Baseball Opening Postponed Due To Rainy Weather

A. D. Donham, Baseball Commissioner, said the beginning of the baseball season in Santa Anna would have to be postponed all this week, and if the rains continue, they will have to be postponed until the field is dry enough to get a little work done on it, before playing can begin.

Unless more rains fall over the weekend, the season will begin Tuesday night with the teams regularly scheduled for that night. The games that have been postponed, will be made up sometime during the season, with the dates to be announced later.

The Tuesday night schedule calls for the opening ceremonies to begin at 6:00 p. m. and the first game to get underway at 6:15 p. m. The game will be between the Athletics and the White Sox. The second game will be between the Cards and the Braves. There is 110 boys participating in the baseball this year.

Thus far there has been very little practice time for any of the teams because of the wet weather. Plans are being made to have two practice fields on the National Guard ground, adjoining the baseball field, and then the regular field will be used for practice also. Managers Horton and Mathews have arranged for their team to practice on a vacant lot near Horton's home, so most of the teams will likely have their weekly work-outs about the same time.

Team colors are: Little League, Tigers, Navy blue with red visors on caps; Athletics, Green; White Sox, Royal blue; and Indians, Red. Babe Ruth League, Braves, Navy blue with red visor on cap; Cubs, Green; Dodgers, Royal blue; and Cards, Red. The jerseys will all have the team names on them and are expected to be here in about two or three weeks. The caps are available now.

Membership in the Quarterback Club increased to 95 members this week with the addition of Rex Golston, Jack Mobley, C. D. Bruce and Jack Dockery.

BLANKET INSURANCE

Tuesday morning Mr. Donham announced the club had taken out a blanket insurance policy on the 110 boys participating in the baseball program. This is the same type of insurance carried last year and covers all accidents while the boys are participating in supervised practice or in regular games. Each player is requested to take $2.00 to their managers as soon as possible, to pay for this insurance.

On the form signed by parents authorizing the boys to take part in the summer program, it was stated that the parents would pay this insurance on the boys.

Ground Observer Corps Holds First Practice

The Ground Observer Corps of Santa Anna took part in a state-wide practice maneuver Sunday afternoon, May 26. The Filter Center in Dallas, telephoned between 12:30 and 1:00 p. m., to instruct the local post, to be activated between 1:00 p. m. and 5:00 p. m., for observation of aircraft.

The high school is being used as the present observation point, but plans are being made for a tower to be erected in this locality for a permanent observation station. It will likely be somewhere on the west Santa Anna Mountain.

The unit can be made up entirely of high school students, and they can be responsible for its success, thus leaving the townspeople more time for their civilian defence duties. Any high school student who is interested in becoming a part of the Ground Observer Corps is requested to contact Mrs. Robert L. Markland, unit supervisor, or Civilla Slate, deputy supervisor.

Mrs. A. L. Oder, who for the past several years has served as local reporter for The Santa Anna News, fell and injured her right forehead about 1:00 p. m. Monday near the McKee Tailor Shop. Mrs. Oder was on her way to the Post Office and apparently suffered a blackout of some kind.

She fell on the curb and bruised her forehead considerably, but did not fracture her skull and the doctors report no other injuries. Mr. H. W. Gray and two Negro boys helped her to her feet and she went on to the Post Office, then Mr. Gray took her to the hospital, where she had an x-ray made and was admitted to the hospital for observation.

SALLY KENT, R.N.

By Fran Pachter

"REPORT to third floor north," was Supervisor Cone's brusque order. "You'll be in full charge of the children's wing."

Sally attempted a protest but Miss Cone cut in abruptly saying, "Mrs. Kent, I give the orders here and expect them to be carried out. Your husband may be an important man on the staff, but I run my nurses." Dismissing her she appeared to disregard the stricken look on Sally's face. Upon Sally's leaving the office, Miss Cone picked up the phone and asked for Dr. Kent. Her voice lacked the brusqueness she had exhibited to Sally as she said, "Dr. Kent, I just gave your wife her assignment and it upset her dreadfully. I feel like a dog. Are you sure this is the right thing to do?"

His answer came forth clear and positive, "I've tried everything else. This has got to work." Sally stood for a moment outside the closed door. Outwardly she appeared calm but her racing thoughts revealed her tension. I can't do it. I just can't. Didn't Miss Cone realize that the loss of her own child here in this very hospital still hurt? Of course no one knew that she had avoided all contact with children since then because she resented their good health and their being alive. Walking down the hall to her assigned ward she re-experienced the same type of gripping fear she had felt as a student nurse when she faced her first operation. She had to get hold of herself. This was much the same kind of test. The childish laughter coming from the ward filtered out to her and she prayed for courage.

The nurse in charge introduced her to the children, then turned and left. For a moment the chorus of little voices in greeting seemed to reach Sally from a far distance as she stood for a moment appraising the scene. Her last visit here had been as a visitor. Her eyes strayed to that far corner bed that had held her Donnie.

A new face looked at her replacing the familiar one she half expected to see. The youngster called to her. "Hi, Mrs. Kent. Remember me? See I've still got the toy you gave me." He held aloft a mechanical monkey and Sally felt her heart gripped in a tight fist as a suffocating feeling came over her. That toy she had brought to Donnie on that last day, but he'd never seen it. Donnie had been gone from the room before she arrived! That had been over three months ago and quickly came the thought: This poor little fellow has been here all that time! She quickly busied herself with the charts wondering as she did, where had she been those three months?

She put off approaching that bed until last hoping by so doing to master cheerfulness she didn't feel. The old bitterness held her fast along with that often asked question: why had Donnie been taken? Finally she found herself at the foot of the bed that had held her son. She stared at the chart with unseeing eyes until the lads voice penetrated.

"Mrs. Kent, I'm sorry about your boy." The lad's words along with his clear blue eyes penetrated her pre-occupation bringing her back to the present. Suddenly the wording on the chart made sense.

Rheumatic Fever! How odd! The same disease that had struck down Donnie. From somewhere deep within her came a new found courage and a determination that this lad would not die. Somehow she'd spare some mother the agony she had endured. Life in that moment took on meaning for Sally. She rumbled his red curls and teased a smile to the small sober face. The grin she received in return lightened the heavy load she had been carrying. She offered up a silent prayer of thanks for the profession she had chosen. Sally Kent, R. N., had a job to do.

TELL US YOUR PROBLEM

AND LET US PASS IT ON TO HELP OTHERS IN SOLVING THEIRS.

BY JOHN and JANE STRICKLAND

THE NEIGHBORS' CHILDREN
MRS. GEORGE CALVERT once moved to a new home in the outskirts of Denver, Colorado. It was a new development and the gardens and lawns were a delight to the eye. Hers should be no exception! BUT—

When she installed a rustic summerhouse, she had not counted on a dozen or so children in the neighborhood, mostly on the alert and active side.

Day after day, as she watched the tiny blades of grass come through the soil, she had to "shoo away" those children. She first explained to them politely that she couldn't allow them to trample her grounds or sit in the summerhouse where on the outside tendrils were doing their best to get a start. They were all nice children, apparently being brought up well, except, in Mrs. Calvert's eyes, from the point of view of a near neighbor. Ages two to six would seem to have poor memories. So she repeated her admonitions many times. For maybe twenty-four hours her yard would be unoccupied by the youthful horde. And then—

One day, noting a decided path to the summerhouse across what should have been green lawn, her nerves gave way, and so did she—to an outburst of temper. The children became frightened and ran. The next day when they saw her on the street, they again looked frightened—and ran. An ogre in the community! She didn't want to start her life in a new neighborhood with that reputation!

That afternoon she walked into their midst and invited them to go to the village for an ice cream cone, followed by lollypops. She told them that when the grass and flowers had grown in her garden, she was going to have a party for them.

Well! What a change in those youngsters; they competed for her hand on the way home, and since that day when they want to sit in her summerhouse they ask permission. But best of all, when her own baby was old enough to be among them, they were kind to him, not always the case among older children when younger ones come among them.

UNTO THE DAY

IT MIGHT be said that sufficient unto the day is the problem of the Suez Canal, the dangers that lurk behind the Iron Curtain, and other spectres that threaten the peace of the world. Jesus said that "sufficient unto the day is the evil thereof."

The admonition in the Master's words is directed toward anxious thought for the future. There is enough of evil to fill the present day, and much of it smites us without anyone doing anything about it. Then why burden yourself with evils that may or may not come by and by?

Surely there is enough of evil to tax the best efforts of good men to overcome in the present. To enumerate many of the evils of the day might serve to discourage and even dismay us and leave us in the sad state of doing nothing at all. And doing nothing at all about the evils of the present will but add to those that may be ahead of us.

So, while Jesus admonishes us to "take no thought for the morrow", his words bring us an urgent command to do what can be done about today.

State Capitol NEWS

Austin — Officially, Texas' 55th Legislature now is in the history books. But the real story comes within the next few months when hundreds of new laws take effect.

They'll change people's lives — a little bit or a lot. Voter reaction to these changes will provide grist for the 56th session and determine how many 55th legislators will survive for the 56th.

Biggest issues of the past five months were water, segregation, reform measures, teacher pay and insurance. Here's what the lawmakers did:

Water — Passed a proposed constitutional amendment for a $200,000,000 bond issue to help local governments build dams and reservoirs. Failed, despite frantic last-minute efforts, to pass another amendment for a $100,000,000 bond issue to buy water storage space in federal reservoirs.

Segregation — Passed two of eight segregation bills. One allows local school boards to assign pupils to certain schools; others require local option election before schools can be integrated.

Another, requiring registration of groups advocating integration or segregation, was declared unconstitutional by the attorney general. He said it would violate freedom of speech and press. Other House-passed bills died on the vine after repeated Senate filibusters made it apparent it would take all summer to get them through.

Official Reform — Passed a code of ethics bill prohibiting state officials and employees from engaging in outside activity "in conflict with the public interest." A sprinkling of officials already have filed statements of their private interest with the secretary of state as stipulated in the law. A lobbyist registration bill died when the House and Senate couldn't iron out differences. A host of others proposed as reforms were ditched earlier.

Teacher Pay — Legislators, with Gov. Price Daniel's help, found, after raking and scraping, enough money to give each public school teacher a $399 a year raise. It meant recalling two other money bills, one to pay off some old bonds and one to refund taxes paid under an unconstitutional law. Situation was tense when Comptroller Robert S. Calvert first ruled the state's kitty was $13,000,000 short of enough to cover.

Insurance — Passed a host of laws bringing a whole new system headed by new men into the battle-scarred Insurance Commission. Deadlock over a full-time or part-time board was finally compromised with a full-time board for one year, part-time thereafter. Policy-making board members will get $15,000 a year when working full time. Added to set-up will be a full-time $30,000-a-year Commissioner of Insurance who will be top administrator.

Stemming mostly from the multi-million-dollar ICT and US Trust failures, several other bills were passed placing stricter requirements and limitations on insurance company officials. However, the Legislators fell flat on their faces when it came to requiring publication of financial statements by insurance companies. The bill never got out of the House Committee on Insurance. So only those companies that want the public to know will print them.

And These, Too — Aside from the big issues, scores of not-so-major laws will cause Texans to change their way of doing things. Here are a few: A "Scratched Ballot" is the only legal way to vote in future elections. No more choice between scratching and checking.

Texas Woman's University at Denton, once Texas State College for Women and before that, CIA, will be the nation's first in that category. Women have a right to change their minds, reasoned solons. Besides, there were hundreds of cute little coeds around, a'lobbyin'.

State Judges, both district and appellate, will get raises of about $3,000 a year apiece.

City Officials can be elected for four instead of two years if voters okay a proposed constitutional amendment. Individual cities would then have to adopt the four-year plan.

Flooded Lampasas and wind-swept Silvertown will get $40,000 to help rebuild public property under an emergency bill.

Price Daniel family will get a better roof over its head. Money was authorized to repair the Mansion ceiling that collapsed recently, just missing the governor.

Texas archives will get a brand new building. Shunting of historical documents from barns to basements to quonset huts in past years had brought a hue and cry from civic groups.

Auto license tags will cost 10 per cent more. Highway Department is to use the extra funds to share 50-50 with cities and counties, the cost of right-of-way for new roads. Previously cities and counties have had to bear all land costs.

Governor's signature is still pending on many bills, of course, but vejeos are not expected on any of the above.

In addition, this legislature, as others, passed literally hundreds of "local and uncontested" bills. These are ground out in batches, usually without anyone but the author knowing what they do or why.

New Force — Future office-seekers will have a new force to reckon with — the Democrats of Texas.

D. O. T., a new name for the old Liberal-Loyalist wing of the party, has set itself two goals — to gain control of the party machinery in Texas and to put its adherents in control of state government.

Some 1,500 delegates from 106 counties attended the organizing rally in Austin. Mrs. R. D. Randolph of Houston, Texas' liberal-minded national committeewoman, was named the leader. New U. S. Sen. Ralph Yarborough flew down from Washington to speak.

D. O. T. is frowned on by Governor Daniel and Executive Committee Chairman Jim Lindsey. D. O. T. charges them with "usurping" party control at the Fort-Worth convention.

Bal Peebles of Fort Stockton, and Angus Peebles of San Angelo, visited during last week with their sister, Mrs. B. M. McCain and Louie.

For the back porch supper place your browned hamburger mixture in the bottom of a skillet, then top with baking powder biscuit dough. Bake in a hot oven until biscuits are done and serve upside down with raw onion rings.

Today's husband is not only expected to bring home the bacon, but to fry it and serve it too.

There are other things in the world besides money. But the trouble is you can't get them without it.

PRESIDENT EISENHOWER, according to word from the White House, got his dander up, and decided to make a fight to preserve his budget of $78.1 billion, the biggest budget in the country's history. The President, at the start of his campaign found himself in an almost untenable position. Even his chief of the Government's fiscal policy, Secretary Humphrey, has declared the budget could be cut considerably, and should be.

When members of the Congress, in a spirit of cooperation sent a formal request to the President asking him wherein cuts could be made in the budget without endangering security or the President's programs, Mr. Eisenhower, rather superciliously sent back word that was not his job, but the job of the Congress. Had the President then and there, sent back a second budget message, saying that at the time the Budget was presented at the beginning of this Congress, it appeared the money would be needed, but that after some consideration, he believed it could be cut, and had pointed out where, there is every likelihood the Congress would have gone along with him.

Now, with his program of legislation endangered, he found it too late to compromise and considered an all-out fight to retain his budget requests. Even his friends of the business community, members of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, and the National Association of Manufacturers are demanding huge chunks be sliced out of the budget. But even these demands do not get at the real fat which could help the taxpayers. They cite cuts in foreign aid, farm supports, social services, aid to education, even school lunches. But the Chamber of Commerce and the Manufacturers have not mentioned such fiscal matters as the hard money policy of tight credit and high interest which added $1.2 billions to the budget for national debt interest; nor the 27 1/2 per cent oil depletion tax allowance which costs the U. S. Treasury some $750 million a year; nor the billions in rapid tax write-offs in 5 years instead of 20; nor the lease-purchase program which is costing the government about double to own public buildings that it did when the Government built them itself on bid contracts; nor the policy of letting private industry do jobs which the government has been doing itself.

Under this policy the Government has been divesting itself of many services which it has been doing itself for years, and turning these jobs over to private industry. When Government officials complained it cost them more money, Mr. Brundage ruled: "The decision to continue or discontinue an activity as being in the public interest should NOT depend primarily upon whether the product or service can be produced cheaper by the government. As a general guide our policy is that apparent cost or savings should not be the deciding factor where adequate competition exists."

Of course it's anybody's guess, but the best informed people in Washington predict the budget will wind up with a cut of up to $4 billion, even though it might be that some of the top fighters might be hurt, like for instance, Secretary Charles Wilson, who says all this hue and cry for budget cuts by his friends, "Gives me a pain."

FRONT LINE OF FREEDOM

JUST a Newsstand? No.

It is a battleground.

In this tiny territory rival publications fight for the attention of the public. From left to right you can find all shades of political and social opinion, freely expressed. And because of this a newsstand is more than just a convenience in the life of an American town.

It is a front line.

There is another battle going on around a newsstand, more far-reaching than the competitive rivalry of paper against paper, magazine against magazine. For there are always people—yes, even here—who dislike to see opinions freely expressed...and who attempt to bring all sorts of restraining pressures on those who champion the Press's freedom.

But those who write and print and publish the free opinions of America, they see a threat to that freedom as a threat to all freedoms, and vigilantly hold back pressure-wielders from closing in on the newsstand.

For the newsstand is freedom's front line.

Conversation furnished plenty of entertainment. The dining table was covered with a lace cloth and had a central decoration of large red roses and greenery in a golden vase. The vase was one Mrs. Richardson and her late husband received when they observed their Golden Wedding anniversary.

Plenty of coffee with doughnuts and cookies were served and hot chocolate for those who preferred it. Serving was in charge of Mrs. Clifford Stephenson, Mrs. Richard Smith and Mrs. Bill Pritchard.

Others present were: Mrs. Sam Moore and her granddaughter, Karen Mills, Mrs. Arthur Talley and her young granddaughter, Nell Talley, Mrs. H. L. Zachary and her granddaughter, Linda Ceelle Zachary, Mrs. W. E. Vanderford, Mrs. Warren Aldridge, Mrs. Sam Rutherford and her daughter, Mrs. Sam Grant from Fort Worth, "Ma" Standly, Mrs. Doug Moore, Mrs. Edd Jones and Mrs. A. L. Oder.

Mrs. C. D. Bruce, in a few well chosen words, installed the officers who will serve the club the next two years beginning with September.

They are: Mrs. Perry, president, Mrs. Hardy Blue, vice-president, Mrs. Tom Kingsbery, secretary, and Mrs. C. L. Eeds, treasurer and Miss Bettie Blue, parliamentarian and time keeper. Mrs. Wylie thanked the club members for their cooperation the past two years and Miss Bettie Blue presented Mrs. Wylie with a lovely Dorothy Perkins rose corsage.

The program for the next club year, arranged by Mrs. Charles Ing, Mrs. Frank L. Turner, and Mrs. C. D. Bruce, were distributed and seem very interesting.

The next meeting will be Sept. 13th, at the home of Mrs. C. D. Bruce, when "Atoms for Peace" will be discussed. The club closed the year with a full active membership and two honorary members. At the close of the meeting the hostess served two kinds of attractive home-made cookies with fruit punch.

Of the above-mentioned two, Mrs. Turner and Mrs. Eeds, were not present, but the following and the others mentioned were there: Mrs. Otis Bivins, Miss Alta Lovelady, Mrs. J. H. Martin, Mrs. J. C. Mathews, Mrs. A. L. Oder, Mrs. W. B. Sparkman, Mrs. Nona Woodruff and Miss Dora Kirkpatrick.

College women may now apply for direct commissions in the Women's Army Corps of the U. S. Army in time for the August training class. It was announced today by Major General Lewis S. Griffing, Chief of the U. S. Army Military District, Texas.

This program is open to young women between the ages of 20 through 27 who are college seniors or graduates. Selected applicants will attend the WAC officer basic course at Fort McClellan, Alabama, beginning in August. Applications must be filed with the WAC Procurement Office, Headquarters Fourth U. S. Army, Fort Sam Houston, Texas, no later than June 10.

"The Women's Army Corps offers many opportunities for travel, executive developments and specialized training for the young women of today," General Griffing said. "Wacs are presently stationed in all of the 48 states, in Europe, Japan, Hawaii, Korea and other overseas areas. They work side by side with the male officers and perform many important staff and administrative functions throughout the Army."

100,000 Texans Will Die Of Cancer In Next Ten Years

Austin — Within the next 10 years 100,000 Texans will die of cancer if the present trend continues. That's almost enough people to populate a city the size of Corpus Christi.

Almost 54,000 of these cancer victims will be men, since the disease is now claiming almost 15 per cent more men than women. It wasn't always like that, however. Back in 1940, 7 percent fewer men succumbed to cancer than did women.

Cancer today is second only to heart diseases as a general cause of death for the population as a whole. And when death rates are broken down according to age groups, it is tragically easy to see the wide swath the disease cuts through the cream of Texas youth and young adults.

If you are a girl between 15 and 29 years of age, cancer — chiefly leukemia — is your most relentless disease enemy, killing more of your group than anything else except accidents. Among boys of the same age, cancer — again mostly leukemia — is the third leading cause of death, claiming more lives than anything except accidents and homicides. Accidents are way out in front.

And as young people mature, the picture changes only slightly. From age 30 to 44, cancer still ranks third as a killer of males, but assumes first place as a cause of death among women. It holds this first-place spot for women through age 59, by which time the disease has crept into second place as a cause of male mortality. At age 60, cancer ranks second for both sexes, falling off into third place after age 75.

During the 15-year period from 1940 to 1955, comparative rates of cancer deaths for men and women changed considerably. In 1940 the male rate was 7 per cent less than the female rate, but by 1955 men were leading women by 15 per cent. The greatest variance is shown in the 45-49 age bracket, the male death rate exceeding the female rate by 8 per cent.

Significant disparity between men and women is noticed in mortality rates according to body sites attacked by cancer. For example, in cancer of the stomach, the death rate is almost 90 per cent higher for males than females, and cancer of the larynx kills men 10 times more often than women. On the other hand, women suffer 30 per cent more deaths from cancer of the genito-urinary organs than do men.

Cancer of the lung kills six times as many men as women. Eighteen per cent of all cancer among men is cancer of the lung but only five per cent of all cancer in women involve the lung.

The present trend toward increasing mortality from cancer can be lessened only by the people themselves — through periodic medical check-up and proper medical care when cancers are discovered.

11,000 Reservists To Receive Army Training This Year

Army summer camps located in 10 states will see approximately 11,000 Army reservists from Texas in attendance this year for a sharpening of soldier skills, according to Major General Lewis S. Griffing, Chief, U. S. Army Military District, Texas in Austin.

The shedding of mufti for khaki is two-weeks mandatory and perennial duty for Army reservists, held in order to brush up their military know-how. Schedules for the various units this year are staggered from June 1 to September 1.

Included in the 221 Texas units training, 97 of which are part of the 90th Infantry Division, are infantry, armor, quartermaster, engineers, artillery, antiaircraft artillery, civil affairs and military government groups, military police units, military intelligence units and logistic commands.

Largest total attendance of 5,500 will be at Fort Polk, La., with smaller groups training at Fort Hood, Fort Sam Houston, Fort Sill, Fort Bliss, Fort Chaffee, Camp Leroy Johnson and Camp Joseph P. Robinson in the five-state Fourth U. S. Army Area as well as at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo.; Fort Gordon, Ga.; Fort McClellan, Ala.; Fort Eustis, Va.; Camp Roberts, Calif.; Fort Knox, Ky.; Camp Breckenridge, Ky. and Fort Benning, Ga.

Higher Death Benefits Due 24,000 Widows

Twenty-four thousand widows of veterans who died of service-connected causes before January 1, 1957 may lose money unless they apply for the higher death compensation payments by July 1, 1957.

Dr. George T. McMahan, manager of the Veterans Administration Center in Waco, said approximately 80,000 widows all over the nation already have applied for the higher payments.

VA originally estimated that of all the 114,000 widows receiving compensation for the service-connected deaths of their husbands before January 1, 1957, approximately 104,000 were qualified to receive the higher payments.

The 24,000 who have not applied as yet have until July 1 to file application if they wish to receive the higher payments retroactive to January 1 under the Survivor Benefits Act.

Most of the widows who apply after July 1 will find that the higher payments will become effective as of the day their applications are received, Dr. McMahan said.

Those who apply for the new benefit but who would receive more under old laws will be advised by VA against the wrong choice of payment.

Broilers Need Plenty Of Feeder Space

College Station — Chickens need elbow room. Efficient broiler production demands at least two linear inches of available feeder space per bird.

Tests conducted with White Rocks and broiler crosses showed two to five per cent greater growth response when chicks were provided sufficient feeder space. Broilers receiving a feeder space of 1.5 linear inches for the first three weeks of a 9-week growing period, and three inches for the remainder weighed .04 to .15 pound more than birds on limited space.

Chicks allowed one and a half linear inches were consistently heavier at three weeks of age than were similar birds on 7 or one inch. Greatest growth response from added feeder space occurred from 4 to 9 weeks of age, and male broilers receiving three linear inches were about .04 to .15 pound heavier than those on either one and a half or two inches. The female advantage for a three linear inch space was from .06 to .14 pound.

Feeder space has little or no effect on livability, feathering or live market grades. Complete details of the test are available in PR 1947. Get a copy from the Agricultural Information Office at College Station, Texas.

Today's MEDITATION from The World's Most Widely Used Devotional Guide

The Upper Room THE UPPER ROOM, NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE

Read Isaiah 53:1-6.

"The Son of man came to seek and to save the lost. (Luke 19:10. RSV.)

Two small Arab boys gazed upon Alfred Soord's picture, The Lost Sheep. Pointing to Jesus, one little fellow said, "Look, He's going to fall!" Immediately his playmate said, "No, He isn't, He's holding fast."

Such childlike faith is the kind we would like to have for ourselves. Those possessed of such faith do believe that no matter what the personal dangers — no matter what the cost — Christ came to find us and save us, His lost sheep. What a comforting thought! Christ is eager to help us find our way back to God regardless of the number of times we have strayed from His path. "I am the way, the truth, and the life: no man cometh unto the Father, but by me." God sent His Son into the world to save sinners. His mission is a sacred one. Because God sent Jesus to us, He will not fail; He will hold fast.

Let nothing hinder us from believing in Christ and His power to save us and to unite us in the fellowship with all others who so believe.

PRAYER
 Gracious Father, we thank Thee for Thy Son, Jesus Christ. Grant us insight to sense that He is seeking us, strengthen our belief that He can save us, increase our love and encourage us to trust His guidance. In His blessed name. Amen.

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY
 With Christ as my guide, I cannot lose my way.

Warning Against Water Dangers May Save Life

Austin — MAY — an abundance of water and fine new boats and motors can provide some wonderful recreation, but it is a combination for tragedy, too. That is the warning of the Director of Law Enforcement of the Texas Game and Fish Commission.

"There is more water this year than most people in Texas have seen before," he says. "Every lake and stream is filled to the brim. This offers a much greater area for pleasure boating and fishing."

"The ratio of tragedy also can increase, because so many members of the family now enjoy boating. Formerly water sports were limited mostly to men and boys. Now the entire family is participating. This means extreme caution should be used by everyone."

The director pointed to a few simple precautions:
 First, know what you are doing when you take charge of a boat.

Second, there should be an approved life preserver for every occupant of the boat.

These are fundamental, the director pointed out. Other things, however, are just as important. One of these is courtesy. Boating courtesy not only will save tempers, but will save lives, he said.

Among these simple precautions he suggests:

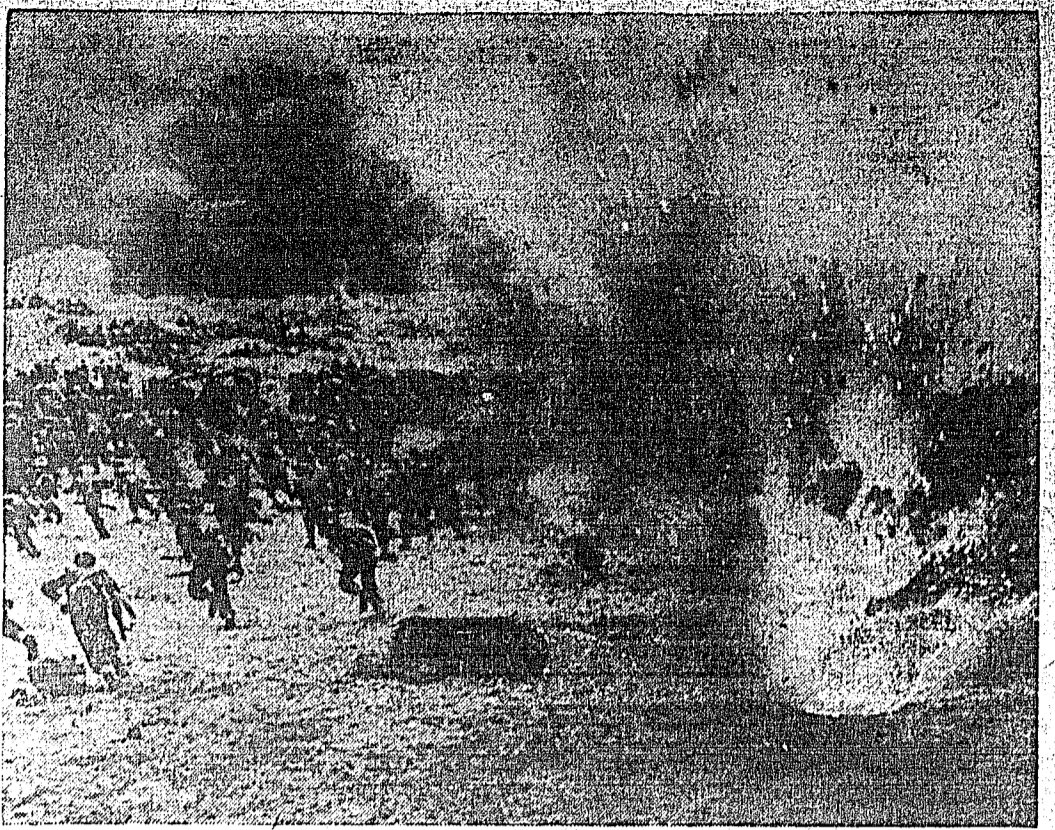

- Be sure and use the right motor. (Not too big.)
- Avoid sharp turns.
- Balance your load.
- Head INTO the waves.
- Slow down when you are passing smaller boats or parked fishermen.

If you don't know how to operate the boat, DON'T!

By following these few simple precautions you'll have little trouble and you'll get back home alive.

The WORLD OUTDOORS

Two of our most popular sports — boating and fishing — make an ideal combination for the sportsman who's lucky enough to have a few days to spend in the great outdoors.

Floating a stream with a small boat is an excellent way to relax, enjoy beautiful scenery and the smell of clean, fresh air. It's also the best way to discover new fishing spots quite inaccessible to the angler who travels on foot.

Among my fondest memories are the floating trips made on the creeks and rivers of the deep south. The average float took three or four days, and we never hurried. In the heat of the day we would seek the cooling shelter of a cypress or oak. Every stream of water entering the river was investigated and many of them led to seldom-fished lakes, well stocked with hungry, fighting bass.

If you're floating a good stream and water conditions are right, you can often catch more fish than you can eat, or wish to keep. Many veteran floaters work as a trio: the bow man gets the brim and smaller bass with a fly rod; the center man goes after heavy bass with big, floating plug; and the anchor man keeps the boat just the right distance from shore. This type of fishing, however, is not recommended in cases where waters are dangerous or the man in the middle (tossing many-barbed plugs) isn't a highly competent and accurate caster.

If there's a stream near your neighborhood that is deep and safe enough for floating, give it a try. You can drive a second car to the "take-out" point, or have someone meet you there to bring you home. But give it a whirl and you'll find new enthusiasm for the world outdoors.

Imprisoned Vets May Lose Pensions

Veterans imprisoned after conviction of felony or a misdemeanor will not be entitled to Veterans Administration pensions (not compensation) for that part of their sentence which exceeds 60 days. Dr. George T. McMahan, manager of the Veterans Administration Center in Waco, said today. Public Law 85-24, effective June 1, 1957, prohibits such payments.

Pension payments are made only to wartime veterans or their eligible dependents for disability or death not connected with the veteran's service.

Not affected by the law are compensation payments made to veterans or their survivors for disability or death incurred as a result of either wartime or peacetime service. Dr. McMahan emphasized.

Imprisonment periods of less than 61 days, or of any length before actual conviction, will not stop pension payments, Dr. McMahan said.

To prevent hardships, the law provided that VA may pay pension to the eligible wife or children of a veteran who forfeits his own pension during imprisonment.

VA pension being received by a veteran's widow is forfeited for her period of imprisonment greater than 60 days. However, if she has eligible children, payment may be made on their behalf, Dr. McMahan pointed out.

The 60-day rule also applies to any part of a pension being paid on behalf of a child under similar circumstances.

Dr. McMahan said that resumption of payment of pension may be made after the person's release from incarceration.

Enforcement of the new law will be carried out by VA with the co-operation of federal, state, county, and city law enforcement and penal authorities.

TAX-MAN SAM SEZ:

Saw a fellow the other day who had a pre-refund audit problem with the Internal Revenue Service. He had figured his tax claiming a refund. The Revenue folks wrote him a little half-page letter telling him that in reviewing his return they had found they must question some items. This fellow sort of felt that he was being picked on. The law requires Internal Revenue to audit the returns that have mistakes in them. This fellow's letter told him he might have to wait until September 30 for his audit since thousands of returns are given a pre-refund audit each year.

OFF THE RECORD

By Eunice Hendryx

The first romance in our family began when our new neighbors, the Lanes, moved in. While other women peeped from behind lace curtains and speculated on the financial status of the family, Mother prepared a good dinner and invited the newcomers. She suggested that we three girls try to be little Elsie Dinsmores instead of the Wiggs children we had been impersonating. And we did behave, for we were awed by Mrs. Lane's younger sister, Maizie.

Maizie was a fairytale princess — wavy golden hair, eyes like violets and a peaches-and-cream complexion.

Our older brother Frank, who had never seemed interested in girls, except that he did save pictures of shapely actresses — Anna Held, Lillian Russell and others less noted — pasted inside the top lid of his trunk and which we weren't supposed to know they were there, fell for Maizie from the start.

Maizie certainly took a shine to him, especially when she found he owned an interest in our only vaudeville theater. The romance was lovely while it lasted. Maizie rode with Frank every afternoon in his new stanhope and sat through the same acts at the Bijou every night in the week. In the Spring, however, she found it more pleasant to ride, presumably alone, during the evening. Then one night Frank found his horse tied to the hitching post in front of the theater and a note pinned to the seat cushion. Maizie had gone away with a Texas Ranger.

In a way, Mother was greatly relieved, for we had learned a lot about Maizie. But Frank adored her and Mother was afraid he might do something rash. She worried about his carrying a revolver. At first she had thought it a wise thing to do since he came home late at night with the box office receipts. Now she was sure that anyone with Frank's disposition shouldn't even own a gun.

My sisters and I were too thrilled with our newest possession to worry about Frank's broken heart. He had brought us a wonderful gift — the phonograph used to attract patrons to the Bijou. It was a smallish machine with cylinder records and a beautiful morning glory horn from whence issued the dialogs and duets of Ada Jones and Lem Spencer, comedy songs by Billy Murray, and the heart-rending ballads of Henry Burr.

Mother bore with the phonograph stoically until the significance of one song occurred to her. She asked us not to play it when Frank was home. Immediately the song had a great fascination. We played it guardedly and giggled over Maizie being the lemon instead of the peach in the Garden of Love.

One day a little visitor chose a record and slid it on the machine. The music had scarcely started when we all exclaimed: "You can't play that!" "Frank is upstairs," I explained. "He will think they are singing about him and Maizie."

Mother came hurrying in. "Take that record off," she scolded. "Didn't I tell you girls."

A loud report from the room above broke off her speech. "Was that a shot?" she asked in a quavering voice. She stumbled over her long skirts as she hurried up the stairs. We followed.

Mother pushed open Frank's door. He knelt in front of his trunk, his back toward us. Bits of pictures littered the floor — all the gorgeous creatures that had adorned the lid of his trunk. In each hand he held half of a large photograph of Maizie.

"Noise? Oh, I guess it was the trunk lid. Maybe I did bang it. You kids clean up this mess," he told us with a wry smile, and you can play that lemon-in-the-garden-of-love thing from now till doom's day."

The Department of Defense is the biggest business in the world. That fact was faced this past week when the House acted upon the $36 billion appropriation to pay the nation's defense costs during the next year.

Just where does all that money go? Well, here is a breakdown that may simplify it a bit.

About one-third goes for military pay and allowances. A third goes for hardware - planes, tanks, guns, missiles, etc. The other third goes to operate and maintain the various bases, including civilian pay, water, light, heat, paint.

We maintain 1,068 bases, from small radar outposts to the gigantic bases and depots. Of these 733 are in the U. S., the remainder are outside.

A total of 48,000 airplanes are being operated; 780,000 trucks, cars and jeeps; and nearly 3000 ships.

The fuel bill alone costs $1 billion a year - 220,000 barrels of fuel.

In addition, the military services have built and they maintain 51,000 miles of roads and streets. That is enough pavement to reach twice around the world. We have built and we maintain 4,500 miles of runway 150 to 250 feet wide. And operate over 12,000 miles of railway.

Water consumption at these bases amounts to a billion gallons a day.

The military grocery bill is $650 million a year. This includes 386 million pounds of flour, 300 million pounds of beef, 107 million pounds of chicken, 68 million pounds of frozen vegetables, 60 million pounds of coffee.

Defense is big business. It can be readily seen that further good housekeeping methods can easily save a billion dollars a year.

Speaking of more efficiency, Hoover Commission recommendations are now 73% in effect, according to the most recent announcement.

Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Williams of Brownwood, visited Sunday afternoon with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Amos Taylor. Also visiting in the Taylor home Sunday afternoon were another daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Estes and daughters, Dahlia, Kay and Rosemary of Coleman.

10 Story Building;
Or 60 Miles Per Hour,
Same Results

Austin — "For just a moment, try to imagine the results if you were behind the wheel of your own car, then drove it off the top of a ten story building. It leaves you with a rather awe-some picture doesn't it?"

This thought provoking question was asked today by J. O. Musick, General Manager of the Texas Safety Association, as he set the theme for the beginning of the Association's annual Slow Down and Live campaign.

"Of course no sane driver would attempt such a foolish thing," Musick continued. "And yet, if the same motorist crashes into another car while traveling 60 mph, he will meet with equally disastrous results."

Musick said he did not believe that speed, in itself, is necessarily bad, but highly desirable for efficiency's sake. With our modern transportation system, speed is essential. Whether it is for police cars, taxicabs, ambulances, or in simply getting us from one place to another.

"No, speed is not bad," Musick said. "But, we must be able to determine at what speed we can travel with a maximum of efficiency and a minimum of danger."

Here in Texas, the traffic-expert pointed out, all speed limits are clearly marked. And yet, these speed limits cannot be considered safe at all times. In other words, they are greatly affected by weather and traffic conditions.

"A safe speed, then, is one that is not too fast for conditions," Musick said. "Thus, it is up to the individual driver to determine what is a safe speed, within the given limits."

To help the average motorist determine what a safe speed would be under specific conditions, Musick offered the following seven-point check list:

First, drive at a speed that will enable you to stop in the assured clear distance ahead. Second, slow down before you get to curves and intersections. Third, at night, drive at the speed which will let you stop within your headlight range. Fourth, drive with traffic. You are probably going too fast if you are passing many cars and too slow if a number of cars are passing you. Fifth, where children are playing, be able to stop in a car length or less. Sixth, when you're tired or inattentive, stop and rest. Seventh, Always use common sense, this will mean never taking chances. Just as you wouldn't drive off a ten-story building, neither should you drive 60 mph when conditions make 45 mph safer.

People can't talk about things nowadays but the things that people once couldn't talk about.
