First Football Game To Be Friday Night

The first football game of the season for the Santa Anna Mountaineers will be played at Clyde on Friday night, September 7, beginning at 8:00 p. m. All Mountaineer games will be played at 8:00 p. m. until games scheduled for October 19, when the time will change to 7:30 p. m.

Inflation has had its effect on Class A football this year. All adult admissions will be $1.00 per person and student admission will be 25 cents per person. All band and pep squad members will be admitted free of charge.

The Mountaineers have been working out since August 27 with two work-outs daily, until this week. They have had three scrimmages: One with Blanket last Thursday evening and two with Early, one on Saturday night and one Tuesday afternoon. They looked good in all three scrimmages, especially on defense. Coach Van Bremen reports their offense seems to be lacking some, but has hopes it will pick up by the end of the week.

One man, Daniel Gilbert, is out temporarily with an injured hand. He is expected to be out for the first two or three games. Otherwise no injuries were reported as of Wednesday morning and all the boys seem to be in good physical condition. Their spirit seems good and from reports received, they all have the winning spirit.

In the first game the usual first game mistakes are to be expected. However, the coaches are working hard with the boys, doing their best to get them prepared for the game.

Not much information is available on Clyde, except their record for last year. They were in District 8-B until their enrollment forced them into District 10-A this year. They won their district championship last year. However, they only have six returning lettermen and also they have a new coach this year. The Bulldogs will operate from a Split T formation with Bill Patton at the Quarterback slot. He has selected as an All-Abilene Area Tackle last year, and may possibly be put back on the line before the season gets very far underway.

It is hoped that a large crowd will be on hand to cheer the Mountaineers on Friday night. A good cheering section means a lot to the boys.

Jr. Mountaineers To Play First Game Tuesday Night

The Junior Mountaineers of the Santa Anna Ward School will play their first football game of the season at Bangs on Tuesday night, beginning at 7:30 p. m. The Junior Mountaineers are coached by A. D. Donham and during the past few years they have enjoyed considerable success.

The Junior will play an eight game schedule this year with four of them being at home and four away. Coach Donham said he was thinking of getting one other home game, and if he does it will be added to the schedule later.

The Junior Mountaineers have been working out since August 27 and are getting in fair shape. Coach Donham said he hardly knows what to expect in the game Tuesday night, but they will be in there doing their best. He feels sure the boys will make a good accounting of themselves.

These small boys are deserving of the support of all the local citizens and all who can should go to Bangs and see them in their first game.

In a large advertisement in this issue of The News, sponsored by a number of the local merchants, you will find a complete schedule of the ward school and their weekly scores will be added to the advertisement each week. Drivers Urged To Know and Obey School Bus Law

Texas school superintendents, news editors, and other citizens have been requested to give state-wide emphasis and interpretation to the oft-neglected Texas law which requires all vehicles to stop when approaching a school bus loading or unloading children. Three state agencies — The Texas Education Agency, the Texas Highway Department, and the Texas Department of Public Safety — joined in making the appeal.

Texas school buses were involved in 379 accidents in rural areas (outside city limits) during 1955. Three children and two adults were killed in these accidents.

"Even one preventable accident, as we all know, is one too many," said J. W. Edgar, Commissioner of Education. "A study of the various replies which have been made to the question of what drivers of other vehicles should do when they approach a school bus which is loading or unloading children reveals a startling lack of understanding and a great deal of misunderstanding concerning what the statutes require."

The law says, in effect, that upon meeting or overtaking from either direction a school bus which has stopped on the highway for the purpose of receiving or discharging children, the driver shall stop immediately before passing, then proceed with due caution at a speed which is prudent and does not exceed ten miles per hour. The law does not apply within city limits.

Vehicles are not required to stop on highways with separate roadways when the bus is on a different roadway from that of a passing vehicle. Vehicles are not required to stop if the school bus is stopped in a loading zone which is part of or adjacent to a controlled-access highway and where pedestrians are not permitted to cross the roadway.

Edgar said motorists can identify a school bus easily because "SCHOOL BUS" appears in large letters across the front and rear of each bus. "All public school buses are painted in a uniform yellow color and trimmed in black," he pointed out. "School buses are equipped with flasher lights front and rear and usually mounted high on the bus. Flashers are used only when the bus is in the process of stopping or is stopped to receive or discharge children."

In conjunction with the educational program for drivers of all type vehicles, the State Department of Education is preparing a bus drivers' handbook for distribution to the 8,000 school bus drivers in Texas. The manual will include pertinent safety regulations affecting school bus drivers.

Edgar said information about the law would continue to be distributed in all parts of Texas "until every citizen has had an opportunity to understand the importance of this law." He suggested that superintendents might want to enlist the help of parents, students, and local service groups in spreading facts about the law to all Texas drivers.

TCU Dean of Men Speaks At Christian Church Sunday

The congregation of the First Christian Church were quite surprised on last Sunday morning to have Dr. Elmer D. Henson, Dean of Men at Brite College, T. C. U., fill the pulpit, instead of the ministerial student they were expecting. Bro. Henson made a nice talk and preached a great sermon. He had dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Preston Bailey. Mrs. Bailey and Mrs. Henson were room mates at T. C. U.

In the early afternoon he went on to San Angelo, where he was pastor for many years. He was to hear a missionary at night, that he took into the church there, laid his hands on in ordination and helped to commission. Sunday School attendance was up considerably.

The speaker announced for last Sunday will be with the church and preach at both services this Sunday.

Raby Grantham and daughter, Guenn, of San Antonio, were weekend holiday visitors with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Grantham.

Mrs. Meek, 62, was a life long resident of Brown County. Her father, the late C. V. Harriss, reportedly was the first white child born in Brown County.

She is survived by her husband and four brothers and three sisters.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Rutherford and perhaps others from this vicinity, attended the services.

Mr. and Mrs. James Hipp and Linda of Abilene, brought her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Wristen, home from a weeks visit with them and spent the weekend. Mr. Wristen has recovered from a recent illness.

Sen. Hardeman Discusses Proposed Amendments

(Editor's note: In keeping with a practice established some time ago, Sen. Dorsey B. Hardeman has prepared the following resume of the proposed Constitutional Amendments. They are submitted in two parts and it is hoped that the public will accept Sen. Hardeman's comments in the manner intended.)

PART ONE

By Sen. Dorsey B. Hardeman
The general election ballot will include several proposed amendments of the State Constitution.

In this, and perhaps subsequent articles, I shall try to discuss the proposals as an aid to the citizens of the 25th Senatorial District in determining their course of action thereon.

The order of presentation bears no relation to the degree of importance which may be attached to specific proposals as they vary according to interests. Any change in the basic law is of vital concern and deserves the thoughtful consideration of all citizens.

H.J.R. 23 relates to the reallocation of County tax levies annually by the Commissioner's Court, rather than at six-year intervals following an election for such purpose. The over all rate will be retained and only its reallocation among the four constitutional funds would be authorized.

H.J.R. 30 proposes financial aid to needy disabled persons between the ages of 18 and 65 years and authorizes an annual appropriation of not more than $1,500,000.00 This authorization would "bridge the gap" between the time that parents are "legally" released from the support of their children and up until such time as they become eligible for old age assistance. (Incidentally, this proposal will not be voted on at the general election on November 6, but at an election to be held on November 13. This was due to a "bust" in writing the provision.)

H.J.R. 31 relates to the payment of compensation to persons fined or imprisoned unjustly. Some such mistakes have occurred and the State has no authority to reimburse or compensate these unfortunate individuals. The amount, regulations, etc., would be left to the discretion of the Legislature.

H.J.R. 46 pertains to the oath of office required to be taken. The present oath is applicable only to "elected" officials, although it is taken by "appointed" officials. This proposal is designed to provide for appropriate oaths for each type of officials.

H.J.R. 9 relates to the denial of bail to any person accused of (Continued on Back Page)

Three Persons Killed In County Over Weekend

The Labor Day weekend was disastrous as far as Coleman County and the State of Texas was concerned. Although, as far as we know, no local persons were involved in any serious accidents, three persons were killed in two accidents involving out of county people.

The first accident happened about 11 p. m. Friday night when two Gary Air Force Base, San Marcos, Lieutenants, crashed into the underpass between Santa Anna and Coleman. They were Carl Blair Price of Lubbock and Rosario Purturi of Toms River, N. J. Reports from the Highway Patrol, who investigated the accident, said they were apparently traveling at a high rate of speed and hit the edge of a bridge just this side of the underpass, then lost control of the car and it crashed head-on into the underpass, killing both of them instantly.

The third death occurred 15 miles north of Coleman on the Baird highway on Sunday evening. Carvel Vernon Ridgeway, about 45, of Goldthwaite, was killed when his automobile went out of control and turned over after striking a soft shoulder on Highway 283.

Coleman County is in the San Angelo Highway Patrol District. To date there has been 72 deaths in this district this year, compared with 47 at this time a year ago. Seventy-nine died in the district in 1955, only seven more than have died to date.

Store Managers To Meet Thursday Night

Ford Barnes, Secretary-Manager of the Community Chamber of Commerce, announces a meeting of all the owners and managers of Santa Anna business establishments will be held Thursday evening at 7:30 p. m.

It is hoped that every business establishment in Santa Anna will be represented by at least one person. Purpose of the meeting is to discuss activities for the coming fall season. All persons interested are asked to present their ideas as to what would be good for Santa Anna during the fall and winter months, and the kind of program for the Christmas season the merchants would like to have.

The meeting will be held in the Lions Club room of the Hotel Goffee Shop.

Important Meeting Of Quarterback Club Monday Night

Edd Hartman, president of the Santa Anna Quarterback Club, announces the organization will meet Monday night at the high school and all members are urged to be present for a very important meeting.

Answer to Puzzle No. 409

God commendeth his love toward us, in that, while we were yet sinners, Christ died for us. (Romans 5:8.)

One of the greatest social reformers was Lord Shaftesbury of England. He fought for the emancipation of the factory worker, the miner, and the chimney sweep of the nineteenth century. His concern for the children who were forced into labor. His heroic fight is one of the noblest chapters in the story of man's struggle for freedom.

He was asked on one occasion in the House of Lords why he was so concerned with such people. He replied, "I have undertaken this task because I regard the objects of it as being created like ourselves, by the same God, redeemed by the same Saviour, and destined for the same immortality."

In saying this, he not only revealed the secret of his own esteem of his fellows, but also made plain the only true basis of reverence for human life. What transformation we would see if all men, everywhere, believed as he did!

inating. Rainfall records of the Coleman area show a small chance for failure over such an extended period.

Eldon Knox, who ranches on Pecan Bayou northeast of Coleman, reports adequate grass cover on the ground to get good moisture penetration from any kind of a rain that might fall. General light stocking and deferred grazing have created a great reserve of grass that is expected to supply most of the feed requirements of the 300-cow herd now on the ranch, Knox stated.

The ranch is stocked at about 40 acres per cow this year and 8000 acres have been deferred from grazing. Only 7 to 10 inches of rain has fallen on the ranch this year, Knox added.

The family of Mrs. W. A. Brandon had an enjoyable reunion in the Coleman Park Sunday night. Seven of her eight children were present and there were 37 grandchildren and great grandchildren present. Also a number of in-laws. Mrs. Brandon returned to Louisiana with Delwood Brandon and family.

Central Colorado Soil Conservation District News

August bank statements from the Coleman County State Bank and the First Coleman National Bank contained guide sheets for planting winter legumes for soil improvements. The banks, printed 8,000 copies of the legume-planting guide sheets for distribution to farmers and ranchers in the Central Colorado soil conservation district.

Printing of the legume-planting guides by the Coleman banks is part of an overall campaign to encourage an increase in fall plantings of legumes to improve soil condition for soil and water conservation. The campaign, was initiated at the July regular meeting of District Supervisors with representatives of banks, implement and seed dealers and farmers and ranchers. The group agreed that dry-planting fall legumes is a worthwhile risk regardless of moisture conditions at planting time. Past experiences with this way of planting has proved successful. The seed will keep in dry soil for as long as five months when planted in September and still have time for adequate growth after germ-

FIRST TIME you take the measure of a '56 Buick CENTURY, you'll know what the sports-car folks mean when they say the CENTURY is a great performer.

The getaway is right away—the road feel superb—the handling a joy. For this is Buick's most spirited and spectacular car.

As we said, the name is CENTURY. And, as you'll discover, the price is a cinch. For the CENTURY is just a cut above Buick's lowest-price SPECIAL Series—and that's just a cut above the well-known smaller cars.

So you really ought to try a '56 CENTURY... Especially now, while your present car is at its peak worth...

Especially now, at today's Buick prices (who knows when they'll ever be as low again!)

And especially now, with Buick so solidly in the Top 3 of America's best sellers—and that kind of sales volume permitting us to make you an even finer trade-in allowance.

Drop in on us this week—today would be even better!—and see what a buy you can make right now on the best Buick yet.

*New Advanced Variable Pitch Dynaflo is the only Dynaflo Buick builds today. It is standard on Roadmaster, Super and Century—optional at modest extra cost on the Special.

Mrs. A. S. Hart
Retires From School Teaching

MRS. A. S. HART
The Foard County News
Crowell, Texas

It has been announced that Mrs. A. S. Hart, primary teacher in the Crowell Schools for the past fourteen years, will retire from the profession effective Sept. 1, 1956. Mrs. Hart has served 34 years as a teacher in the public schools here and in Rockwood, Texas.

She began her school teaching career in the Crowell Schools in 1901 and taught until her marriage to her late husband, A. S. Hart, in 1911. Living here three years after their marriage, they moved to Rockwood in 1916 where Mr. Hart owned and operated his drug store for several years. She taught in Rockwood for 10 years before she returned to Crowell in 1942 and was elected a teacher in the primary, department of the Crowell Schools.

Daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Allee, Mrs. Hart is truly a pioneer of this section, her parents coming to Old Margaret, County Seat of Hardeman County, in 1885. Her father was serving his second term as sheriff and tax collector of Hardeman county at the time of his death. Mrs. Hart started school at Old Margaret with her uncle, George P. Brown, as teacher. When Crowell and Foard Counties were organized in 1891, Mr. Brown was one of the first school teachers in Crowell. He taught here one year and returned to Plano and his brother, M. D. Brown, came to Crowell as a school teacher, later teaching in the Quanah schools. Therefore, Mrs. Hart got her early training under the tutelage of her two uncles, brothers of her mother, who were outstanding instructors in their day.

Land on which Mrs. Hart's father filed on about 70 years ago is still owned by the heirs of the estate. Mrs. Hart makes her home with her sister, Mrs. R. R. Magee, and Mr. Magee. She will spend the summer with her son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Hart. Mr. Hart is a journalism teacher and is working on his doctor's degree in Columbia, Mo. After that she expects to make her home in Crowell. Following in the footsteps of his mother, Mr. Hart teaches journalism in the University of Illinois.

In addition to her long career as a school teacher, she has also taught a Sunday School class in the Methodist Church for the past forty-two years.

Mrs. Hart received her B. A. degree from Texas Tech in 1925. Other colleges she has attended are North Texas State College at Denton, Sul Ross at Alpine and the University of Texas at Austin.

When interviewed recently by one of the assistant editors of the High School Wildcat, Roma Jan Spikes, Mrs. Hart was asked how she managed to keep looking so young. She replied, "It is part of my philosophy of life that if it will help to worry about something, then it is all right to worry about it, but if nothing can be done, then it is foolish to worry."

with her cousins, Mrs. Zona Stacy and Mrs. Beula Kingston. Mrs. Maud Burney of Coleman spent Friday night with Mrs. Beula Kingston.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Haynes of Coleman visited Saturday afternoon in the J. R. Haynes home. Virginia spent Saturday night with the Roy Haynes.

Mr. and Mrs. Harley Stearns and son, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Key and baby, Mr. and Mrs. Clayborn James and Leslie, all of Fort Worth, spent Labor Day weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Eugene James and children.

Mrs. Harry Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Boencke, Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Wilson, visited Sunday afternoon with Mrs. Beula Kingston.

Eugene and Grady James and John and Bill Richardson attended the annual Baptist Encampment at the Brownwood Lake last Monday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wallace,

TALL, DARK--AND AWKWARD
By Jac Tweton

ROY KENNEDY became self-conscious—again—the moment his six feet four entered the outer office of Acme Television, which was packed with hopeful salesmen, all talking animatedly. Then a short, husky blond fellow yelled uninhibitedly, "How's the air up there?"

"Pretty warm. Heat rises, you know," Roy managed. But he was so tired of that quip.

"Bet you played basketball?" Roy smiled ruefully. "I love sports—"

"But you grew too fast."

"That's what mother said," Roy agreed. She sympathized with him, Dad was disappointed, everyone else made fun of his awkwardness, except Georgia. Georgia didn't, even when he stepped on her feet while dancing. "And Georgia," he added loyally.

"Wife or girl friend?"

"Girl friend—so far. But if Acme hires me, I'll propose."

"Mr. Wilcox and Mr. Kennedy," R. H. Adams' blonde secretary announced as two more salesmen walked dejectedly out of Adams' office.

Roy's hopes fell when Tim got up with him. Roy was paired with the best salesman in the room!

Wilcox grinned at the blonde as they passed her desk. "Watch me, baby," he said, and winked. She smiled at him, but not at Roy.

Adams was not a man to waste time. He was looking at his watch when the men entered. Roy bumped into the chair Adams waved him toward. Wilcox did not stumble. Adams glanced impatiently at Roy who thought, "I've dropped the ball again. Tall, dark, and awkward—that's me."

"According to your letters of application, your qualifications are nearly identical," Adams said crisply. "That's why I called you in here together, as I do others with similar records."

Adams was quite as awesome as rumored—head bent forward slightly so his grayish-blue eyes looked chillingly from under black, bushy eyebrows. "Before I ask you to demonstrate how you'd sell Acme, I want you to tell me why you want this job. Don't stop to think."

Hope he asks Wilcox first, Roy thought.

"Kennedy," Adams nodded.

"Sir," Roy began, "I feel I can benefit the company—and myself—by becoming a salesman for Acme Television. I believe Acme to be a fine old company—as TV firms range in age."

Then he was horrified to hear himself blurt, "And I'd like to get married, sir."

"Wilcox," Adams barked.

Roy envied him silently.

"I think I can be the acme salesman for Acme Television."

And, Wilcox glanced at Roy, "as long as we're bringing in personal reasons," he became serious. "I wasn't going to mention this, but Marie and I have three of the sweetest kids in the world, Jimmy, Katie and Junie. They're swell, Marie, too."

Wilcox stared solemnly at the carpet a moment, then continued, "But Jimmy's never been well, and he needs a very serious operation."

Adams' granite visage softened noticeably. "We haven't any relatives to help us, and well, to be honest, that's my main reason right there, Jimmy."

He's certainly deserving, Roy thought resignedly.

Adams almost beamed at Wilcox, but he was still all business. "Now for the selling demonstr—"

A loud perfunctory knock interrupted him as the door swung open. "Can't you see I'm busy, Peters?"

"But, R. H., I just set a sales record. Wait till I—Tim! You old loafer! I didn't think you'd apply here. Did Marie push you into it so you two can get hitched?"

After an instant of heavy silence, Adams leaped to his feet and roared, "Kennedy, you're hired! Acme prefers tall men to tall stories."

ideas from other editors

From the Lincoln Times, Lincoln, N. C.: Every newspaper office is familiar with the "tramp printer," and so by now are most newspaper readers. He is usually highly competent, widely experienced typesetter, by hand or machine, or both, and an able press operator, to boot. Often he is a writer as well, and almost always a philosopher. But he won't stay put. He is fanatical about avoiding the rut that most of us find comfort in.

Having looked upon this peripatetic printer as a distinct phenomenon, we are stunned at the discovery that there are upwards of 20,000 lady office workers in America who share his philosophy. They are trained secretaries, stenographers, office machine and PBX operators, billing and statistical clerks, every sort of worker any office might use. They are wives and old maids and widows, college girls and grandmothers.

Their average age is on the sunny side of 40, and most of them work (when they feel like it) for the same man. He is Russell Kelly, of Detroit, with branch offices in 45 other US cities from Miami to Tacoma and San Jose to Portland, Maine. This year, his tenth in the business of supplying temporary office help, he expects to do seven million dollars worth and provide interim jobs to 18 to 20 thousand women.

Kelly clients include both the smallest and the largest of businesses. When the Girl Friday of the one-girl office—who may be secretary, bookkeeper, receptionist and file clerk all in one—takes her vacation, Russell Kelly can save her boss from going nuts during the next two weeks. When the Ford Motor Co. wants a slew of girls to tabulate production schedules—as it does once a year—Kelly girls are ready to march in.

Many of his big customers, says Kelly, need 100 or more girls during peak seasons, sometimes eight or nine months of the year. In these situations, the difference in cost between permanent and temporary help adds up into large figures.

The small employer, particularly, hates hiring temporary help—and having to train them. When he leaves it to Kelly, he gets girls who know their jobs. He doesn't have to bargain with them because he's already settled the price angle with Kelly. He pays Kelly, not the temporary help. Thus, he has no concern over setting up new payroll accounts, income tax and social security deductions, etc., etc.

And since Kelly is the paymaster, they don't hit the road without notice—like the tramp printer.

WHAT'S HAPPENING TO AGRICULTURE

Many people today are puzzling over the "programming" of farming by the government. They wonder why we have controls and quotas and price supports. More clearly, they want to know why the farmer can't just "take his chances" in growing and selling with no holds barred.

They wonder, without realizing that the well-being of agriculture is an absolute essential to the economic health of our nation, just how the farmer became such a governmental concern.

Quite a few years ago, when the entire national economy was on wobbly legs, first efforts for restoration were aimed at agriculture. Farm programs and adjustments and allotments were set to work.

Since that time when the age-old barometer for farm success—supply and demand—became top-heavy, new programs and new words began showing up on the agriculture front. Controls were born of necessity; allotments, restrictions and subsidies became their expression.

There are those who cling to the hope that eventually food and fiber demands will catch up close enough to supply that every man can be for himself as in any competitive business.

Others more realistically expect controls to be permanent. And if so, then it's time to be thinking about how to live with them and to face their long-time effects.

Guidance and regulation of agriculture by the government can go in several directions: the government can allow itself to become the "market" with most areas of trade and disposition covered by regulation; controls can be slackened to such a degree that the "big business" farmer could easily encroach on and swallow up the small farmer; or, through careful selection of leaders in policy making, posts, farmers will have personal agents to see that their interests are protected, not overrun.

This latter ideal is that which we work toward: to keep our farmers both free and prosperous, with proper alignment in the national economic picture. There will be little danger from government controls so long as they are tempered with concern. And this concern will prevent our farm people from becoming a peasantry working under rationed opportunity.

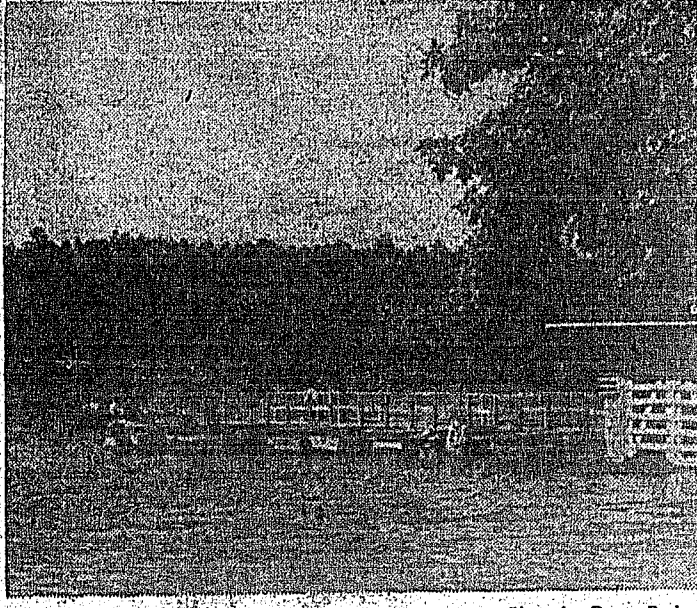

Mr. and Mrs. Homer Goodgion and Miss Xuma Meyers attended the Goodgion reunion in Lubbock Sunday. About 70 relatives were present.

THE PARK OF THE WEEK

Attractive natural scenery like that around boat docks at Tyler State Park has been preserved in skilled placing of the park facilities. Unusual are the park's 18-hole miniature golf course and a terraza dance floor to supplement the fishing, boating and swimming.

TYLER STATE PARK'S 994 scenic acres about 10 miles north of Tyler on F. M. Road 14 came to the Texas State Parks Board through the interest of recreation conscious land owners who cooperated with Smith County and Tyler to make a great play area possible in East Texas.

Plans for the best utilization of the well timbered land were made with help of technicians of the National Park Service. The dam that created the park's fishing, boating and swimming lake was built by Civilian Conservation Corps workers.

Special features of the park that make it so attractive are the swimming beach with all types of water sports equipment, a terraza dance floor overlooking the lake, an 18-hole miniature golf course and the 65-acre fishing and boating lake, where good catches of bass, crappie, white perch, bream and small pike are common.

Seventy separate family picnic units are located in shady spots with attractive views. Many of them overlook the lake. Large units for use of clubs and groups are also provided. An overnight camping area was installed this year. Campers are furnished keys to the locked rest rooms where hot and cold water showers and laundry facilities may be used. Overnight cabins have not been built as the vicinity supplies ample accommodations.

Tyler's famous rose farms and operating oil fields furnish interesting sightseeing near the park.

Despite Tighter License Laws in Many States, Many of Today's Drivers Lack Proper Training

ALTHOUGH the automobile has caused more death and destruction than almost anything else invented by man, many people still insist that driving is a right and that any fool in the country should be permitted to aim this deadly weapon.

The folly of this attitude is demonstrated by the fact that less than half of today's drivers ever had to prove they actually could drive before getting their licenses.

Further, it's been estimated that only 10,000,000 of our 70,000,000 drivers have had any type of professional training.

The other 60,000,000 either were self-taught or learned from a friend or relative who also may have been self-taught. Such a teacher probably learned to drive in days when traffic was less congested from "instructors" who were auto salesmen and who showed only how to start and stop the car.

A large number of the drivers who learned in the do-it-yourself school never had to take any test—they obtained their licenses through "grandfather clause" procedures in certain states that blanketed all drivers at the time a driver license law was adopted.

This same escape permits drivers to renew licenses without an examination or re-examination.

As a result, there are cases where licenses are being maintained by illiterates who can't even read the warning signs on the road or by persons who are totally blind.

Fortunately, great progress in improving driver licensing laws has been made since the end of World War II.

At present, 47 of the 48 states require new applicants to take a driving test as well as a written examination before a license can be issued.

Despite the improvements, safety authorities admit that we still have a long way to go.

Properly administered, they say, good licensing laws can have a tremendous impact on our traffic safety effort by keeping unqualified and irresponsible drivers off the roads and by requiring license revocations for flagrant law-breakers and accident repeaters.

"Driver licensing plays a major role in highway safety," said Rudolph F. King, registrar of motor vehicles in Massachusetts.

"In the distribution of driver licenses, we must put forth every effort to see to it that only those individuals who meet the required qualifications in the strictest sense of the word are permitted to have issued to them the privilege of driving on the highways," King stated.

"Ideally, the examination for a license should be uniform in all states and should meet the regulations of the highest standard states. "If this isn't done within a reasonable length of time, the states that have high standards should give serious consideration to denying the reciprocity privilege to persons from states that have lower standards.

"We should see to it that those who get a license by merely writing in for it or purchasing it from some corner store be restricted to operating in their own states."

The American Association of Motor Vehicle Administrators is working for uniform laws and uniform practices relating to motor vehicle ownership and usage in each of the 48 states.

In this drive, there are two major obstacles, said Basil R. Creighton, assistant executive director of the AAMVA.

"The first," he pointed out, "is political turnover. There must be a continuity of policy and administration of driver licensing programs.

"The second is public apathy. Good licensing programs should be encouraged, unsound programs should be corrected.

"The courts have upheld the fact that driving is a privilege, now a right. There has been substantial improvement over the driver-licensing situation since World War II, but it still is up to the people to demand that the privilege of operating a motor vehicle be given only to those who are qualified and be taken away from those who abuse the privilege."

Mr. and Mrs. George Haynes and their four children of Tomball, were weekend visitors here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E.

S. Haynes and other members of the family in this area.
GO TO CHURCH SUNDAY

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE LESSON-SERMON

The vital importance of honoring God in thought and in deed will be brought out at Christian Science services this Sunday.

Keynoting the Lesson-Sermon on "Substance" is the Golden Text from Proverbs (22:1): "A good name is rather to be chosen than great riches and loving favour rather than silver and gold."

The importance of spiritual values will be emphasized in readings from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy (239:5): "Take away wealth, fame, and social organizations, which weigh not one jot in the balance of God, and we get clearer views of Principle. Break up cliques, level wealth with honesty, let worth be judged according to wisdom, and we get better views of humanity."

Scriptural selections to be read include the following (Proverbs 3:9): "Honour the Lord with thy substance, and with the firstfruits of thine increase."

A cairn is a pyramid of rough stone used as a landmark or memorial.

ARTICLE NO. 5 1956 AMENDMENTS TO THE SOCIAL SECURITY LAWS

By R. R. Tuley, Jr., Social Security Admin., Mgr. Abilene, Texas

Men and women on active duty in the armed forces will be brought under the old-age and survivors insurance provisions of the Social Security Act on a permanent, contributory basis on January 1, 1957. This results from the Servicemen's and Veterans' Survivors Benefits Acts which was signed into law on August 1 of this year by President Eisenhower.

The social security tax to be levied will be on the service person's basic pay only, and will not be imposed on such items as the value of food, shelter, various allowances, and special pay. The rate will be same as though the individual were a civilian employee of a commercial firm. The Federal government will pay the employer portion of the tax.

Special procedures will be set up for the issuance of social security account number cards to members of the armed forces making it necessary for them to contact social security district offices to apply for their cards.

Instructions as to their procedures will be furnished them through their service units, as soon as is necessary to insure proper actions.

Active service on or after January 1, 1957, may carry with it the former gratuitous $160 per month wage credits for military service performed any time in the 1950-1956 period even if that same service is creditable towards a retirement payment from the service department. There are some special provisions regarding use of the gratuitous period or periods by either the civil service retirement system or the social security system, but not both.

Also, beginning with January 1957, applications for survivors benefits filed with either the Social Security Administration or the Veterans Administration by survivors of servicemen will constitute applications for benefits from both agencies, with proofs submitted to one agency being made available to the other.

An informative leaflet on these provisions will soon be available, and members of the armed forces desiring a copy should write the Social Security Administration, District Office, Abilene, Texas, giving their names, and mailing addresses. Copies will be mailed to them as soon as a supply is received by the Abilene office.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Evans of San Angelo were Saturday and Sunday visitors with his sister, Mrs. J. M. Howington and family.

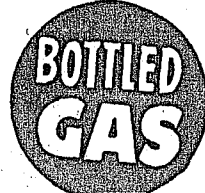

Mrs. Stella Johnson of Fort Worth visited Sunday night and until after dinner Monday with old friends and neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Rutherford.

For several weeks Mrs. Morris McFadden of Abilene has been coming on Monday and staying until Friday, attending to business for her father, Roy Stockard. Beverley has had experience working in an insurance office. Mr. Stockard, still confined to his home, seems much improved.

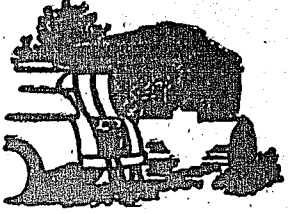

Mrs. Stafford Baxter of San Antonio and her granddaughter, Pam, who had been visiting her for three weeks, came last Friday afternoon for a visit in the home of Kathryn Baxter. Bill Baxter, who had been serving as an officer at Fort Hood for several weeks, came Saturday. He and Pam returned to their home at Waynoke, Okla., Sunday and Mrs. Baxter returned to San Antonio.

Mr. and Mrs. Maurles Kingsbery and family returned to their home at Strawn Monday, after a holiday visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Kingsbery. Mrs. Kingsbery took her two grandchildren back to their parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Garrett at Lake Jackson, after several weeks visiting here. The Garrett's little daughter is said to be getting along very well after two heart operations.

AMENDMENTS

a felony less than capital who has been theretofore twice convicted of a felony, the second conviction having been subsequent to the first, both in point of time of commission of the offense and conviction therefor, after a hearing and upon evidence substantially showing the guilt of the accused pending trial, by any judge or magistrate and providing that if such accused is not accorded a trial within sixty days upon such accusation, the order denying bail shall be automatically set aside and such accused be given the right to bail.

This is a major departure in the "law of the land", to the effect that any accused is entitled to bail, except in capital cases where the proof is evident. Sufficient safeguards may have been incorporated in the proposal to not abridge such basic right "unduly", if such can actually be done. "Repeaters" are aggravating to prosecutors and enforcement officers, but sight should not be lost of established fundamental rights. The presentation of proof of substantial guilt of an accused, together with his right to trial within sixty days, will have the tendency of cooling the ardor of "witch-burners".

H. J. R. 11 pertaining to the commitment of persons of unsound mind is a most important departure and is emphasized by the pathetic situation, along with the helplessness of the individual. A similar proposal was rejected by the people of Texas in 1949, but its sponsors were undaunted and have again succeeded in bringing about its submission.

This question is highly controversial. While the present method of some 80 years acceptance and experience may not be the best, nevertheless, the utter absence of absolute standards of medical or psychiatric determination and cure for such cases, being decided upon mere opinions based on "hearsay", in most instances, it should receive the most soul-searching consideration. It appears to hold more possibilities for abuse than under existing procedure; while on the other hand, less publicity and less embarrassment might attach.

Some apparent safeguards are included, but these may easily be formally complied with, while the substance is overlooked.

S.J.R. 5 proposes changes in the teachers' retirement program by authorizing an increase in the State contribution not to exceed 6% of the compensation received annually, and in no event, not to exceed $504.00 for any one year, as well as changing the time for retirement and provide for the withdrawal of funds under prescribed conditions.

The rising cost of living and the desire to attract and retain teachers to the profession and to enable others to retire are advanced as justification for its adoption.

S.J.R. 2, if adopted, will authorize the issuance of an additional one hundred million dollars of bonds for the Veterans Land Board to purchase land for resale to eligible veterans.

Recent scandals in this department, no doubt, will have a tremendous influence on this.

There is one other proposal, namely, authorizing "playing the stock market" with the Permanent University Fund, which will be discussed in a subsequent story as time and space do not now permit. Its importance cannot be over-emphasized.

It is hoped from the foregoing that readers may be stimulated to make full investigation of these matters to enable them to cast a patriotic vote.

Mr. and Mrs. Adrian Speck of Dallas, visited from Friday until Monday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Speck.
