Tech Board Approves Bonds, Stadium Fund

PREPARATIONS for the Engineers' Show April 24-25 commenced yesterday. David Buescher, Cecil Couch, center and Billy Nelson, civil engineering seniors, are preparing a scale model of a rapid sand water filter, used by most cities for purification of lake and other surface water. The model will be one of the many projects displayed by the civil engineering department.

New faculty appointments, expansion of Jones Stadium to 40,000 seating capacity, setting up of a "Stadium Fund" and the selling of bonds for further projects were okayed at a meeting of the Tech Board of Directors in Austin Tuesday.

In a telephone poll taken March 17 and 18, the Board had approved revised plans and specifications and authorized Fort Worth architects, Hedrick and Stanley, to advertise for bids on the program, the bids to be received at Tech 2 p.m., April 10.

AWARDING OF A CONTRACT on the enlarging of the press-box and expansion of restrooms and other facilities in the west stands is expected to follow opening of bids in order to complete this phase of the program before opening of the 1959 grid season. Included in the bids will be alternate proposals, to be taken if bids exceed estimates on the various phases of the planned expansion.

Recognition was given in accepting the interim financing proposal, to efforts made by a downtown stadium committee to collect more than $1 million already pledged in seat options and a drive to sell the remainder of options available. Already pledged are 5,750 seats with 7,311 options to be sold between now and the stadium opening.

Campus Elections Hit Pace

Posters, speeches, bands and perhaps a little babykissing are at high as spring student government campaigns gain momentum.

Two all-campus elections have been set. Student Association officers will be elected Wednesday, and cheerleaders and student council representative will be selected Tuesday, April 7.

Elections rallies, complete with "big brass bands" and campaign oratory, will be held Tuesday and April 6, for the respective elections.

Rally for Student Association officers is slated for 7 p.m. on the Ad Building green. The Red Raider and ROTC bands will play.

Added to traditional posters, jingles and skits is another campaign idea. Under sponsorship of the Pre-Law Club, candidates spoke to over 20 per cent of the student body through government classes Wednesday and today.

Bill Dean of Lubbock and Bill Pfluger, Eden, are candidates for president. Vice-president candidates are Dub Heffington, Wichita Falls, and Claude Rogers, Mincola.

Linda Bunger, Breckenridge, Mary Ann Lindley, Waco, and Johnanna Zourmas, Lubbock, vie for secretary. Business manager contenders are Bob Dyer, Tulia, and Edward Langston, Lubbock.

Eighty students are seeking 24 student council representative offices, and two girls and three boys will be chosen from a field of 15 for Red Raider cheerleaders.

Had A Baby?

La Ventana will have a "Birth Announcements" column in their Time magazine section of this year's issue of La Ventana, Tech's annual.

ALL STUDENTS, faculty or staff members should send in information on any births in their family which have occurred since last September.

Persons should contact Mrs. Betty Burtram in the Student Publications Office in the Journalism Building.

THE PROPOSAL calls for authorizing of an additional $300,000 in bonds, if needed, to complete the project. In accepting the proposal, the board agreed to provide one and one-half times coverage for annual interest requirements of existing and proposed bonds with possible parity bonds which would be authorized later for extension and improvement of the stadium.

Also agreed upon was the setting up of a special "Texas Technological College Stadium Fund," net proceeds of which will be pledged to payment of principal and interest and creation of a reserve for the stadium bonds until such reserve has reached one year's average principal and interest requirement. Income to this fund shall include football and basketball receipts, stadium concessions, part of student matriculation fees applicable to football and basketball and possibly the levying of all or part of a stadium use fee of $5 per student for each semester.

IT WAS EMPHASIZED that this fee would not be assessed except in case of extreme emergency, but the pledging of it was necessary in securing the one and one-half times coverage necessary for the bonds.

The Board approved a great many other matters, mostly routine, in the special meeting, which followed a joint session with other college boards on the sale of Constitutional Tax Bonds. In the sale of the bonds, Tech's share sold at par with a premium of $2,183.54 and an interest rate of 2.9626%. The sale, third of a series, provided the college with a total of $8,645,000 for building during the next ten years.

TWO NEW scholarships were approved; the first establishing "the American Chemical Society Scholarship" of $50 to be awarded a junior or senior chemistry or chemical engineering student on a basis of character, scholarship and need; the other, "Jack and David Childers Scholarship," to be awarded a freshman student who has graduated in the top one-fourth of his high school class and has a demonstrated need for financial assistance.

Nicholson's Story Wins

Joe Nicholson is first place winner in the short story contest sponsored by La Ventana.

NICHOLSON'S story "The Vanilla Spider" is an account of how a battle of wits between a snake and spider changed the lives of a small town family. In keeping with the magazine form, the story will appear in La Ventana's version of the Saturday Evening Post.

A TWO-PAGE drawing by Jerry Martin, co-editor of La Ventana, will illustrate the story.

WINNING second place is "The Song of Cain," or "I'm Not My Brother's Keeper," by Lee Sullenger. The story is a parody on dormitory life. It has not been decided whether or not this story will be published, says Bill Whitted, sponsor.

Judges of the short story contest were Dr. Lawrence E. Bowling and Dr. Joseph T. McCullen of the English department.

Coach Brown Plans New Shop Location

by DON LEDWIG

Brown's Varsity Shop will be moved to the present location of Hackel's at College and Broadway. The new store, which will triple the size of present facilities, will be open for business next fall.

This expansion is just another forward step in the career of the store's well-known owner, Coach Brown. Coach is a native of Alabama who attended the University of Alabama, serving as quarterback for the school in the 1931 Rose Bowl classic. Brown's freshman football coach at Alabama was his nationally known brother, movie star Johnny Mack Brown.

Coach Brown began his coaching career as an assistant coach at his home town high school in Dothan, Ala.

After serving in the Air Force from 1942 through 1945, he became assistant football coach at Texas Tech. He served in this capacity from 1946 through 1948.

In 1948, Coach Brown was graduated from Tech with a BBA degree in marketing. He continued his studies here, and in 1956 he received a master's degree in marketing.

Brown's Varsity Shop has been serving Tech students' needs in men's wear since 1949. Coach Brown says he has enjoyed this more than any other work he has ever done.

"The association with young men will keep you young at heart," Coach says, "and that is what I like best."

An ardent backer of every college activity, Coach has always tried to offer Techsians the right style in quality clothes at a price college students can afford to pay.

Loss of Burlage Hurts Journalism

TEXAS COLLEGE JOURNALISM received a blow when Robb Burlage, DAILY TEXAN (Texas University) Editor, was removed from office recently.

Burlage had the fortitude to take strong stands on controversial issues, which added to his unpopularity among certain parties at the University — and the state legislature, meeting in Austin.

One of his more recent campaigns was opposing the tuition hike pending before the state legislature. He was in an advantageous position to fight the raise in tuition, since the University and the legislature meeting place are in the same city.

But, in spite of the fine job he was doing, Burlage was removed as editor of the Daily Texan — the first removal since 1918 — because he received six parking tickets since enrolling as a freshman four years ago. Five of these tickets were picked up while working on the TEXAN, and the other was given while a faculty member was driving his car.

Perhaps the most outstanding thing about the entire situation is the fact that in the Student-Faculty Advisory Committee vote on probation, three voted to put him on probation and two voted not to. There are three faculty and two student members on the committee.

Perhaps there is no connection, but Burlage was removed from office during a controversial campaign, and the vote on probation was divided in the same manner than the faculty-student representation is: 3-2.

Three are representatives of the college; hence, of the state, and Burlage was opposing the state government on tuition. Two members were students, whom Burlage was favoring in his campaign.

Whatever the case is, the removal of Burlage is a great loss to college journalism, and is doubly so if the removal is for political reasons rather than for violating a campus regulation.

A Little Bit

James Hamm

To many persons, life has a nifty set up of rules for conduct and belief backed up by irrefutable facts, and, mainly because he believes this set of rules to be right, everyone should conform to them.

THE WEAK POINT of this type of thinking is that the set of rules works only so long as a person assumes that they are correct. Someone else perhaps may believe that an entirely different set of rules is right.

Actually, "truth" is what each person individually sees it as. Even the basic question of existence is solved by each individual on an assumption. He "assumes" that he exists because he "assumes" that his basic senses, such as feel and sight, are correct, and, in turn, "exist."

This assumption is one that most, or all, persons are willing to make, but beyond that point there is a wide divergence of "assumptions." Each person works out a way of life, chooses his religion and sets his moral standards for himself, based on whatever he "assumes" to be right.

Concerning religion, some, because they cannot prove the existence of a "Supreme Being" by the basic senses, "assume" that there is none, and man is just concerned with life on earth.

Others, although agreeing that you cannot prove the existence of a "Supreme Being" by the basic senses, feel that something had to set the world in motion, and that something was their "Supreme Being." Therefore, they feel that man must deal with another life other than their physical one.

One person may think of drinking alcoholic beverages as a sin, another may think of it as an escape from the pressures of life, and thus is right.

However, there is one limitation placed on a person's right to choose his own beliefs — his responsibility to society. Society, as a group of individuals, has set up a few limitations on a person concerning his beliefs to protect other members of society, as well as society as a whole.

In other words, a person may "assume" that it is right to bat someone over the head with a club when that person bothers him in some manner, but isn't allowed to do so by society.

As a member of society, a person enjoys all the benefits inherent with a society. In return, he is expected to obey the few rules laid down by society, or, failing to do so, he must receive the punishment that it meted out for his particular crime.

But outside of these few rules, a man has the right to set up his own beliefs on the assumptions he chooses to make. At this point is where the narrow-mindedness of certain persons comes into play.

These persons, either individually or as a group, have worked out a nice little way of life, and they try to force it on everyone in sight. They take a difference in opinion as a personal insult on their intelligence, and feel that anyone not believing the way they do is damned to hellfire and brimstone.

A little understanding and respect for the beliefs of other persons would certainly help, as would the realization that just because a person, or a large group of persons, believes something is right doesn't make it right for everyone — just for those who are willing to "assume" that it is right.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

"LOTTA ABSENCES - MUS' BE SOME KIND OF SICKNESS 'ROUND!"

ALMOST EVERY MAJOR COLLEGE in the country has one major activity each year, bringing together all elements of the school for a short period.

An activity of this sort tends to draw together the students, faculty and administration, and builds school spirit, besides entertaining everyone concerned by providing a break in the long school year.

The activity may be called "Pioneer Week" at another school — at Tech it's called "Spring Festival." But it is designed for the same purpose at every school: entertaining and bringing together the different campus elements.

Tech's Spring Festival will be presented for the second time in Tech's history this year, and the Spring Festival Committee has corrected one of the most glaring faults of last year's festival — no blanket ticket to cover the major events.

This year such a ticket has been worked out. It will cover skit row, dolphin show, a barbecue and the coronation dance.

Cost of the ticket, which goes on sale Tuesday, is $2.75 for off-campus students and $1.75 for dorm residents. Difference in cost for off-campus and dorm students occurs because the barbecue will be paid out of dorm funds for the meal missed by dorm residents.

Off-campus students also have the option of attending or not attending the barbecue. If an off-campus student decides to pass up the barbecue, his ticket will cost $1.75.

Individual tickets can also be bought for each of the events, in lieu of the blanket ticket, but the blanket ticket represents a fifty cent saving. Individual Tickets are: barbecue, $1.25; coronation dance, $1.00; skit row, fifty cents; dolphin show, fifty cents.

Proceeds from the blanket ticket sales will be divided among the events of the spring festival after thirteen cents have been deducted for the general Spring Festival fund to cover general expenses and provide a backlog for next year's presentation.

Ticket holders will see 10 campus variety acts in skit row, sponsored by the junior class, and will see water ballet and other water acts in the Dolphin show — as well as beautiful girls.

The coronation dance, set for April 11, will feature unusual decorations. Planned for the coliseum, a 40-foot high clown's head, with the band sitting in the clown's mouth, will adorn one end of the dance floor.

At the other will be the clown's feet, with the toes curved back toward the center of the floor. Mr. and Miss Texas Tech and the class favorites will be presented through the toes of the clown's shoes.

Other events of the Spring Festival are the frantic fun fare, senior carnival, bicycle race, barn dance, tug-of-war (between men's organizations and dorms, across a 10-foot-wide mudhole), western dance and der liederkranz review.

This year's Spring Festival shows promise of improvement over last year, but cooperation is needed from everyone. It will give Techsans a welcome break, and will increase school spirit by bringing all campus elements together.

The blanket ticket offers a definite improvement over last year to those attending the festival, through a saving in admission prices, and the fact that all major events are paid for at one time. Anyone planning to enjoy the festival would do well to buy the blanket ticket.

Tech Rests; Varsity Show Cast Works

Glen Burns rallies his followers around him in a scene from the 1959 Varsity Show production, "Something For Nothing" to be presented April 3 and 4 at 8:00 P.M.

While most wind-blown students at Tech escape for the Easter holidays today, there is no holiday for some 60 members of the Tech Union Varsity Show, "Something for Nothing" to be presented next week.

REHEARSALS are set for Friday, Saturday and Monday from 10 a.m. until 10 p.m. The cast and production crew will take time off Sunday morning in observance of Easter to attend church services together, followed by a picnic in MacKenzie Park.

The entire cast, dancers and the large production crew are staying over the holidays to put the finishing touches on the show written by John Gilbert.

The production crew begins moving all sets and equipment into Municipal Auditorium next Monday morning. Carlyle Smith is stage manager, assisted by Larry Campbell. Elizabeth Guthrie is in charge of lighting with Dale Boyett taking care of Municipal Auditorium problems as house manager.

"THE SHOW SEEMS to be completely set production-wise," says Roy Lemons, publicity director, "with a large and talented cast tying together the necessary details that are the difference between a great show and a good one."

The busy cast has made many personal appearances to promote the show. Tuesday, cast members appeared at the Southwest Rotary Club dinner. Wives of C. P. A.'s dinner, Weeks Hall and the Lions Club banquet.

The show uses parts of the Kingston college background show to demonstrate what happens when a visitor comes to give the college's students "something for nothing."

MUSIC FOR THE 20-plus show numbers is provided by the Tech Orchestra. It will be the largest pit orchestra used in the annual affair.

Songs were written by John Gilbert and orchestrated by Paul Ellsworth, orchestra director, and two Tech graduates, George Mellett and Gary Garner, band director at Lubbock's Monterey High School.

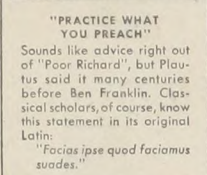

THIS IS THE first time the group has signed a contract. Before, individuals signed to play for the show, but now the group will use their earnings to start a Tech Orchestra Fund, announces Claude Rogers, show producer. The fund is for equipment and tours.

Varsity Show is to be presented April 3 and 4 at the Municipal Auditorium at 8 p.m. A special matinee performance is to be Saturday afternoon at 2:15. Tickets are on sale by sorority and fraternity members and at the Tech Union.

"EVERYONE TO HIS OWN TASTE"
There has never been any accounting for tastes, and the man who appreciated this truth first was Francois Rabelais. In his "Pantagruel", he coined this now-famous judgment:
"Every one to his taste, as the woman said when she kissed her cow."

"PRACTICE WHAT YOU PREACH"
Sounds like advice right out of "Poor Richard", but Plautus said it many centuries before Ben Franklin. Classical scholars, of course, know this statement in its original Latin:
"Facies ipse quod faciamus suades."

"LOVED AND LOST"
It's better than not loving at all according to Lord Tennyson's "In Memoriam", XXVII:
"I hold it true, whole'er befall/I feel it, when I sorrow most/ 'Tis better to have loved and lost/ Than never to have loved at all."

Jockey SKANTS
striped brief

"Purely sensational"—that's the judgment of college men who have seen the new Jockey Striped SKANTS. Jockey stylists have taken this 100% stretch nylon bikini-style brief... added candy stripes... and produced a garment you'll really enjoy wearing.

SKANTS is cut high on the sides with a low waistband and comes in a choice of red, black, green, rust or blue stripes. Look for SKANTS—in stripes, or solids—in the Jockey department at your campus store.

RALPH'S RAMBLINGS

by

Carpenter

Received the following letter early this week. I thought I would pass its contents along to you.

Carpenter,

In recent weeks I've been reading about the plans to enlarge Jones Stadium. I understand that seat options are in the process of being sold, alumni and anybody else that feels like it are being urged to contribute, and a large allocation of College Building funds received from federal and state legislation will be used.

It is my understanding that a total of at least two million dollars will be spent for the total revamping of the stadium. All of this sounds well and good but apparently it is a half-baked pipe dream.

Hell, who could expect a college that can't even keep its present stadium sign lit to do anything about a project as large as rebuilding the whole thing?

Have you noticed perhaps, that when the neon sign on the east side of Jones Stadium is lit that it looks comparable to recent Tech football team's performances — half . . . (word deleted, bad grammar). Apparently whoever runs the stadium has about as much pride as he does sense.

Someone should at least turn the thing off if we can't afford to have it fixed. There, it seems, is one reflection of what we think of our school. That sign is one of the most prominent features about our campus at night. Everyone who passes the stadium glances at it when they drive by.

Why don't you write about something concrete for a change? Ordinarily, you are on somebody's tail for something or other. Why not use this destructive bent attitude for a worthwhile cause? It would be a welcome relief.

A very worthwhile project would be one to remove the eyesore — or get it fixed!

C. H.

Thanks for your comment C. H. It looks like the stadium is now underway. Also, I checked with Jimmie Wilson, Tech athletic business manager, on the sign situation and he informed me that the sign has been repaired many times — however, as soon as it is repaired vandals with BB guns shoot it out again. The last time it was repaired it stayed on two days and was shot out again. This my friend is a costly operation. You might come over and guard it?

Freshman baseball coach, Earl Parker, was a confused young man Tuesday when two teams showed up to play his Picador nine. Odessa JC and South Plains JC both arrived at the Tech diamond about thirty minutes apart. Parker explained it this way, "Our schedule had South Plains JC tabbed as our Tuesday opponent and Odessa was listed on our schedule as April 24-25. However, Odessa had us marked on their schedule as March 24 contest. After talking to both coaches we agreed to go ahead and play Odessa and make up the SPJC game at a later date."

"Heck, I was ready to play them both but South Plains didn't want to wait around since they had mid-term exams on tap," Parker remarked. He was pleased by the Picador performance against the Odessa crew. "You can't be displeased with boys when they hit the ball like they did against Odessa. Of course we made a few mistakes but that can be expected this early in the season," Parker asserted. The Picadors pounded out a 14-2 victory in the lid-lifter.

★—RWC—★

I, as a host of other Tech students, read Joe Kelly's "Between the Lines" column daily in the AJ. Personally, I find it interesting and informative. However, I would like to see him say exactly where he stands on the Tech baseball program — is he for it — or against it?

Fencers See Action In Annapolis Meet

Tech's fencing team will compete in the National Collegiate Fencing Championship at Annapolis this week end.

"THEY ARE all inexperienced," said Tech's fencing coach Frank Griffin, reporting his teams chances this week end. Coach Griffin lost two boys from his squad, who would have added much strength to the team, due to scholastic reasons. Tech placed 13th out of 26 teams last year in national standings.

Boys who are representing Tech at Annapolis are: Royce Bruce, junior from Lubbock. Last year Bruce placed 16th in his class at the national meet.

WENDELL MORROW, sophomore from Wilson. This will be Morrow's first year in national competition. Coach Griffin reported that Morrow looked real good at the first of the year and has been improving steadily.

Donal Myrick, junior from Lubbock. This is Myrick's first year to go out for fencing. Myrick placed second in unclassified sabre at Denton March 21.

Tracksters In Meet

by VERNON STEWART

Tech's nine man track team goes to Big Spring this weekend for what is expected to be their toughest test so far this season.

NINE TEAMS will compete in the meet including the top Texas plus Ohio State. The University of Houston, Abilene Christian, East Texas State, Baylor, SMU, Texas A&M, North Texas and Tech round out the entries.

"Points are going to be very hard to come by in this one," said Coach Don Sparks. "It will take a 13 ft. pole vault, a 23 ft. broad jump, and about a 6 ft. 8 in. high jump to place and the running events will be equally as hard to win."

"OUR BEST chance for points are in the 440, the sprint relay, the sprint medley and the high jump," Sparks said.

As usual Tech's greatest drawback will be a shortage of manpower. In the three meets Tech has entered, the team has numbered nine members. At the Border Olympics seven of the nine figured in the scoring. In Fort Worth at the Southwestern Recreational Meet, eight Raiders scored and seven of the nine men scored at San Angelo last weekend.

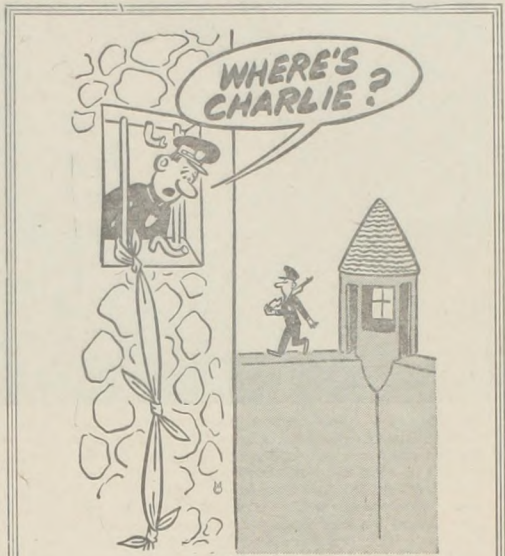

SO FAR THIS season, the Raiders have placed fourth in the Southwestern Recreational Meet and fifth in the Border Olympics.

"If we had 20 boys instead of nine, we would be a threat to win nearly any meet we entered," Sparks said.

ONLY TWO members of the outstanding 1957 freshman team are on this year's squad. In 1957, the freshmen placed second in the freshman division of the Southwest Conference Relays. Texas University took first place by one point. The others have dropped out of school, are ineligible or have transferred.

FOUR MEMBERS of the East Texas team are ex-Raiders. Scholastic ineligibility has greatly weakened this year's team.

Sparks said the men lost because "Our goal this year is to place of bad grades could have scored in the top division of the Southwest about 16 points in the Southwest Conference meet," Sparks said.

Veteran Prizefighter Slates Title Defense

Veteran titleholder Archie Moore and Durelle, the rugged Indian, Wednesday agreed to a re-match of their exciting world light heavyweight championship bout.

The match will be held July 15 in the Montreal ball park.

THE ANNOUNCEMENT was made by Eddie Quinn, a Montreal promoter who staged their first fight in the Montreal Forum last Dec. 10. In that one, Moore was floored four times and then rallied to stop Durelle in the 11th round.

There was no immediate indication whether the bout would be televised. Home TV is believed likely because the match was scheduled for a Wednesday night when weekly boxing bouts are telecast by ABC.

Tough Weekend

Texas Tech's tennis team will have a busy Saturday coming up, since the Red Raiders will follow up participation in an Odessa College tournament by playing Texas Western in a match at Odessa.

COACH GEORGE Philbrick will enter Bob Macy of Coral Gables, Fla., Phil Meisinger of El Paso, John Kniffen of Clyde, and Danny Scales of Lubbock.

Macy last week won the consolation singles title of the Rive Invitational tournament by downing Robert Dopson, 6-1, 0-6, 6-0.

Tech Golfers Drop Contest

Coach Jay McClure's golfers fell to Memphis State Wednesday in match play at the Southwestern Intercollegiate tournament at Houston. The tournament will continue today through Saturday.

FOUR TEAM members accompanied Coach McClure to the tournament. Seniors John Paul Cain of Sweetwater, John Farquhar of Amarillo, and Don Kaplan of Borger and sophomore Chris Blocker of Jal, N.M., all made the trip.

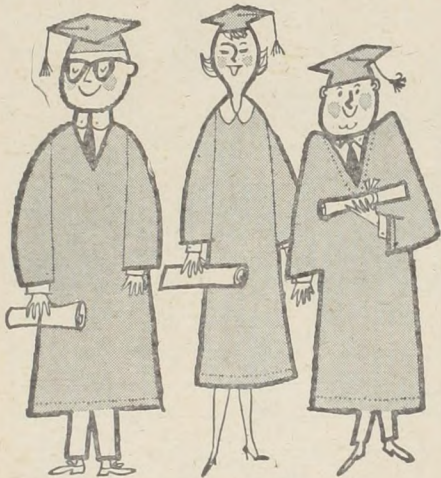

Texas Tech, runner-up in the Border Olympics and third in the Southwestern Recreation Meet, won the West Texas Relays varsity title last week. The Raiders' No. 2 team finished third, and the freshmen were second in their division.
