Vol. 32 Lubbock, Texas, Friday, October 12, 1956 No. 11

AWS Will Honor Tech Dads Tomorrow

Kick-off time tomorrow night at 8 p.m. for Tech Raiders and West Texas State Buffaloes will find an estimated 4,000 Tech dads seated in a special section reserved for them in Jones Stadium.

The senior citizens will be participating in the third annual Dad's Day held on Tech campus, sponsored by AWS. Half-time activities honoring dads will include special numbers by the Big Red Band under direction of Dr.

D. O. Wiley and the presentation of three trophies by President E. N. Jones to the oldest dad present, the dad traveling the farthest distance to attend, and the dad having the largest number of students enrolled in Tech.

Dads will start arriving at Tech around noon tomorrow and will register at a coffee in the Student Union Building at 1:30 p.m. There they will be officially greeted by Miss Florence Phillips, dean of women, Miss Jacqueline Sterner, assistant dean of women, Ardith Campbell, president of Panhellenic Association, and Mrs. Nita Kiesling, president of AWS.

The rest of the afternoon will find Techsians escorting dads around the campus, meeting friends and parents. All dorms will open doors to parents. Students are asked to tidy dorm rooms for the open house.

A stag banquet with President Jones as principal speaker is planned for 5:30 p.m. in the Union Ballroom. Dr. J. William Davis will preside as master of ceremonies. Two campus groups will provide music for the gathering: "The Great Pretenders," a male quartet consisting of Dick Seales, David Ricky, Lewis Sitterly, all of Lubbock, and David Leopold of Odessa; and a women's trio of Glenda Keith, Borger; Roberta Elliott, Lubbock, and Louise Crook, Snyder.

"Members of AWS, Alpha Phi Omega and the Men's Inter-Dorm Council have been working together to make this the most memorable day Tech dads have ever known."

President Changes November Holiday

Classes will be dismissed for Thanksgiving holidays Nov. 29 through Dec. 1, the President's office announced today.

The holiday dates originally were listed Nov. 22-24 in the current catalog. However, the State legally is observing Nov. 29 as Thanksgiving and Tech, as a State-supported institution, will follow suit.

Tech Directories To Sell Next Week

Complete directories of faculty, students and staff will be available after noon Wednesday in the Tech Bookstore, if printing is completed.

They will include alphabetized names, home addresses, local addresses, divisions, classification and telephone number of each student. Office numbers, telephone extensions, home telephones and home addresses will be listed for the faculty and staff, according to W. C. Cole, manager of the bookstore.

Entire registration will be included, with late-registration students listed in a supplement at the end of the alphabetized list.

HOMECOMING DAY COMMITTEES NAMED

Committees for Homecoming Day, Nov. 3, have been appointed by the Student Council and definite plans for the occasion will begin to take form soon. The Ex-Student Association and Alpha Phi Omega, national service fraternity of former Boy Scouts, are also assisting in plans.

Committee chairmen are Joe Sneed, registration; John Sporak, pep rally and bon fire; Jess McIlvain, coronation; Jess Downey, parade; Doyle Grundy, lighting; and Fred Williams, signs.

Classes will be dismissed at 10 a.m. Homecoming Day, and game time for the Tech-Oklahoma A&M tilt will be 2 p.m.

West Texas State's Buffaloes invade Tech tomorrow, seeking their second win over the Red Raiders since 1930. This is the record which the Big Red of Texas Tech will be trying to protect when the two ancient rivals collide at 8 p.m. in Jones Stadium.

The last Buff win over Tech was in 1950, the year that Coach Frank Kimbrough's charges went on to a Border Conference championship, and a Sun Bowl triumph. Writers have compared Kimbrough's 1956 edition favorably with this outfit, many thinking this year's to be better.

The record book shows that West Texas State is the only team still being met by the Red Raiders which appeared on the schedule of Tech's first eleven, in 1925. The Matadors, as Tech teams were first known, won that initial game, 13-12.

Tech Leads Series

Through the years, West Texas has been able to annex only four wins over Tech, with Tech teams winning 16 times in the 20-game series.

This year's Buffalo team is the result of several years of working and planning. Winning tomorrow night's game has been the prime objective of the WT mentors.

Few West Texas teams have ever gone into the Tech game as the favorite, but the Buffs will definitely get the nod in tomorrow's meeting. WT has nine starters and 30 lettermen returning from a team which was nosed-out by Tech 27-24 last year.

Has Perfect Record

The lack of experience can be shown by comparative records so far this year. West Texas brings a perfect 3-0 slate into the game, having beaten Corpus Christi, McMurry and Sul Ross. The Raiders, who are missing 17 men this season who had won between them 42 letters, are looking for their initial win of the season.

Coach DeWitt Weaver's charges have lost on successive week ends to Texas Western, Baylor, and Texas A&M.

Even with Tech anxious to break into the win column, especially after their dismal showing last week in Dallas, West Texas will probably have the most incentive to win. As do most of the teams on Tech's schedule, West Texas has been pointing to their

Frosh Choose Nine To Complete Council

Winners of the nine remaining Freshman Council positions voted on Wednesday were announced this morning.

They are Dewey Bryant, Lubbock; Jolene Caffee, Lubbock; Walter Heffington, Wichita Falls;

Kay Miller, Brownwood; Carolyn Porter, Lubbock; David Webb, Lubbock; Norman Womack, Lubbock; Glenn Woody, Lubbock and Johanna Zournas, Lubbock.

Elected to the Council last week were Joe Gilleland, Bill Holmes, Roger Sewell, Felix Crawford, Ronnie Monroe, Marry Anna McDuffie, Ann Gordon, Mary Lou Patterson, Bill Dean, David Edwards, Kenny Cummings, Kay Liner, Betsy Painter, Mack Robertson, Annette Rost and Kathy White.

Three of the freshmen elected this week are in runoff for class office: Bryant, vice president; Heffington, president and Miss Zournas, secretary.

If they are elected, they will be replaced on the Freshman Council by students who received the next highest number of votes.

'56 Contest Opens For Cotton Maid

Some Southern-born Tech coed may be chosen to represent this area as one of the 20 finalists in the National Maid of Cotton contest this year in Memphis.

Entry blanks for the South Plains Maid of Cotton Contest will be available next week in the Journalism Building, Public Information Office or from the Chamber of Commerce for unmarried girls 19 to 25 years old.

Each contestant will receive awards and the winner will receive a $1,000 wardrobe and an all-expense trip to Memphis.

Contestants must be at least five feet five inches tall and must have been born in a cotton-producing state. They will be judged on the basis of personality, poise, intelligence and appearance.

Entry deadline is November 9 and judging will be in the Caprock Hotel Nov. 19. Finals will be Nov. 20 in Lubbock's Municipal Auditorium.

Bley Trio To Show 'New Look' In Jazz

The "new look" in American jazz will be seen in a free concert of the Paul Bley Trio at the Tech Union Ballroom tonight at 8.

Twenty-four year old Bley has played the piano for seventeen years, developing a unique and individual style, using a stiff-fingered technique patterned after Oscar Peterson.

Now under contract to Mercury Records, the Canadian Bley has studied at several music schools, including Juilliard School of Music in New York.

Tuesday 'Date Night' Set By Tech Union Council

Tuesday has been designated date night, from 7 to 9 p.m. in the Tech Union Games Room, according to Teddy Carbel, games and tournaments committee chairman.

Games to be included are ping-pong, cards, shuffle board, and chess. Admission is free and the only requirement is a date.

MARJORIE LAWRENCE

Noted Singer Opens City Concert Series

Marjorie Lawrence, dramatic soprano whose life story was the subject of the book and movie "Interrupted Melody," will be guest soloist at Lubbock Symphony Orchestra's first concert this season, Monday at 8:15 in the Lubbock Municipal Auditorium.

Tickets for students are priced at 75 cents, $1.50, $2 and $2.50 and will be available tomorrow from 9 to 5 p.m. at the Auditorium, from 1 to 5 p.m. Sunday and Monday from 10 a.m. until concert time.

In 1935 Miss Lawrence came to the Metropolitan after successful European performances and won praise in America for her roles such as Salome and Alceste. Then in 1941 her career was interrupted when she was stricken with polio.

MORE POSTERS THAN VOTES—A myriad of election posters plastered on the walls, doors and even the floor of the central entrance to the Ad Building leaves little doubt who is running for what—that is if you can spare a couple of hours to read them. Custodians Ed Oden (left), building foreman, and Jess Eitel, who think that everyone in school must be running for something, are beginning to wonder who is going to take the posters down after run-off next week. "The students who put them there are supposed to take them down," says Oden, "but the custodians usually end up doing it after all."

A DAY FOR DAD'S...

Saturday, fathers of Techsians from points throughout the state will arrive on campus to be honored by their sons and daughters.

This day was created to show off our alma mater as well as to create good will between our entire college family and our Dads.

It will be a day of reunion of parents and their sons and daughters. It will help to relieve the worries of many mothers and dads of freshmen who are away from home for the first time.

A special half-time mention at the Tech-West Texas State game that night and a stag dinner are two events scheduled for the Dads. Trophies will be presented to the oldest dad present, the one who came the farthest, and the one who has the largest number of students in Tech.

Success of this day depends upon the students. Invitations have been mailed to each dad, but it will take the persuasion of the students to get many of the dads to attend.

If every student will take time out to make the attending fathers feel welcome and wanted, the day will surely be a success and one that will be remembered by each dad present.

Versatile Tech Senior Relates Summer Travels

By PAUL FORAKER
Toreador Assistant Editor

It's a long way from West Texas to an Italian city in the foothills of the Alps, and a person who can easily fit into either or both places must promptly be labeled "versatile." Such a girl is Mary Randal, a pleasant, wide-awake Tech senior Spanish major from Lubbock who spent something like seven weeks in Europe this summer.

The trip was part of an "experiment in international living" conducted by civic clubs and organizations across the country. Nine college students besides Mary and a leader made the European excursion, representing a total of nine states and eleven colleges. Out of ten applicants from Lubbock for the overseas jaunt Mary was selected to be the ambassador of good will from this area.

The group of eleven sailed from Quebec July 3 and reached Le Havre, France, nine days later. A train provided transportation from Le Havre, France to Paris, and again from Paris to their final destination of Cuneo, Italy.

"People on European trains are much friendlier than in the United States," commented Mary. She said the group rode in compartments on the train along with other European travelers, and that everyone had a jovial time trying to understand each other. Twenty-two pieces of luggage accompanied the group, and there were a total of four train changes.

"We finally worked out a system on the luggage," revealed Mary. "There were six boys and five girls in the group, so the girls would get off first and the boys would hand the luggage out to them through the open windows of the train."

Cuneo, Italy, is a city of 40,000 population. It is situated at the foot of the Alps Mountains in a very picturesque setting, and it was to be "home base" for the American group of students for nearly two months.

"Each of us was to stay with an Italian family in Cuneo," Mary continued. "Our train arrived in Cuneo at 11 p.m., July 13th. Each of the families was there at the depot waiting to meet 'its American,' and you can imagine the wild confusion which ensued as the train pulled in. Fortunately, several of our group spoke Italian fluently, and several of the Italian group were acquainted with English, so we finally got straightened out and each went home with 'his family.'"

Mary's "family" consisted of a schoolteacher, Dr. Marie Ferrari, and her father, a retired Italian soldier. Also in the home was Dr. Ferrari's three-year-old niece who did her part to keep things lively.

"I was too sleepy the first couple of days to do much of anything except sleep. As soon as I got caught up, however, the group and our Italian friends spent lots of time taking side trips from Cuneo. We visited old castles, a wine factory, a chocolate-manu-

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

To the Editor:

It seems to me that this is the time for a letter concerning the school spirit of Texas Tech.

Our football team has lost three games in a row. So what? They have also won the Border Conference title for several years in a row. I have heard some pretty bad comments from members of our student body to the effect: "I don't care about seeing anymore games, we'll lose anyway." "Sure we've been winning the Border Conference title, we haven't had to play any hard teams."

In the case of the first statement, losing anything is no reason for giving up. Where would our country be now if our armies gave up the minute they lost one battle? Or what shape would America be in if all the big businesses had quit the minute one important deal fell through? And what will happen to Texas Tech if the students are willing to give up the minute we have lost the first three football games of the season?

Some of our students seem to think that our football team isn't ready for Southwest Conference opponents. Maybe they should analyze themselves to see if the school spirit they are displaying measures up to the schools that are in the Southwest Conference.

With regard to the second statement, it seems to me that all of the Border Conference schools could not possibly have had bad teams every year. I should think that winning the Conference title every year is much more to be proud of than winning four or five games a season, as many teams do.

Our football players take full course loads, practice football every day, miss classes to make out-of-town trips; some are active in campus affairs, and some even find time to hold part-time jobs. In return they ask only that we support them a pep rallies and football games. Doesn't that seem little enough to ask?

Two perfect record sets were made tomorrow night in Jordan Stadium for the "unpleasant" rivalry of an almost ancient H. Plains rivalry.

We are speaking, of course, West Texas State whose Buffalo have been perfect in winning the games and of our own Tech Raiders who have been perfect—perfectly winless.

The comparison on the basis of first glance at the records will almost scare the saddle off Red Raider rider's horse. But Tech competition warrior will make a somewhat brighter outlook.

Consider the fact that the Buffalo have handled with comparative ease such schools as McMurry, S. Bass, and Corpus Christi, none of which are gridiron giants. On the other hand Tech has tumbled into the middle of a schedule which includes Texas Western, Baylor, and Texas A&M. The two are probably among the top ten top eleven and Western Plains may give the Border Conference a run for its money.

But while we're trying to size up the situation let's be realistic. The changes of Coach Frank Kirk will definitely have a number of factors in their favor. It is the fact that perennially undisciplined WT ordinarily give us usually mighty Tech a ferocious game. Then, too, is the more direct angle of returning letter and starters. This point, most of all, makes Techsians tremble.

We won't hazard a prediction because like INS reported, could go either way. But we say that the fans will see a terrific game and I wouldn't criticize the Red Raiders—it is safe.

meeting with the Red Raiders. The game will count for against the Bisons in their quest for a Border Championship, a WT will be trying to duplicate Texas Western's feat of igniting Tech's new Southwest Conference affiliation and chalk up an important Bowler win.

A Tech win, while it would weaken WT's conference hopes would definitely put a thorn in their drive toward a championship, since Texas Western, a conference power, has already posted a win over Tech.

Tech loses Killeen

Tech hopes were dimmed somewhat this week when it was covered that co-captain Bob Killeen has a cracked wrist and may miss the rest of the season. Killeen, an all-conference performer, was the only tackle with varsity experience on the Rain squad. As a result, senior Don Campbell has been moved forward to tackle, and is backed up by Phil Williams, who replaced Killeen.

Even with the loss of Killeen, Tech's biggest lineman at 235, Raiders will still have a weight advantage over the Buffs. Tech line averages 211, while WT's put out at 207. The Raiders would gladly trade their weight advantage for a little more experience, however.

TOP MAN—Tech quarterback Buddy Hill leads his team in passing, total offense, and punting. He is a 3-year letterman.

Hill Paces Red Raiders

Slated to start his first game of the year tomorrow night against West Texas is Tech quarterback Buddy Hill, who has attempt to upset the Buffaloes. Some changes have been made in the Raider's depth chart. Although by no means final, the probable starting lineup for tomorrow's game reads:

Buff Lineup Listed

The Buffs are expected to counter with:

LE Bob Covington, LT Phil Wright, LG Joe Brooks, C Doug Higgins, RG Jerry Epps, RT James Kauffman, RE Ken Ballard, QB Bubba Hilman, LH Dave Corley, RH Dale Wiley, and FB Charles Sanders.

A crowd of around 15,000 is expected for the game.

been "on the shelf" since an injury in last year's Sun Bowl and the resulting operation last spring caused him to miss the spring game and slowed him this fall, is beginning to look like his old self.

Hill had been playing behind Captain Don Williams this season until the Texas A&M game last week in Dallas. Buddy came into the game to complete 5 out of 12 tosses, including a 43-yarder to end Ken Vakey for Tech's only score of the evening.

By virtue of last week's game, Hill is now leading Tech in the offensive department. He has completed 9 of 25 passes, good for 143 yards, added to 14 yards rushing, for a total of 157, more than a third of Tech's total yardage.

Hill, who has won three letters as a Red Raider, is also an adept punter. He leads the team in that category also, having a 39.3 average for 10 punts. His 78-yarder against Tulsa in 1954 is the longest Texas boot in recent years.

Buddy is the first son of a Tech letterman to win a Raider letter. His father, the late Volney (Satch) Hill was a fullback on Tech's first two squads, in 1925 and '26.

"Flying Matadors" To Perform Pre-Game Show Tomorrow Night

The Flying Matadors, three Tech trampoline artists, will provide pre-game entertainment Saturday night when the Raiders meet the West Texas State Buffaloes in Jones Stadium. Their performance will be at 7:45 p.m.

Edsel Buchanan, physical education instructor, is coach of the team and also a member. Others on the team are Joe Naylor, Lubbock, sophomore pre-med major, and Jay Johnson, Amarillo, sophomore chemistry major.

Buchanan was the national collegiate trampoline champion in 1946, 1950, and 1951 while a student at the University of Michigan. Since that time his record has not been equalled.

TEAMS NEEDED

The physical education department reminds those interested in playing intramural touch football that they have until tomorrow to file their roster with the Intramural office.

More entries are badly needed, especially in the Independent League where there have been only three entries.

WT Game Has Added Features

Tech's annual game with the Buffaloes of West Texas State College will have several "added attractions" this year.

The game will highlight "Dad's Day" activities at Tech, sponsored by the Association of Women Students, Alpha Phi Omega, and the Men's Inter-Dorm Council.

A special train will bring fans to the game from the Canyon-Amarillo area, which will increase the usually large throng of West Texas State rooters. This will be the first special train from West Texas since 1929, when the Buffaloes won 20-0.

Freshmen at West Texas have been promised that they may remove their beanies after Saturday night if the Buffaloes score a victory over the Red Raiders. The fish from Tech's ancient rival are expected to be out in full force for the game, having added incentive to cheer their team on.

Unusual Bulletin Board Cartoons Draw Wide Tech Student Attention

By LYNETTE HOWELL
Toreador Staff Writer

Did you ever notice the bulletin board on the first floor, west wing, of the Administration Building? The one with the jokes? According to Dean James G. Allen and a great many students, it is probably the most noticed announcement board on campus. But there's a story behind it.

Five years ago, a committee, of which Dean Allen was a member, examined the campus bulletin boards. His opinion was that most of them were not noticed because they had no eye appeal and were not changed often enough. So—the board outside the student life office is changed on the average of once a week and jokes are added. The middle section contains news of Tech, clipped from downstate newspapers and other places. Notices of student and faculty recognition are also posted.

Cartoons are selected from back issues of The New Yorker, not less than two years old, so most college students aren't familiar with them. Dean Allen prefers the subtle ones. He says students have stood arguing about the point sometimes, and professors have been heard discussing them. A few Techsians have even wandered into the dean's office to have their opinions verified. People have stood patiently waiting while the board is being changed, to read the cartoons.

Clippings from as far away as Indiana have been sent in—and a great many campus organizations have asked for the cartoons after they're taken down. Those pertaining to psychology, for example, are given to the psychology department after they've been used.

William D. Scott Resigns At Union

William D. Scott, director of Tech Union for the past three years, has announced his resignation effective Oct. 31. Nelson Longley who has been assistant director of the Union for the past year, has been named acting director.

Scott leaves Texas Tech to go to the University of Massachusetts at Amherst, where he will assume direction of the as yet uncompleted two million dollar student union plant at that institution.

Scott came to Tech from West Virginia where he was student union director for six years. He took over the Tech post in September of 1952.

Scott expressed his regret at leaving Tech and stated a wish that the administration will soon see fit to add to the Student Union Building here the facilities necessary to caring for the increasing student body.

Two Showings Set For Movie At Union

Tech Union's new cinemascope screen will be set up for its first showing Monday, with "Three Coins in a Fountain," starring Clifton Webb and Dorothy McGuire, in technicolor.

Record crowds of over 400 have been attending Monday Union movies, so two showings will be made Monday, at 4 and 7 p.m. Admission is free.

Amarillo Swingsters Enroll At Tech

By BUDDY WRIGHT
Toreador Staff Writer

Styled for popular dancing to Dixieland Jazz, the Sultans of Swing dance orchestra are ready for any occasion, according to their business manager Bill Lofgren.

A circuit of high school assemblies in the panhandle, junior-senior proms and two summer engagements at Yellowstone National Park are a few of the places the Tech group has traveled. They have also played for local benefit telethons in Amarillo and school dances both in Lubbock and Amarillo.

The Sultans originally called the Sandie Swingsters changed their name last year. They were organized eight years ago in Amarillo High School to play for local school dances. The group was sponsored by the school until 1950 when Dale Fowlkes, saxophonist for the group, took over leadership. Dale now attending West Texas State in Canyon, will come to Tech at mid-term. The other six members are now going to school here.

Dixieland show band is the specialty of the group, according to Lofgren, but they have a complete stock of popular music and several special arrangements. The band was honored by being one of three bands selected by audition to play in the Canyon Lodge at Yellowstone National Park for next summer. The lodge is the biggest in the park, and it requires special auditions. Stan Hoefler, bass player, played a week with the Ralph Flannigan orchestra on its Texas tour.

The Sultans will play for the Phi Gamma Nu sorority dance a week from tomorrow in the Union Ballroom and will also play for an all school Pig Skin Prom, Nov. 9. The group's Lubbock address is Box 4353, Tech Station, PO 2-8257. Members of the group are: Dale Fowlkes, Bill Lofgren, Curtis O'Rear, Noel Maxwell, Raymond Estess, Stan Hoefler and Don Greer.

Weight-Lift Classes Offered At YMCA

Want to enlarge those biceps? The YMCA, 2402 14th, is offering individual and class activities in weight lifting on Monday through Thursday. The climax of these classes will be a city-wide competition weightlifting meet in December.

Pool, snooker, and ping-pong are also available at the "Y" on Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday. There will be no charge for members for these games, but a charge of 25 cents will be assessed for non-members.

"Y" membership is required for all gym sports with the annual fee of $2.50. Gym clothes are required for the gym activities. Participants may bring their own towels or rent one for 10 cents.

The schedule of the activities are as follows: Weight Lifting: Monday, 7:30-9:00 p.m., class; Tuesday, 1:30-3:30, individual work out; Wednesday, 1:30-3:30, individual work out; Wednesday, 5:15-6:45, class; Thursday, 7:00-9:00, individual work out.
