

Special Session Call Expected Next Week

Buy your groceries Friday. The stores will be closed Saturday, Independence Day. This goes, too, for practically everything else you may need for Saturday and Sunday.

The public is urged to drive out to Mt. Olive cemetery Sunday and see how well the entire place has been cleaned.

One of the hardest civic problems of Big Spring has in proper provision for care of the cemetery. More water is needed before those having loved ones resting there can keep the lots beautified as they wish.

It is a sad commentary upon any community when its burying ground is not properly provided for.

Many cities care for their cemeteries through municipal appropriation. The existing method here, popular subscription, is unsatisfactory.

If some of the service or luncheon clubs here want to do something very worthwhile they should get to work at once working out a dependable plan for financing the care of the cemetery.

John Wolcott, who has spent much time for a long time acting as general handy man in receiving subscriptions and looking after things generally for the cemetery association announced two five-dollar donations Thursday. They came from A. G. Hill and Mrs. C. C. Hines.

The fund is practically exhausted. Something must be done about it.

Much conversation has occurred within the past week on the general topic of "Why doesn't Big Spring have some kind of July celebration?"

With a holiday on their hands a great majority of residents cannot do more than to take a long trip away from home for the day.

But they do wish to get away from the house and see something different.

We are in need of a site such as a race track, fairgrounds or something like that. That is, we ought to put on a good fair here every autumn. Begin in a comparatively small way and build the institution up year by year.

The more we think about it the more we believe there is here the foundation for a great industry—entertainment and recreation.

We have one of the best motion picture theatres in Texas. We have hotels equal to any West Texas city.

We need to promote this business.

Baby Drowned Near Lamesa In Small Tank

David, Son Of Mr. And Mrs. J. L. Barrett, Resided In Fairview Area

David Barrett, two year old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Barrett of Fairview community near Lamesa, met death by drowning Wednesday in a small earthen tank.

The child escaped unnoticed from a group of older people and wandered about fifty yards to the tank.

He was missed and a search instigated. His body was found in the muddy bottom of the pond on Sunday.

It was supposed that he had accidentally stumbled, falling into the water.

This death marks the second by drowning in Dawson county within two months.

Alex Stoeber, 36, farmer, living near Schulenburg, was drowned yesterday. A boat capsized while he fished with his brother and a neighbor.

DENISON, July 2 (AP)—The body of Johnnie Hill, 9, drowned yesterday with his sister, Mildred, 14, in Red River, was recovered today. The girl's body was recovered yesterday.

Technicalities Of Cigaret Tax Law Causing Worries

AUSTIN, July 2 (AP)—Technicalities in the administration of the cigarette tax law passed at the last session of the legislature are causing considerable worry to Charles Lockhart, state treasurer. The law will become effective at midnight, Aug. 21, with plans being made to start its enforcement on the stroke of 12.

One of the most troublesome details to be decided is the method of affixing the stamp to each package to show the tax has been paid. The law calls for a tax of three cents per package of 20. Ordinarily it would be a small matter to paste the stamp on the package but leading cigarette manufacturers recently started using cellophane wrapping around the original package.

No stamp has been developed that will adhere to the slick cellophane, the government revenue stamps being affixed at the factory before the packages are wrapped in the substance.

The Texas tax law, however, calls for the stamps to be affixed by the person making the first sale of the cigarettes in the state. The attorney general has ruled the stamps must be attached to the original package and not the wrapper. Should the manufacturers decline to place the stamps within the wrapper their refusal would necessitate removal of the cellophane by Texas dealers before the stamps could be affixed.

It was believed likely, however, that the cigarette manufacturers would agree to attaching the stamp before shipping the cigars to wholesale and retail dealers.

The attorney general also ruled that the stamps must be affixed to each package in a carton and the wholesale stamping of cartons would be banned because of the opportunities for fraud such a practice offered. If the wholesaler makes the first sale in intrastate commerce, the wholesaler must affix the stamps before shipping the cigars to the retailer. If the cigars are manufactured in the state, the stamps must be affixed by the factory, the attorney general ruled.

The only limitation placed upon retailers is that they must not sell cigarettes without the stamp. Manufacturers residing outside Texas who maintain warehouses in Texas will be required to affix the stamps from the distributing point, even though the shipment is in voice direct from the factory without the state and delivery made from Texas stock.

In ruling on this point the attorney general made what is termed a "hair line" decision involving the rights of states to interfere with interstate commerce. If the transaction is held to be interstate, the state would have no authority to interfere. Inasmuch as the cigarettes are shipped to a centralization point in Texas, owned and used by such manufacturer for the purpose of distributing cigarettes in intrastate business, that they would be required to affix the stamps when such cigarettes are distributed from the centralization point, the opinion said.

Wholesale within the state who buy cigarettes without the state and place them in Texas warehouses for distribution to retailers beyond the state limits will not be required to pay the tax.

What effect the tax would have on the sale of cigarettes in Texas was a matter of conjecture. One-half the revenue will go to the free school fund and the other half to the general revenue fund.

Baby Sea Lion Will Not Go Near Water

ST. LOUIS, Mo., July 2 (AP)—A baby sea lion, born on June 3, and one of the few ever born in captivity, refuses to enter water. The baby sea lion almost drowned recently when it was placed in a shallow pool of water. Since then, it has refused to enter the water, squealing and scrambling toward land everytime it is put into the pool.

Another freak of nature is found in the actions of a Plymouth Rock hen, which has been denied normal satisfaction of the brooding instinct because of a penchant for breaking eggs and has adopted four puppies.

At meal time the hen scratches the ground for them and appears puzzled when they turn up their noses at bits of grain. They have, however, eaten bran mash set out for other chickens.

Can Throw Stones At This Glass House

PARIS (INS)—One can throw stones at the first glass house built in this city without disturbing the tenants.

Peeping Tom could station himself beneath the windows when they are lit up at nightfall with opera glasses and see nothing but translucent glass.

Pierre Chareau, the architect, says glass will last longer than brick or cement and thus finds the cost relatively cheap.

The unusual structure has three floors and looks like an igloo, striking an Arctic note in the Latin Quarter which already boasts a Mohammedan mosque, chalets and tumble-down shacks. But it is easier to heat than an igloo, says Chareau.

Woman Finds Self 'Without A Country'

PARIS (INS)—The well-known "man without a country" had nothing to say on a pretty English woman, Peggy Vere, who makes her home in Paris. Some years ago she married an American dancer, Oscar Mouvat, and thereby took on his nationality. Later, her husband died and now, on the eve of seeking work in England, she has been told she must first obtain a Home Office permit.

After her marriage, she did not automatically become an American citizen, because she lived in France with her husband, and she would have had to live two years in America before being able to take out papers for her citizenship. The Women's Congress which will meet in Geneva early in July, is hoping to arrange a number of these perplexing questions which have married foreigners.

Gotham Gives World Fliers Big Reception

Eight Days, Fifteen Hours, 51 Minutes Total Time For Globe Tour

NEW YORK, July 2 (AP)—Cheering sirens and ticker tapes marked this city's welcome today to Wiley Post and Harold Gatty, back in town after circling the globe in less than nine days.

Crowds jammed the streets about the Ritz Carlton hotel long before the fliers awoke. Police held the throng back when the aviators finally appeared and entered an automobile for a ride to the North River.

They boarded the city tug, Macon, which took them to the battery for official ceremonies.

Mrs. Gatty, delayed by bad weather, arrived during the night and awoke her husband with a kiss in the morning.

The two couples had breakfast together.

The fliers landed here last night at 6:48 p. m., Texas time. Their total time on the world flight was eight days, 15 hours, 51 minutes. The Graf Zeppelin's round-the-world mark is more than 21 days.

ROOSEVELT FIELD, N. Y., July 2.—Cutting the round-the-world record from almost 22 days to a little more than a week, Wiley Post and Harold Gatty landed at dusk yesterday on this field which they left at dawn less than nine days before on an earth-girding race against time.

The welcome accorded them was so boisterous that the fliers fled the field, not only after near vicious scenes in which police struggled to preserve order and fists were swung in angry altercations which threatened to develop into a serious disturbance.

It was dusk before Post and Gatty arrived and the west was painted in rich pinks as the big white plane shot with the speed of a giant arrow out of the sunset. At 7:44 p. m. (Eastern Standard Time), the fliers were first sighted and three minutes and a half later, after twice circling the field with their wing lights glowing against the purple eastern sky, they set the plane lightly down half a mile from the administration building.

Elapsed time of the 16,000 mile flight around the world, a flight which famous aviators today called the greatest achievement in the history of aviation, was just eight days, 15 hours and 51 minutes. The previous world girding record, established by the German dirigible Graf Zeppelin two years ago, was almost 22 days. Post and Gatty, although they took almost nine days to get around the world only spent four days, 10 hours and eight minutes of this time in the air.

When the round-the-world plane Winnie Mae touched the turf the crowd broke into motion, yelling and whooping. There were 150 police on duty but they were circled before the combined strength and determination of the several thousand enthusiastic witnesses of the completion of aviation's latest achievement.

The press was so heavy there, however, the police had to rescue the fliers from their admirers and place them again in a car, which was driven off the field with half a dozen policemen standing on the running boards with sticks feeding, off the frantic crowd.

Post and Gatty gave every indication that they would have liked to continue to some quiet hotel in New York but they still had the formalities to comply with so they circled around outside the field in an empty hangar. The crowd of soon foiled them, however, and stormed the doors. There were new scenes of wild excitement in the hangar, reporters and cameramen fighting for their rights and the general public pugnacious in pursuit of their determination to see all that happened.

Return Once More

Again Post and Gatty, with the former's wife, fled the field, but remembering a promise made by their representative here that a general interview would be given the press, they returned again.

For half an hour more they talked as best they could with almost 100 reporters, each of whom wanted an answer to his question. It was almost 9 o'clock before they at last really got away for New York and the first real night's sleep they have had since they lifted into the air on their great adventure in the rainy dawn of last Tuesday.

As soon as the plane stopped rolling Gatty and Post climbed from the cabins, turned their pilot over to a police guard, and entered an automobile which carried them half a mile across the field to the administration building.

As they left the automobile the crowd cheered again and attempted to break through the police lines but were largely unsuccessful. Friends and admirers of the fliers grabbed them up and carried them the last stage on their shoulders as flashlights boomed in the falling darkness.

AUSTIN, July 2 (AP)—Governor Sterling said today he doubted whether the East Texas oil operators would observe the new prohibition order of the railroad commission and that he believed a special session of the legislature would be necessary.

He did not announce the date but indicated he would issue a call next week.

The governor favors a law to combine oil, water and soil conservation in a single bond.

Independence Day Program Given At Club

Flag Etiquette Studied; Declaration Of Independence Read

An Independence Day program under direction of Dr. C. W. Deata, was given at Thursday's meeting of the Kiwanis club at the Crawford hotel.

Dr. Deata read the Declaration of Independence. Carl Blomshield, assisted by Halbert Woodward, one of the city's "top hand" Boy Scouts gave a lesson on flag etiquette. Walter Deata, Jr., accompanied by his mother, played as a saxophone solo a medley of patriotic airs. The club sang "America," "The Battle Hymn of the Republic" and "The Star Spangled Banner."

Guests were Mrs. Deata and Walter, Cecil Thompson of El Paso and Halbert Woodward.

President Porter, named C. W. Deata, Ben Cole, Taylor Anderson and Raymond McDonald on the July program committee.

Mr. Blomshield asked individual members questions on uses of the flag of the United States of America. The first, as to when the flag should be flown, had to be answered by Young Woodward. He said "sunrise to sunset except over the Senate business office, the house business office, both ends of the national capital and over the grave of Francis Scott Key, composer of The Star Spangled Banner—over these places the flag is flown all the time."

Other questions brought out that the American flag is to be carried center and front when in procession with other flags; at the top when flown from a mast with other flags; at the same elevation as flags of other nations when in procession; behind the speaker when draped on a speaker's stand; with the stars, or union, upper left when draped on a wall; with the union pointing north or east when hung from above a street; with the union over the left shoulder of the body when draped over a casket in a military funeral and from a standard at the minister's right when shown in a church.

Unusual Supply of Yarns Come From Texas Loop Race

By BILL PARKER (Associated Press Sports Writer) DALLAS, July 2.—(AP)—Now that this torrid business of winning the first half pennant is a back issue, baseball fans are probably ready to button up their collars, adjust their neckties and go in for a bit of light reading. Several weeks of heavy drama stuff while Beaumont, Houston and Fort Worth made each other walk the pennant plank, left baseball fans in the Texas League rather dazed and fagged. Now that Del Baker's hustling Exporters and Joe Schultz's Houston Buffaloes have their first half pennant tie, a few possible Texas League "yarns" may be welcome.

Flem Hall of the Fort Worth Star Telegram overboard a good one during the recent crucial Houston and Fort Worth series. Flem got it like this:

At the start of the second game after Houston had won the first 12 to 3, "Foghorn" Clancy, announcer, marched forth and announced: "Hook, third baseman for Houston, at bat."

"Aw, never mind Clancy, old boy," a customer advised. "They were up often enough in the first game for us to get well acquainted with them."

Another that occurred during the Doubleheader between Fort Worth and Houston, which eliminated the Cats from the first half race was: One fan wanted to leave before the second game was over. "No, sir," another insisted, "this is the last game I'm ever going to."

so I'm gonna stay to the end and get plenty sick of it."

Vin Burke, sports editor of the Beaumont Enterprise, found so much happiness in the Exporters luck the first half he even admitted that Mr. "Dixie" Dean is a modest young fellow. In Burke's own words:

"The Buffaloes, having come to Fort Worth from Wichita Falls following their afternoon game, caught the Exporters before they left for Wichita Falls. In the hotel lobby, "Dixie" Dean was mingling around, discussing the Houston and Fort Worth series. Finally Dean said: "If I beat them in the first game tomorrow, I'll go ahead and pitch the second."

"Which, in my opinion, was pretty modest of Dean at that. Using the word 'if' which I didn't believe was in his vocabulary."

Grady Adkins, Little Rock hatcher in the winter and Dallas pitcher in the summer pulled a fast one on Joe Schultz during the recent Dallas and Houston series in which the Steers won both games. Adkins shutout Houston in the first game, 3 to 0. In that game, Bill Hinchman went in to pinch hit, and WILLIE PETERS says: It looks to him like everyone in Big Spring should be able to see that he is helping himself when he buys Corden-Liquid Gas.

Grady fanned him with a curve ball for the third strike. The next morning, Houston sent Hinchman to Danville.

The next night when Manager Schultz walked by Adkins Grady remarked: "I see I curved Hinchman out of the league last night."

Schultz never even glanced toward Grady, but continued toward the Houston dugout. Failing to get a "rise" out of Schultz, Grady said: "Oh, well, I haven't any room to talk. I know many bush leaguers who have hit that curve ball of mine hard enough to be sold to the majors."

Schultz tried to reply, but had to laugh.

Lloyd Gregory, sports editor of the Houston Post Dispatch, who grieved with the Buffaloes on their recent North Texas invasion, picked up a rare one and passed it along. Atlanta of the Southern League was trying to purchase Grady Adkins from the Steers, but balked on a rather fancy price. Knowing Houston was playing in Dallas, Manager Dobbs of Atlanta's tough Guy Sturdy advise via long distance telephone. Sturdy, first pitcher for the Buffaloes, was in the Southern last year. Sturdy knew that Adkins had not been going any too good, so his reply to Dobbs was: "Save your money, Adkins won't do you any good."

That night, Adkins beat Houston 3 to 0 and was a complete mystery to Sturdy's mighty hat. Now Sturdy loves his base hits like no body else, and after Adkins had finishes polishing Mr. Sturdy and the Buffaloes off, Guy rushed to a telephone and called Dobbs:

"Say, that advise this morning doesn't go. This guy Adkins is a great hurler—one of the greatest. Why, he even stopped me tonight. Hope you buy him and get him out of this league before I have to hit against him again."

But the deal is now off and Sturdy is sad but wiser. All these "yarns" bloomed during a week of the most bitterly fought pennant race the Texas League has known, and again it proves that where there is drama, there is also a bit of humor.

Mellow, mild tobaccos that need no parching

ANY tobacco expert will tell you that parching would ruin the flavor of the choice Turkish and mellow Domestic tobaccos of which Camel cigarettes are blended. Heating to that extent is an emergency measure resorted to only as an attempt to take part of the bite and burn and sting out of harsh, strong tobaccos. We do everything to bring you Camels in factory-fresh condition, preserving for your enjoyment the natural moisture together with the rich, rare flavor and aroma of those choice tobaccos.

That's why Camel smokers hold so persistently to Camels. They simply can't enjoy the stale, flat smoke from dried-out, moisture-robbed tobacco. You see, every Camel package is now a humidifier that excludes dust and germs and guarantees factory-fresh Camels to every smoker. If you are not a Camel smoker, switch over for just one day. After you have discovered how mild, how cool they are to your throat, then leave them for stale hot smokes—if you can. Don't remove the moisture-proof Cellophane from your package of Camels after you open it. The Humidor Pack is protection against sweat, dust and germs. It delivers fresh Camels and keeps them right until you smoke the last one.

Medina Lake

America's greatest black bass fishing ground, only one hour's drive from San Antonio over a hard surface highway. The lake is 16 miles long, 2 miles wide—the largest and most beautiful body of fresh water in the entire Southwest. Approximately $3,000,000 was spent in constructing the massive dam which impounds this enormous volume of water for irrigation purposes.

HOW'S your HEALTH
Eczema, one of the most common of the skin affections, is not a single disease condition, but rather a conglomerate one.
Failure to appreciate how complicated a condition eczema is and how much detailed study and varied trials are required to achieve effective treatment causes many a patient to wander from doctor to doctor and from clinic to clinic in the vain hope that someone will hit the right treatment on the first trial.
The term eczema is used to describe a variety of skin conditions which run from the mildly inflamed and fairly dry skin to the markedly ulcerated and "weeping" skin.
Though the causes of eczema are numerous, they can be divided into two general groups, the so-called external causes and the internal ones.
There are some eczemas which are due purely to some external irritants. We find these most commonly among industrial workers as the result of chemicals and other irritating substances which they are obliged to handle.
The eczemas due to internal causes appear as well influenced by outside agencies or force. The eczematous areas are usually developed where the skin is irritated.
The treatment of eczema of external origin requires the removal of the irritating cause. These may in some instances be vegetable poisons, in others some chemical substance to which the sufferer is peculiarly sensitive.
The eczemas of internal origin require detailed study of the patient's constitution and habits as well as of the external causes which contribute to the development of the condition.
All of this requires acute medical skill and perseverance. Self-medication for eczema is at best a waste of time and money and may lead to further injury of an already suffering skin.

Our Isolation Policy
THOSE who like to think that the Atlantic ocean still isolates America from Europe as effectively as it did in the days of sailing vessels must be finding it hard to understand the high significance of President Hoover's proposal for a year's moratorium on war debts and reparations.
As a matter of fact, this event, which probably will be what 1931 is remembered for in the history books of this next generation, ought to dispel the last shreds of belief in our splendid isolationism. The plain truth of the matter is that the future of Europe rests largely on what America does. When an American president, by a simple statement to the press, can check the probability of revolution in Germany and inspire all of Europe with a new hope, it is evident that American isolation is ended.
"Just where has this isolation of ours gone, anyway?"
Most historians say that it really ended with the war with Spain. By joining the Philippines and getting Cuba free, the United States acknowledged itself as a world power. Less than two decades later the country found itself engaged in a European war, and the world was a different place.
Yet nobody would it, it seems reasonable. The industrial revolution, which made every nation at least partly dependent on every other, was largely responsible. So too were the new methods of travel and communication, which divided all old distances by ten and made messengers move with the speed of thought. During the last half century the world became a hundred times more complex than it had been before, and it also shrank to a fraction of its former size. The policy of isolation, as a result, simply ceased to have any meaning, although we have not yet entirely realized it.
Today America's repatriation is about Germany's reparations, but about the internal political currents of distant nations, and while we may find it unpleasant to be obliged to understand these things, we cannot escape the job. We have not to make ourselves realize that we are not isolated any longer that the entire world is leaning to get for leadership, and for our own welfare and the welfare of Europe are inextricably interrelated.

Hollywood Sights and Sounds
By ROBBIN COONS
HOLLYWOOD—Whether or not he abandons the screen, John Barrymore has abandoned the famous profile of which he was so proud.
"I'm sick of the blankety-blank thing," he told Percé Westmore, his studio's make-up chief. Let's "kill it."
So Westmore did, with a weird sawny beard for "Svenka" and a short, stubby one, accentuating the length of the Barrymore nose, for "The Mad Genius." Add Barrymore is no longer profile-conscious.
Barrymore's habit of rushing off with his family on yachting cruises has been pictured in the strikingly realistic paintings of Ann Harding and Harry Harlow, who are exhibiting today and give tomorrow.
Since they've bought that new plane their friends seldom can tell exactly where they are.
"Hell's Angels" Hangover
And soon the same will apply to Billie Dove, who in taking up aviation has only conformed to precedent.
For everyone who is connected with Howard Hughes' company, it seems sooner or later becomes surrounded—the Hell's Angels' hangover.
Hughes, by the way, again is doing the unusual. When all Hollywood has abandoned the gangster theme, he goes right ahead with plans for "Scarface."
His tardiness, as frequently happens, may prove to be fortunate for by the time his contribution to gang life is completed, gangsters may be a novelty again and "Scarface" make more millions for Hollywood's richest youngster.
Jean in "Queer People"
Paul Mann, whose previous talkie experience was brilliant but brief, is coming back for the title role, but for once the gangster won't be Jean Harlow.
Even though under contract to Hughes, who has loaned her as the prize for other studios' gangsters, she is going into "Queer People" instead.
"The Squaw Man," hoary melodrama once again revised on the screen by Cecil DeMille, had its first night of the footlights as a one-act skit at the Lambs club in New York twenty-eight years ago. Since then it's been played, as a full-length play, countless times and been screened as often as "The Spoilers."

Has Capone Won, After All?
Kansas City Star
It will be a shocking thing to the country if Al Capone is permitted to get off with a light sentence in return for pleading guilty. Capone has been the head criminal of the United States. It is well noted that 100 persons have been killed in Chicago in the last ten years in various wars participated in by members of the Capone gang.
Capone himself has been a whole-time violator of the law, and is supposed to have made millions out of his operations. He has been the beneficiary of bignes of prostitution and crossed gambling establishments, and he has got away with all this because he has been the head of the invisible government in Chicago.
Finally government agents, not susceptible to his fixing operations, got enough evidence on him so that he saw the futility of further fighting. But if the reports are true he capitulated and agreed to plead guilty provided he would get a light sentence.
Apparently the government agents preferred to play safe and give him a light penalty rather than take the chance of a bitterly contested legal battle. If this is true, the agents have made a serious mistake.
A short imprisonment for such a criminal as Capone is ridiculous. Undoubtedly, he would regard it as

Chapter 2
ORCHARD HILLS PRODIGAL
Antonio Latour's parents, "took him in" because he was their son and it was their Christian duty. But they received him without sympathy or understanding. They did not overwhelm him with reproaches, neither did they fail to remind him of their predictions that his wicked career would bring him to an evil end, and they were careful to make their silent suffering obvious.
Of course the good Elder, his Deaconess wife and the villagers decried that poor Tony had fallen into disgrace through evil living. Nothing else was to be expected of an actor. Tony could not tell them about Harriet. Had it been possible for him to explain, it would not have helped matters.
Within the year Elder and Deaconess Latour passed to their reward, leaving to their wayward son the house where he was born and an income which would barely keep him from starvation. (The bulk of the churchman's fortune went to carry the post of salvation to the heathen in the name of that gentle spirit who taught his followers to pray: "Forgive us our trespasses as we forgive those who trespass against us," and who loosed the divine commandment: "Judge not that you may not be judged.")
Perhaps there are those who will say that Antonio Latour should have gone on with his stage career, or that he should have found some sort of work. But Old Tony cries, "Why should one work when there is no one—nothing to work for?"
From all accounts the married life of Roy Donovan and Harriet Noel must have been a troubled existence, living on the road or in stock and with the wife's gradual disengagement, and the husband's increasingly bitter disappointment. The boy, Bruce Carey, lived with them as if they were his parents. Harriet, from the first, had mothered the lad and had thought that Donovan loved him as if Bruce were his own son. But she was not long in discovering that her husband's real interest was not so much in the boy himself as in the money which the man hoped to make through him.
She soon understood, too, that his only regard for her was based upon the same hope of financial gain which made him assume a fatherly love for the child. Then, as Old Tony says, "Pierre made his entrance on the scene."
Donovan's treatment of his wife and child only served to intensify Harriet's love for her son. With the mother's heart centered with affectionally Barbara his prized horse personally.

hurried to her. There might still remain for them many years of happiness, he told himself, still believing in her love for him.
In the first act, Harriet and little Pierre would be on together. In the second act, the boy would come on again without his mother. Antonio decided not to make his presence in the theater known to Harriet until after the first act. He felt he could better control his emotions if he had first seen her and her son together on the stage.
As he sat there in that Cleveland theater, waiting for the curtain, Antonio Latour felt that he was only playing a part. He felt that the audience was watching him and that the play which would follow the rise of that curtain would be only a play within his larger play in which he and Harriet were acting the leading roles.
When the curtain went up Antonio Latour sat like one in a trance, his mind on those unhappy events which had brought his stage career to such an untimely end. Then Harriet made her entrance, and the actor in the audience caught his breath in a dry sob.
"To me," Old Tony says "when he speaks of that evening, Harriet was more beautiful than ever; she was more than ever an actress, but there was something wanting. In the vernacular of the stage, Harriet did not go over as she had in the beginning years of her stage career; she kindled no responsive glow in the hearts of the people. Then little Pierre entered and I understood.

"I saw that Harriet had endowed the child with all the native grace and genius that had promised so much for her. Young as he was, Pierre had that same inner fire, the same uncanny power over his audience that his mother had possessed. I remember thinking, not without sadness, that as Harriet had sacrificed her love for a stage career, she had now sacrificed her career for love of her son."
At the close of the first act Antonio went back stage and met Harriet and her son. During the second act Harriet stood in the wings watching the boy while the man who had loved her since childhood watched her.
Without even speaking to Harriet of his love, Antonio returned to Orchard Hill.
Charity should begin at home, but Tony and Harriet find to-morrow it missed Orchard Hill.

Loucile Allgood's Weekly Letter
How to Rid the Place of Swarms of Summer Flies

A good way to rid the house and milking pens of flies, which are very bad at this time of the year, is given by the Home Demonstration Agent, Mrs. Loucile Allgood, quoting an article from A. and M. College.

This may be used on a small or large scale:
Pointing out that summer feeding of beef calves on sudan grass or other good pasture has proven relatively profitable on Texas farms if flies can be controlled, A. L. Smith, beef cattle specialist in the A. and M. College Extension Service, calls attention to an effective method of combating flies in the feed lot as suggested by J. N. Wheeler, county agent in Jack county, in a feeding demonstration last spring with 40 calves owned by Joe Bloodworth the at-jack of millions of flies about May 1st was repelled by use of poisoned milk, and lime spread on the manure piles.

Formaldehyde was mixed in shallow pans with sweet milk at the rate of one ounce of poison to one pint of milk. Bread crumbs were placed in the pans for the flies to light on, and the pans put on boards around the barn high enough up to be out of reach of stock. Fresh bait was put-out every morning for a week, and once a week thereafter. Several sacks of hydrated lime were spread on a large manure pile to stop the hatching of fly eggs. Within three days very few flies could be found, and the calves were comfortably finished July 1st. Mr. Bloodworth is now feeding 71 calves for summer finishing.

Brownville-Dusting Irish potatoes with copper-lime to control late blight increased the yield of potatoes 25 bushels per acre in a demonstration conducted by Will Cabier, Cameron county farmer, in cooperation with H. L. Ayameyer,

Baron, 30, Rich, Sighs, Wishing He Were Poor

PARIS (INS)—Baron Empain, thirty-year-old Belgian heir, one of the richest young men of the world, says that he would give anything to be poor.

Visiting the French capital not long ago he declared that he is really only happy when in camp where nobody recognizes him. In Paris or Brussels the Baron cannot walk into a restaurant without the head waiter bowing him to the best table and inquiring about his health, and all that.

"The worst of it all is that I have no desire for anything," was the sad tale of the rich man. "It is terrible. If a friend wants a house I can buy it for him. If I want a million pounds cash for myself tomorrow I can have it. You see? It is really terrible."

He has given up gambling because he finds no fun in it. If he wins 3,000,000 francs it does him no good, he doesn't need a sou, if he loses, he is angry for several days afterward.

He reports the best time he ever had in his life was when he quarreled with his father, and he came to Paris to live on ten dollars a month. He was a poor bank clerk. But at the end of the year his father forgave him.

The father of this poor little rich man amassed his gigantic fortune as a public works contractor and electrical engineer in Belgium, France and Egypt. The son is continuing his work and eight o'clock every morning finds him at his office, the director of sixty-five companies and chairman of twenty-five.

MOTHER FOX IN CHARGE

PASO ROBLES, Cal. (INS)—Bob Stinchfield, oil executive, recently purchased a baby fox. He placed it in an improvised den. The other day he was astonished when going to feed his pet, he found mama fox had arrived and had the situation well in hand. Stinchfield is making an attempt to domesticate the older animal which apparently had sought out its missing offspring.

GIRL PITCHER A WINNER

WHEELING, W. Va. (INS)—Rose Gieroch, 15-year-old school girl, pitched the Little Wheeling of it. If he loses, he is angry for several days afterward.

It was her fourth victory in ever had in his life was when he quarreled with his father, and he came to Paris to live on ten dol-

Basques' Beret New Fashion For Uzcudun Fight

RENO, Nev. (INS)—Out in the vast expanse of desert and sagebrush land east of here, the sheepherders are wearing berets.

It's an old Spanish custom put over in Nevada by the noblest Spaniard of them all—Senor Paulino Uzcudun, who is here training for his 20-round boxing match with Max Baer of California, which will take place in Jack Dempsey's new arena July 10th.

The big burly cow punches and cattle men can laugh all they want to when a Basque sheepherder hears the name Paulino, he stands at attention and says "whattaman" in his choicest Basque lingo.

Paulino wears a beret. Why shouldn't his sheepherding countrymen?

The big woodchopping battle has attracted so much attention from Nevada Basques that a number of them have come to Reno already. They don't want to take any chances on missing that fight. One who was employed as a cook at Eastgate in the central part of the state gave up his job and arrived in Reno last week to find nother, if possible.

With tent cities springing up and automobile camps being constructed all around the town—a new accommodation shortage still appeared possible.

When a sheepherder wants to see a fight, he can't tell the boss he has a sick grandmother and take the day off. The sheep have to be tended to. It's just possible that 100,000 acres of land will be needed as parking space for sheep on the Fourth of July.

LARGEST CHURCH ORGAN

PITTSBURGH (INS)—The largest church organ in the United States is being installed in the Sacred Heart Church here. The console has 77 stops controlling 5,000 pipes in six units. Cariton Strong designed the instrument.

SWALLOWED HIS LOOT

FARRELL, Pa. (INS)—Lawrence Simms, negro, robbed a workman of $65 in paper money.

When police appeared on the scene unexpectedly, Simms tried to swallow the money. An officer choked $10 from his mouth, but he swallowed the other $55.

Luther La Boff In Town

Luther La Boff, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. M. La Boff, is in town on a three-day pass from the Wm. Beaumont Hospital in El Paso, where he is in the medical corps. He reports that Jack Rhotan and Jack Timmons, also of this city, are enjoying army life in El Paso. Paul Lee, of Yulea, and Glenn McKinney, of Beaumont Hospital, came home with Luther.

R. F. Shoemaker and Jim Schmidt returned today from a motor trip to Phoenix, Arizona.

GIRL SCOUTS GREET HOOVERS

Redhead Girls Best Television Type But Blonds And Brunets Have Chance

NEW YORK (UP) — Television program directors do not prefer blonds. At least, as a general rule, they don't.

The idea of beauty may not be their personal opinion, but in dealing in terms of the photoelectric cell they must think in the sense of the contrast of lights and shadows.

Thus the ideal television girl would be short and shapely, have red hair, flashing eyes of any color, flawless teeth and blond facial characteristics.

There must be none of the baby-doll femininity with its chin-like rounded features and startlingly blond hair.

However, because the red topped miss television so well does not mean all others are out. Even the blond is acceptable if she is of the medium type and has the features in which contrast predominates. In fact, all of the varying shades and types through the brunet also may be satisfactory.

The "television type" may best be explained in nine words of Mortimer Stewart, television program director of WGBS-WXCH, New York's radio movie stations.

"The television girl must have distinctively large features," he said, "have large sparkling eyes of any color, flawless teeth and hair with what he termed plenty of highlights. The hair also must be in sharp contrast to the facial characteristics, which should be bold in the full sense of the word."

"Speaking of types, the preferred is the good old fashioned redhead. But both blonds and brunets will televise well if their type is not too pronounced."

"We have found that short girls are better for television than tall ones and that shapely girls outdo their more slender sisters."

"In fact, what we are looking for is contrast."

These were the factors taken into consideration when models were selected for the television fashion show put on with sound and sight by WGBS-WXCH.

Three young women who might be described as brunet and blond "hopes" in challenging the television supremacy of the redheads are Anne Dunn (left) and Dorothy Knapp (upper right), whose hair is dark, and Kay Weir, whose hair is light. They have bold features that carry well on television.

Of the young women chosen to go before the television camera, two successful ones who were not redheads were Anne Dunn, short and brunet, and Kay Weir, tall and medium blond.

Similar characteristics are to be found in Dorothy Knapp, former

PURSUIT OF BEAUTY BIG EXPENSE ITEM TO BUSINESS WOMEN

WASHINGTON, July 2. (UP) — A very different person from the working girl of 20 years ago. Answers to a questionnaire sent to 6,924 business women by the National Federation of Business and American business woman today is 'Professional Women's clubs reveal 4,984 preferring the first method of coloring and 1,300 the latter.

Based on the returns from the questionnaire it is estimated that the 60,000 business and professional women enrolled in the organization are spending about $800,000 annually on cosmetics and beauty treatments.

About 39 percent of them drive their own cars, about one-tenth ride horseback and one-sixth play tennis.

It is estimated that about one-fourth of the 60,000 are married and about one-half of those married have children.

Japanes Legs Bow

National Squating Habit Makes for Stubby Race

TOKYO (UP)—Japan's numerous bow legs and the short stature of its people are due to the national habit of sitting "Turk fashion," says Dr. Fumio Ishiwara, head of the medical department of Tokyo Imperial university.

If the Japanese would only give up the habit of squatting, they would, the professor asserts, acquire as fine physiques as Americans.

Dr. Ishiwara studied this point with Japanese born in Hawaii and California. He says that 95 percent of the height of the average occidental is in the legs while with the Japanese it is only 50 percent.

But American born Japanese are so built that their legs make up 54.8 percent of their height and they are taller than their native countrymen.

Fliers

Suddenly the police lines gave way and the field became a bedlam with excitement ruling supreme and numerous flat fights breaking out as police, with night sticks in their hands, attempted to force a way for the fliers.

As soon as police were able to force a passage through the crowd the car bearing Post and Gatty and the former's wife drove rapidly from the field under a heavy escort of motorcycle policemen. Mrs. Gatty, who was flying from the west to greet her husband, had not yet arrived when the Winnie Mae got in.

Among noted persons in the crowd to greet the world fliers were Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and his wife, William Brock, who flew almost around the world in 1927; Clarence Chamberlin, who flew to Europe soon after Lindbergh; and Bert Acosta, who flew there with Admiral Richard E. Byrd in the same summer.

Lad, In Anger, Destroys Paper Worth $15,000

PITTSBURGH, (INS) — "Scrap of paper" worth exactly $15,000 was destroyed by a negro boy here in anger because he believed he was cheated in the exchange by which he procured the valuable document for a handful of canceled stamps.

Dr. Kenneth M. Day, a philatelist, who tracked down the valuable paper—actually an envelope bearing the seal of the postmaster of Alexandria, Va., and dating to pre-Revolution days—found the remnants scattered to the four winds on an ash-pile.

By chance, Dr. Day discovered that the valuable envelope had been given away by its owner who believed it worthless, to a small boy. The first recipient traded the paper with another lad who, carrying on the trading adventure, passed it on to the negro boy for a handful of canceled foreign stamps. The latter tore it up in anger.

The search for the lost envelope began when a young business woman, friend of Dr. Day, upon looking through his collection, was shown a photographic reproduction of the envelope and postmaster's seal. She was amazed when she learned the true value of her philately.

The original owner of the envelope found it in a collection of ancestral documents. One of her ancestors had been a postmaster in Alexandria before 1845 when postmasters in a dozen cities had been granted permission to print "provisionals," temporary stamps and envelopes. The "provisionals" went out of use when the United States began to print stamps.

Six New Buses To Be Placed On West Texas Line

Six new 29-passenger motor buses will be put into operation serving Big Spring and other West Texas cities on the West Texas division of the Southland Greyhound

Great Dome Room of Cavern

Just one of the scenes in Carlsbad Cavern, to which scores of West Texans will flock for the July 4 holiday, is shown above. Many Big Spring people are buying all those picnic goodies, taking a look at the trees on the family automobile, and generally preparing for the Carlsbad trip this week-end.

Lines, during the early part of July, according to an announcement made today by J. A. Knutson, operating manager of that company. The new equipment represents an investment of $84,000. The buses, of the very latest design, are products of the General Motors Corporation. Arrangements are being made to install a radio in one of the buses as a test to determine whether or not bus travelers like this form of entertainment while riding. If the radio is a success in the one bus, all five others will be equipped.

Bidders Need To See Old School Buildings School Head Declares

"Contractors figuring on the R Bar and Center Point school building must examine the old buildings since the few buildings and rooms are to be duplications of the old ones," said Mrs. Pauline Cantrell Brigham, county superintendent. Mrs. Brigham stated that the first four or five sets of plans given on the R Bar school were incomplete and that contractors having those sets should see her.

"No bids will be considered that do not include figures on the stipulations made in the completed set of plans," added the superintendent. The omitted part in the first set says that both the R Bar and the Center Point schools will be framed by two inch by four inch studs, on sixteen inch centers; rafters two inches by six inches on twenty-four inch centers. Sleepers are to be two inches by eight inches.

"Some contractors are figuring on smaller material," said Mrs. Brigham, "but unless the figuring is done on the new measurements the bids will be disregarded. If contractors are unfamiliar with the state requirements, they may get the state bulletin in my office. The information on building the fuse and the lighting of the building is imperative in this connection."

Commission Delays Site Consideration

The city commission did not meet Wednesday evening, when it had expected to consider a site for the city hall-auditorium building, due to absence of City Manager Smith, who was called out of the city on business.

Big Spring Girls Honor Guests At Abilene Parties

In addition to many other parties in Abilene at which Zillah Mae Ford and Eva Mae House were guests, the Abilene Morning News gives an account of the two following. These were planned as complimentary to the Big Spring visitors:

July was ushered in for Abilene society with a series of one-hour parties, two of the gayest of the day's affairs being swimming parties at the Abilene Country club to compliment Misses Eva Mae House and Zillah Mae Ford of Big Spring, visitors here in the home of Miss House's aunt, Mrs. Bernard Hanks, on the Sayles boulevard.

James Walter Hobbaday, who recently attended a house party given by Misses House and Ford at Big Spring, entertained with a swimming party at the club and buffet supper at his home on the Sayles boulevard last night to honor the visitors.

Following a dip in the pool, guests returned to the Holiday home where an elaborate summering menu was served from a table overlaid with Italian cut work and centered with pink roses. Guests were seated at foursome tables nearby. After supper, games were played.

Mr. and Mrs. James F. Holliday assisted their son in entertaining Misses House, Ford, Irma Harrison, Elsie Pearl Couch, Catherine Spellings, Billy Russell and Ralph Balfanz, Edmund Scarborough, Gene Morrison, Carroll Hall, Sayles and Benne Schmidt.

Mrs. Hanks' hostess to an early morning party at the club to compliment her guests. Following a swim, watermelons were served. She was assisted in entertaining by Mrs. Marvin K. House of Big Spring and Mrs. Yancy Jones of Dallas.
