RANGER GASOLINE MEETING DRAWS 200

COOLIDGE PLAN IN BALANCE AS COMMISSION MEETS IN GENEVA

By United Press.
GENEVA, March 22.—With the preparatory disarmament commission of the League of Nations, President Coolidge's naval disarmament policy was admittedly hanging in the balance.

The commission convened in a decided atmosphere of perplexity. With the meeting summoned originally for the purpose of drafting the League's international disarmament convention on the basis of studies made during the past year, President Coolidge's sudden five-power naval disarmament proposal has changed entirely the whole character not only of the present session but of the commission itself.

Although a hard fight will be made to hold the commission down to the original ends for which it was convened, and with every reason to believe that this will eventually be done, nevertheless it is admitted that the new element injected into the meeting by the American naval disarmament note cannot be passed over without the most serious attention.

In spite of the rather negative replies made to the note by various of the original powers to which it was addressed, it is expected that the American delegation, headed by Hugh Gibson, will put up a hard fight to carry off at least a partial victory.

The complete rejection of the American thesis—comprising President Coolidge's international naval disarmament policy—following the rejection of his efforts to join the league court with reservations, would it be admitted, constitute a serious defeat for him in foreign policy.

Power Agreements Discussed.
Besides the fight which Gibson will put up for at least a reasonable victory there is also a large element among the other delegates that is keenly anxious to give the United States as much satisfaction as possible, first in the interests of disarmament and secondly, in the interests of encouraging the United States' continued and friendly cooperation with the league.

Among the element the principal solution being discussed today was the possibility of a tentative three-power or five-power naval agreement which could either be incorporated into the league's general disarmament convention as a whole or made effective as a separate agreement upon the latter going into force.

It was asserted that this procedure would give the United States a large measure of satisfaction and would in no way detract from the prestige of the league in handling the disarmament problem.

The nations represented on the commission that convened today are: Argentina, Belgium, Brazil, England, Bulgaria, Chile, Czechoslovakia, Finland, France, Germany, Italy, Japan, Serbia, Holland, Poland, Roumania, Spain, Sweden, the United States and Uruguay.

Regardless of what the final decision may be relative to the American proposal, it is certain that the commission will not be distracted from the carrying out of its original object. This is the final drafting, after just one year of preparation by numerous disarmament commissions, and sub-commissions, covering all of the military, naval, aerial, of disarmament, or a draft disarmament economic, political and financial aspects of disarmament, of a draft disarmament convention, intended to be world-wide in its application.

Seven Questions.
The preparation of the past year was based upon a series of seven questions laid down by the league council as follows:

1—What is to be understood by the expression "armaments?"
2—Is it practicable to limit ultimate war strength of a country, or must any measure of disarmament be confined to peace strength.

3—By what standards is it possible to measure the armaments of one country against the armaments of another, e. g., numbers, periods of service, equipment, expenditure, etc?

4—Can there be said to be "offensive" and "defensive" armaments?

5—On what principle will it be possible to draw up a scale of armaments permissible to the various countries, taking into account particularly, population, resources, geographical position, maritime communication, railways, vulnerability of frontiers and time required for transforming from peace to war time armaments?

6—Is there any device by which civil and military aircraft can be distinguished for the purpose of disarmament?

7—Admitting that disarmament depends on security, to what extent is regional disarmament possible in return for regional security?

During the course of the year's preparation by the various commissions and sub-commissions these seven fundamental questions gave rise in turn to numerous other questions which likewise were referred to special commissions usually of experts and technicians. Yet so great was the divergence of viewpoint, that there was not virtually a single question on which a unanimous decision was reached.

Under these circumstances the final reports as turned over to the preparatory commission today comprise hundreds and hundreds of pages giving the general findings of all the committees and sub-committees together with the individual declarations of the various delegations that were not able to agree with the general findings.

This mass of studies, research work, expert opinions, governmental declarations, etc., the preparatory commission will undertake to draft a general disarmament convention that will go as far as the nations of the world seem to be disposed to go at the present time. The convention will then be submitted to all of the governments of the world for observation and the final disarmament conference summoned for this fall or early next year.

REPORT U. S. MARINES IN LINE OF FIRE

By United Press.

SHANGHAI, March 22.—The United States marine headquarters here were under fire this afternoon. Shells and rifle bullets struck in the vicinity but there had been no marine casualties when this dispatch was filed. A squad of American volunteers saw action this afternoon when they rescued three American families in the Chinese area. The rescuers ran through a barrage of snipers. There were no casualties.

Conditions were worse at Shanghai, where utter chaos prevailed in the native city. There was no authority except the authority of gunmen who rampaged through the native city with renewed enthusiasm, as evening neared.

Fire added to the terror of the day. Police tonight expressed fear lest bands of armed strikers filter through into the foreign areas.

Trouble was expected tonight, after General Bei Chang Chi, the Chinese militarist, has taken over military control here to restore order immediately outside the settlement. The foreigners explained they would maintain control within.

Nearly a score of foreigners, mostly soldiers, had been wounded, but so far as was known, none had been killed since a Cantonese bullet ended the life of a British Punjab soldier outside the settlement early yesterday.

WASHINGTON, March 22.—Americans in Shanghai so far are unmolested, according to a message Admiral C. S. Williams, Asiatic fleet commander, sent the navy department today.

His report dated 11:30 a. m. today (Chinese time) said no Americans had been injured. American destroyers are tied up along the Standard Oil and Dollar docks, protecting the property there, following a temporary walkout of Chinese workers.

SHANGHAI, March 22.—Shanghai, Soochow, Nanking and Wuhu have been seized by the cantonese nationalist armies from South China, and riots bordering on anarchy extended for 175 miles along the lower Yangtze today. The southern portion of Kiangsi province in which the first three cities are located was an area gone mad with the bedlam concentrated in the urban center.

At Wuhu, about 50 miles up the river beyond Nanking, Americans were subjected to indignities today. The Cantonese seized Wuhu and immediately began a bloody campaign of extermination against looters and spy-suspects.

Arguments Open In Anita Greer Case At Pryor, Okla.

By United Press.

PRYOR, Okla., March 22.—Opening arguments in the trial of Mrs. Anita Greer, young widow of Leonard Greer, Staying merchant, with whose murder she is charged, today held the attention of Mays county court.

The widow's second day of court opened with a jury of 11 married men and one bachelor ready to weigh evidence in the alleged "scandal of Staying," involving Greer's death. Intercepted love letters written to Mrs. Anita Greer by her alleged affinity Ben Schuch today were ruled as admissible in the testimony to be presented in the trial of the widow of Leonard Greer, for whose murder she is accused.

The ruling came from District Judge A. V. Coppedge, after a morning of heated argument during which the defense contended the letters had no bearing on the guilt or innocence of Mrs. Greer.

Russell Trial To Start Wednesday, Special Judge

The case of the state of Texas vs. J. A. Russell, formerly district clerk of Eastland county, who is charged with embezzlement, is scheduled to go to trial before L. H. Flewelen, special judge of the Eighty-eighth district court, Wednesday morning. It is understood the state and defense are ready for trial. Russell, who was appointed district clerk and later was elected for a term, went out of office Nov. 31, 1920. Twelve indictments returned by the Eastland county grand jury charged Russell with embezzlement of funds approximately $30,000. Four of these indictments were quashed by the court on motion of the defense.

The particular case on which Russell will go to trial Wednesday is one involving the handling of trust funds.

At least 500 are expected to attend the luncheon at noon Wednesday.

The town of Baird is in gala attire and preparing an unusual reception for those who attend the gathering. Arthur P. Duggan, president of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce is now en route to Baird. Many prominent men will be in attendance, it is announced, and several important resolutions will be presented to the meeting.

U. S. Terminates Anti Smuggling Mexico Treaty

By United Press.

WASHINGTON, March 22.—The state department today announced it has served notice on Mexico terminating the anti-smuggling treaty between the two countries.

The notice was given to Mexico last night. Officials here today refused to say whether this action is a forerunner to possible lifting of the American embargo on arms shipment to Mexico. The treaty signed Dec. 23, 1925, became effective March 28, 1926, remaining in force for one year and thereafter until notice of termination was given.

Record Crowded With Paragraphs From Independent

COURTROOM, DETROIT, Mar. 22. Paragraph after paragraph from the Dearborn Independent, bristling with references to a "Jewish holding company," "Oriental financier" and "Jewish exploitation" of American farmers went into evidence today at the trial of Aaron Sapiro's million dollar libel suit against Henry Ford.

With William J. Cameron, editor of the Independent, as the witness, William Henry Gallagher, attorney for Sapiro had a paragraph on which libel suit is based identified and read before the jury.

In the few questions Cameron answered aside from identification he once more asserted his complete dominance of the editorial department of the Independent.

GRAND JURY RESUMES WORK AFTER RECESS

The Eighty-eighth court grand jury, which recessed a week or so ago, reconvened this morning and again took up the work of investigating the reports of law violation in the county.

Newspaper Is Best Advertising Medium

Newspaper advertising received a high compliment when the Westinghouse Electric Manufacturing Co., the other day, announced that hereafter its advertising appropriation would be expended almost entirely on newspaper space. In addition to domestic electric appliances, long since advertised in the daily newspapers, the Westinghouse company plans to include in this sort of advertising street lighting equipment, transformation apparatus for street railways and railroads, industrial and commercial motors, radio apparatus, farm lighting equipment, electric meters and other measuring devices. Newspapers, too, will carry its institutional advertising, concerned with public relations of utilities, generating stations, factories and personnel. "Newspapers," says the publicity manager, "seem to offer the only medium by which we can both 'nationalize' and 'localize' our various sales campaigns, thus permitting us to conduct a nation-wide campaign on products and at the same time vary our program to fit the needs of special districts. One important item in the decision was flexibility, whereby we could vary our plans to conform to various factors such as weather conditions and peculiarities in the economic situation with respect to any particular district of the country." Smaller concerns not convinced of the value of such advertising might profit by studying the new Westinghouse policy.

OPERATORS AIR THEIR VIEWS IN FORUM

Plant Managers From Oil Belt District Hear Problems Discussed

The Ranger district meeting of the Natural Gasoline Plant Operators association opened with approximately 200 plant managers from the district in attendance. The district practically includes all of Central West Texas. The session is devoid of the usual convention fireworks and is strictly a business affair and is for the purpose of giving the plant managers a chance to discuss matters of importance, managers who cannot attend the semi-annual and annual meeting of the Natural Gasoline Manufacturers association.

Secretary of A. V. Bourque of Tulsa, arrived in Ranger last night and immediately got busy with Secretary of the Chamber of Commerce Patterson arranging for the registration of the visitors.

According to Mr. Bourque there will be no social event connected with the meeting and only two meetings will be held. The discussions will be largely of the round-table order and an open forum. "We want the plant manager, who has to stay on the job seven days a week to get an opportunity to air his views and advise with others as to the best methods of overcoming difficulties that beset their paths."

The last Texas meeting was held in Breckenridge, and the next meeting will be held in Wichita Falls.

Dr. E. R. Lederer, vice president of the Texas Pacific Coal & Oil company of Fort Worth is chairman.

Marshall Young, general manager of the Roseco & Fendleton, Inc. headquarters at Albany, who was to have spoken on "Co-operation Between Plant and Office," was unavoidably detained. His place will be taken by Mr. Bourque who will lead the open forum. The subject of "Temperature and Liquid Control" was to have been discussed by A. E. Maxson, plant engineer of the Sun company at Tulsa, Okla., will be turned over to the open forum. Mr. Maxson found it impossible to attend. These two subjects come up in the evening session.

The meetings are held where the bulk of natural gasoline is produced. The program that is being carried out this afternoon follows:

Dr. E. R. Lederer, chairman, vice president, Texas Pacific Coal & Oil company, Fort Worth; gas measurement, D. A. Sillers, superintendent gas measurement, Lone Star Gas company, Dallas; plant operations, G. M. Edwards, superintendent Chestnut & Smith corporation, Ranger; good housekeeping, Don Wallace, safety director Mid-Continent Oil & Gas association, Tulsa.

FROM THE BIBLE

The light of God's face—Offer the sacrifices of righteousness, and put your trust in the Lord. Many there be that say, Who will show us any good? Lord, lift thou up the light of thy countenance upon us. Psalm 45, 6.

Prayer—Help us, Lord, ever to walk in the light of thy countenance.

TEXAS TO FRONT.

In a recent issue of Forbes Magazine is an interesting article on Texas, an article that should be read by every progressive, thinking business man in Texas. It characterizes Texas as the future leading textile state of the country.

"More than a fourth of the cotton raised in the United States comes from Texas," says the article, "and with the coming of the electrically driven cotton mill, it is freely predicted that Texas will one day lead the world in textile manufactures. Industry, however, is not doing away with the ranches. Sheep raising, in fact, mainly due to the new industrial advantages, has increased 50 per cent in the last 10 years.

"Some idea of the new prosperity in Texas may be gathered from the statement that 23 million dollars was spent in the state last year in the construction of new hotels. But it is not in more money that the new Texas can be measured. The change can best be expressed in terms of motion. Texas is being electrified. Every Texan is experiencing new power. Sons of cotton farmers are becoming textile engineers and sheep herders are becoming experts in the wool industry.

"Texas is on the way. It is going somewhere and is having a grand time as it goes. It is the cowboy spirit expressing itself in oil and electricity and a new order of human life."

Sometimes it takes an easterner to come along and tell Texans what they have and to point out to them the scope of their opportunities. Vastness of opportunity is a commonplace thing with us, but we should not allow it to become so commonplace as to become unappreciative.

THE NEW COURTHOUSE.

Too much cannot be said in favor of Eastland county's newest project, the new courthouse. This movement should have the support of every progressive and forward looking citizen of the county.

To argue that Eastland county needs a new courthouse is scarcely worth while. Anyone can walk around the square at Eastland and decide this matter for himself. If an exterior view is not sufficient, to bring a definite conclusion a brief survey of the interior of this antiquated structure will no doubt suffice.

The movement for a new courthouse must be viewed from an entirely impartial standpoint. It is not a sectional proposition. When it is built the courthouse will not be for Eastland, it will be for Eastland county, Ranger, Cisco, Gorman, Rising Star, Desdemona, and every other community in the county will have an interest in it.

The old building at Eastland has been condemned as unsafe by architects and construction engineers. It should be removed at the first opportunity and replaced by a modern courthouse. Eastland county's business should be housed in adequate quarters and the county's public servants should have a safe place in which to work.

Authority Says Fat Students Get Poorest Grades

By United Press.

NEW YORK.—Fat students get the skinny marks. A survey on physical unfitness in the colleges made by Dr. William R. P. Emerson for The Women's Home Companion reveals that obesity and poor scholarship go hand in hand. An obese student, in Dr. Emerson's report, is defined as "one whose weight, on the basis of height, is more than twenty per cent above the average."

"Proper control and training of your son who is now in high school," urges Dr. Emerson, "can soon start him on the course of health which will save him from membership in this group of corpulent deficients, at present one of the greatest debits in the college situation."

Ball Season On, Dope Book Puts In Appearance

Departure of the major league players for their training camps may be likened to the first blast of the herald's trumpet announcing the arrival of Spring. But the actual entry of this season is marked by the appearance of the first baseball schedule and record book, which this year, as in the past, is The Dope Book, published by C. C. Spink & Son, St. Louis, Mo., publishers of "The Sporting News."

This year's edition of the Record Book enlarges on the scope of its World's Series information. For instance, the box scores and other statistics of the 1926 games between the Cardinals and Yankees are carried. Besides, there are the facts relating to the annual inter-league championship games from the origin of the classic.

Pennant winners of all leagues, batting and pitching champions, averages of the majors for 1926, salient figures of the past, and complete rosters of all clubs in the majors are also given.

In addition to these features, the book carries instructions on how to score a game. Schedules of many of the more important leagues are also given. Copies of The Sporting News' Record Book may be had by sending ten cents to C. C. Spink & Son, St. Louis, Mo. The booklet is neat and compact, and may be carried in the vest pocket, where it is always handy as an umpire in arguments which arise from time to time whenever fans get together.

Withhold Death Sentence While Appeal Heard

By United Press.

AUSTIN, March 22.—That the sentence of death assessed against George J. Hassell, convicted slayer of his wife and stepchildren at Farwell, Parmer county, will be withheld pending the appeal in the court of criminal appeals, was definitely decided today.

Hassell was originally sentenced to be electrocuted last month, but a 30-day reprieve was granted by Governor Moody when he received official notice that Hassell, had after the jury returned the verdict, given notice of appeal. A further investigation showed that despite the notice of appeal, he had been removed to the penitentiary at Huntsville.

Governor Moody granted the reprieve pending the filing of the appeal in the higher tribunal. The reprieve of 30 days will expire next Friday. Announcement was made at the governor's office today that the case was entirely beyond the jurisdiction of the governor and that the jurisdiction rested solely with the court of criminal appeals, in which court it is expected the appeal will be formally filed before the expiration of the 90 days allowed by law for filing an appeal.

Game Warden Has Fight on Big Game In Willacy County

By United Press.

AUSTIN, March 22.—The lion and the bob cat have found the Willacy county game preserve a most inhospitable place, according to reports made to the state game, fish and oyster department by Luther Snow, game warden at Lyford, Willacy county. In the last 30 days Snow has killed with dogs 31 bobcats, seven leopards and one large Mexican lion or cougar. The lion had just eaten a deer.

Snow reported that examination of the stomachs of the bobcats disclosed that 50 per cent of the cats dined on turkey.

EASTLAND CITIZEN BREAKS LEG IN FALL

W. E. Hammerton of the City Vulcanizing shop, Eastland, suffered a fractured leg last Friday when he tripped over something and fell while attending to his milch cows at his home in the southwestern portion of the city. It will be several weeks before he will again be able to be at his place of business. In the meantime his son will have charge of the business.

Attorney General Dismisses Texas Food Packers Suit

By United Press.

AUSTIN, March 22.—Attorney General Claude Pollard has announced that the suit brought against the Texas Food Packers, a San Antonio corporation, by the State of Texas had been dismissed. The suit was filed in the district court of Travis county, and sought the forfeiture of the charter of the defendant of the company, alleging that the organization had been fraudulently incorporated and had sold its stock within the state in violation of the blue sky law.

"A careful investigation," said Pollard, "has convinced us that the best interests of the state would not be served by the further prosecution of this suit."

Professional Basketball Now
 On Paying Basis

By CLARK B. KELSEY
 (United Press Staff Correspondent)
 CHICAGO, March 22.—Professional basketball has passed the experimental stage and is now a successful business enterprise as well as an intriguing sport, George Halas, owner of the Chicago Bruins, declares.

Halas, an owner of the Chicago Bears professional football team, entered the basketball field two years ago, and while his teams have stood at the bottom of the league they have made money in the development stage, he revealed. The cage magnate admitted that he expected to lose money for some time before he made the sport pay.

The Bruins are members of the American League of professional basketball clubs. Other teams in the circuit are the Cleveland Posenblums, champions last year, Rochester, N. Y.; the Washington Palace club, Washington, N. C.; New York City, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Ft. Wayne.

The teams play a 42 game schedule among themselves; the season is divided into halves and the winner of the first half of the season plays the winner of the second half. Cleveland won the first half this season and will play the winner of the second half unless it wins the second section, too. In this case a $3,000 purse will be donated to the winning Rosies.

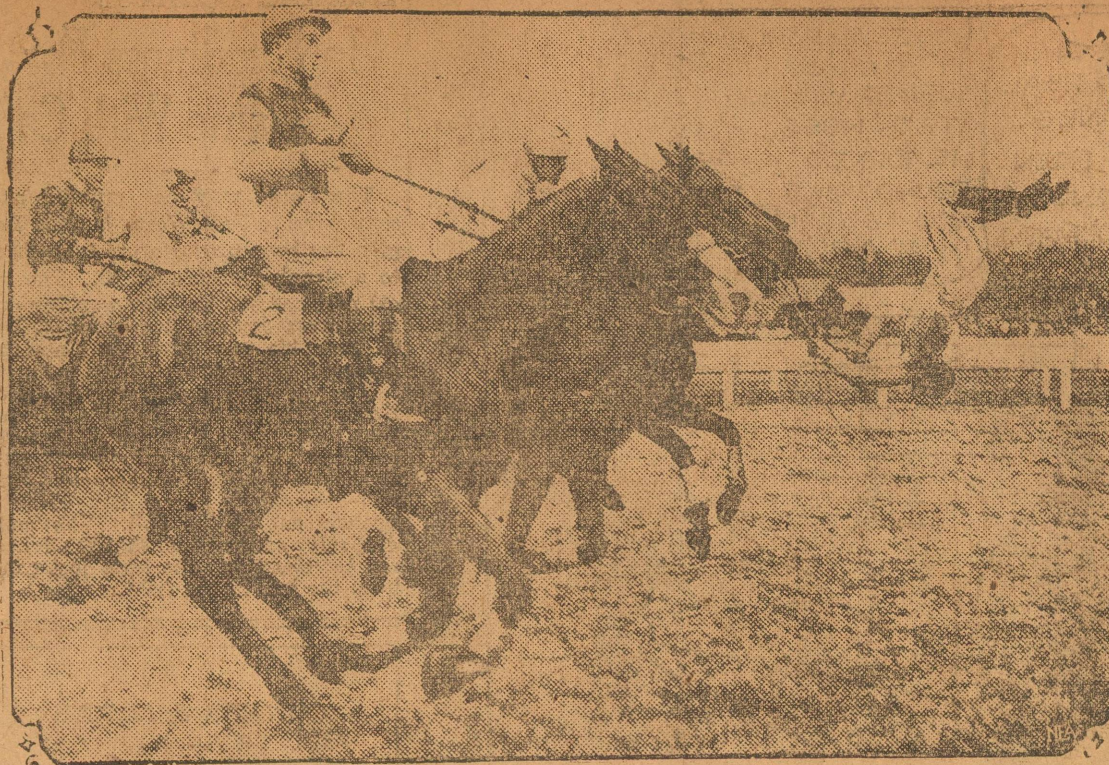

Cleveland attracts the largest attendance, with a record crowd of 11,000 attracted to two games during the present season. The New York Celtics and the Washington Palace team are the next best attractions.

Cleveland attends the basketball games almost as fully as it does the baseball contests, Halas said, and far bigger crowds attend the sessions of the cage sport than go to professional football games there.

Chicago's attendance in 1926-27 has averaged 2,200 Halas said, and this turnout has made money for the promoters. In addition "Honey" Russell, Cleveland star, was purchased from the Cleveland club for a sum commensurate with the sale of a baseball player.

The players get paid salaries ranging from $600 to $10,000, annually, Nat Holman, forward on the New

What Is Meant by Heels Over Head

Something for a photographer to write home about is this extraordinary picture of an accident during the Chequer Handicap Steeplechase at Gatwick, England. "Miss Caubeen," Wallace Phillip's entry, stumbled at one of the jumps and catapulted Foster, her jockey, straight over her head, the camera catching him in mid-air as his mount leaps back to her feet. Foster was little injured.

York Celtics receives the $10,000 sum. Marty Friedman, coach of the Cleveland team, is said to be another of the high salaried players.

Conley Thinks
 Team Stronger
 Than Last Year

By United Press.
 DALLAS, March 21.—The 1926 Texas league and Dixie series champions will open the 1927 season with virtually the same championship team except that Manager Snips Conley thinks it is 25 percent stronger. The only changes in the Steer line-up will be made on account of losing ball players last fall.

Moose Woeber, outfielder who went to the Cleveland Indians, was the Steer's greatest loss. Woeber hit .340 last season and made 18 home runs in the first 20 games in which he played after narrowly missing being fanned out.

The other changes will be made in the catching and pitching staff and they will be minor ones.

"I got plenty pitchers," laughed Manager Conley.

The mound workers probably will line up this way: Pence, Love, Shuman, McCall, Riviere will be the regulars. Love, a lanky left hander, did more than his share in winning the Dixie series last fall. Scott Perry and Damrow are listed as relief men with Jock Knott and Monte Wright likely prospects.

Joah Billings and Charles Berry, all-American college football star, are booked to share the backstop job. Billings played last season. Bud Hungling, another Steer backstop, is booked to be traded for an outfielder.

The infield positions will be occupied by the same foursom that held them last year.

Jim Riley, who is playing ice hockey in Detroit, won't report until March 25. In the meantime Swept Lind, formerly of Denver, is hanging around first base. Second base will be covered either by Hap Morse or Paddy Bowman and the one losing out will be carried as an infield utility man. The short stop job goes unchanged to Turkey Gross who hit .280 last year. Likewise Joe Tate, who some say is the greatest third baseman in the Texas league, has no opposition. Tate hits over .300.

American invention is keeping pace with the modern age, says a writer. So be it, while there yet are sick friends in need.

Bright Colors
 To Predominate
 In Men's Apparel

By United Press.
 LONDON.—Well-dressed Londoners this spring will look like perambulating vegetables.

According to James Weddell, president of the national federation of merchant tailors, the following colors for men's clothes will be all the rage: Tomato red.

Pumpkin yellow.

Raisin purple.

Or if tastes run towards the wood-patch more than the vegetable garden one may choose "cherry wood" or "mountain ash" as one's favorite. For people of a light and airy disposition there is the new color "Alpine blue" to suit their fancy.

"But," warns Anthony Bradley, one of London's leading tailors, "it must be remembered that ordinary commonplace men cannot wear these bright colors. One should have a good presence, and a large amount of confidence to wear with the proper effect, a suit say of tomato red or pumpkin yellow."

The design of the new fabric is the result of a "brighter men's wear" movement that has been urging its cause to tailors and to the general public for a number of months.

One Found Who Likes Queen's Hat,
 Hospital Tot

By United Press.

LONDON.—Whatever the world's gentlemen or their blonde friends may prefer, there is at least one person who likes Queen Mary's hats.

This person is "Nancy" a patient at the London hospital in the poor Whitechapel district. King George and Queen Mary recently spent an afternoon among the children in the hospital. During the tour the queen stopped at Nancy's cot. She bent over and patted Nancy on the back, but Nancy was not perturbed by the royal presence.

"Where's your golden crown?" the four-year-old child asked the queen.

"Ah," the queen responded. "I've left it at home."

"Don't you think I am wearing a much nicer crown?" she added, smiling, referring to her feather-trimmed hat.

Nancy surveyed the queen's hat critically and then she coyly lisped, "Yeth!"

Movie Stars On Long Island Hate To Move To Coast

By United Press.
By DAN CAMPBELL
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

HOLLYWOOD, March 22.—The recent decision of the Famous Players-Lasky corporation, to move all production activities to the West Coast, has confronted Jesse L. Lasky with a number of serious problems.

Expense caused by actors and directors trekking from the Hollywood studios to the Long Island plant, is said to have been the reason for centering all activity here.

However, many of the stars who worked entirely in the east want to stay near New York, particularly those who divide their time between the stage and screen, and it is said they will put up a hard battle before coming to Hollywood.

A secret weakness almost always is disclosed in the course of a career on the screen.

A well-known screen heroine lost her chance to play in a big picture because she was afraid of mice. A villain was thrown out of a cast because children couldn't be made to like him. A vegetarian actor lost a part because the smell of hot steak made him ill, and a lady comic who couldn't smoke a cigar like a veteran lost what might have been the greatest chance of her career.

A combination of real speed is promised in "The Motor Maniac," written by Byron Moran, author of the racing stories that contributed to the fame of the late Wallace Reid.

None other than Harold (Red) Grange, the "Gallop and Ghost" will appear in this F. B. O. picture, with Barney Oldfield doing some plain and fancy steering-wheel twisting in support of the football star.

With a gun in one hand and a typewriter in the other, John McDermott has left for New Mexico, where he will hunt elk and write Wallace Beery's next military comedy, "Now We're in the Air."

McDermott will do his hunting at the Vermajo club, which recently acquired an estate of 660 square miles of virgin hunting and fishing grounds on the border of New Mexico and Colorado.

Legion Team Is In Readiness For Game With Cats

The Cats' may be purring and scratching in Fort Worth but the Legion has been preparing to take them to a cleaning on March 28. The local post has had its team working out most every day and Renshaw promises to have his men give the Cats the game of their life.

The pitching staff, consisting of Koch, Perry, Cox and Cook, has been working out in excellent form and is ready. The infield and outfield are working in mid-season form, and the whole team is taking a healthy cut at the ball. The main difficulty seems to be that the fences are too short and the boys just can't keep the ball in the field.

FACTS
This is one of the reasons why there are more Frigidaires than any other electric refrigerators combined. Additional reasons are covered in other advertisements.

Note how the overlapping front of the Frigidaire freezing tray completely covers the opening in the freezing compartment, providing a seal which assures lower inside temperatures and quicker freezing.

ONE reason for Frigidaire's overwhelming popularity is the fact that it freezes more ice, by actual weight, than other electric refrigerators of the same size.

The Frigidaire freezing trays are self-sealing. The white enameled fronts of the ice trays completely overlap the tray openings, thus sealing the intense cold of the frost coil within the freezing compartment. Frigidaire freezes ice quickly and solidly, regardless of room temperatures.

Long ago, Frigidaire discarded the brine tank in favor of the more efficient frost coil. The frost coil assures simpler, quicker temperature control, which is so accurate and stable that it never has to be adjusted once it has been properly set.

Frigidaire is superior in ice-freezing capacity, food storage space, low operating cost and quiet operation. Frigidaire offers unequalled sturdiness of construction and beauty of design. Frigidaire offers a permanent and thoroughly trained and established service organization. It is the only electric refrigerator guaranteed by General Motors.

"Get out," he cried crossly. "What are you doing back here?"

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE
Death Strikes GARRETT FOLSOM while bathing at Ocean Town, N. J. It is thought at first he is a stroke victim, but investigation shows he has been stabbed to death beneath the water.

Folsom's swimming companions had been ROGER NEVILLE, a business partner; MRS. HELEN BARNABY and CARMELITA VALDON. It is established that Folsom, just before his death, had been standing next to NED BARRON, known as the copper king.

ANASTASIA FOLSOM, eccentric and masterful sister of the dead man arrives and takes command. At the inquest it is learned that the death weapon was a pichao, an Oriental knife, and that it had been bought on the boardwalk.

It is also established that one CROYDON SEARS is a fancier of curios knives. Anastasia engages TITUS RIGGS, an architect, to work on the case. DAN PELTON, the dead man's nephew, arrives, and takes over Folsom's rooms.

MYRTLE, a chambermaid, and TUBBY, a bellboy, sneak into the rooms and Myrtle is enthralled by the strange French dolls that had been Folsom's. Pelton later accuses Myrtle of opening his luggage.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XXV

"No sir," and Myrtle's eyes raised to Pelton's face, fairly shone with truth. "No sir, I didn't touch your luggage or your things at all. I did pick up the dolls and pet them, but, honestly, I didn't touch another single thing."

Myrtle was telling the truth, of course, and it rang in her voice, and Dan Pelton believed her.

"If there's one thing I can do," he said, "I can always tell when people speak truthfully. And I know you did. So, that's that."

"How queer?" Can you always tell, Mr. Pelton?"

"Yes. Nobody can lie to me, and get away with it." "And—did you say something about—" her courage gave out and she looked at the dolls in mute appeal.

"Did I say I'd give you a dolly?" he laughed. "Well, I half said so, didn't I? Which one do you like best?"

"This one," and Myrtle pointed to the dark-eyed one, the one with the lure of a siren in her sweet, haunting face. "That's the one Mr. Folsom liked the best."

"Oh, he did, did he? Then take it! I'm glad to be rid of it. Take it, girl, and now, clear out. Don't look so hesitant. I've a right to give away the doll. They're all mine now. Take that one, and go."

"Yes, sir. Thank you, sir, very much." And clasping her precious gift to her heart, Myrtle hurried away, almost afraid the donor might regret his act and ask the doll back again.

As ill luck would have it, she met Miss Folsom just coming toward her nephew's rooms.

"Here, you," the lady said, sternly. "What are you doing with that doll? It is my brother's doll." "Mr. Pelton gave it to me, ma'am. He—he told me to take it."

"Well, you come back here with me, till I make sure of that." Her sharp knock gained her immediate entry, and Dan Pelton scowled to see Myrtle and the doll back again. "Get out," he cried crossly. "What are you doing back here?"

"Hush, Dan," said Miss Folsom. "I brought the girl back. She says you gave her that doll."

"Yes, I did. Now I'm sick and tired of hearing about the doll. Go away, Myrtle. Come in, Aunt Stasia. Yes, I gave the poor child the doll, as she seemed to want it so much. I don't suppose she ever had a doll in her life."

"She never had one like that, surely. Why, Dan, those dolls cost an awful lot."

"I don't care. I don't admire them myself, I find, and if you want the rest of the bunch, you're welcome to them."

"Well, I'll see about them later, but don't give any more away to servants. She didn't select the best one."

"No, she said she'd choose the one Uncle Garry used to like the best. Fancy her being sweet on Uncle!"

"I don't believe she was. But she thought it must be the most valuable."

Meantime, the astute Tubby, who had long ago learned to distinguish between the sides of buttered bread, was out on the hotel deck hanging around the chair that contained the portly person of Titus Riggs.

Privileged in many ways, Tubby was allowed free access to the deck but he was not supposed to speak to the guests unless on an errand.

At last Riggs noticed the uneasy little chap, and called him to his side. "What's it all about, sonny? What do you want to say to me?"

"How do you know?" and Tubby gaped his admiration.

"Oh, well, when a boy looks as if he'd just naturally bust if he didn't get something off his chest, I assume that it's a weighty matter. And when the said boy looks at me furtively now and then, yet with the expression of a dying fish, why, then, I just call him over and demand the truth."

"Well, you see, Mr. Riggs, I know sumbin'."

"You do! Really?"

"Now, don't kid me. I mean about this here now murder business."

"The Riggs became grave at once. "That's no matter for jesting, sonny."

"I know it, I ain't jestin', sir."

"Well, then, what is it that you know? And why haven't you told before?"

"Well, I didn't know it before. And I dunno as I know it now. It's just a—a—"

"A suspicion?"

"Not even that. More like a—a—"

"A surmise? An indication—"

"No, no. I mean more a hint, a clue, a—a way to look."

"Ah, a way to look! That's fine, Tubby. Now, careful, tell me about it."

They were in a corner by themselves, and with lowered voices ran small chance of being overheard.

"Yes, but, Mr. Riggs, if—if it is any good—if it does help you—"

"Will you be paid? Yes, Tubby, you will. But only if it's good evidence or a real clue. Or a true way to look."

"Yes, sir. But if it IS all those things will you—"

"Yes," a little impatiently, "yes, I'll see to it that you get paid. My Lord, Tubby, what a school for young grafters a big hotel is! Well, go ahead."

"It's only this. You've been all through Mr. Folsom's papers and letters, ain't you?"

"Pretty much. There's some of that work still to be done. Why?"

"Oh, only that Mr. Pelton has a big suitcase full of papers and letters and important looking documents—"

"And you think they're connected with Mr. Folsom's estate?"

"They's lots of 'em addressed to Mr. Folsom and some of 'em in Mr. Folsom's writing."

"This is interesting. Where is this suitcase?"

"Up in Mr. Pelton's room. The rooms Mr. Folsom used to park in."

"How did you come to spy them out?"

Tubby looked duly and properly insulted.

"Nothin' like that, sir. I saw them when I took up some ice water."

"Oh, I see. I beg your pardon. Very careless of Mr. Pelton to have

"Here, you! Stop that! I'm in charge of these rooms and I'm responsible."

Organization Of "Slow Club" At SMU Announced

DALLAS, March 22.—Co-eds at Southern Methodist University have set a new pace for the younger generation of southwestern college students by organizing the latest and most exclusive of all organizations on the campus of the school—a "Slow Club." The move is being sponsored by the university chapter of the Sigma Phi honorary journalism sorority, and membership is open to any girls who can answer the qualifications.

No smoking, no petting, no drinking, and no car rides—these are the primary principles that are being upheld by the constitution of the new organization. Members of the club maintain that the "old-fashioned" girl can be just as popular with the masculine order as her ultra-modern flapper sister. It seems to be the dawn of another Puritan age.

The "Slow Club" at Southern Methodist University is the first of its kind in the south. The original movement began at Northwestern University, Evanston, Ill., where it was sponsored by the university chapter of the Sigma Delta Chi, honorary national journalism fraternity. Incidentally, Northwestern is also a Methodist school.

State smen Compile World's Greatest History

The Peace Palace at the Hague, Holland.

Two Hundred Mile Book Shelf

Two hundred miles of shelves would be required to file the documents which have a claim to be preserved as source material for the Economic and Social History of the World War. This history of the war's effect upon the normal processes of civilization is being prepared by the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace.

Thirty-five miles of shelving would be required for the British archives alone.

Every inch of these miles is packed with documents, two or three hundred to the inch. Many of these documents are housed in the Peace Palace at the Hague, Holland, which was the gift of the late Andrew Carnegie.

A PIONEER enterprise of great international significance has been undertaken by the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace in compiling the most complete social and economic history of the world war. This is the first attempt that has been made to analyze war in such a fundamental and far-reaching manner. The vast work of compiling data is now under way in order that this unique history may show the effects of war upon the social and economic life of all nations. The history will be embodied in 175 volumes.

The present undertaking had its beginnings in 1911 when the then newly created Division of Economics and History of the Carnegie Endowment held a conference of economists and publicists at Bern, Switzerland. Early in the war, at the request of Professor John Bates Clark, Professor James T. Shotwell outlined plans for a general survey of "the extent of the displacement caused by the war in the normal process of civilization," but the actual work was not begun until after the signing of the Treaty of Versailles four years later.

National Editorial Boards

The first step was the selection of Professor Shotwell as general editor and the appointment of advisory boards in every country in the world. In the case of smaller nations, a single editor was named. These boards are composed of noted statesmen and economists and include among others Edouard Herriot, former Premier of France; President Masaryk of Czechoslovakia; Herr Max Sering, head of the Technical Economic Commission of the German War Office; Baron Sakatani, former Minister of Finance of Japan; Gustav Bauer, ex-Chancellor of Germany; Sir William H. Beveridge, director of the London School of Economics, and John Maynard Keynes, leader in the movement to revise the Versailles Treaty. At least twenty-five of the collaborators have held the rank of cabinet ministers in their governments.

The boards are responsible for the compilation of data into monographs. Two types of monographs are included: first, specialized studies of single sections of national life, which are published in the language of their country of origin, thereby appealing to a wide circle of European readers; and second, general surveys of larger topics, which are translated with a definite regard for the needs of readers in English-speaking countries. Special emphasis is laid upon the chief national problems of the countries described, and a striking picture is presented of the extent to which the wartime social and economic life of the neutral states resembles that of the belligerents.

Each Country Studied

Vast as the work is, it has developed a degree of international cooperation which is literally amazing. Edouard Herriot, former premier of France, who contributes an article on the economic history of Lyons, writes: "Before setting to work I have earnestly endeavored to understand the intentions of our American friends. If I interpret them rightly their purpose is to fight war otherwise than by vain oratory."

EASTLAND OFFICIALS RANGER VISITORS

City Manager J. H. Cheatham of Eastland, accompanied by Chief of Police E. Lawrence, invaded Ranger Tuesday in search of dynamite and other explosives. The chief failed to state just what he wanted to do with the dynamite.

City Manager J. H. Cheatham visited with Secretary C. C. Patterson and discussed municipal finances with him. Cheatham explained just how he put over the big bond deal that will give Eastland more paved streets.

City Council May Restrict Parking On So. Commerce

The removal of trucks and other such vehicles from South Commerce street, between Main and Pine will be considered by the city council at its meeting in the city hall this afternoon. This move has been contemplated for some time by the city. The street at that point is very narrow, and congests traffic on the highway. With the tourist season beginning and the need for space, it is necessary that some steps be taken. The trucks that have been standing and are standing in that block are eyesores not only to the tourists but to the citizenship in general besides blocking traffic on the highway, it is said.

ASSISTANT ATTORNEY GENERAL WILL SPEAK

Will Bring Suit For Collection Past Due Taxes

"Pay your back taxes due for several years or stand a suit," is the ultimatum issued by City Tax Collector E. A. Ringold. The edict went forth Tuesday morning when the collector began looking over the list of delinquents and found several prominent men who owe back taxes for six or seven years. Several of them have not paid either the city or school tax. "It's a shame that men of influence in Ranger are allowing the small property owner to pay for his children's education," Mr. Ringold said, "and it must stop. While looking over the delinquent list the names of several men bobbed up who are loud in political meetings and silent in paying. 'They can tell you how the government ought to be run, but do not want to pay their share of the expenses and do not favor bearing their part of the burden. It's that kind that we are going after. The big tax man must do his share, and if suits have to be filed, they will be filed. That's the great trouble with Ranger; the big man has been skipping by and the little man footing the bills. Beginning next week, we will begin suing suits for back taxes that are five and six years overdue."

Moslah Temple Preparing For Big Fete May 7

Special Correspondence.
 FT. WORTH, March 22.—One of the most dazzling Shrine ceremonies ever staged will be held by Moslah Temple, Saturday, May 7, when the stupendous spectacle, "A Night in Baghdad," will be staged at the Moslah on the shores of Lake Worth for the entertainment of the nobility who happen to be sojourning within the oasis of Fort Worth on that date.

Director of work, Billy Southwell and his staff of assistants are at work on the staging of this extravaganza of oriental pageantry, the like of which has never been before attempted by any temple in North America.

Nobles in the territory adjacent to Fort Worth are especially invited to attend the festivities on this occasion for they are to see in addition to the spectacle an array of new stunts for their entertainment which have just been staged at the Shrine directors meeting which adjourned a short time ago at Shreveport.

There will be plenty of entertainment all during the day and evening so that May 7 will be a day long to be remembered by those who attend the ceremonial.

The uniformed bodies of Moslah Temple are all busily engaged in providing new drills and entertainment for the ceremonials.

Racing Starts In London With Good Showing

By United Press.
 LINCOLN, Eng.—"They're off again."

Flat-racing officially commenced today. Trainers and jockeys have returned from holiday-making in Switzerland or the Riviera. Many owners and breeders talk of indications foreshadowing a successful season, while the public fervently hopes the favorites gallop more quickly than they did in the "black" season of 1926.

A glance at the lists of entries for the big prizes shows that racing continues to attract patrons from abroad. French entries are more numerous than heretofore, and all their best horses are due to compete over here. Germany, Belgium, and Italy are also interested.

The United States is represented by a batch of yearlings registered by John Sanford, whose son won the grand national with Sergeant Murphy. An American-bred horse, Troquois, won the derby, and a compatriot, Foxhall, carried off the Goswewitch and Cambridgeshire double.

but little or nothing has been seen in England for a long time of horses produced in the States.
Argentine Entry.
 From a new source, the Argentine comes a strong challenge for the great Ascot event, the gold cup. The challenger is Macon, whose entry is reported to have caused a sensation in his own country. To all accounts he is rated as one of the greatest horses in the world, like Man-o'-War—without a peer.
 Races for two-year-olds have attracted enormous entries, a reminder of the immense number of horses in training at the present time. It is clearly going to be difficult to win with two-year-olds early in the season.

 Most owners, trainers and jockeys have made their arrangements for the season. F. Butters now trains for Lord derby, and Weston, who headed the list of successful jockeys last year is again the stable jockey. Lord Astor has retained H. Jelliss and his trainer, A. Taylor, has also secured first claim on R. Jones and J. Brennan. The "veteran" jockey Fox, who distinguished himself last season, is still going strong with retainers from trainers Eeobie, Gooch, and K. Dowson. Another of the old school, Joe Childs, continues association with F. Darling's powerful stable. G. Archibald, the American remains with P. Gilpin, and the ever-popular Steve Donohue rides for Capt. Whitaker's stables.

Royal Stable Strong.
 The Royal stable has been strengthened a good deal. Several old mares at Sandringham have been weeded out or superannuated, and fresh blood has been introduced in a quiet way. His Majesty's stables experienced a lean time last season, but many of the big owners who breed on a far faster scale, have had the same experience of going winning many races.

 Today's program of six events contained no big race, and betting was light. Gossip chiefly concerned Wednesday's race, the Lincolnshire Handicap, and the great steeplechase race, the grand national, on Friday.

Sir Oliver Lodge Offers Theory On Cause of Cancer

By United Press.

LONDON.—That cancer may be a catalytic growth, involving the chemical process of catalysis, was suggested here recently by Sir Oliver Lodge.

"My suggestion," Sir Oliver declared, "must not be thought to be more than it was intended for—a hint from a layman to be taken for what it is worth. Naturally, as a layman, I speak with the greatest difficulty on a subject like cancer, but in making the suggestion I had in mind the chemical action which has been shown to occur in radio valves.

"They are liable to a kind of disease which is caused by the action of water and it may be that something similar is going on in the body and causing cancer."

Prominent cancer specialists do not take Sir Oliver's suggestion seriously. The general opinion is that the suggestion is novel and interesting, but that there is no evidence to support such a theory.

It is pointed out that catalysis is the chemical process involving the decomposition of a compound substance and the recombination of its elements.

The Boys Who Discovered New Gold Field

The two boys whose discovery of gold at Weepah, Nev., brought in a new "rush" of prospectors are pictured here. They are Frank Horton, Jr., 19 (left foreground), and Leonard Traynor, 19 (right). Among the thousands who have staked claims in the territory where the ore is reported to assay $78,000 a ton are many women. Note the girls in the left background of the picture.

Twice Winner

Two Canadian bowling titles were recently won by Fred Jewell of Fargo, N. D. He set records with 738 in the singles and 1927 in the all events.

LENTEN MEDITATIONS

Scientific knowledge reveals God. It does not shorten the arm of God—it lengthens it. It reveals the purpose of God. It indicates the partnership of God and man in fulfilling His plans for the complete redemption of the world.

God is the God of Love. But He is also the God of mathematics, of mechanics, of geology, of astronomy, of biology. He is not the God of a haphazard world. Even God Himself obeys His own laws. The working of so-called "miracles" means simply the introduction of higher laws.

CHARGED WITH THEFT OF DRIP GASOLINE

Henry Caldwell was arrested last night by the watchman of the Chestnut and Smith properties on a charge of theft under $50.00 in connection with the disappearance of drip gasoline. He was turned over to the county and remanded to Eastland for trial in the county court at law. The theft is alleged to have been committed on the Markham Tidal lease.

Darrow says the stuff that man is made up of can be purchased at any drug store for about 95 cents. The ladies come higher.

Diamond Tiaras In Discard as Result Shingled Head

LONDON.—Diamond tiaras, for centuries the favorite headpiece of British aristocracy, have been cast into the discard with the wide-spread adoption of the shingle and the Eaton crop.

A tiara, it develops, cannot be made to look well on a shingled head. It won't stay put. It looks too heavy.

This, at any rate, is the verdict of the women of the nobility in England, and their verdict seems to have been borne out noticeably at the ceremonies incident to the opening of parliament, where very few tiaras were to be seen.

But instead of locking up the tiaras in the family vaults for safe-keeping until a day when long tresses shall return, most of the women have turned their tiaras over to jewelers for breaking up and remaking, and the late tiaras reappeared at the parliamentary ceremonies in the form of diamond collars, bracelets or splendid rings.

Ranger Friends Mourn Death of Mrs. C. F. Drake

Mrs. C. F. Drake, who died in Bowie hospital at Weatherford Sunday afternoon, knew the end was approaching and faced it like that described by the poet, Bryant, in Thanopsis. She went like one who wraps the drapery of her couch about her and lies down as if to pleasant dreams.

News of her death, former chairman of publicity of the Texas division of the United Daughters of the Confederacy, was received by her bosom friend, Mrs. R. B. Campbell, who was unable to be at the bedside.

Just a few days before she went to the hospital, Mrs. Drake wrote in part as follows to her friend, Mrs. Campbell: "I know you are going to be shocked and grieved when you learn the purport of this letter. I am again facing a major operation, with but small chance for recovery at my age. This was told me Sunday, and since then have been awaiting the arrival of my husband and children to be with me during that trying hour, and am trying to bear up with what fortitude I could muster under the mental strain.

"But I want you and all my friends to know that I am willing and ready, should this be the time when I am to go hence to meet the great change. I feel grateful that my poor life has been spared these years past, since the time when I went down into the valley of the shadow and thanks be to His name, came back to live and labor awhile longer for my loved ones, and try to be of what little service I could to humanity. But we all must meet the grim enemy sooner or later, and should this be the time for me to meet him I shall be ready."

Mrs. Drake died Sunday evening at 8:15 o'clock and was buried today. She was well known and loved in Ranger where she visited quite often.

President Borno of Haiti has barred Senator William H. King of Utah from entering Haiti, branding him "undesirable," but Senator King declares he'll visit the country anyway. King, a critic of the regime of Borno, declared armed forces couldn't keep him out, and said that if United States marines were withdrawn from Haiti, Borno wouldn't remain in power five minutes.
