Cox's new book, "The Secular City."

According to Mr. Hodges, this book is a provocative combination of sociological and theological insight. It surveys the current American religious scene, finds much wrong with it, and attempts some positive reconstruction of the church.

The study group will meet at 7 p.m. each Monday at the Christian Student Center, 2318 13th, with Mr. Hodges as leader.

ARMY ROTC's COMPANY G elected Denise Humphries sweetheart Thursday. Miss Humphries gave up her title as 1st Battalion Sweetheart Alternate when she was elected Co. G sweetheart. Alternate for G sweetheart is Janice Glenn, a freshman advertising art major from Wellington.

Newly Created Post Filled By Northcutt

Jim J. Northcutt of Brownfield has been named to the newly created position of Environmental Health Engineer of Texas Tech, Dr. R. C. Goodwin, Tech president, said recently.

Northcutt, who has had six years experience in the public health field as sanitarian with the South Plains Health Department, will be primarily concerned with preventive maintenance designed to protect the health of all persons connected with the college.

His duties will include health supervision of college-operated food preparation areas (kitchens, bakeries, meat processing and dairy), the college swimming pool, student health service and similar health-related operations.

He also will be responsible for such new fields of safety as the control and disposal of radioactive materials which is becoming a problem on all college campuses.

The growth and expansion of Tech and the increasing complexity of its services has made the creation of the new position imperative, Dr. Goodwin said.

Prior to becoming sanitarian for the South Plains Health Department, which covers the counties of Dawson, Hockley, Gaines, Yoakum and Terry, Northcutt taught science in Brownfield public schools. He also worked as a laboratory assistant while a graduate student at West Texas State University where he obtained a master's degree in 1959. He earned his B.S. degree at Southwestern State College, Weatherford, Okla.

Northcutt and his wife, also a teacher, have two children. He will begin his duties at Tech Nov. 1.

Congress Ready For Final Hours

WASHINGTON (AP) — Swift action on a pay raise for federal workers and on sugar quotas legislation moved Congress within hours of adjournment Friday night.

After less than an hour's debate, the Senate gave 67-0 passage to a pay boost of 3.6 per cent for 1.8 million federal civilian employees—at an estimated annual cost of $641.5 million.

While this was far above the $400-million increase requested by the administration, President Johnson is expected to sign it since it is a deep cutback from the House bill to give a 4 per cent raise this year and another hike next year at an estimated annual cost of $1.55 billion.

The House was reported ready to accept the scaled-down Senate proposal because of the threat of a presidential veto of its proposal.

Senate and House conferees agreed on a sugar-quota bill setting market allotments for five years—a triumph for Rep Harold D. Cooley, D-N.C., chairman of the House Agriculture Committee. Senate conferees had wanted the much-disputed foreign nation quotas set for only two years.

Before winding up action on the last bills, the Senate confirmed the nomination of David G. Bress as U.S. Attorney for the District of Columbia by a 49-14 vote.

Normally confirmation of such a relatively minor nomination is a routine affair but this time there was a three-hour debate marked by a fresh flare-up over the Bobby Baker case.

Baker quit his job as secretary of the Senate's Democratic majority after his outside business activities had been questioned. These activities became the subject of a prolonged investigation by the Senate Rules Committee.

Sens. John J. Williams, R-Del., and Carl T. Curtis, R-Neb., attacked the nomination because Bress, as a Washington lawyer, once represented a vending machine company in which Baker was the principal stockholder.

In 10½ months, this first session of the 89th Congress blazed new legislative trails as it implemented about 85 per cent of what President Johnson calls his "Great Society" program.

In the process, it set a peacetime record by appropriating $119.3 billion, a sum exceeded only in the first full year of World War II when $147 billion was voted.

Even so, the funds approved were $2.4 billion below White House requests.

The major breakthrough scored by the heavy Democratic majorities in both chambers—with some Republican help—came on health care for the elderly and aid to elementary schools.

Elsewhere in the health field Congress approved an $800-million program for community health centers; a three-year, $755-million program to expand facilities for educating physicians, dentists and nurses; and a four-year, $650-million program to build regional research-treatment centers to fight cancer, heart diseases and strokes.

In addition to providing across-the-board aid to elementary schools—including parochial ones—for the first time, the 89th voted greatly increased assistance to higher education. Over-all first-year cost is about $2 billion for the two.

In extensions of earlier programs, it voted to double anti-poverty expenditures to $1.65 billion; provide $1.1 billion for aid to the Appalachia regions and $3.2 billion for development of other depressed areas; and it enacted a four-year $7-billion public housing program expected to include rent subsidies for low-income families next year.

Donny Makes Return Cotton Bowl Trip

On Oct. 26, 1963, Donny Anderson made his first appearance in the Cotton Bowl and came up with the top performance of his sophomore season.

He ran through the SMU defense for 109 yards in 19 carries, caught five passes for 40 yards and one touchdown. He averaged 45.2 on five punts.

That was the arrival of the star from Stinnett who a year later was to lead the SWC in ball-carrying as he gained all-America honors.

He returns to Dallas today with credentials of versatility rarely claimed by a collegiate footballer.

He has rushed for 244 yards in 67 carries, caught 31 passes for 30 yards, returned two punts for 51, returned 13 kickoffs for 397, scored 6 touchdowns and averaged 37.4 on 26 punts. In the process he has broken SWC career kickoff return records for number and average and yardage for a single game by KOR (169 against OSU which betters Doak Walker's 163 against TCU in 1947).

Anderson's attitude toward it all follows:

Q. In view of your performance on your other appearance in the Cotton Bowl, is there any special incentive or motivation for Saturday's return trip?

A. I attach no particular significance because of my last game there. I know SMU is going to be tough and, teamwise, all of us have great motivation to do well.

Q. Do you mean now that Arkansas has beaten Texas that Tech's chances and hopes of the championship and Cotton Bowl role have been stimulated?

A. I really feel that we are. We watched that Arkansas-Texas game on TV, and that may be one reason we did not make a better showing against OSU. It did not give us a boost for that game, because our thoughts were probably turning to the Conference race. I feel like Texas' loss will stimulate us this week, however, and for subsequent Conference games, too.

Q. How does this Tech team differ from last year's?

A. I believe this one has a greater will to win. I also believe we have more ability, although I know some feel that our running game is not as sharp as last year. I think we're playing better as a team. The stronger unity has been a big factor in our last three games.

Q. You appear to be used more as a receiver and less as a ball carrier. What prompted this change of attack?

A. Two factors really. We had to change our offense when we lost Leo Lowery at fullback. We had the makings of a great halfback-fullback offense, but now we are basically a quarterback-halfback offense. Of course, you know we've been behind late and have had to throw to win the last three.

Q. How do you like your current role of being a primary receiver?

A. I enjoy it very much, because I like to catch the ball. I am getting a lot of experience running patterns and this is good training for pro ball, but we have to sharpen our running game. We don't want to be too dependent on passing.

Q. Coach (J T) King has indicated you are providing excellent leadership this season. Did this involve a change of attitude or merely one of expression?

A. Being elected captain, I felt more responsibility. In my first two years I really did not give all-out effort until Saturdays. It's different now. If I do not go all-out in practice and show enthusiasm for detail and repetition, other players will not be inspired to give it all they have. I feel I have to be a good example to be a good leader.

Q. Tom Wilson appears to have shown exceptional development as a quarterback. How has he achieved this?

A. He is a real dedicated person who makes sacrifices to succeed. He worked a lot on weights last spring and summer to become stronger. And we both had jobs in Lubbock this summer and worked out together. He worked on his passing and helped me a lot with my patterns. He is a real intelligent quarterback, and the entire team has complete confidence in him.

Q. Do you feel the defense is maturing and developing confidence?

A. That's a hard question, since I work so little with that platoon. With (John) Porter over there now, they'll have more leadership. We've got to improve our defense against rushing. The guys did a good job against A&M and came around real well in the second half last week.

Q. It is noted that you are playing some defense also. How do you feel about going both ways?

A. I play mainly in our "victory-defense," in situations when we expect the opposition to throw. And I have been used some on punt returns since (Guy) Griffis got hurt. The main thing is we are winning, and that is the important thing. You don't think of being tired when you're winning.

Law Named Poll Winner

NEW YORK (AP)—Vernon Law, whose ailing pitching arm resulted in his demotion to the minors only two years ago, was named the Associated Press' Comeback Player-of-the-Year for 1965 in the National League by a healthy margin Friday.

The 35-year-old Pittsburgh right-hander collected 120 votes in the balloting by 281 sports writers and sportscasters in the annual AP poll. He was followed by veteran third baseman Ed Mathews of Milwaukee and Jim Gilliam of the pennant-winning Los Angeles Dodgers. Mathews had 30 votes and Gilliam 26.

Law won 17 games and lost nine for the third-place Pirates the past season. He pitched 13 complete games, including four shutouts, in 28 starts, and his 2.16 earned run average was the third best in the league.

The 1965 campaign was a streaky one for Law, who lives in Boise, Idaho. He dropped his first five decisions, won the next eight and lost the following four.

Then, with an 8-9 mark, he reeled off nine straight victories before being sidelined for the season in mid-September with a sore elbow.

Arkansas Seeks 18th Against North Texas

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Top-ranked Arkansas seeks its 18th consecutive football victory here Saturday night against upset-minded North Texas State.

The Razorbacks climbed from third to the top of the Associated Press poll this week after tripping Texas 27-24 last Saturday in a come-from-behind thriller.

But the Eagles are not letting Arkansas' speed and press notices affect their attitude.

"We realize they're a great, great team," says Odus Mitchell, coach of the Eagles. However, he said he thinks his team is ready to play the Porkers.

While Arkansas has rolled up 17 straight victories—the longest major college winning string in the nation — the Eagles have experienced one of the worst streaks in their history. North Texas has won only four of its last 17 outings.

North Texas gave Tulsa a scare last week when a last-minute pass fell just out of flanker John Love's hands in the Tulsa end zone. Tulsa won 27-20.

Arkansas Coach Frank Broyles says he expects to see quite a bit of passing by the Eagles.

Vidal Carlin, a junior college transfer, set a school record last week when he hit on 22 of 48 passes for 289 yards and two touchdowns. Love caught 10 of those, giving him 38 receptions for 533 yards this year.

More than 40,000 persons are expected in War Memorial Stadium for the 7:30 p.m., CST, kickoff. Arkansas, the defending Southwest Conference champion, is a heavy favorite to trip the Missouri Valley Conference team.

Green Bay Packers Picked Over Dallas

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Can the Dallas Cowboys, who whipped Green Bay in the exhibition season, repeat against the Packers during the regular season?

Will St. Louis' Charley Johnson be ready for Washington? Are the New York Giants for real? Will Bo Roberson pick up Buffalo's sagging offense?

These are some of the questions in pro football this week. Last week this practically peerless pro picker had a 6-3-2 record for a season mark of 35-19-3 and a .648 percentage. Now here's the answer to this week's questions all games Sunday unless otherwise noted:

Green Bay 28, Dallas 14—The Packers don't have a receiver among the individual leaders, but Bart Starr must be doing something right—he's the No. 1 quarterback.

St. Louis 35, Washington 17—With the sore-shouldered Johnson or Buddy Humphreys at quarterback the Cardinals have the passing game with receivers Sonny Randle and Bobby Joe Conrad.

Cleveland 24, New York 21—The Browns are scoring less this year but enjoying things just as much. The Giants, with Earl Morrall at quarterback, have been a big surprise, but Cleveland has too many guns.

Chicago 28, Detroit 21—Gale Sayers and Dick Butkus, fighting for rookie honors, are leading the Bears in an amazing flip-flop.

Baltimore 42, Los Angeles 10—Lenny Moore still is a question mark, but Johnny Unitas and Co.

San Francisco 28, Minnesota 27—The John Brodie-Dave Parks passing combination is getting tough to handle.

Philadelphia 35, Pittsburgh 14—The Steelers have an 0-5 record with only 65 points scored and the Eagles have Tim Brown.

San Diego 42, New York 17—Saturday night—The Chargers, who lead the AFL in all six team statistical departments, should be up after last week's tie with Boston.

Buffalo 28, Denver 21—Bo Roberson, acquired from Oakland, should be able to catch some passes for a Buffalo offense that has been sputtering.

Kansas City 24, Houston 14—The Chiefs' defense has been its top card with linebacker Bobby Bell playing exceptional ball.

Oakland 35, Boston 21—The Raiders will try rookie Fred Biletnikoff at flanker end, it says here, he'll score his first touchdown. The Patriots offense still has no punch.

Tulsa Oilers Want Change

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Texas League President Hugh Finnerty said Friday a majority of the Double A baseball league's directors have approved Tulsa's request to return its franchise so the Oilers can seek admission to the Triple A Pacific Coast League.

The Oilers were expected to make their formal request for membership at the PCL meeting Friday in Phoenix, Ariz.

Tulsa has been associated with the Texas League for 33 years and was the Eastern Division titleholder this year.

Tulsa's application to the PCL is based on the anticipated withdrawal from that league by the Arkansas Little Rock club, which probably will replace the Oilers in the Texas League.

Both teams have working agreements with the St. Louis Cardinals.

Tech-SMU Competition Set In Dallas

By MIKE LUTZ
Sports Editor

If you're in Dallas tonight, pressed for time but want to see the outcome of the Texas Tech-SMU game, show up about two minutes before the end of the game and you'll likely see everything worth seeing.

The first half may be rather dull, but if past performances mean a whit, there'll be an acceleration in the final two periods that will leave you breathless, mouth agape, and wondering just what happened.

For those who want to see it all, game time is 7:30 p.m. in the Cotton Bowl and the significance of the battle is Tech's mathematical expulsion from the title race if it loses.

Tech 4-1-0

The Raiders go into the match with four hair-raising victories and one loss to Texas. The Ponies' standard is almost as impressive with two victories, a loss and a tie.

In previous games this season, both teams have made a habit of squeezing out their victories in the waning minutes of play.

For the past three weekends, the Raiders have kept Jones Stadium in an uproar by winning all three encounters with less than three minutes showing.

Conference Wins

For their first conference win, the Raiders tagged on the winning touchdown with 2:44 remaining to down Texas A&M, 20-16. The following week, they scored with 2:20 showing to nip TCU, 28-24 and only last week cut the time even shorter when they scored with only 1:35 left to beat Oklahoma State, 17-14.

The Mustangs have been no less spectacular. They opened the season with a 7-3 win over Miami, before bowing 42-0 to Illinois the following week.

But from that point, they battled from a 14-0 deficit to tie the No. 2 ranked team in the nation at that time, Purdue, 14-14.

And only last Saturday, they cranked up again after falling behind 14-0 to nudge past Rice, 17-14 in the conference debut for the Ponies.

Tech Limping

Tech is still limping from several key injuries and will be in about the same condition tonight as they were a week ago against Oklahoma State.

Tech has had to deal with the injury problem in varying degrees of severity since the Texas game when guard Doug Young was sidelined with a leg injury.

Injuries were such that the Raiders have avoided prolonged contact drills since the encounter with the Longhorns.

Offensively, Tech must cope with the Mustangs' tremendous speed which is "the fastest bunch we'll face all year," according to Coach Joe Blaylock, who scouted SMU.

The speedy SMU crew, already ahead of last year's dismal 1-9 finish, is headed by John Roderick, who ticks off 100 yards in 9.3. From his split end position, Roderick, a scholastic casualty last season, offers a constant touchdown threat.

But the position the Mustangs rally 'round is quarterback Mac White, who did not compete last season because of a back injury.

But the No. 2 man, Mike Livingston, a jack-of-all-trades offers support aplenty in the form of the pass-run option. Livingston, when not filling in at quarterback for White, is usually in the lineup at another backfield position.

Defensively, the Raider offense will face what Blaylock calls "the best linebacker pair in the conference."

They are Billy Bob Stewart, being drummed for All-America honors, and co-captain Ronnie Reel.

"We've had a pretty good week's work," Coach J T King said. "Now, if we can just go down there and do our job."

"I have a lot of respect for SMU. In my opinion, they are the dark horse of the league."

TIGER CHALLENGED

NEW YORK (AP)—Two world champions and a leading contender personally challenged re-crowned middleweight champion Dick Tiger to title fights Friday following the success of the Tiger-Joey Giardello fight.

Offers were made by Joey Archer of New York, the contender who beat Tiger a year ago, and by welterweight champion Emile Griffith of New York and Italy's Nino Benvenuti, the undefeated junior middleweight king.

With a big grin on his face, the 36-year-old Tiger told them at a press luncheon that "money talks. My managers will listen to the offers and then we shall see."

After Tiger said that Archer seemed most deserving of the next shot, the challenger's brother-manager, Jim, declared "we'll guarantee Tiger $100,000."

Low Burston, one of Tiger's American representatives, said "we will take that into consideration with the other bids."
