The performance will be the ninth television appearance for the band in recent years. Besides five previous Macy's parades, they have also made three trips to Washington D.C. and one foreign excursion to VillaHermosa, Tabasco, Mexico to participate in their Festival of Development.

Director of the band is Mr. Bill Swinney.

2,649 all-purpose yards. In Friday's tilt Jackson ran on a tender ankle for 105 yards, the least of any game this season for Santa Anna's star attraction. He injured his ankle on his first run of the evening and had to give to it the rest of the game. However, Coach Permenter says the ankle is healing nicely and Herbert will be ready for full action against Garden City next weekend.

Although winning impressively over a surprisingly strong Miles team, the Mountaineers did not seem to get into the game as the fans are accustomed to seeing. As Coach Permenter explained, "It was sure hard to get up for that one. We had nothing to CONTINUED PAGE 4

Letters To The Editor

the coaches spend the money. No I observed a pickup coming up our street one day this past week. It was going slowly, with two young people in the back. The pickup would stop, the young people get out and then soon return and get in the back.

I was reminded of some years ago when a pickup was going slowly on one of the campuses in Abilene, with young people in the back. One young man fell out and will live the rest of his life as a vegetable. A few years later, on yet another campus in Abilene, a young women fell from the back of a pickup while it was going slowly. She was killed!

Is driving carefully and slowly good enough for our young people? Sincerely, Jean McClellan

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN: Once again I feel the need to set the record straight. Several people have made remarks, not really inquiries, into the Boost Club business. They have made remarks about how and by whom the money is being spent and they wonder where the Booster Club's money has gone. Well, first of all, the coaches ask for only what the athletes need. We, as a Booster Club, vote on the proposals. If a majority approve the money is spent. If it is voted down, we do not spend the money. So, as you can see, none of $3,700 in a CD at the local bank and somewhere in the neighborhood of $1,600 with which to work without having to touch the CD. With these funds, we have paid one half of the projector/analyzer screen, purchased buttons, a freezer, a blocking sled, new signs for the tennis courts, caps, towels, jackets, and food for out of town scrimmages and the out of town JV games. The money is not wasted on frivolous projects. We had two projects which did not turn out as we had hoped— the jackets and the homecoming hamburger supper. But we learned from these two projects, and we did not actually loose money because the hamburger patties which were left over were put into the freezer and will remain good until the basketball concessions or even until track season.

What I am trying to say is that once again, if you are going to Club is doing, come on down to the meetings, pay your dues, and voice you opinion by vote. We are always ready for fresh, new ideas. And we are in need of new members. It gets old with the same 4 or 5 couples doing all the work and having to come up with ideas. But if you are going to be one of the complainers, not attend the meetings to actually see first hand what is happening, and just run down those of us who are at least trying to support our school and athletes, do your complaining in private. I personally don't want to hear about it anymore. You are perfectly welcome at any time to examine our books and check stubs to see if we

BONSAI CHRISTMAS

Bonsai is the ancient Japanese art form of growing miniature plants and trees. In places where space is valuable, gardens and orchards can be gown in a small yard. Bonsai trees can be beautiful and indeed interesting. These plants are purposely kept small and not allowed to reach their full potential, A 10 or 20 year old tree may be only 6 to 12 inches

The word 'bonsai" is composed of two Chinese characters: bon meaning a shallow container, and sai - meaning a planting. Studying with the masters of the art could take years to learn the history and techniques of bonsai.

Some Christians can be compared with bonsai trees and dubbed bonsai Christians because they have not reached their full potential.

Bonsai trees do not have many roots. The tap root is trimmed, leaving only small roots to fit the shallow container.

Bonsai Christians are neither "rooted and built up in Jesus - nor established in the faith." (Col. 2:6,7) When you look at any tree, there is as much living and growing material out of sight under the surface as there is visible above the ground.

Bonsai trees receive little nourishment. They live in a few tablespoons of soil where they are allowed only the nutrients necessary to stay alive. Growth is subdued as much as possible. In fact, fertilizer

Bonsai Christians are not receiving nourishment. Not growing in their Christian faith, they are still immature, and must take milk, not meat. (Heb. 5:12-14)

Bonsai trees are easily wilted. They must have constant care. Watering can not be neglected. In summer, they should be watered two or three times a day. If one day is missed, the tree may wilt. If two days are missed, the tree may wither and die.

Bonsai Christians can wilt just as easily. They have to be cared for constantly. Bonsai trees do not bear much fruit. If fruit is borne it places a great strain on the tree. The bonsai fruit is usually smaller than it is meant to be and there is not much of it.

Bonsai Christians do not bear much fruit - holiness (Rom. 6:22), winning people to Christ (Rom. 1:13), or any of the fruit of the Spirit, expected in the character of a Christian (Gal. 5:22-23). If they do bear fruit, it places a strain on the person's life.

Bonsai Christians are different from bonsai trees. The tree is growing to the best of its ability, but has no chance to grow tall or strong. It is pruned back and under-nourished.

When a person accepts Jesus as Saviour, there is nothing to keep him from putting down roots into the word of God, growing in knowledge and understanding of the Lord, and bearing fruit. Nothing, that is, but laziness and disobedience.

(Gal. 2:10) And ye are complete in Him, which is the head of all principality and power. (Gal 2:6) As ye have therefore received Christ Jesus the Lord so walk ve in Him.

By Alice Anna Spillman If you enjoy books with historical background, here are three you will certainly enjoy:

Pillars of Fire, by Ken Follett is the story of the building of an English cathredral. Every character, setting and architectural detail is correct. Some scenes are so clearly painted that you feel the pain. Several people who have read this book recommend it highly. Men will enjoy it because of the political intrigue. There was a contest concerning this book. The person writing the best essay about the story will enjoy a trip to England to tour the cathredral and dine with the author.

Circle of Pearls by Rosalind Laker is another story of English history—th civil war between Puritans (Oliver Cromwell) and Royalists (Charles II). One of the queen's dresses has been handed down in a family loyal to the king. If you have looked closely at paintings of Elizabeth I, these gowns are beyond beautiful. Our family once saw a real reproduction of one of these gowns. It is in Jamestown, Virginia. How did women ever move with all that weight?-said to often near 100 pounds.

Those who enjoy archeology and the dawn os history will enjoy The Plains of Passage by Jean Aud. This book continues the life of Ayla, an ice age woman. Mrs. Aud has written three previous books and each represent years of research. Most stories of the ice age portray men hunters and warriors. Mrs. Aud's books investigate all people of the clans.

Some people believe it is a waste of time to read fiction. Over the years I have learned much of history, social and moral habits, clothing, food, housing, politics, and religion by reading selected fiction. Most stories are based on a few facts. Select books by books by authors who are known for their research and you will not be disappointed. Either of the above books would make good Christmas gifts

Parker Legislator Of The Year Mountainside 🖥

JIM PARKER The Texas Municipal League (TML), representing over 940 Texas cities and over 13,000 local officials, named State Representative Jim Parker (D-Comanche) as its Legislator of the Year at the TML Annual Conference in Corpus Christi October 25-27.

The award was unprecedented in that it was given in a year during which the state legislature did not meet in regular session. TML normally makes a Legislator of the Year presentation following each regular session to outstanding members of the House of Representatives and the Texas Senate. However, in appreciation of the work Representative Parker did during special sessions on legislation limiting the personal liability of all public officials, the League made the award in an "off-year"

The bill would have limited the individual liability of public servants if the action giving rise to a claim was within the scope of their official duties. Governments across the country are experiencing a crisis in hiring and retaining qualified employees because public employees face unlimited personal liability for doing their jobs. After passing the House overwhelmingly, the bill died in the Senate on the final day of the last special session.

TML President Joan Baker (Mayor Pro Tem of Lubbock) said in making the award that Representative Parker "....is a true and great friend to Texas cities and all public employees in the state and we can never thank him enough for his work he did". Representative Parker said he plans to refile the legislation as soon as possible for consideration in the next session, which begins January 1991. "Like General Douglas MacArthur, 'I shall return' ", said Parker.

Great American Smokeout

A lot of Americans will be breathing a lot easier because of the smokers who participate in the Great American Smokeout. They'll be saying, "Butt out" to their smoking habit.

It's a lot easier to do when one considers the health consequences of smoking: · Cigarette smoking is the chief avoidable cause of death in our society. Smoking causes an estimated 350,000 deaths each year-about one-sixth of all deaths. · Cigarette smoking is responsible for 30 percent of all U.S. Cancer deaths-

about 145,000 annually—and nearly 85 percent of all lung cancers. · People who smoke two or more packs of cigarettes a day are 15 to 25 times more likely to die of lung cancer than are nonsmokers. Even light smokers (fewer than ten cigarettes a day) are at significant risk.

 The risks of cancer increase with the duration of smoking, amount of smoking and amount of tar exposure. A point of interest to smokers is that

Physicians Urge Anti-Smoking Efforts Among Youth

Most smokers--nearly 90 percent--started puffing cigarettes before they were 20 years old, says Texas Medical Association. In November, during the American Cancer Society's Great American Smokeout, TMA urges prevention education targeted to youth.

Since smoking starts in adolescence, advertisers target kids," says Joel S. Dunnington, M.D., chair of TMA's Ad Hoc Task Force on Tobacco Use Prevention. Two men's brands use images of a rugged cowboy and cartoon character, says the Houston radiologist, while women's brands use glamorous, sophisticated models in their early

Although cigarette advertising is banned on television, children see brand names on television because tobacco companies sponsor sports events and display huge signs in sports stadiums, explains Dr. Dunnington. Ads also are beginning to appear in video games and movies.

Consequently, young people tend to overestimate smoking as socially acceptable, A 1989 survey of Texas middle and high school students showed two-thirds believe 50 percent or more students their age use cigarettes, when only 15 percent smoke daily or weekly.

To help prevent youth from starting smoking, follow these tips:

Set a no-smoking example. Children whose parents smoke are four times more likely to take up the habit than other children, Dr. Dunnington explains.

Remind teen-agers that the norm for their age group is not to smoke. Correct misperceptions about the prevalence of smoking. Only 30 percent of adults smoke, according to the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services.

Teach children how to critique ads. What they don't show is that "nicotine is more addictive than cocaine and other drugs," says Dr. Dunnington. What's more, "smoking is the single largest preventable cause of death in the coun-· Don't underestimate how young children are when they start to experiment. More than half (55) percent) of Texas seventh graders surveyed in 1989 reported having smoked at least one cigarette.

 When taking children for sports physicals or yearly check-ups, ask the physician to stress the immediate effects of smoking on athletic performance and appearance (bad breath, yellow teeth). Sometimes teen-agers will heed the advice of expert adults other than their par-

Older Homeowners May Pay Home Taxes Quarterly

AUSTIN: Homeowners 65 or over maynow pay the taxes on their current homesteads in four installments. Tax bills were received in

Leon Willhite, executive director of the State Property Tax Board, explained the purpose of the new installment payment option authorized by state law beginning in eptember. In past years, older homeowners had to pay their entire tax bill before the normal February 1 delinquency date or pay a penalty and interest on the unpaid amount. This was a hardship for many elderly homeowners on fixed incomes", Willhite said. "This new provision gives them the option of spreading out that payment", he said.

To set up installment payments, 65-or older homeowners must pay residence homestead taxes before the February 1 delinquency date. Then, three equal installment are due before April 1, June 1, and August 1.

dialed the number. 5. Save Your Slips. Save all receipts and compare them to your monthly bill to verify purchases and amounts. If you have a dispute about a charge, send it in writing to your card issuer. Telephoning will not protect your rights.

6. Cut Your Losses. Maintain a personal log of all credit card numbers and card cancellation information. Keep it separate from the cards. Some cards offer a free registration number for added security. Take advantage of these offerings.

Using safety sense can help you have a happy holiday without unpleasant surprises on your credit card bills.

7. Know Your "Writes." Never let a merchant copy your credit card number on your personal check. Many people handle checks and can use this information fraudulently. Don't write your telephone number or address on charge slips; many states are passing laws making this requirement illegal.

8. Keep Your Secrets. Never tell anyone your Personal Identification Number (PIN). Do not keep your PIN with your card.

9. Fill In the Blank. Sign each new credit card upon receipt. When cards expire, cut them into pieces and throw away.

10. Teach Your Children. Make sure all children who use your card know and understand safety rules for credit cards. Consider a card for each child in his or her own name to avoid confusion at the check-out.

FEET FREE OF PAIN

If your feet have been giving you problems, causing pain and discomfort and interfering with your normal activities, you should seek the treatment you need. Feet free of pain is not an impossible dream, not with the modern advances made in perfecting orthotic devices. These are not the old-fashioned arch supports.

The new othtic devices work on the principle of improving foot function by changing the positions and time sequences taking place in the foot segments. This means that no one muscle or group of muscles has to work longer or harder than they should. Another advantage of the orthtic devices is that they can be custom-made to fit your feet, helping to solve the problems that are causing you

After a thorough examination, your podiatrist will make out a prescription for a laster model of your feet from which the orthtic device will be made. If you want feet free of pain, make an appointment with your podiatrist.

SANTA ANNA NEWS

These majestic whooping cranes have settled in for the winter along with the rest of the flock at Aransas National Wildlife Refuge near Rockport. The endangered birds now number over 140 after extensive efforts by officials to preserve the population in recent years. The cranes winter at the refuge from late October through April. ### Insulation Helps Keep Your Energy Bills Down This Winter as Oil Prices Soar

After 10 years of declining imports, the United States has resumed its consumption of foreign oil. In 1989, the nation imported nearly half the oil it consumed. Earlier this year, oil imports exceeded 50 percent. The recent crisis in the Persian Gulf pushed prices to nearly $40 a barrel this fall, so homeowners may be in store for an expensive heating season this year.

While there's little you can do about the cost of energy, you can control the amount of energy you use to heat your home this winter, and cool it next summer. One of the best ways to keep your home more comfortable year-round is by making sure it's properly insulated. Recent upgrades of thermal recommendations by the Department of Energy increased the levels of insulation recommended for existing homes in most geographic regions across the country. Many consumers are now finding their homes are in the 'underinsulated" category.

The CertainTeed Home Institute has prepared a map and chart of insulation levels, based on current DOE recommendations, to help homeowners identify the appropriate levels for their homes. You can determine the insulation R-Value suggested for the area you live in by locating your zone on the map and adhering to the recommended levels on the corresponding chart.

The amount of insulation you have in your home will directly impact the cost to neat and cool it. As energ costs rise, so do the recommended R-Values. Climate, home construction and lifestyle all have an impact on what it costs to heat and cool your home, so R-Values should be adjusted accordingly.

Although insulating the attic is a project many do-it-yourselfers can complete in an afternoon, maximum energy savings can be achieved by insulating the entire house. To properly insulate hard-to-reach areas in attics and sidewalls, consider hiring a professional insulation contractor. A professional insulation contractor will probably recommend using a blown-in fiber glass insulation, such as CertainTeed's Insul-Safe III. It offers outstanding thermal performance, is noncombustible, noncorrosive, odor-free and will not settle over time.

To find a contractor, look in your telephone directory under "Insulation Contractors." Friends and relatives can also be a good source for leads. Once you've identified a few contractors, you can easily determine their credentials. A good rule of thumb is to make sure they've been in business for at least five years. Look at the types of projects they've done in the past to see if they match your job, and ask for a list of customers in your area that you can contact. It's also a good idea to check all information with your Better Business Bureau.

Once you've decided on a contractor, ask for a written estimate that lists the type, amount, and R-Value of the insulation to be installed, the total cost for materials and labor to complete the job and a starting and finishing date. All job specifications, details for the method of payment and the contractor's warranty should also be included. To validate the contract, both you and the contractor need to sign and retain copies of it. While an insulation upgrade in

Environmental Action At Home

There's a new story almost every day—the environment in peril, another blow to the health of our small, watery planet. You might ask "What can I do?" Actually, quite a lot and right in your house, too. A key place to start is the kitchen. The following tips from product development experts who make KitchenAid appliances can help you save energy, help the environmentand save money too.

Did you know you'll use less water by washing your dishes in an automatic dishwasher than washing them by hand? That's what a major university study recently discovered. And dishwasher use looks even better if you don't pre-rinse the dishes before putting them in the dishwasher.

It might not seem like much, but multiplied over millions of households that don't have dishwashers. the amount of additional water used is huge. As water controls and limits become more common, we can all appreciate how important it is to save water.

Here are some tips:

 Use as few cooking and eating utensils as possible at mealtime:

 Don't hand rinse dishes before putting them in the dishwasher; ·Wait until the dishwasher is full before running it;

•Use the proper washing cyclefor lightly soiled loads, many models on the market today offer a "low energy" cycle that uses fewer washes and rinses, and air dries dishes to save energy;

 Load the dishwasher correctly so that water and detergent will be able to reach each item.

your home now will help keep your home warmer and more comfortable this winter, it's important to remember that proper insulation will also help keep your home cooler next summer. discard. Rinse turkey and pat dry. Gently loosen skin from meat on breast and legs by breaking the membrane that holds the skin to the meat and sliding your hand between the two to loosen the skin. Spread peppercorns under the skin and in the cavity. Stuff the cavity with apple and parsley. Place the turkey on a rack, breast-side up, in the top of a 3-inch-deep roaster pan. Soak a cheesecloth in oil and cover turkey with the oiled cloth. This keeps the meat from drying out. Put water in the pan to a depth of 1 to 11/2 inches to provide moisture and pan drippings for gravy. Place turkey in oven and reduce heat immediately to 325° F. Bake 2 to 3 hours, or 12 to 15 minutes per pound. Test for doneness by pricking the skin of the thigh; the juice should run clear. Or use a thermometer inserted in the thigh; it should register 185° F. when the turkey is fully cooked. Let the turkey rest 20 minutes before serving. Serve turkey on a large heated platter and carve, removing the skin. Serves 12; approximately 4 ounces boneless turkey per serving.

Background

Our planet is blessed with natural resources. Our soil, water and air combine to give us a wealth of mountains, oceans, deserts, and plains that host an amazing variety of plants and animals.

> No where has this merger of nature and know-how been more successful than in America. For the last 50 years, American farmers have been the most productive in the world—feeding our own people and tens of millions overseas.

> But today, many consumers are concerned-not about the abundance of our food, but about its safety. The news media has reported on a variety of food safety "scares." Opinion surveys show that nearly eight out of every ten consumers consider pesticide residues a "serious health hazard." Others have concerns about hormones, antibiotics, and other additives.

Cole and her guest Joe Bailey Cole These are important concerns. Consumers deserve to know the facts about how the foods they eat are produced.

> Many groups and individuals have offered their views on what is right and wrong with our food supply. This debate will no doubt result in some constructive gains. But too often, the voice of the American farmer goes unheard when food safety issues are discussed.

For thousands of years, farmers had few weapons to combat pests or diseases. From the locust plagues in Biblical Egypt-to the infamous Irish potato famine caused by a widespread blight-to the threats facing agriculture today-crop damage from pests and disease can be devastating.

Gardeners know the damage beetles and other insects can cause. Weeds, another serious pest problem, can choke off nutrients and crowd out crops. Mold and mildew, brought on by heavy rains or high humidity, can ruin an entire season's crop in just a few days. An explosion or sudden outbreak of hungry insects can devastate a field in hours Untreated, disease and sickness can spread swiftly through a livestock herd or poultry flock.

Help for the American farmer came after World War II, when pesticides became widely available. Farmers had a valuable tool in their arsenal to fight crop pests. They could control insects, weeds, mold and rodents more effectively. Yields increased, quality improved, and prices stabilized.
