Our Apologies To City Grocery For Errors In Ad

We regret the problems we caused the City Grocery last week when we made errors in their advertisement. We priced their Eckrich Bologna for 99c per pound when it should have been $1.59. Also the Deckers Franks should have been a 12 ounce pkg. instead of one pound.

We know this was an embarrassment to Bobby and Brenda Hamontree and we want their patrons to know that we goofed on the pricing in the ad.

Eastland County

Tax hike looks doubtful

By MAYBELLE TROUT
Correspondent

EASTLAND — Eastland

County will spend more money next year, but taxpayers may not feel any more pain than usual.

County Judge Scott Bailey said during a commissioners court meeting Monday that the county has some reserves and if part of that money is added to that raised by the current tax rate there may be enough to pay for county government.

"I don't think there's any reason to raise taxes," Bailey said. Bailey said commissioners are allowed by law to levy taxes to bring in the same amount of money as the previous year.

Roger Stephenson, Republican candidate for county judge opposing Bailey in November, also addressed the court concerning taxes.

Stephenson said he realizes commissioners have a "thankless job." But he reminded the court that the county is made up of retirees who have limited income.

"From 1983 to 1993 taxes have doubled. I think it's time for tightening our belts," he said.

Several more workshops are scheduled before the budget and tax rate will be adopted.

During a public hearing Monday to consider the 1995 operating budget, "wish lists" from various departments were read.

A 3 percent cost of living increase is being considered for county employees. Sheriff Ronnie White is requesting a 10 percent salary increase, more transportation and funds to remodel offices in his department.

White's present budget of $498,987 would jump to $564,927 if his proposals are approved.

The justices of the peace for precincts 1 and 2 both want office help. Precinct 1 Justice Jack Graham has one clerk but asked for two. Precinct 2 Justice Alford Bush does not have office help and requested one clerk.

L.T. Owen, commissioner for precinct 3, will lose his justice of the peace and constable beginning Jan. 1. He reminded Bush and Graham that the move was supposed to save the county $60,000.

In other business commissioners:

Discussed a letter from the Texas Department of Criminal Justice concerning inmate allocation. Six inmates will be accepted in July from Eastland County, three in August and two in September, the letter stated.

However, currently only one Eastland County jail inmate is ready to be sent to prison. Of the 31 housed in the county jail, 23 are awaiting trial.

Accepted a bid from Jody Finley of Eastland to buy a county road grader for $3,800. No bid was received on a 1979 dump truck the county is selling.

Seminar Set On Economics Of EMU Raising

Ranchers, farmers and all interested persons can learn about the economics of raising emus -- the tall, flightless birds dubbed "the new American Livestock" -- at a free seminar in July.

Members of the Texas Emu Association (TEA) will speak, show videos and answer questions from 7 to 9 p.m. July 28th at the Agricultural Extension Meeting Hall, 231 South 5th Ave., Palo Pinto, Tx. For additional information contact Roy Echols (817-594-1833) or Bettye Richardson at (214-382-2290).

John Sharp, Texas Comptroller of Public Accounts, recently reported that emus, currently classified as exotic livestock, are "moving into Texas pastures as livestock investors broaden their horizons". In a comparison with commercially raised cattle, Sharp's department stated that a registered breeding pair produce about 25 offspring a year.

Their are approximately 75,000 farm-raised emus in the nation. The big birds, five to six feet tall, are capable of defending themselves against predators and running in short bursts up to 40 miles per hour. As omnivores, they can be free-range or provided ratite feed. Annual feed costs about $150 per bird.

"Texas has about 2,500 emu breeders or ranchers, half the membership of the American Emu Association," said Richardson, a TEA director and an owner of the 450-bird Richardson Emu Farm in Celina. "We are on track to double our membership again in the next year."

"Emu raising is helping a lot of farms and ranchers become viable again, particularly small acreage operations," Richardson emphasized.

The young industry is currently in a breeder phase. Based on current growth, a major harvest for products is an estimated three to five years away. "Consider the fact that a pair of breeding turkeys cost $2,000 in 1927, and look at the demand for products today," she noted.

Emu meat, which is about 98 percent fat free, is a red meat similar to beef in taste and texture. It is low in calories and cholesterol and contains the preferred polyunsaturated fatty acids. In February 1994, the Meat Science Dept. at Texas Tech University launched a one-year emu study to determine best harvest times, cuts, meat preparation methods and consumer tastes preferences.

Agreed to adjust taxes owed on an Eastland city lot in order to sell it and get it back on tax rolls.

Emus also provide a high quality, full-quilled leather used for clothing and boots; a penetrating, hypo-allergenic oil (5-6 liters per bird) used in cosmetics, lotions and healthcare products; the feather, toenails and egg shells used for jewelry and fashion items.

The birds are microchipped and sometimes DNA "fingerprinted" for genetic improvement and security. Farm management software and bird insurance are available.

For more info or personal interviews call Bettye Richardson, TEA Director 214-382-2290 or Roy Echols 817-594-1833.

KOKOMO NEWS

ZELDA JORDAN -- PHONE 639-2289

We've had good rains during the past week. I've heard reports from two to over three inches here in our community. Just what we needed. I thank the good Lord for sending the rain to us in the amount that we need, and that we didn't receive an over abundance like they have received in some places.

The Cisco Baptist Association Rally will be held at the Kokomo Baptist Church on Monday night, July 18th. An evening meal will be served prior to the rally.

J. W. and Glenna Davis had their granddaughter, Sarah of Burleson, visiting with them during the past week, and she was a visitor at the Kokomo Baptist Church with them on Sunday.

Ally Little was at church Sunday morning for the first time since her recent birth, with her parents, Alan and Shellie Little, and big brother, Justin, along with proud grandparents, Charles and Carolyn Little.

Bro. Joe O'Neal was admitted to the Eastland Hospital last Saturday evening and was released on Monday so that he might keep his appointment with his heart doctor in Abilene. He was able to return home late Monday evening. Ron Vaughan took Bro. Joe to Abilene. We are glad that Bro. Joe is at home again. Let's remember him with our prayers, cards, visits and telephone calls.

Those visiting with Bro. Joe were Rev. Clarence Wilson of Stephenville, Pete and Maxine Huddleston of Lake Leon, Doris Bradshaw of Gorman, Rev. Ron and Fay Vaughan, Lake Leon, Marcus Odell of Eastland, Rev. John Taylor, Bobby Taylor, Chio Taylor, Derrick and Kerri Taylor of Eastland, Jack and Bea Smith of Eastland, Allan Allcock of Carbon, Samantha Krause of Carbon, Carroll and Leta Hogan of Gorman, Rev. Ron and Connie Carroll of Gorman, Rev. L. C. and Mary Lou Landers of Gorman, Claude Fuller, Delmon Eaves, Nancy Hendricks, Ruth Bryant and Jimmy Little, all of Kokomo, Chet Henderson of Abilene, Rev. Weems Dykes, Rev. Jesse Price, Rev. Tom Goodman and Edith Wampner, all of Eastland, Pat and Patsy Collins of Ranger, Bill Sanders of Eastland, Paul Taylor of Eastland, Dane Gressett of Gorman, and Bill and Kathy Sandlin of Carbon.

Vernon and Deon Fields and Lindell spent the fourth of July with Richard and Teresa Nachtigall, Taylor and Trevis at Morgan Mill. Bobbie Nachtigall of Morgan Mill was also a visitor in the Richard Nachtigall home.

Nanetta Thompson of Plainview visited several days last week with her mother, Mrs. J. C. Clearman.

Lindsey Eaton of Ovalo has returned home following a two weeks visit with her grandparents, Claude and Juanita Fuller. Grandsons, Wesley and Kevin Fuller of Abilene are visiting with the Fullers until July 20th.

Donald Lee and Nita Joiner of Houston came for the Dukes reunion and a visit with his mother, Hope Joiner. After the reunion Lee Joiner came to spend Saturday night with his grandmother Joiner. Tim, Christ and Matthew Macon of Abilene came on Saturday afternoon for a short visit.

Kenneth and Linda Whitley and William of De Leon were supper guests of Zelda Jordan on Saturday. While here Kenneth and William mowed the yard, and it really looks very nice.

Zelda Jordan received a letter from her aunt Wilma Lewallen, who resides in a nursing home in Altus, OK and she said that she received the Gorman Progress and that she really looked forward to reading the Kokomo News and the Heritage Manor News for the news of the friends and neighbors that she had while she and her family lived at Kokomo in the 1940's. They were neighbors to Nancy Hendricks, who writes the Heritage Manor News, and her family. Our love to you, Aunt Wilma, and we wish you well.

WADE DANIELL SETS NEW TRACK RECORD AT SPEEDWAY

GLENDIA PRIEST IS BIRTHDAY HONOREE

Glenda Priest, who is always honoring all the family with birthday cakes, dinners and parties had the tables turned on her on Sunday when her husband, Bill Priest, her daughter and son-in-law, Sheri and Wade Daniell, and her mother, Zelda Jordan, surprised her with her own birthday party at her home. Wile Bill took Goenda to the mall for a bit of shopping, Sheri, Wade and Zelda went over to the house and set everything up. Glenda didn't even know that Zelda was in town, so she was quite surprised when she returned home.

The serving table was covered with a dark blue cloth and centered with the beautiful birthday cake in the form of a flower basket that was inscribed "Happy Birthday Glenda". The cake was baked by Joyce Eaves. The napkins, plates and cups were blue and red. Various colored balloons completed the decorations.

After Glenda opened her gifts, all went out to the El Chico Restaurant for dinner and then returned home for birthday cake and ice cream, cold drinks or coffee.

Then it was time for Sheri, who shares her mother's July 12th birthday and Wade, whose birthday is July 29th to open their gifts. Sheri was also presented a beautiful birthday cake baked and decorated in the form of a book with the inscription "Happy Birthday Sheri" and "Reader Book II" to commemorate the fact that Sheri will be a teacher and did her student teaching in 5th grade reading. Her cake was also baked by Joyce Eaves of Kokomo.

A phone call from Joe Miles, stationed with the U. S. Navy on the new submarine USS Rhode Island, which was commissioned in Newport R.I. on Saturday, July 9th, added to the enjoyment of the day.

Sheri was honored with a birthday dinner at the Red Lobster on Monday evening by Wade, Bill and Glenda. Grandma Zelda had to return home on Monday morning, so she could not be present for that celebration.

Schools or Social Service Centers

"Surgeon General Jocelyn Elders' goal for a school-based clinic on every campus and a condom in every girl's purse may become a reality in Texas in spite of opposition from parents and educators," said Satet Board of Education (SBOE) candidate Richard Watson.

Although neither the SBOE nor the Texas Legislature has authorized school-based clinics, the Texas Education Agency (TEA) is forging ahead with plan to implement them with the help of federal tax dollars. Through this action, the TEA is clearly leading Texas schools away from the fundamental purpose of education and toward the role of becoming social service providers.

"Our goal should be to use our schools to provide quality education and not allow them to become one-stop shopping centers for health and human services," stated Watson.
