BILLY GRAHAM PREACHES

A week ago Sunday Rev. Billy Graham made history by preaching a sermon from the steps of the Capitol. It was a rainy, cold day, and it looked for a while like the meeting would be a wash out. But despite the bad weather, the crowd was estimated at from 20 to 40 thousand. I have seen two inaugurations of Presidents since I came to Congress, and cannot recall ever seeing a turnout that surpassed this one.

The dynamic Evangelist has been conducting a revival at the National Guard Armory here for more than a month. There the crowds have averaged from five to ten thousand each night. Calling for a return to Christ if our strength and moral fiber is to endure and meet the test of these critical times when "humanity stands at the crossroads", the speaker urged that a day of national prayer be designated similar to the one ordered by Abraham Lincoln while he was President.

VFW HONORS CAPT. CARLSEN
At its annual Congressional dinner last week, the Veterans of Foreign Wars, with delegates from every State, highlighted their meeting by honoring General Dean and by presenting Captain Kurt Carlsen, heroic skipper of the ill-fated Flying Enterprise, a medal, with a citation reminding of Carlsen's courageous action aboard the sinking Flying Enterprise, adding to the highest traditions of the sea and to our appraisal of real Americanism, truly admirable examples of outstanding fortitude and loyalty.

The medal was pinned on the Captain by President Truman in behalf of the Veterans.

The third annual Gen. Omar N. Bradley gold medal was presented, in absentia, to Maj. Gen. Wm. F. Dean, now a Communist prisoner. This is the highest award that is given by this great veterans organization.

Captain Carlsen, here on his first trip to Washington following his harrowing experience, was also honored on Capitol Hill. At one function his success story was praised by a speaker who pointed out that the Danish-born Captain became a success and a national hero by virtue of his own courage and efforts, his own devotion to a task, and all this without a press agent, a promoter or a phony build-up. "It wasn't done for political purposes", the admirer continued.

"He didn't have to know 'the right people' in order to win his achievement. He didn't get his friends to promote a campaign of make-believe. No, his success was gained thru merit, courage and actual accomplishment. That is the kind of success Americans believe in!"

SCRAP IRON TO MEXICO
Export control over scrap iron moving into Mexico will be tightened and the amount probably reduced a bit this year, according to information furnished me by Charles Sawyer, Secretary of Commerce, who controls exports. I have repeatedly urged that heavy exports of scrap from this country be curbed unless strong justification is shown, and that even then restrictions be imposed that would take into account our own steel shortage here at home.

Mr. Sawyer reports to me that export quota of 25,000 short tons of scrap and 2,500 tons of pig iron have been established for the first quarter of 1952. This is designed to permit closer coordination between export licensing and domestic supplies.

Scrap export to Mexico last year amounted to 104,000 tons. The year before it was 124,334 tons, and the year before that the figure was 122,218 tons.

The major portion of this scrap goes to an American-owned open hearth furnace plant located in Piedras Negras, fueled by Texas natural gas. Steel ingots are produced there to supply that Company's two rolling mills at Mexico City and nearby.

The American Smelting & Refining Company is the other scrap importer. It, too, is principally American owned, and in addition to the steel plant has many mining operations in Mexico.

There is no export of scrap or of steel products out of Mexico. All is consumed there to sustain Mexican economy and mining operations. In fact, 251,000 tons of finished steel was imported by Mexico last year to supplement their own production from scrap.

By way of comparison, the United States consumed 34 million long tons of scrap iron last year. Our total steel production amounted to about 110 million tons.

Pointing to our imports of lead, copper, zinc and iron ore from Mexico, Mr. Sawyer contends that because of their scarcity and strategic value at this time, the quantity we obtain is "in effect an exchange for the scrap exported by us to Mexico."

There is nothing like a little fishing to cure a case of laziness.

Annual Texas Safety
Conference in Dallas

A. W. Breeland, President of the Texas Safety Association, today announced that the 13th Annual Texas Safety Conference will be held on March 24 and 25 at the Baker Hotel in Dallas.

This annual meeting is the big event of the year for those groups and people active and interested in safety work. Besides the two days program, visitors will have the opportunity to see, and have demonstrated, the latest equipment being used to save lives and prevent accidents.

In announcing the place and time of the conference, Breeland also disclosed the fact that two new safety sections have been added — a commercial vehicle section and a woman's activities section. Breeland said, "We have high hopes for the success of these two new groups. Both have been created as a result of their interest. To our knowledge, this new section for women is the first to be created on a State level in the United States."

Well over 5,000 Texans were killed in all types of accidents last year. The Texas Safety Association, the official coordinating group for safety activities in Texas, urges all Texans who are concerned with this tremendous waste of human lives to attend this meeting to learn how individuals, as well as groups, might help to reduce this accident toll.

Chickenpox Cases Numerous In Winter

Chickenpox cases are most numerous in winter and spring says Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer. Ordinarily, people do not consider it a serious disease. But probably the most serious factor is that light cases of smallpox and the symptoms of chickenpox are similar. Only a physician can tell the difference.

At the first sign of skin eruptions you should put the patient in bed and call the family doctor. As in any other illness, chickenpox lowers body resistance to other disease germs. Thus, complications such as pneumonia, inflammation of the kidneys, erysipelas, and gangrene of the skin may occur, resulting in a serious illness.

Chickenpox is highly contagious. It usually develops two to three weeks after exposure. After one attack, the patient is immune to the disease. Although chickenpox occurs most frequently among children less than fifteen years of age, adults, too, can get the disease if they did not have it when they were children.

The chickenpox germ gains entrance to the body through the mouth and nose. Skin eruptions of a sick person contain the germ. The disease spreads rapidly through families and schools, as an infected person can spread his germs widely by careless coughing, using a common drinking cup, towel, or washcloth. For his own welfare and to protect others the patient should stay in bed and apart from susceptible members of the household until all danger of spreading the disease is passed.

Control of chickenpox is important because the disease is so highly infectious that it attacks large numbers of children. This interferes greatly with school attendance. The control of chickenpox and all other communicable diseases depends upon the cooperation of parents with their family physicians, and school and health authorities.

Gas Well Fire Near Trickham

A shallow gas well on the Roy Laughlin farm, on the Coleman-Brown County line, near Trickham, was the scene of a gas fire Saturday. The well, the Ranger Oil Co., of Abilene No. 1 Laughlin, wildcat, picked up gas at around 700 feet early Saturday morning. Later in the morning a spark ignited the gas and the hole cratered. A nearby house was destroyed. Effort of the Fire Department of Brownwood failed to extinguish the flame and a Halliburton truck was called to extinguish it.

The rig, a new one, was being used to drill its first hole. Damage was considered heavy to the rig, but drilling operations were scheduled to be resumed next week. Crewmen were unable to move the rig because of the intense heat. Dual tires were burned off the truck used to haul the rig on and part of the rig were red-hot at times.

Two members of the crew were slightly burned, but were not hospitalized.

Homes for Christ

Lesson for February 17, 1952

WHAT is a Christian home? It is no solemn place, for "solemn" is not another ord for "Christian." It is not an "American" home, because while Christians can be Americans, and vice versa, the two words do not mean the same thing, ending off the little ones to Sunday school every Sunday morning, or even piling the whole family into the car and going to church 52 times a year, will not quite do it. For church-going is only one part, and the easiest part, of being Christian. What about the best of the week?

Dr. Foreman

Does Jesus Get Beyond the Front Door?

THE home of Mary, Martha and Lazarus, where Jesus often visited, we can think of as in many ways a Christian home. Jesus was welcome there; he "dropped in any time, he felt at home.

New Christ is most at home (as any one is) where people are congenial, where the attitude to the things men live by—work, play, love, worship—is also sane as his attitude.

Also in the Bethany home they listened to Jesus. It is well to have a Bible in the house; but that alone will not make it Christian. Is it read? Do the children when growing up hear the words of Jesus from the Gospels? Do they hear his voice as often as they hear the voice of Mr. Cassidy or the Lone Ranger?

How the Home Can Serve

THERE are three ways in which the home of today can serve Christ. One is in connection with the church. Except in rarest cases, every Christian home should be an actual part of some Christian church. A church which has no cooperation from the homes in its community will be a dying church.

The liveliest churches, on the other hand, are those where families and church do the best team-work. To take only one example: Does your home work together with your church in the recruiting of ministers?

Ministers have to come from somewhere, and the best ministers don't all come from preachers' homes by any means. How about the boys in your home? If one of them felt an urge to be a minister or a missionary, would the rest of you laugh him out of it?

Another way for the home to serve Christ is in treatment of strangers. When strangers move into your community, or live there for a short time as school teachers sometimes do, is your home open to them? Is your house a "home away from home" for lonely people? When you have a party, do you invite always only those who can invite you back, or do you (as Jesus suggested) include people who will probably never be able to repay you? A home that prides itself as being "exclusive" has forgotten Jesus' words—"I was a stranger, and ye took me not in."

Serving the Children

A Christian home, moreover, will serve its own children in Christ's name. In it children will hear about Christ, not as a past figure in history but as a Living One. Parents will teach them Christian patterns of living.

This will not be merely something they hear about in Sunday school; it will be the pattern of life in which they are trained from day to day, beginning even before they can remember. This home, if it serves its children as it should, will show them how to help Christ. The children will know about the church ("His body," said Paul) and what it is doing in his name around the world. From their earliest years they will be helpers in this work. They will not grow up thinking of "missions" in some vague way, but they will know and be thrilled by the great story which that single word carries.

And the children in a Christian home will be helped by Jesus far more than they help him. Even at the beginning of childhood they will learn to say "Dear Jesus, help me," when the mean word of the angry set are just almost exploding. Even as children they will learn something of what in older years will mean much more, the "practice of His presence."

But no one can learn from the ignorant. And children will never learn these things at home without help. A home does not begin to be Christian with the children, but with the parents. Whatever good the children learn, father and mother must learn it first.

89 Counties In Disaster Area

The prolonged dry weather has resulted in the designation of 89 counties in Texas as disaster areas. No estimate is available of the actual losses sustained by farmers and ranchmen as a result of these production losses, but L. J. Cappelman, State Director of the Farmers Home Administration of Dallas said the situation faced by farmers throughout the state is one of the most serious since the drought of 1934-35. Drought conditions reported by Cappelman follow closely those outlined by Pasture and Land Cover Conditions Map issued by the office of Louis P. Merrill, director, Soil Conservation Service of Texas, under date of January 15, 1952.

The map depicted condition covering about two-thirds of the state extending from Bailey and El Paso counties on the west to Cherokee on the east and Star on the south. Over this area, conditions are described as severe. Only in one-fifth of the counties are adequate moisture and cover conditions reported. A survey recently by Cappelman's staff indicates credit conditions are tight, which prompted designation of the counties as disaster areas and Farmers Home Administration has made available funds for crop production purposes.

The record breaking drought cut crop yields drastically and because of low crop income many farmers have been unable to finance production of this year's crop. Disaster loans are available in each county designated as a disaster area. Farmers who have suffered production losses on crop and livestock may apply for funds to pay seed, fertilizer and materials for insect control where needed, gas and oil for tractors, feed for livestock, essential farm and home operating expenses, and repairs to machinery and other expenses incident to production of a crop.

Credit is advanced under the authority of Public Law 38 and is available to family-type farmers who have sustained losses, and who cannot obtain from local sources the funds requested to plant a crop this year. Farmers may apply for loans at the office of County Supervisor John H. Curry located in the Agriculture Building in Coleman.

Cappelman admitted some concern about the lateness of the season and the lack of moisture, and other favorable planting conditions. With the Department of Agriculture calling for full scale production in 1952, many areas of the state are going to be hard put to get acreage planted to the crops wanted in the production program. "Despite adverse growing conditions, I believe farmers will come through he said.

Improved farming practices that are emphasized in the FHA program will be discussed and agreed upon by the county supervisor and the applicant at the time the loan is prepared. In discussing farming practices Cappelman emphasized that a program of diversification is the safest course for farmers to follow. Case files in FHA county office disclose that farmers who have carried out a balanced farm program with livestock do not need emergency aid this year even though they did sustain losses because of drought conditions last year.

INSPECTION STATION HERE

We are going to have an auto inspection station in Santa Anna after all. L. A. Welch has made application for the inspection station and his garage has already been approved by the State Highway Department. He is expecting his approval papers to arrive within the next few days and then he will begin the inspection service. According to the way the law now stands, every vehicle on the road must be inspected before September 7, 1952 and then again before April 1, 1953, or the 1953 license plates cannot be issued. Even though there is a good chance that the law will be repealed or revised in the next session of the Texas Legislature, we would advise vehicle owners to have the first inspection made before the deadline. Local law enforcement officers do not have anything to do with making the laws, but they are responsible for seeing that they are enforced. And this they will have to do at the proper time. Welch stated that he would make a public announcement when he received his go-ahead papers. In the meantime, it might be a good idea to have your car gone over by your mechanic, to be sure that it will pass the inspection.

BROTHERHOOD WEEK

The week of February 17-24 has been set aside as Brotherhood Week. This week, since it was established in 1934, has always been important in the renewal of the nation's spirit. This year the observance will be focused on the need for sharing the civilian blood with our Armed Forces, with men who are fighting for the kind of world in which true brotherhood can grow.

Purposes of Brotherhood Week are: enlisting more people in year-round activities; to build brotherhood; re-dedicating ourselves to the ideals of respect for human rights; and demonstrating practical things people can do to promote their ideals.

Brotherhood Week, sponsored by the National Conference of Christian and Jews, was established in 1934 with some 300 communities participating. This year the observance will be in more than 6,000 towns and cities in the United States and many cities in Canada and Europe.

The need for blood to sustain life is universal and continuing. Last summer the military supply of dried blood plasma, so vital to the lives of our troops on the battlefield was virtually exhausted, creating a critical defense problem. To meet the demands of the Korean campaign and to build up a military reserve for all future contingencies, a vastly larger and steadier flow of civilian blood donations is essential.

TO SAN ANTONIO SHOW

Burgess Stewardson, local FFA boy and sponsor, A. D. Pettit, went to San Antonio Wednesday of this week, where Stewardson has two Hereford steers entered in the show. The steers will be weighed in Thursday, go before the sifting committee Friday and judging, will be Saturday. Pettit plans to return Sunday and Stewardson will remain in San Antonio until Friday, the day of the sale. The steers Stewardson has entered in the show were bred by the Winston Bros. of Snyder and are eleven months old. Stewardson took the grand and reserve champions of the local show and placed 2nd and 5th in the county show with these steers. This will be his first time to show in the San Antonio show. Previously he has shown in the Houston and Fort Worth stock shows.

Treating Cotton Planting Seed Good Insurance

The 1952 agricultural crop goals call for the highest production on record. They can best be met if every acre of cropland is put to its best use and weather conditions are favorable. Cotton producers have been asked to produce a 16 million bale crop in 1952 and Texas farmers will play a mighty important role in this undertaking.

According to Fred C. Elliott, cotton work specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, every 'trick of the trade' will have to be used if the goal is met. Good management, insect control and the full utilization of labor and machinery must be used in the production operations.

Good management begins early and stays late, says Elliott. A mighty important management practice, he adds, is treating the planting seed. The scarcity of labor just adds to the importance of getting a good stand of cotton on the first planting. Re-planting is an expensive job and can often be avoided by the simple process of treating the planting seed. Treating kills seed borne diseases, protects the seed and seedlings from diseases which may be in the soil and gives a better stand of cotton, he says.

The two worst cotton seedling killers in Texas are angular leaf spot and soreshin. In the Blacklands of Texas, angular leaf spot ranks next to root rot as the number one hazard in cotton production, says Elliott. It first shows up on the leaves of the young seedling and appears as a small, green, water-soaked spot that resembles a bruise. If damp weather sets in after the seedlings come up, the disease spreads over the entire plant and unless the planting seed was chemically treated before planting, many of the plants may be killed. The disease affects the fruiting habits of the cotton plant and carries through to the older plants where it appears as angular spots on the leaves and as bacterial rot in the bolls.

Soreshin shows up as a brown

GOOD NEWS for HOMEMAKERS

PENNIES FOR THE PIG BANK will come your way more easily when you feature dishes like Celery Chop Suet at festive family meals. Oh, what a pleasure to eat. And the price is so reasonable. No wonder chop suey is an international favorite. Browning chunks of pork and flavorful, cream of celery soup are the main ingredients in this recipe.

Celery Chop Suet

1 pound pork, cut in 1-inch cubes	1 4-ounce can (1/2 cup) mushroom (save juice)
1 tablespoon shortening	1/2 cup water
1 large onion, chopped	2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce
1 can (1 1/2 cups) condensed cream of celery soup	2 cups hot, cooked rice (1 cup uncooked)

Brown pork cubes in shortening in a heavy saucepan. Add onion and cook until soft. Blend in soup, mushrooms and juice, water, and Worcestershire sauce. Cover and simmer for 30 minutes; then remove lid and cook 15 minutes longer or until pork is tender. Serve over hot rice. Makes 6 servings.

SAY 'BE MY VALENTINE' in a colorful way at mealtime; serve tomato soup with heart-shaped croutons. For the croutons, use slightly dry bread, and a small heart-shaped cutter; or cut around a cardboard pattern. Lightly toast croutons in the oven. Place two or three hearts on each bowl of hot, rosy soup.

KITCHEN CLEANUP CUE: Good time to do some of your cooking for the day is after breakfast—before you do the morning dishes. Give up the meat last or whatever you're planning for meals later in the day. Then have one grand cleanup of all the dishes.

diseased area on the stem of the cotton seedling either above or below the ground line and it causes shriveling of the plant tissues which kills the plant.

At the Temple Agricultural Experiment Station, Elliott says cottonseed treated with either two or five percent cerise-gave from 25 to 30 percent better stands than did untreated seed. The plants showed less angular leaf spot and yielded more than 50 pounds of lint cotton per acre than did the plots planted with untreated seed. Seedlings from treated seed usually make much more rapid growth during the early growing season, added Elliott.

For cotton producers who are not familiar with the process of treating cotton planting seed, Elliott suggests that they visit their local county agricultural agent for information on the chemical to use and methods for doing the treating job. He points out that producers who have large quantities of seed to treat might find it economical to have the job done by a commercial operator.

Regardless of who does the job, he says, be sure that the seed are covered with the treating agent and that the right material is used. America and her allies need every bale of cotton that can be produced in 1952 and Elliott urges cotton farmers to use the best known production practices so that maximum yields can be obtained from every acre planted
