..He Profits Most Who Serves Best"

SANTA ANNA, COLEMAN COUNTY, TEXAS, FRIDAY, JULY 7, 1938.

NUMBER 27.

This Week in Our Town

"Stone wears out in the course of time," said E. G. Overby, referring to the work on the sidewalk in front of his tailor shop. "Holes have worn in the soft stone faster than one would imagine. They were becoming dangerous, so we had them filled with concrete. They'll be all right for a while now." The bit of work done improved the looks of the sidewalk in front of his place a hundred percent and no dangerous hazards are to be found there.

"Our firm celebrates its fiftieth anniversary sometime this year," said W. R. Kelley Wednesday. "We started in business in a little frame building where the Santa Anna National Bank is now located. In a few years the business had grown to where we moved into the rock building now occupied by the amusement club opposite the bank. Thirty years ago we moved into the present building."

"We need a scouring plant at some central or logical point in Texas to clean wool and mohair and save us 60 to 65 percent of the freight on the product to Boston." This was the comment of several business men and sheep and goat men this week. Wool and mohair is sent to Boston with 65 percent of the freight charge paying for dirt and grease that should be taken out before it is shipped. Efforts to secure a scouring plant for West Texas or Ft. Worth have fallen through for some reason, so the industry continues to pay freight on 60 to 65 pounds of dirt and grease for every 35 to 40 pounds of wool shipped out. To this, add the fact that much of this wool is coming back to the southern states to be woven into cloth for southern sale. A scouring plant and mill in West Texas would save 100 percent of the freight one way plus the handling charges and profits of two to four middlemen, it was stated.

"And if any of my cantaloupe are no good, I'll bring you another that is good," said J. L. Kelley, familiarly known to some as "Cantaloupe Kelley" because he raises the best cantaloupes in Texas. Not only good cantaloupes, but watermelons and the sweetest big juicy Bermuda onions! The smell and the tear-provoking propensity remain, but they are sweet—those Bermuda onions Kelley raises.

"I'm a careful driver, but I was in an auto wreck just the same," said Sam Collier, commenting on careless driving. "A fast driver can ruin anyone."

"It was worth $4 to me to stay home Fourth of July," said Mrs. Purdy. "She was lucky again."

"The paper has sure improved a lot since you took hold of it," said Mr. Griffin of the Griffin Hatchery, Wednesday. Thanks. It can be improved a lot more."

Taylor of Burkett, presided at the meeting as chairman. She was nominated as the county's "gold star" girl. She also had been chosen one of the special recreation leaders for the junior short course at Texas A. & M. College.

Fourth of July Sees 37 Deaths in Texas Lead Nation's List

The fearful Fourth of July death total climbed up to 37 in Texas Tuesday night, topping all other States in the Nation in the reckoning of lost lives since Saturday.

Latest reported victims were two children, one of them the first person to lose his life from fireworks anywhere in the country this holiday season.

Hildred Snowders, 14, of Marlin, died a few minutes after a piece of tin blown from a can under which a firecracker was set off, severed his jugular vein.

A fatal "cowboy" game took the life of Raymond Landry, 13, of Orange. He and Earl Richards, 12, his cousin, were playing western style "stick-em-up" when a bullet was accidentally fired from a .22 rifle at him. He died instantly. Justice of the Peace Branum returned a verdict of accidental death.

Mrs. Irene Miller, 22, of Olney drowned in the Trinity River in an attempt to rescue two children during a holiday picnic.

Mrs. Paul Vaughn, 20, and her 12-year-old sister, Esther Foster, were two more drowning victims. They perished when a boat in which they were returning from a Fourth celebration capsized in the Colorado River near Austin. Three companions were rescued.

Jim Boyd, agent of the Burlington Railroad at Bardwell near Corsicana was killed when the Burlington's fast streamliner Zephyr struck his car at a crossing. He had been with the road since 1907.

Elizabeth Shackelford, 18, at Fort Worth, member of a picnicking-swimming party, died of injuries she suffered in a car crash.

With her death auto traffic fatalities in the State climbed to 16, still in front of nine shooting deaths, nine drownings, two deaths under train wheels, and one death from fireworks.

In one of the worst traffic crashes of the four-day period, five lost their lives.

The latest reported death was that of T. C. Morgan, 63, Santo rancher, killed when a car and truck collided near Thurber.

Werner Jung, San Antonio, milk truck driver, died of injuries suffered in a collision.

Edward Daehmert, a San Antonio taxi driver and musician, was shot and killed there Monday night. A man arrested in Houston told officers he slew Daehmert when he found the latter with the suspect's wife.

Pedro Sosa, 35, of Harlingen, drowned while swimming near the mouth of the Rio Grande.

Thousands Present At Brady's Fourth of July Celebration

Thousands of people from West and Southwest Texas gathered Monday for the opening of Brady's fourteenth annual July jubilee and Race Meet which continued for three days.

Thousands lined the streets of the business section for the parade headed by three leading Brady citizens, F. M. Richards, donor of Richards Park; G. R. White and G. C. Kirk, general manager of the jubilee. They rode their best cow ponies, and were followed by six attractively decorated floats, bearing the queen of the jubilee, Miss Juanita Broad, and her court.

Also in the parade were the Santa Anna and Brady bands, both of which were on hand at the races during the afternoon to entertain the unusually large opening day crowd.

An estimated crowd of 8,000 persons jammed Richards Park grandstand Tuesday to witness.

Wrong-Way Corrigan Marries a Texas Girl

The biggest reason Douglas (Wrong Way) Corrigan refused to permit any romantic interest in his motion picture career came to light Monday with the announcement of the famous California-via-Dublin flier's engagement to Miss Elizabeth Marvin of San Antonio. Miss Marvin, prominent San Antonio teacher and figure in dramatic circles, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Mark Marvin. She will wed Corrigan at the First Baptist Church on July 17, anniversary of his flight to Ireland and the wedding will take place at a nationally important event. The announcement of the engagement of Corrigan and Miss Marvin is the result of a romance growing out of friendship between the Corrigan and Marvin families since before either of the young people were born. Since the two were children in Galveston they have been friends, the friendship ripening into romance as they reached maturity. Corrigan has visited in San Antonio many times since his famous "wrong way" flight to Ireland in a dilapidated plane, always staying with the Marvins.

COLEMAN COUNTY SCHOOLS ACHIEVE STANDARDIZATION

County School Superintendent Terrel Graves received a letter last week stating that 12 Coleman County schools had received standardization of the 1939-40 term. Four of the 12 schools were given permanent standardization. It is necessary for a school to pass the test three years in succession in order to be permanently standardized.

Schools honored with permanent standardization are Cross Roads, H. Martin, principal; Junction, Mrs. W. A. Wilhite, principal; Shields, A. B. Carroll, principal and Silver Valley, Mrs. K. M. Croom, principal.

The other eight schools to be standardized were the following: The principal's name followed the school, Cleveland J. D. Harper; Coldsboro, T. E. Dameron; Indian Creek, Mrs. Ruth Lindsey; Liberty, Mrs. E. H. Duggins; Loss Creek, Mary Folk; Mukewater, Winnie Cathey; Trickham, C. D. Finley; Whon, J. B. Shannon.

Last year only eight schools in the county passed the necessary requirements. Besides passing the requirements, an achievement test at the end of school is necessary before standardization is granted.

SANTA ANNA GETS SEVERAL DRESS-UP REPAIRS

Beginning with new paint applied to the fire plugs, several repair jobs were under way in Santa Anna this week. The bad places in the sidewalk in front of Overby's were filled with concrete, making a good looking and safe sidewalk again, and the section of tiling in front of Purdy's store was being replaced yesterday, working having begun Fourth of July when the store was closed.

We will appreciate your telling us the local happenings in our city each day.

Total of 22 marriage licenses—slightly more than the per month average—were issued by County Clerk Geo. M. Smith during the month of June, figures released show.

During the first half of 1939 a total of 104 marriage licenses were issued. That is an average of less than one a day even with Sundays excluded.

History of the lazy D and OH ranch is the title of the thesis recently written by Irene Henderson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John F. Henderson of Coleman, a teacher in the San Antonio system. The thesis presents the colorful record of the life of the cowhands, and was inspired by the unusual and lasting friendship of three old cowboys—Bob Pierce of Eden, Texas, Phil Wright of San Antonio, Texas, and John F. Henderson of Coleman, Texas, who met after being separated for 25 years. The thesis has been presented to the faculty of the graduate school of Southwest Texas State Teacher's college, at San Marcos.

Jim Gill of the Gill ranch near Whon, recently has made the following sales of polled Herefords:

To Robert Beakley of Lohn, 10 heifers and seven bulls; to Upton Miller of Nacogoches, two bulls; to O. J. Chumbe, Lott, one bull; to Young Priest, Loss, one bull; and to O. L. Wise, Rockwood, two heifers.

All of the sales were of young animals. Most unusual of the lot was that made by Fuller, who traveled 372 miles to make his seventh purchase.

Irrigation at Last Accomplished Fact In Brownwood Area

When Brown County's new million dollar irrigation project financed by the Public Works Administration is completed early in the fall, 10,000 thirsty acres in what is potentially one of the most productive agricultural areas in Texas will receive a life-giving flood of water.

Farming in the Brownwood area has always been hazardous, not so much from lack of rainfall—the average annual rainfall is 27 inches—but because the rainfall has been unevenly distributed. When no crops were in the ground there was plenty of rain, but when rain was needed, very little fell. Brown County's problem has been to save up water when it was plentiful for use when it was not.

Brown county's 27,000 citizens have worked on their problem since 1914, when the waters of Pecan Bayou were tapped for irrigation during the dry season.

"Land Use Planning" Short Course Theme

Land use planning will be the theme of the Farmers' Short Course at Texas A. and M. College July 12, 13, and 14.

Program committees each year pick a subject of outstanding interest around which the Short Course is built. H. H. Williamson, director of the Extension Service, said Land use planning now under way in all Texas counties, had no competitor this year as the headline subject.

The agricultural planning program is engaging the attention of farmers and ranch families, the director commented. The object is to take an inventory of the resources of individual farms, communities, counties, and finally entire types of farming areas. On the basis of these inventories, the future course for agriculture is planned.

Technical advisors are available to aid in the planning work, but farm men and women predominate on all community and county committees as well as the state group.

Farm members of these committees are listed on the Short Course program and will all of their progress in the planning work. In addition, a number of nationally known speakers will give their counsel.

SANTA ANNA BAND TAKES PART IN BRADY JUBILEE

The Santa Anna High School Band, chartered by Miss Francine Merritt, was in Brady Tuesday, July 3rd to assist that city in the opening of their annual July Jubilee. The band left Santa Anna about 8:15 and arrived in Brady in time to take the place assigned to it in the Parade which started at 10 o'clock.

Twenty-eight of the thirty-eight members of the band made the trip including Drum Major Dorothy Ross and Assistant Drum Major Wanda Sanders.

Due to the fact that the band is only three years old and the band director, Mr. Willis is away on vacation, it was a very busy day for the young folks. The Drum Major, directed the band in all of its activities during the day which included the parade, a concert at the Brady Hotel and furnishing music for the races in the afternoon. During the rodeo and races an invitation was extended by Dorothy Ross to all to attend the Santa Anna Rodeo to be held August 22 to 24.

Every courtesy was extended the band while there, including refreshments served them by the Brady Rodeo Association.

Members of the band attended the carnival after the races and returned home about 8:15 o'clock, all agreeing they had had a great time and a wonderful experience. Transportation was furnished by Mr. McClain, driver of the Shield School Bus.

GLADHAND CLASS

The Gladhand Class had fourteen members present Sunday morning. "Solomon's Wise Choice" was the topic of discussion so ably led by Mrs. Chap Eads.

Tops in broncs from Red Lyons famous string of stock and tops from the famous penitentiary line will be used for riding and bulldogging, and the Association is featuring fifty head of Black Angus calves bought at an exceedingly high price to be used in the tie-down calf roping event. To our knowledge this will be the first time Black Angus calves have been used in West Texas.

Novelty acts to fill in and make a well balanced program entertaining to all. Sponsors gorgeous and beautiful from many towns have already sent in their entry and some of the world's top hands will compete for the big prizes offered in the various events.

The first day, July 12th, will be the big parade. Cowboys, cowgirls, sponsors and numerous horseback riders, and many other riders. Special prizes are offered this year for the three most popular saddle horses in the parade. These horses will be selected by popular ballot. Also on the first day of the four-day event there will be a meeting of old-timers at the city park, persons who have resided in Coleman or Coleman county for fifty years or more.

The final day of the show will be known as Hella Temple night, one hundred or more Shriners from Hella Temple are visiting the Rodeo and will entertain us in their own style.

Additional seats have been added to accommodate the large crowds expected each night, and the green turf on the arena will show up under the flood lights one of the most colorful and beautiful scenes witnessed by rodeo spectators.

Coleman invites you to attend this our fourth Annual Rodeo, one that you will say is different from the rest.

Heart o' Texas News Briefs

Bangs high school has submitted a project to the NYA for construction of a 24-inch native stone curb around the school grounds. Included in the project, according to E. H. Sassinan area supervisor, would be 182 feet of drainage pipe, 6,972 square feet of flagstone walks, and a general beautification program.

Qualifying rounds in the ninth annual invitation golf tournament at the Brownwood Country Club, one of West Texas leading links events, will be launched Sunday. Although the deadline for test rounds is Thursday, July 13, W. O. Sammons, general tournament chairman, and officials of the country club urge entries to qualify as soon as possible in order to have the course open for many out-of-town linksmen who plan to qualify later in the big prize offered in the various events.

A Calcutta pool and barbecue will be held at the club Thursday night, July 13, and match play will begin the following day. Championship funds in all events will be completed Sunday, July 16.

J. T. Henson of Pecos defeated Doug Jones of El Spring in last year's championship match and is expected to be among the entries this year.

Last year's tournament attracted the largest field of entries in the history of the event. More than 140 men posted qualifying scores. Business duties kept some of the entries out of match play, however, 135 players took part in the event. As mentioned with the trophy, record holder of 128, set in 1936.

Ray Garrett, professional at the local club, expects the beautiful 18-hole course to be in near perfect condition for the tournament. Greens have been re-topped and other improvements are being completed.

Farm and Ranch

Over a million pounds of wool and cashmere production and sold in Chicago, according to the Home News. An acre of 27 1/2 pounds of wool. A little less than half a million pounds remain in stock. The four war houses of the county. Production placed in these warehouses for the season were: Talpa 688,000 pounds; Rhoads, 595,567; Griffiths (estimate) 200,000; Santa Anna 146,000 and 134,757 pounds.

The Brady Co-operative Poultry Association, one of Texas' biggest turkey egg marketing organizations, will construct its own warehouse in the near future. The association has contracted for a lot to the rear of the H. B. Ogden warehouse on which it is planned to build the plant. Directors of the organization, who have been re-elected for another year, are K. W. Huffman and Frank V. Hurd of Brady, W. B. Carroll of Pear Valley, J. P. Hodges, Jr., of Rockwood and K. K. Taylor of Richland Springs. The directors will meet soon to name officers for the ensuing year.

The association last winter and spring marketed approximately 500,000 turkey eggs.

With the spring clip completed, the Brownwood wool market has been quiet for the past several weeks. No sales have been reported for three weeks.

The S. S. Thomas Wool & Fur company has over 300,000 pounds of wool in storage in their warehouse. Around a million pounds of wool was handled by the Brownwood warehouse during the season just finished.

There has been little activity in government wool loans this season. Prices have been considerably higher than last year, when many took advantage of the government's wool loan program, and growers preferred to sell on the open market.

We will appreciate your telling us the local happenings in our city each day.

Editorial

Readers of this column last week must have been surprised at the number of errors they found including two places that showed lines were missing. All corrections were set, but Tuesday morning of this week we ran across the correction lines, seemingly reposing on a side table instead of being where they by all rights should have been.

Santa Anna financiers, if we have such, should go into the matter of a wool and mohair scouring plant for this section. If it is true as claimed that an average of 60 percent of all the freight paid on wool and mohair shipped to Boston is for the transportation of the dirt and grease that gets in the wool, and scouring charges have to be paid in Boston anyhow, it would appear to be a good stroke of business to let Texans scour the wool and save the grover's major part of that 60 percent. Pressure may be brought to prevent the accomplishment of any plans toward organizing a corporation to handle the wool, but it would be a blessing for Texas if the freight on dirt could be eliminated.

The writer is too new to this section to be able to speak with authority or know what has been done toward accomplishing various things for the city and community. If we speak out of turn or suggest anything either unfeasible or unpracticable, or something that has been investigated and discarded for any reason, just give us the facts. We have a few hazy ideas that may in time be worked to the advantage of at least the welfare of the city. Just for record, we would like to know what different suggestions have been made for furthering the interests of our city. We have no vacant residences here, but there are a few vacant store buildings. To find some way of building up our commercial framework and make this property pay returns again, and increase the city's payroll is a worthwhile ambition. Let's talk building Santa Anna.

I see by the newspapers that many newspaper editors and run of the field citizens make a bad, and very amusing "blast" when they call a lady postmistress a "postmistress." A bit of reflection will bring to mind the

TRUTH about ADVERTISING

By CHARLES B. ROTH

THE RESPONSIBILITY OF SUCCESS

WE OFTEN say when we discuss various things we acquire that it isn't the original cost that counts. It is the upkeep. This is particularly true of success.

The fact is that there is a responsibility of success which failure or mediocrity never knows. The man who is successful, who achieves in whatever line he may enter, has an obligation and a responsibility which requires that he continue to do his very best.

Especially is this true of business. To make a brief success of a business isn't hard. To build a lasting success requires close application and a fine sense of the obligation which success implies and demands.

If advertising served no other purpose than to create the obligation of success it would perform a useful social and economic act, for advertising holds up this obligation of success and demands that it be observed constantly.

Whenever a manufacturer or a merchant begins to advertise he sets self-imposed standards on himself. By these standards do others judge him. By these standards do they also classify him.

He has an obligation to live up to every day thereafter.

Charles Roth

If he hadn't advertised, he could give good quality one day and poor quality the next and get by with it. But when he comes out boldly in print and advertises, the die is cast, and he must forever live up to the highest ideals.

Shrewd men have thought that they could controvert this law. By putting quality and good value into a product and then by advertising it, they have succeeded in a short time in building up a big business. And then came temptation.

"Why maintain all this quality?" they ask themselves. The public will never know. Why not cut the quality but continue the advertising and clean up? They have tried. But the public does know quality, is quick to perceive deception, and abandons the man or product which tries to substitute inferiority for honest merchandise.

There is no quicker way to ruin a business than to set up a standard and then violate it. There is no better way to build a business than to set up a standard and then live up to it.

Advertising is the great setter of standards in American business life, and advertised goods are the standards by which you spend your income, confident of getting your money's worth every day.

The man who advertises has assumed the responsibility for success. You'd rather deal with a responsible man, wouldn't you?

— Charles B. Roth

will be prepared to take the rapid action needed in the construction of a new school building in that town following a bond election Thursday. The board has $17,500 in insurance money and is expected to have an additional $15,000, the amount of the bond issue by Thursday night. They, the school board, intend to purchase the construction of a high school building to take the place of one destroyed by fire on the last day of May. Local business leaders are confident the bonds for the school will be voted.

Irrigation . . .

Fairly satisfactory for a while, this system later became obsolete.

In 1926, Lake Brownwood was begun. Six years later a dam was completed which formed a 7,800 acre lake. During the depression years, interest in an irrigation project to utilize the waters stored in Lake Brownwood waned because of inability of citizens to raise the full cost of the project. In 1937, however, and application to the Public Works Administration resulted in a grant of $450,000 and the project was well on its way.

The completion of this project assured Brown County farmers in this area of an unlimited supply of water when it is needed.

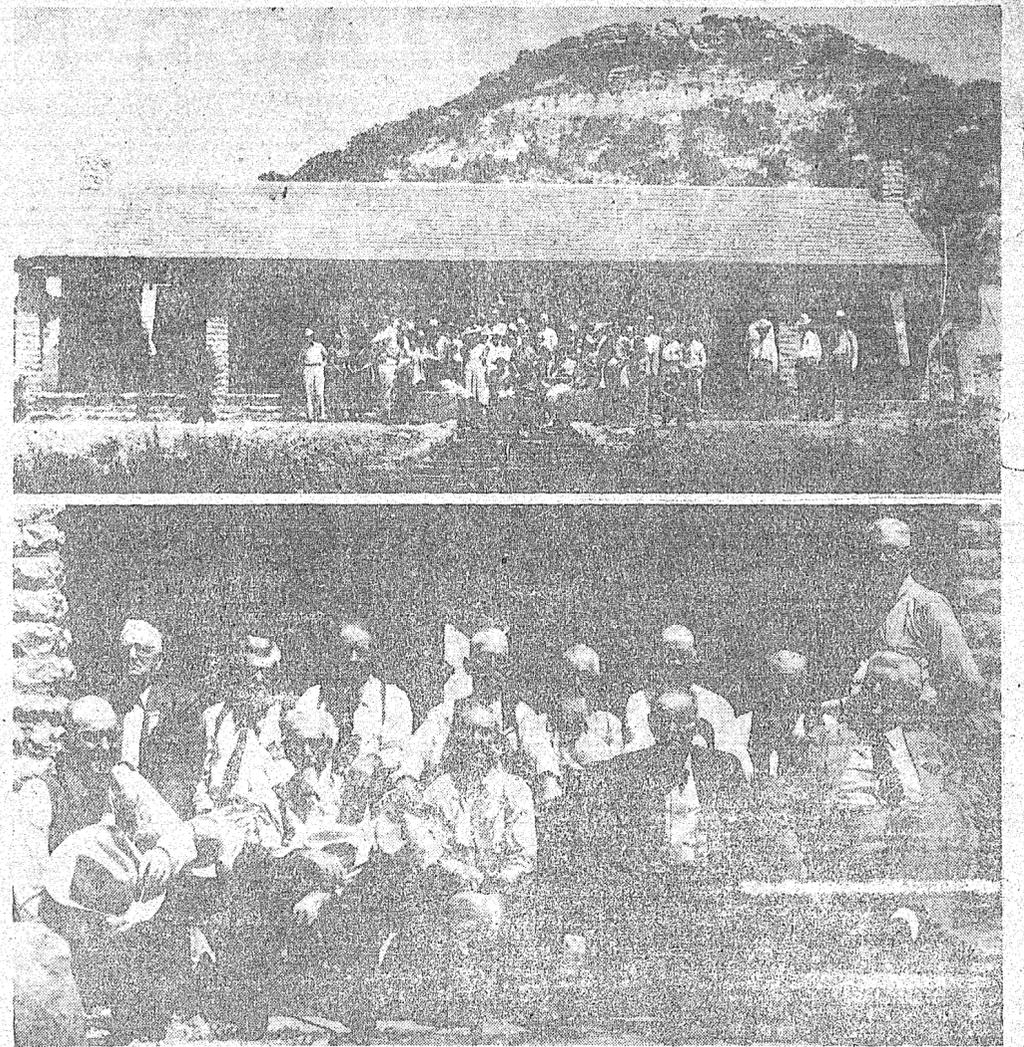

American Legion

Talking with another Veteran of Santa Anna the other day. He has a nice line of medals due him, two or three of which will be given him by Uncle Sam on application. He is apparently entitled to a medal for service in China, another for the Philippines, a Mexican Border (interior), Victory medal with bars for Russia and Defensive Sector, Texas medal with four stars, and of course the Legion medal if a member of the order. Another local veteran would have a Victory medal without bars, a Texas medal with one star and the Legion medal if a member. Some of these one- and two-medal men may be too modest to consider securing their medals in the face of the five to seven other boys may wear, but there should be no hesitation unless the party has been telling some whoppers about his part in the war. We know of a few who are not going to ask for their medals because they have to prove up to get them and what they can prove is only a part of the story they told when they returned from le guerre. I'd very much rather wear one ribbon I could prove a right to wear than wear a dozen I couldn't prove by my service record and discharge that I had a right to.

General Briefs

Texas laboring under the impression that the 46th Legislature adjourned this week without rendering any worthwhile service to the state might do well to consider the Smith-Daniel land vacancy passed by both houses and signed into law by Gov. Lee O'Daniel. And the thousands of Texans who will benefit from the new law hobbling vacancy racketeers might do well to thank the man most responsible for its passage — a pleasant, yellow-haired little scrapper from South Texas named Harry H. Ford. As president of the Texas Landowners' association Harry Ford conducted a tenacious five-months "lobbying" campaign that secured the bill's passage despite potent opposition from other interests including the powerful school lobby, which feared the new law would cut school fund royalties. "It won't," asserts Ford. "The schools will find it is 10 times better than the old 1931 statute."

DEPENDENT ARE CONSTITUTIONALLY PROVIDED FOR: NO VOTES, NO CASH

In the tumult and shouting about pensions for the aged, dependent children have virtually been forgotten by the governor and members of the Legislature.

Texas oldsters have been receiving $19,000,000 a year, and still the burning issue is how to raise more money for them. Now there are 118,000 on the rolls, with an additional 75,000 or more waiting to get on.

Meanwhile about 60,000 needy dependent children have gone without a cent of assistance despite the fact that in 1937 constitutional provision was made for their support also. A maximum of $2,250,000 may be distributed to dependent children. One third of the funds will be supplied by the federal government.

Reason for the apparent lack of concern for dependent children, capitol observers agree, is that dependent children can't vote. Moreover, few of their parents ever vote because they are unable to buy a poll tax. On the other hand, every older, eligible for a pension may vote because he is exempted from paying a poll tax.

The estimate of 60,000 dependent children in Texas, furnished by the Child Welfare Division, is based on investigations of the Texas Relief Commission. The relief agency has case records on 52,474 destitute children.

Constitutional restrictions limit state expenditure on the dependent children program to about $1,500,000. With $750,000 more available from the federal government, it is possible to provide adequately for about 29,000 out of the 60,000 needy children. The limit of aid per family is $12 where there is only one child in the family and $18 where there are two or more children per family.

Before any aid may be granted, the Legislature will have to enact the necessary revenue raising measures. And each case will have to be investigated by the new Department of Public Welfare. Grants will be on the basis of need, with each needy dependent child receiving aid "sufficient when added to all other income and support available, to provide such child with a reasonable subsistence compatible with decency and health, within the limitations and provisions of the Constitution."

How many dependent children are there in West Texas? Best available records come from the Texas Relief Commission which has a compilation of the number of cases in each county. Total number of cases in Texas, according to the commission's investigations, is 52,474.

Tenant Purchase Loans Now Open to Farmers

Mr. Ranson, Coleman County FSA supervisor, states that applications for tenant purchase loans are now open and he invites the farmers of the county to see him at once if they are interested in the FSA plan. Applications should reach his office by July 20 at the latest.

Boost your home town.

FSA to Make Loans In County For the Purchase of Farms

In accordance with provisions of the Bankhead-Jones Farm Tenant Act, the Farm Security Administration will receive applications from farm tenants, farm laborers and sharecroppers for a limited number of loans in Coleman County for the purchase of farms, it was announced by Leon C. Ranson, County Rural Supervisor. However, it was pointed out by Mr. Ranson, that unless satisfactory farms can be obtained at reasonable agricultural prices, no loans will be made in this county during this fiscal year, but the funds will be made available to other counties where land can be purchased at a reasonable price that meets the requirements of the Tenant Purchase program.

Applications will be received at the county Rural Supervisor's office which is located at 515 Coleman Office building, Coleman, Texas, beginning June 20, 1939, and ending July 20, 1939. It is suggested that all farm tenants, farm laborers, and sharecroppers who are interested in submitting an application for consideration under the above tenant act, secure an application blank and fill it out and submit it to the county rural supervisor not later than July 20.

No assurance can be given at this time of any loans being made under the provision of the Bankhead-Jones Farm Tenant Act for the reason that the appropriation for this program has not been made.

Mann Clarifies Law Anent the Transfer Of School Children

Law on transferring school students from one school district to another has become clarified by a ruling of Attorney General Gerald Mann, according to a statement made by County School Supt. W. T. Graves.

The ruling of the attorney general — No. 1006—holds county superintendents do not have discretionary authority in refusing transfers, stated Mr. Graves. "The public is advised, therefore that the said opinion holds that county superintendents must grant all requests for transfers made by parents; and that any group of trustees that objects to the transfer shall file its objection in writing with the county board. This protest must be filed with the county board of school trustees within five days after the first day of August and the county board shall hear all protests prior to the 13th day of August of each year," Mr. Graves declared.

"A child must have been enumerated before he is eligible for transfer," the statement declares. "Transfers must be made between the first day of July and the first day of August upon a written application of the parent or guardian or the person having lawful control of the child and the applicant shall state in the said application that it is his bona fide intention to send said child to the school to which the transfer is asked."

SUMMER PORCH COOKIES

I call them "summer porch cookies" because they're the kind of dainty refreshing cookies we like to have on hand to offer with tall frosty glasses of lemonade to the guests who drop around these warm May evenings to sit on the porch and visit. You know how it is. This sort of an occasion calls for daintier cookies than we'd take to a picnic for example.

Lemon Cookies

1/2 cup butter
1 cup sugar
Grated rind of 2 lemons
1 egg
1/4 cup milk

2 cups all-purpose flour
2 tsp. baking powder
1/2 tsp. salt
1/4 cup lemon juice (2 lemons)

Cream butter, gradually add sugar and lemon rind mixed, and cream well. Add the well beaten egg with the milk. Sift flour once before measuring. Sift flour, baking powder and salt and add to creamed mixture alternately with lemon juice. Chill dough before rolling. Roll out thin, on cloth-covered board, (1/8 to 1/4 inch thick) and cut in rounds. Bake on lightly greased, heavy pan in a moderately hot oven, 400° F. for 12 to 15 minutes (or until edges are a delicate brown). Amount: About 3 dozen cookies. Note: If you do not have a heavy cookie pan, place an extra pan under the cookie pan in oven, as these cookies burn easily.

Orange Jumbles

1/2 cup shortening (part butter for flavor)
3/4 cup sugar
2 egg yolks

1 1/4 cups all-purpose flour
1/2 tsp. baking powder
1 medium-sized orange

Peel orange and remove white from peel. Cut in quarters and put pulp and peel through coarse knife of food chopper. Cream shortening and add sugar gradually. Add well beaten egg yolks. Sift flour once before measuring. Sift flour and baking powder together. Add flour mixture to creamed mixture, alternately with the orange juice and pulp. Chill dough. Drop from teaspoon on well greased cookie sheet and bake 10 minutes in a moderately hot oven, 400° F. Remove cookies from oven, and while they are still warm, sprinkle with sugar. (Colored sugar may be used to carry out any desired color scheme.) Amount: 35 cookies.

Coconut Oatmeal Cookies

1 cup shortening (half butter for flavor)
1 cup brown sugar
1 cup white sugar
2 eggs
2 cups moist shredded coconut (one 1/4 lb. can)

2 cups all-purpose flour
1 tsp. soda
1/2 tsp. baking powder
1/2 tsp. salt
2 tsp. vanilla
2 cups quick cooking oat flakes

Cream shortening and add sugar gradually. Add beaten eggs and mix well. Add coconut. Sift flour once before measuring. Sift flour, soda, baking powder and salt, and add to the first mixture. Add vanilla and then the quick cooking oat flakes. Roll in balls the size of walnuts and bake on ungreased cookie sheets in a moderately hot oven, 400° F. for 12 minutes. Amount: 6 dozen cookies.

If you have any specific cooking problems, send a letter requesting information to Betty Crocker in care of this newspaper. You will receive a prompt, personal reply. Please enclose 3 cent stamp to cover postage.

that the child be transferred if you expect that child to attend school in another district," the statement added.

Safety Council Are Being Organized In West Texas Towns

Already one out of each five incorporated towns in the Oil Belt Safety Council territory have started definite programs for organizing local community safety councils, according to L. H. Taylor, Ranger, president of the district organization.

That ten of the fifty towns of the nineteen counties of the council are now effecting arrangements for definite, year-round general safety education and accident prevention activities in cooperation with the Oil Belt Safety Council indicates, Mr. Taylor asserts, that the program of that organization is sound, needed, and will get results.

Brownwood, will be host city for the 1940 annual conference for the Oil Belt Council. Purpose of the Oil Belt Council is to act as a service institution for the local bodies. The headquarters office is in Abilene and is prepared to give all information quickly and gladly.

The general program of the district organization is to stimulate and foster, in cooperation with local groups and industries an intensive general program of safety in the homes, schools, industries, on the farms, in traffic and in all other ways which would tend to reduce suffering and losses from accidents and injuries.

LOAN PLAN 'PLOT TO BUY 1940 ELECTION' John Hamilton, chairman of the Republican National Committee, said last week the Administration's proposed new lending program was "an unconscionable attempt to buy the 1940 election."

The proposal, he said in a radio address, was "the slickest thing the New Deal has ever attempted to put over."

"Stripped of all its sugar-coating and plausible sophis-

try," Hamilton said, "it stands revealed as an unconscionable attempt to buy the 1940 election by sacrificing our American heritage of individual initiative and free enterprise, our historic system of free economy, for an alien state capitalism which, of course, is what is meant by national socialism. MAKING THE MOST OF THE PASTURES

By T. C. RICHARDSON
Associate Editor, Farm and Ranch

The mower is conceded to be the best pasture-growing implement, and this applies sometimes to planted summer pastures (Sudan grass, etc.) as well as to permanent pasture where the mower keeps down weed competition with the grass. Both on permanent and temporary pasture the use of the mower cannot be dated by the calendar, but must depend upon the conditions to be met. In most of the Southwest the spring growth of weeds has already been mowed before now, or has been permitted to seed. Certain other weeds, however, come along later in the season and should be mowed about the time they begin to bloom.

Briars and sprouts of various kinds, and seedlings of certain trees, also yield to the mowers' persistent use. It is generally conceded that July and August are the best months in which to cut, sprouts, robbing the roots of the sustaining foliage before the storage of food in the roots is completed for the season. This operation is hard on the mower but worth it, and an old mower which is past its usefulness for cutting grass will still cut weeds and sprouts. Many farmers who have no hay to cut are buying second-hand mowers to use on the weeds and sprouts in the pastures.

There are times, however, when the mower is also important in the temporary pasture. Everyone knows that when sudan or other hay and pasture grass begins to get "stemmy" that is when they shoot up the coarse seed stems and start making seed which are less palatable to livestock and also less nutritious. We have all seen such a pasture where the foliage has been eaten off and the bare stems left standing.

If the pasture gets ahead of the animals which graze it, that is when they do not keep it grazed fairly close, the mower comes into play to cut back the seed stems and throw the growth into new foliage instead of seed. Fresh growth has a higher protein content than old growth and is more palatable besides. It will pay to run the mower over the temporary sudan grass pastures, even though there is not enough hay to rake and cure, whenever stock do not keep the seed stalks down.

After corn is laid by grass and weeds often spring up and grow luxuriantly. This late summer growth can be turned into cash by grazing the cornfields with sheep. Fencing off such temporary grazing has been greatly cheapened and simplified by the invention of the electric fence, which, with one or two wires properly installed and energized (by battery or power) keeps the animals within bounds quite effectively. The sheep may destroy a small amount of corn, but the gains from the grass and weeds will more than offset the loss in grain, and the corn ground will be in better condition than if the weeds were permitted to grow unimpeded, and seed the ground for next year.

Temporary summer pastures will also furnish more and better grazing if they are divided and the divisions grazed in rotation. Here again the temporary fence, electric or otherwise, pays well for the trouble and moderate expense of installing. Dollars are lost every year on many Southwestern farms through failure to take advantage of the grazing available, when it is available. There must be animals to graze and tend to confine them, but there is no form of wasted opportunity so common, and which offers so great a promise for extra farm income.

The new agriculture which is growing out of the cotton crisis is a balanced agriculture, of which both crops and livestock are essential parts. We have, too long thought of "agriculture" as crop farming, and animal industry as a thing apart. True agriculture includes both, for nature's own laws demand that plants and animals be kept together in that God-given reciprocal relation by which each feeds the other and the residue returns to the soil—nothing lost.

You and I cannot allow this condition to continue. Long ago, I made up my mind to take part in any movement that would correct these conditions, and I am asking you to join me and other wide-awake citizens who have the welfare of Texas at heart, in an effort to correct this situation.

What I have said about turkeys also applies to poultry generally. We have the finest state in the union in which to raise our turkeys. Yet we have done very little about it. It is believed by many people who should know that high prices are about a thing of the past. This means, as far as poultry and eggs are concerned, that we must teach the farmers how to produce these commodities for less money—show them how they can get twice as many eggs out of the same number of chickens at the same or less cost. People who have studied this matter and who have stocked their premises with high producing fowls are making money at the present prices. However, the vast majority are hardly breaking even. This matter is too important for the business-men of Texas to allow to drift along.

A short time ago the Texas Poultry Federation was organized. It is an all-inclusive federation whose purposes are to foster, promote, improve, protect, and encourage all branches of the poultry industry in the State of Texas, to co-operate with other organizations and individuals in matters of mutual welfare; to supply information to its members.

John B. Collier, Jr., president of the Ft. Worth Poultry and Egg Company, is the first president of this group. A. H. Demke is serving as executive secretary-treasurer.

Gov. O'Daniel took a lot of interest in the early efforts for the welfare of the poultry men and has, since his election as Governor, appointed one of our own people as a member of the Board of Directors of the A&M College of Texas. As far as we know, this is the first time in the history of this country that a hundred per cent poultryman has been made a member of such a group.

We have decided that our first objective shall be the financing of Texas' exhibit at the Seventh World's Poultry Congress to be held in Cleveland, Ohio, next July. This is the first time that the World's Poultry Congress has ever been held in the United States and it cannot happen again for at least 30 years. It is our opportunity to show the people of this country—and the world—that Texas does produce quality poultry and poultry products.

We are arranging for a 40-ft. animated display which is now being developed under the direction of Prof. Ross M. Sherwood, station of the A&M college. As chief of the poultry experiment you know, it is impossible for the legislature of Texas to appropriate state funds.

Dinner and Luncheon Menus Sought by TAC

How would you like your menu? And how would you like to win $1000 in cash? If you will send your answer to the first question to Miss Ethel Bob Montague at John Tarleton Agricultural College, Stephenville, Texas, you may have a chance to answer the second query.

The $1000 prize offer was announced today by John B. Collier, Jr., of Fort Worth, who is president of the Texas Poultry Federation. Any Texan interested in food preparation is eligible to send dinner or luncheon menus containing at least one egg dish, with the complete recipe for this dish, to Miss Montague. Any entrant may send more than one menu provided each is on a separate sheet of paper with the sender's name and address in the upper right hand corner. All menus must be typed.

The five most original, healthful and appetizing recipes submitted by Texans will be sent to convening in Cleveland, Ohio, the World's Poultry Congress from July 28 to August 7. There a national board will select 20 finalists to compete for the $1000 national award.

All entries must be mailed to Stephenville and be postmarked before midnight, June 30. The recently organized Texas Federation will participate in the World's Poultry Congress for the first time this year.

FREEZING TRAYS AND ICE CREAM FREEZERS
NOW is the time of year when in many American homes the ice cream freezer is brought forth from its remote winter quarters and prepared for action. While in other homes where mechanical refrigerators have been installed, the refrigerator freezing trays promise cold, delightful desserts for the warm languid days that are about to follow. Here are recipes for ice creams and sherbets that you can use in either the freezing trays or the ice cream freezers:

Vanilla Ice Cream and Variations
1 cup milk
1/2 cup sugar
1/4 tsp. all-purpose flour
1/2 tsp. salt
1 cup whipping cream
1 tsp. vanilla
Scald milk. Mix together sugar, flour and salt. Pour scalded milk slowly over sugar, flour and salt mixture and cook in double boiler over hot water for about 20 minutes (until mixture thickens slightly). Cool. Add the stiffly whipped cream, folding it in. Blend thoroughly. Add vanilla. Pour into tray of mechanical refrigerator and freeze until firm, stirring two or three times before mixture is completely frozen. Or, place in ice cream freezer (using 3 parts ice to 1 part salt and freeze. Amount: 6 servings.)

Chocolate Ice Cream
Follow the recipe for Vanilla Ice Cream, adding 3 level tbsp cocoa to the flour mixture. Proceed as for Vanilla Ice Cream.

Fresh Strawberry Ice Cream
Follow the recipe for Vanilla Ice Cream, adding 1 1/2 cups strawberry pulp (1 1/2 pints whole fresh berries pressed through a sieve) sweetened with 1/2 cup sugar to the cooled custard mixture. Proceed as for Vanilla Ice Cream.

Fresh Peach Ice Cream
Follow the recipe for Vanilla Ice Cream, adding 1 1/2 cups sliced or finely cut fresh peaches (6 medium-sized peaches), sweetened with 1/2 cup sugar, to the cooled custard mixture. Proceed as for Vanilla Ice Cream.

Citrus Pulp's Value Studied by Beeville Experiment Station

Final report on the results of an experiment carried on by the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station at Beeville on a bunch of Llano County calves has been made to Agricultural Agent D. D. Steele of Llano.

The calves, 70 in all, were purchased by D. P. Smith of Llano from various ranchers, including Charles Keese, W. Y. Fowler and C. Turbiville of Llano County, and Ward Holman of San Saba County, and sold by Smith to R. A. Hall, superintendent of the Beeville station.

The final report was on 30 of these calves, described as "good to choice Hereford steer calves". The average cost was $8.65 per hundred pounds, delivered at the Beeville station. The average sale cost, when delivered in San Antonio last month at the end of the feeding period, was $10.25 per hundred.

The purpose of the experiment was to determine the feeding value of dried citrus pulp in fattening rations for beef cattle.

The calves were fed over a period of 168 days, from Nov. 16 to May 3, and were divided into three lots, according to diet, as follows:

- Lot 1—Ground ear corn, cotton meal and grain sorghum silage.
- Lot 2—Same except that 25 per cent of the ground ear corn was replaced by dried citrus pulp.
- Lot 3—Same, except that 60 per cent of the ground ear corn was replaced by dried citrus pulp.

Ten calves were placed in each lot. The initial weight of the steers in lot 1, per steer, was 555 pounds, and the final weight per steer was 948 lbs., showing the total gain per steer to be 393 pounds, or an average daily gain per steer of 2.34 pounds. The cost of feed per steer in this group was $22.40, which, with the initial value of the steers at $8.56 per hundred pounds, or $48.01, brought the total cost of finished steer to $70.41.

The initial weight of the 10 steers in lot 2 was 556 pounds, and their final weight per steer was 933 pounds, making the total gain per steer 377 pounds. The average daily gain per steer was 2.24 pounds. The cost of feed per steer in this lot was $22.36, and the initial value of the steer $48.09, making the total cost of finished animal $70.45.

In lot 3 the 10 steers weighed 555 pounds each at the start, while their final weight per steer was 918 pounds—a total gain per steer of 363 pounds, or an average daily gain per steer of 2.16 pounds. The cost of feed per steer was $21.12, and the initial value of each animal $8.65 per hundred pounds was $48.01, making the total cost of finished steer $69.13.

The 40 calves not included in this experiment were wintered on a growing ration of two pounds of corn, two pounds of cottonseed meal, and all the grain sorghum ensilage they would eat. During the 120-day wintering period these calves made an average gain of two pounds per day at a cost of $3.80 per hundred pounds of gain. They were wintered with the idea of being used in sudan grazing work in the Spring, but because of extremely dry conditions in Beeville during the Spring they were sold after they had been on the sudan grass only 28 days. They were sold to Swift and Co. in San Antonio for $9.60 a hundred pounds.

TEXAN ON WORLD POULTRY CONGRESS PROGRAM
Texas will be represented on the scientific program of the World's Poultry Congress by F. M. Sherwood, chief of the division of poultry husbandry of the Texas agricultural experiment station.

The congress will be held in Cleveland, Ohio, July 28 to August 7. Sherwood's paper will deal with vitamin A requirements of poultry.

George P. McCarthy, poultry husbandman of the college extension service, has estimated that more than 300 Texas poultrymen will attend the congress, which is being held for the first time in the United States. Members of the Texas poultry industry who are considering the trip should get in touch with A. H. Demke, executive secretary of the Texas Baby Chick Association, Stephenville. Demke is in a position to give full details on the congress, plans for group attendance, expenses, and so on.

Poultry News

By A. H. DEMKE, Sec'y, Texas Poultry Federation

I don't know whether you realize that we in Texas have lost a large part of our vast turkey business—but it is a fact. The northwestern states, as well as the north-midwestern section, have made tremendous inroads into our volume through educational work and selling efforts. We in Texas have been satisfied with our lot and we have done nothing in a concerted way to improve our turkeys.

Poet's Corner

Ernest Lee Womack was honored Wednesday noon by having one of his poems read on the Crazy Hotel radio program. The poem is printed below.

THE CHALLENGE

When the battle's getting tough, Fight the wrong, If the way seems kind of rough, Step along, When you think you've had enough, That's the time to show your stuff, Sing a song.

When the gloom is all about, Make a light, If you're feeling down and out, Try your might, When you're filled with fear and doubt, Don't begin to sigh and pout, Do the right.

When you're feeling sort of blue, Try a smile, If you start to fret and stew, Change your style, Don't think hard luck's just for you, Other's have their troubles too, Laugh a while.

If you really want to win, Do your best, Trifleness is such a sin, Use your zest, When you think of giving in, Can you take it on the chin? That's the test.

RESOLUTIONS

TO THE FAMILY OF DR. T. RICHARD SEALY:
WHEREAS we humbly acknowledge the existence of a Supreme Creator and Divine Ruler who made man in His own image, at the same time endowed man with immortality and with the abundance of His wondrous love and care; and

WHEREAS, God in His unerring wisdom has blessed mankind with the noble leadership of a man whom He chose to enrich and elevate the lives of others so that they might better move in accordance with His pleasure; and

WHEREAS, a host of people have been exceedingly blessed by having a princely character, a wise leader, a true friend, a noble Christian, a delightful companion and an exemplary father, whose works and influence has blessed the world, and whose posterity will continue to do so; and

WHEREAS, God in His divine wisdom and plan has seen fit to call this great character, the beloved and honored Dr. T. Richard Sealy, to his just and bountiful reward in the everlasting and perfect city; therefore,
