Traffic Laws and YOU

For the first time in the past several years the City Council of Santa Anna has requested the help and cooperation of The Santa Anna News in their endeavor to make our little city a better place in which to live. The Santa Anna News has always been ready to do anything possible to help Santa Anna and the surrounding communities in any worthwhile undertaking and we are ready to do our part and more in anything that will be of assistance or otherwise beneficial to Santa Anna and this area.

There is but one thing we must say and that is: cooperation is not a one-sided affair; but in order that cooperation may be worthwhile, everyone must cooperate together to accomplish any goal. In order for The Santa Anna News to cooperate with the City Officials and others in putting over any proposed project, we must have your cooperation as city officials and citizens.

Of primary interest to the city officials is the large number of traffic violations. Sometimes as many as 12 to 15 traffic tickets are given in Santa Anna in a 24-hour period and that is too many for our size town. Among other things, this is the first thing The News has been asked to do all possible in cutting down.

A large number of the traffic tickets are given to teen-ager drivers for speeding and reckless driving in this area. There is also a large number of teenagers who are driving that do not have driver's licenses. We feel a lot of the responsibility for this lies with the parents of these teen-agers and would like to suggest that parents keep a little closer check on what their children are doing while they are driving the family car and when they reach the age of 16, see that they get a driver's license if they are to drive any vehicle on any public road.

It is our plans to attend as many sessions of city court as possible and ride with the local law enforcement officers during their tour of duty as much as possible during the next several weeks. Violations seen and brought to court will be reported and commented on where we think we can be of assistance to drivers in keeping down traffic violations. We also plan to publish a large number of traffic laws during the next several weeks in order to better acquaint the public with laws that every driver should be thoroughly familiar with. Homer Garrison, Director of the Texas Department of Public Safety, said recently, "A driver who can read and does not know the traffic laws is no better off as a driver than a person who cannot read."

Ignorance of the law does not excuse a person from prosecution. It will be for the benefit of every driver, young or old, to pay close attention to the traffic laws published and to become thoroughly familiar with all laws. The first step in doing your part in preventing traffic accidents and congestion on our highways is to know the rules designed to promote efficient use of our highways. It is essential that drivers and pedestrians understand and comply with a set of driving and walking rules in order that they may cooperate with one another in the safe use of our roads. Even if driving rules were not laws (and they are) they would be just as essential to the prevention of traffic accidents. Very few, if any, accidents occur where at least one or more traffic rules are not violated.

What we hope to do is get as many drivers as possible to stop violating the rules of the road, and quit getting traffic tickets. If you do not violate traffic laws, and your neighbor does not violate traffic laws, the chances of your being involved in a traffic accident would decrease considerably. We hope you as drivers and pedestrians will make an attempt to better obey our traffic rules.

Improvement Of Mail Box Program Underway

The annual Rural Mail Box Improvement Program as urged by the Post Office Department is now under way; from June 2 to June 16.

Rural mail boxes which are improperly erected or in unserviceable condition retard delivery of mail and expose it to the weather. The Department urges rural patrons to erect suitable receptacles and to maintain them for easy and safe accessibility, presenting a neat appearance and affording protection to the mail.

Names of box owners should be inscribed on the side visible to the carrier, and boxes and supports should be kept painted. Boxes should be grouped where ever practicable and where there is room for the carrier to turn out from the highway.

A well-painted mail box on a substantial post adds to the attractive appearance of a farmstead; and the carriers appreciate boxes with well-fitting, easy-to-close-and-open doors, at a convenient height for him to operate from his car.

All rural mail box owners are asked to cooperate with this Mail Box Improvement movement during the two weeks before June 16.

Annual Polio Booster Shots Not Needed

Dr. William Tryon, City Health Officer, reports several parents have brought their children to the hospital in the past few days to receive an annual booster shot of Salk Polio Vaccine. Dr. Tryon said there is no recommendation that the annual shots be given. After a person has received the three recommended shots his immunity has reached its peak and until further research is completed, it is not known just when an additional booster will be needed.

Dr. Tryon said, "We like to give shots and it is our business to give them to those who want and need them, but as far as the booster shot we have received no recommendation that we give them and therefore we do not recommend they be given."

Speaking for the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis as the chairman of the local chapter, your editor has received no information indicating that an additional booster shot is needed. However, research is continuing on the large number of children who received the first shots in 1954 and 1955, to see just how long the vaccine will be effective. As soon as evidence is indicated the next booster is needed, national publicity will let everyone know.

We received information this week that babies have been placed at the top of the priority list for immediate vaccination to keep pace with the changing pattern of polio in the United States.

Basil O'Connor, president of the National Foundation, said, "In the two years since the Salk vaccine was introduced, the polio picture in this country has undergone a radical change. In 1952 children aged five to nine accounted for 24% of all paralytic cases. Inoculation has since protected millions of them. Last year only 16% of all cases were in this age group."

"On the other hand, the proportion of cases among infants and young children under five increased from 29% of the 1952 total to 39% in 1956. The highest paralytic case rates last year, were reported for babies one and two years old."

Research by the National Foundation has shown that polio shots should be included and are now recommended for infants as part of the routine that includes protection against diphtheria, tetanus, whooping cough and smallpox. Parents who have small children who have not been vaccinated are urged to start their series as soon as possible.

The National Foundation recommends that everyone from two months of age through 40 years of age, receive the three Salk polio vaccine shots.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmo Kirby returned from a month's vacation visit last Sunday afternoon with relatives in Michigan and elsewhere.

Dairy Products Top June Plentiful Food List

College Station — The June plentiful food list is headed by milk and other dairy products. Additional high protein foods on the USDA list are beef, turkey, eggs and halibut.

The Plentiful Foods Program will be a part of the dairy industry's cooperative efforts in behalf of June Dairy Month.

There are also plenty of strawberries. They are scheduled for extra emphasis during the month, mostly in connection with dairy products.

Although the supply of fresh fruits will be low during June, canned purple plums and canned freestone peaches will be available to the housewife in plentiful supplies.

Other plentiful items include potatoes, peanuts, peanut butter and vegetable fats and oils.

Widows of Veterans May Be Entitled To GI Loan

The service-connected death of a World War II or Korean conflict veteran may entitle his unremarried widow to a GI loan, even if the veteran had obtained a GI loan before he died.

The statement was issued today by Dr. George T. McMahan, manager of the Veterans Administration Center in Waco, Texas.

However, he added, if the widow herself is an eligible veteran, she accrues no additional GI loan rights because of her husband's death.

Unremarried widows of World War II or Korean veterans whose death was due to service-connected disability also may obtain direct loans from VA in those areas eligible for direct loans.

Direct loans, Dr. McMahan said, are obtainable for the purchase of a home or farmhouse. The law does not authorize direct business loans.

GI loan applications from widows, based on their husband's deaths as a result of World War II service, must be made by July 25, 1953. For Korean conflict eligibility, loans must be made before February 1, 1965, Dr. McMahan said.

Complete information is available from the VA office in Waco, Texas.

Some Veterans May Be Entitled To Second GI Loan

Sale of a veteran's GI-purchased home because of a new, and better job in a different city may entitle him to new GI loan eligibility, even though the job change was voluntary. Dr. George T. McMahan, manager of the Veterans Administration Center in Waco, said today.

"Better job" was defined by Dr. McMahan as being one that would increase the veteran's income or provide him with great opportunity for advancement.

Restoration of GI loan eligibility formerly was made only if the job change or transfer to another city was involuntary or beyond the veteran's control.

The new ruling, Dr. McMahan said, also applies to veterans moving to a different city following retirement.

Other circumstances under which a veteran may be entitled to a new GI loan eligibility are when the property:

1. Was taken by a government agency for public use;
  2. Was destroyed by natural hazard; or,
  3. Was disposed of for compelling reasons of health or other specified reasons beyond control of the veteran.
- However, no GI loan entitlement can be restored unless the VA is relieved of liability on the old loan. This generally is accomplished by payment of the loan in full, either by the veteran or the new purchaser.

Mr. and Mrs. Rip Mayo and Cynthia of Coleman, and Mrs. Bill Pritchard of Santa Anna, went to Sherman, Sunday for a visit with a sister of the women, Mrs. Robert Turner, in a hospital there. The others returned home, but Mrs. Pritchard remained for a longer stay.

Plans are being made to get the swimming program underway on Monday, June 17, with a three-week course for the boys, followed by a three-week course for the girls. The children will be transported to The Pool in Coleman by school bus, where they will receive a one-hour swimming lesson five days a week.

Mrs. Jane Campbell, president of the organization, announces Sam Rutherford will drive the school bus each day. The ones who have volunteered to help in the pool are: Pat Bryan, Carolee Campbell, Kay Kingsbery, Marion Hodges, and Edna Lewis. Boys who plan to help during the boys' three weeks are Kenneth Harris, Tommy Pollock and Eddie Hartman.

Mrs. Campbell said Mrs. Tom Bray and Mrs. J. K. Barton were the only mothers she has to go on the bus each day. She requests anyone who will help in the pool or by going on the bus each day to contact her or Mrs. John Gregg.

LAFF OF THE WEEK

"Doesn't the menu ever change around this place?"

GONZALES — Twenty-year-old Benny Garrett of Santa Anna, Texas, has achieved a long time goal at Gonzales Warm Springs Rehabilitation Foundation. He has learned to get in and out of a car, unaided. Benny, a 1954 polio victim, was badly involved from the attack. But bit by bit, he has fought his way back. Now he is learning to do many things he used to do before he had polio. Among them, is getting in and out of bed alone and in and out of a car. Pictured above, Benny, with his occupational therapist, Jill Gray, is planning to get out of his wheelchair and into a car. Mrs. Gray has helped Benny accomplish this feat.

DROUGHT AND FLOOD—Texas knows both. Here, at Possum Kingdom Reservoir, an installation of the Brazos River Authority, flood waters are pouring over the spillway. Up to May 21, Possum Kingdom released 1,773,540 acre-feet of water downstream. Meanwhile the dam was holding vast quantities of water. Just a few weeks earlier this was drought-paroled land. The U. S. Corps of Engineers estimated that, up to May 6th, the two great flood-control dams—Whitney and Belton—had prevented damage of $23,700,000 during recent floods in the Brazos River Basin. The B.R.A. master plan calls for many more dams, for flood control and conservation, on the main Brazos and its tributaries.

Our WASHINGTON Letter
By Congressman C. C. FISHER

Inside Story on the Formosa riot, which saw the American flag ripped from its staff and Americans reviled and spat upon by a howling mob, connects that anti-American uprising to Chiang Kai-shek's son, General Chiang Ching-Kuo. The latter, in charge of police and internal security, was educated in Moscow and is married to a Russian woman.

That does not mean that Kuo is a Communist. But it is known that he is not pro-American, despite the fact that the U. S. has poured nearly $3 billion in military and economic aid into that Free-Chinese bastion since the Generalissimo was chased from the mainland 8 years ago.

Kuo has organized a youth movement, including many students. At their meetings many unkind things have been said about the U. S. and about the Americans.

Thus, sentiment was ripe for the outburst, and resentment to the acquittal of an American sergeant for slaying a Chinese peeping tom served to trigger the explosion.

Kuo's hasty denial that his youth members were anti-American was very unconvincing to insiders. In fact, while it has not been paraded in the press the blame that has fallen on Kuo is such that his trusting father, the Generalissimo, is planning to send his son to America to "study" in an effort to placate the critics.

We Are Not Blameless. We simply have too many Americans in Formosa. The 10,000, including dependents, is at least 9,000 too many. The Free World, and the U. S. in particular, has a vital stake in keeping Formosa free, but the Seventh Fleet can handle that situation. Too many Americans concentrated in a small place, with living standards much higher than natives enjoy, cause a natural resentment.

After visiting Formosa two years ago I protested the over-staffing there with waste and extravagance evident on every hand. A proper military mission is essential, but everybody — bureaucrats and all — just had to get into the act.

The Government has just announced its intention to re-examine the situation with the view of pulling some of these people out and bringing them home. That move is overdue.

The nosegay carried by the officers were gold-foil stars with tiny red roses and green satin ribbon streamers.

The meeting was called by J. Ed Bartlett and candles were lighted by Airman and Mrs. Dean Bass of San Antonio, son and daughter-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. Bass. The Bible was also presented by Dean Bass.

REV. R. H. HARPER
PATIENCE

SEVERAL times in recent weeks the writer, driving to town, has been annoyed by a motorist behind him who sounded his horn as he glimpsed the yellow light just before the green light came on. And the writer drove on with the green, trying to subdue his feeling of resentment toward the driver behind who seemed to imply that the man ahead of him was half blind or was looking elsewhere. Perhaps the writer did attain, in this instance, to the "exercise of forbearance, under provocation." And there was further strain upon patience by the fact that nothing could be done about it.

This is but one instance of the many ways that patience may be strained in the everyday. By far the greater patience is exercised day after day, even year after year, in the attainment of some great objective. Many difficulties must be overcome, many tasks must be mastered. We may see the patience of some great man in the task he has set himself. Think of a boy who lay one day in a meadow and looked across to an estate that had been lost to his fathers, resolving that he would one day restore his ancestral home. And he died Hastings of Dalesford.

In the present time of stress and strain, let us exercise great patience in all the things with which we do have to do. Indeed, as the good Book teaches us, "let patience have her perfect work."

"EASY DOES IT"
BY... HELEN HALE

INDIVIDUALLY decorated accessories for rooms are wonderful conversation starters and they will enliven any evening. Here are some which may suggest projects for you.

Storage space for record albums can be a problem, but it needn't be. Get an orange crate and paper with a clever wrapping paper or use some of the same paper as was used for wallpapering the room.

Get some inexpensive salad bowls from a novelty store. With nail polish write "All Gone" or "You've Had It" on their insides and use these for pretzels, popcorn and potato chips.

Wooden trays can be sawed in half lengthwise and placed on the wall with brackets. They're wonderful for holding collections and souvenirs.

Discarded bird cages can be painted and waxed. Place trailing ivy or a hanging begonia plant in it and hang in the room with a sturdy black velvet ribbon.

An old grocery store display rack can be enameled black for the wrought iron look and used for magazines and record albums even in the living room.

Answer to Puzzle No. 418

OLD FASHIONED HOME

By Fran Pachter

SHIRLEY'S return from Briar College for summer vacation made the change in her very apparent and real to her parents. They had an inkling from her letters that college had altered her views, but had expected some change as it was her first time away from home. Little did they expect to meet up with critical comment as to their mode of living the minute she entered. It seemed that a fellow named Jim Sutherland was due to visit her and he, being very wealthy, would look down on her to find her parents living as they did. Her mother bore her comments in silence but her dad refused to take it lightly.

"That danged school and that fellow has made a snob of our girl and I don't like it."

Martha attempted to calm him by saying, "Now Ed, don't fret. I understand Shirley. All girls go through a period like this."

"I understood too but there's a limit. Why just last evening she suggested I dress for dinner and that I put my shoes on when the Elders came to visit. Why we've known them for years and Ben Elder don't care if I keep my shoes on or not."

Shirley entered in time to hear her dad's comments. "Oh dad, don't make such a fuss. It wasn't just because the Elders were coming. It's just that I want to get you out of some of your habits before Jim comes. They live in a penthouse and they're just not used to living as you do."

As time grew near for Jim's visit Ed began to notice definite changes taking place in his home. Gone were many familiar objects that were Martha's dearest possessions. First to disappear was the stitched motto "God Bless Our Home" that had hung over the mantle for as long as he could remember, then the antimacassers vanished off the furniture. He seethed inwardly but kept quiet until he saw Martha's beautiful patchwork quilt replaced by a luxurious nylon spread with matching draperies. He blew up, threatening to take Shirley out to the woodshed and beat some sense into her. His comments as to their guest were unprintable. A letter came announcing that Jim's mother would be coming too and this made Martha and Shirley work all the harder to ready the place.

On the day of their scheduled arrival Ed was very quiet and his wife knew that he was cogitating and that brooked trouble. Jim's mother proved to be a charming person as did her son, but her comment, "This place is so charming and quaint," did nothing to endear her to Ed.

At dinner all ate with evident enjoyment and with the meal over Jim's mother turned to Ed saying, "I've a hunch our coming has disrupted your home life. There's a discordant note here and I think I know what it is." All stared at her in surprise as she continued. "I grew up in a home just like this. Loved every minute of it too, but there are things missing that belong here." She turned to Martha, "For example, there should be a motto over that fireplace and antimacassers on those chairs. I'll confess that while upstairs I peeked into your room and saw that beautiful quilt on your bed. With our room done so modernly I suspect that Shirley had a hand in this. Am I right?"

Shirley had the grace to blush and Ed spoke up bluntly. "You guessed right. Shirley felt we weren't toney enough for you folks."

Jim spoke then, looking directly at Shirley, "Shirley, you're a dope. Mom's mother has a place just like this in Connecticut and we love to spend time out there. Come on let's make this place look like it should."

SESAME IN TEXAS

About five years ago, an ancient plant never before grown commercially in this country was introduced to farmers in the cotton producing areas in Texas.

It was Sesame, a plant that grows under conditions favorable to cotton. It produces tiny seeds from which vital oils are extracted.

At the time, Sesame was hailed as a new cash crop for those areas where cotton production was curbed by allotments. But a big obstacle to profitable production was the Sesame plant's tendency to shatter its seeds.

The Texas Research Foundation at Renner was primarily responsible for development of the crop in Texas. And after much research, the Foundation has been able to produce a "nonshattering" variety.

This new variety has produced amazingly high yields, particularly where irrigation is applied.

On the High Plains, Sesame has been termed the No. 2 money-maker for irrigation farmers, who last year averaged $121 per acre in gross returns — second only to cotton.

The Texas Sesame Seed Growers announced that the 1956 Sesame crop totalled 3,300,000 pounds. The crop was sold for $341,880. TSSG is a production and marketing organization composed of farmers. It handles the bulk of the U. S. Sesame crop.

Sesame production runs as high as 1,200 pounds per acre. Last year's crop sold for $10.34 per hundred pounds.

Sesame seed is used in a variety of ways. But its chief market advantage is that the oil becomes rancid much more slowly than most oils and therefore is used in the food industries.

The five-year-old crop continues to make gains not only in Texas but in sections of New Mexico, Oklahoma, Louisiana and Arkansas.

The record-breaking yields and high profits being achieved give Sesame a prominent place in Texas agriculture.

CHICK CHATS— Exercise Helps Chicks Do Better

Exercise has an important influence on the growth and development of a baby chick. A chick deprived of exercise often does poorly. On the other hand, chicks given the benefit of range, sunlight, and fresh air are usually superior in health.

There are a number of ways to provide chicks with exercise, but the main way is to keep the chicks feeling active. Then they will provide themselves with exercise.

In doing this, a raiser should pay particular attention to the brooder-house temperature. By maintaining a room temperature of 50 degrees to 60 degrees F., and keeping the house well ventilated, a poultryman can usually keep his chicks busy and on the move.

Running Out-of-Doors Of course, a poultry raiser should not overlook the importance of letting his chicks outdoors as soon as possible. In this respect, it is safe for chicks to run outside from the time they are 4 or 5 days old, providing they have a warm hover handy when they feel the need of it. This gives them plenty of exercise and the necessary exposure to the direct rays of the sun, both highly important factors in keeping chicks healthy.

In addition, chicks out-of-doors or on range can pick their own food.

In making an outside pen accessible to chicks, remember that chickens are bothered less by wind when the runway hole is on the protected side of the house. Also keep in mind that the brooder house should face the south for maximum exposure to sunlight (in most locations).

Keep Old and Young Separate The brooder house should never be situated so that old and young stock mix on the range, because older birds are usually the principal source of coccidiosis, respiratory disease, worms, and other diseases.

If this is inconvenient, it is advisable to keep the old birds confined, giving the young stock access to the range without the danger of contact with the older birds.

Adding emphasis to the above point is the fact that better livability may be expected when chickens are raised in isolation. Experiments at various agricultural farms and colleges bear this out.

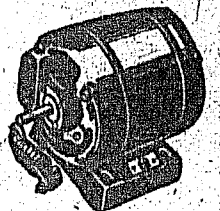

Most women are affectionate only when they want money. But I guess that is often enough.

SECOND SUNDAY SINGING The regular Second Sunday Singing will be held next Sunday, June 9th, in the North Side Baptist Church, beginning at 2:00 p. m. The public is cordially invited and a good attendance is expected.

Isn't it odd that it takes a baby two years to learn how to talk and it takes a man 40 years to learn to keep his mouth shut.

PARK OF THE WEEK

SAN JOSE MISSION STATE PARK AND NATIONAL HISTORIC SITE surround this historic church at the edge of San Antonio. The mission has so great a part in history that it is the only designated national historic site in Texas. Besides this old structure with its beautifully carved stone facade and its famed rose window, the mission restoration includes the defense walls, the granary, quarters of priests, civil authorities, military forces and Indian converts. The restored grist mill is said to have been the first industrial plant in the state.—Photo by Ellison, Austin.

SAN JOSE MISSION STATE PARK at San Antonio is one of the leading tourist attractions in Texas, and the only National Historic Site designated in the state by the federal government.

Described in the 1700's as "Queen of the Missions of New Spain", the park includes both the ancient church and the military and secular quarters of the mission with restored defensive walls. Walls of the granary are stabilized by stone buttresses of old-wagon design. Within the granary is a replica of the entire mission as it existed in 1720 A. D.

Among the many interesting things to be seen are the wells for water storage and the grist mill, which is said to have been the first industrial plant in Texas. Miniature canals known as acequia carried water to the mill and the fields about the mission. The church building has a carved stone front of remarkable beauty. The rose window of the chapel has been acclaimed as the most beautiful architectural carving in America. The window is not the usual circular type known ecclesiastically as a rose window, and to some is known as the "Rosa" window, perpetuating a folk tale that Artist Pedro Huisar carved it in memory of his sweetheart who died enroute from Spain to join him.

Religious services continue in the ancient church which remains the property of the Diocese. Under terms of a federal act the area about the church is administered by the National Park Service, the Texas State Parks Board and, the Catholic Diocese. The San Antonio Conservation Society, Bexar County and the City of San Antonio assist in the project.

THE WORLD'S MOST WIDELY USED DEVOTIONAL GUIDE

Read John 14:15-18.

"When the Counselor comes, whom I shall send to you from the Father, even the Spirit of truth, who proceeds from the Father, he will bear witness to me." (John 15:26, RSV.)

A boy ran up to a Chinese Christian layman. "Teacher, he asked, 'what do they mean at Sunday school when they say, 'Father, Son, and Holy Ghost?'"

The wise man replied, "Little one, the sun is bright in the heavens, yet it comes to us as light rays which you feel on your body. So God reveals Himself in many ways. God is the Father. Jesus is His son, the Light of the world. The Holy Spirit is the Comforter. Maybe that will help you to understand."

The lad thanked the teacher, and went his way.

The inspiration of that conversation still lingers with one who was standing by and who learned much from that Chinese teacher.

Many are eager to learn about God. Answers to their questions must come from those who know Him intimately.

Coccidiosis Can Be Controlled

Coccidiosis is a general term applying to infection with one or more species of coccidia, which are microscopic single-celled parasites. It is certainly one of the most important poultry diseases.

Coccidiosis occurs practically everywhere poultry are raised. In the acute forms, the disease causes high death losses and profound weakening and stunting of the surviving birds. In the more chronic forms, coccidiosis causes extreme unthriftiness and gradual loss of weight.

In addition, the presence of coccidiosis in a flock may present a stress that permits the establishment of other diseases.

Prevention of Coccidiosis

It is practically impossible to prevent all contact of poultry with coccidia. Good management, including clean litter, clean range, and continuous sanitation, will help keep down the occurrence of this disease. However, most poultrymen with flocks of a considerable size will find it more practical to prevent coccidiosis with a continuous low-level medication, which permits birds to attain an immunity through mild infection.

Usually, preventive medication is successful against coccidiosis, but poultry-disease specialists have found that sometimes the coccidia circumvent a barrier of this type — designed to let only a few through — and pour through onto the chicken. The result is what is called a break — a breach in the protective armor.

It may actually become an outbreak in the flock.

Controlling Coccidiosis

If explosive outbreaks of coccidiosis occur, or if there are stubborn cases defying treatment, there are various drugs that, used promptly and in sufficient concentration, may check the disease.

Prompt treatment with a recognized drug will usually prevent serious losses from coccidiosis. Other steps may be taken to aid the affected birds in their recovery; since coccidiosis does primary damage to the intestinal tract and ceca, it is important to feed birds a highly digestible ration. Attempts to stimulate appetite may be undertaken.

If much hemorrhaging has occurred, it is good to help the blood rebuild by giving supplements or additives rich in iron, copper, and other blood-building substances.

Stain Removal From "Special Finish" Fabrics

College Station — Special finishes now being used on many cottons, linens and rayons give wrinkle-resistance, extra sheen and body to these fabrics.

Problem now is, how to remove stains from fabrics that have these special finishes. Chlorine bleaches may be used on some, according to extension clothing specialists. Other finishes are damaged by such treatment because special resins in the finish absorb and retain chlorine.

Best rule to follow, according to the USDA Agricultural Research Service, is to look for the directions regarding use of bleaches on the garment. If no information is given, avoid use of chlorine bleaches on fabrics with special finishes.

Some stains cannot be removed without bleaching. In such cases use sodium perborate or a powdered bleach that contains it. Soak washable colorfast fabrics for several hours, or overnight if needed, in a warm solution containing one to two tablespoons of sodium perborate to a pint of water. Another method is to sprinkle dry bleach on the dampened spot, then dip in a pan of very hot water for a few minutes.

This reminder from the clothing specialists — Always check garments for stains before laundering, and remove. Otherwise hot water may set stains.

Christian Church News Notes

Rev. Jimmy Henderson, when he came from Fort Worth last Sunday, to fill his appointment at the First Christian Church, brought his wife, and children, Luru, Jimmy and Paul with him and they were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Boenicke.

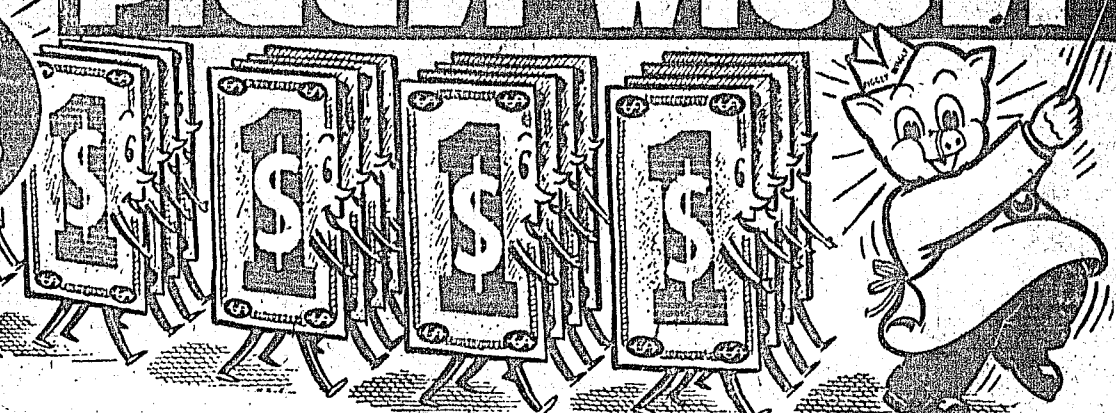

At a board meeting, held before the night service with Clifford Stephenson presiding, Henderson was asked to hold the revival meeting later in the summer. He hopes to get his brother, Pat Henderson, of North Carolina, a fine singer, to lead the singing.

Soil Conservation Sunday was observed by the showing of the interesting colored films. If we don't take care of the soil we may go hungry.
