VOLUME LIII

SANTA ANNA, COLEMAN COUNTY, TEXAS, FRIDAY, JULY 14, 1939

NUMBER 28.

This Week in Our Town

"I don't want to miss my paper, it's so newsy now," said Mrs. M. J. Stacy when ordering her paper changed from Ballinger, Texas, back to Santa Anna last week. Mrs. Stacy is one of the many who have spoken complimentary on the way the News is improving its service to Santa Anna people.

"You almost got me in trouble when you called J. L. Kelley 'Cantaloupe Kelley,'" said E. R. Purdy Monday morning. "Long time ago I gave him that name and when he saw it in your column last issue he jumped on me, so I threw all the blame on you. The name is appropriate, though. He raises the best cantaloupes in West Texas, and admitted to me Saturday that he couldn't supply the demand he had for them Friday and Saturday." Kelley has four acres of Rocky Fords that will net him about $75 an acre. He brought a 7 1/2 pound cantaloupe to the editor Monday. Thanks.

The Service Cafe is looking a whole lot better since the old awning was removed, new glass and screen fixtures arranged over the entry and the plate glass windows, new paint applied and a new sign painted across the front and a new sidewalk sign erected. Light and clean and "good cooking" is the opinion of both regulars and transients.

"That classified got results: I sold that hay baler right away," said J. C. Ferguson, who lives out on Route 2, Santa Anna. "Keep the ad in. I want to sell those other things, and add to it that I have a lot of hay for sale." It was done. "Folks read The News form front to back," we have been told many times during the last few weeks. We believe it. That's what makes advertising in it valuable.

"Business is picking up some. I've sold a few cars during the past few weeks," said J. C. Mathews, local Plymouth and De Soto dealer. Mathews said he had sold quite a few used cars during the past few months, but that the sale of new cars had been at a standstill until recently. Plymouths were the cars sold by him.

"As good a display, and as fine goods, as you can find in any store much larger than mine," said J. W. Parker Wednesday, speaking of a display of two dozen men's dress shirts with ties to match in the display case in his tailor shop. Parker handles a small though select line of haberdashery that has many times provided the needed article for his customers. Operated in conjunction with his cleaning and pressing establishment, the sideline has proven worthwhile to both owner and patrons.

"Here's a picture of Santa Anna that many people have not seen," said G. M. Morgan, who brought in a picture of Santa Anna taken thirty or more years ago. The picture is interesting to the newcomers as well as to the old timers. J. J. Gregg also displayed three fine views of the Community of the city from West Mountain, East Mountain from the West and West Mountain from the East.

"Can you tell which is flour made in our mill and which is the nationally-known brand?" asked Ed Jones of Jones-Stephenson Company, produce dealers and millers, pouring flour from two sacks. It was with extreme difficulty that the two could be distinguished because of the great similarity in texture and coloring. If the biscuits baked from the home-milled wheat are as delicious as those made from the popular brand are, no reason for passing up a local enterprise will exist, for of a truth the home-ground flour is as fine-looking as the other.

"Well, I had a large part of my family home for a reunion last Saturday," remarked J. H. Brannan Monday. "We try to get together once a year. Dozen or two of the children and the grandchildren couldn't get here this time. Better luck next year." Don't remember how many of the absent children he said didn't come, but there (Continued on Page 2)

Rodeo At Coleman Draws Big Crowds Each Performance

Balked temporarily by rain, the annual Coleman rodeo, groomed to be the best in the history of the event, got off to a favorable start Wednesday despite adverse weather conditions.

The four-day performance received a blow when part of the program could not be held on Wednesday because of rain, but the parade as scheduled. It was the first time since the annual celebrations started that bad weather interrupted the regular program.

Between showers earlier in the afternoon, the Coleman County Pioneers association held its annual meeting at the Camp Colorado replica. Attending were 500 men, women and children. Membership in the association is restricted to those who have lived in Coleman pioneers were welcomed by R. I. Bowen Jr., Coleman chamber of commerce president and a response was made by L. E. Collins of Coleman, association president. An old fiddlers' contest was rained out.

On wet streets, 25 girl sponsors paraded Wednesday afternoon with cowboys and cowgirls in a long procession of fine saddle horses and colorful features. Spectators paid tribute Wednesday evening to the Coleman Rodeo Association by turning out in numbers of approximately 4,500 at Hufford Field. Featured were Adolphus Ehrler, Coleman, who performed with his trick horse, and Wayne McGill, seven-year-old boy of Kilgore, and his shetland pony.

The rodeo will be presented again tonight and Saturday night.

HIGH SCHOOL BUILDING REPAIRS BEING MADE

In preparation for the opening of school, minor repairs are being completed in the high school building. This work includes refinishing the floors, cleaning and painting some of the walls and woodwork and mending the cracks in the plaster.

The date has not been set for the school opening but the matter will probably be settled in the July meeting of the board of education.

Coleman School Opens Sept 4

B. E. FOWLER URGED AS MEMBER OF THE CCRA

HOWITZER COMPANY READY TO GO TO CAMP AT PALACIOS

Some sixty officers and men of the Howitzer Company of the 142nd Infantry, Santa Anna, are making plans to go to Camp Hulen, Palacios, for the annual National Guard encampment, to cover the two week period Aug. 5 to 20.

Company B. Coleman, some 65 strong, is also making ready to participate.

These are the annual National Guard maneuvers and all Texas guardsmen are expected to attend.

Preparations Made For Children's Care At Legion Meeting

By JOHNNIE BROWN
One of the big jobs of putting on an American Legion convention these days is providing entertainment and care for an up-and-coming youth organization known as the Sons of the Legion.

It has been conservatively estimated that 1000 members of that branch organization will come to Waco when Legion members hold their state convention there August 18-20. They will arrive on Saturday, opening day of the convention, and remain through Tuesday, the closing date.

During their stay the youngsters will be camped, army fashion, on the Cotton Palace fair grounds. Tents for housing the various squadrons will be furnished by the national guard.

Col. W. C. Torrence, Waco's city manager, will be in charge of the encampment. The registration fee, to cover housing, care, meals and entertainment for the Sons of Legion corps will be $2 for each member. Any further information needed may be obtained by writing Col. Torrence at Waco's municipal building.

Prizes will be awarded to winners of athletic contests and other contests to be held for the Sons of the Legion during their stay. Various entertainments, including band concerts and participation in the Legion convention parade, etc., are being planned, it is understood.

Woolen Mills Work on Increased Fall Orders

Availability of government loans lends confidence to the long-term price outlook, reports the First National Bank of Boston in its monthly news letter regarding wool and woolen trade. As to the imports, the banks says wool brought into this country substantially is close to an average for the last decade. While these points are encouraging the institution notes that June was a quiet month in the wool goods industry, although mills are busy producing heavyweight fabrics for the fall trade.

Explaining that the last year has been satisfactory for the wool goods industry, the principal improvement is said to have been in the worsted lines. Relative scarcity of desirable wools in the Boston market due to a late shearing in the West played a part in the reduction in combing activity during the spring, a trend that was reversed in May.

Usual seasonal improvement in mill operations is forecast for the early summer, the bank's letter mentions. Clothing manufacturers are preparing their lines for fall and should reach usual peak activity in August. Retail sales of clothing have continued relatively high and cloth inventories are believed to be not burdensome.

Most of the fabric for men's heavyweight season has been contracted; mills are turning their attention to 1940 summer lines; and sales of woolen fabrics for women's winter wear have been slow, though about 10 per cent above last year, it is pointed out.

BROOKSMITH ANTHRAX VICTIM IS OUT OF DANGER NOW

Lois Miller, Brooksmith, who has been suffering from anthrax for several days, has recovered sufficiently to leave a Brownwood hospital and return to his home.

The Brooksmith ranchman returned to his home Tuesday, hospital attendants announced.

Heart o' Texas News Briefs

Six more persons were added to the old age pension rolls in Brown County during June, bringing the total to 781. The checks totaled $12,674, an average of $16.23 per pensioner. Payments in May totaled $12,396, compared with $11,177 for the same month a year ago.

Known all over the state as a city of churches, Brownwood has within its city limits thirty-one churches, representing eleven different denominations. There are approximately 390 people for every church. Twenty seven churches are white, four are for negro residents of the city. Denominations represented are Baptist, Presbyterian, Methodist, Christian Science, Church of Christ, Christian, Lutheran, Nazarene, Pentecostal, Church of God, Catholic and Episcopal.

West Texas peach crop is now being marketed, with early peaches bringing less than one dollar per bushel to the farmers. The Elberta and other fine peaches will come on the market within the next two weeks. Farmers were reported hopeful that the choice varieties will net them $1 or more per bushel at the orchards. Peach yields while somewhat spotted, as a general rule, are large this year in West Texas. Some orchards have bumper crops of the best quality peaches in years and the crop as a whole probably is one of the largest in this section's history.

Taxes amounting to 89.43 per cent of the total on the 1938 tax roll of Brown county had been collected prior to July 1, 1939. This compares with collections of 79.72 per cent of the 1937 tax roll collected prior to the same date last year. June collections this year totaled $11,654.23 on the 1938 roll, $5,095.66 in delinquent taxes, as compared with collections from the 1937 roll in June, 1938, of $1,909.33, $2,918.51 in delinquent taxes and $3.75 in occupational taxes. Collections from the current tax rolls for the past year totaled $11,219.13. Delinquent collection totaled $19,136.06, and occupation tax collections totaled $98.12.

Oil Briefs

Delayed for several days while awaiting pipe the State Oil Corp. of Eastland and H. O. Wooten and others of Abilene W. R. Stockard No. 3 has resumed drilling operations.

Total depth is around 3,300 feet. The test is about one mile west of Nowice, being 990 feet from the north and west lines of the southeast quarter of section 23, T&NO Ry. Co. survey. The Gardner sand in No. 1 Stockard was topped at 3,629 feet.

Work was halted temporarily on the Anzac Oil Corp. of Coleman No. 5-C Morris in the new Anzac-Morris pool on the Morris Ranch about 20 miles north of Coleman. The corporation is concentrating its attention on No. 4 - Overall in the Overall pool, about six miles south of Coleman. The test has been giving trouble for the past several weeks, following an accidental charge of nitroglycerin. Efforts are being made now to drill around three joints of casing.

No. 5-C Morris is 6,500 feet from the west, 4,950 feet from the north line of Lavid Bredling survey 7283. It is 660 feet north and west of No. 4-C, which was recently brought in as the county's best potential producer.

Cooper Oil Company of New York has drilled past 1,385 feet on its No. 1 McCord, south outcrop to the Goldsboro pool, near Goldsboro. A Diesel operated rotary is being used. Judge Tyree of Abilene is in charge of operations. The test is slated to be drilled to 3,800 feet if necessary. It is on a tract adjoining the Will Mathews land. No. 1 Mathews, owned by Will Mathews of Goldsboro and one of the oldest wells in the pool, recently was cleaned out and is now reported making about 60 barrels of oil daily.

STOLEN CAR IS PROMPTLY LOCATED BY AUTHORITIES

While J. C. Mathews attended the picture show Tuesday night, some young fellows with a yen for automobilism ran off with car. Immediately upon discovering his loss, Mathews notified both county officials and highway patrolmen, and within ten minutes the description of the missing car was put on the air by a short-wave station.

Wednesday morning Mathews was routed out of bed to be told that his car had been located at Lohn.

Mathews was praising both the quick action and effectiveness of the sheriff's department and highway patrol.

Santa Anna to Pave 40 Blocks of Street, Repairing Several

According to a telegram from Senator Tom Connally to Mayor George M. Johnson, President Roosevelt has approved a WPA project for Santa Anna that carries $46,524 for the improvement of the city's streets.

The project, titled No. 6094, includes grading, drainage, surfacing, constructing curbs, gutters and sidewalks and performing, puttering and incidental work, operation of quarries, sand or gravel or catclite pits nearby for the production of road materials.

Some red tape will probably have to be unawound and it will take some time to clear the decks for action. Final dates and details will have to be set by a state supervisor.

The work to be accomplished under this project will place all Santa Anna streets in a very satisfactory condition.

Less Red Tape in Cotton Payments

Administrative affairs of the AAA this week took a turn toward simplicity. B. F. Vance, assistant state administrator, announced distribution of an application blank for 1939 cotton price adjustment payments which is hailed as the simplest form ever used for this purpose.

It will cause a substantial reduction of errors and corrections in applications, Vance said.

"Undoubtedly the form will save time and money," he predicted, "as most any sixth-grader could fill it out without much trouble. Fewer errors will mean fewer suspensions of applications for payment and smoother distribution of cotton price adjustment checks."

Sometimes referred to as a "parity" payment, this reward for planting within cotton acreage allotments, which is 1.5 cents a pound on the normal yield of the allotment, is expected to add approximately $22,500,000 to buying power of Texas cotton producers.

It is in addition to the conservation payment of 2 cents a pound on cotton and is scheduled to begin flowing around September 1, or soon after compliance with cotton acreage allotments has been checked.

He is in county jail awaiting transfer to State prison at Huntsville.

Santa Anna's Flour Mill Is Turning Out High Grade Product

Jones & Stephenson, as they announced last week, have opened their mill and begun grinding Santa Anna wheat into a good grade of flour bolted through the finest of silk mesh. The appearance of the product compares with the best flour on the market, and granting that Coleman county wheat is very good, the product of their mill must be of the same high grade.

Flour and corn meal, and we understand, later production of poultry and live stock feed in a restricted variety makes up the production plans of the mill for the present.

The machinery they have installed, while not the costly, spic-and-span machinery a rich milling company would install, is adequate for a long time to come with heavy production. Wheat is taken from the storage bins, cleaned, washed and again cleaned before going to the rollers for reduction. Passing through three sets of rollers, each crushing the grain to a smaller size, the resultant fine flour is finally sifted through a fine silk mesh, the material too thick to pass through the fine mesh returning to the grinders again, the husk of the wheat kernel going to the bran bin.

Cleanliness is insisted upon in the handling of grain and in the condition of the mill itself. An under heavy compressor is used to clean the mill thoroughly after each day's run. Wheat after being washed and dried by blowers is stored in an elevated storage bin where it is not again handled by hand or appears in the open. When it leaves the mill it is in a sack or barrel.

Jones & Stephenson are making this arrangement with those who like the plan. Farmers to bring in their wheat for storage for which they will warehouse as needed Santa Anna milled flour, getting for 60 test wheat 30 lbs. to the bushel flour. The firm is preparing to manufacture for local consumption quality corn meal. They will also grind for fixed charges corn and wheat for growers or those supplying the grain.

A reunion of the Mrs. Mary E. Green family was held in Coleman Park last week. The occasion was in celebration of Mrs. Green's 81st birthday. Mrs. Green and her late husband, William S. Green, were of Coleman county's earliest settlers. They came to the county late in 1876, spending their first winter in a log cabin. When they first came to the eastern part of the county Indians were still plentiful in and around the mountain and his district. Attending the reunion were relatives from Haskell, Taylor, Wice, Brown, Frith, Colahan, and Coleman counties. Members of the family present included five daughters, a daughter-in-law, one son, nine grandchildren, eight great-grandchildren, three nieces and a nephew. Those present from Santa Anna were Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Ingram and daughters, Era Lee and Imogene; Mrs. E. M. Hickman and Mrs. T. W. Bell; also, Mr. and Mrs. T. T. Paris, Bains.

HIGH SCHOOL BAND RESUMES ACTIVITIES

With the director, Mr. Willis, home from vacation, the summer band work was out to a good start. Monday night with thirty of the thirty-four members of the high school band present for practice. Another practice was held Wednesday night and the beginners' group had a meeting Thursday morning.

Receiving an invitation from the Coleman Rodeo Association, the band played for the parade in Coleman yesterday afternoon at 10 o'clock from 7:30 to 8:00, preceding the rodeo performance they played in concert at the Hufford Field.

For their nice performance in the marching contest in Abilene in April, the local band was awarded a cup but it was not received until after school was closed. Mr. Willis presented the trophy to the group Monday night and a formal presentation will be made when school opens in September. The Santa Anna band was one of three receiving second rating in the contest, with no band winning first rating.

Summer concerts have been planned for the near future and already an invitation has been received to play for the State Fair in Dallas, October 19-21. Several boys and girls have been added to the beginners band and Mr. Willis is working hard to secure enough new members to take the place of the fourteen who will graduate next term. Students of the sixth through the ninth grades are especially urged to join the band.

Miss Edith Verne Stevens has as her guest this week Miss Edna Kennedy of Wolfe City.

Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Comer and children Dorothy and R. B. Jr., of Abilene and Mrs. R. E. Black and daughter Romars of Dallas were here for the funeral of the mother of Mrs. Black and Mrs. Comer, Mrs. S. G. Catton.

Editorial

Soldiering at one time was considered as the occupation of the disreputable. Prior to the World War the army was more or less discredited as to the moral standard of its enlisted personnel. But with the drastic revision of the army during the War a new status came into existence. After the war thousands of young men, their interest aroused by the tales of the returning veterans, enlisted in the army as a noble pursuit.

The State of Pennsylvania is backing the revised WPA move full strength. The federal action extending hours and thereby reducing wage rate, suits Pennsylvania. There, like in Texas and other states, WPA is becoming a racket. As long as the government is willing to take care of the unfortunate, who couldn't find work as well as men who didn't care to look for work as long as they felt they could demand work at union wages from the government and New Deal politicians were willing to employ all they could get on the rolls in order for their vote, the WPA proved to be the biggest political and economic craft in history.

21 Santa Fe Officials Inspect Water System

Twenty-one freight, agricultural, livestock and administrative officials of the Santa Fe railroad were in Brownwood Tuesday for an inspection of the Brownwood irrigation facilities. The trip resulted from a recent visit and report of H. M. Bainer, general agricultural agent of the railroad, on the local project.

water district manager, explained the project.

Bettis informed the visitors, in answer to questions, that the irrigation rates had not been fixed. He said, however, that the maximum rate for water, it was hoped would be around $3 to $3.50 per acre, with an additional rate of 30 cents per acre when the irrigation project is in full operation.

Fitzgerald traced the lines of the main canal and irrigation laterals on the map and told the group that the inspection would begin at the lake and that the visitors would be conducted on a tour of the main canal with visits to some farms where irrigation has already been practiced.

The district, Fitzgerald, said, contains about 14,000 acres, of which 4,000 acres are within the city of Brownwood. There are some 9,500 acres of irrigable land for which water has been provided. All the laterals except No. 9 lead off from the canal in closed pipes. The system of laterals is nearly complete.

Farmers will have to provide their own distribution systems. Outlets, at high points, have been installed on each farm; where more than 30 acres is to be irrigated, more than one outlet has been provided.

Except for some 750 acres at Early the entire system is a gravity flow project. Some eight or ten tracts have been watered experimentally.

Design of the system is to keep the maintenance and operating costs at a minimum. The main canal is the high line ditch. Slightly elevated is 1,425 foot above sea level, with irrigation outlets at 1,400 feet.

The district itself has no land for sale, Bettis stated. Land prices in the district vary with prices of $65 to $150 per acre, but water rights were sold for $100.

E. H. Conrad, engineer-in-charge for PWA, which has supplied $450,000 on the irrigation project, was among the group accompanying the railroad delegation.

Brooksmith Man Has Bad Case of Anthrax

Louis Miller, Brooksmith stock farmer, has anthrax. Dr. H. L. Lobstein, Brown county health officer, stated, after making laboratory tests, Miller, about 25, was brought to Brownwood for examination after becoming ill last week.

Miller will remain in Brownwood for treatment, Dr. Lobstein indicated. The county health officer said the disease, for humans, is very dangerous and infectious.

Miller became ill after debiting an animal that died of anthrax on his farm.

Dr. T. O. Booth, state veterinarian, rushed to Brownwood from Fort Worth when he made laboratory tests which definitely established that the virulent outbreak at Brooksmith is anthrax. The tests were made of blood smears with laboratory equipment of C. M. Hallum, Brownwood druggist and expert in diseases of animals.

Hallum said the tests left no doubt as to nature of the disease that claimed five head of cattle on the ranch of C. E. Boyett of Brownwood, located two miles north of Brooksmith and one cow on the Miller place some distance away.

A state veterinarian from Brady was ordered by Dr. Booth to vaccinate all cattle on nearby ranches.

Dr. Booth fears an intensified outbreak before the disease can be brought under control by inoculation, Hallum said.

Biting flies and buzzards spread the malady, which attacks humans, horses, cattle and - to a lesser degree - sheep and goats. If serum can be administered quickly after an animal or person is stricken the chances for recovery are good.

In cattle, stricken animals develop a temperature, lose their appetites and suddenly become very sick. The mucous membrane of the nostrils and eyelids develop a bluish-red caste. Affected animals breathe with difficulty. Unless given a serum promptly, they die. The bite of a fly that has bitten an anthrax-stricken animal will transmit the disease. In humans, the disease is somewhat localized in effect, developing a sore and possibly chills.

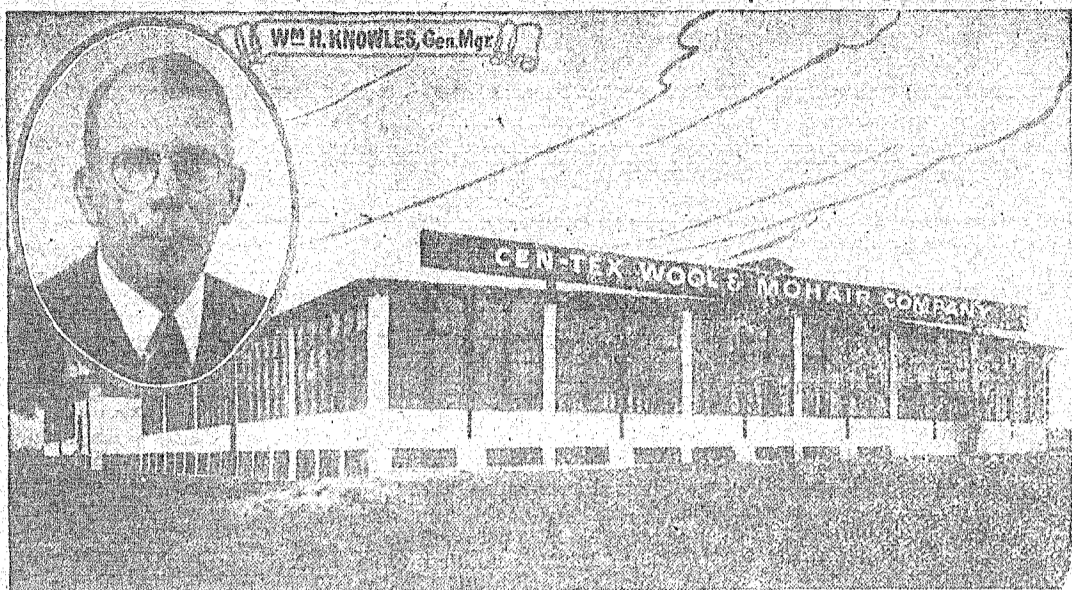

After an animal dies, a tumorous swelling of the carcass develops quickly.

All of the Brooksmith animals' carcasses were ordered to be burned.

Brownwood at present has no active state veterinarian, Hallum said. He said veterinarian from Coleman probably will come to Brownwood to work during the present emergency.

Services of a state veterinarian are free, but owners of livestock are required to pay for serum used. A supply plentiful

WOOL SCOURING PLANT TO BE INSTALLED AT SAN MARCOS

The recent purchase of the above modern, daylight building at San Marcos, Texas, with 34 acres of land adjoining and the securing of a 99-year easement along with current negotiations for installation of machinery to create a modern five-bowl scouring plant is announced by L. E. Rea, acting head of the Cen-Tex Wool and Mohair Company.

General manager of the plant will be William H. Knowles, who for forty years has been identified with practically every phase of the wool industry and whose family for the past two centuries have been actively engaged in the wool scouring and manufacturing business, both in England and the United States. Knowles installed the first wool scouring plant in California more than 20 years ago and has witnessed the building of many other plants along the Pacific coast as the result of this first installation.

After a thorough investigation of the Texas situation, Knowles was induced to become associated with the Cen-Tex Wool and Mohair Company because he felt that Texas offered the

for the emergency is now available at Brownwood, it was that. There are various kinds of anthrax serum, costing from 8 cents to $1.25 per dose, with the average being from 2 cents to 12 cents.

Dr. Ramsey, San Angelo, state veterinarian, went to Brooksmith to vaccinate all cattle on the Miller and Boyett ranches. He was unable to remain over to inoculate cattle on other farms. It was said, but another veterinarian probably will be sent.

Honor Conferred On Local Baptist Pastor

R. Elmer Dunham, pastor of First Baptist Church, Santa Anna has been elected missionary of District 8, centering at Big Spring and covering the territory of eleven counties around Midland, Odessa, Lamesa, Snyder, and Roscoe. There are seven such districts in Texas, the missionary being supported by the associations of the District and the State Mission Board. He will move to the new work the latter part of this month and will begin his work by holding a revival at Wastula. Following this he will direct a city-wide evangelistic campaign with four revivals and a vacation Bible School running simultaneously in Big Spring.

Rev. Dunham came to Santa Anna from Junction nearly four years ago, and has witnessed much progress in the local church in that time. In one year there were over 100 additions to the church, an average of around ninety per year for the period of this pastorate. Offerings for mission causes increased from less than $250 per year to more than $850 last year. Sunday School growth was another notable factor. During the first year such growth was made that the Sunday School Board of Nashville, Tenn. got out a special bulletin distributing it in 17 Southern states which mentioned some points explaining how a summer jump instead of a summer slump was experienced in the First Baptist Church of Santa Anna by the cooperation of the pastor and workers in taking a census, starting new classes, studying books on Sunday School Administration, visiting, holding weekly officers and teachers meetings, advertising, planning and working.

During this period the church organized its first Men's Brotherhood, added 13 classes and two departments to its Sunday School, reached Standard rating for its W. M. S., set up its first Royal Ambassadors and graded Girl's Auxiliary; added a number of new rooms and much equipment, including two pianos, two power fans, lawn sodding and watering, shrubbery and walks, retaining walls, hot water heater for baptistry, and recently a new parsonage.

Ability To Work Key Point in Benefit Plan

In spite of several blind spots, Coleman County workers are generally well-informed on unemployment compensation. Orville S. Carpenter, Texas director of the jobless benefits program, said this week.

Employment service interviewers report that individuals do not confuse jobless benefits with relief. There is no connection, Carpenter affirmed. Coleman County workers thoroughly understand that jobless benefits are the right of the eligible unemployed. A man is probably eligible for benefits if he has earned at least $80 during a 12-month period, and has earned it from a tax-paying employer. As a rule, a tax-paying employer is one who customarily employs at least eight workers. A key point in the jobless benefits program is that the individual must be physically able to work. Claimants in Coleman County do not understand this, Carpenter asserted. The individual, formerly employed by a tax-paying employer, to receive benefits must be able to work and must be available to accept any suitable job offered.

Another phase of the program is clearly understood by Coleman County workers. The tax for jobless benefits is paid solely by employers; workers pay no part of it.

Carpenter emphasized that approved claimants should report their part-time earnings when filing claim. Failure to report accurately and completely shortens the time benefits may be drawn and makes the claimant liable for prosecution under state laws.

It is a fact that in every country where the World's Poultry Congress has been held, the consumption of poultry and eggs has increased from 20 to 25 percent and the price of eggs has advanced an average of 2c a dozen. Think what that would mean to Texas poultrymen.

Those interested should get in touch with A. H. Denke, executive secretary, Texas Poultry Federation, Stephenville, Texas.

Our second objective, in all likelihood, will be a movement to nullify, as far as Texas is concerned, the bad effects from the importation of Chinese eggs. At the present moment, 100 tons of dried egg yolk are being shipped to the United States from the Japanese controlled portion of China for consumption in this country. This first consignment of 100 tons of dried egg yolk will replace the work of 100,000 American hens for one year. This means 100,000 hens which will not eat grains raised in our country and feed mixed in our country. It means our hatcheries will produce approximately 500,000 less chicks during the next year—that 50,000 less hatching eggs will be sold and this is just the beginning.

We have a plan in mind which we intend to put through the next legislature in Texas, which will compel manufacturers of foodstuffs to state on the package where the eggs used in the manufacture of said foods were produced—whether in the United States or what foreign country. A small educational campaign sponsored by us showing our people under what conditions Chinese eggs are produced would soon stop the use of imported eggs.

We want to raise $35,000 to put over this Congress exhibit and to carry on the activities of the Federation through its organization period. After that has been accomplished, our plan is to organize a large membership with very low dues among farmers and poultry raisers generally. We will then finance the balance of our modest requirements thru "sustaining memberships" from among our allied industries.

Refrigeration Sales Indicate Section Is Prosperous

A summary of the annual spring merchandise campaign conducted by the West Texas Utilities Company throughout the 45,000-square-mile territory is served today revealed that the Cisco District had exceeded its sales quota by 261 per cent, thus placing it foremost among the company's nine districts.

H. H. Monk, district manager, said he had been advised that other districts ranked in the following order:

Quannah, Stamford, Abilene, Childress, McCamey, San Angelo, Ballinger and Dalbert. Quannah and Stamford were tied for second place.

Results of the campaign, he added, indicate that business conditions are exceptionally good in West Texas compared with other parts of the country. Highlight of the campaign was sale of a total of 1,684 electric refrigerators during a 90-day period.

Special awards for outstanding accomplishments in the campaign go to Monk, C. C. Rosamond, district sales manager, O. J. Russell, local manager, and R. S. Cope, salesman all of Cisco; Earl Morley, district manager, T. W. McKoy, sales manager, and R. M. Parks, all of Quannah; K. K. Francis, district manager, and L. B. Tillotson, sales manager, both of Stamford; R. T. Gray, local manager at Merkel; Jarrell Hale and B. Sheffield, salesmen, and Mac Boyers, clerk, all of Abilene; W. J. Hembree, salesman of Paducah; J. Recommendations which, if adopted by the United States Bureau of Biological Survey, would give Texas duck hunters considerably better sport, were strongly urged upon Ira N. Gabrielson, Bureau Chief, by Will J. Tucker, Executive Secretary of the Texas Game, Fish and Oyster Commission, at the recent annual meeting of the National Game and Fish Commissioners Association.

Tucker asked that Texas, which biological survey reports indicate had 100 per cent more ducks last season than the previous year, be allowed shooting to start at sunrise rather than at 7 a. m.; that earlier shooting be allowed in the northern half of the state and that the use of a few live decoys be permitted.

Those are the things Texas sportsmen have been urging ever since the biological survey set down stringent rules several years ago in an effort, which is proving successful, to save migratory waterfowl from extinction.

Final approval of the duck season and all restrictions will be made this year for the first time by Harold L. Ickes, secretary of the Department of the Interior, to which the biological survey was recently transferred. At present there are no indications of the season, its length or the limitations, Tucker said upon his return to Austin from the national meeting.

Coyotes, known as the most canny animal in Texas, get along! One hungry old coyote must have found the foraging rather tough recently, but he coped with the situation by catching and eating fish, believe it or not!

State Game Warden P. D. Moseley of Canadian and J. H. Haggard, Amarillo, while patrolling near Tascosa, saw a coyote at the edge of the Canadian River, but paid little attention after the animal sneaked away. However, they saw the same coyote at the same spot at approximately the same time the following morning and were able to sneak up close enough to see the coyote scooping minnows five and six inches in length out of the river and devouring them.

Six more beaver have been trapped in Southwest Texas and placed in the streams of Jasper and Walker counties, making a total of a dozen of the busy dam builders which have been put to work in East Texas.

The drought in certain sections of South Texas and the Hill Country has hit game birds and animals hard and it has become necessary for the State Game Department to feed wild turkeys in a dozen Hill Country counties. Seven game wardens are engaged in feeding the birds, which is vitally necessary in order to save sufficient stock for breeding purposes next season. The turkey crop this year will be below normal in the Hill Country, Earl Sanders, Game Department Regional Game Manager at Kerrville, reports.

Texas can and is raising elk. The big game animal is protected the year round in the Lone Star State. A herd of forty-four planted in Jeff Davis County in 1927 has increased until there are now nearly 30 animals in the herd.

Triplet deer are very unusual, does usually giving birth to a pair, but Texas has at least two does which are more than doing their share in keeping the State stocked with deer. A doe on the W. H. Ramsey farm three miles from Kerrville recently had three deer for the fourth consecutive year. She is not yet five years old. The other deer which has proved very prolific is one on the Hyatt Brothers Ranch near Johnson City. She recently had her third set of triplets. She has given birth to seventeen young, including four sets of twins, in the last seven years.

The Southwestern Sportsmen's Show, held in Amarillo for one week-end which was the first show of its kind ever staged in the Southwest, will be repeated next year, it was announced by Gene Howe, sponsor of the show and a member of the Texas Game, Fish and Oyster Commission. Several other cities in Texas have expressed interest in sponsoring such a program.

Sportsman's Show

A new type of instructive entertainment, sportsmen's shows, which have attracted tens of thousands of spectators in eastern cities, is invading Texas. Elaborate preparations are being made for the first of these.

The Southwest Sportsmen's Show, which will be staged at Amarillo for one week beginning June 26 and which is expected to attract 30,000 persons.

The show, being staged by the sportsmen of the Panhandle, will present the greatest galaxy of outdoor sports talent and the most extensive collection of exhibits of outdoor life of the southwest ever attempted. The Texas Game Department is co-operating in this educational event by providing displays of game animals and by showing its library of color motion pictures of Texas game birds, animals and fish.

Champions in archery, rifle and pistol shooting, casting, will show their wares daily during the show. A complete aquarium is being built and will be stocked with every game fish known to Texas. Two continuous motion picture shows in air-conditioned theatres will compose part of the entertainment. A lake is being built for casting exhibitions. Champion dogs including pointers, setters and retrievers, will be displayed. The show offers far more activities than that of any other staged in the United States. Go if you can.

Hunting and Fishing Leading Hobbies

Are you a baseball addict, a football fan, a follower of skeet or a bug on stamps? If so you are not numbered among the leaders in the pursuit of hobbies. However if you are a hunter or a fisherman you are in the class leading them all. In a recent survey of fairly representative cities 15.1 per cent of the men queried as to their favorite hobby were followers of Ike Walton or tramped the fields and woods with the old blunderbuss on their arm. Golf led second with 13.9.

Fish Rescue Work.

Fish rescue work, of which much is done each year by the Texas Game, Fish and Oyster Commission, has started. State Game Warden Sam Turner of Waco reports the rescue of 21,000 fish from an old channel of the Bosque river. A large party of Waco sportsmen co-operated with wardens in the rescue work. All of the members of the finny tribe were saved and placed in the Bosque river below the dam at Lake Waco.

Receding waters following heavy rains, the streams, lakes, barmits drying up during the summer months stranded millions of fish in Texas. During the fiscal year of 1937-38 game department employees rescued a total of 2,846,279 fish and placed them in rivers, streams and lakes in which there were no danger of going dry. The fish rescued totaled nearly as much as were produced in state fish hatcheries during the same period, 3,068,705 crappie, bass, cat, bream being propagated by the hatcheries and used to stock waters of the state.

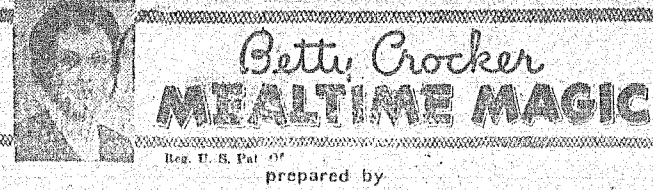

Fish Rescue in This District

In my district there are six counties and there have been many fish rescued this year. Earlier in the year the old Lucas Lake, some two miles east of Brownwood, was going dry. M. M. Ledbetter, Game Warden O. P. Etheredge and myself rescued some 12,000 fish from this lake and placed them all in Lake Brownwood. The Brownwood chapter of the Isaak Walton League co-operated in the work.

During the last part of June the old T. P. lake at Baird was washed out by the heavy rains in that section. When the dam broke nearly all of the fish were washed out. The author of this column and O. F. Etheredge, the game warden, and hatchery attendants L. A. Proctor and Walter Baum and sportsmen of Baird rescued some 16,000 fish and placed them in lakes and government tanks in Callahan County. Most of the fish rescued came from a small creek below the dam of the T. P. lake. Fish were taken from holes that would go dry within the next month or so. Others were left in permanent water in the creek where there was no danger of drying up.

If there is danger of creeks, sloughs or other bodies of water in your community going dry, will you notify your state game warden so the fish might be saved? In case you do not know your game warden, please notify the Texas Game, Fish and Oyster Commission, Austin, Texas, and the warden will be notified. This will be a great help to us who must do the rescue work. Your co-operation will be appreciated.

Seventy more scholastics were certified from the scholastic census for Brown county for the school year 1939-40 than the census of last year showed, according to a final tabulation of corrected list received by Clive Pierce, county superintendent, from the State Department of Education at Austin. Total scholastics for the year number 6,124, as compared with 6,054 for the school year 1937-39.

FRONT PORCH HOSPITALITY

DON'T you think hospitality is a beautiful word? To me it suggests a wealth of kindly customs that, down through the ages, have come to be associated with receiving guests into one's home. Always we find the sharing of food and drink an important part of this hospitality. In very primitive times hospitality was this and nothing more,—the sharing of bread and drink with a neighbor or a stranger. Among these primitive tribes once a man had broken bread with another, each was under obligation to protect the other in time of danger. In some places this breaking of bread together has bound host and guest in a sort of food kinship. This is easily understood when we think how even in this day and age our hearts warm toward those with whom we share whatever food and drink there is—either in our own homes or in theirs. And when we take into consideration that food was often scarce and difficult to obtain among primitive people, we can realize how sharing it came to be an almost sacred rite that bound people together with a tie as strong as that of blood.

We know ourselves it isn't the elaborateness of the food and drink offered or the quantity—but the gracious spirit in which it is given, that delights us. For true hospitality is easy, friendly and simple. The other kind, that leaves us with a guilty feeling for having caused our hostess so much work, isn't hospitality at all. Think how you love to go to a home where the hostess possesses the happy knack of always having something on hand she can offer quickly and easily with a cup of tea or coffee or a cold, refreshing drink on a hot, wintery day.

However, we are apt to find that it takes more time to squeeze lemons and make these cold drinks than it did to put the kettle on for a cup of tea in cooler weather. Cold drinks require more forethought than hot drinks. A friend who lives in a small town where she's loved for her gracious hospitality always keeps a pitcher of lemonade or some other beverage in her refrigerator during the summer. While she's doing up the work after her midday dinner this drink is prepared. Needless to say there is a well-stocked cookie jar in that house filled with dainty white sugar cookies, or thin butter cookies, or others that are perfect accompaniments with a cold frosty drink. Sometimes there's a raspberry shrub—or a limeade in the pitcher—for this hostess varies her refreshments—and knows many delightful cold beverage possibilities.

Here are a few of her favorites:

Have you ever tried adding lime juice or gingerale to your lemonade? Or use fresh limes, leaving some of the green rind in the pitcher. Sprigs of mint add a cool, gay touch to any of these drinks. If you'd like a pink lemonade, a little grenadine syrup added to the lemonade contributes a sparkle to it.

If you worry about what to serve, if you dread to stand the next meal, just drop a card to Betty Crocker in care of your newspaper, and ask for this week's menus. Complete menus for the week will be sent to you at no cost. Please enclose 3 cent stamp to cover return postage.

How to Get Along With "Chiggers"

Summer time brings along that grand old family institution, the picnic, and R. R. Reppert, entomologist of the Texas A. & M. College Extension Service, takes out time enough and M. College Extension Service from his control of grasshopper and other crop insects to give a word of advice about the little pest that has taken the pleasure out of many a picnic—the "chigger" or "red bug."

Chiggers, says Reppert, are the first or larval stage of a large red, velvet mite which is entirely harmless when mature, but gets in lots of hicks as it grows up.

In the first place, it's well to dust the body with flowers of sulphur before starting out into the chigger-infested areas.

Back home again, apply kerosene lightly to the skin in places where chiggers usually gather—and that, as everybody knows, means the ankles, wrists, and under the knees, for a starter. Follow with a hot bath and scrub well with a coarse wash cloth or brush. If you have time and can stand it, lather freely with a medicated soap and allow it to dry on the body for about 15 minutes before it is washed off.

The idea that chiggers actually burrow into the skin is incorrect, says Reppert. Also incorrect is the idea that they don't begin to hurt until they die.

Actually, they merely attach themselves to the skin and suck blood. The persistent itching that follows is due to a poisonous material the organism injects in the wound.

If you neglect precautions before exposure and treatment after until the chiggers begin their work, ammonia water, strong salt water, soda water, or cooling ointments will alleviate the pain somewhat.

Eight carloads of livestock moved out of Brady Sunday for feeder lots in the North. Jess Phod of San Angelo shipped out two double-decks of lambs to Minnesota and double-deck to Iowa. Behrens Kothman of Mason shipped two carloads of calves to Iowa, while from Whitehall, G. R. White loaded out three carloads of cattle for the feeder lots in Illinois. A. M. Harkey making the shipment.

Start Now For Winter Pastures

By T. C. RICHARDSON
Associate Editor Farm and Ranch

The foundation of next year's income is laid this fall. The September rains, which often begin in August, may grow a winter cover crop to enhance the cotton yield; next summer, may start green pastures for winter grazing, may be sown respectively west of the 100th meridian in the soil where next year's crops can draw upon the reservoir of moisture; or they may be permitted to run away down hill with no profit to the farm where they fall.

Grain stubble, or fields from which cash crops have already been harvested, may now be prepared for fall sowing. If not already tilled and plowed, a no time should be lost in doing so. Wheat, oats, barley, Italian rye grass or any of the other standard winter pasture crops should be in the ground early enough to get well established before December and January cold weather, if we are to get good winter grazing. But good stands cannot be had without good seed bed, and a good seed bed cannot be made after planting time arrives.

This is even more important if alfalfa or any of the clovers are to be sown this fall. Plowing must be done far enough in advance to allow for plowing, harrowing and compacting the soil. Now, if the clover seed and the soil are not well mixed, the clover will not get a good start. The soil should be well worked, and the seed should be well mixed with the soil. If the soil is not well worked, the seed will not get a good start. The soil should be well worked, and the seed should be well mixed with the soil.

A family here a number of years ago, and they are now boasting their cotton yields for 1939.

Petition Asking For Conservation Dist. in Brown Co. is Out

Petitions for the creation of a Pecan Bayou Valley Soil Conservation District to include all of Brown county, under the new State Soil Conservation act, will be circulated at once among farmers of the county, it was decided last week at a joint meeting of the Brown County Soil Conservation Advisory Board and the Brown County Soil Conservation association, held in the district courtroom at Brownwood.

Bob Loy, Brownwood farmer and president of the Soil Conservation association, said creation of the soil conservation district should make it possible to obtain $90,000 to $150,000 worth of Federal funds for soil conservation work in the county, and that unless such a district is created soon, Brown county might lose the Fourth Street Veterans Soil Conservation service CCC camp, which is doing an invaluable work in the area.

The proposed district would include all the water sheds in Brown county. At the suggestion of W. R. Means, Winchell, member of the Soil Advisory Board, names of the various streams flowing through and originating in the county will be specifically named in the petitions.

Creation of soil conservation districts is brought about as follows: Fifty or a majority of land owners within the limits of a proposed district may file a petition with the State Board asking that a district be organized. Within 30 days after such petition has been filed with the State board, it shall cause notice to be given of a proposed hearing on the question of creating the district. After such hearing, if the State board shall determine that there is need for a district to be created, the board shall make a record of such fact and shall define the boundaries of such district.

After the board has determined that a need for a district exists, it shall be the duty of the board to hold an election within the proposed district of its creation. All land owners within the boundaries of the proposed district shall be eligible to vote in such election, and only they.

The board must pay all expenses of such notices, hearing and election.

The board shall publish the result of the election and determine whether operation of the district is administratively practicable and feasible. If it shall determine that the operation is feasible, it shall proceed with the organization of the district. The board shall not have authority to determine that the district is practicable and feasible unless at least two-thirds of the votes cast in the election shall have been cast in favor of the district's creation.

If an election fails, another may be asked after six months. Creation of the district is preceded by appointment of two district supervisors by the state board to act until their successors are duly elected. The two appointed supervisors, together with three supervisors to be elected, shall constitute the governing board of the district, which then becomes a governmental subdivision of the State and a public body corporate, and political. The two appointed supervisors shall obtain a charter from the Secretary of State and arrange other preliminary organization details. Supervisors will serve for three years and draw $4 per day when engaged in active duties but not to exceed 20 days in any calendar year, and necessary expenses incurred.

Consent of owners of lands shall be obtained before soil conservation measures shall be carried out on the owners' land. The district is authorized to take over and administer any soil conservation project located within its boundaries undertaken by the United States or any of its agencies. AN UNUSUAL COMBINATION

Chocolate and peanut butter are general favorites in juvenile circles. A cup of cocoa and a peanut butter sandwich are a frequent hunchon combination. But chocolate and peanut butter are unusual in a cake. Yet the combination is as delicious as it is unusual when you meet them in these little Chocolate Cup Cakes with their creamy flavorful Peanut Butter Fudge Icing.

Those who are looking for sour cream recipes will find this icing a happy surprise for it's made with 1 cup of sour cream. But first let me give you the recipe for the cake:

Chocolate Cup Cakes
2 eggs
1 cup sugar
2 sq. chocolate (2 oz.)
1/2 cup shortening
1 1/2 cups cake flour or 1 cup all-purpose flour
2 tsp. baking powder
1/2 cup milk
1 tsp. vanilla

Beat eggs well in mixing bowl. Add sugar, and mix thoroughly. Melt chocolate and shortening together over low heat. Cool slightly, and blend into egg and sugar mixture. Sift flour, and baking powder together, and add to chocolate mixture, alternately with the milk. Blend in vanilla. Pour into well greased and floured muffin pans or into little paper baking cups set into muffin pans, filling each cup 3/4 full. Bake 20 to 25 minutes in a moderate oven, 350° F. This recipe will make 20 medium-sized cup cakes.

Peanut Butter Fudge Icing

1 cup granulated sugar
1 cup brown sugar
1/2 cup peanut butter
1/2 cup sour cream
6 tbsps. peanut butter

Mix granulated sugar, brown sugar, and sour cream together in a saucepan. Allow mixture to come slowly to boiling point over low heat, keeping pan covered first 3 minutes of cooking to prevent crystals forming on sides of pan. Boil slowly, without stirring, until mixture will form a soft ball when a little is dropped into cold water (234° F.). Let stand until cool. Add peanut butter and beat until thick enough to hold its shape. Thin with a little cream if icing becomes too thick to spread.

Question: Sometimes I find that I'm out of baking powder when I'm right in the midst of baking a cake. I've often wondered if I could substitute cream of tartar in such a case, some baking powder is made with cream of tartar, isn't it?

Answer: I think it's a wiser plan to have the baking powder on hand, than to try to make this substitution. As soon as you use the last of the powder in the can, why not set the empty baking powder can in a conspicuous place to remind you to buy a new can. Perhaps it would be a good idea to set a nearly empty can out in this way. Then you'd never suddenly find yourself out of baking powder in the midst of your cake-making.

However, if you must make a quick substitution, soda and cream of tartar can be used. But it's important that they be blended in the right proportion for the success of the cake. In such an emergency use 1/2 tsp. of cream of tartar and 1/4 tsp. soda for each teaspoon of baking powder specified in your cake recipe.

Question: I'd like to make cup cakes more often, but they always seem to spread out over the tops of the muffin pans, and make them hard to get out. Is there any way that I can avoid having the mushroom-like top that results?

Answer: It will help if you are careful not to fill the pans too full. Never fill cup cake pans more than 2/3 full. Paper cups for these little cakes may be obtained in any tin can store or in any store carrying a complete line of kitchen equipment. And these little cakes in the filled cups do look very attractive. But of course, as with the muffin pans, you must be careful not to fill them too full.

Question: Why is it that my cakes always shrink. They look so high and nice in the oven. But by the time they come out they are smaller looking. They taste all right, and there is no stale in them. But I'd like to have them just as high and lovely as they are in the oven a little before they have finished baking.

Answer: Every cake will shrink during the last part of the baking period. Some of the expansion you have noticed in the oven is due to steam, and as this leaves the cake, it naturally contracts. Even after it comes from the oven, some of this steam evaporates thus making the cake a bit smaller.

If you worry about what to serve, if you dread to start the next meal, just drop a card to Betty Crocker in care of your newspaper, and ask for this week's menus. Complete menus for the week will be sent to you at no cost. Please enclose 3 cent stamp to cover return postage.

No more those busy skillful hands Will minister to our needs, But in the hearts of all of us Will live his golden deeds.

BLUEBELLS

There is a place I like to go, And pass the time of day, Out where the vivid bluebells grow In beautiful display.

The deep blue petals of the flower, Around a golden spot, Are just as fresh in cooling shower, Or when the sun is hot.

They make me think of kings of old, With robes of royal blue, And on their heads the crowns of gold; Magnificent to view.

In pomp and power and splendor great, Amidst the palace hall, They ruled a vast and mighty state, With dictum over all.

Their sign, their nod, the word they said, Could set a bondsman free, Or hang him high until he's dead, Upon the gallow tree.

Though bluebell's power is just as strong, No cruelty is there, They capture those who pass along, With charming beauty rare.

Their robe and crown, not made by hand, Are from the rain and sod, In language that we understand They speak to us of God.

Low-income farmers of Coleman County, numbering 63, received loans totaling 36,000.00 from the Farm Security Administration during the fiscal year ending June 30, states County Supervisor Leon C. Ranson. Mr. Ranson said that in Texas loans of $7,190,995 had been made for the fiscal year just closed compared to 4,279,952 last year. "The FSA is serving more and more farmers every year," he said, "but rehabilitating our rural population is a big job. We have just made a good start on the solution of the problem."

The surprise of the summer in Coleman County this year is the series of frame gardens for farmers in the county, who are working their own farms which they bought with FSA loans. "These farmers' capabilities are flourishing under the thin cloth coverings of the frames while outside gardens are being up and blowing away. As rapidly as the soil is cleared of its present crop, the garden can be replanted, the supervisor said. The 30-day period during which the Coleman County Farm Security Administration will receive applications from tenants who wish to borrow money to buy their own farms expires July 20, according to Leon C. ## Report on the Baptist Revival Just Closed

Revival Results

The recent Revival in the Baptist church had many and gracious results. Twenty-six were added to the membership of the church, most of these coming as candidates for baptism, having trusted in Christ. We most heartily welcome them and wish for them a happy fellowship with us in the church. No greater preaching has been heard in our community than was done by Rev. Hope Owen. All who heard him were benefited by his messages. And the music was a splendid feature, under the leadership of Rev. Carpenter, with Mrs. Carpenter as accompanist. All of these added that expressions of thanks be made to all who helped in the splendid offering that was given them at the close of the meeting, a total of more than $230 above expenses of the meeting having been given.

Our Thanks

For all the co-operation of our fellow-Christians in other churches, for the hospitality in the many homes entertaining the Evangelistic party, for the men who arranged the outdoor features and returned home the equipment, for the use of the seats from Rockwood and Liberty, we all feel like saying as we do say now a hearty "Thank you friends, one and all."

The Future

As we face the future, the Church here has much to look forward to. Foundations have been laid for great growth and deepening of knowledge and spirituality. The fact that the present pastor will take up a new field of labor as Missionary in District 3, with Big Spring as a center puts a responsibility upon all to be loyal to the church during the period preceding the calling of another pastor. The pulp committee consisting of the head of each department of church life assures that only a well rounded pastor will be considered. By well rounded, we mean one who is in favor of and informed on the work of Sunday School, Training Union, Woman's Missionary Union and its organizations, Brotherhood, choir work and church financing, in addition to being a preacher and pastor who believes in visiting, enlistment and all other types of successful church work. The committee will be looking for such a pastor, and the church will co-operate with them all the way through. We know this by the splendid co-operation we have found here during our four years together. At a later time our thanks and appreciation will be expressed more specifically. Meantime we will all work right on together as usual.

Our Sympathy

The loss of any loved one calls out our sympathy, but to those of us who like the writer have said "good-bye" for awhile to a Mother, it is a matter of deeper sympathy which is stirred.

Local Telegraph Op. Writes For Magazine

"The Old Home Town at 9:28" is the title of an article in the current Sante Fe Magazine by L. J. Smith, railroad telegrapher here.

His story, written for the magazine is as follows:
"The simple ceremony of a train coming into town at 9:28 is scarcely worth mentioning, yet a two-year-old youngster will cease all effort at pretending to be asleep and shout, 'Train! Train!' when the first blast of the whistle heralds its approach.

"The melancholy throb of the whistle in the fall or the spirited shriek in the spring make old men, sitting on their porches in the dark, forget to pull at their pipes as the train sweeps into the suburbs.

"They blink at the lighted windows twinkling in swift flight, and marvel at the lively staccato of the wheels. They come to the conclusion that the 9:28 is a link in the chain of rail transportation unexcelled, wrought by the skilled hands of thousands of men and workmen.

"Pioneers of the first coast-to-coast highways, having spanned mighty rivers, pushed thru deserts and huddled mountain ranges to make other towns, smoothed the way and established confidence and faith in the Tomorrow.

"Yesterday we floundered as a frontier town in a sea of isolation until the railroad, a life line, was tossed in our direction. "Yes, our town at 9:28 has a two-minute drama that lingers long in the hearts of the people!"
