DROUTH CROP LOSSES

A conservative estimate of losses due to the drouth on only two major crops would amount to more than $139 million thus far this year.

About 75 counties comprising the heart of Texas could be termed critical due to drouth conditions. This area would follow a line from Graysor County on the Red River, south to Washington County, southwest to Wilson, northwest to Midland-Odessa and a portion of the plains.

This 75 county area generally produces approximately two million bales of Texas' annual cotton crop. About 500,000 bales in this territory has been lost to the weather this year due to lack of growth or premature openings.

Figuring each bale worth about $230.00, this means a minimum loss of $125 million in cotton alone.

Approximately 17 million bushels of Texas' average 30 million-bushel grain sorghum crop is grown in this area. But the "critical" area has lost about half that crop, or about 8 million bushels.

Using $180 per bushel as the base figure, then the drouth has cost us about $14,400,000 in grain sorghum losses.

About three million head of cattle normally graze in this 75 county area. The grass and pastureland is 3/4 gone due to lack of moisture.

It is impossible to accurately estimate this loss resulting from pasture damage, premature marketing of cattle and depletion of foundation herds but the figure would be tremendous.

"Little rain and no water" is becoming a familiar story to Texas. Inadequate moisture is almost a "normal" condition. Farmers and ranchers in many parts of the state are badly in need of some type of relief.

A grain and hay program has been inaugurated thus far to help combat the serious conditions. The next few weeks will tell whether the program is a success or if it was a case of "too little too late."

CHICK CHATS—Worming Plan Pays Dividends

The worming of pullets at housing time is a profitable practice of many poultrymen. Pulletts have had the opportunity to pick up worms on the range. These parasites multiply and infect the entire flock in a short time.

Worms seriously hinder feed assimilation, growth and laying. Worms weaken the bird against attacks of other disease. Many poultry raisers are willing to accept worms as a chronic condition, but this is poor management since severe infections by certain species do a tremendous amount of harm.

TABLET WORMING
Individual worming with tablets can be done easily at housing time because the birds are already being handled. This type of wormer assures an accurate bosage and maximum efficiency. Individual treatments are available to remove large roundworms, cecal worms, tape worms an intestinal capillary worms.

Birds can be treated at the time the culls are being taken from the flock. Just insert a tablet back of the tongue of each bird and see that it goes down the gullet. With a little experience, worming of a good sized flock can be accomplished in a short time.

Flock treatment continues to be popular with poultrymen because of its convenience. Only a part of a day's time is required and wormers are available which will remove the various species. Such treatments are economical and convenient. Little mixing is required.

MONTHLY WORMING

Since the principal worms reproduce on a 28 or 30 day cycle, a monthly worming schedule is best, not only on the range but also in the laying house. This keeps the worm burden of the bird at a minimum.

Worm damage doesn't usually show up until after the pullets are in the laying house or, in the case of broilers, after birds have gone to the dressing plant. Then it may happen that a good flock which should reach 79 or 80 percent production will lay at 50 or 60 per cent. Layers carrying heavy worm infestations eventually break down.

Since you want only healthy, productive layers, it is sensible to provide them with the health helps they will need. A good worming at housing time is an essential part of placing a healthy, productive, pullet flock in production.

ONE VOTE IS POWERFUL INSTRUMENT

August 23, the second primary's Election Day, is the individual voter's day. And no one can tell him how to cast his ballot.

One single vote — yours or your neighbor's — can mean all the difference. That lone ballot may look pale against a million or so others. But you, or a handful like you, can swing an election either way.

It's happened before. Look at the record for that magic one vote.

A proposed amendment to the Texas Constitution providing state officials with a pay raise will be up before the state's citizens in November. It passed in the Legislature by one vote.

Three presidents — Thomas Jefferson, Rutherford B. Hays and the second Adams — were ected by one vote.

When Hays' election was contested, he won by one vote in special electoral commission balloting.

The man who cast the deciding vote for Hays had been elected to Congress from Indiana by one vote — and that one cast by a man who demanded to be taken from his sick bed to the polls. (Sick Texans can vote absentee.)

A second proposed amendment to the Constitution which voters will pass on in November passed by one vote in the Senate, one in the House.

World War II's draft legislation — with the fate of civilization swinging in the balance — passed the national House by one vote.

Five states — including Texas — gained their statehood by one vote.

Your one vote is the single most powerful instrument for democracy in Texas August 28.

Rare Old Cars To Be Big Feature At State Fair

Rare old cars, which can evoke the glory of olden days in a way that nothing else can, will be the stars of an unusual show at the 1954 State Fair of Texas, October 9-24.

The oldtime steam and gasoline buggies will be displayed in the fair's sixth Antique Automobile Show, one of the fair's most popular features. The collection of carefully restored veterans will be moved to a more spacious site in the Science Building this year so that the crowds can be accommodated better.

Antique auto fans search out the ancient beauties from old barns, garages, or wherever they might have been abandoned in the long-ago. Then they lovingly restore them to like-new condition which sometimes involves almost complete rebuilding.

Shivers Says Old Age Pension Facts Twisted
Austin, Texas — Governor Allan Shivers said this week that twisted facts and misrepresentations were hampering prospects for an increase in old age pensions. He said the facts were being clouded in such a way by his opponent that the voters did not have a clear understanding that they have the right to cast ballots in November on increasing pensions.

He pointed out that the people will vote in the November election on a constitutional amendment to raise the ceiling on old age assistance. "Many people do not realize that this question is not for a decision by Allan Shivers or Ralph Yarborough, but by the people themselves in the November election," the Governor said.

The Governor said misleading statements by Yarborough have confused the people to the point where it is crippling prospects of a fair vote on the amendment. Shivers said that his opponent, a former district judge, has "never lifted a finger to help increase old age pensions. Instead, he has worked diligently to increase pensions for retired judges. "If he were really interested in old age pensions, he would have done the same thing for the old people of Texas that he has done for the retired judges. He has appeared before the Legislature urging a $400 a month pension for judges. But he never has worked the six blocks from his office to the State Capitol where the Legislature meets to recommend even so much as one dollar more for the old folks.

"I do not believe he really wants to do anything about old age pensions or other problems of Texas people except to use them as a vehicle for meaningless campaign propaganda. Senator George Parkhouse of Dallas, who has just won another four-year term without opposition, supported Shivers on his old age assistance record. Parkhouse noted that Shivers wrote the first old age assistance law ever put on the statute books in Texas.

Growing by Giving

Lesson for August 22, 1954

A GREAT deal of "giving" is not giving at all. When two relatives give each other Christmas presents, it is more rightly called an exchange than giving. When the Red Cross or other community drives come along and the householder turns in his few dollars just so he will be counted, just to keep from being thought a tightwad, that is not giving, it is a form of tax. When some higher court (say a Presbytery or a Board or a Bishop lays upon a congregation an assessment, or in some church campaign for funds a certain amount is "alotted" to a congregation or an individual member, that still is not giving, but more like a tax. You can rightly call it "giving" only when it is freely done, out of sheer good-will, without desire of return.

Dr. Foreman

On the other hand, the stingy are stunted. They are stunted because their eyesight is poor, — the eyesight of their mind, that is. All they can see is themselves, maybe their families. But they cannot see the needs of other people at all; on the contrary they never see people as they are, but only as sources of income for themselves. They are stunted because they tend to shrink more and more into themselves. Stinginess if left alone will cover up a man's soul as with a thick layer of cobwebs till the soul can scarcely breathe. The stingy man ends by being stingy even with himself. He becomes a miser. Money comes to be the only thing in the world for him. He began by not feeling the needs of others, he ends by not feeling even his own. He will go without much that he needs because even spending money (to say nothing of giving) hurts him to the bone. He is stunted because he finally loses resemblance to a regular human being and becomes no more than a slightly animated piggy-bank. You can put money into him but you can't shake it out. You would hardly guess that this poor shriveled soul had once been made in the image of God.

Investing Personality

When a church invites you to give to one of the causes it supports, it is doing a great deal more, something quite different, than just asking you to shell out some cash. You are being invited to share and invest your personality, no less. There is a hymn which says, "If you cannot cross the ocean and the heathen lands explore, You may find the heathen nearer, you may find them at your door." Well, you cannot cross the ocean, perhaps. You may be much too old to learn Korean or Portuguese. But your money can cross for you. Your money, given to "missions," represents your own work, your own energy and earning-power, put into portable form. In that portable form it becomes part (for instance) of the salary of a young man and his wife, who are missionaries in Korea or some other country. They may be evangelistic missionaries, preaching sermons you could never preach. They may be medical missionaries, performing operations you could never do. Whatever they are, they are where they are, doing what they do, because of the gifts you and others have given through the church. Your personality, without those gifts, would be tied down to your little Main Street; your personality through those gifts goes out to the far corners of the world.

Adding to Yourself

In true giving, you not only invest your personality but your personality itself grows. Paul in writing to the Corinthian Christians whom he knew so well, gives them a high rating for their faith, for their ability to express their faith in words, for knowledge, enthusiasm and love for him. Now you would think that persons who had all those good qualities so that even an apostle, not too easily pleased, was delighted with them, would need no further improvement, they were good enough. But Paul thinks of one thing more. "Could you not add generosity to your virtues?" he asks. (Phillips translation.) The minute you read that you can see the point. A person without generosity is not so big a person as the same person with generosity added. Long after a man's body has ceased to grow, his soul can grow by his increase in the "grace of giving."

The Stingy Are Stunted

On the other hand, the stingy are stunted. They are stunted because their eyesight is poor, — the eyesight of their mind, that is. All they can see is themselves, maybe their families. But they cannot see the needs of other people at all; on the contrary they never see people as they are, but only as sources of income for themselves. They are stunted because they tend to shrink more and more into themselves. Stinginess if left alone will cover up a man's soul as with a thick layer of cobwebs till the soul can scarcely breathe. The stingy man ends by being stingy even with himself. He becomes a miser. Money comes to be the only thing in the world for him. He began by not feeling the needs of others, he ends by not feeling even his own. He will go without much that he needs because even spending money (to say nothing of giving) hurts him to the bone. He is stunted because he finally loses resemblance to a regular human being and becomes no more than a slightly animated piggy-bank. You can put money into him but you can't shake it out. You would hardly guess that this poor shriveled soul had once been made in the image of God.

OUR WASHINGTON Letter
By Congressman C. C. FISHER

What is the relationship between what a farmer gets for his products and what the housewife pays for that same product when she does her shopping?

That question is often asked. The House Agriculture Committee recently made a study and report which contains some interesting information on the subject. Here are a few points that are nailed down:

1. Since 1951 peak prices received by farmers have fallen 20 points, while there has been practically no decline from the 1952 peak prices for retail food.

2. In 1948 the price of wheat reached a peak of $2.81 a bushel and at that time the average price of a 1-pound loaf of bread was 13.8 cents. Today the farm price of wheat has dropped to $1.91 a bushel and the average price for that same loaf of bread has increased to 17 cents.

3. Farm prices for milk and butter in June 1954 were 10% below their 1947-49 average, while retail prices of dairy products were 3% higher than in the earlier period.

4. A $3.95 cotton shirt contains 30 cents' worth of cotton. That is what the farmer gets. Thus, cutting back the price of cotton, the committee finds, would mean very little in the price of a shirt.

5. A 5-cent peanut candy bar contains about one-half cent's worth of peanuts, and if the confectioners got their peanuts free this would not change the price on a 5-cent candy bar.

6. Retail food prices have not increased as much as the hourly earnings of industrial workers during the past 20 years. Since 1948, for example, hourly earnings of such workers continued to increase while retail food prices have leveled off and farm prices have declined 20%.

Industrial workers can now buy more food with the earnings of an hour of labor than in any prior period in history.

7. Out of each dollar spent for food in the U. S. 5 cents goes for imported foods. Out of each dollar spent by American housewives for domestically produced food, 56 cents now goes for processing, marketing, and transportation charges. The farmer gets 44 cents. Out of the 44 cents the farmer spends an average of 30 cents to purchase tractors, trucks, plows, gasoline, fertilizer, and other supplies required for modern farming, thus leaving the farmer only 14 cents out of each dollar a housewife spends for a dollar's worth of food she buys.

TITLE EXAMINATION IMPORTANT IN HOME PURCHASE

How does one know whether he is receiving a good title to property he plans to purchase? The safest method is to have a title examination made—that is a careful study of the abstract and other title evidence.

Here are a few of the common sources of trouble in real estate transactions to show why the minor expense of a title examination is justified.

Many persons sign "earnest money contracts" believing that they are merely receipts with no serious implications. In reality they may specify, among other things, the kind of title you must accept.

A "warranty deed" from a responsible seller is comforting to have but it is a poor substitute for a careful title examination. A warranty deed does not guarantee a marketable title.

Moreover, serious title defects may not come to light until long after the seller on a warranty deed is dead, has moved to an unknown address, or is bankrupt. Even if he is available a good title is much better than a law suit.

The fact that the seller has possession of an "abstract" does not mean that he owns the property. An abstract is only a history of a title. Possession of an abstract no more indicates ownership of land than possession of the history of Texas means that you own the state.

Some purchasers of land feel safe because the title is being examined at the time of purchase by an attorney for the mortgage lenders. This seems logical but is a dangerous theory. Mortgage lenders are sometimes willing to accept less than good record title as security. This is

CHRISTIAN LESSON-SERMON

The importance of relying wholeheartedly on God, divine Mind, for guidance will be stressed at Christian Science services Sunday.

The Lesson-Sermon entitled "Mind" will include the following passage from the King James Version of the Bible (Proverbs 3:5,6): "Trust in the Lord with all thine heart, and lean not unto thine own understanding. In all thy ways acknowledge him, and he shall direct thy paths."

The practical availability of spiritual guidance will also be stressed in the following passage from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy (254:10-12): "When we wait patiently on God and seek Truth righteously, He directs our path."

The Golden Text is from Daniel (2:20,21): "Blessed be the name of God for ever and ever: for wisdom and might are his... he giveth wisdom unto the wise, and knowledge to them that know understanding."

sound business for them because, among other reasons, the chances are that the mortgage will be paid off so that no expense in perfecting the title would ever need be incurred. It is risky business for you when you are putting your life savings into the purchase.

These are a few of the reasons why a title examination is an important safeguard to you. When it is completed, the attorney gives you a written opinion stating his conclusions as to who owns the land, the defects in or charges against such ownership, and the requirements to be met by any, to make good record title.

Off-hand this may seem a simple operation. In fact it is not. It requires the interpretation of numerous deeds, mortgages, wills, court decrees and other instruments; the consideration of the order in which transactions and events affecting the title occurred; and the application of statutes and court decisions to the various situations disclosed in the abstract.
