Wind, Rain Received During Week

Cool Front Drops Area Temperature

A hint of fall was in the air Friday as the high temperature during the day reached only 69 degrees to send some area residents scurrying for long sleeves and sweaters. The sky remained overcast throughout the day.

The cool weather came on the heels of a cold front which stalled across the area and left almost daily showers which accumulated an additional .36 inches of moisture and up to one and one-half inches in western parts of the county.

High winds which accompanied the Wednesday night storm did little or no crop damage, although some farmers had expressed the fear their corn may be damaged slightly. West of Muleshoe, Glenn Harris in the West Camp community said they received approximately .8 inch during the week and some high wind. Traces of rain have been received almost daily this week in that area.

Mrs. Phil Garrett, west of Muleshoe, said they had received around 1.4 inches on some of their farm land and no damage to crops from the high wind late Wednesday night.

The spotty rains left approximately one-quarter inch at the Clarence Damron farm one mile east of Needmore and James Dobbins, two miles southwest of Needmore said he received around .4 during the week.

Mrs. O. M. Lackey said they have received around two inches of rain during the week. Mrs. Lackey said it has rained almost nightly during the week, and the moisture has fallen in a slow, gentle pattern which has soaked into their farmland. The latest moisture they received in southwestern Bailey County was Friday night.

Some of the Lackey land east of their homeplace has received only .4 inch during the

Plane Out Of Gas Crashes Pilot Unhurt

What do you do when you are flying along, and suddenly run out of gas . . . in the air? Leon Wilson faced just that situation Wednesday afternoon when his Piper Pawnee suddenly went dry.

He attempted to make it over a three foot ditch and the tail of the plane dipped into the ditch. Wilson crash-landed in a corn field behind the home of his mother, Mrs. Lorene Wilson, approximately nine miles northeast of Muleshoe. Mrs. Wilson's brother, Bill Warner, who was working nearby saw the plane disappear into the tall corn and went to the house to alert Mrs. Wilson before taking off for the crash site. Mrs. Wilson delayed just long enough to summon an ambulance from Muleshoe, then left for the crash site.

Before the ambulance had time to get to the crash site, Wilson called in to the Bailey County Law Enforcement Center and told Mrs. Howard Splawn to call the ambulance back. He had walked away from the accident, apparently unhurt.

Wilson had the Pawnee taken to Plainview Wednesday afternoon for repairs to one wing, a broken prop and damage underneath the plane in the front where landing gears had torn and were damaged.

Youth Football Inc. Wants Applications

"Youth Football needs good coaches," said Kenneth Henry of the Youth Football Inc. board. He has asked that all men interested in coaching one of the four youth teams this fall be sure to pick up their application blank from Henry, Clarence Christian, Bill Russell, James Brown or Doyce Turner prior to the August 2 deadline.

The head coaches chosen by the Youth Football Inc. board of trustees will then choose their assistants, then submit the names to the board of trustees for final approval. Head coaches in the first year of play, 1970, were Martin Mills, Bob Donaldson, Cleve Bland and Derrrell Oliver.

Henry said that more than 80 boys 10-12 years of age participated in the first year of play and since Lazbuddie is included in the plans this year, approximately 100 boys are expected to participate in the program.

All players are required to have a birth certificate and a medical examination. Each prospective player should bring his birth certificate with him when he takes his medical examination. There is only one sched-

Named first runner-up was Vowery Throckmorton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Throckmorton. Nine Bailey County girls had entered the contest.

Charles Lee Howard, 19, who escaped from the jail at the Bailey County Law Enforcement Center around 7:45 Wednesday morning, was back in the jail Thursday night.

He called Bailey County Sheriff Dee Clements Thursday afternoon and told him that if Sheriff Clements would come alone to pick him up, he would give himself up. If he did not, said Howard, he would run again.

Sheriff Clements, who had been at a Sheriff's Convention in Dallas when the young man escaped, went alone to bring Howard back, and the escapee accompanied the sheriff without any trouble.

He gave law officers no reason for his escape.

Howard confronted Ken Martin, janitor and jail cook, when he opened the cellblock to take out the trays and release the trusty Wednesday morning. After the trusty had walked out with the trays, Howard asked Martin to do him a favor and walked up to him. Martin said Howard then pushed a knife at him and said, "I want out of here, or I'll kill you." The jail cook believed the knife was made from a sharpened spoon handle and had a handle cloth-wrapped. He said Howard was highly nervous.

The escapee forced Martin to open an outside door, then locked Martin into a cell with the other prisoners. Martin managed to call an alert to Mrs. Howard Splawn, office deputy, who went to the back to check after she heard someone calling her first name. She alerted officers, then released Martin from his cell.

Howard had been placed in the Bailey County Law Enforcement Center jail late Monday afternoon after an order was sent out for him to be picked up and held for a hearing for violation of probation. He had been placed on probation for four years on November 6, 1969, after his conviction of burglary and theft charges.

Early Tuesday night, Lamb County Deputy Sheriff Emmett Burrows reported that Howard had come to his home in Earth to ask directions to a home of some people who recently moved to Earth. The deputy sheriff said he looked at Howard and realized he fit the description of the Bailey County escapee.

Burrows said he asked Howard to wait a moment, then went to his bedroom to get his gun. When he returned to the front door, Howard, or the man he thought was Howard, had gone. Burrows immediately notified officers and a concentrated search of abandoned buildings and houses, cars, and fields was underway. Officers

Multi-County Bookmobile Meeting Held

The Multi-County Library Board met with the Bookmobile Librarians, Mrs. Joe Sooter and Mrs. Bobby Henderson, Tuesday, July 27 at 4 p.m. at the Corral Restaurant. Board members at the meeting were Cochran County Judge Glenn Thompson of Morton; Bailey County Judge Glen Williams of Muleshoe; Lamb County Judge G. T. Sides; Parmer County Judge Archie Tarter of Farwell; Mrs. Ray Carter of Morton and Mrs. Eddie Beene of Needmore.

Guest at the meeting was Mrs. L. B. Hall who told the board members about housing the bookmobile, bookmobile library facilities and workspace in the new library building.

Board members discussed the budget for 1972 and Mrs. Sooter was instructed to prepare a proposed budget for presentation to the commissioners court in Bailey, Parmer, Lamb and Cochran Counties based on the 1970 census.

Mrs. Sooter will send the budget to the judges in the four counties in the near future for presentation.

Percentages the four counties contribute for the upkeep and operation of the bookmobile are Lamb County, 42; Bailey, 20; Cochran, 13 and Parmer, 25.

Mrs. Sooter also said the county judges and library users in each county will have electrical outlets installed on light poles at the bookmobile stops to enable the bookmobile workers to have air conditioning and heat when needed.

Following the meeting, the board members toured the new library building on West Second Street.

Curios, Yarn And Ceramics Consolidated

Remodeling is currently underway at the former Dinner Bell Restaurant location on West American Blvd. When the work is complete, Argie's Ceramic Shop, the Yarn Shop on East Avenue B and the former curio shop at the Ranchhouse Motel will be consolidated in the one building.

Mrs. E. M. Pruitt and Mrs. W. T. Millen have purchased the curio shop and will include the gifts and curios with their consolidated operations.

There is no definite date for opening the new business at this time.

Farm Youngsters Show Multi-Talents

"Togetherness - - a family who works together and plays together," aptly described the Eugene Shaw family west of Muleshoe.

The Swaws, Eugene and Donna, and their two youngsters, Della, nine and Darin, four, live in the same house where Eugene has lived since he was nine years old. Mrs. Shaw is the former Donna Wright, who moved to Bailey County from Levelland in 1952.

"Both the children had rather be with their daddy outside, helping him with whatever he is doing than stay at the house," said Mrs. Shaw, as she watched the two youngsters setting irrigation tubes in a cornfield east of the house.

Della, who keeps an exact count of the number of tubes she sets, has set more than 200 since the middle of June and thoroughly enjoys working with the irrigation tubes. Her younger brother, Darin, has kept what can be termed a haphazard number of tubes, has set more than 100.

They both proved to be apt pupils and their father said they wanted to try so started out on a minor scale. It is rather an unusual sight to see the two youngsters scurrying about as soon as their father releases the water into the ditch. They had already put two tubes to each row and worked quickly to get the water started in the tube before dropping it into the rows in the tall corn and despite a little mud on the knees, the young boy and girl happily viewed their work.

Much of their time is spent riding and they are both avid horsemen. One of their pet projects is "The Lord's Acre," The Shaws are members of the First United Methodist Church and for the past four years had planted an acre of peanuts for the church. The project is termed the Goober Project. Della and Darin help by watering and hoeing the acre of peanuts.

The two youngsters also help water the cotton, alfalfa and grain sorghum on the farm and have yielded a hoe to weeds in the crops.

They enjoy helping gather produce, especially help sow and haul alfalfa hay.

When Darin was asked if he planned to be a farmer, he looked as if he were going to comment "what a silly question" then said, "Sure."

Della was not so sure about being a farmers wife. She said she did not like to cook and stay in the house. Della was a little hesitant when asked if she planned to be a 4-H member. She said she would like to be a 4-H member.

Cotton-Pesticide Use Relationship Studied By A&M

COLLEGE STATION -- A method of establishing the impact of restrictions in the use of agricultural chemicals on cotton production is the subject of a new Texas A&M University study.

Dr. Ronald Lacey, agricultural economist with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, is heading the project. Other Experiment Station staff involved are Dr. Morris Merkle in weed science, Dr. J. C. Gains in entomology, and Dr. C. Scifres in range science.

Emphasis of the study is to test the feasibility of a new technique, the "Delphi Method," as a means of establishing the relationship between cotton production and pesticide use.

In this method, informed judgment is brought to bear on the particular topic under consideration by using a closely directed survey process. Experts in herbicides and insecticides which include approximately 150 weed scientists, entomologists and economists are being used in testing the method. Any state which grows cotton of any significant amount in the South, as well as New Mexico, Arizona and California, are the test areas of the study.

"Presently, there isn't any basic means of evaluating the impact of chemicals on the environment or even the impact of a chemical cancellation on agricultural production," Lacey said. "There are studies being conducted in several regions, but typically, they do not consider interregional adjustments that may occur, the effect of time, or national implications."

By considering the total Cotton Belt and using the Delphi method, Lacey explains they expect to obtain data that will permit (for cotton) a complete production analysis of the impact of any specified pesticide regulation. This analysis would

GUEST EDITORIAL

The U. S. government seems to have fought a losing and perhaps misguided battle trying to quarantine Latin American horse sickness by supplying vaccine south of the border for the past three years.

A South Texas veterinarian says that a "top-heavy" federal bureaucracy, which sent the vaccine south and refused to release it to American horse owners, must take blame for the spread of the "VEE" sickness in this country.

Dr. John Welby of Harlingen added that the policy both denied protection to the horse industry here and depleted stocks of the vaccine to the point where there may now be only enough for Texas and adjoining states.

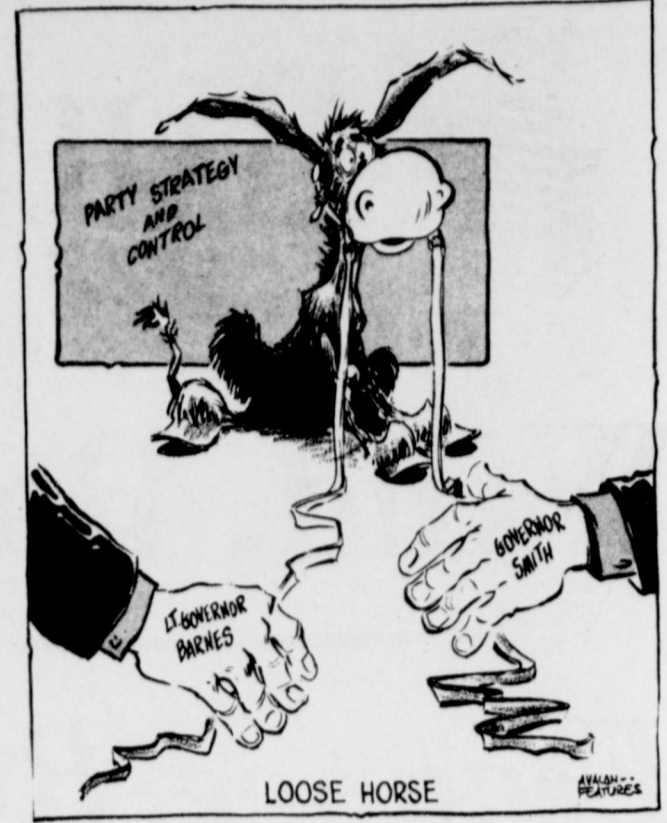

Since 1968, when the epidemic began in South America, the U. S. has furnished three million doses there and in Central America and Mexico. The strategy, sound enough in retrospect, was to attack the disease where it was already raging. Mexico was asked to do heavy immunization below the Texas border so as to create a buffer of protected horses.

It was a good faith failure, but Dr. Welby is on firm ground when he assails the government for not supplying the vaccine to the American horse industry when it first began asking for it six to nine months ago. American herds might have been immunized by now.

In any case, the sickness didn't hit the U. S. suddenly like a storm. It has been creeping our way since 1968.

Ironically, the vaccine was developed in the military's germ-warfare research—and germ stocks are now being destroyed. The vaccine was stocked in quantity for human use if enemies ever used the sleeping sickness virus against us.

The virus is not ordinarily fatal to humans, but much of the country is now alarmed. When the smoke clears, says Dr. Welby, it will be seen that the federal bureaucracy is to blame. (Dallas Morning News)

Riding Club Awards

Mean Lots Of Work

By Bruce Peterson, Reporter

The Y-L Saddle Tramps are having a display of their awards for the past three years at the Cobbs Department Store. The display will continue through the week, by courtesy of Roger Albertson, manager of the store. We would like to thank everyone who had a part in our awards, and a special thanks to Mrs. Albertson for displaying the awards.

Our club is well known by its yellow gold and navy blue colors. Our uniforms, worn by each member, consists of a navy blue gambler tie and white shirt with gold vest. Our brown pants are worn with dark boots. We also have uniforms for our horses, they are a navy blue saddle blanket trimmed with gold fringe and the horses wear gold breast collars with the Y-L letters in navy blue. The cannons of the horses are covered with yellow gold stockings.

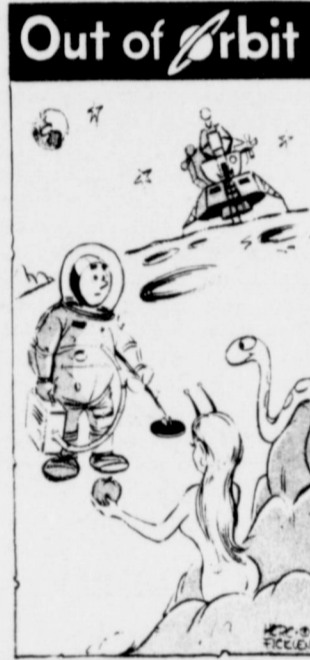

When you go to the contest or parade, there is a lot of competition. To place in a parade, the judges look for your appearance and how straight your lines are up and down and also across. It is very hard to do this because people are trying to get your attention to say hello, or they wave at you, and we cannot return a greeting. It counts off on points when we do.

This year, with our uniforms and practices of parades, we received first place in March from the ABC Rodeo and parade of Lubbock. Then in June, we received first from Clovis Pioneer Days. On the first of July, we received first from Muleshoe, and followed this with a first place from Earth. Then our fun and work was called to a halt with the horse sleeping sickness disease which has been very serious.

In 1970, we had a very good year of nine parades. We received third place from the ABC Rodeo of Lubbock and also from Plainview. Second place awards were from Muleshoe, Littlefield and Bovina. We received first place awards from Farwell, Earth and Morton.

In 1969, when we were just getting started, we had two parades, and they were Earth, in which we were judged second and Morton, where we won third place.

As you can see, it takes quite a bit of time and practice to receive the best as we had started out to do this year.

include expected regional adjustments in acres grown and crop substitutions that may occur. Total national output along with farm and consumer prices of cotton can be estimated from this.

Lacey contends that area or regional control of agricultural chemicals may not be adequate because crops and insects are not totally limited by geographic boundaries. Therefore, he hopes this study will facilitate consensus on the use of agricultural chemicals and provide a basis for studies which can be utilized nationally.

Mutscher Asks Recommendation For VEE Control

AUSTIN--A six-point list of recommendations and requests was made Tuesday morning by the Speaker's Special Committee on the coordination of Venezuelan Equine Encephalomyelitis (VEE) control. Texas House Speaker Gus Mutscher charged the committee last week with "taking whatever steps are necessary to work toward a solution of the problem" and with serving as a contact point for farmers, ranchers and horsemen, and agencies of government.

Committee recommendations include: (1) that United States Department of Agriculture Secretary Clifford Hardin remove the "experimental status" restrictions on the available vaccine; (2) the U.S.D.A. immediately obtain commercial sources for the VEE vaccine; and (3) the U.S.D.A. authorize vaccination to be administered by para-veterinary personnel under the direction of a licensed veterinarian.

In addition, the committee also requested state-wide mosquito control, particularly in urban areas, to prevent a VEE epidemic in humans, and it requested a quarantine "on the premises" for any unvaccinated horse as soon as the vaccine becomes readily available. The committee commended the U.S. Army for being prepared for this epidemic by having an apparent supply of vaccine on hand.

Attending the meeting were State Representatives Charles Jungmichel of La Grange, chairman; and committee members J. A. Garcia of Raymondville; R. B. McAlister of Lubbock; Paul Silber of San Antonio; Bill Prenal of Bryan; and E. L. Short of Tahoka. State Representative John Poerner is also a member of that committee.

Three Local Men Chosen Outstanding

Raymond Schroeder, Elvis Powell and Derrell Oliver have been chosen for inclusion in the 1971 edition of "Outstanding Young Men of America," according to the Muleshoe Jaycees.

Nominated earlier this year by the Jaycee Chapter, the men were chosen for the annual awards volume in recognition of their professional and community leadership, a spokesman for the chapter said.

Sponsored by leading men's civic and service organizations, Outstanding Young Men of America honors men between the ages of 21 and 35 whose demonstrated excellence has marked them for future leadership in the nation.

"These young men," according to U. S. Jaycee Past President (1962-63) Doug Blankenship, "are truly outstanding because they have distinguished themselves in one or more aspects of community and professional life." He is presently chairman of the board of advisory editors, Outstanding Young Men of America.

Nominations for the awards volume are submitted each year by Jaycee chapters, civic organizations, college alumni associations and military commandants.

President Nixon, complimenting the awards volume, has said, "Outstanding Young Men of America presents a most fitting testimonial, not only to the success of many of our young people, but also to their awareness of the debt which they owe our free society."

The trustee emphasized that there will be no charge for the examination given on August 15, but, if boys wish to play and did not take their medical exam at the designated time, they will be responsible for the fee charged by their individual physician.

Applications for players are being mailed to all known prospective players. The completed application, containing parent's signature, should be returned as soon as possible, as the deadline is August 15 to receive applications from all players.

Practice will begin August 16 and the first game will be played Saturday, September 4.

Eligible boys are those who will be 11 years of age before September 1, 1971 and not past 12 years of age by September 1, 1971.

The board of trustees added that each participant will play at least one-half a game during each game in the season as to program calls for equal participation by all the players.

week, and Mrs. Lackey said they could get into the fields to hoe the crops on the day following the moisture in those areas closer to Muleshoe.

Near the I. L. Killens farms and the O. C. Kitchensworth farms, only a scant 2 inch was received and traces were recorded during the balance of the week.

No moisture fell in Muleshoe during the first three weeks of July, then .90 was received on July 20, to be followed by .44 the following day.

At the end of the month, 2.08 had been recorded, all during the last 10 days of the month, to bring the year total of 5.95.

A longlasting heat spell was also broken with the onset of the rain during the last few days of the month, and temperatures in the 80s replaced the former high temperatures in the high 90s. Nighttime temperatures, which had ranged from the high 60s to low 70s, was replaced by temperatures of 57-65 degrees.

Dryland farmers generally conceded that although not enough moisture was received to plant cotton, the crop outlook for other field crops was enhanced the latter part of July by the addition of moisture to the bone dry farm land.

McNeese and several of his deputies, including the deputy sheriff stationed at Earth and Earth City Marshall Alvin Pittman.

A picture of Howard was taken at Muleshoe, and Deputy Burrows positively identified Howard as the man who came to his door.

It is not known at presstime as to what additional charges, if any, will face the escapee.

Market Report

COLLEGE STATION--Make the most of summer bargains--follow these marketing tips when shopping this week, suggests Gwendolyn Clyatt, Extension consumer marketing specialist.

In the market fruit section, nectarine supplies are heavy and quality is very good. Supplies of seedless grapes are increasing and banana imports remain heavy, making for attractive prices.

July is the peak month for plum supplies, she says. Prices on plums are nearing a low point with a great variety available. Watermelons are also in good supply with lower prices. Cantaloupe shipment is at a temporary lull. The specialist reports peach supplies are slowly increasing as a short crop is harvested.

Cherries, apricots and honey dew melons also await your selection, she continues.

Vegetables in good supply at economical prices are okra, corn, blackeye peas, cabbage, eggplant, mustard, turnip greens, celery, potatoes and yellow onions.

Only vegetables fresh in appearance should be purchased. Mrs. Clyatt points out. Then handle them gently, she adds.

Best beef values include chuck roasts and steaks, round steaks and roasts, ground beef and short ribs. Sirloin and rib steaks also may be more reasonably priced. In addition, good values may be found on corned beef.

At the beef counter, look for features on the less tender cuts generally in less demand during hot weather, Mrs. Clyatt says. Pork values include picnics, hams, end-cut loin roasts and pork liver. Canned hams and bacon features may also be found this week.

Egg prices are about the same as last week, with the Grade A large size continuing to offer the best combination of quality and economy.

True to the seasonal pattern fryers are featured for summer cook outs again this week. Look for special prices on whole birds and fryer parts. Roasting chickens are also a good value in some markets.

And, frozen turkeys are available in most stores at prices you can't afford to pass up. Look for frozen turkey pies and canned turkey and speciality items, such as smoked turkey, turkey tamales, turkey pizzas and turkey TV dinners, she says.

Justin Longs Have New Son

Mr. and Mrs. Justin Long are the parents of a new baby boy born July 22, 1971 at 3 p.m. in the West Plains Memorial Hospital. He weighed seven pounds and four ounces and was 20 inches long. He was named Justin Scott Long, and has one sister, Tracy Beth, three years old.

Maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Ollie Hawkins and paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Charles Long.

The annual meeting of the association on Thursday will be highlighted with an address by Mrs. Elizabeth Duncan Kooztz, Director of the Women's Bureau, U. S. Department of Labor, Washington, D. C., will receive awards for outstanding service in the field of education.

More than 1800 teachers are expected to attend the week-long meetings, said Mrs. Judith H. Jackson, president of the Vocational Homemaking Teachers Association.

Heally Tough
A recruit strolled into a bar in the roughest part of town. Being a bit uneasy, he casually said to the bartender: "I like these old places with sawdust on the floor."

Lay Witness Mission for Spiritual Renewal

First Baptist Church August 6-7-8

The first Lay Witness Mission came into being only a few years ago when a team of laymen came together for meditation, prayer, and sharing. Those who shared in the first mission of this type were from various churches and from all walks of life. As they listened to one another, they realized an awareness of a deeper spiritual dimension. These laymen began to grow in Christian experience and faith and were anxious to tell others of their changed lives. Therefore, this is more than a program-it is a weekend experience for a local church, designed so that a team of laymen can speak to laymen about the reality of Christ in their daily living.

Mr. Wayne Wilson from Ralls, Texas, will be the coordinator for this endeavor. He will be assisted by some 40 adults and 20 youth who will come to Muleshoe at their own personal expense just to have an opportunity to share their experience with Christ. They are not perfect or saintly people but they are men, women, and youth who have encountered the living Christ. They are growing Christians who want to learn how to witness, how to pray, and how to minister for Christ as they have been awakened by God's power to change lives. They wish to "share" their personal experiences with others.

The First Baptist Church of Muleshoe, invites everyone to attend this laymen directed weekend of spiritual emphasis and renewal.

Square Thru News

Reporter: Nelda Hunt

The Muleshoe Square Thru's have begun to slow a little because of summer 'vacations' and perhaps will be able to dance a little more in the next few months. Some of the club members have found time to travel to area clubs this past week. On Thursday night, July 22, the Jimmy Presleys, Curby Brantleys, Marilyn Black, Jack Dunhams, Carl Ellingtons, Joyce Puckett, Ronnie Scott, Mike Wisian and Johnnie Mc, visited the South Plains Spinners at Levelland, retrieved our banner and brought theirs to our dance. On Friday night, the Square Thru's club caller, Eddie Gunnels called a dance for the Plainview Belles and Beaux. Going from Muleshoe to support Eddie were the Jimmy Presleys and Jack Dunhams, Betty Gunnels and LeeAnn traveled to Plainview to be with Eddie and dance with the Muleshoe group. A real good dance was reported by the travelers.

The Square Thru's regular dance was held July 26 at the American Legion Hall. The host couples were the Jimmy Presleys, Curby Brantleys and Jack Dunhams. They served punch and cookies to approximately 75 dancers. The hall was filled with dancers representing the Cannon AFB Swingin' Wings, Clovis Y-Squares, and Clovis Circle-8's. Also the Portales Starlight Swingers who brags on their called Eddie Gunnels almost as much as the Square-Thru's. The caller for the Cannon AFB, Leroy Coffee, called a tip for the Square Thru's and then informed them if the moths hadn't eaten their banner they would like to take it home with them, and they were informed that the Swingin' Wings banner hadn't gathered moths, because apparently the cotton boll worms have got it. Needless to say, the Muleshoe Square Thru's are looking for the Cannon AFB Swingin' Wings banner. It is blue with yellow hand embroidered lettering and if anyone has seen it or if they know where it is please call the president, Jimmy Presley at 272-4753. We hate to admit we have boll worms, but we sure don't want to have to make another banner.

The door prizes at Monday night's dance were won by three lucky people from visiting clubs and one was a little girl visiting from Hawaii. She can remember Muleshoe maybe when she returns to her home. We're always happy to have visitors and guests.

The Muleshoe Square Thru's had a called business meeting July 28, Jimmy Presley the new President called the meeting to order and asked everyone to feel free to discuss the business at hand and state their opinions. He announced that the Monty Dollars and Willie James' have asked for a leave of absence and this was approved. Due to the vacated offices of Secretary and Treasurer, new ones were elected. Joyce Puckett was elected Secretary and Donna Shaw was elected Treasurer. We know both of these will do a good job and congratulations to both of you. The social chairman, Curby Brantley, reported on the next special to be October 23 with Cliff Smith of Littlefield to be the guest caller. Dates for the November and December specials will be announced later. A swimming party with refreshments afterwards will be held at the city swimming pool on August 4 at 7:30 p.m.

It was reported that Mrs. John Bickel, who is an honorary member of the Square Thru's, is in St. Mary's Hospital at Lubbock recovering from surgery.

Have Meeting, Discuss Plans

Muleshoe Jaycee-ettes met Monday, July 26, at the Muleshoe State Bank with Rita Hawkins and Gayle Hawkins as hostesses.

Plans were discussed for the Little Miss Muleshoe contest to be held when the Jaycees hold the Miss Muleshoe Pageant. A sit-in-hen meeting will be held in Muleshoe October 25 for all area Jaycee-ettes. A social at Ute Lake is tentatively planned for August 14.

Guests present were Area I-A Vice President Sue Hinds from Pampa; Treca Saltzman, president of the Pampa Jaycee-ettes; and Dottie Kimbley, vice president from Pampa.

Members attending were Charlotte Seay, Rita Hawkins, Gayle Hawkins, Vera Calvert, Nancy Barry, Nancy Gentry, Sandra Howard, Mary Dale, Sandy Peterson, Rhonda Slies and Jo Gene Blackwell.

The next meeting will be August 23.

Lottie was honored on her birthday at our July 12 dance. We hope she is feeling better and will soon be back at our dances.

Due to Willie James' leave of absence, his duty as a Federation delegate will be filled by the alternate, Curby Brantley, until Willie can resume his delegate responsibilities. We're going to miss Willie at our dances but until his neck injuries heal, we'll just have to dance a little harder to make up for the whirrs that Willie gives when he dances.

The meeting was adjourned with the president announcing that there would be some traveling to Littlefield on Thursday night and maybe some over to Clovis this weekend.

Our next regular dance will be August 9 at 8 p.m. at the American Legion Hall. See you then . . . Nelda Hunt.

ARRANGING FLOWERS . . . Homer Johnson is shown working with flower arrangements at the Muleshoe Nursing Home. The residents put in many hours working on their various hobbies.

ESA Plans Annual Luau

Plans are being completed by the Epsilon Chi chapter of the Epsilon Sigma Alpha sorority for their second annual luau to be held August 28 in the XIT Banquet Room.

This year, the happy hour will be from 7 to 7:30 p.m., a gourmet dinner will be served from 7:30 until 9 p.m., and dancing will be from 9 p.m. until 1:00 a.m.

Mrs. Eugene Howard, chairman of the project, has announced that "Colorado", formerly known as the Fireballs, will play for the dance.

Tickets are on sale for $15 per couple. They can be purchased from any ESA member or contact Mrs. Howard. Tickets will also be sold at the door for $20 per couple.

The luau is an annual event of which the proceeds are used to help the ESA Sorority with Philanthropic projects such as giving a pair of eyeglasses to a needy child and presenting a scholarship to a senior girl each year.

and the latter a banker in their spare time.

They are feeding an average of 10 head of cattle using the Jesse Osborn lots and barn in the east edge of town on the Sudan highway.

They already have sold two animals that were ready for market and yesterday sent out three additional bees. These they replace and make their feeding a continuous operation. The two men feel that the territory is a natural for cattle feeding on a commercial scale and it is their intention to enlarge as and when they can.

Next Sunday, July 29, will see the formal opening of Muleshoe's nifty, modern, attractive new golf course, which lies in walking distance of the business district, right against the city limit line.

Muleshoe Golf Club has just completed construction on the nine hole course. No. 1 tee may be reached without taking the car off the city pavement.

It is within 20 yards of the pavement in the Lenau Addition and lies just east of the new Charles Lenau home. Par on the 3280 yard course is 36. Sam Damon was winner of the Muleshoe Junior Chamber of Commerce City Tennis Tournament by defeating E. W. Evans two sets out of three.

In Fashion

One of the top English designers is featuring chiffon as their favorite fabric for August buyers. It is used in a variety of ways—harem pants costumes or long, full-sleeved garments for women and chiffon shirts for men—with ruffles, no less.

People who have far-out ideas buy those clothes which have an oriental look, but there are many beautiful garments, with classic lines in the shops today for those who like to dress well but in a conservative manner.

MAKING RUG . . . Mr. Gordan of the Muleshoe Nursing Home is shown with his hobby, making rugs from material scraps donated to the home by people in Muleshoe.

To Whom It May Concern

Corn now being raised on the Bill Jim St. Clair farms located in Bailey and Parmer counties has been sprayed with a systemic chemical which is harmful to humans & livestock if the corn is consumed in the roasting ear stage.

Herbicide Results Should Be Evaluated

Now is a good time for farmers to take a look at results from their weed control program. Problems can be avoided next year by evaluating treated fields this year.

Dr. Dudley Smith, weed scientist at the Texas A&M University Agricultural Research and Extension Center at Lubbock, lists some of the questions producers should ask themselves about this year's herbicide program: Did I use the right herbicide at the right time for my weed problem, soil type and planting method? Would a different application method or herbicide banding have reduced my total weed control costs? Did herbicide injury result from overdosage, sandy soil or unusual environmental conditions, and was that injury really significant later on?

Answers to these questions can tell a producer a lot about the effectiveness of his weed control program points out Smith. Mistakes that were made should be pinpointed so that plans can be laid to prevent them next year. The stage of growth of the crop and the weeds, type of weeds and soil type must be considered in selecting a herbicide as well as the method of application.

Poor weed control with pre-plant herbicides usually centers around poor sprayer calibration, spraying in windy weather, improper application rates or poor incorporation, explains the scientist. Good herbicide incorporation is difficult in cloddy, wet or trashy soils. Soil texture is important in determining the proper herbicide rate. Generally, lighter textured soils require lower rates than heavier soils for effective weed control.

Sometimes listers are run too deep after preplant chemicals such as Treflan or Planavine are incorporated. Untreated soil is bedded up with no weed protection in the furrow. Also, planting too deep can cause weed problems. Lister planters can run under the chemical. This places all the treated soil in the middle with no herbicide left in the cotton row. Don't run water furrows too deep or weeds may pop up after irrigating.

Crop injury with the use of preemergence herbicides frequently occurs in lighter soils, especially when hard rains occur right after planting. Light incorporation in the top one inch of soil frequently improves the performance of herbicides with bed planting. Some "experimenting" by each farmer is necessary to find the right chemical and rate for his particular weed problems and soil types, contends Smith.

Many weed problems with preemergence herbicides occur with furrow or lister planting.

Blowing soil, replanting or heavy rains displace the chemical and can cause poor weed control or crop injury. But herbicides usually need a little rain to be effective. Bright sunlight breaks down most pre-emergence herbicides. However, a little rainfall moves the chemical into soil with the weed seeds where it is more effective.

Many farmers apply post-emergence chemicals as a followup to control weeds missed earlier in the season and to reduce hoe costs. These herbicides are usually cheap but timing is critical to get good results. Dry, hot weather in July and August can cause poor results. Weeds should be small and growing well to get a good kill. Use a surfactant or crop oil to make herbicides "hotter" on larger weeds. But read label directions carefully for rates and additives.

Make notes on the weed species present in fields, advises Smith. This information will be helpful this winter in planning a herbicide program for 1972. Record where perennials such as whiteweed (purple nightshade) and Johnsongrass are located. Then spot treatment or special attention can be planned. Also, notes on major and minor weed species this year will help in the future to point up shifts in weed problems. Herbicides need to be rotated just like crops to get resistant weeds that slip by some chemicals. Planning a weed control program for each field prior to planting is a sound practice. But the program should be based on past weed history and individual experience.

Weeds that are resistant to herbicides cause additional problems. These include devil's claw, morning glory and annual grasses. Many perennial or "root" weeds are increasing in some fields since chemical weed control is taking the place of tillage. Deep breaking, hand hoeing, cultivation and special herbicide practices are needed to control these weeds.

Every farmer should make a careful check of his 1971 weed control program to pinpoint and evaluate any mistakes made during the past season, emphasizes Smith. Mistakes in weed control are usually costly in terms of how labor and yield reduction. But such errors can be avoided by planning next year's weed control program now while this year's results are still fresh at hand.

August Irrigation Is Key To Grain Yield

LUBBOCK -- Timely irrigations during the first few weeks of August can be a big factor in producing a top grain sorghum crop this year, says Leon New, area irrigation specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

"It's often a real struggle to maintain adequate soil moisture in grain fields during this time of the season," points out New. "But timely irrigations at the flowering and grain filling stages of growth can boost yields considerably."

According to the specialists, an irrigation at the flowering stage normally increases yields from 1,000 to 1,400 pounds per acre. In addition, irrigating at the milk stage of grain filling can boost yields from 700 to 1,000 pounds per acre.

Response from these irrigations may be even greater this year if there is no August rainfall, New says. In tests last year at the North Plains Research Field at Etter, a 3,200-pound per acre increase was accredited to an irrigation at the flowering stage and 1,150 pounds to an application at the milk stage of grain filling. In comparison, 4,000 pounds were produced from an earlier irrigation at booting on July 28.

"Grain sorghum water requirements are less during the grain filling stage than at booting and flowering," explains the specialist. "Plants have normally reached mature size by grain filling so the water is used primarily to produce grain. Water requirements for the crop will normally decline to about two inches every 10 days during early grain filling and will continue to decrease as the crop matures."

Therefore, an irrigation as late as grain hardening or the hard dough stage provides for only limited, if any, yield increase, adds New. The only benefit from late irrigations may be to minimize lodging. In most area soils adequate moisture can be stored from an irrigation at the soft dough stage to supply the remaining moisture requirements for grain production. An additional application prior to the hard dough stage is more likely to be productive on sandy soils where the soil water holding capacity is less.

"The time required to get over the crop is especially important in minimizing moisture stress," emphasizes New. "One way to stretch water is to irrigate alternate furrows. More frequent irrigations often using less water can keep the soil moisture level up on more acres and thus help to keep the crop out of stress."

Irrigation tests on loam soil in Parmer County show that comparable yields can be produced by irrigating every other furrow in double rowed grain sorghum every nine to 12 days. This method requires more water in each irrigated furrow to maintain a desirable water advance, but it will normally increase the irrigating rate 50 to 60 percent.

On the tighter pullman soil, studies show that yield potential can also be maintained by irrigating alternate furrows where the crop is planted in 30-inch rows, adds the specialist. However, yields are often less toward the lower end of 40-inch rows when alternate furrows are irrigated unless tailwater runoff is excessive.

County Agents Join Fight Against VEE

COLLEGE STATION -- The Texas Agricultural Extension Service has assumed a vital cooperative role alongside other agencies in the intensifying battle against Venezuelan Equine Encephalomyelitis (VEE).

At the request of the USDA and the Texas Animal Health Commission, Extension personnel are helping to perform two major tasks, according to B. F. Yeates, Extension horse specialist. They are making a daily dead horse count and a daily sick horse count, reporting to officials at different locations. Their second job is to organize a county plan to assure that all horses are vaccinated as quickly and efficiently as possible.

Since the on-premise quarantine has been removed, this means that in many instances county agents will have to help set up vaccination clinics and help arrange for horse owners to bring their animals in so that the veterinarians can quickly complete vaccinations in their counties.

This involves having owners available to sign a release when the horses are vaccinated and identifying owners of horses left unattended in the county. Yeates pointed out that these absentee owners can cause delays in the vaccination of a large number of horses.

County Extension personnel have been developing organizations involving veterinarians, public health officials, and others through groups which were already functioning. County agricultural agents have involved their county program building committees and livestock and horse subcommittees in efforts to coordinate plans for their areas. Many are working with such organizations as veterinarian associations and horsemen groups.

Yeates said that the big problem is creating a real awareness to make sure that all horses are vaccinated. "The key to the success of the program is the interested, motivated, involved horsemen who will assist authorities and make sure we have a thorough and effective vaccination program," he commented.

He reminded horsemen that there is ample vaccine available in the state and that the government is providing the vaccine. It must be administered by an accredited veterinarian.

Interested horsemen should contact their county Extension office to find out the plan for their county and to determine how they can become involved and be of assistance.

Law Enforcement School Available

The Technical - Vocational - Occupational Division of South Plains College announces the addition of a two-year Associate Degree Program in Law Enforcement. The program evaluation committee of the Texas Education Agency has recently released approval of this new program. Its curricula represents all modern concepts of law enforcement now recommended by the Commission on Law Enforcement Standards and Education.

The program is designed to develop and direct the student to achieve a level of proficiency in law enforcement and general background knowledge so that he may be a valuable addition to any of the law enforcement agencies operating on the state, agencies operating on the local, state, or federal level in our service area. Specifically, the program is designed to produce a well-rounded individual capable of adapting to the objectives and methods of the employing agency and one who will be able to specialize to meet the needs of the organization.

The curriculum will cover the theory and practice of police administration and problems general to law enforcement. It will include speciality courses in criminal investigation, traffic, prevention, and patrol activities. Students completing this two-year program will receive an Associate in Applied Science Degree in Law Enforcement.

Congressman Boosts Law For Tax Relief

AUSTIN -- A "Homeowners' Tax Relief Act" has been introduced in the House of Representatives by Texas U. S. Congressman Bob Price of Pampa. The proposed legislation would ease the local, state and Federal tax burden by allowing homeowners to take a depreciation deduction on their income tax in the same manner as owners of rental property are now able to do.

Congressman Price's bill would also enable the taxpayer to deduct up to $1,000 for home repairs and maintenance, and would allow him to deduct as a capital loss, his economic loss on the sale of his home to the extent it does not exceed $5,000. This would apply to individuals who buy a home and then sell it within three years. Other provisions of the bill give

Survey Shows Same Duck Population

Duck breeding populations generally are equal to last year's, but there are increases in western Canada and decreases in Alaska and Manitoba, according to a survey conducted by the Interior Department's Fish and Wildlife Service.

The mallard population is about the same as in 1970, which is 10 percent above the past 10-year average. Pintails are nine percent below 1970 and 11 percent below average. Blue-winged teal are five percent above 1970 and seven percent above average. Redheads are down six percent from a year ago and 10 percent from average, while canvasbacks are down 15 percent from 1970 and 12 percent below average.

The number of ponds increased 28 percent in Alberta, but decreased in Saskatchewan (17 percent), Manitoba (five percent), and the Dakotas (18 percent).

Surveys of "duck factory" country, which includes the Dakotas, western Minnesota, eastern Montana, and large parts of Alberta, Saskatchewan, and Manitoba, are done annually in cooperation with the Canadian Wildlife Service, State and Provincial agencies, and Ducks Unlimited, Canada.

The surveys provide additional information needed in developing waterfowl hunting regulations to be announced in August.

"YOU TOOK MY PICTURE... AND I WASN'T READY!"

How concerned we are with the image we present to others! And it is right that we should be. How mightily we influence others. It is so important that the self we present is one that will influence others for good.

With guidance from God we will be ready to present ourselves to the world in such a manner as to sway others toward God and all that is worthwhile and good.

"That ye might walk worthy of the Lord unto all pleasing, being fruitful in every good work, and increasing in the knowledge of God," come to His Church

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

The following business firms urge you to attend the church of your choice this Sunday and every Sunday

John Tower United States Senate COMMITTEE ON ARMED SERVICES

1971 has been an exceptionally difficult year thus far for Texans engaged in agricultural pursuits. The Drought which began in 1970 still persists and continues to damage the economy of the entire state. While ultimately only improved weather conditions can bring about recovery from drought damage, various forms of federal assistance have been made available to farmers in Texas. I feel that the recent visit of Under Secretary J. Philip Campbell to our state helped convince Secretary Hardin and the entire U. S. Department of Agriculture that Texas needs and is entitled to all possible aid.

I plan to continue my visits through drought areas as well as my communications with hard-hit farmers and ranchers in an effort to provide as much personal oversight to the Department of Agriculture's efforts as possible. On June 17, I had the opportunity to tour portions of the drought area. In the area around Memphis, Texas, in Hall County the effects of the drought are severe. If the cotton acreage does not receive additional rain soon, I fear that the crops may be lost. The grass land there is virtually depleted. Ranchers are feeding on a daily basis and will be forced to continue doing so through the fall and winter unless rain falls in the very near future.

The Senate defeated an amendment to limit farm payments to 20,000 dollars by a vote of 56 to 29. I opposed the amendment because I felt the Congress made a three year commitment in passing the 1970 Agriculture Act which it would honor. In all likelihood, a similar proposal will be presented next year, and we will once again have to work to maintain the present payment ceiling.

Farmers in the Rio Grande Valley will be interested in the outcome of the vote on the Sugar Act (H. R. 8866) which should come before the full Senate this week. If passed, it could provide an additional allotment of sugar cane for the Valley and thus afford them another cash income crop. I will be working for passage of the Act and hope to be able to provide a full report in my next news letter.

VEE has been in the new for the past month and created havoc in the South Texas area. From all reports it would appear that over a thousand horses died as a result of the disease moving into Texas from Mexico. I have urged the USDA to approve the VEE vaccine for commercial production and distribution so that horse owners can vaccinate their own horses and understand that an annual license has been issued to a commercial concern. This situation has caused much discussion in the state as well as in Washington. I hope it has opened the eyes of the USDA so that proper preparation will be made for future emergencies of this nature.

There are reports of a new swine disease in Cuba and the possibility of it appearing in Mexico. I have written to Secretary Hardin asking that a crash program be initiated to develop a vaccine for the prevention of the African Swine Fever. I asked that all necessary preparation be made to halt the movement of the disease in Mexico should it appear there. A disease of that magnitude will create an economic disaster in Texas unparalleled in recent history. Hopefully the USDA will be able to assist Mexico in controlling the disease before it reaches Texas.

There are several important pieces of legislation pending before the various Senate committees. The Farm Credit Act, S. 1483, is of prime importance, and the Farm Bargaining and Marketing Act, S. 1775, S. 726, and S. 727, will have an effect on the major commodities marketed from Texas. I am studying both issues and welcome any comments in reference to the acts.
