Two Men Claim to Be Chief of Police at Desdemona; Stark Fights Injunction

SAYS ELECTION OF ALDERMEN WAS ILLEGAL

Denies Authority of the New Board to Displace Him.

By M. McCULLOUGH. EASTLAND, Oct. 26.—Today P. J. Stark filed a rather sensational answer to the injunction suit filed against him by W. J. Wiley of Desdemona, a few days ago. The answer of Stark is a flat denial of all the allegations in Wiley's petition, and then goes on to make his answer a cross action and asks that Wiley be forever enjoined from assuming to act as chief of police of Desdemona.

Stark alleges that Wiley was never legally elected as police chief of Desdemona, but that he himself was duly elected such chief immediately after the election of aldermen held in that town on March 6, 1920, immediately after the town was incorporated.

It is alleged that on Sept. 4 of this year a certain minority faction down here undertook to hold an election of aldermen and that they secretly had tickets printed and had printed thereon the names of R. V. Nabors, J. P. Steakley and J. C. White for aldermen, and the ticket was too short for voters to write other names thereon; that the election was held the same afternoon the tickets were printed, and all occurred on the afternoon of Sept. 4; that Stark made inquiry about the election and failed to find out if such an election was to be held. It is further stated that the voting place was kept open for voting only about three or four hours in the afternoon, and was not kept open for nine hours that day, as required by law. It is alleged that the returns of the election were not made to the mayor nor did the aldermen take the oath of office as prescribed by law. It is set up that the county commissioners appointed one man to act as judge of the election and that he refused and some other unauthorized person acted as judge of the election. The answer of Stark also alleges that neither Nabors nor White was a qualified elector of Desdemona and each lived outside the corporate limits of that town, and have not since their election lived in Desdemona. The answer shows that while there are over 200 qualified voters in the town, only fifty votes were polled in the election. Stark further shows that immediately after the illegal election the aldermen-elect, Nabors, White and Steakley, held a meeting, in the absence of the mayor, declared Stark suspended and proceeded to elect Wiley as police chief contrary to law. After that session of the new aldermen Wiley has assumed to act as chief of police, and Stark admits that he told Wiley not to carry a pistol or he would be arrested, and not to act as police chief or he would be arrested for impersonating an officer. Stark says he is the legal police chief, having been elected by the lawful aldermen of Desdemona, and that Wiley is presuming to act as such officer without any lawful authority, and that Stark is now due on his salary over $500. Stark makes his answer a cross action, asks that Wiley be enjoined from acting as police chief and from interfering with Stark in the exercise of the functions of that office.

SCARED SOLDIERS FIRE ON CORK CROWD

By Associated Press

COEK, Oct. 26.—Crowds along the Grand parade, one of the principal thoroughfares of this city, were thrown into a panic last night when several shots were fired from military lorries and an accompanying armored car. There were no casualties as far as known. It appears that the car had turned its searchlight on the Sinn Fein clubhouse and a large number of people, led by curiosity, surrounded the machine. The occupants, fearing attacks, fired and the crowd scattered. A few minutes later the street was deserted.

TOPEKA, Kan., Oct. 26.—Government agents here have started a campaign to stop the selling of vanilla extract to Indians on the Mayetta reservation.

A dozen Indians were seriously injured when two Kickapoo braves went on the warpath after having drunk some of the "fire water."

HOGTOWN MAYOR RESTRAINED BY COURT ORDER

Wiley Says That The Mayor Interferes With His Duties.

By M. McCULLOUGH. EASTLAND, Oct. 26.—Today in the afternoon, J. W. Wiley of Desdemona came again into court and this time filed a suit in the Ninety-first Court against H. W. Elliott, the acting mayor of Desdemona, and secured from Judge George L. Davenport an order temporarily restraining the mayor from interfering with Wiley in the performance of his official duties as chief of police of that town. In his petition Wiley sets up that on Oct. 4th he was duly and legally appointed police chief by the board of aldermen of Desdemona and the first act of his office was to give notice to the gambling house down there to close up and remain closed. That the next day after giving the gambling house owners the closing notice, Mayor H. W. Elliott wrote Wiley a letter stating that Wiley was suspended from office and that charges would be filed against him. That soon thereafter a majority of the board of aldermen notified Wiley to continue in going the duties of his office, and the council also gave the mayor written notice of their instructions to Wiley.

Wiley alleges that no charges were ever filed against him, and on Sunday, Oct. 24th, Mayor Elliott told Wiley he was going to be suspended from office, and that "if he continued to act as chief of police" Mayor Elliott would forcibly displace him and place him under arrest for impersonating an officer.

The petition also sets up that Wiley and a majority of the city council are in favor of enforcing all the laws to the letter; and that the mayor is interfering with Wiley in the enforcement of these laws.

It is shown in the petition that a majority of the city council have been restrained from removing Mayor Elliott from his office, and that Wiley now has no remedy at law against the Mayor till the other injunction suit is finally disposed of. The petition also alleges that "an overwhelming majority of the citizens of Desdemona are in favor of law enforcement and this plaintiff (Wiley) is zealous that their wishes be met."

Upon consideration of the petition Judge Davenport granted the temporary injunction upon plaintiff entering into bond in the sum of $2500.00. Wiley immediately gave the bond with J. H. Rushing and V. Y. Nabors as sureties.

Man Arrested in Insurance Fraud Makes Statement.

By Associated Press. FORT WORTH, Oct. 26.—B. J. Cochran, under arrest at Aspermont in connection with an alleged insurance fraud, declared in a statement to Sheriff Blingham last night that he was kidnaped by Mexicans and held prisoner in New Mexico for seven months, during which period his wife thought him dead and collected $10,000 in life insurance.

Cochran was reported to have died in March, 1919 and his body was supposed to have been buried near Aspermont. Recently officers examined Cochran's grave and found it empty. The grand jury at Aspermont has begun an inquiry into the case. Cochran was taken into custody last Saturday at Sterling City. He was living on a goat ranch with his five children. His wife has died since collecting the insurance.

The drug taken yesterday at the direction of Lukin was found at the Young rooms on Marston street, the Victory on Oak street and a small amount on Cherry street.

ALEXANDER'S BROTHER TO BE OFFERED THRONE

Father and Elder Brother Must Consent, It Is Said.

By Associated Press. ATHENS, Oct. 26.—The throne of Greece, made vacant by the death of King Alexander, will be offered to Prince Paul, third son of former King Constantine, it is officially announced.

ATHENS, Oct. 26.—Many difficulties regarding the succession to the Greek throne will result from the death of King Alexander which occurred last night. There is every indication that the throne will be offered Prince Paul third son of former King Constantine, but as a condition Constantine must formally abdicate and Prince George, another brother of Prince Paul, must renounce his rights.

Only in the event of Constantine's persistent refusal would there be a question of establishing a republic. It is known however that Premier Venizelos is of the opinion that Greece is not ready for that form of government.

Alexander succeeded to the throne of Greece in June 1917 when his father, King Constantine, abdicated in response to the demand of France, Great Britain and Russia, the three powers which had guaranteed the constitutional liberties of the Greek people. Alexander was the second son of Constantine and at the time of his accession was not quite 24 years old. His elder brother, Crown Prince George, was considered ineligible for the throne because of alleged pro-German sympathies.

In any event, King Constantine nominated Alexander to succeed him. The fall of Constantine had been brought through the agency of the French senator, M. Jonnard, who went to Athens in June 1917 as a representative of the three great powers on the ground that this step would establish unity of feeling among the Greeks and greater security for the Entente forces then operating in the East. Constantine had been accused of pro-German sympathies partly on account of his marriage to the Princess Sophie, sister of the then Emperor William of Germany, and it also was charged that he had not acted honorably toward the Allies. Alexander, on the other hand, was reported to be free from pro-German proclivities.

Constantine left Athens and took up his residence in Switzerland. Alexander took the oath of office at Athens in August, 1917, and promised to carry out the policy of his father. This was said to have shocked the Entente powers. It soon was reported that he was at odds with Premier Venizelos and had refused to abandon his idea of continuing his father's program. Some doubts were raised as to the advisability of permitting him to assume the throne unless he discontinued what was characterized as an obstructive policy.

On Oct. 3 he was bitten by a monkey while endeavoring to protect his dog from an attack. His wound became infected and several operations for the removal of flesh were performed. His condition for several days was reported to be critical.

CHICAGO BANDIT WAGES BATTLE WITH 300 POLICEMEN

By Associated Press. CHICAGO, Oct. 26.—Patrol Sergeant Edward Marpool was killed early today by an unidentified bandit who later met death after fighting four pitched battles with police. Marpool, answering a call, met two bandits and was killed before he could draw his gun. Three hundred policemen drew a cordon around the district and took up a hunt for the slayers. Four times the bandit tried to break through and was driven back after fights. Firing finally ceased and when the police advanced they found the bandit dead in a vacant lot.

By Associated Press. AUSTIN, Oct. 26.—Motor vehicles registered with the Texas Highway commission up to Oct. 20 had reached 409,484; and officials predicted that the total registration for this year would exceed 430,000, which would be 100,000 above the number registered last year.

WHISKY SMUGGLERS ATTACK TRAIN CREWS

SPOKANE, Wash., Oct. 26.—Attacks upon trainmen and car inspectors by alleged whisky smugglers along the Canadian border led to the dispatching of armed guards to the east part of Idaho, according to the announcement of W. E. Stauffen, chief agent of the Spokane International railway. The men, reports say, are importing large quantities of liquor and declared that they will "shoot their way through" if denied access to freight cars.

THAT RUMOR

So far as can be learned from the Breckenridge Chamber of Commerce, the Hamon-Kell railway, the telephone company and numerous travelers arriving from there today, Breckenridge has not burned up, as rumor has it, nor has there been any considerable blaze there at all. The only fire in that vicinity was when the crown block of a well ignited through friction. It was put out with a bucket of water, applied by a quick-witted employe.

SOAP BUBBLES AND MIRTH MUSIC AND MASCULARITY SPICE MAJESTIC BILL

Music and near-music make a melody sandwich at the Majestic this week, the solid features of the bill being a trained dog act and a gen of an acrobatic trio and the part of lettuce leaves falling to Griff, the British nut, who, according to his conversation, thinks of himself and his soap bubbles.

The musical numbers range from Callis and Lambert in a duo of talk songs with a very good accompaniment, through the Hawaiian troupe with a poppiness act including some lonesome dancing, to Diana Bonnar formerly of the Chicago Grand Opera who has some gorgeous garments some striking red hair and a voice that reaches way down into your heart and makes it purr.

WAS WORTH ITS WEIGHT IN GOLD

Mrs. Proctor Values Tanlac Highly—Gains Twenty-Five Pounds.

"A medicine that will do as much for anyone as Tanlac did for me is worth its weight in gold," said Mrs. Sydney Proctor, 524 College street, St. James, Winnipeg, Manitoba, Canada.

"Last Winter," continued Mrs. Proctor, "I was so run down and weak it was all I could do to get around the house by holding onto the chairs and furniture. I had no appetite and everything I managed to eat seemed to lie in my stomach and sour, causing so much gas and palpitation that I could hardly breathe. I had terrible dizzy spells, and was so nervous the least thing upset me and I had a pain across my back all the time. I had splitting headaches, never knew what it was to get a good night's rest and of mornings I felt simply dreadful. I was told my condition was the after-effects of 'flu,' which I had earlier in the winter, but I could find nothing to help me at all.

"Tanlac was so highly recommended I resolved to try it and it certainly proved its worth to me. I have gotten back my lost strength and now do all my housework easily. I eat ravenously, digest everything perfectly and have gained about twenty-five pounds in weight. Every one of my troubles is gone and it is a pleasure to have this opportunity to recommend Tanlac."
Tanlac is sold in Ranger by Phillips Bros., and in Eastland by Butler Drug Co.—Adv.

GIGANTIC GERMAN MOVIE, THAT COST MILLIONS, TO BE SHOWN IN THIS COUNTRY AT EARLY DATE

By FRANK E. MASON, International News Service Staff Correspondent.

BERLIN, Oct. 26.—German movie producers are mobilizing to invade the world film market. The great general staff of the associated film producers will not make a direct frontal attack with waving banners bearing the familiar old legend, "Made in Germany," but have planned an offensive of quiet camouflage penetration.

Everything typically German is being excluded from the new production and the most rabid film-hunter will sit there the performance with real pleasure and not the least suspicion that the source of his entertainment is the land of his former enemy. In films of modern society stories the greatest care is taken to create an atmosphere which might as readily represent Washington, London or Paris as Berlin.

In outdoor scenes there is never a German sign or billboard to betray the export salesman who is charged with selling the American, British and French fights. The villain doesn't drop his black-mail letter into some handily Berlin or London mail box, instead a simple street mail box is constructed which might belong to the land of anywhere. And when the villain is arrested in the last reel it isn't the ubiquitous, helmeted Berlin bluecoat who fastens the handcuffs, but a nondescript policeman who looks suspiciously like a Paris gendarme.

Some Big Productions. The big films which are intended primarily for sale in America and Europe are historical stories—the plots and locations of which are anything rather than German. Millions of marks have been spent in producing "Madame Dubarry," a story of the French Revolution; "Sun-Run," a tale of the Orient; and "Anne Bolero," a reproduction of sixteenth century London.

How do you think America will like this? asked a director of the "Universa," film company of Germany during the filming of "Anne Bolero." It was necessary to concede that aside from national prejudice, and based purely on an artistic standpoint, that America would be loath to admit it was a pretty good production, in a class with "The Birth of a Nation."

Cost Over Million. "Anne Bolero" cost more than five million marks to produce, which is more than one million dollars at the present rate of exchange. By the most optimistic estimate of investors, the Universal company couldn't expect that the sale in Germany would recoup the cost of the monster production. The directors readily admit this, but cheerfully reveal that the profits on its exportation will not only pay all the expenses but will bring a handsome profit.

German films during the war and the first year of the armistice were of so poor a quality, both from the technical standpoint and also of content and interest that they would have bankrupted a movie theatre in an American cross roads village. Mighty strides have been taken during the last year and today the elaborate historical films make even the American film connoisseurs express their admiration. For the movie "Anne Bolero" a full-size reproduction of the front premises of the Westminster Abbey was built, with an old English street as long as two big American city blocks leading to it. Four thousand costumed "sires" cheered Henry VIII, and Anne on their way to the coronation.

U. S. Movies in Berlin. America is not making very rapid progress in her film invasion of Germany. A New York firm has purchased the new Scala theatre in Berlin, which has a seating capacity of 3,000, and which they plan to make the most beautiful movie house in Europe. The programme calls for opening with America's favorite stars such as Doug and Mary and Charlie, in the month of January. The German government granted an important license for 150,000 feet of film German grain merchants and packing houses, who are anxious to import foods and who have not been able to secure a government license, immediately raised a howl which was heard all over Germany. They demand an investigation of the film license and call on popular sympathy to prevent what they name the importation of luxuries, while Germany is suffering and not permitted to buy food.

DRIVER WATERED MILK, DAIRYMAN PAYS FINE

Two charges of food adulteration followed the visit to Ranger of Joy Jayne, state food inspector, yesterday. J. W. Owens, owner of the Silver Moon dairy, pleaded guilty to selling watered milk. A. A. Orth, of the Oren Lottling Works, entered a plea of guilty under a charge of using saccharine in the bottled goods offered for sale. In each case Justice of the Peace Roger Fenlar assessed the fine at $25 and court costs, which made a total of $35.70.

The dairyman, Owens, stated that the water in the milk being sold was placed there by one of his drivers without his knowledge. This man, he said, had no knowledge of such use being given to the milk.

ENRAGED GIRL KILLS HER FIANCE WHO CASTS HER OFF ON WEDDING NIGHT, LOVES HIM

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—For several weeks William Snesky, 23, and his sweetheart, Miss Mary Reddi, 18, both of 19 Saros avenue, Willington, N. J., had been preparing for their wedding, which was set for today. Friends had received invitations and Snesky's mother had given over the house, a cozily furnished two-story cottage, to the young couple. But gossip began pouring slander into William's ears.

Believing the gossips, the police say, William cast aside his affianced bride yesterday, and when he ordered her from the house she fired a bullet through his heart. She is locked up in the Bergen county jail on a charge of manslaughter.

Eight months ago, Miss Reddi, a brunette and quite pretty, obtained work in the surgical instrument factory of the Garfield Manufacturing company, Passaic. William had been employed there for a short time. They became engaged a short time after their first meeting, and William took her home to his mother.

Two weeks ago they obtained a leave of absence from their employers and set about brightening up their future home. The girl's story to the police of what transpired yesterday follows:

"We both had luncheon and then I washed the dishes and put them away. The work finished, I turned to where William stood, anticipating the usual kiss. But instead I was astounded to behold his changed appearance. His arms were folded and there was a sneer on his lips. I put my hand on his shoulder. He caught hold of it and pulling me toward him said:

"Mary, I cannot marry you tomorrow, I've heard too many things at the factory. You must leave my house at once."

"My God, William, do you mean that?" I said.

"Yes," said he, "I'll give you three minutes to pack your things and go away."

"I ran up stairs to my room. There was a revolver on a table. I picked it up and placed it inside my dress. Then I went down stairs. William was standing in the parlor. He again began abusing me and once more grasped my left arm.

"With my right hand I drew the revolver and before I realized what I was doing I shot him. I loved him and still love him. I thought I had only wounded him. I ran to the kitchen and got a glass of water. Kneeling beside him I placed the water to his lips, but he could not drink. Then I ran next door to a neighbor."

your fellow-trade unionists seated here who cannot be deceived into imitating the Russian catastrophe," shouted Dumerec. "Why, some of your own men, munition workers, who sit up late nights voting resolutions of support to the Soviet government, begged to be allowed to work sixteen hours a day making shells for the Poles to use against the Bolsheviks, because they could make more money."

Something may happen to change the policy of the workers of France before next summer, but it is quite unlikely. Undoubtedly next May first will bring a recurrence of the annual stories of revolution and probably of the annual clash between police and labor demonstrators with some fatalities. But the whole body of French labor seems to be moving along a path quite as peaceful and even a little more so than is labor in the United States.

WOMAN DRESSED AS MAN CAN CLAIM NO SPECIAL RIGHTS WHEN SHE FIGHTS

AUSTIN, Oct. 26.—When a woman discards feminine garments for men's clothes and the masquerade is thorough enough to lead an observer to believe the woman to be a man, the woman loses some of her rights under the law, the court of criminal appeals held in effect in an opinion reversing the judgment of the lower courts under which Bartos Vyoral of Liberty county was fined $250 for aggravated assault upon a Mrs. Garret.

According to the statement of facts, Vyoral, while driving an automobile, met Mrs. Garret, who was in a buggy. Vyoral testified that the woman had on a man's hat and shirt and that he thought she was a man. She refused, he testified, to draw to the right side of the road far enough to let him pass and he alighted from his car and attempted to lead the horse from his right of way, when the woman threw a wrench at him. He threw the wrench back with better aim and hit the woman, whom he testified he thought was a man. The case was reversed because the judge denied to show that the woman had entered suit for damages against Vyoral, but the higher court stated that the lower court also erred in failing to charge the jury that the defendant had right to plead mistaken facts, and thus attempt to reduce the offense from an aggravated to a simple assault, which it would have been had he hit a man.

OVERALLS FAIL TO CONCEAL GIRL "HOBOES"

Mary Peters, left, and Elsie Hawkins. Tired of roaming and homesick for mother's cooking, Mary Peters and Elsie Hawkins, step-sisters, purchased overalls at New York, threw their dresses away and started towards their home in New Castle, Pa., in a coal car. They were pulled out of the car in a Chicago railroad yard and are being held at the detention home there pending the arrival of their parents. The girls ran away "to see the country," they say, several days ago. They thought that with overalls as disguises they would be able to "beat their way" home as they had read of men doing.

FAMOUS ROYAL MAIL STAGES OF KLONDIKE COUNTRY GROW OBSOLETE, END USEFULNESS

International News Service. SEATTLE, Wash., Oct. 26.—The royal mail stages of the Klondike have passed.

No longer will the famous stages of the White Pass and Yukon Route, drawn by fleet-footed horses, steered by picturesque drivers who knew no fear, go flying over the white trail north from Dawson into the Klondike. The frozen hills of the North country no more will echo back and forth the weird, stirring malarumite call of the stage drivers as they brought their vehicles through the canyons and passes, or the beating of hoofs that heralded the sleds of the royal mail, the king's mail—they have gone.

News of the passing of a great work is contained in the announcement of the White Pass and Yukon route that it will no longer be able to operate the stages because of increasing costs, and must therefore shut down.

And so, when snow flies, in a few weeks, over the Klondike, there will be no stages to take up the work. After twenty years of service, service as regular as morning and night, the stages have stopped. Unless some other company takes up the work, there will be no communication with the "inside," and the Klondike will drop back into the primeval isolation which was hers before the white man came in the great rush for gold.

But many who knew the royal mail stages have gone. The Klondike kings whose pleasure it was to ride forth on the stages elbow to elbow with the incoming prospectors have, for the most part, gone their way. "Swiftwater Bill" Gates, "Big Aleck" McDonald, famous Skookum Jim the Indian, Jack Boyle and Thomas S. Lippy, great men of great times, were some of them. And "Swiftwater Bill" is somewhere south in a South American mining camp; Tom Lippy is a Seattle banker and president of the Port Commission. "Big Aleck" sleeps on the endless trail in the Dawson cemetery. Skookum Jim is also dead, gone to the happy hunting grounds. Jack Boyle was one of the Klondike heroes of the great war, and is now regarded as the friend and benefactor of the Rumanian royal family.

Had Noted Drivers.—"Hobo Bill" and "Big Slim" were two of them; two of the gallant company that plied back and forth in the Arctic night perched on the speeding sled, guiding their horses with miraculously accuracy as they skidded over the snow, the hard packed snow that was like marble. It was an fresh relays of horses every twenty miles and Yukon royal mail service the great white trail followed the route of the Yukon river. But a new trail was built through the magnificent scenery by the Canadian government. An overland route. And not only the stages used this trail, but practically all of the multitude of travelers, prospectors, patrols of the Royal Northwest Mounted police, went back and forth from trading post to trading camp.

And now the famous old stages are gone, the stages of the royal mail. But the great white trail remains, the great white line of the overland trail that links the Klondike with the outside world during the long Arctic winter.

WOULD USE CONVICTS FOR ROAD IMPROVEMENT

By Associated Press. AUSTIN, Oct. 26.—The enactment by the next legislature of a law to provide that short time convicts be worked on public roads will be urged by Representative L. B. Fairchild of Angelina county, according to a statement he made in Austin recently.

Representative Fairchild said he would introduce a bill proposing that all convicts receiving from one to three year sentences be employed the full time on the public roads of the county from which they are sentenced. He added that he favors the proposition of the state owning a cement plant, operated by convict labor, to furnish cement for road building. The representative declared that private individuals now have what amounts to a monopoly of the cement trade and that it is not possible to obtain this material for public enterprises without the payment of exorbitant prices.

COTTON MADE RECORD PRICE DROP AT DENISON

By Associated Press. DENISON, Texas, Oct. 26.—When middling cotton was quoted at 15 cents a pound on the local market on Oct. 19, it was the first time in five years that the staple had reached such a low figure. In four weeks' time middling cotton had slumped from 38 cents a pound to 15—a record drop for North Texas. After the first hectic days of the war and late in 1915, the local cotton market soared and although it fluctuated wildly, it never dropped as low as 15 cents.

Pooling of Farm Products Solution of Price Problem

CORPUS CHRISTI, Oct. 26.—All products controlled by the farmers and stock growing interests of the United States will enter holding pools unless government aid is forthcoming to finance the sending of these crops to Europe and stabilization of the market, in the opinion of Fred Roberts, president of the United Cotton Growers of America, who attended the recent agricultural conference in Washington.

As soon as plans can be received for the standard government warehouse for the storage of cotton, which must be built in order to obtain favorable fire insurance, Mr. Roberts said his organization would start organizing farmers of Nueces county in a warehouse association. As soon as a local organization is complete other units of the same sort will be organized throughout the cotton growing counties of Texas, the efforts being to have a sufficient number of warehouses constructed before the cotton season of 1921 to store such part of the crop as can not find ready market.

A recent attempt to pool the 25,000 bales of Nueces county cotton now held by individuals for better market prices, proved a failure because of refusal of warehouse men in Houston and Galveston to give pooled cotton space, Mr. Roberts said. However, he made plain individuals might store all the cotton they wished in the same warehouse. The only hope for obtaining joint action will be for the farmers to construct their own warehouses under a cooperative arrangement, he said.

MUSSEL SHELL BEDS OF TEXAS TO BE EXPLOITED

By Associated Press. AUSTIN, Oct. 26.—Texas mussel, or fresh water clam beds will be exploited by representatives of pearl factories of Iowa, who have started a survey of the San Saba, Llano and Concho rivers, where they will begin work soon.

Aside from the fact that the shells are worth from $50 to $170 per ton, depending upon their size and color for making buttons and other articles, Texas mussels bear pearls of varying value and the pearl fish is expected to bring a considerable portion of the profits of the enterprise.

The state will receive a royalty of $1 per ton for all shell gathered and a license of $10 for each operator will be charged.

FRANCE UNAFFECTED BY INDUSTRIAL ROWS IN NEIGHBOR NATIONS

By NEWTON C. PARKE, International News Service Staff Correspondent. PARIS, Oct. 26.—Despite a steady increase in the cost of living in France last summer and frank statements that prices will go higher this winter, there is no prospect of a spread of bolshevism and absolutely no danger of any of the kind of serious industrial disturbances recently witnessed in Italy and England.

As cold weather approaches labor conditions may become more unsettled and the country may experience a few strikes. But the decisive manner in which the General Federation of Labor voted down bolshevism at its recent convention at Orleans indicated the temper of the working classes even better than the failure of the attempt last summer to carry out a general strike. Right now French labor is the most stable, unrevolutionary organization of its kind in all France.

Figures presented at the international congress on finance at Brussels showed the cost of living in France to be higher than in any civilized nation in the world and about twice as high as in the United States. The report made by the council of the League of Nations, taking the figure 100 as a basis, put the present cost of living in leading countries as follows: France, 330; Italy, 300; Norway, 298; Switzerland, 297; England, 235; Holland, 199; United States, 198.

But salaries of the average workingman in France has been creeping steadily higher, partly keeping pace with the increased cost of living. Naturally this has resulted in steady increases in the prices of most commodities. How far this so-called "vicious circle" will continue to turn before a wave of price-cutting sets in, is impossible to determine. The French newspapers report reports of price reductions in the United States alongside stories of increased meat prices in France and inquire sadly when the tide will turn in their country. Some economic writers think the break will come early next spring.

The absence of unemployment on any large scale is one of the principal factors working for industrial peace. Resumption of industrial activity in all branches and the rehabilitation of the war devastated regions have brought jobs to nearly all the demobilized soldiers and even the radical labor organs have no complaint to make on his score.

The Cachin section of the Socialist party, led by Marcel Cachin, who wants the French workers to join the Bolsheviks, met with an overwhelming defeat at a General Federation of Labor meeting. One of the most convincing speeches against Cachin's program was delivered by M. Dumerec, one of the delegates, who declared a revolution was now impossible in France.

"If you Cachinists try to start a revolution you will find yourselves facing machine guns and rifles in the hands of

BERLIN REDS SQUABBLE FOR MONEY CONTROL

Division of Spoils Causes Disension among Radical Elements.

By FRANK E. MASON
International News Service.
BERLIN, Oct. 26.—There's a merry little row on between Germany's reds, light reds, pinks, whiskered bolsheviks, parlor bolsheviks and almost bolsheviks about the source of the campaign funds of their respective political groups.

The "rot" called the kettle black when Freiheit accused the Rote Fahne (red flag) of being supported by contributions from Moscow. The Rote Fahne didn't bother to deny the charges, they simply started in to prove that Freiheit had only been deriving her revenue from the same source.

"We make no secret of the fact that our Russian brothers have supported us financially," replied the Rote Fahne. "But we are also ready to prove and give the names of the prominent leaders of the independents who today are fighting against Moscow, and state the high sums which they have accepted from Russia."

Freiheit then declared it preferred to drop the matter. Whereupon Vorwaertz, the has-been organ of the reds, made up a neat little verse advising the Freiheit and Rote Fahne: "An offer and a threat at the same time: Speak no more of my subsidy and never again will I mention thine."

"Don't be so per!" retorts the Rote Fahne. "Don't forget that Vorwaertz party paid for its campaign propaganda from the funds of the home service budget, which is government money. The old Social Democratic party is the first and only of the labor parties which paid for its agitation, not with its funds, but by money taken from the state treasury."

BEARS ARE WISE; THEY SWIPE NIGHT SHIRTS FOR USE AS MOSQUITO BARS

By Associated Press
LAKE CHARLES, La., Oct. 2.—Jim Slocum, who lives with his family over on the edge of the big woods, was in town recently stocking up on night-shirts. Monday night Mr. Slocum was awakened by strange noises out behind the house. He arose and saw out in the moonlight two old bears and two cubs fooling around the family washing which hung on the line. Just as he looked out papa bear was sticking his head out of the collar of Mr. Slocum's night shirt. In half a minute his arms were in the sleeves. A clip at the clothes pins and the trick was done. Mamma bear and the cubs followed suit. Each in order appropriated the night apparel of Mrs. Slocum and the two Slocum children. Within five minutes four ridiculous white creatures were making for the woods on the gallop. Mr. Slocum was so astonished he forgot he even owned a gun. Mr. Slocum says the mosquitoes have been quite bothersome of late and the bears are wise.

The foregoing was sent to the editor of the Lake Charles, La., American press by the Rev. Bruce B. Corbin, pastor of the Simpson Methodist Episcopal church, Lake Charles, La., who vouches for the integrity and veracity of Mr. Slocum.

Hunting Bargains in Ranger

Bargains discovered in trips through Ranger shops and department stores are here presented briefly, for the benefit of Times readers.

I. The Winner Store has a very complete line of infants' and children's caps, sweaters and wraps.

II. In the Agnes Dillard Millinery Shop is a light blue duvelyn hat with cut-in brim, which is rounded out by a black mulline under facing. Each cut place is trimmed with a tiny black ostrich tip. A silver ribbon ties around the crown and makes the streamers. A dark blue veivie chin-chin model has unique embroidered designs in the imitation of peacock feathers on the under facing. Gold and silver thread make the outline, while the "spots" are reproduced in glass beads.

III. I found an interesting bargain at the Guaranty Shoe Store this morning in black and brown pure thread silk hose with elastic lisle tops for $1.50 and $2.00. The $2.00 quality is a full fashioned hose of splendid quality. Both are worth while bargains.

IV. A very youthful looking suit received at Hume's yesterday is a duvet de laine material in beaver shade. The wide oddly shaped panel front and blouse panel back with the long tasseled belt knitted in back are all new. The soft nutria fur collar fastens across the front with a wide fold of the material. Some new coats received in this shipment are soft and wrappy looking and reasonably priced. A dark blue velvet has the new blouse back and big collar, a row of cloth covered buttons down the back has several rows of stitching on either side. This shop also carries a big line of sweaters.

V. At the S. & H. Store may be found the newest thing in hand painted lace collars and cuffs in a variety of designs and colors. These are guaranteed to launder in water or clean in gasoline. At this shop are some very exclusive hand made undergarments. A pretty two-piece suit of orchid crepe de chine trimmed with insertions of lavender georgette hem-stitched in, made a lovely color combination.

GRAYSON PIONEER WAS ACTIVE BUSINESS MAN AT HUNDRED AND ONE

DENISON, Oct. 26.—Colonel James B. McDougal, pioneer Grayson county resident, who died here recently at the age of 101, was one of the last survivors of the early days in North Texas, when the "six shooter" was the guarantee of a man's safety and when the law was in the hands of the powerful.

Col. McDougal was an heroic figure in his rugged nature and strong constitution kept him fit for business until ten days before his death. He was acting vice-president of the Denison Bank & Trust company at the time of his death and director in various other financial institutions and concerns in Denison and North Texas.

The early settlers of Texas recall "McDougal's bar," a tavern where good cheer and charity were dispensed with the cheer of the genial but taciturn colonel. Col. McDougal came to Texas in the early 70's. He amassed a fortune estimated at close to $1,000,000.

Tax Rate to Be Officially Set This Afternoon

The tax rate for Ranger for the current year will be $1.75 on the $100 valuation. This figure has been agreed upon by the mayor and the city commissioners and will probably be adopted officially at the commission meeting this afternoon. This is an increase of 25 cents over the past year. This amount will be collected on approximately $11,000,000, the taxable valuation of the city.

Only a tentative budget has been prepared to care for the city's outlay. This matter will also be discussed at the meeting this afternoon.

Ranger's present tax rate is 44 cents below that of the Dallas rate for last year. That city's assessment being $2.19 on the $100 valuation. From its income the city keeps up and pays the overhead of the police department, the fire department, the administration, which includes the tax assessor, the city secretary, building and plumbing inspector, the engineering department, the sewer, the disposal plant, the streets, street lighting bills, and many other items included in the city management.

To care for the large expense a large income is required.

WHAT KIND OF NIGHT DOES HAVE THAT EFFECT

Two arrests and charges of drunkenness in one night were made last night by Charles Naake. Charles liquored up early in the evening, it being that kind of evening. It was cold and misty and everything so it cannot be held against him. Probably others would have done the same thing if they had had the source. Any way Charles was "gently lit" and ran afoul of the law. He was allowed to sleep if off then paid out; $15.70, was the price. Evidently the cold and everything got into Charles' blood again or else someone else knew where the supply was, for late in the night Charles was "sublimely lighted" and promptly went again. The police however took an unfair advantage of him while he honorably snored the last jag away. The price was raised on him and this morning $20.70 was the price of his liberty.

To Flirt: Verb, Intransitive

BELTON, Texas, Oct. 26.—An ordinance against "smashing" passed recently, has apparently taken the joy out of flirting on public streets and is gradually ridding Belton of male offenders, officers say.

The ordinance, which provides that violators shall be fined not more than $25, rather lengthily defines the term "to flirt" as meaning "any word, sign, act, or motion, uttered, or made by any person toward another which is reasonably calculated to have been made with the intention on the part of the person so uttering such word or attention for the purpose of playing at courtship with such other person."

The measure was passed following complaints that girl students from Baylor college had been annoyed and embarrassed by young men of the town.

JOSEPH MUST ENJOY THOSE FREE RIDES ACROSS THE BRINY

By Associated Press
LONDON, Oct. 26.—Joseph Newsome, an American subject at Willesden court with returning to this country after being deported to America as an undesirable, was described by the magistrate as a "human shuttlecock."

Newsome told the magistrate that after arriving in America, he went before a board to whom he admitted that he had well-to-do relatives in England. He said they gave him a ticket and passport for Liverpool and put him aboard a ship. He told them he was an American subject and had only just been deported from England, but they told him to return to his rich relatives.

The magistrate said it was a remarkable story and remanded him for injuries to be made at the Home Office.

BOLSHEVIK 'POISONED NEEDLE' RESEMBLES SMALL FOUNTAIN PEN

By Associated Press
DETROIT, Oct. 26.—One of the mysterious "poisoned needles," with which bolshevik agents caused a series of terror here, was found in a street car the other day. It is a modern, hypodermic syringe but has the appearance of a small fountain pen, probably to escape suspicion. The needle is extremely small and makes a puncture so minute that it is scarcely felt.

The reason found in the pen is yellowish and unknown to chemists, who are trying to analyze it. Inside the syringe is the trademark in red, "Made in Russia."

President Wilson has appointed Miss Nellie E. Rodabaugh to be receiver of public moneys at Vernal, Utah.

'WOBBLES' PLOT TO RELEASE PRISONERS FROM LEAVENWORTH

By Associated Press
KANSAS CITY, Oct. 26.—Forty-six persons were arrested late last night when the police raided a meeting at Kansas City, Kan., at which authorities said speakers asked for funds with which to bring about the release of I. W. W. prisoners sentenced to the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth. After being questioned at police headquarters, all but sixteen were released. Those detained are being held for the federal authorities, it was stated.

SWEEPING CUTS IN STAPLES NOTED IN RESERVE BANK REPORT

By Associated Press
KANSAS CITY, Oct. 26.—Newly every staple produced in the Tenth Federal Reserve Bank district was affected during September and early October by price reductions more sweeping than any since the peak of war prices reached last year, according to the monthly statement of the bank made public today. No violent upheaval took place, and in many places a tone of cheerfulness was noted.

ARGENTINE RESTRICTS CRUDE OIL SUPPLY

MEXICO CITY, Mex., Oct. 26.—Information has been received that Argentina is taking steps to put that republic's supply of crude oil under strong government control for the purpose of keeping a large amount in the country for the use of its industries, railroads and ships. The proposed Argentine legislation, according to the reports received here, is even more drastic than article 27 of the new Mexican constitution.

SUMMER SCHOOLS SHOW INCREASED ATTENDANCE

AUSTIN, Oct. 26.—Interesting figures relative to the University of Texas and other schools of the state are found in an article appearing in the October issue of School Life, a monthly magazine issued by the Federal Bureau of Education. The article has to do with summer schools, and gives figures and reports from 264 such schools in America with an attendance of 250,000 students in 1920. Figures given show that twelve Texas universities, colleges and normal schools reporting had a summer school enrollment of 9,009, as opposed to 7,294 reported in 1919. The increase in enrollment was, therefore, 1,715, a larger increase than in any other state except Pennsylvania.

According to the same figures, Texas is third in number of summer students enrolled, New York standing first with 22,816, Pennsylvania second with 9,858, then Texas with her 9,009. The largest of all summer schools is given as that of Columbia University, with almost ten thousand students. The University of Texas stands eleventh in this list, with 1,975 students, close behind the Illinois State Normal university with 1,983, and the University of Virginia with 1,990. The University of Missouri, the University of Illinois, Northwestern University, the University of Indiana, Harvard University, and other schools of the North and East.

DEAR OLD PETE:

Just wound up the one swellest day of my life! Since early this morning, when I got an invitation to visit R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co. factories, I've been in the midst of millions of Camel cigarettes.

Man—the happiest idea you or I ever had as to the size of this Reynolds enterprise, or the number of Camels manufactured daily, is simply piker-stuff! Wipe off the slate and start fresh! Why—Pete, it seemed to me like a couple of those cigarette-making machines could keep half the nation smoking Camels steadily—BUT—honest to goodness, there are hundreds of these machines batting out Camels at the rate of 27,000 an hour—EACH!

Pete, you wouldn't have to consult a guide book to know you were in the Camel factories! The atmosphere is charged with that wonderful aroma you get when you open up a deck of Camels! And, you know, old elephant—you've had a trunk full!

As the Camels dropped into the containers I figured the delight each one would supply! And, how Camels mellow, mild body would hit the right spot and how Camels refreshing flavor would cheer up some smoker's jaded appetite! And, each Camel free from any unpleasant cigarety aftertaste or unpleasant cigarety odor! And—

Pete—I'll have to lay off and light another Camel! Write you some more soon.

Yours joyously

NOTORIOUS CRIMINALS CAPTURED IN BANK HOLDUP

Bandits killed and wounded. "Jiggs" Losteiner, at left; Albert Joyce, center, and Harry Stone, right. Below, picture of bank, scene of holdup. Arrows point to bullet holes in bank window and riddled windshield of bandits' car. Six bullets were fired through the windshield within a six-inch circle.

Eight bandits, at least three of whom boasted of long criminal records, attempted to "make a haul" of $50,000 at the Bedford, O., branch bank of the Cleveland Trust Company. An alarm system connecting the bank with nearby stores, warned neighboring store keepers. These men, armed heavily, met the bandits as they left the bank and in the battle that followed "Jiggs" Losteiner and Harry Stone were wounded and captured and Albert Joyce, another gunman, was killed. A fourth bandit also was captured.

AUSTIN, Oct. 25.—Faulty appliances and ranges and stoves not properly designed to burn gas cause a large waste, according to a statement from the oil and gas division of the Texas Railroad commission which endorsed the following suggestions for saving gas, which recently published by the Kansas natural gas conservation committee:

Do you have trouble with fumes? If you have, it is due to a close-top stove. All properly designed ranges have open tops. Do you clean your burners regularly? If you will boil your burners in lye it will make them more efficient.

AMERICAN WOMAN'S FORTUNE MAY BUY GREEK HUSBY HIS COUNTRY'S THRONE

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—That the vast fortune of an American woman may place her Greek husband on the throne of his country, and thereby make her queen, is the startling rumor from Greece. The report comes with the news that King Alexander is dead. The woman is the wife of Prince Christopher, brother of the ex-King Constantine and uncle of King Alexander. She was formerly Mrs. William B. Leeds, widow of the late U. S. senator. It is said the prince is as ambitious as his wife, whose fortune is estimated at from 20,000,000 to 300,000,000.

INFORMATION CHARGED THE DEFENDANTS WITH VIOLATING THE STATE INDUSTRIAL LAW BY CALLING A GENERAL STRIKE OF COAL MINERS IN NOVEMBER OF LAST YEAR.

On November 19, 1919, the day following the strike call, the state industrial commission ordered the union officials in Colorado to "withdraw, rescind and cancel" the strike order. The commission's order was disobeyed, following which criminal informations were filed against the miners' leaders. The defendants were arrested and released on bond.

Counsel for the defendants held that neither the district court nor the industrial commission had jurisdiction in the premises. Judge Bradford ruled that both tribunals had ample jurisdiction. He declared that the calling of the strike was inimical to public interest in that it involved the general suspension of one of the necessities of life. The court intimated that had the strike been called at only one mine the interests of the public would not have been seriously jeopardized.

BUSINESS COURSE IS POPULAR AT TEXAS UNIVERSITY

AUSTIN, Oct. 26.—Probably the most remarkable growth of any department of the main branch of the University of Texas has been that of the department of business administration, now in its eighth year. Starting with only two men as a teaching staff, and about thirty students in all its courses, the department now has a teaching staff of more than fifteen, including student assistants, and a total enrollment of more than 1,000. Prof. Spurgeon Bell is head of the department.

Some of the most interesting and valuable courses given are business law, covering briefly but comprehensively practically all questions of law likely to come up in the regular course of business; the income tax, a course designed to make the student familiar with the United States income tax law, both in theory and in actual practice; property insurance, investments, and others.

FORMER POLITICAL LEADER IN MEXICO SEEKS TO RETURN TO MEXICO UNDER NEW REGIME

By LOUIS P. KIRBY,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

MEXICO CITY, Mexico, Oct. 26.—Don Luis Cabrerera, who was secretary of the Treasury under President Carranza, has asked the Mexican government for permission to return to Mexico. No announcement has yet been made as to what action the government will take in the matter, but it is known that powerful influences are working both for and against General Cabrerera.

Those who want to see him back in Mexico are old Carranza supporters and financiers with whom he has many interests. Those who oppose him are supporters of the new government, who assert that his was the dominant mind back of Carranza and that he is to be blamed for many of Carranza's blunders and acts which brought him unpopularity. These opposers also assert that Cabrerera would be a disintegrating influence in Mexico. They say that back of his polished, ingratiating manners is the mind of a constitutional mischief-maker.

Would Publish Newspaper.
In making application for permission to return, General Cabrerera said that he desired to take charge of a publication in Mexico City. This publication it is believed, is the new daily newspaper, La Vanguardia, which is backed by wealthy ex-supporters of Carranza and is directed by Ernesto Hidalgo, who was President Carranza's private secretary.

It is not understood how General Cabrerera could find time to direct a newspaper and attend to his multitudinous other interests in Mexico. Opposers say that if he gets back to Mexico City he will spend little of his time in the newspaper office.

General Cabrerera fled from the country when the Carranza government was overturned.

Horse Delayed Escape.
A story is told in Mexico City that Cabrerera's horse was the cause of Carranza's great and fatal misfortune. When Carranza fled from Mexico City he rode on a train that was nearly two miles long. There were twenty-two sections, but these were practically linked together, with the exception of three which the rebels captured when they were pulling out of the city. The sections were merely divided by the engines, which pushed one section and pulled another.

It was Carranza's intention to leave the city under cover of darkness, but daylight came while boxes of documents, money, baggage and horses were being put aboard the trains. When all was about ready there was a hitch because a magnificent stallion, the mount of the general, balked and would not go into a car. Because of the importance of the animal and his desire to have the splendid animal with him in case of duties compelled him to appear before the troops, nearly two hours were spent in coaxing the horse into the car. The horse is said to have been General Cabrerera's favorite steed.

Captured Supplies.
When the trains began to move the rebels were entering the city from all directions and were able to capture three sections, one bearing the doctors, nurses, medical supplies; another loaded with artillery and the third containing airplanes. This was a heavy loss, as Carranza was forced to fight his battles along the way without artillery, excepting six cannons, which one of his officers picked up on the way.

The long delay in departure enabled the rebels to take official measures to block the progress of the train.

Cabrerera's friends say that he did not own the horse and was not responsible for the delay in getting the rebels to block the progress of the train.

When General Cabrerera left Mexico, after Carranza's tragic death, he went to New York.

COWS WIN ENGAGEMENTS WITH ARTILLERY SOLDIERS

International News Service.
MORRISTOWN, Ohio, Oct. 26.—Cows in the vicinity won two engagements—night attacks—with batteries of field artillery.

A Camp Knox outfit camped in the national park. Next morning the gunners awoke to find parts of shirts, breeches and other clothing which had been left on gun caissons and tent ropes, had been chewed into rags by the milk producers.

Another outfit from the same camp a short time afterward camped in the same pasture field. Not having received warning from the intelligence corps of the presence of an "enemy," these camping soldiers, too, left clothing outside their tents.

Everywhere the coats of khaki induced development in the cows of an appetite for that flavor. At any rate, the soldier boys next morning were minus three shirts and parts of other garments. They left a sign warning other units on four not to camp with the cows.

That love sometimes cures disease is a fact that has been called to the attention of the public by a prominent physician. Love is not, however, the cure for all women. Many a woman is nervous and irritable, feels dragged down and worn out for no reason that she can think of.

Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription gives new life and new strength to weak, worn-out, run-down women. "Favorite Prescription" makes weak women strong and sick women well. It is now sold by all druggists in the United States in tablets as well as liquid form.

EVANT, TEXAS.—"I have used Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription. I was run-down and suffered from functional disturbances but 'Favorite Prescription' regulated me. I was so nervous I was miserable and could not sleep at night when I began to use the 'Prescription.' I had not taken a whole bottle until I could sleep well and get as stout as I ever was. I keep a bottle of 'Prescription' on hand and when I work and get tired I take a dose and it strengthens my nerves."—MRS. GEORGIA DEMERIS BERRY
