REVIVAL MEETING

The Baptist are carrying on a revival meeting in Santa Anna this week, with Rev. W. Y. Pond, pastor at Coleman doing the preaching.
The day services are being held in the Presbyterian church building where the Baptist people have been holding their services for the past several months, and the night services are being held in the Methodist church, which provides more room. An afternoon service is also held on the streets each afternoon.
At the time of going to press it appears that there is a possibility of getting into the new church building by Sunday, but this statement has not been confirmed.
Unfortunately for the editor, our circumstances have been such this week we could not attend the services, but the report comes that a good interest is shown in the meeting.

CHRISTIAN CHURCH IN REVIVAL

Elder E. M. Douthit, a preacher said to be of some note and who has been here before is also conducting a series of revival services at the Christian church.
At this time we have no report from the local pastor but the meeting is announced for this week and next, and we presume they will have two services each day, morning and evening or night as the term implies here.

THE NEWS $1.00 A YEAR

We would like to increase our circulation, in fact, we would be glad to have every family in this vicinity to become bonified subscribers to our paper, and in conformity with our desire to see the country restored to normal, we are going to try to stay in business for a while at least, and publish a paper at the old price of $1.00 a year to subscribers living in Coleman county, and $1.50 a year to those living outside the county.

We cannot say how long this price will remain in effect, but all new and renewal subscribers can now have the privilege of paying up as far in advance as they wish at the old price of $1.00 a year.

We have a few delinquent subscribers, who we wish would come in and pay up, as we would much prefer to have every one paid in advance, and at the low price we are now offering the paper, we feel sure that all can pay up in advance. Look at the date on your paper and if delinquent please call in and renew.

LOCAL LODGE MEMBERS

VISIT COLEMAN

Thursday night of last week, about 35 members of the I. O. O. F. and Rebekah lodges in this city braved a sandstorm and went to Coleman to attend the Quarterly social meeting of the two orders.

It has been the policy of the local lodges here and at Coleman to hold joint social meetings on each Fifth Thursday evenings, taking about turns, Coleman coming to Santa Anna one night and three months later Santa Anna returning the visit, which serves a good purpose for the two orders.

The Coleman lodges entertained the visitors last Thursday night with a home talent play and also served refreshments to a large number. In fact, if the interests in the two orders continue to grow these social meetings will soon have to abandon the halls and take to the parks for room.

Following is the list of those who went from here if we have the names correct:

Mesdames Will Vinson, E. W. Marshall, Kate Bowden, Crenshaw, Ashley, Will Bell, Richardson, Hensley, Will Taylor; Misses Bill and Jim Vinson, Maud and Bell Bowers, Ruby Brandon; Faye Childers, Grace Ewing, Annie Lou Parker, Gortlen, Owens, Inez Richardson, Vada Crenshaw, Eva Freeman, Messrs W. M. Bell, J. R. Lackey, Will Taylor, Marvin Neill, Jim Robin, J. Boyles, J. J. Gregg, J. M. Byrd, Dock Ashley, S. J. Pieratt, O. T. Laws.

GILT EDGED RECIPE

FOR HELPING A TOWN

Kalama starts off like calamity, but it's far from it, if this little article from the News of that Washington town is an index to what its inhabitants have been doing since the News gave out the advice contained:

"Speak a good word for your own town and country whenever an opportunity presents itself. More towns die for want of confidence, on the part of business men and public spirit, than from rivalry of neighboring towns or adverse surroundings. When a man is in search of a home or business location and goes to a town and finds everything brimful of hope and enthusiasm and earnestly at work to build up the town, he soon becomes imbued with the same spirit and as a result he drives down his stakes and goes to work with the same interest. When, however, he goes to a town and everything expresses doubt and apprehension in the future prospects of the town, he naturally feels that it is not the place for him and at once shakes the dust from his feet, while he pulls with all possible speed for some other town. Consequently, try and make a live, enterprising, progressive town out of the one in which you live and remember that when you are working or saying a good word for your town, you are accomplishing all the more for yourself. Then speak a good word for your town."

ROBERTSON INTEREST RESUMES DRILLING OPERATIONS

Last Saturday the Robertson interest, who have drilled several wells in this territory, spudded in a well on the Robertson holdings about nine miles south and a short distance east of town, and will make a deep test. Their intentions are to go to the Ranger sand unless oil or gas is found in paying quantities at lesser depth.

We have also been informed that a location has been made on the Robertson holdings near Trickham, and drilling operations will begin soon on a deep test.

There has been sufficient oil and gas produced in this territory to justify the belief that a large pool of oil is stored somewhere in this vicinity, but geology seems to be freakish in a measure, and the structures are difficult to locate. However, we expect to some day see a good oil field opened up in this territory.

SANTA ANNA GETS GOOD RAIN

At last the long drouth has been broken in this vicinity and Coleman county has gone back into the wet column.

The several showers that fell here last week amounted to 1 1/2 inches, and Monday of this week 4 inches of water fell, giving us a good season.

News come from the Live Oak community that Monday evening the largest rain fell that had fell in several years. Creeks are half-bank Tuesday. Tanks are all filled and the City Lake is now standing between 3 and 4 feet deeper in water than it was last week.

Santa Anna should take on a business revival, as all we have heard for the past six months is some one belly-aching about the drouth. Their aches most surely have been relieved because of this fine season, and we see nothing in the way of good business now except the lack of effort.

Smile now, and see how it hurts your face.

Last week we promised to furnish our readers a statement in this issue of the News from some legal adviser, regarding the sale of Road Bonds, and below is a portion of an opinion from the Attorney General of Texas, in answer to questions regarding the matter: "The statute (Art. 637-h) contemplates that the commissioners court shall first pass the order authorizing the issuance of the bonds and levy the tax in payment thereof and then present the record and bonds to the Attorney General for approval, and if approved, have the bonds registered in the office of the Comptroller of Public Accounts. The bonds after each registration, remains in the custody of the commissioners court until sold for cash at not less than par, and may be sold by said court either in whole or in parcels."

CITIES CANNOT FORCE PAYMENT OF POLL TAXES

Austin, March 30.—Cities and towns in Texas have no legal authority to impose a poll tax on their citizens as a prerequisite to voting in any city election, held the Attorney General's Department in an opinion to the county attorney of Mason County.

There is a law on the statute books, it was pointed out in the opinion, that authorizes and empowers cities and towns to impose such a poll tax on all "male" citizens. When the Legislature passed the Woman suffrage act the law-makers failed to amend the law so as to include women. This omission meant that only male citizens could be required to pay such city poll tax. The Attorney General's Department held that to allow the male citizens to be taxed and not the female would be a discrimination against the male, hence the ruling that none can be required to pay a city poll tax as a prerequisite to voting.

Financial stringency has its effect upon two distinct classes of people. When it comes one class works a little harder, cuts down expenses, manages to lay by a little each week in preparation for possible emergencies, and gets through in fairly good shape. The other class does a pile of complaining, doesn't exert any additional energy, forgets to economize while the money lasts, and as a result soon finds itself up against it. A big storm in a few words.

WOLVES And STORMS

If the wolves were howling around your door—you would not open it and force your children to go out and meet them single handed and alone—would you?

If there was a snow storm raging around your home—you would not tell your little ones to go out in it and live or die as best they could—would you?

You calmly think of dying and leaving your children to face the storms of life without your care and without protection that could be theirs today by making application for a policy in the

You are—figuratively—opening the door of your home and asking the wolves to come in.

There is nothing in this world that will afford them protection against the storms of life and keep the wolves farther from the door than a policy in the International Life.

RAIL WORKERS MAY AID STRIKING MINERS

WARREN S. STONE SUGGESTS CONFERENCE TO DISCUSS STRIKE SITUATION.

MANION BEHIND THE MOVE

"If Miners Ask Aid the Meeting Will Be Called," Says Head of the Telegraphers.

Chicago, Ill.—Leaders of the powerful railroad unions are expected to call a meeting to discuss aid to the 500,000 coal miners now on strike.

The call for this meeting will probably be issued by E. J. Manion, president of the Order of Railroad Telegraphers. The suggestion for the conference came originally from Warren S. Stone, grand chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, and he, with Manion, is said to be back of the movement. All of the railroad union leaders have not been sounded on the proposal as yet, it was stated, but a decision is expected to be reached within a few days.

"If the miners ask for our aid the meeting will be held," Manion told the United News.

While Manion declined to be quoted further, it was stated by another authoritative source that the first object of the proposed meeting would be to get together on ways and means to give the miners financial aid.

The proposition was reported to have been discussed at the conference here attended by leaders of Group 3 of the railroad unions composed of the telegraphers, stationary firemen, clerks, maintenance of way men and signalmen. One of the strongest advocates of giving aid to the miners was said to be E. H. Fitzgerald, president of the Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks, Freight Handlers, Station and Express Employees. They also discussed nominations for a new labor member of the Railroad Labor Board to succeed Albert Phillips, resigned.

The rail unions are already committed by a pact signed by leaders of both of these big industrial forces to aid the miners. This pact was arrived at in a joint conference here last month. But it must be ratified by all the railroad unions before it becomes effective.

Back of the interest of the rail unions in the miners' fight is a struggle that they have on their hands on the wage and working rule question which is expected to come to a head in the mid-summer.

SMALL NATIONS ARE WANTING THEIR MONEY

Delegates Ask That Their Percentage of German Reparations Be Fixed.

Paris—Delegates from Brazil, Romania, Greece, Portugal, Czechoslovakia, Poland and other countries, not represented at the recent conference of allied Finance Ministers in Paris, met under the presidency of Roland W. Bowden, American unofficial representative on the reparations commission. They expressed a desire that the percentage of reparations reverting to the various countries from German payments be fixed as soon as possible.

The delegates also decided to ask the reparations commission to determine within what limits it would be possible for those countries to enter into agreements with Germany for payments in kind, similar to the Wiesbaden accord signed last year by Dr. Walter Rathenau for Germany and Louis Loucheur, who was at that time French Minister of liberated regions.

Mr. Bowden agreed to present these requests to the reparations commission at its next meeting.

Cousin of Roosevelt Killed.

New York—David Zalkin, driver of a municipal bus, was held without bail for the grand jury Sunday on a charge of homicide in connection with the death of Robert E. Roosevelt Jr., of Bayshore, New York, who died Saturday of injuries believed to have resulted from being struck by an automobile. Roosevelt was 22 years old, and a second cousin of former President Roosevelt.

Eathquake in Serbia.

Belgrade, Serbia—Continuous heavy earth shocks are occurring throughout Serbia. More than 100 houses have been destroyed and many others damaged. The monetary loss up to the present time is estimated at 30,000,000 dinars. Normally the dinar is worth 19 1/2c.

Radio News Approved by Gov. Wood.

Washington.—Governor General Leonard Wood of the Philippine Islands has forwarded with his approval to the War Department a resolution adopted by the American Chamber of Commerce of the Islands urging continuation of the present method of sending radio news from the United States via Navy Department facilities. The resolution asserts there is "a vital need for a continuation of the existing service," which will expire July 1 unless Congress authorizes extension.

CHINESE TREATY IS RATIFIED BY SENATE

NINE-POWER FAR EASTERN PACT FOR OPEN DOOR POLICY APPROVED.

Washington—The Senate completed its part of the arms conference program by approving the last two treaties of the group of seven submitted to it for ratification.

On the final ratification roll calls the affirmative expression of Senate opinion was all but unanimous. Not a single vote was cast against the Far Eastern treaty, drawn to guarantee a new bill of rights to China, and there was only one dissenting voice when the constitutional "advice and consent" was given to the pact for revision of the Chinese tariff. The totals, respectively, were 66 to 0 and 58 to 1.

Over the tariff treaty several sharp exchanges took place, with Senator Hitchcock of Nebraska, senior Democrat of the Foreign Relations Committee, and Senator King (Dem.) of Utah leading in criticism of American participation in the fixing of Chinese customs schedules. Senator King cast the only negative vote on the ratification roll call and Senator Hitchcock left the chamber and did not vote.

In defense of the treaty, Senator Underwood of Alabama, the Democratic leader and a delegate to the arms' conference, declared all the powers already were involved in treaties stipulating China's tariff schedules and now were acting together to ameliorate the situation so far as practicable.

A compilation of the results of the seven ratification roll calls shows that on five of the seven treaties the Senate acted with virtual unanimity. The votes follow: Yap treaty, 67-22; four-power treaty, 67-27; supplemental four-power treaty, 65-0; naval limitation treaty, 74-1; submarine and noxious gas treaty, 71-0; Far Eastern treaty, 66-0; and Chinese tariff treaty, 58-1.

YOUNG LADY INJURED BY BOMB EXPLOSION

South Lamar Street Mar Tries to Extinguish Fuses After Having Rescued Sleeping Baby.

Dallas, Texas.—As the result of a bomb explosion about 8:15 Wednesday night that shook houses for several blocks, the home of Mrs. Bessie McAllister, 1228 South Lamar, on the east side of the street between St. Louis and Powhattan, about a mile south of the business section of the city, was wrecked, and Miss Dorothy May Grace, 18, who was in the house at the time, sustained a broken ankle and many cuts about the head and face.

Mrs. H. C. Patton, mother of Miss Grace by a previous marriage, narrowly escaped with her life when she dashed into the house to drag out her daughter, who had gone into the building to bring out some clothing.

Officers arrested H. C. Patton, husband of Mrs. Patton at his home, 3026 Gertrude, near Highland Park. He insisted that he had been to church and knew nothing of the explosion.

Jim Patton of 3010 Gertrude street and Frank Patton, living on the rear of 3010 Gertrude street, were also arrested. Jim and Frank are brothers of H. C. Patton.

All declare they know nothing of the explosion and say they are innocent of any wrongdoing.

R. G. Solomon, 1200 South Lamar, who had been summoned to the house by screams of the women, who declared someone was under the building striking matches, had crawled under the front porch and seeing two fuses burning, plunged for them just as the crash came.

Solomon was picked up some minutes later in an adjoining yard. He was in a dazed condition and was clutching a revolver in his hand. He was later treated at Emergency Hospital, a foot having been bruised.

Neighbors around the wrecked house said that Mrs. Patton, who had been at the address only three days, had frequently said that her life was in danger and that she feared the McAllister home would be blown up.

Naval Holiday

Washington.—America will join with Britain, Japan, France and Italy in a ten-year naval holiday, and with them will scrap war craft to establish the fleet ratio of 5-5-3-1-7-5.

Deportation Bill Finds Favor.

Washington.—Favorable report of a bill which would authorize deportation of aliens convicted of violating Federal and State prohibition and narcotic laws was ordered by the House Immigration Committee.

Famous Shrine Burned.

Quebec, Que.—The famous North American shrine of Ste. Anne de Beaupre was destroyed by flames with a property loss of $1,200,000 Wednesday. Defective wiring ignited a pile of crutches cast down by pilgrims who after kneeling in the Basilica, had arisen announcing themselves miraculously cured. Soon the church and the monastery of the Redemptorist Fathers were aflame, and for a time the whole village was threatened.

TREASURY FACES A DIFFICULT PROBLEM

MORE MONEY WILL BE PAID OUT THAN WILL BE COLLECTED.

Washington.—Imposition of new taxes to meet huge prospective deficits in the Federal Treasury may be suggested with the beginning of the new fiscal year July 1.

The income of the Government during the next fiscal year, it is now indicated, will fall below the amount the Treasury will be called upon to pay out. The alternative to borrowing during a period when gigantic funding operations are being carried on would be to increase levies now in force or add new ones.

The Treasury admittedly is faced with a difficult problem and the manner for its solution at this time is not clear. Even the best informed of the Treasury officials are unable to foretell just how public finances will shape themselves. The one fact that seems to stand forth prominently is that more money will be paid out than will be collected.

Much will hinge on developments during the next two or three months, it should be revealed during that time how much Congress has been able to economize, whether assistance may be expected from loan payments from the British, what new burdens will be imposed, and how the books for the current fiscal year will balance.

So far, actual cash paid out by the Treasury for "ordinary expenditures" is slightly more than $2,500,000,000, compared with $3,500,000,000 for last year. "Ordinary expenditures" are exclusive of public debt operations. This favorable showing, however, will be to a considerable extent modified before the end of the year, because interest payments totaling nearly $400,000,000 fall due.

PLANNING TO IMPORT COAL AS BALLAST

If Plan is Adopted Will Mean No Coal Shortage in United States This Year.

Washington.—A project for importation of coal to save the Nation from a fuel famine which might result from the walkout of miners April 1 is planned by Government officials, it was learned here.

The Shipping Board has been asked to consider a scheme for utilizing coal as ballast on its vessels plying between the United States and coal-producing countries.

Experts say if this plan materializes no fuel shortage could result within twelve months' time at least.

Senator Borah was to continue his conferences this week with labor representatives and others involved in the coal strike situation in an effort to bring about a truce. Borah, last week, talked over the situation with these labor representatives. He may call the Senate Labor Committee this week to consider information he has gathered and later offer his good offices in an effort to bring both sides together.

Should the plan of carrying coal as ballast be adopted British operators would jump at this means of making further inroads in this country's coal trade, it is believed. They can ship thousands of tons monthly and meet our prices, it is said, if shipping concerns agree to carry coal as ballast for cheap rates. They can stimulate their own production in this manner and reopen many mines which have been shut down in the period of depression.

Wants More Time.

Berlin.—Germany can not fully fulfill the conditions of the allied moratorium proposals, Government spokesmen maintain. It was authoritatively denied, however, that the Government had rejected the Allied Reparations Commission's conditions. The allied demands include payment of 750,000,000 gold marks in cash and 1,450,000,000 in kind during 1922.

Frame Tariff at Night Session

Washington.—Night sessions for speeding up the permanent tariff bill were decided upon by Senate Finance Committee Republicans, following a visit to the White House by Senator Curtis of Kansas and Senator Watson of Indiana, where they were informed by President Harding of his desire for an early reporting of the measure.

Ask Non-Union Miners to Strike.

Indianapolis, Ind.—With plans complete for the nation-wide coal strike, union leaders here await developments in their program for a complete tie-up of the country's coal industry through their call to 200,000 non-union miners to join the half million union workers in the suspension of work Friday at midnight.

American Woman Is Slain.

Shanghai.—Mrs. W. J. Snyder of Brazil, Ind., was killed and four other persons were wounded when two Koreans made an abortive attempt to assassinate General Gilchi Tanaka, former Japanese Minister of War, upon their arrival here.

Rioting Reported in Strike.

Hagerstown, Md.—Rioting broke out in the yards of the Western Maryland Railroad when an attempt was said to have been made by non-union employes to turn an engine.

Western stock firm in Chicago and St. Louis at $1.90-2.00. Cereals and vegetables generally firm. New York and Chicago strong. Cabbage markets firm for Texas stock; weak for Florida. Texas early flat up $5-10 to $35-50 per ton bulk. Florida pointed in 1 1/2, but hampers slightly weaker in some eastern markets at $1.25-1.50.

LIVE STOCK AND MEATS—Chicago hog prices declined 5-15c. Beef steers lost 15-20c; butcher cows and heifers firm to 10c higher; feeder steers weak to 50c lower; veal calves weak to 25c lower. Fat sheep and lambs generally steady with spot 15-20c higher. Closing prices in Chicago cash market: No. 2 red winter wheat $1.35; No. 2 hard winter wheat $1.33; No. 2 mixed corn 56c; No. 2 yellow corn 57c; No. 3 white oats 26c.

DAIRY PRODUCTS—Butter markets about steady at close following declines at all markets. However with Chicago relatively higher than eastern markets further price readjustments may occur. All grades have shared in what movement has taken place, principally on account of sharp competition among retailers. Closing prices 92 score: New York 47c; Chicago and Philadelphia 38c; Boston 34c.

COTTON—Spot cotton prices declined 29 points during the week, closing at 16.82c per pound. New York futures down 26 points at 17.64c.

BIG WATERWAY FUND FOR TEXAS IS VOTED

Appropriation of $42,815,651 is Recommended Over Plans of Budget for $27,365,260.

Washington.—Texas river and harbor projects will obtain a total of nearly $17,500,000 for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1923, if the vote of the House of Representatives on the army appropriation bill is sustained. The committee, following the budget, has recommended a total of $27,365,260, the apportionment to the projects being continued under authority of the board of engineers. The engineers, however, testified before the committee that if the budget figures were sustained the allotments to the projects would be reduced about one-half of that recommended in the engineers' report.

The river and harbor advocates pointed out that it was folly to longer neglect the waterways, and that rapid improvement would be one of the effective means of bringing freight rates to a lower level.

The engineers at the time of their report to Congress had to the credit of Texas projects $1,631,697, for the fiscal year ending June of this year, and the new apportionment for 1923 will be in addition to that sum.

EASTER

The Sabbath night had passed, and in the east

The first pale streaks of rose foretold the day, When from the city, Mary Magdalene And others, bearing spices, came to lay Them in the Master's tomb.

They marveled that the stone which had been sealed

Was rolled away, and stooping down they saw

Inside the tomb two angels robed in white,

Whose radiance made them bow their heads in awe—

"He is not here," they heard.

"Did He not say that He would rise again?"

Seek ye the living, then, among the dead?"

And, trembling, Mary and the others went

To His disciples, telling what was said.

Yet one would not believe.

For Thomas told his brethren, "Till I've thrust

My hand into the Master's wounded side,

And felt the prints of nails inside His hands,

I'll not believe He lives again who died."

And later Christ appeared.

He bade the doubting Thomas make his tests,

Who did and said, "My Lord," and Christ replied,

"Because you have beheld me, you believe,

But those who have not seen my hands and side

And yet believe, are blessed."

HOME-GROWN EASTER LILIES

Experiments Made by the United States Department of Agriculture Have Been Successful.

When it first became known that experiments in raising Easter lilies from seed were being carried on by the Department of Agriculture, few florists were prepared to believe that the undertaking possessed any commercial value beyond the possibilities of producing new hybrids. The results of these experiments, which have now been carried on for four years, indicate, the department specialists believe, that this country can develop an important industry.

On the Arlington experimental farm, which is just across the Potomac river from Washington, department specialists produce the lily seeds in greenhouses by artificial pollination. These seeds are planted about January 1, pricked out into small pots, and in May the young plants are set in the open ground. They develop rapidly, and by July or August some of the plants reach sufficient size to bear blooms. In October or November the plants are lifted, potted, and removed to the greenhouse. Without undue forcing the plants will come into full bloom the following February to April—15 months after the seed has been planted. Those plants which bloom in July or August and from which the bloom stalk has been cut and can be forced to bloom again by Easter.

Many commercial growers are much interested in the work which is being conducted on the Arlington farm, and officials of the department believe that it will not be long until an industry will be developed in this country which will make lily growers here independent of any foreign supply of bulbs.

Her Easter Contribution

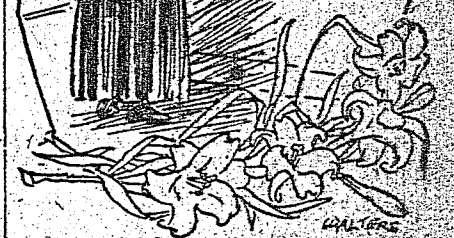

Since her husband had died and had left her very poorly off the cynical relations had wondered what had made her ever marry him in the first place. And some of them had said that doubtless she had had her eyes shut when she took him.

But such was not the case. She had always been very happy despite her poverty. They had been generous even with their little, and the relatives who were hopeful that the jewels she possessed would later realize them something had said that fools and their money were soon spotted. They were afraid that others who were more friendly and more sincere would be left that which they felt as blood heirs should be theirs.

The little old lady of whom they talked for a long time had wanted to get a copy of the Apocrypha. The various family Bibles which also contained these books were so old as to be crumbling to pieces.

So she went to the nearest book shop of the town. "Have you the Apocrypha?" she asked. "The Apocrypha?" she repeated. "The Apocrypha," she repeated.

Now, the bookseller was proud of his reputation of having every book which could be asked for within any degree of reason. And he kept right up to date, too, reading all book notes and notes of future publications. But here was one he had not read about. Somehow it must have escaped him.

"It's Not Out Yet, is It?"

"It's not out yet, is it?" he asked. "Yes," the little old lady answered. "Well, it couldn't have been out very long, I don't believe," he added. "It all depends upon what you call long," she had answered amiably. "It has been out about a thousand or two thousand years, that's all," she added.

She had told me this story with genuine relish, but afterward she had been glad she had not been able to buy the Apocrypha then. She found she really could not afford it; she could afford nothing to speak of at the present time. And Easter was coming along, too, the time when she wanted always to make some special contribution—some little act of denial.

She was a very frail little old lady, and very obviously of that strata of society known as the "genteel poor." Always I had been fascinated by a little gold chain she wore. From it dangled a quaint charm. There was a little chair made out of coral, and a gold water jug, the top of which could be taken off, and a locket made like a little purse, and an American gold dollar.

"I want to ask you something," she whispered to me one day. "I don't like to speak of it to anyone else—you know—they might object, though it's mine! I own it!" This last was said with a touch of pride. "You know my gold dollar on this chain? I've had it since I was a little girl." She went over that time again, told me how her father had given it to her, just a small homely kind of a story. Then she went on:

"I'm wondering where I could sell it where I'd get the most for it. My income has dwindled down pretty well these last few years." She smiled bravely. "But I'd like to see it—for a dollar, anyway, if I could. I just couldn't bear it if I didn't give a dollar toward the Easter offering—and it's so much more fun when there's just a scrap of denial in it."

And when she later sealed her dollar inside the special envelope to be put in the plate on Easter day I thought that the Widow's Mite, after all, was an incident not solely confined to the pages of the Bible!

CALOMEL IS A DANGEROUS DRUG

Next Dose May Salivate You, Loosen Teeth or Start Rheumatism.

Calomel is mercury; quicksilver. It crumbles into sour bile like dynamite, ramping and sickening you. Calomel attacks the bones and should never be put into your system.

If you feel bilious, headachy, constipated and all knocked out, just go to your druggist and get a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tonic for a few cents which is a harmless vegetable substitute for dangerous calomel. Take a spoonful and if it doesn't start your liver and straighten you up better and quicker than nasty calomel and without making you sick, you just go back and get your money.

Don't take calomel! It makes you sick the next day; it loses you a day's work. Dodson's Liver Tonic straightens you right up and you feel great. No salts necessary. Give it to the children because it is perfectly harmless and can not salivate.—Advertisement.

Success.

The Sunday school teacher was doing his best to inculcate lessons of altruism, and had taken as his example the case of two little boys, one of whom was always ready to grab, while the second was willing to share everything.

"Now, children," he finished impressively, "which of these two boys will grow up into the successful and respected man?"

And as one voice the class answered: "The guy that gits!"—American Legion Weekly.

WHY DRUGGISTS RECOMMEND SWAMP-ROOT

For many years druggists have watched with much interest the remarkable record maintained by Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder medicine.

It is a physician's prescription. Swamp-Root is a strengthening medicine. It helps the kidneys, liver and bladder do the work nature intended they should do.

Swamp-Root has stood the test of years. It is sold by all druggists on its merit and it should help you. No other kidney medicine has so many friends.

Be sure to get Swamp-Root and start treatment at once. However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper.—Advertisement.

Adroit Publicity.

Ramsey Milholland by Booth Tarkington

THE FIRST KISS.

Synopsis.—With his grandfather, small Ramsey Milholland is watching the "Decoration Day Parade" in the home town. The old gentleman, a veteran of the Civil war, endeavors to impress the youngster with the significance of the great conflict, and many years afterward the boy was to remember his words with startling vividness. In the schoolroom, a few years afterward, Ramsey is not distinguished for remarkable ability, though his pronounced dislikes are arithmetic, "Recitations" and German. In sharp contrast to Ramsey's backwardness is the precocity of little Dora Yocum, a young lady whom in his bitterness he denominated "Teacher's Pet." In high school where he and Dora are classmates, Ramsey continues to feel that the girl delights to manifest her superiority, and the vindictiveness he generates becomes alarming, culminating in the resolution that some day he will "show" her. At a class picnic Ramsey is captured bag and baggage by Milla Rust, the class beauty, and endures the agonies of his first love. Ramsey's parents object to Milla and wish he'd taken up with Dora Yocum.

Milla hung weightily upon his arm, and they dawdled, drifting from one side of the pavement to the other as they slowly advanced. Albert and Sadie, ahead of them, called "good night" from a corner, before turning down the side street where Sadie lived; and then presently, Ramsey and Milla were at the latter's gate. He went in with her, halting at the front steps.

"Well, good night, Milla," he said. "Want to go out walking tomorrow night?" Albert and Sadie are."

"I can't tomorrow night," she told him with obvious regret. "Isn't it the worst luck! I got an aunt comin' to visit from Chicago, and she's crazy about playin' 'Five Hundred,' and mama and papa said I haf to stay in to make four to play it. She's liable to be here three or four days, and I guess I got to be around home pretty much all the time she's here. It's the worst luck!"

He was doleful, but ventured to be literary. "Well, what can't be helped must be endured. I'll come around when she's gone."

He moved as if to depart, but she still retained his arm and did not prepare to relinquish it.

"Well—" he said. "Well what, Ramsey?" "Well—good night."

She glanced up at the dark front of the house. "I guess the family's gone to bed," she said absently. "I s'pose so."

"Well, good night, Ramsey." She said this, but still did not release his arm, and suddenly, in a fluster, he felt that the time he dreaded had come. Somehow, without knowing where, except that it was somewhere upon what seemed to be a blurred face too full of obstructing features, he kissed her. She turned instantly away in the darkness, her hands over her cheeks; and in a panic Ramsey wondered if he hadn't made a dreadful mistake.

"Scuse me!" he said, stumbling toward the gate. "Well, I guess I got to be gettin' along back home."

He woke in the morning to a great self-loathing; he had kissed a girl. Mingled with the loathing was a curious pride in the very fact that caused the loathing, but the pride did not last long. He came downstairs morbid to breakfast, and continued this mood afterward. At noon Albert Paxton brought him a note which Milla had asked Sadie to ask Albert to give him.

"Dearie: I am just wondering if you thought as much about something so sweet that happened last night as I did you know what. I think it was the sweetest thing. I send you one with this note and I hope you will think it is a sweet one. I would give you a real one if you were here now and I hope you would think it was sweeter still than the one I put in this note. It is the sweetest thing now you are mine and I am yours forever kiddo. If you come around about Friday eve it will be all right. Aunt Jess will be gone back home by then so come early and we will get Sade and Alb to go to the band concert. Don't forget what I said about my putting something sweet in this note, and I hope you will think it is a sweet one but not as sweet as the real sweet one I would like to—"

At this point Ramsey impulsively tore the note into small pieces. He turned cold as his imagination projected a sketch of his mother in the act of reading this missive, and of her expression as she read the sentence: "It is the sweetest thing now you are mine and I am yours forever kiddo." He wished that Milla hadn't written "kiddo." She called him that, sometimes, but in her warm little voice the word seemed not at all what it did in ink. He wished, too, that she hadn't said she was his forever. Suddenly he was seized with a horror of her.

Moisture broke out heavily upon him; he felt a definite sickness, and, wishing for death, went forth upon the streets to walk and walk. He cared not whether, so that his feet took him in any direction away from Milla, since they were unable to take him away from himself—of whom he had as great a horror. Her loving face was continually before him, and its sweetness made his flesh creep. Milla had been too sweet.

When he met or passed people, it seemed to him that perhaps they were able to recognize upon him somewhere the marks of his low quality. "Sot! Ole sloppy fool!" he muttered, addressing himself. "Slushy ole mush! Spooner!" And he added, "Yours forever, kiddo!" Convulsions seemed about to seize him.

Turning a corner with his head down, he almost charged into Dora Yocum. She was homeward bound from a piano lesson, and carried a rolled leather case of sheet music—something he couldn't imagine Milla carrying—and in her young girl's dress, which attempted to be nothing else, she looked as wholesome as cold spring water. Ramsey had always felt that she despised him and now, all at once, he thought that she was justified. Leper that he had become, he was unworthy to be even touching his cap to her! And as she nodded and went briskly on, he would have given anything to turn and walk a little way with her, for it seemed to him that this might fumigate his morals. But he lacked the courage, and, besides, he

He had a long afternoon of angishes, these becoming most violent when he tried to face the problem of his future course toward Milla. He did not face it at all, in fact, but merely writhed, and had evolved nothing when Friday evening was upon him and Milla waiting for him to take her to the "band concert" with "Alb and Sade." He made shift to seek a short interview with Albert, just before dinner.

"I got a pretty rotten headache, and my stomach's upset, too," he said, drooping upon the Paxtons' fence. "I been gettin' worse every minute. You and Sade go by Milla's, Albert, and tell her if I'm not there by half-past-seven, tell her not to wait for me any longer."

"How do you mean 'wait'?" Albert inquired. "You don't expect her to come pokin' along with Sade and me, do you? She'll keep on sittin' there at home just the same, because she wouldn't have anything else to do, if you don't come like she expects you to. She hasn't got any way to stop waitin'!"

At this, Ramsey moaned, without affectation. "I don't expect I can, Albert," he said. "I'd like to if I could, but the way it looks now, you tell her I wouldn't be much surprised maybe I was startin' in with typhoid fever or pretty near anything at all." He moved away, concluding feebly: "I guess I better crawl on home, Albert, while I'm still able to walk some. You tell her the way it looks now. I'm liable to be right sick."

And the next morning he woke to the chafings of remorse, picturing a Milla somewhat restored in charm waiting hopefully at the gate, even after the half-past-seven, and then, as time passed and the sound of the distant horns came faintly through the darkness, going sadly to her room—perhaps weeping there. It was a picture to wring him with shame and pity, but was followed by another which electrified him, for out of school he did not lack imagination. What if Albert had reported his illness too vividly to Milla? Milla was so fond! What if, in her alarm, she should come here to the house to inquire of his mother about him? What if she told Mrs. Milholland they were "engaged"? The next moment Ramsey was projecting a conversation between his mother and Milla in which the latter stated that she and Ramsey were soon to be married, that she regarded him as already virtually her husband, and demanded to nurse him.

In a panic he fled from the house before breakfast, going out by way of a side door, and he crossed back yards and climbed back fences to reach Albert Paxton the more swiftly. This creature, a ladies' man almost professionally, was found exercising with an electric iron and a pair of flannel trousers in a basement laundry, by way of stirring his appetite for the morning meal.

"See here, Albert," his friend said breathlessly. "I got a favor. I want you to go over to Milla's—"

"I'm goin' to finish pressin' these trousers," Albert interrupted. "Then I've got my breakfast to eat."

"Well, you could do this first," said Ramsey, hurriedly. "It wouldn't hurt you to do me this little favor first. You just slip over and see Milla for me, if she's up yet, and if she isn't, you better wait around till she is, because I want you to tell her I'm a whole lot better this morning. Tell her I'm pretty near practickly all right again, Albert, and I'll probly write her a note or something right soon—or in a week or so, anyhow. You tell her—"

"Well, you act pretty funny!" Albert exclaimed, fumbling in the pockets of his coat. "Why can't you go on over and tell her yourself? But just as it happens there wouldn't be any use your goin' over there, or me, either."

"Why not?" "Milla ain't there," said Albert, still searching the pockets of his coat. "When we went by her house last night to tell her about your headache and stomach and all, why, her mother told us Milla'd gone up to Chicago yesterday afternoon with her aunt, and said she left a note for you, and she said if you were sick I better take it and give it to you. I was goin' to bring it over to your house after breakfast."

He found it. "Here!" Ramsey thanked him feebly, and departed in a state of partial stupefaction, brought on by a glimpse of the instabilities of life. He had also, not without a sense of vacancy and loss; for Milla, out of his reach, once more became mysteriously lively.

Pausing in an alley, he read her note.

"Dearie: Thought I ought to call you up but over the 'phone is just nix for explanations as Mama and Aunt Jess would hear everything and thought I might seem cold to you not saying anything sweet on account of them listenin' and you would wonder why I was so cold when telling you good-by for a while maybe weeks. It is this way Uncle Purv wired Aunt Jess he has just taken in a big touring car on a debt and his vacation starts tomorrow so if they were going to take a trip they better start right way so Aunt Jess invited me. Now dearie I have to pack and write this in a hurry so you will not be disappointed when you come by for the B. C. to-night. Do not go get some other girl and take her for I would hate her and nothing in this world would make me false for one second to my kiddo boy. I do not know just when home again as the folks think I might stay up there for a visit at Aunt Jess and Uncle Purva home in Chicago after the trip is over. But I think of you all the time and you must think of me every minute and believe your own dearie she will never not for one second be false. So tell Sade and Alb good-by for me and do not be false to me any more than I would be to you and it will not be long till nothing more will interrupt our sweet friendship."

As a measure of domestic prudence, Ramsey tore the note into irreparable fragments, but he did this slowly, and without experiencing any of the revulsion created by Milla's former missive.

He was melancholy, aggrieved that she should treat him so.

"Yes, sir; that quiet littl Milla's a regular old married woman by this time, Ramsey."

Arctic Days and Nights. The Arctic is a region of snow and ice; for months in the winter the sun is below the horizon, and though for other months in the summer it never sets, its heat is not strong enough in most quarters to reduce the quantity of snow and ice which form in the cold season. The longest day and longest night at latitude 70 degrees are about two months each; 10 degrees farther north they are about three months each; at the pole they divide the year almost equally.

POULTRY CACKLES

LESSEN BROODINESS OF HENS

Every Ambitious and Enthusiastic Poultryman Tries to Restrict Its Development.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.) Broody hens, like wayward children, are a great discredit to their parents and a source of annoyance to all who have to do with them. That is why one of the greatest concerns of every ambitious and enthusiastic poultryman is to restrict the appearance and development of broodiness in his flock. The United States Department of Agriculture has found that broodiness can be reduced very markedly by careful, rigid and persistent selection.

At the Massachusetts experiment station, where a detailed experimental study of broodiness has been made, it was ascertained that previous to the practice of selection the average hen in the flock was broody 3.88 times a year. After painstaking selection was practiced for five years, this tendency to broodiness was reduced so that the average egg producer in the flock developed broodiness only 0.88 times a year. A study of the correlations between broodiness and egg production shows that pullets that are very broody tend to lay relatively few eggs between their broody periods.

There is no one dominant cause of broodiness among poultry. Genetically, there occur four distinct types of nonbroodiness and one of broodiness. It is believed that birds showing only a slight tendency to broodiness belong in the same class as the nonbroody fowls, as each has about the same proportion of broody offspring. The determination of broodiness is complicated by the fact that birds that are not broody during the pullet year may become broody during their second or third laying season.

PROPER EGGS FOR HATCHING

California College Institutes New Project for Improvement of Poultry Flocks.

For the improvement of poultry by careful selection of breeding stock, the poultry department of the division of extension work of the California College of Agriculture has instituted a new project with the hatcherymen of Alameda county. Previous to this time, the assertions of the egg dealer were the only guide to those who bought eggs for hatching and dealt in baby chicks, as to the quality of the eggs they were getting. There was opportunity for frequent abuse or confidence in the business.

Under the present plan about 20,000 birds have been inspected by poultry experts, and those which have met the requirements decided upon for weight, egg production, size and shape of eggs, and other points, have been accepted as eligible for the production of eggs for hatching. Hatcherymen have agreed to use no eggs except those from tested flocks.

EXERCISE CARE IN CULLING

One Is Liable to Discard as Many Good Layers as Poor Ones Late in Winter.

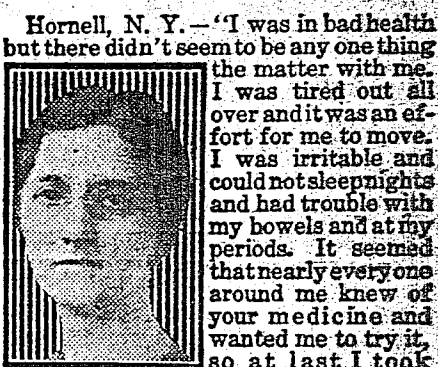

Be careful about culling birds. You are liable to get rid of as many good ones as poor ones. As long as you've fed them all during the winter, it would be safer to feed them another few weeks, when any old bird will produce eggs; then do your culling in the summer, from June to September.

POULTRY NOTES

- Feed a dry mash. A fat hen is not a good layer. Feed grain once or twice a day. Feed table scraps and kitchen waste. Brooder lumps should be cleaned every day. Powder the chicks occasionally during the first eight weeks. The flock with shelter from storms and with clean surroundings has the best protection against disease.

Vote your sentiments and accord the same right to your neighbor, and whatever the result, keep in a good humor and pull for Santa Anna. Every citizen should be proud of his town and help to make it what he would like to see it. There is room and work enough for all.

The News editor received a communication this week from the Lampasas Business League, asking our support to bring the next meeting of the State Press Association to Lampasas in 1923. It has been several years since the writer visited in Lampasas, and if the majority of the Quill Punchers of the state feel equal to the occasion, the writer will pay them one more visit in 1923.

Mr. Eck, proprietor of the Santa Anna Utilities company has been busy for the past several weeks with a crew of hands, making some needed improvements in his lighting system. New posts have been set and considerable other improvements have been made. Mr. Eck is a live wire and is alert at all times to give his customers the very best of service and such a business spirit is bound to win.

Willie Carter, main witness for the state in the murder trial of George Hornsby, who was tried and sentenced to hang for the murder of one Mr. Weatherby, automobile dealer in Brownwood, came out in a statement last week and repudiated his testimony given during the trial, and later gave out another statement confirming the testimony. Hornsby is supposed to hang in Bell county on April 14th.

Since the rain we find several people trying to smile that have lost the habit. Keep on trying, a few June showers will put the finishing touch on your efforts.

THE ELECTION APRIL 15

Last Friday night the people of Rockwood requested the citizens of Whon to meet them at Whon and discuss the proposition of revoking the road bonds voted in the precinct two years ago. As we understand, the good people of Whon already have their road built and have tentatively agreed that if Rockwood wants to retain the bonds in order to have a road built into their part of the county, Whon voters will vote in accord with them, and the meeting referred to was called for the purpose of getting the sentiment of the two communities.

After several talks were made, Judge L. G. Mathews being the principal speaker, those from Rockwood were asked to stand and 45 citizens stood up. Then those who intended to vote for the cancellation of bonds were asked to sit down and only three took their seats.

The people of Whon were asked to stand up and 27 came to their feet, the proposition was made to them and only one took his seat, resulting in an expression of 69 voters, and only four of them were against the bonds. In other words, 65 favor keeping the bonds, only four are in favor of cancelling them. Good for the Whon and Rockwood people.

FOR COUNTY JUDGE

The Santa Anna News has been authorized to announce Judge M. M. Williams of Coleman as a candidate for County Judge of Coleman county, subject to the action of the Democratic primaries in July. Mr. Williams is an ex-Judge of the County Court, and holds a place in the ranks of the old timers of the county. He served in the capacity of County Judge a good many years ago, when the school affairs of the county were under the supervision of the County Judge. His record in that capacity is well known to the older citizens of the county, and will stand investigation of others who may not be familiar with it. Mr. Williams courts investigation and if elected, pledges to give the people a fair and economic administration devoid of waste and extravagance, and with the purpose at all times of conserving the money of tax payers who support the County government. He says he is strictly against bond issues under the existing industrial and economic conditions. Says he will appreciate the votes and influence of all who believe him to be competent and worthy of the office.—Contributed.

Monday night about 9 o'clock, lightning struck the J. E. Watkins home, demolished the sewing machine and set the house on fire, but did no personal injury to any of the family. The fire was extinguished with but little damage.

Sheriff's Sale Under Execution

Whereas, by virtue of an execution issued out of the Justice Court of Precinct No. 1, Coleman county, Texas, March 10, 1922, upon a judgement of said Court rendered May 23, 1921, in favor of The Equipment Company, a corporation, Plaintiff, vs. W. E. Faulkner, Defendant, No. 3772 on the docket of said Court, I did on the 11th day of March, 1922, levy upon, as the property of said Defendant, the following described personal property, to-wit:

10 New Ford Automobiles springs, 10 other Automobiles springs.

Therefore, I will on the 18th day of April, 1922, between the hours of ten a. m. and four p. m. at the Courthouse door in Coleman, Coleman County Texas, offer for sale and sell the above described property, together with all the right, title and interest of the said W. E. Faulkner in and to the same and will apply the proceeds of said sale to the payment of said judgement amounting to $52.35, with interest thereon at 6 per cent per annum from date of same and further sum of $2.85 costs of said suit and the further costs of executing said order of sale.

Witness my hand at Coleman, Texas this 3rd day of April, 1922.—W. R. Hamilton, Sheriff of Coleman County, Texas. 14-2c.

GOLDEN-THROATED CLAXTONOLA The HOME-MAKER

"HOME"—There is no sweeter word, no dearer place in the wide world than Home. The right kind of a home is a blessing to the family and to the nation. Many young people would never leave the place they call home, if the real home atmosphere existed.

To make the Home a place full of comfort, good cheer, and the most loving memories, it needs more than three square meals a day. There is nothing that will help you more to enjoy life and to make your home a better place for all concerned than a Phonograph.

If you do not have a Phonograph, you are going to get one and you will get it as soon as you realize what it would mean to you, to your family and friends.

Before you purchase your phonograph, however, hear the "Golden-Throated" Claxtonola and you will choose it on account of its many merits.

The CLAXTONOLA is a perfect machine, and it will give perfect satisfaction. We have several of these up-to-date CLAXTONOLA machines that we are going to sell at greatly reduced prices.

EQUAL in laying ability. But the hen on the right was fed a common grain ration while the other was fed Purina Chicken Chowder and Purina Hen Chow. Grains have lots of material for yolks, but far too little for whites. As they can't lay yolks only, grain-fed hens lay fewer eggs.

Purina Poultry Chows. Feed from Checkerboard Bags
 Form a complete ration, containing material for an equal number of whites and yolks. They get the most out of your hens, and cut the feeding cost per dozen eggs.

Three-Piece Easter Suits; Milady's Easter Bonnet

OF COURSE you have made up your mind that it is to be a threepiece suit this spring, but perhaps just what color to choose and fabric is still an open question.
Combination is the color feature in most of the models, such as sand with navy, gray with rust, white with black and so on.
Beige, mole, cocoa, burnt toast are the lighter shades most frequently mentioned and the color scheme is carried out in headwear and footwear as well. Fashion has a fascinating

Last Word in Easter Suits.

way of lining panels and introducing facings in unexpected color notes.
The materials given preference are velvety, pique and an inexpensive new fabric called sponge. Woolen crepe marocain is very pleasing and it may be trimmed with the silk marocain. Add also to this list per-laine and gabardine, with some polret will perhaps.
In the elaborate costume suit, coats are cut very soft, following somewhat the lines of the frock. Each model displays touches of individuality.
Beads and embroidery are acceptable on cloth three-piece costumes and steel beads on navy are stressed.
The elaborate three-piece shown to the left is developed in toast-color certain that the male members of your family are sure to like your new Easter bonnet. Easter bonnet, it is in truth, for the newest modes are poke bonnets and they abound in happy flowerlike colorings with flirtatious ribbons and artful furbelows.

There is a distinctly new trend of thought in the matter of shapes, for the brim effects are coming in. Drooping brims and variations in pokes are emphasized in most of the latest showings.
All-over straw cloth in joyous spring

heavy wool crepe marocain with navy silk crepe. Notice the interesting sleeves and collar. Much attention is given to these details.
Navy krepeknit is the choice of the designer for the companion suit pictured. It is cleverly braided with white soutache. This introduction of a white crepe blouse carries out the vogue for white trimmings on black or navy and all white will control the season when summer comes.
It did not require April showers to bring forth May flowers in the land of millinery. Long before the cen-tendar said spring, flowers began to bloom on hats in their choicest colorings. Styles in millinery are of the dainty feminine type and this makes of distinction is their esthetic coloring of almond green, old rose, and the new toast shades. Narrow metal ribbons are used in flower-work.

The hats shown do not require individual description, they speak for themselves. Points of especial interest in this group are: A lettuce green transparent lace brim turned off the face; the poke brim to right is faced with American Beauty taffeta; per-iwinkle blue and all the springlike flower shades predominate in hat to left.

Joash, viewed in the light of his ancestors, was a poor prospect for a king.
His grandmother was the wicked Athaliah and his great grandparents were Ahab and Jezebel. There was enough bad blood in his veins to assure his doom. Despite this fact, he brought about some noble reforms and turned the people back to God.
I. Athaliah Usurps the Throne
(vv. 1-3).
1. Her attempt to destroy the seed royal (vv. 1). In order to remove any rival claimant to the throne she tried to kill all the royal male children.
2. Joash preserved by Jehosheba (vv. 2, 3). Though Athaliah was keen-eyed she was checkmated by another woman. Her fatal omission was not to get rid of the women too. This woman, the wife of the priest, stole away the child and hid him in the bedchamber for six years. God had promised that through the Davidic line the Messiah should come. In order that this line be unbroken Joash must be preserved. No purpose of God can fail.
II. Joash Crowned King (vv. 4-12).
1. Jehoiada's preparations (vv. 4-11).
The high priest and his wife were intelligent and strong characters. As the high priest, Jehoiada felt that it was his duty to thwart the heathen project of Athaliah. Doubtless his cooperation with his wife made possible the saving of Joash.
(1) Secured the aid of the military leaders (v. 4). He knew somehow that these men were not loyal to Athaliah. (2) Bound them under solemn oath (v. 4). He took an oath of them in the house of the Lord.
Honest men will stand by their word.
(3) Excited their spirit of patriotism
(v. 4). He gave them a sight of the king's son. This, no doubt, was a great surprise. Now having seen the heir to the throne they would risk everything, even their lives, in order to set him on the throne. (4) Co-ordinates all matters (vv. 5-11). The soldiers were divided into companies and arms were distributed to them. Each group was assigned to specific duties.
2. The coronation (v. 12). (1) The king's son brought forth. This was a great day in Jerusalem. After six years of usurpation, the people all the while supposing that all the heirs to the throne were dead, now to gaze upon the king's son would be a notable event. (2) Put the crown upon him.
This was the formal induction into office. (3) Gave him the testimony.
This was a copy of the law, showing that the king was to rule according to the law of God. The act of putting the law upon his head showed that the king himself would be under the control of the law. (4) Made him king. This shows that he was made king by the choice of the people. (5) Anointed him. They poured oil upon his head. This was the usual method of consecrating prophets, priests and kings. (6) Clapped their hands. This was a token of joy.

III. Athaliah Slain (vv. 13-17).
1. The noise of the coronation of Joash brought Athaliah to the temple
(v. 15). Up to this time she thought her place on the throne was secure and that her heathen religion had free course.
2. Her dismay (v. 14). Upon her arrival at the temple she saw the king wearing the crown and surrounded by the guards, so that she could do nothing. In her despair she exclaimed: "Treason, treason!" How prone wicked men and women are to cry out as though they had been wronged when their wicked plots and conspiracies are exposed and thwarted!
3. Athaliah executed (vv. 15, 16).
The orders were that she should not be killed in the temple. They led her out by the way of the horses' entrance to the king's palace and slew her. What a tragic end for the sinner! Sin can only prosper for a time.
IV. Worship of the True God (vv.
17, 18).
Joash was seven years old when he was made king. The high priest made a covenant between the Lord, the king and the people that they would be the Lord's people. In carrying out this covenant they broke down the temple of Baal and slew the priest of Baal.

True Faith.
To trust God with all one is, or hopes for ever, this is True Faith.
To trust God with Body, Soul, Spirit; with His Promises, with His Covenant of grace, with His Christ, with anything whereby I might secure myself from being subject to His pleasure; this is Faith in good earnest, this is Faith founded upon true knowledge;
He knoweth God indeed, who daroth trust His. Let others trust God for salvation, but my spirit can never rest, till it dares God with salvation.
Isaac Pennington.

COMPANION TO THE GOODYEAR
ALL-WEATHER TREAD

In a factory devoted exclusively to manufacturing Goodyear Tires for small cars, the two tires illustrated above are made.
One is the famous 30x3 1/2 Goodyear All-Weather
Tread Clincher.
By long wear, superior traction, freedom from skidding, and ultimate economy, the Goodyear
All-Weather Tread has won unquestioned leadership.
As a companion to this tire there is the Goodyear 30 x 3 1/2 Cross Rib.
Built of the same high grade Egyptian fabric and with a long wearing but differently designed tread, this tire offers unusual value.
Over 5,000,000 of these tires have been sold in the last five years.
Their quality and serviceability have proved to thousands of motorists the folly of buying unknown and unguaranteed tires of lower price.
Ask your Goodyear Service Station Dealer to explain their advantages.

CAUGHT IN THE ROUND-UP

Mrs. Harry Waldridge of Coleman spent last week in Santa Anna, guest of Mrs. Jack Woodward.

M. O. Lightfoot was a business caller at this office last Saturday.

Our readers will confer a favor on us if you will tell your neighbors about the Santa Anna News, and they can get it now one year for the low price of $1.00.

Our local merchants, have been letting us down rather tight here of late on advertising, that is, some of them have, while others have seen fit to use a reasonable amount of space to good advantage. We hold no ill-will toward those who see fit to withhold their support from us, the cause of which is unknown to us, but we do appreciate our good customers who still find it profitable to use a reasonable amount of newspaper advertising to let the buying public know they are still in business and appreciate their patronage.

When you hoard money away you assist in stifling the commercial activity of this country. If you put it in the bank the banker lends it to some one who uses it in producing something. That keeps other people at work and keeps the money in circulation. If you lend it on a mortgage or buy bonds it answers the same purpose. It keeps circulating and everybody is benefitted. When money keeps moving it enables many people to move. The fellow who can't move is in a bad way. The dollar that is hid away is in a bad place.

Among those who think the country is going to the dickens is the office holder who is afraid he is going to be defeated for re-election.

Great For "Flu" and "Grip" Coughs
"I had an awful cold that left me with a dreadful cough," says Mrs. M. E. Smith, Benton, La. "Bought Foley's Honey and Tar of our druggist and it cured me completely." This grand remedy should be in every household at this time, when influenza, grip, coughs and colds are so prevalent.—C. K. Hunter, Druggist.

AN OLD FASHIONED MAN
The editor of the Albany News is an old-fashioned man with old-fashioned ideas and he expresses them in an old-fashioned way that is reminiscent of the old-fashioned home in the old-fashioned mother and the old-fashioned fire side where plain virtues were practiced and simple honesty was taught. Still he denies that he is lacking in the spirit of progress. He says he believes in progress, believes that this generation ought to be smarter than the former ones; that a boy of today ought to know more than his daddy; likewise a girl should know more than her mother did at the same age.

He notes in commenting upon the present day conditions that "We do more marrying and unmarried, raise fewer children, do more killing and wreck more homes than any other civilization on earth." He applauds the progress and the improvements of science and mechanics and commends the wide scope of religious work but he hankers for the old time things and expresses his hankering thus:

"Yes, we like corn pone, with eggs and cracklin' in it like mother used to cook, lye hominy and lye soap, and we like butter- milk and good old turnip greens, and we like shanghai chickens, fried good and brown and some rich, thick gravy to sop our bread in and "yaller" custard pies on the side. And we like that old fashioned brand of religion which takes the cussedness out of a man's taste for booze, and removes all sinful desires, makes a fellow want to stay at home and attend to his own business, have one wife and leave off flirting with the chickens. And by the way, we like the old fashioned music, and you can call it jazz if you want to, but One Eyed Riley, Cotton Eyed Joe, Turkey in the Straw, A Shoutin' all Over God's Heaven, Old Hundred, Am I a Soldier of the Cross, Don't You Grieve After Me—And O' De Golden Slippers I is gwine to Wear. That's the kind of music that has touched the hearts of humanity and made all the world kin."

How pleasant the memories these words arouse in the minds of some who have been privileged to enjoy these old time things of which this editor so eloquently writes. Memories not yet tainted with the odor of gasoline or banished by the honk of the auto horn.—Temple Mirror.

Some of these days, says an exchange, the English people may start a movement for home rule. They are tired of being ruled by the Welsh and the Scotch.

There Must be a Starting Point.....

Somewhere there must be a starting point for everything. The young man who puts off starting a bank account will never have one.

Somewhere, someone is depositing your dollars--why don't you deposit them yourself? It is easier to keep the dollar you have than it is to get another.
