

BUILDING DEPOT DEMANDED

If Railway Act, Will Appeal to Commission

The Texas & Pacific passenger station will be rebuilt of the Chamber of Commerce will appeal to the railroad commission of Texas to have it condemned. This action was decided upon last night at a meeting of the board of directors of the Chamber and a committee composed of John H. Gholson, M. H. Smith and E. J. Barnes was appointed to confer with railroad officials on the matter.

The directors allowed the sidewalks committee of the chamber $100 as a nucleus for a fund to be used toward cleaning the mud from the paved streets of the city. It is expected that the committee will use city prisoners for this purpose.

The instructions issued to the committee on the station project were to confer with the officials of the road and place the condition of the road before them and if they did not act the committee was to appeal to the railroad commission asking that the local building be condemned.

Prisoners to Clean Streets
Police Commissioner A. Davenport who is also a director of the Chamber of Commerce promised the sidewalks committee that if they cared to use city prisoners for the work of cleaning the mud from the streets he would let it have D. P. Singleton, who is now desk sergeant at the police station, as a guard. Mr. Singleton, he said is an experienced man in that line and knew how to get work from prisoners.

This committee also took up the matter of sidewalks between the two depots. Today it will interview the owners of the property along this section and make an effort to get them to begin the construction of walks at once. According to law the property owners are bound to build walks along the line of paved streets.

"Ranger Is Permanent Oil Center"

—L. C. Biting of Tulsa.

So long as oil operations continue in the North Central field Ranger will be the supply center for the whole territory.

This is the belief of L. C. Biting, an oil man of Tulsa, Okla., who is visiting Ranger and looking over this territory.

"Not only will Ranger be the source of mechanical supplies for the field, but its permanency as a place to buy clothing, camp commissary supplies and as a center of amusement also is assured," Biting declared.

Biting has traveled over virtually the entire field during the past three weeks. From observations made by him during his trip he believes that fully 95 per cent of automobile tires and other accessories used on motor cars and trucks in the field are purchased in Ranger. This alone, he said, will continue to mean a huge revenue for Ranger and Ranger merchants.

"When the new hotel is completed," Biting continued, "Ranger will become even more definitely the place for oil field workers to come and spend week-ends and off days. Ranger is the only place this side of Fort Worth where metropolitan restaurants, modern hotels, first class theaters and other similar forms of entertainment and recreation can be found."

AMERICAN ENGINEERS DIRECT RECONSTRUCTION ON DEVASTATED FRANCE

PARIS, Sept. 2.—The Harvard reconstruction group, made up of some forty young student architects and engineers of the advanced grades at Harvard university, have left for their posts in the Argonne and Meuse regions to carry on their work of reconstruction in the devastated areas.

M. Ogier, minister of the liberated regions, received the group on its recent arrival here, and assured them of the fullest facilities of the French government in carrying on their work. Five members of the mission were assigned to Rheims. Two of them are to work under the direction of M. Deneu, architect of the cathedral, in designing plans for the restoration of the famous basilica. Others are taking part in the gradual restoration of the old city back to its pre-war aspect.

At Suippe four of the Harvard group are under the direction of M. Lavigne, government architect, in the construction of standardized provisional houses of four and five rooms. At Somme Py four others are drawing plans for the court house and school. Others are engaged in planning a modern system of gas, water and electricity for Somme-Py.

At Clermont-en-Argonne a group of twelve of the Harvard men are engaged in the work of reconstruction, which is carried on here at a vast extent, as this was the center of greatest destruction during the recoil of the Germans after their defeat on the Marne.

GERMANY IS 'NEUTRAL,' DR. SIMONS SAYS

Declines Both Bolshevik and Allied Proposals to Join in Fight.

BERLIN, Sept. 2.—Dr. Walter Simons, the foreign minister, in addressing the reichstag foreign affairs committee, declared he had been urged to collaborate with the Russian Bolsheviks in an attack on the western powers. The Bolsheviks urged that Germany should take this means of breaking the bonds imposed upon her by the Versailles treaty, the minister said. After mature reflection, he told the committee Germany had rejected this course.

Dr. Simons said that proposals also had been made to Germany to co-operate with the western powers in crushing the Bolsheviks, which he considered an equally impossible course.

No power at war with Russia need count on German support, he said.

"The law sets the $100 limit," the judge explained, "and we cannot go above that."

The ruling means that the first charge of drunkenness against an individual will cost $15.70. The second fine will be $20.70, and this increase will be continued until the limit is reached.

BETTER PROTECTION GIVEN FOREIGNERS. SAYS MEXICAN PRESIDENT

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 2.—Cultivation of friendly relations with all foreign countries and creation of confidence in Mexico was the policy Provisional President de la Huerta presented to Congress in his message today. He gave as an example the relations between Mexico and the United States in mutual extradition proceedings carried on by the two countries and compliance by the United States with the Mexican government's request that airplane flights over Mexican territory be forbidden.

The message said that despite the difficulties the government's efforts to protect the lives and interests of foreigners had produced results, and the government will continue putting forth every effort to give foreigners full guarantees.

Discussing the case of W. O. Jenkins, former United States consular agent at Huebla, he said the case is now before the courts at Puebla and the verdict may be expected soon.

JAIL BREAKER IS CAPTURED AT FT. WORTH

"Trusty" in Eastland Jail
Held Rioters at

None of the other fugitives has been apprehended.

Thirteen prisoners were lodged in the jail at the time of the delivery. One prisoner engaged the jailer in conversation by complaining of mosquitoes just as they were being locked in their cells for the night. He asked for an anti-mosquito spray. A trusty, L. C. Gordon, under sentence for killing Roe Pollard in this city, was sent for the insecticide.

It was then that the jailer was attacked by the thirteen men. He grappled with one of them. When Gordon returned to the cell room the disinfectant was thrown in his eyes by one of the rioters. Though nearly blinded he entered the fight, caught up a number of bricks and forced the men who had not already escaped to remain in their cells. Had it not been for Gordon the jail would have been emptied of its prisoners.

40 BOLLS ON COTTON STALK.

STAMFORD, Tex., Sept. 2.—Quite a stir was created on the streets here yesterday by the exhibition of a stalk of cotton which bore forty well developed bolls, a large number of blooms and squares. Rumors that the boll worm was making short shrift of some cotton in this section were proved erroneous upon close investigation by local business interests. Some worms had been working due to the weather, but all fear from this source has been dissipated by the lateness of season and the very cool nights. Many fields in this section are expected to produce a bale to the acre. Cotton is very rank, but fruiting well under the balmy sunshine.

FRACTURED SKULL MAY BE MURDER

Mysterious Circumstances
Surround Fatal Injury;
Stories Conflict.

With a fracture at the base of the skull and a serious wound over the temple, a man signing himself J. Tucker, is in the Ranger hospital and Dr. Lauderdale, the attending physician, holds out no hopes of his recovery.

Tucker came to the K. J. Rooms on North Pecan street yesterday at 12 noon in a bloody condition with the wounds on his head. He took a room and a little later lost consciousness and still is in that condition. He told the people at the rooming house that he had fallen from a painters' scaffold and also that he had been beaten over the head by his partner.

No one has come forward who knows the man or how he came to be in his present condition. His conflicting statements are the only light which has been given.

At 6 o'clock the Milford Undertaking company's ambulance was called and he was removed to the hospital, where an operation was performed.

Letter May Be Clew.
After losing consciousness a letter was found in his pocket written to a woman at the Travis rooms asking that they lend him $2 that he might have a doctor attend to his injuries. The name of the person to whom the letter was addressed was torn away. The letter is written on the back of an old envelope and reads:

"Madam—I am taking the liberty of asking a favor. A painters' scaffold fell and split my head open this morning. I need treatment at once and haven't a cent and know"—(several lines of the letter was torn away at this point by the person who removed the name of the person to whom the letter was addressed. It continues: "If you will let me have $2 for a doctor will repay as soon as able to get back pay, or have it sent. Am in serious fix and need doctor. I am boy roomed there two nights and expected a telegram.

"J. TUCKER."

Dr. Lauderdale stated this morning that he was of the opinion that the man was going to die from the fracture at the base of the skull. From a wound of this nature, he said, patients hardly ever recovered.

It was his opinion that the injuries have been caused either by the man falling or by a sharp-edged club such as a heavy piece of iron in the hands of an assailant.

D'ANNUNZIO PEEVED; WILL LEAVE FIUME

"NO MERCY TO POLICEMEN." ANSWER TO MGSWENEY APPEALS

LONDON, Sept. 2.—Appeals in behalf of Terence MacSwiney, lord mayor of Cork, in a critical condition in Brixton prison as a result of his hunger strike, will not be recognized by the British government, according to Sir Hamar Greenwood, chief secretary for Ireland in an interview today. Sir Hamar indicated that the government would unswervingly adhere to its Irish policy. The chief secretary said none of the mercy which some seek for the lord mayor was shown to policemen who lost their lives in Ireland.

The government is willing to grant Ireland any form of government to a respectable majority of its people, so as the rights of the empire are employed to prevent secession, he said. He added if the Sinn Fein had been accepted anything less than complete independence, Lloyd George's policy would meet the Irish leaders would have remained unanswered.

Abilene Takes Lead From Resorters; 11th Inning Win

ABILENE, Sept. 1.—Such a battle as the Abilene Eagles and the Mineral Wells Resorters staged on the local lot this afternoon has but a few times, if any, been recorded in the West Texas league this season. It was an eleven-inning affair and both teams were fighting their hardest for supremacy. The Eagles were successful in putting over the winning count in the last half of the eleventh, when White connected for a clean single between first and second, stole second and when Skipper Kizziar came up and laced one into center field, came home for the count that won the match.

National Golf Tourney Draws Many Entries

NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—International interest will be centered on this year's national amateur golf championship tournament which will begin next Monday (Sept. 6) at Roslyn, Long Island. The United States Golf association officials have arranged that the qualifying round of thirty-six holes will be played over two courses, the new links of the Engineers' Club and the better known circuit of the North Shore Country Club which are scarcely a mile apart. The big field of events will be divided so that those playing the first half of the round on either course will play over the other links in the afternoon. The subsequent match play rounds consisting of thirty-six holes each day, will be tested over the Engineers' Club course which was laid out by Herbert Strong only three years ago.

Miske Confident He's More Than Dempsey's Equal

BENTON HARBOR, Mich., Sept. 2.—When Billy Miske of St. Paul, challenger for the world's heavyweight championship, crawls into the ring here Labor day afternoon to face the terrific punches that brought the championship to Jack Dempsey, he will literally be a "new man."

Miske, in his match with Dempsey, is attempting one of the most remarkable "come-backs" in the history of glove fighting. Unlike most of the fighters who have been considered out, only to try again, Miske is not coming back from previous defeats. He is grooming himself for his first real fight in eighteen months—a "come-back" from physical disability.

The St. Paul heavyweight has gone through changes in his physique in order to return to the ring, hence the title of "new man," so frequently applied to other athletes who have been shuffled into the pugilistic discard and then brought forth for another attempt. Miske claims to be a much more formidable antagonist for Dempsey than he was when he fought the glove cyclone twice two years ago and was suffering from spinal trouble and a kidney ailment that dragged him down physically. Miske should not have been fighting at all and the wonder of it is that he did not get knocked out or badly whipped at least. But he did not, and his opponents numbered among the toughest in the heavyweight ranks.

After a careful treatment and prescribed rest, Miske returned to the ring two months ago, scoring a quick knockout over Jack Moran, a St. Louis heavyweight. Now, according to Miske and his manager, Jack Reidy, he is a far better fighter than in either of his first Dempsey fights. Miske was only a lightweight when he fought Dempsey then, besides being a sick man. Now he is a real heavyweight, boasting of 19 pounds of bone and muscle and claims that he will be six times as tough as when Dempsey last saw him.

Miske talks confidently of the coming contest. He does not claim that he is a superman, but contends that if he pulled through the fire with the best heavyweights in the business while he was sick he ought to be much better when blessed with splendid condition.

CHICAGO FANS WOULD LIKE TO SEE FRANK CHANCE AS CUBS' MANAGER

Frank Chance.

BY NORMAN E. BROWN. We have with us again the report that Frank Chance is to head a small group of men who will purchase the Chicago Cubs and will manage the team. Big league baseball fans, especially the Chicago bugs, would be glad to see the peerless leader back in the game and are hoping that the report will amount to something in the near future.

Chance is a Pacific Coast league magnate now, but has often expressed a wish to get back into the big show as a mogul and manager. It's a cinch that the Cubs need a change in ownership—and perhaps in management. Charley Weegman, millionaire restaurant owner, who was one of the big birds in the Federal league, came into possession of the Cubs after the outlaw league was disbanded. He failed to make the success of the club as expected his millions would buy, so wished the outfit onto Wrigley, the chewing gum king. Wrigley paid $50,000 for Grover Alexander and Bill Killifer of the Phillies and purchased Turner Barber and other stars, but outside of a brief spell in 1918 the team failed to net the returns anticipated. Fans passed up the Cubs, stars and all, and stuck with the White Sox.

The Cubs' case shows that it takes more than an unlimited check book and business ability to build up a baseball team that will get the support of the fans. Both Wrigley and Weegman had the funds and the business ability. They went the limit every way they knew to make the club a popular one and a winner. But they lacked something. They were short the ability to establish, by their handling of the club's affairs, the appointment of the manager and the general conduct by him and members of the team, to win the loyalty of the fans that a few poor exhibitions of baseball would not kill.

BALDRIDGE'S PITCHING DRIVES NITROS DOWN

SWEETWATER, Sept. 2.—Four hits, widely scattered, were all the Nitros could make off Baldridge's delivery Wednesday and Sweetwater downed the visitors, 5 to 1. Adkins was hit hard in the early innings, but pitched tight ball in the latter part of the game.

Baldridge's teammates contributed materially to his pitching feat by cutting off Nitro drives which ordinarily would have gone for safeties. Harroll robbed Clapp of an extra base knock in the eighth with a shoestring catch.

The game was fast and cleanly played, requiring only one hour and eight minutes.

JOHN-A-DREAMS

CXXXI.—Dreams of Poverty (1). Before this, I have told you of dreaming that you are a beggar. This means doing good deed. Today, I shall tell you of dreams of poverty.

Let us assume that you are dreaming of being poverty-stricken. You have a distinct knowledge of being out of funds—all the despair assails you that only the poor can feel.

It is quite different, however, when you feel poor and are in the company of some one else in the same predicament. This indicates that whatever you have you will have to share with another.

Worse yet, if you tell anybody that you are poor, you will actually be deprived of so much of your income that by comparison with former days, you will be really poor.

Married women who dream this must prepare themselves for adversity in their husbands' affairs.

To dream that you have suddenly become poor, with a memory of former riches still in your mind means that, just in time to prevent harm, you will discover a false friend.

If we from wealth to poverty descend, want gives to know the flatterer from the friend.

A really good sign is a dream, (it is among the rarest I know of) in which the sleeper is cognizant of being very poor and yet happy. Let the poet give us the interpretation: Want is a bitter and hateful good, because its virtues are not understood.

Yet many things, impossible to think, have been by need to full perfection brought.

Such a dream is an unfeigned sign of success, of reward for your labors, of accomplishments of which you and yours will be proud.

In the next chapter I will tell you more of Dreams of Poverty.

LITTLE BENNY'S NOTE BOOK

Yestidday our cook Nora went to her sick ants funeral, so ma made the supper, being stake under onions and mash potatoes and something funny looking in a dish, which ma started to not some on peps plate and pop sed, don't give me any of that, what is that?

Its scallopped eggplant, I just saw the recipe for it in the paper yestidday and Im sure its perfectly delicious, sed ma.

I dont want any, I dont like it, sed pop, and ma sed, Now Willyum, I think youre awfull, how can you tell weather you like it or not? and pop sed, I have a instinct about such things, and my instinct tells me I dont like it.

Well Im jest going to give you a little bit to try, you obstinate thing, sed ma. And she put some on peps plate and pop tasted it as if he was doing it out of a sense of dooty and then he tasted it again as if he was doing it out of a sense of pleasure, ma saying, Wy Willyum, dont tell me that I see an expression of enjoyment on your face.

Ive tasted worse stuff, sed pop. Being sissiped to be a compliment, and pop ate the rest of it and passed ds plate to ma. A little more of that walloped eggplant, please.

Did you like it? sed ma. It wasent so bad, sed pop, and ma sed, Willyum Potts, Im not going to give you a bit more until you admit you liked it and pop sed, O well, I didnt object to it in the slightest.

Heers your plate, sed ma, handing pop back his plate without any more scallopped eggplant on it, pop saying, Hay, wares the walloped eggplant?

Did you like it? sed ma, and pop sed, O certeny I liked it, good nite, and ma sed, Did you like it, very, very mutch? and pop sed, Yes, yes, if I liked it eny more Id faint with delite.

All rite, heers some more, sed ma. And she put a hole pile on peps plate and pop ate it all with injoyable expressions and then looked at the dish agen without asking for eny more, properly on account of the dish being empty.

TOYAH VALLEY FARMERS FORM MARKETING COMPANY SARATOGA, Sept. 2.—Toyah valley growers of alfalfa and cotton have organized the Toyah Valley Marketing & Warehouse company and will shortly establish a large warehouse at Pecos, according to information given out today by John Wendt, one of the directors of the new organization.

Products will be grouped and stored in the warehouse until such times as the markets are propitious. The middlemen will be eliminated insofar as possible. All cotton placed in the warehouse will be classed by a bonded cotton classifier, thus insuring the farmer getting the full value of his crop.

The Toyah valley country is famous the world over for its superior grades of alfalfa and the cotton growing industry is moving in leaps and bounds. The West Texas Chamber of Commerce is co-operating with the warehouse interests.

EFFICIENT HOUSEKEEPING

Nourishing Low-Cost Luncheons "Salads for lunch are all right," writes a reader-friend, "but please make suggestions for low-priced dishes which I can serve my growing boy and which will give him some nourishment. He plays baseball all day and a salad doesn't go very far with him. I can't afford to let him eat up the cold roast at noon, as he likes to do whenever we have one in the ice box, for I serve that again for dinner. And eggs are so expensive. Can you help me solve my problem of finding some dishes which are not high-priced and yet which will nourish him?"

The following luncheon menus will, I believe, help to solve this reader-mother's problem—a problem which is shared by all women with growing children and not too bulging pocket-books:

Table with 3 columns: Milk, Berries, Cookies. Rows include: Milk, Berries, Cookies; Grapefruit Pudding, Milk, Stewed Plums, Farina Pudding, Milk, Peas, Junket, Cocoa, Sliced Bananas, Cookies.

Milk is the cheapest food, and the wise housekeeper gladly buys an extra quart a day to use in nourishing cereal puddings such as Grapefruit Pudding, Farina Pudding, or in an eggless Rice Pudding, or one-egg Tapioca. The other-cereal mentioned above, might use on successive days the suggestions embodied in these four menus which I have given, and for the remaining two days of the week serve a tapioca or a rice pudding. Such menus as these will give the growing child ample nourishment at the lowest possible cost.

Recipes for the cereal puddings are always printed on the various cereal boxes, with the exception of farina pudding. I will therefore give this recipe:

Farina Pudding.—5 tablespoons farina, 3 tablespoons sugar, 1 egg, 2 cups milk and the grated rind of 1-2 lemon. Put the milk and grated rind into the upper part of a double boiler and when it reaches the boiling point stir in the farina and cook five minutes. Then turn out the egg-yolk beaten light and stir together. Let the mixture cook but not set, then fold in the stiffly-beaten egg-white, to which a pinch of salt has been added. Place in a baking dish and place the dish in a pan half filled with hot water. Bake for 25 minutes in a moderate oven and serve. (Two eggs will of course make this pudding more delicious, but for use as a luncheon main dish, one egg is sufficient.)

Tomorrow—The Housekeeper's moment Alone. All inquiries addressed to Miss Kirkman in care of "Efficient Housekeeping" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question.—The Editor.

Confidential Clerk Finds End of the Rainbow; Searles Will Put Him in Possession of Fifty Millions

Written for the International News Service
by MARGERY REX
NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—Humanity's favorite day dream is the possession of great riches, the spending of it, the ease and luxury it would bring.

What, then, must the feeling be of that person, hitherto in ordinary circumstances, who wakes some fine morning to find his hands full of gold?

What must his reaction be to his new station?
If he be of extravagant nature, of an insolence not so apparent in his less prosperous days, his new wealth is flung out in the world's wondering face, his excesses fill many a page of print, weird tales begin to be whispered about, all very much to the amused delight of the new favorite of fortune.

But if he be sensible, serious-minded, not desirous of making a sensation of every act of his life, his way is harder. He must guard himself from beggars, cranks, curiosity seekers, matchmakers, venturers and adventurists, and people who want to sell him things.

The public won't want him to live ostentatiously.

We all enjoy the vicarious expenditure of wealth. We will want to know what sort of breakfast he eats, what kind of bed he sleeps in, whether he rises early or late, how much his shoes cost, whether he has valet service or not, what sort of people are his friends and whether or not he is liberal or stingy.

All of which is apropos of one of the most startling instances of sudden transformation from poverty to vast wealth recorded in modern times. The case in point is that of a quiet retiring wage earner, Arthur T. Walker, who by the will of the late Edward F. Searles, becomes the possessor of a fortune estimated at $50,000,000.

Mr. Walker had for a long time been the confidential clerk of his benefactor. He has lived—and says he will continue to live—in two rooms on the third floor of No. 25 Pierpont street, Brooklyn, whence he may gaze over New York Harbor and see the great towers of finance in the lower part of the city.

But will it be possible for Mr. Walker to remain in seclusion for long? The possession of $50,000,000 makes him a financial figure of national interest. Society and its affairs will claim him; he will be deferred to on important questions; his good graces will be sought; also his signature on checks.

The reaction of men to sudden wealth and position has been a favorite theme of fiction and filled pages of history.

In striking contrast to the quiet disposition shown by Mr. Walker is the character of Edmond Dantes, Dumas' hero in the "Count of Monte Carlo," who cries, upon finding hidden treasure: "The world is mine."

Dantes, who thought rivals in love and business, had been thrown into prison, learned there, through another prisoner, of hidden gold. Making his escape he found the buried fortune and went to Paris as a mysterious "Count." He spent his fortune aiding his friends and punishing enemies.

The "Count's" reaction were those to be expected of a warm-hearted adventurer who had been seriously wronged.

Contrast with Mr. Walker's quietness the "Count's" dramatic gestures in that scene in which we always think of Monte Cristo standing on a rock, waves dashing about him, arms thrown taut to the sky declaring that he stood atop of the world and that it belonged to him. Wealth gave this poor sailor an overpowering sense of power and triumph over the universe that wronged him.

In fiction, too, there are instances of persons being suddenly told they are rich or powerful, usually the hoax being instigated by someone in search of merriment or interested to see how the victim would react.

Such a case is that of Sly, the tinker, in "The Taming of the Shrew." Upon being found the worse for liquor by a Lord, he is taken to said Lord's manor, or castle, or apartment, or wherever the nobleman lived in, and is told that he is "Sir Christopher Sly" and that all await his pleasure. A company of strolling players passing by is told to stay and give a comedy, upon which command the story of Katherine the Shrew is presented.

Sly, surprised at first and incredulous, when awakened from his stupor, quickly reconciles himself to his new estate and becomes quite lordly—at least, in accordance with his own ideas of what a lord should be.

But Mr. Walker is not surprised or elated, insofar as any comment of his own would indicate. Unlike Sly, he is not befuddled, and not given to strong drink. Judging from Mr. Walker's appearance—for there is no vocal basis for judgment—it is extremely unlikely that he ever touched anything more potent than coffee.

And if there is a contest of the Searles will Mr. Walker's present silence precludes the possibility of his cutting a ridiculous figure even in the event he should lose some of the millions.

In a recent humorous work, the pen product of a nine-year-old girl, one of the characters, Mr. Salteena, visiting a luxurious country home, "rolled over in the costly bed" upon being called in the morning.

And as the society editors say, if I am not mistaken, Mr. Salteena took quickly to the "high life" into which he was suddenly introduced, even distinguishing himself at a reception to the Prince of Wales. But the poor man lost out to Bernard Clark, who won the hand of the flighty heroine, Ethel. Mr. Salteena had been rather out of place, after all.

How many of us, I wonder, would wealth cause to roll over in a costly bed, how many would spend as the proverbial drunken sailor is supposed to? Would we be arrogant to old friends, or would they desert us in our new-found luxury? Would the dollars drive us suddenly to mad extravagances, or would we readjust ourselves gradually and graciously to the responsibilities and ease of great capital?

MRS. LUCY DOUCETTE, of Manchester, N. H., who says she's just so happy over the way Tanlac restored her health she can't keep from telling people about it.

"I am just so happy over the way Tanlac has restored my health that I can't keep from telling people about it," said Mrs. Lucy Doucette, of 76 Stark street, Manchester, New Hampshire, a few days ago. "I suffered so long with chronic indigestion that I didn't know what it was to sit down and enjoy a single meal. My stomach was so badly disordered I had to live on the strictest diet, and nothing seemed to agree with me. At times my breath seemed to be cut off, and I would suffer terribly for hours at a time."

"I lost my strength completely and became so weak and run-down I would give out several times during the day and would have to stop and rest. I was extremely nervous and irritable, and just felt like I would break down completely."

"One day I saw a statement from a friend of mine who said Tanlac had helped her wonderfully, so I was convinced it was a dependable medicine and I began taking it immediately, and I am more than pleased at the splendid results. My appetite improved right from the first and the horrible indigestion from which I suffered so long has entirely disappeared."

"I have now finished by fourth bottle, and can eat just anything I wish without any bad after-effects. I also sleep better and have more strength and energy. It is a pleasure to tell others what Tanlac has done in my case."

Tanlac is sold in Ranger by Phillips Bros., and in Eastland by Butler Drug Co.—Adv.

But Mr. Walker, it must be remembered, is a man of about forty, who for a long time has shouldered the responsibilities of his late benefactor, so reliably indeed that he pleased Mr. Searles by not referring annoying details of business to him, but quietly and efficiently settled such matters himself. Mr. Walker is said to be generous in disposition, and considerate of others. For instance, although not a smoker, he is a man who often gives cigars away to those about him who do like to smoke.

This will, however, of the late Edward F. Searles will be contested bitterly, it is expected, and while Mr. Walker may not get all of his fifty millions, surely he will secure a large portion of this sum and will be, in any event, a rich man.

It remains to be seen whether Arthur T. Walker, multi-millionaire, will be able to avoid any noticeable change in his hitherto placid life as Arthur T. Walker, salaried confidential clerk.

In his place, what would you do?

Delaware has only seven women physicians, six in Wilmington and one in Seaford.

Shamrock Plunge Plans Festival for Labor Day

Dancing afternoon and night, swimming and added amusements and concessions will contribute to the festivities of Labor Day at Shamrock Park. It is planned to make the day a banner one at the park, rivaling the Fourth of July when record crowds sought Ranger's outdoor amusement place to cool off in the plunge and celebrate.

According to present plans, dancing will be offered afternoon and evening at Shamrock pavilion, as well as the diversions at the pool.

What carnival attractions will be brought in for the day has not been settled by R. D. Clancy, manager of the park, but plans are being made for additional amusements.

It is probable that the Shamrock bus service will be augmented for the day by the addition of several other trucks, that the patrons of the park may not lack for means to get there.

More Sunshine and Cleanliness and 'Kind and Decent Treatment' Promised Immigrants at Ellis Isle

NEW YORK, Sept. 2.-Sweeping changes are being made at America's gateway-Ellis Island-by Immigration Commissioner Frederick A. Wallis, who proposes to make the big immigration station more comfortable for the newcomers to the United States.

Freedom and sunshine is being planned for the new arrivals by the commissioner who has just announced plans for improving conditions in general on the island. Larger buildings are to be asked for, he said, sanitary conditions improved, additional cots provided for those unable to get beds and many other conveniences for the immigrant are to be installed.

Kind and decent treatment for all new arrivals has been demanded by Commissioner Wallis who has already announced the discharge of some of the veteran attendants for alleged harshness or inefficiency in receiving immigrants. Their places have been filled by more courteous, attentive and younger men.

"I propose to make this receiving station representative of all America promises," he said.

Baths Also Commissioner Wallis asserted that he planned to install baths at the island in order that every individual entering the country will be given a bath and have his clothes sterilized before he enters the station.

"They made our soldiers do this," he said, "so why not make our immigrants do this? This will be a big step toward preventing disease from entering our gates and Better Transportation Railroads have also been asked by the commissioner to provide better transportation facilities for the immigrants and stop employes from "grafting" from the newcomers. He also wants them to be properly fed while being detained for entrainment.

While funds are not immediately available for improvements at the island, Commissioner Wallis said, he will ask Congress to provide the money. He said that he had already asked permission to raise funds by public subscription if the necessary money could not be provided by the government.

Hay Fever Victims Complain That Sneezing Costs too Much

International News Service. SARANAC LAKE, N. Y., Sept. 2.-"Ka-ka-choo. Um-um-ah-k'-choo. "Yes I had cub again. I had id the hayfever. Old id is fierce. Glib me a room. Yes, a room and a bad room. No, not a BAD room, a bad room to (ka-choo). I mean to wash in. I cubbed here from New York. I had to cub. My nose id all stobbed up. Are eddy of my (ker-choo) friends stobbing here?"

And another member of the "hay fever club" joins the colony.

All through the Adirondacks, and likewise over in the White Mountains and also down in the Connecticut hills the hay fever clubs are now reporting full memberships. They are all "present and accounted for" at all of the famous hay fever clubs, and although a few new arrivals-late victims-or a few stubborn holdouts are still struggling in, most of the hay fever sufferers are now patiently listening to the katydid and are waiting for the weather man to come forward with his prediction for the "first frost."

The first frost is the forerunner of the end of the hay fever season. And as soon as the fields at daybreak are white with a real killing frost, it is safe for the sneeziest hay fever victim to pack his baggage and return to his home and business.

The hay fever season was late in arriving this summer. July was a cool month, as July's go, and many a man and woman, too, with a sensitive nose, waiting for that first tickling sensation which brings on the real hay fever attack, believed that they were going to escape entirely. Some even boasted that such and such a treatment they took last summer had put them forever on the honorary membership of the hay fever clubs and that they would be among the missing this year.

But when the dog days of August arrived and everybody began to talk about the "humidity being so high," the hay fever colonies grew into nose quivering, sneezing communities almost overnight.

Saranac, Lake Placid and other big resorts in the mountains are registering just as many hay fever patients this summer as last year, and other famous hay fever colonies report record breaking crowds of sneezers, with many of the new arrivals registering record sneezes, too.

And this in spite of the fact that the cost of hay fever, like everything else, has gone up this year. Mountain resort rates are now much higher than the altitude and even in direct proportion, and the cost, as if any hay fever victim here has taken sneezing pains to figure, has soared to about 35 cents per sneeze, not counting the extras. This it will be conceded, is rather expensive exercise for a good healthy sneezer who starts early and leaves up late.

The air at high altitudes however, is generally a cure. The patient is all right as long as he remains in the mountains.

But so long as the goldenrods nod peacefully along the country roadides and the late summer vegetation stays green, it is not safe for the hay fever patient to leave the seclusion of their highland retreats and inhale the pollen and dust of the lowlands.

So the hay fever clubs are thriving right now and the members take heart in the cooler nights and expectantly await the coming of the frosts, real honest to goodness frosts, when they can return to their usual habitations again.

Superstitions Have Effect on Chinese Trade

By Associated Press

NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—China, for centuries the unprogressive nation whose glory was in the past, is forging ahead in business ways that remind one of aggressive American progress. William P. Bancker, general purchasing agent of the Western Electric company, declared here today in a resume of trade investigations he made during a six months' tour of the world.

"China presents a most fertile field for American enterprise," he said. "Despite an occasional military effort by some small minority, that nation is a hive of industry. Labor seems plentiful and, what is more important, cheap. In fact, the latter feature is so true that capital has a clear way for productive plans and new fields of effort.

"The Chinese business men, especially those who have been educated abroad, are adopting American and British methods and are forging ahead. Exchange is working to the advantage of China because of the rise in value of silver bullion, which works to the benefit of the big republic in its position in other countries."

India, ancient land of mystery, also is making big strides commercially, with Americans there as in other far eastern territory laying foundations for future trade, Mr. Bancker said. The Hindoo is beginning to make himself an important factor in business and political circles, he continued, adding:

"It is remarkable how the average Asiatic as a result of foreign educational processes seems to be losing his reputation for self-effacing conservatism. Today you find him in positions of importance, competing with all sorts of foreign conditions."

Reverting to China, Mr. Bancker said: "One fact that Americans have to their advantage in China is the boycott which exists against Japanese and German relations. The combined Chinese chambers of commerce have gone on record as declaring a ten-year boycott against Germany and because of racial differences it is very improbable whether Japan will ever get a really strong foothold. Australia has been quick to jump into the breach and is now supplying quantities of foodstuffs which the Chinese use, but if we can promise any kind of a delivery and that is the really important condition which every one abroad is insisting upon nowadays, we should have no trouble in establishing firm trading relations.

"There is a certain sales psychology which must be remembered when dealing with the Chinaman and that is his respect for tradition. One foreign importer found himself unable for a time to dispose of a shipment of fruits which came in yellow colored cans, yellow being associated in China with death, while on the other hand it has been found that goods in red, the symbol of luck, are in eager demand."

PIRATE GOLD AGAIN IS SOUGHT ON COCOS ISLAND

International News Service

CORALIE, Ont., Sept. 2.—Cocos Island and its pirate gold loom once more thru the mists of romance two points to the weather bow of public interest. Andrew B. Cullen, miner and prospector, has been engaged, it is said, by a New York syndicate to locate the buried treasure.

Prospecting in the wilderness of Northern Ontario, near Nipissing House, where the Hudson Bay company, now closing out its pirate land to settlers, still pursues its ancient trade in furs, Cullen invented a divining rod which, he declares, is infallible in indicating the location of gold deposits or buried treasure. The instrument, it is said, operates on the principle that affinities attract each other. It is equipped with an electrical device and a lump of gold is fixed in its point.

Whether there is treasure left on Cocos Island is a question. "Bugs" Thompson and Benito Bonito, the latter famous as the last of the great pirates, are supposed to have buried plate, jewels and money valued at $21,000,000 on the island off Costa Rica early in the nineteenth century. Some believe Thompson's or Bonito's old companions lifted the treasure secretly. Certain it is that only one expedition of a score or more that have gone treasure hunting to Cocos ever found a doubloon.

The one successful expedition was made in 1844, and it was headed by Keating and Bogue, of Newfoundland. Thompson had died at Keating's home and bequeathed him an old chart of the island, showing the location of the treasure. Keating came back with $10,000 worth of gold and jewels. He said he and Bogue had found a cave filled with plate, bar gold and sacks of coin. The crew of his ship mutinied. Bogue lost his life under mysterious circumstances and Keating escaped from the island in an open boat.

Who the New York men are that plan to test Cullen's divining rod in a new search for the best riches of Cocos Island has not been made known. The last expedition to Cocos, armed with the chart which Thompson gave to Keating, sailed from Vancouver seven years ago and returned empty handed.

GERMAN PRESIDENT WORRIED OVER FUTURE

International News Service

BERLIN, Sept. 2.—Frederick Ebert, the harnessmaker president of the German republic, is worried about making a livelihood after his term expires, according to friends. It is expected that the first popular presidential election in Germany will be held in November. Ebert having the character of provincial president elected by the national assembly.

Just what he shall do to earn a living for his family after November is said to worry President Ebert not a little. His salary is 100,000 marks a year (about $2,500 in United States money). Of that amount he is compelled to pay 40,000 marks income tax, leaving him but 60,000 marks, or about $1,500.

That he cannot put much of that in a savings bank for the proverbial "rainy day" is obvious. In fact, his whole family works now. One son is a reporter on the Socialist organ Vorwaerts; his other son works in an optical establishment, while a daughter is peeling potatoes, sweeping and making beds on a large farm where she is learning to become a "Wirtschaftlerin," that is, "managing housekeeper."

Noske is trying to start a movement for a pension for Germany's "past presidents" sufficiently large to keep the wolf from the door and maintain the dignity of a man who once has been head of the nation. But he is meeting with little success so far. As a last resort President Ebert can apply for state "unemployment aid" for which Germany has paid out 1,500,000,000 marks since the fall of 1918.

MANY THOUSANDS SPENT IN COAST STORM RELIEF

CORPUS CHRISTI, Sept. 2.—More than $72,000 was expended for household goods for people here and in adjacent districts rendered practically homeless by the disastrous storm of September 14, 1919, according to report made by A. W. Jones, director of South Texas disaster relief. Of that amount $49,402 was expended for Corpus Christi people alone.

In addition to household goods, Mr. Jones reports nearly thirteen thousand dollars was spent for clothing. Medical aid required $1,179.50; tools and working equipment $4,408.08; allowances for living expenses until families could "get on their own feet" $8,032. $717 were used in transporting Corpus Christi citizens to other parts of the United States; to live with relatives, because they were unable to support themselves. In addition to the items quoted, the family department made cash appropriations to sufferers in order that they might buy needed articles, amounting to $7,122.90, and purchased equipment valued at $2,831 for fishermen.

Burial expenses, burying cows and chickens, giving business college training and other miscellaneous items amounted to $2,718.20.

Of $131,000 appropriated for building and repairs in the devastated area, more than $75,000 has been spent in Corpus Christi. In the business rehabilitation department more than sixty thousand dollars were spent in helping Corpus Christi merchants to get reestablished. The largest single appropriation made in business reclamation was $2,500 and the largest appropriation for building repairs $3,000.

Large sums were expended in port, Aransas and Rockport, also devastated by storm waters.

E. H. Harris, chief accountant for the disaster relief department of the Red Cross society, is making a final audit of accounts, preparatory to preparing a report to congress, as required by law.

TUSCALOOSA, Ala., Sept. 2.—Up in North Tuscaloosa, between Vance's Station and Kellerman, a little church sitting back from the public road in a grove of big red oak trees, was without a pastor on Sunday. When the congregation assembled the man who leads the flock in spiritual matters was absent. Sheriff Hughes had brought him down to Tuscaloosa and put him behind the bars of the county jail on the allegation that he was about to turn a couple of apples found souring in his orchard into apple brandy, the sweetening for which was discovered in his blacksmith shop in the shape of a barrel of black strap molasses.

Two stills were found in close proximity to the Rev. Lawrence's house. He will be made to give bond before he can fill his pulpit next Sunday.
